OCTOBER 12, 1918

Motion Picture News

Reg. in U. S. Patent Office

West Coast Edition

DOMINATES THE FIELD

How About The Morning?

THE glare of daylight shines upon your theatre. It's an unfamiliar scene—no music, no crowds, no softening lights. But people are passing and unconsciously forming an impression of your house.

If your theatre is bare, they feel like strangers in a strange land.

But if the Paramount and Artcraft trademarks are out in front!

There are friendly faces that say, "Come on back after a while and we'll have one of our good visits."

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

VOL. XVIII-NO. 15 Entered as Second Class Matter, August 27, 1917, at the Post Office at New York, N.Y., under the act of March 3rd 1879 PRICE 15 CENTS

Chicago — 729 Seventh Avenue, New York — Los Angeles

Bewitching

Violet Mersereau

In Her Amazing Portrayal of Three Distinct Characters in the gripping Photodrama

"Together"

Directed by O.A.C. Lund

Book thru your nearest Bluebird Exchange

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INC.

1600 Broadway N.Y.

Jesse L. Lasky

Presents

FRED STONE

in

"THE GOAT"

Story and scenario by Frances Marion

Directed by Donald Crisp

An ARTCRAFT Picture

Even If Nobody Had Ever Heard of Fred Stone, "The Goat" Would Make Him An Instantaneous Success

FRED STONE is an over-night sensation in motion pictures, not merely because he is the greatest of all musical comedy comedians, but because be bas delivered the goods—something new, something tremendously welcome to the motion picture patrous.

Do you believe the critics? Of course you do. Then read these criticisms, book Fred Stone, and clear the way for the big crowds.

"Fred Stone a big hit in first movie play—does acrobatics that are comic masterpieces, at Strand."—The New York World.

"Fred Stone's inimitable antics have been perpetuated in the films. His first picture feature, 'The Goat,' had its first projection at the Strand Theatre yesterday. . . . There was a line at the ticket window from early afternoon until late in the evening to see what the well known funmaker had been up to."—The New York Herald.

"This story gives the athletic Stone opportunities for all the stunts that he does on the stage, and a few more. He swings by his feet over a pool of water, walks up a flag-pole as if it were a flight of stairs, handles a rope in a way to make Will Rogers shake his hand, and skates with his well-known vigor."—The New York Times.

"When Fred Stone at the Strand, yesterday afternoon, allowed someone not only to knock him flat on his back, but to do a half revolution of his body on the top of his head, the audience knew that it was not going to be disappointed in his motion picture appearance. 'The Goat' is his first Artcraft film, and it brings the much loved musical comedy star to the front ranks of film favorites."—New York American.

Paramount Pictures — FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION — ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General — NEW YORK — Artcraft Pictures

D.W.GRIFFITH'S

"The Great Love" in Philadelphia

"Business Astounded Me!"

THE man who has been in motion pictures for a long while looks for almost anything to happen. It's hard to surprise him. It's almost impossible to get him excited. And to "astound" him—well—

But Alexander Boyd, who manages the Arcadia Theatre, Philadelphia, in which D. W. Griffith's "The Great Love" had its premiere showing in that city, writes as follows:

"I ran 'The Great Love' one week, and I extremely regretted that I could not have played it for another week. The business on this picture simply astounded me. It is a typical Griffith picture and fully up to the standard set by him and the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation."

When are you going to be astounded?

Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

This is one of a series of advertisements showing the success of "The Great Love" in the foremost cities of the United States.

A NEW ERA IN VITAGRAPH

BLUE RIBBON FEATURES AND SERVICE

HARRY T. MOREY STAR SERIES

October 14, 1918—"The King of Diamonds," to be followed by eight other Harry T. Morey features on these dates:

November 25, 1918	May 12, 1919
January 6, 1919	June 23, 1919
February 17, 1919	July 28, 1919
March 31, 1919	August 25, 1919

A Film a Day Keeps the Hun Away—Run a Liberty Loan Film Every Day of the Drive.

Albert E. Smith Presents

HARRY T. MOREY

in The First of His Nine Star Series Releases

"The King of Diamonds"

A FIVE PART BLUE RIBBON FEATURE

Written by EDWARD S. BALLOU

Directed by PAUL SCARDON

All the elements that attract and hold patrons may be found in this first Harry T. Morey Star Series Release. Its leading role is one of sheer virility that could be fittingly portrayed by but few of America's screen stars, and by none with the masterful Morey touch.

This creator on the screen of "Joe Garson" in "Within the Law" and "Paul Strong" in "Womanhood, the Glory of the Nation," seems fairly to live the role of Oliver Bennett in the "The King of Diamonds," a rare drama of love, adventure and vengeance.

Supporting Mr. Morey is a cast of exceptional merit including Betty Blythe, Jean Paige, George Majeroni and other Vitagraph favorites.

VITAGRAPH

THOUSANDS OF BILLBOARDS That Cover the Continent Are Steadily Building Big Business For the Exhibitors Who Book

"THE IRON TEST"

VITAGRAPH'S LATEST AND GREATEST PHOTOPLAY SERIAL

by ALBERT E. SMITH and CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

FEATURING

ANTONIO MORENO and CAROL HOLLOWAY

In Fifteen Melodramatic Episodes as Follows

No. 1 "The Ring of Fire."
No. 2 "The Van of Disaster"
No. 3 "The Blade of Hate."
No. 4 "The Noose."
No. 5 "The Tide of Death."
No. 6 "Fiery Fate."
No. 7 "The Whirling Trap."
No. 8 "The Man-Eater."
No. 9 "The Pit of Lost Hope."
No. 10 "In the Coils."
No. 11 "The Red Mask's Prey."
No. 12 "The Span of Terror."
No. 13 "Hanging Peril."
No. 14 "Desperate Odds."
No. 15 "Riding with Death."

"THE FIGHTING TRAIL"
"VENGEANCE—AND THE WOMAN"
"THE WOMAN IN THE WEB"
and
"A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS"
are
VITAGRAPH SERIALS
That Have Made Box-Office History

Watch "THE IRON TEST" Smash Their Records!

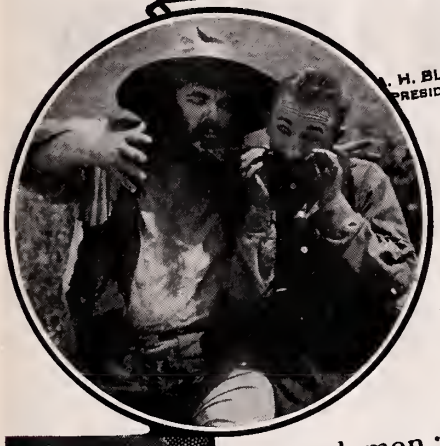
VITAGRAPH

ALBERT E. SMITH
President

"Making our audiences howl with glee!"



RIALTO
15th & DOUGLAS
OMAHA
BLANK REALTY COMPANY
OWNERS AND OPERATORS

H. M. THOMAS
MANAGER

A. H. BLANK
PRESIDENT

September 23, 1918

Vitagraph,
1600 Broadway,
N. Y. City

Gentlemen:—

Allow me to congratulate you on your new two-reel Big "V" Special Comedies.

At the present time I am running "Huns and Hyphens", and it is giving eminent satisfaction, making our audiences howl with glee, so I know it must be a regular comedy.

Just keep up your present gait, and there's no question as to the success of these comedies.

Cordially yours,
H.M. THOMAS

Big new Business For Exhibitors Everywhere is Following in the Wake of Vitagraph's New

TWO REEL BIG "V" SPECIAL COMEDIES

THE FIRST FOUR
"Misfits and Matrimony"
Featuring
Montgomery and Rock
"Huns and Hyphens"
Featuring Larry Semon
"Roofs and Riots"
Featuring
Montgomery and Rock
"Bears and Bad Men"
Featuring Larry Semon
These and the comedies that follow NOW BOOKING
One Two-Reel Comedy Each Week

LEAD YOUR FELLOW CITIZENS IN THE VICTORY DRIVE BY RUNNING A LIBERTY LOAN FILM EVERY DAY

VITAGRAPH Albert E. Smith President

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

"Keep the home push up for Pershing!"

Alice Joyce

Earle Williams

Harry Morey

$6,000,000,000.00

THE

Fourth Liberty Loan

may be the last big push needed to take our boys to Berlin! It's the big hour in the life of humanity! Either we win,—or the world becomes German!

America—and Civilization—Need Your Help!

Let your theatre be an outpost of civilization! Make it a rallying point for loyal Americans, for our Allies,—for Victory!

VITAGRAPH'S STARS

will help you to put across the big message. They have made six splendid featurettes, each one driving home in tremendous dramatic strength the need of the hour.

Book all of these Liberty Loan Films at the Vitagraph Exchanges—NOW!

EARLE WILLIAMS in "A PLEA TO BUY"
ALICE JOYCE in "THE CHOICE"
WILLIAM DUNCAN in "THE DECISION"
HARRY MOREY in "THE GROUCH"
CORINNE GRIFFITH in "A WISE PURCHASE"
GLADYS LESLIE in "SYLVIA'S LAST PLEDGE"

No charges whatsoever! Booked, shipped and returned without cost to you!

If you want to remain in a free America, to live the life of a free American, to run your business as you please, to continue in the "pursuit of your own happiness"

Show a Liberty Loan Film Every Day of the Drive

William Duncan

Corinne Griffith

Gladys Leslie

VITAGRAPH

ALBERT E. SMITH President

Goldwyn Pictures

To Save a Wealthy Woman's Life

—A poor news-stand girl takes the place of the missing heiress she resembles.

—Then come luxuries, adventure, romance, blackmail, the discovery of the daughter, the reparation of a great wrong and the kind of a story that millions like.

Mae Marsh in HIDDEN FIRES

By J. Clarkson Miller — Directed by George Irving begins her Goldwyn Star Series year with a powerful, wistful story of "The Cinderella Man" type—a blending of romance and emotional intensity that is what exhibitors and the Mae Marsh "fans" demand—the kind of story they always reward with their liberal patronage.

Released everywhere October 7.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

Goldwyn Pictures

Tom Moore

An Instant Star Success ~ Made By Exhibitor and Public Liking and By Brilliant Stories.

CONSIDER those great stars who constantly build up and increase their popularity with the public. They are not mere creatures of publicity.

They are the product of the greatest thing in the world—PERSONALITY. They are money-makers for exhibitors, they fill theatres with pleased audiences, because they have within themselves some particular appeal to the affections of the public.

Tom Moore is an instant success for exhibitors as a Goldwyn star because he is young, manly, wholesome, good-looking and likable. He appeals to the heart and the mind. He appeals to the eye. Audiences say: "We like this chap." And with that approval they make him the success that a fortune in publicity could never achieve for someone the public did not like of its own accord.

Here are proofs of his instant popularity in his first star picture, "Just For Tonight":

CHICAGO POST: Tom Moore is the type of player of which screen matinee idols are made . . . Just the sort of young chap the American public likes . . . "Just For Tonight" is delightful.

CAMERAPHONE, East Liberty, Pittsburgh: Did a wonderful business with Tom Moore in "Just For Tonight" He's a fixture with Goldwyn and a hummer among male stars.

STRAND, Atlanta: As an individual star Tom Moore is a success from the start. Atlanta has liked him for a long time.

KNICKERBOCKER, Washington, Harry M. Crandall: Tom Moore has made good and is assured of success as a star.

See the opposite page for the opinions of the enthusiastic trade journals.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

All the Thrills of the World War

Suddenly you see China's legions awake and throw their resources with the Allies of the East.

American soldiers marching to embark at a Pacific port.

Chinese troops under arms at the Hong-Kong docks.

Giant transports, troop-laden for Vladivostok.

With such materials as these, plus a romantic melodrama of mystery, intrigue and human daring

Betzwood Film Company
Presents:

For the FREEDOM of the EAST

with

LADY TSEN MEI

The Screen's Only Chinese Star

Conceived and Directed by IRA M. LOWRY who made the sensational earlier success of two seasons, "For the Freedom of the World."

Booked on sight for its American pre-release at the great Stanley Theatre, Philadelphia, week beginning September 30.

Contracted for or reserved by hundreds of exhibitors who cleaned up with "For the Freedom of the World." Recognized by exhibitors as a big profit-maker.

Prints are now in all Goldwyn offices for inspection or immediate contract bookings. Unusual lithographs and complete exploitation in the hands of all Goldwyn managers in twenty cities. Wire at once for open dates.

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION
SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President
16 East 42nd Street New York City

"The Heart Of Rachael"

Bessie Barriscale's superb portrayal of the novel by Kathleen Norris
Produced at the Brunton Studios
Under the Supervision of Robt. Brunton
Directed by Howard Hickman
Screen Version by Jack Cunningham

IN THE "Heart of Rachael," Miss Barriscale reaches the high water mark in her dramatic career of screen-craft portrayal. As a woman whose heart is torn and bruised by an unhappy marriage and who seems to find happiness again with the man of her dreams—her character study is splendid.

BUT when with two beautiful children crowning her joy, she is suddenly overwhelmed by the fact that her husband is slipping from her, Miss Barriscale makes her role really live. Of course, contentment comes finally, but only through pain and sacrifice.

Distributed by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation

FRANK POWELL PRODUCTIONS presents "THE FORFEIT" from Ridgwell Cullom's famous novel featuring HOUSE PETERS supported by JANE MILLER
Produced by
SUNSET PICTURES, Inc
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS
Distributed as part of HODKINSON SERVICE at all General Film Exchanges

The Yanks and the Tanks
Onward to Victory!
UNIFIED command and whole-hearted co-operation—and a cause that is fundamentally right and just—are the reasons why we are winning on every front today—and why the FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN is going to be an overwhelming success —that which is right and just and true must persist and prevail.
W.W.HODKINSON CORP.
527 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK
HODKINSON SERVICE AT ALL GENERAL FILM EXCHANGES
BUY BONDS OF THE FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

The Third AMERICAN RED CROSS Picture Is:

"OF NO USE TO GERMANY"

And it Tells a Five-Reel Story in One:

How the Red Cross Cares for Hosts of Broken-Down Civilian Prisoners Brought Out of Enemy Bondage

An Appealing Panorama of Incidents at an Outpost of Mercy. How the Red Cross Aids 3,000 Helpless Children and Old People Each Month at the Border Village of St. Evian near the Birthplace of This Great Samaritan, The Red Cross—Pictures That Will Hold Any Audience Spellbound

Each Scene a Most Powerful Drama—Equal in Interest to Preceding Releases in This Fine Series

A Film to Fire the Patriotism and to Steel the Will of America

It Contains the Human Interest "Punch"

Produced by

AMERICAN RED CROSS
Bureau of Pictures

Distributed for American Red Cross by
GENERAL FILM COMPANY

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

The Brilliant One-Reel Lighter Subjects Which Every Program Must Have to Become an Ideal Entertainment

A new release of RAINBOW COMEDIES every other week.—
Be sure to get them as fast as they come

Produced by

United States Motion Picture Corp.

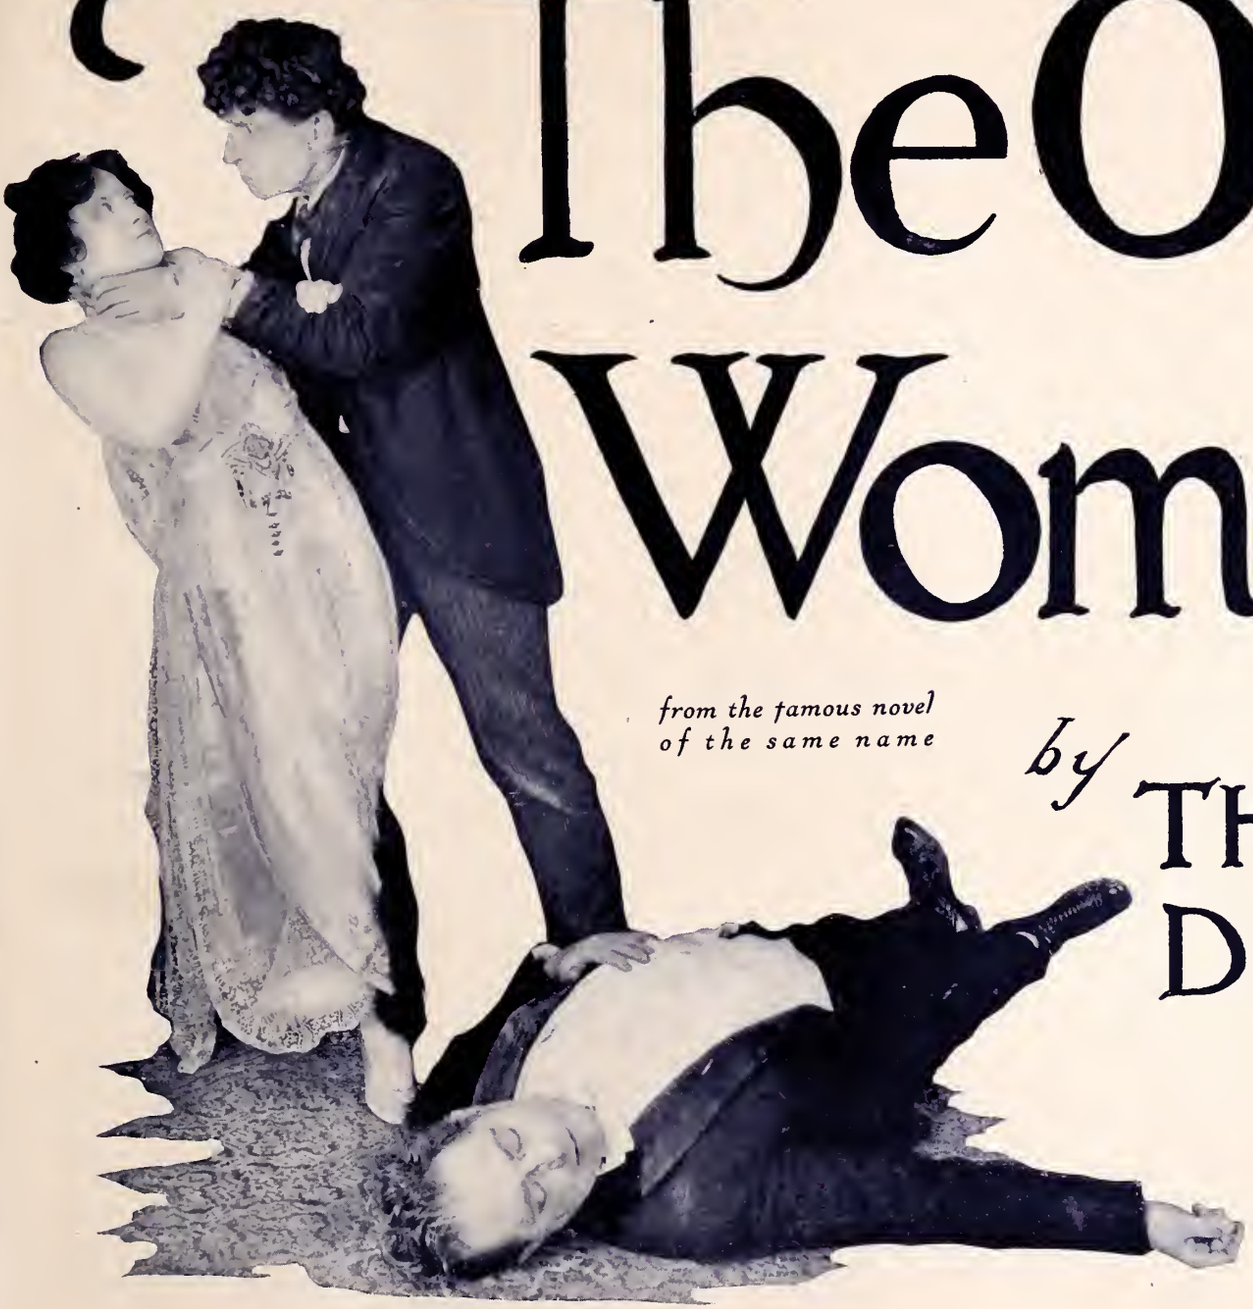
Wilkes Barre, Pa.

GENERAL FILM COMPANY, Distributor

SELECT PICTURES
presents

THE GREAT SPECIAL ATTRACTION

"The One Woman"



from the famous novel of the same name

by THOMAS DIXON

Author of
"THE BIRTH OF A NATION"
Directed by
REGINALD BARKER

Based on a famous novel which was the sensation of the day in which it was published, this powerful photodrama constitutes one of the greatest stories ever told on the screen. It shows the practical working of that theory on which Frank Gordon based his action when he said to his wife—"Would you have me live with you, loving another woman?" A storm of discussion will follow the showing of this picture everywhere. It will create a sensation.

which is —

"THE ONE

The woman Frank Gordon cast off

Thomas Dixon, whose epochal novel, "The Birth of a Nation," was made into a picture classic by D. W. Griffith, has furnished another wonderful story in his best-seller, "The One Woman," which the directing genius of Reginald Barker has turned into a screen masterpiece.

As a novel "The One Woman" created a sensation, selling into the hundred thousands. As the great special photoplay attraction which Select Pictures now announces this story will be seen by millions, and is bound to start a riot of discussion. It is a tremendous picture based on a tremendous idea.

"The One Woman" is an intensely human story of a man and two women —and still another man! It is superbly produced—scene after scene holds the spectator spellbound.

SELECT SP PICTURES

WOMAN"?

Is this Socialism? Or is it plain immorality? That is the question you will ask. Does Socialism preach these doctrines? Is this where it will carry its blind devotees? Is this the "enlightened creed" that some of the leading minds of today tell us is to be the world's salvation? What should a man do placed in Frank Gordon's predicament?

Searching questions these, that are sure to be asked — and answered in a hundred different ways!

The woman Frank Gordon married by proclamation

"The One Woman" is a great special with a story that is down to the minute—the most modern thing in photoplays!

SP

Great scenes—

in

The Eagle has lit in the barnyard! The "strong man" gathers to himself "the new wife" of Frank Gordon.

The minister unfrocks himself! Led on by a new craze for Socialism (and a woman's face?) he repudiates his sacred charge.

"The ONE WOMAN"

Manhood asserts itself! Frank Gordon stirs to frenzy his bigoted followers when he condemns their unpatriotic resolutions against conscription!

The great fight in the hall of "The Brotherhood of Man"—one of the most stirring mob scenes ever shown upon the screen!

SELECT SP PICTURES

Lend the Way They Fight Buy Liberty Bonds

COOPER HEWITT LIGHTS

are essential to good Motion Pictures to

HELP WIN THE WAR

The following pictures, among others, were produced and the studio scenes filmed under

COOPER HEWITT LIGHTS

"HEARTS OF THE WORLD"	D. W. Griffith
"THE HUN WITHIN"	Famous Players
"OVER THE TOP"	Vitagraph
"PRUSSIAN CUR"	Fox Film
"KAISER THE BEAST OF BERLIN"	Universal
"TO HELL WITH THE KAISER"	Metro

COOPER HEWITT'S

give the most light for the least coal

AS ESSENTIAL AS THE SUN

Science has so improved upon nature in the development of the Cooper Hewitt Light that it is today more essential to efficient motion picture production than the Sun itself because it is available day and night, is not affected by cloudy days and rainy weather, is always of the same intensity, rendering it unnecessary to "lay off" or "retake." In a word the light is Essential.

A FEW USERS

Artcraft, Biograph,
Fox Film,
Goldwyn Pictures
D. W. Griffith,
F. A. Keeney, Metro Pictures
Norma Talmadge,
Rolfe Production,
Thanhouser,
Universal Film,
Vitagraph Co., World Film,
Clara Kimball Young and every laboratory.
Some companies using 1000 lights.

Yours for the Fourth Liberty Loan

Cooper Hewitt Electric Company

General Offices and Works:

Eighth and Grand Streets, Hoboken, New Jersey

Our Exhibit at the Exposition, Booths 1 and 2. Welcome

The Story of one American's Pluck

A Stirring photoplay prophecy of THE DAY when the YANKS march into Berlin

THE KAISER'S

States Righters and Independent Exhibitors—

The Biggest Opportunity in the Business—Right Now!

Reason this out for yourselves:

Here is a great big Melodramatic Thriller, the story of a Hero of German Parentage who is American to the core—he beats our Army to Berlin by a neck and finishes the Prussian Monster as the Yanks open fire on the Potsdam Palace.

It hooks up with the WAR NEWS Like an inspired proph ec—

American Audiences will go wild over it!

It's Big! It's Timely!

Jump the First Train—We'll Show You

Produced by S. L. Warner
For Territory Apply to A. Warner
220 W. 42d St., New York City

Hiller & Wilk, Foreign Agents
Longacre Bldg., New York

The ROMANCE

READY FOR ACTION

With its thrilling story of novelty and romance

With its marvelous contrasts between savage wilds and aristocratic grandeur

With mammoth jungle scenes—a menagerie of wild beasts—hordes of real savages—palatial settings for Tarzan's thundering lunge into society's midst—thrilling fights—astounding displays of jungle born strength—

With its sensationally original situations

With the greatest combination of essential elements of sure fire success ever jammed into one dramatic story

With the greatest popularity for its central character that has ever awaited any name of screen or fiction

With its more than fifty million Tarzan fans—created by book, story and the phenomenal parent-feature "Tarzan of the Apes"

With the greatest ready-made market any production has ever known

There's a double-capacity patronage waiting in every neighborhood

PRODUCED BY

National Film Corp. of America

Production Supervised by ISADORE BERNSTEIN
Written and Directed by BESS MEREDYTH and WILFRED LUCAS

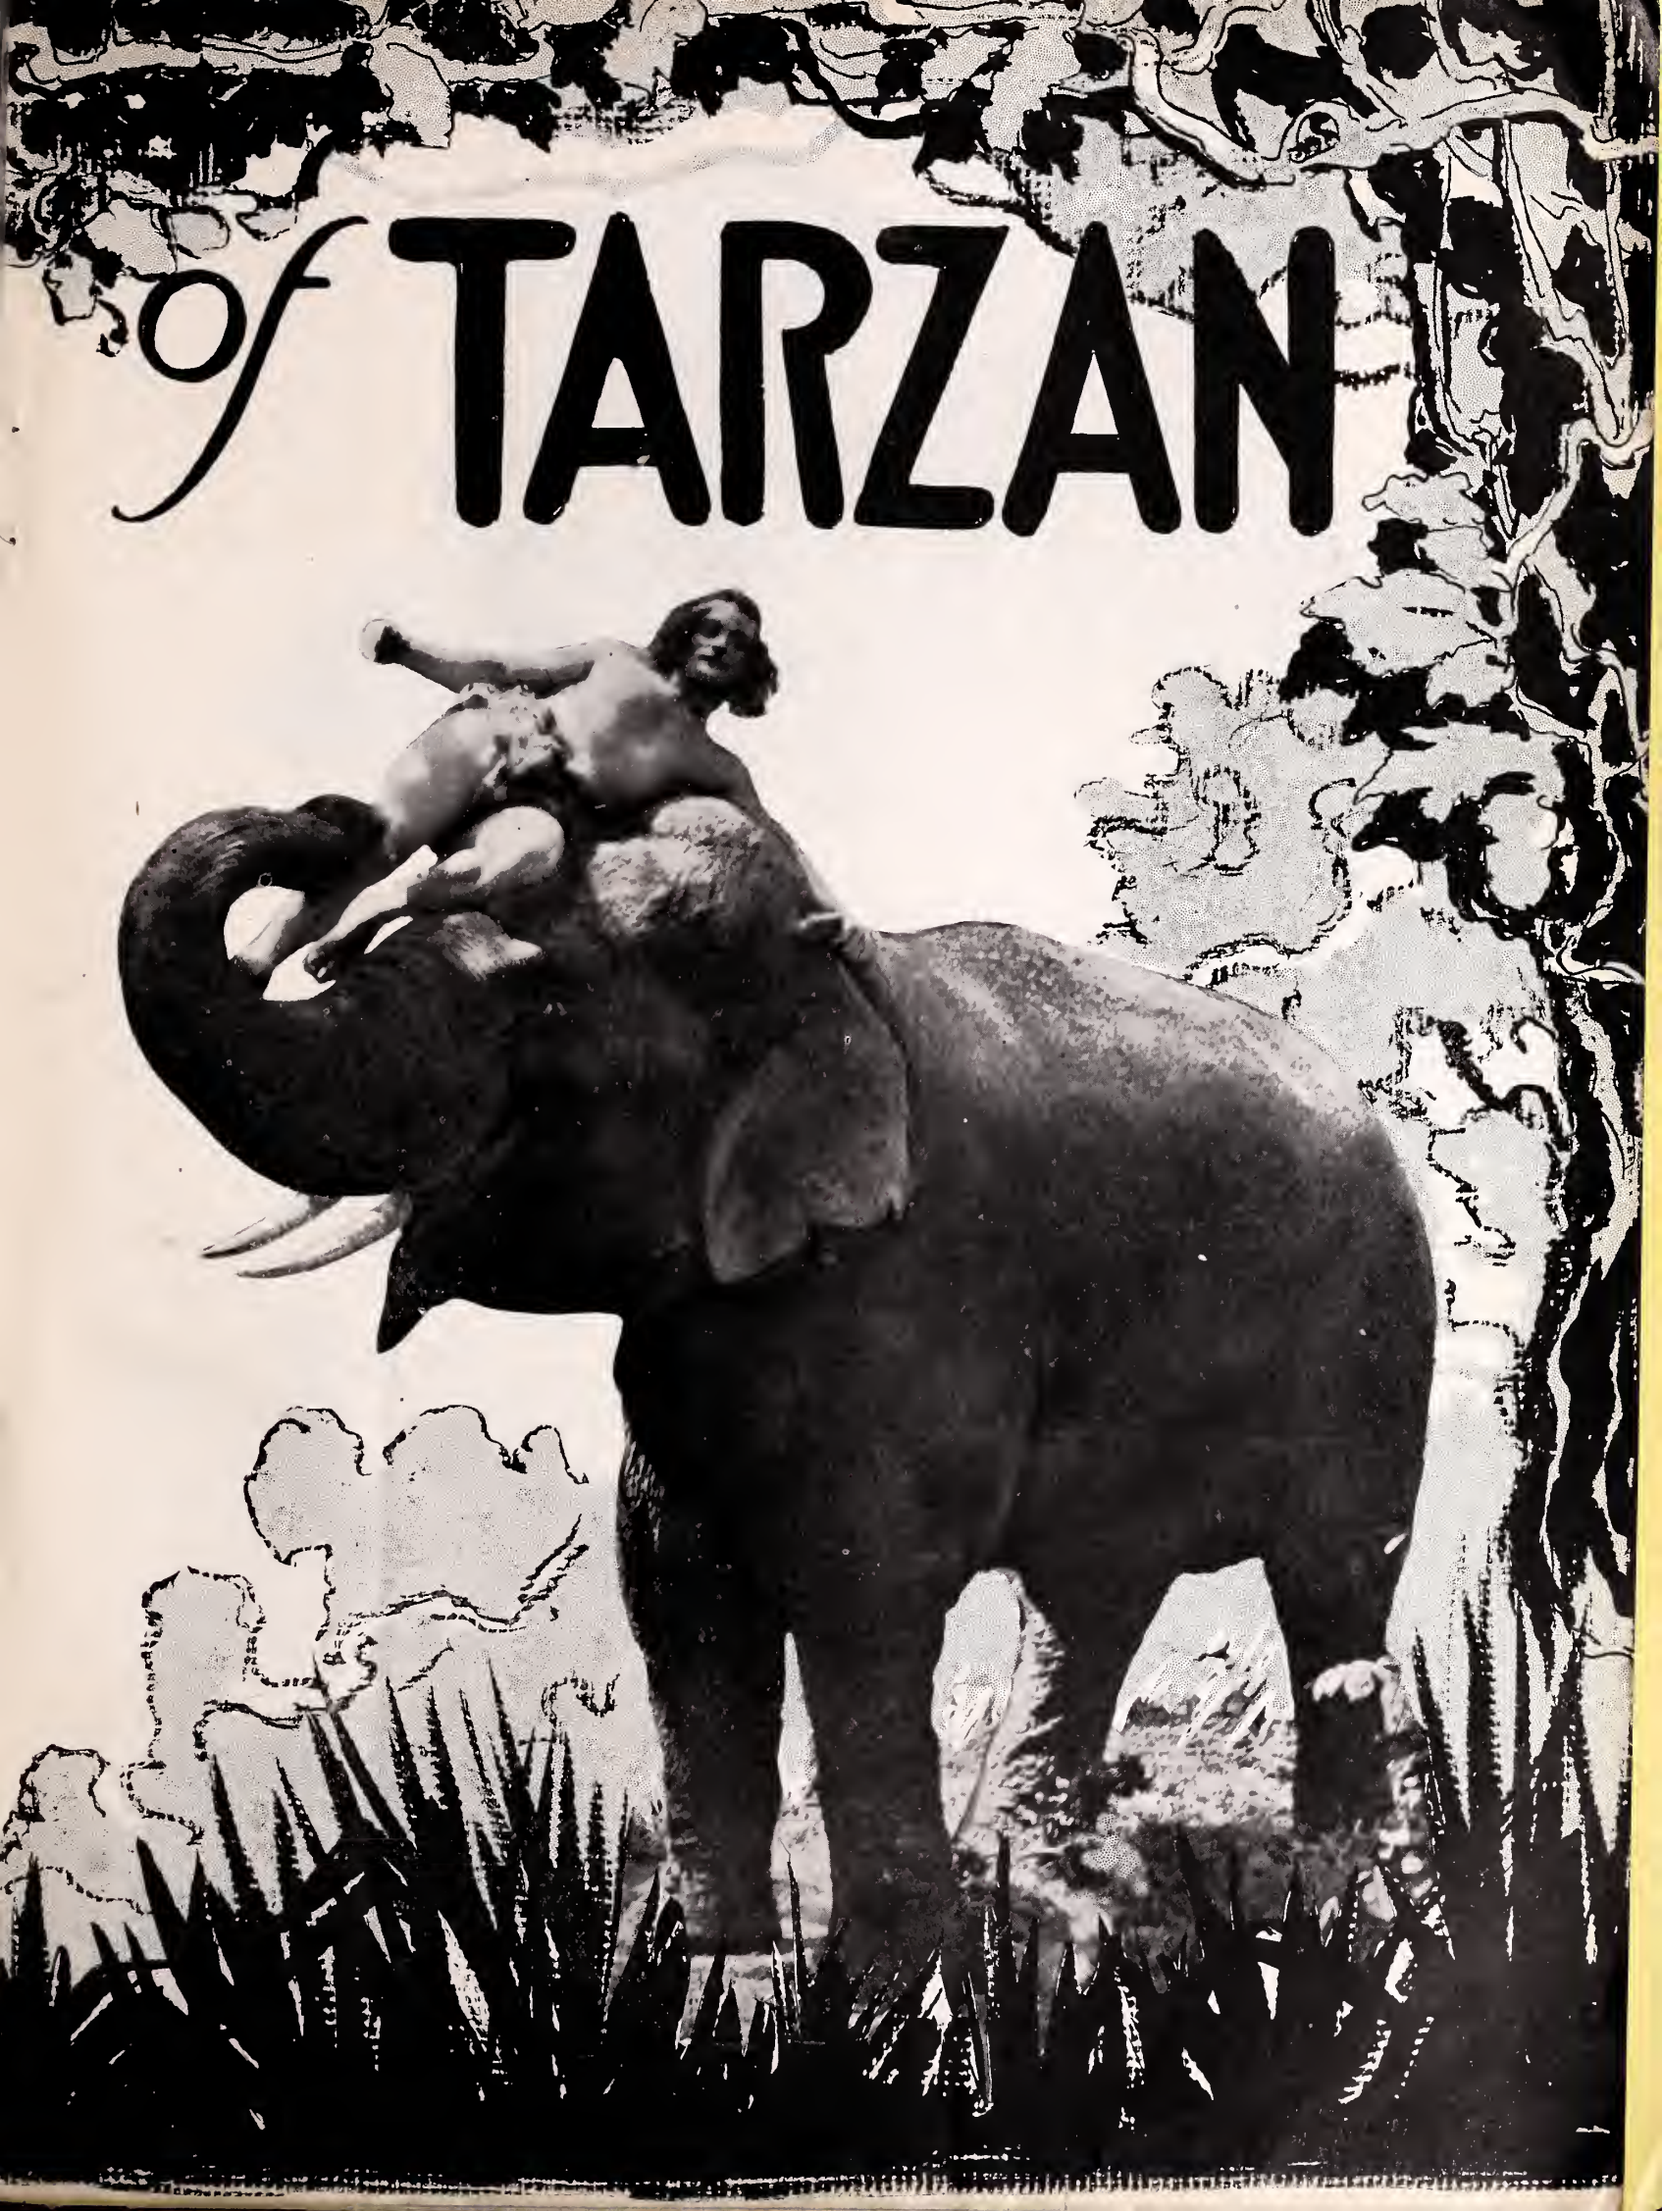
Rothacker Prints

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS CIRCUIT

A "First National" Attraction

Goudey



of TARZAN

GAIL KANE

in

"The Daredevil"

By Maria Thompson Daviess

The adorable actress, star in a score of money making pictures masquerades as a boy—makes 'em think she's her own brother—in a snappy five reel screen play dealing with aeroplane plots and politics.

Available October Thirteenth at MUTUAL FILM EXCHANGES

SESSUE HAYAKAWA

The distinguished Japanese actor whose latest production "His Birthright" proved one of the big box office winners of the season, has put the same high dramatic artistry and equal box office value into his forthcoming play.

PRODUCED BY HAWORTH PICTURES CORPORATION

Special pre-release date October 13th

"The TEMPLE of DUSK"

A strange and fascinating drama in which a young Japanese poet, sworn to guard the daughter of the girl he loved, gives his freedom and then his life to carry out his sacred pledge. Written by Frances Marion—Directed by James Young.

RELEASED BY MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION

Available October the 20th

BOOKING SOLID EVERYWHERE

First of the

TWELVE BIG SPECIAL PRODUCTIONS

RELEASED UNDER THE POPULAR PLAN OF

$10 $20 $30

FRANCHISE-FIXED PRICES

JULIUS STEGER'S STUPENDOUS PRODUCTION

EVELYN NESBIT

and Her Son

RUSSELL THAW

IN

"HER MISTAKE"

BOOKED THRU THE FOLLOWING EXCHANGES

NEW YORK	Liberty Distributing Corporation, 130 W. 46th St.
BOSTON	American Feature Film Co., 60 Church St.
NEW HAVEN	American Feature Film Corp., 131 Meadow Street
CHICAGO	Silee Film Exchange 220 So. State Street
PHILADELPHIA	Quaker City Feature Film Co., 1325 Vine Street
PITTSBURGH	Day Film Corporation 412 Ferry Street
CLEVELAND	Success Film Productions Sloan Building
WASHINGTON, D. C.	Exhibitors' Film Exchange 420 9th Street, N. W.

GENERAL FILM COMPANY

LOS ANGELES	738 So. Olive Street
SAN FRANCISCO	255 Golden Gate Avenue
SEATTLE	2023 3rd Avenue
PORTLAND	320 Burnside Avenue
DENVER	1333 Welton Street
MINNEAPOLIS	209 Hennepin Avenue
OMAHA	1608 Howard Street
KANSAS CITY	921 Walnut Street
NEW ORLEANS	343 Baronne Street
ST. LOUIS	3610 Olive Street
ATLANTA	111 Walton Street
DALLAS	1924 Main Street

PRODUCERS' DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

FRANK G. HALL, President

126-130 W. 46th Street, New York

Be sure to mention "MOTION PICTURE NEWS" when writing to advertisers

Klaw & Erlanger and the Shuberts demonstrated to the 'legitimate' theatres the benefits of Circuit Booking. They stabilized the "show business" by ensuring regular, instead of haphazard, duplicated, bookings—to the benefit of both producer and theatre.

The U.B.O. stabilized its particular branch of the business both for theatre and artists, and set Vaudeville where it stands today.

United goes further. It brings the Picture Playhouses of America into a Co-operative Organization so that Exhibitor-Members own and control the Biggest Circuit in the World.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES OF AMERICA INC.

A National Co-operative Association of Exhibitors

J.A. BERST
President

Branches Everywhere

Executive Offices
1600 Broadway, N.Y.

FLORENCE REED

the magnificent

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES OF AMERICA

J·A·BERST· President
1600 BROADWAY
N·Y·

KITTY GORDON

the incomparable

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES OF AMERICA

J·A·BERST · President
1600 BROADWAY
N·Y·

DUSTIN FARNUM

in his first super-picture

THE LIGHT OF WESTERN STARS

by Zane Grey

OCTOBER RELEASE

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES OF AMERICA

J·A·BERST · President
1600 BROADWAY
N·Y·

National Distribution

is now practically completed for the six-reel Superfilm "Me und Gott." The highest class of representation, for a feature of such distinction, has been sought and secured. If your territory is not among those listed below, ask your biggest local exchange, or write us. The quality of the representation is an index of the quality of the production.

STATE OF NEW YORK
First National Exchange
STATE OF NEW JERSEY
First National Exchange
STATE OF MAINE
First National Exchange
STATE OF VERMONT
First National Exchange
STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE
First National Exchange
STATE OF MASSACHUSETTS
First National Exchange
STATE OF CONNECTICUT
First National Exchange
STATE OF RHODE ISLAND
First National Exchange
STATE OF PENNSYLVANIA
First National Exchange
STATE OF LOUISIANA
First National Exchange
STATE OF MISSISSIPPI
First National Exchange
STATE OF OKLAHOMA
First National Exchange
STATE OF MICHIGAN
First National Exchange
STATE OF WASHINGTON
First National Exchange
STATE OF OREGON
First National Exchange
STATE OF MONTANA
First National Exchange
STATE OF IDAHO
First National Exchange
STATE OF CALIFORNIA (Nor)
First National Exchange
STATE OF NEVADA
First National Exchange
TERRITORY OF HAWAII
First National Exchange
TERRITORY OF ALASKA
First National Exchange
STATE OF ILLINOIS
First National Exchange
STATE OF INDIANA
First National Exchange
STATE OF TEXAS
First National Exchange
STATE OF ARKANSAS
First National Exchange
STATE OF MICHIGAN
First National Exchange

ROMAYNE SUPERFILMS
LOS ANGELES

? Why Is the BIGGEST Exchange in Your Territory Now Booking ME UND GOTT

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

On and after December 24, 1918, the name

HEARST-PATHE NEWS

will be discontinued. This famous news film will then resume the name

PATHE NEWS

It will be Photographed
by Pathe.

Edited, Distributed, Owned and Controlled exclusively, as it always has been,
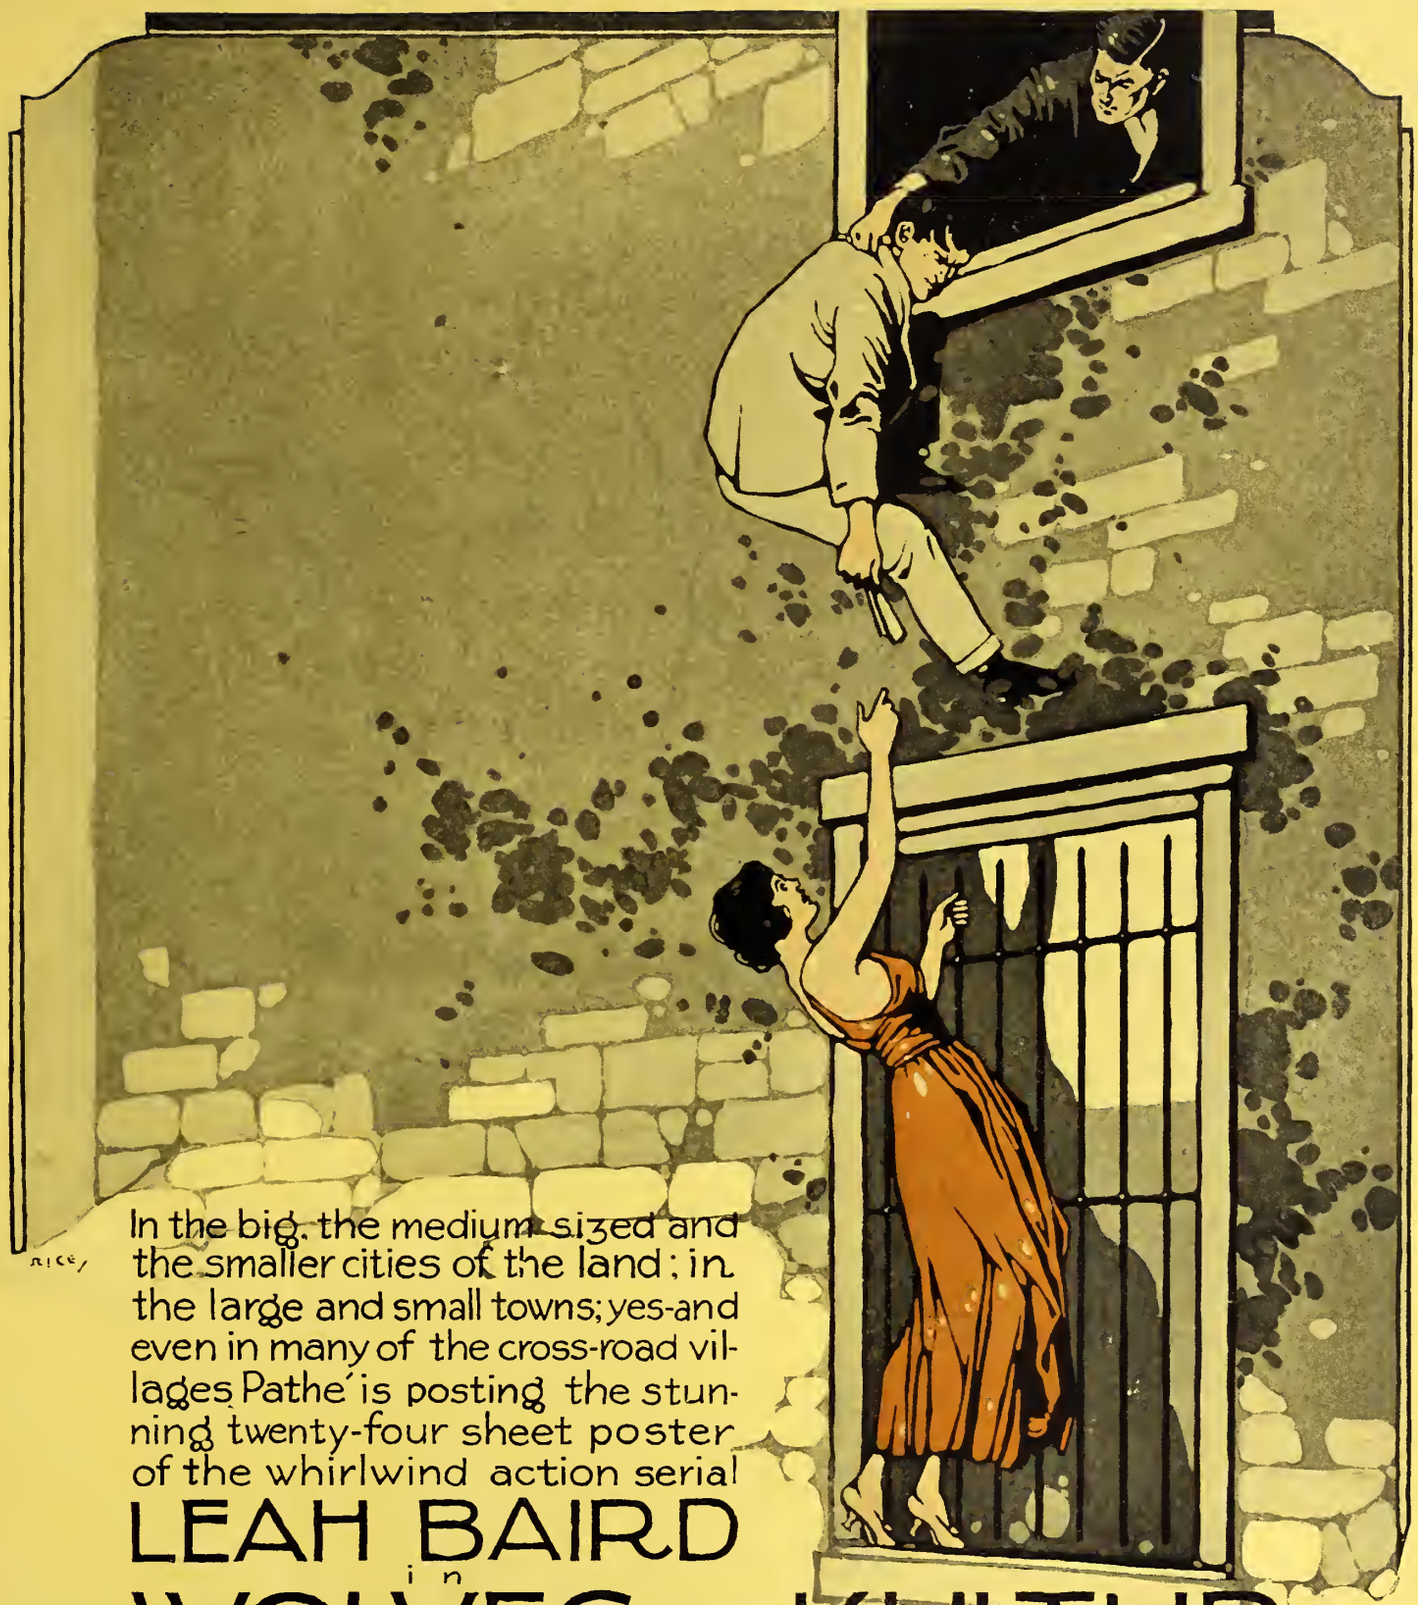
by Pathe.

The oldest and best of all News Weeklies—
THE ONE INDISPENSABLE FILM.

PATHE EXCHANGE, Inc.
25 West 45th Street
New York



In the big, the medium sized and the smaller cities of the land; in the large and small towns; yes-and even in many of the cross-road villages Pathe' is posting the stunning twenty-four sheet poster of the whirlwind action serial

LEAH BAIRD in WOLVES OF KULTUR

with SHELDON LEWIS and CHARLES HUTCHISON

This mammoth billboard campaign will start a flood of coins to beating a rat-a-tat at your box office window!

Produced by Western Photoplays Inc. Written & Directed by J.A.Golden

PATHE' Distributors...

Its keynote is ACTION; Its great characteristic is THRILLS; It reveals the diabolical plot and counter-plot in this country of the unspeakable Kultur of the Hun

Can't you imagine how eager your audiences will be to see

LEAH BAIRD
in WOLVES OF KULTUR
with SHELDON LEWIS

and how big a box office attraction it will be for you?

Produced by Western Photoplays Inc. Written & Directed by J.A. Golden

PATHÉ Distributors...

COME ON, NOW!

Let your patrons see me in action with my brothers in arms- the French, British and Italians, fighting your battles!

OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW

contains in one reel each week, the official war pictures of the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy.

Presented by
COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC INFORMATION
George Creel, Chairman
DIVISION OF FILMS
Chas. S. Hart, Director

OFFICIAL U.S. WAR FILM
COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC INFORMATION
GEORGE CREEL, CHAIRMAN

Distributed by
PATHÉ

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

Pathé's latest bids fair to be Pathé's greatest; to date

RUTH ROLAND

and
George Larkin
in the sensational Western serial

HANDS UP

is a combination which has beaten every Pathé serial booking record for a similar period of time.

Reports are to the effect that the serial is crowding the houses. "Hands Up" has made good!

Produced by Astra.
Written by Gilson Willets
Directed by Jas. W. Horne

PATHÉ

Be sure to mention "MOTION PICTURE NEWS" when writing to advertisers

AMERICAN FILM CO. INC., PRESENTS

MARY MILES MINTER

in

"Rosemary Climbs the Heights"

By BERNARD McCONVILLE Directed By LLOYD INGRAHAM

Dainty Mary Miles Minter has firmly established herself in the hearts of the fans. Big theatres everywhere know from experience they can bank on capacity attendance when a Minter picture is the attraction. Her first picture of this new series has fattened the bankroll of the houses which have shown it. It is playing to capacity this week and is booked for weeks ahead.

Visit your nearest Pathé Exchange and see this newest Mary Miles Minter offering—"Rosemary Climbs the Heights." You can book it now. Follow the lead of such exhibitors as Marcus Loew, Turner & Dahnken, Ruben & Finkelstein.

Now Playing:

Mary Miles Minter in "The Eyes of Julia Deep"

DISTRIBUTED BY PATHE'

Five Sure Hits!

Each one a magnificent production dealing with big timely subjects in every one's mind.

Your chance is now to book these five sure-fire hits before your competitor gets them!

Delay means to miss out at the box office!

The news of the marvelous success of three of these pictures already released to first-run houses has spread like wild fire all over the country and Fox branch offices are being fairly bombarded with bookings.

This is a warning to regular Fox exhibitors to get in on time.

If our representative does not call on you within a few days after you have read this notice, wire your reservation to our nearest exchange.

Here are the five:

The Prussian Cur

So successful that first-run houses are clamoring for re-bookings. The story of the Prussian spy system in America, featuring Captain Horst von der Goltz, the confessed Hun spy.

Why America Will Win

The first run has packed houses everywhere and brought heavy advance sales at top prices.

FOX FILM CORPORATION

BUY LIBERTY BONDS

Book Them Now!

Each one packed with the sort of appeals that win the crowds and get the dollars.

The thrilling story of the man of the hour—GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING, commander of the American Army abroad.

Queen of the Sea

Acclaimed by first run exhibitors as their biggest box-office triumph. ANNETTE KELLERMAN, the world's greatest woman swimmer, in a thrilling, breathless, under-sea romance.

Why I Would Not Marry

A stupendous morality play—five love stories in one—five episodes, each containing the plot and action of a five-reel feature—twenty-five big feature reels assembled in one five-reel production.

18 to 45

The vital story of the new draft woven around a great love theme—a tremendous appeal to heart and patriotic interest. Directed by R. A. Walsh, who made "The Honor System" and "The Prussian Cur."

FOX FILM CORPORATION

AND KEEP THEM!

On The Way

DAVID LLOYD GEORGE

By Sir Sidney Low

The Romantic Life Story of the Great Welsh Statesman

Produced by The Ideal Film Renting Co., Ltd., LONDON

(Under the sole direction of MAURICE ELVEY)

TEN PARTS TEN PARTS

Which allied Statesman, outside America, has most CAPTURED THE IMAGINATION and won the hearts of the world?

Beyond a doubt it is DAVID LLOYD GEORGE, the great little Welshman, who has fought his way up by sheer grit, FROM COTTAGE TO PARLIAMENT, from bootmaker's protege to the Champion of England and the cause of civilisation!

Fiction in its most fascinating pages contains no more captivating chapter than the real-life ROMANCE OF DAVID LLOYD GEORGE. The old saying that "Truth is stranger than Fiction" has received no more wonderful exemplification than in Lloyd George's great upward climb to leadership.

AMERICA AND LLOYD GEORGE

To-day the entire world hangs upon his every utterance and in particular no international figure makes so VIVID an APPEAL TO THE PEOPLE OF AMERICA!

His picturesque speech, his freedom from the spirit of caste, his rise to fame from humble origins, his determination to make the common people prevail over TYRANTS IN PURPLE, all give him in especial degree the ear and the heart of the Democracy of the United States.

LIKE ABRAHAM LINCOLN

It is not to be wondered at that the Nation that produced an ABRAHAM LINCOLN should admire such a figure as DAVID LLOYD GEORGE, for there is something wonderfully akin in the characters and careers of the two men.

Like Lincoln, Lloyd George was of humble birth. Like Lincoln, he was brought up by a kind relative. Both men were SELF-TAUGHT. Each began life in the Law. Both were coldly received by the official world. Both were backed by the people. Both were moved by unconquerable enthusiasm for a great moral cause. Both spoke to their fellow-men in resonant tones that ring round the world. And even their very Christian names—drawn from Scripture—found justification in the Bible—inspired careers of the two Statesmen. Nothing more appropriate, then, can be imagined than that so PICTURESQUE A LIFE as that of Lloyd George—a life tingling with high-spirited action and resolve—should be made into a picture.

The "Ideal Film Renting Co.", whose famous master-pieces such as "MY OLD DUTCH" and "MASKS AND FACES", found a warm welcome in America, have been engaged for AN ENTIRE YEAR ON THE PICTURE!—such is their determination to make it accurate as well as realistic!

The life story of LLOYD GEORGE, besides its fascinating romance, will be the most vivid illustration of THE REAL OBJECTS OF THE WAR that has yet been anywhere exhibited.

Through it move such famous Americans as WASHINGTON, LINCOLN, WILSON, etc., and it is, otherwise, PACKED WITH INTEREST FOR THE PEOPLE OF AMERICA.

SHOWING SOON

THE LIFE STORY OF DAVID LLOYD GEORGE will be shown to the Trade in London in October.

Those who may be interested please communicate at the earliest moment with the "IDEAL FILM RENTING CO., LTD." 76-78 WARDOUR STREET, LONDON, W. 1., and arrange without fail to be represented at the Trade Show.

! A MODEL CINEBIOGRAPHY.
THE PICTURE THAT ALL AMERICA WILL WANT TO SEE !

Note:—The picture has been so constructed that it may be released in episodes or completely.

The First Step in the Climb for New Honors

The First of a Series of Eight Happy Pictures

"The Embarrassment of Riches"

From the Broadway Success by Louis K. Anspacher, starring

LILLIAN WALKER

Now available at all General Film Exchanges Through the Hodkinson Service

Variety Says:

"An extremely pleasing subject—one that will make an appeal."

Billboard Says:

"A clean, refreshing story, correctly devised and adequately presented. Will please all classes."

Lillian Walker Pictures Corp.

LESTER PARK, PRESIDENT

501 Fifth Avenue New York City

Be The First To Book "The Embarrassment of Riches"

featuring

LILLIAN WALKER

In Your Section and Share in the Embarrassment of Riches it Assures Exhibitors Everywhere

See the Special Hodkinson Representative At All General Film Exchanges

Here are the First Two Reviews

P. S. HARRISON
In "The Motion Picture News"

"The kind of picture that is in demand just now. It will please because it deals with the happy side of life, and has been handled intelligently."

Morning Telegraph:

"By all odds the best production in which this attractive young actress has ever appeared. Will undoubtedly meet with even greater success in its present form than when presented on the stage."

Book All the Eight Happy Pictures and Gain New Happiness From Your Box Office Reports

Just as "The Embarrassment of Riches" excels all Miss Walker's former successes, so the second of her series will surpass the first. It is a beautiful story of extraordinary charm, presented with the utmost appeal.

Lillian Walker Pictures Corp.

LESTER PARK, PRESIDENT

501 Fifth Avenue New York City

THE RIGHT PICTURE AT THE RIGHT TIME!

BOOK THE SCREEN CLASSICS, INC.,
PRODUCTION

MR. ARNOLD DALY

IN

MY OWN UNITED STATES

DURING THE LIBERTY LOAN DRIVE!

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CO., WM. L. SHERRILL, President

METRO

Exclusive Distributors

Be sure to mention "MOTION PICTURE NEWS" when writing to advertisers

METRO PRODUCTIONS

compel public approval and you can get the proof from any Metro Exhibitor anywhere · They are the great stories, made so skillfully and so well acted that they are the greatest entertainments in the world · They are supervised by MAXWELL KARGER, the really big picture maker of today.

Make their success your success.

The newest All Star Series Metro is SECRET STRINGS

with

OLIVE TELL

of To Hell with the Kaiser fame—and Marie Wainwright.

The great Kate Jordan wrote it for Ainslee's Magazine, June Mathis adapted it for the screen and John Ince directed it.

RELEASED BY METRO
OCTOBER 7th
Maxwell Karger Mgr. of Productions

METRO PICTURES

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

YOUR

GET IN THE GAME—BE ON THE SIDE THAT WINS!

Frank A. Keeney
presents
CATHERINE CALVERT
in
"MARRIAGE"
A Distinctly Modern Drama by Guy Bolton. Soon to be Released.

SHERRY SERVICE

LOOK US UP AT MADISON SQ. GARDEN EXPOSITION

ALL OF THE SHERRY STARS WILL BE THERE

EIGHT BIG FEATURES A YEAR WILL BE MADE BY ALL OF THE STARS ON THE WM. L. SHERRY LIST

CATHERINE CALVERT

Frank A. Keeney
presents
CATHERINE CALVERT
The Lady Beautiful of the Screen—in
Out of the Night
A Powerful Drama by E. Lloyd Sheldon.

DORIS KENYON

Theodore C. Deitrich
presents
DORIS KENYON
in
THE STREET OF SEVEN STARS
by Mary Roberts Rinehart

Frank A. Keeney
presents
CATHERINE CALVERT
in
A Romance of the Underworld
A Screen Adaptation of Paul Armstrong's Great Drama of New York Life.

SHERRY SERVICE

Theodore C. Deitrich
presents
DORIS KENYON
in
THE INN OF THE BLUE MOON
A Highly Dramatic Tale by Louis Joseph Vance.

In Preparation
DORIS KENYON
in
"WILD HONEY"
Adapted by Louis Joseph Vance and Mrs. Vingie E. Roe from her story in the Pictorial Review.

WM. L.

Executive Offices
729 7th Ave., New York

SHERRY

Dallas - - 1905½ Commerce St.
Detroit - - - - 63 Elizabeth St.

Boston - - - - 16 Piedmont St.
Chicago - - - - - 220 State St

Minneapolis - - - 14 N. 4th St.
Pittsburg - - - 804 Penn Ave.

MOVE

BE FIRST TO SIGN UP FOR SHERRY SERVICE

THE BURLINGHAM TRAVEL PICTURES

Positively the Greatest Set of Nature Pictures Ever Made. They are not ordinary "scenic" or "educational" views.

FREDERICK BURLINGHAM

The Burlingham Travel Pictures are in reality

ADVENTURE PICTURES

They Show Action—Men risking their lives on top of the Perilous Alps and descending into Active Volcano Craters.

C. M. ANDERSON

The Golden West Producing Company

presents

GILBERT M. ANDERSON

formerly

"BRONCHO BILLY"

in

"RED BLOOD AND YELLOW"

VANGIE VALENTINE

HAROLD J. BINNEY

presents

VANGIE VALENTINE

The Most Lovable Creature Ever Seen on the Screen.

The G. M. Anderson Features are all new. None of them are re-issues. They are to be Big, New, Massive Western Productions.

Second Release

"SON-OF-A-GUN"

Third Release

"SHOOTIN' MAD"

VANGIE VALENTINE

The Superb Find of the Season. A Rare Flower of Nature. Now Making Her First Production for the Wm. L. Sherry Service.

NOW BOOKING

GERALDINE FARRAR

in

"JOAN, THE WOMAN"

For New York State

SERVICE

Philadelphia - - - 1314 Vine St.
Atlanta - - - - - 16 Walton St.

Kansas City - - 921 Walnut St.
Denver - - - - 1723 Welton St.

Los Angeles - - 511 W. 8th St.
Seattle - - - - 2022 Third Ave.

San Francisco. 180 Golden Gate Ave.
Cleveland - - 823 Prospect Ave.

Forward!

The same sharp challenge to battle is sounding for us. We must answer in the same proud way — the way of our fighting men — the American way. We must lend the way they fight.

We must show the war-maddened Hun a united American people moving forward shoulder to shoulder, irresistibly, to Victory.

Our task is to supply the money, the ships, the guns, the shells that we must have to win. It is a tremendous task. We must do it as our fighting men do theirs—with the indomitable spirit of Victory.

We must work, and save, and lend with one thought only—TO FIGHT AND WIN.

Get into the fight—with your whole heart

Buy Bonds—to your utmost!

Run Liberty Loan Films and Slides!

This Space Subscribed to Winning the War by
MOTION PICTURE NEWS

A KEENEY PRODUCTION
ALWAYS PROTECTS YOUR BOX-OFFICE AGAINST LOSS

FRANK A. KEENEY
presents
The Lady Beautiful of the Screen
CATHERINE CALVERT
Starring in her Second Big Sensational Production

The night scenes have been put over with startling realism. The photography, especially that devoted to exterior work, is of the finest standard. —Joseph L. Kelly in Motion Picture News.

This is a morality drama. It has sure heart appeal.—P. S. Harrison in Motion Picture News.

Mr. Keeney and his associates should earn many encomiums in their desire to please the fil fan, for there is an earnestness of purpose about their work which will speak volumes when their pictures have run the gauntlet of critical analysis.—Laurence Reid, N. Y. Evening Mail.

SUPPORTED BY HERBERT RAWLINSON
AND A GREAT ALL-STAR CAST IN THE POWERFUL AND THRILLING DRAMA

"OUT OF THE NIGHT"

IN SIX STIRRING REELS
by E. LLOYD SHELDON
SUPERVISED & DIRECTED BY JAMES KIRKWOOD

RELEASED THROUGH THE
WM. L. SHERRY SERVICE
GEN'L OFFICES, 729 SEVENTH AVE., NEW YORK
APPLY AT NEAREST EXCHANGE

The art director has succeeded to an unusual degree in providing interior settings with artistic atmosphere. The dramatic quality of the production is good, without dragging in unwholesome scenes. —Margaret I. Mac Donald in Moving Picture World.

Don't overlook this one best bet. Catherine Calvert is the stunning queen of filmland.—Marion Russel in Billboard.

This is a very good picture, one that ought to do good business. It should prove a most acceptable offering for all classes of houses. —R. W. Baremore in Exhibitor's Trade Review.

KEENEY GENERAL OFFICES, 1493 BROADWAY, N.Y.
RAY C. OWENS, GEN'L. M'GR.

-|- CHRISTIE COMEDIES -|-

BOBBY VERNON and DOROTHY DANE in a Rollicking CHRISTIE COMEDY

"Oh! Bobby! How Could You!"

Released Sept. 30

BOOK THRU FOREMOST INDEPENDENT EXCHANGES

E.G. Klein-Ly

-|- CHRISTIE FILM CO. Incorporated LOS ANGELES -|-

YOUR CONSCIENCE WILL MAKE YOU BUY
LIBERTY
BONDS
YOUR JUDGMENT WILL TELL YOU TO BOOK THE HOUDINI SERIAL

HOUDINI

THE RELEASE DATE OF THE HOUDINI SERIAL WILL BE

NOVEMBER FOURTH

ARRANGE FOR BOOKINGS

CANADIAN RIGHTS
REGAL FILMS, LTD.

21 Adelaide Street, W, Toronto
31 McGill College Ave., Montreal
19 Market Square, St. John
445 Main Street, Winnipeg
414 McLean Block, Calgary
401 Orphan Block, Vancouver

ROLFE PRODUCTIONS
OF PHILADELPHIA
1134 Vine Street Philadelphia, Pa.

ROLFE PRODUCTIONS
OF PITTSBURGH
612 Ferry Street Pittsburgh, Pa.

ROLFE PRODUCTIONS
OF NEW ENGLAND
48 Piedmont Street Boston, Mass.

ROLFE PRODUCTIONS
OF NORTHERN
NEW JERSEY
729 Seventh Avenue, New York City

ROLFE PRODUCTIONS
OF ATLANTA
65½ Walton Street Atlanta, Ga.

FOREIGN RIGHTS
EXPORT and IMPORT FILM CO.
729 Seventh Avenue, New York City

B. A. ROLFE PRODUCTIONS

[illegible] General Manager

New Offices: [illegible] 18 East 41st Street, New York City

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN — BUY VICTORY BONDS — FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN — BUY VICTORY BONDS — FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

SOUNDS GOOD TO US!

The Huns are on the run!
Bulgaria has surrendered!
Nearly two million U. S. soldiers in France—

Doing just what we knew they'd do!

Now we stay-at-homes will do our part—
And it won't cost us a red penny!
We'll actually save a lot of money—

And Uncle Sam will pay us $255,000,000!

THE FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

The U. S. Treasury is absolutely safe—
Let's deposit $6,000,000,000 right away!
Our money will be SAFE and it will draw 4¼%!

And it will put the finishing touches on Kaiser Bill!

¶ Gaumont News No. 28, the News-Reel of Real News, released October 1, contains the most attractive LIBERTY LOAN PICTURE ever produced. It's a wonder!

Gaumont

Gaumont Co.
FLUSHING, L. I.

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN — BUY VICTORY BONDS — FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

The more YOU read these advertisements the more useful to YOU we can make the "NEWS"

"IN ALL CIRCLES"

there is a steady and cordial welcome for the information and entertainment found in the

FORD EDUCATIONAL WEEKLY

as loaned, free of charge, by

FORD MOTOR COMPANY

nationally distributed by the

REIVER DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

51 E. 42d St., N. Y. City, through the following Exchanges:

BEE HIVE EXCHANGE, Chicago, Ill., and Milwaukee, Wis.

W. H. FILM CO.....Baltimore, Md.
V. H. HODUPP, INC....Indianapolis, Ind.
INTERSTATE FILMS, INC., New York City
R. D. MARSON ATTRACTIONS CO., Boston, Mass.
MASTERPIECE FILM ATTRACTIONS, Philadelphia, Pa.
QUALITY FILM CORP....Pittsburgh, Pa.
SUPREME PHOTOPLAY CORP., Denver, Colo.
STANDARD FILM SERVICE CO., Detroit, Mich.
STANDARD FILM SERVICE CO., Cincinnati and Cleveland, Ohio
STANDARD FILM CORPORATION, Kansas City, Mo.
STANDARD FILM CORPORATION, Minneapolis, Minn.
UNITED FILM SERVICE.....St. Louis, Mo.
STERLING FILM CORP.....Omaha, Neb

WILLIAM A. BRADY'S

STIRRING SCREEN STORY OF DIPLOMATIC INTRIGUE

Stolen Orders

IS BREAKING BOX OFFICE RECORDS

ASK

MARCUS LOEW.

WILLIAM A. BRADY'S

PICTURIZATION OF LOUISA M. ALCOTT'S IMMORTAL STORY

Little Women

WILL SHORTLY BE COMPLETED

AND MEG, JO, BETH, AND AMY

BROUGHT TO LIFE ON THE SCREEN.

WIRE FOR OPEN TERRITORY

GRAPHIC FILM CORPORATION

729 SEVENTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

New England
GORDON & MAYER FILM CO.
35 Piedmont Street
Boston, Mass.

Eastern Pennsylvania & Southern New Jersey
QUAKER CITY FILM COMPANY
1325 Vine Street Philadelphia, Pa.

Illinois, Indiana & So. Wisconsin
SILEE FILM EXCHANGE
220 So. State Street
Chicago, Ill.

New York and Northern New Jersey
GRAPHIC FILM EXCHANGE
729 Seventh Avenue
New York

MAURICE TOURNEUR

"The legitimate occupation of man's mind is woman."
GEORGE MOORE.

MAURICE TOURNEUR PRODUCTIONS

ANNOUNCES

ITS SECOND PRODUCTION

WOMAN

Written by Charles Whittaker

Directed by Maurice Tourneur

"WOMAN" will be exhibited in a Broadway theatre in October

Rights to "SPORTING LIFE" in the following countries are still available: South America, Panama, South Africa, India, China, Japan, Dutch East Indies, Italy, Spain and Russia.

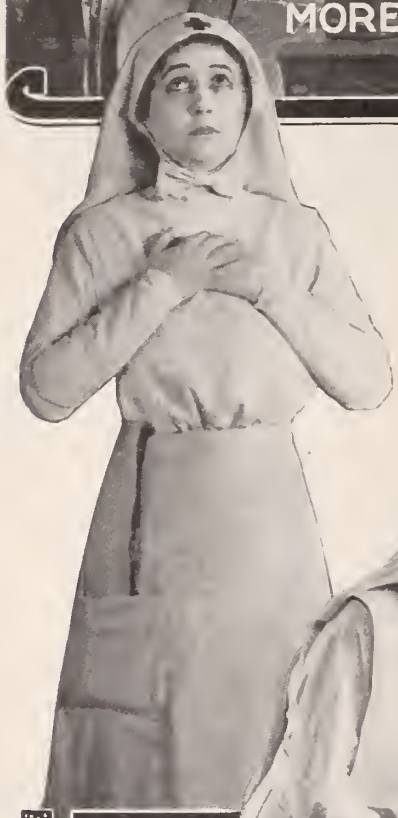
MAURICE TOURNEUR PRODUCTIONS

STUDIOS—FORT LEE, N. J.

SELLING AGENTS, HILLER & WILK

LONGACRE BLDG., 42ND & BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!



THIS was the answer flung at the men who pleaded with the German brutes for the life of Edith Cavell. It was a murder that inflamed the world, and three million Americans are now in France to avenge it. Out of this climax of German frightfulness has been woven a motion picture that will carry to the hearts of America a tremendous message of heroism.

"THE WOMAN THE GERMANS SHOT"

By ANTHONY PAUL KELLY

Marking the motion picture debut of the distinguished dramatic artiste

JULIA ARTHUR

as

EDITH CAVELL

Directed by JOHN G. ADOLFI

Supported by CREIGHTON HALE and a distinguished cast including

William H. Tooker	Paul Panzer
George Majeroni	J. W. Johnston
Joyce Fair	Sarah Alexander

Produced by

Jos. L. Plunkett and Frank J. Carroll
220 W. 42nd Street, New York City

Motion Picture News

Vol. 18 No. 15. October 12, 1918

The Week in the Film World at a Glance

FEATURES

THE PATRIOT AND BUSINESS MAN (WM. A. JOHNSTON) 2337
EDITORIALLY SPEAKING 2338
THE HONOR ROLL 2340
IN AND OUT OF TOWN 2343
AMERICAN PRODUCERS MUST SPECIALIZE (SIDNEY GARRETT) 2345
NEW ORLEANS PAPERS CAUSE PUBLIC APPEAL. 2353
PARAMOUNT SERVICE SECTION 2393
EXPORTERS' SPECIAL SECTION 2396
THE COMPLETE PLAN BOOK 2443

NEWS OF THE WEEK

State Exhibitors' Give Ambulance 2339
War Service Exposition Opens 2340
Honor Roll of the Industry 2340
Industry Unit in Liberty Loan Drive 2341
Buffalo Exhibitors Turn Down Stage Hands 2342
Red Cross Films Make Headway 2343
In and Out of Town 2343
Exhibitors Back Smileage Movement 2344
Live News from the Producers 2364
Advance Offerings of the Programs 2384
In and Out West Coast Studios 2386
Newsy Items of the Studios 2388
In the Independent Field 2409
Complete Plan Book 2443

OF SERVICE TO EXHIBITORS

Exhibitors' Box-Office Reports 2347
Exhibitors' Service Bureau 2350
Coming Program Offerings 2384
Studio Items for Your Newspaper 2388
Paramount Special Service Section 2393
Releases—Current and Coming 2414
Equipment Service 2419
Projection Department 2422
Camera and Picture Making 2430
Music and the Picture 2436
The Complete Plan Book 2443

COMPLETE PLAN BOOK

Advance Reviews 2443
"The Strange Woman" (Fox) 2444
"The Border Wireless" (Hart-Artcraft) 2445
"Unexpected Places" (Metro) 2446
"The Heart of Rachael" (Hodkinson) 2447
"Swat the Spy" (Fox) 2448
"The Goat" (Artcraft) 2449
"The Road to France" (World) 2450
"Ruling Passions" (Schomer) 2451
"The Lure of Luxury" (Bluebird) 2452
"The Return of Mary" (Metro) 2453
"Hobbs in a Hurry" (American) 2454
"The Mounted Men" (Universal) 2455
"The Mating" (Vitagraph) 2456
"Mantle of Charity" (American) 2457

Newsy Announcements of the Week Found in the Ad-Pages

Violet Mersereau Returns in "Together," a Bluebird 2270
Where Fred Stone Stands 2271
Another Expression of Opinion on "The Great Love" 2272
Vitagraph's Latest Blue Ribbon Feature 2273
Coming—"The Iron Test"—Vitagraph's Latest Serial, ... 2274
The Big V Comedies 2275
Vitagraph's Liberty Loan Feature 2276
The First of Goldwyn's New Mae Marsh Series, "Hidden Fires" 2277
Goldwyn on Tom Moore 2278-79
Praise for Smiling Bill Parsons and Capitol Comedies 2280
Goldwyn's "For the Freedom of the East" 2281
The Latest Releases of the Hodkinson Company 2282-83-84
The Third American Red Cross Picture, "Of No Use to Germany" 2285
The Rainbow Comedies on the General Film Program 2286
Important Matter on Select Pictures 2287-88-89-90
Cooper Hewitt's Used by All Leading Companies 2291
"The Romance of Tarzan" Ready for Action 2292-93
"The Kaiser's Finish" Looks Forward to the Finish of the War 2494-95
Mutual Presents Gail Kane in "The Daredevil" 2296-97
Hayakawa and the Haworth Productions 2298-99
Evelyn Nesbit in "Her Mistake," Booking Solid 2300
United as Compared With Booking Institutions of the stage 2301
Florence Reed—United Star 3302
Kitty Gordon—United Star 2303
Dustin Farnum Presented in His First United Picture 2304
"Me Und Gott," Another Arraignment of the Kaiser 2305
Pathe Drops the Hearst from Its Weekly Title 2306
Pathe's Latest Serial a Patriotic One, "Wolves of Kultur," 2307-08
The Official War Review 2309
"Hands Up" Beats All Records Established by Previous Pathe Serials 2310
"Rosemary Climbs the Heights" Is Latest Minter Film 2311
Five Timely Hits from the William Fox Studios 2312-13
On the Lloyd George Picture 2314-15
Lillian Walker's Next Picture 2316-17
Sherry Film Service 2320-21
On Metro's Latest Releases 2318-19
The Ford Weekly Distributed by Griever Corporation 2322
Opinions on "Out of the Night" 2323
The Latest Christie Comedy, "Oh! Bobby, How Could You!" 2324
The Houdini Serial—B. A. Rolfe 2325-26
Harry Rapf Productions 2327
Bill Desmond's Latest Triangle, "The Pretender" 2328
Graphic Film Presents "Ashes of Love" and "When Men Betray" 2332
Gaumont 2329
An Announcement from Hiller & Wilk 2333
Carroll and Plunkett Present the Edith Cavell Picture 2334
Newspaper Comment on "Triple Trouble'..." 2336
"Crashing Through to Berlin" 2370-71
Lyons-Moran Latest Star Comedy is "The Price of a Rotten Time" 2372
The Special Production, "The Talk of the Town" 2375-76-77-78
William S. Hart's Artcraft Triumph, "The Border Wireless" 2389
Advertising Cuts on This Production 2390-91
Paper Furnished by Artcraft on the Hart Picture 2392
Output of Various Companies Handled by Inter-Ocean 2398-99
John Olsen and Company in Market for Scandinavian Rights 2400
Brockliss Talks to the Distributors 2401
The Chief Distributor for the Orient 2402
Robertson-Cole 2403
Max Glucksmann, South American Exporter 2405

WM. A. JOHNSTON, Pres. and Editor. HENRY F. SEWALL, Vice-Pres. E. KENDALL GILLETT, Sec. and Treas.

Published on Friday every week by MOTION PICTURE NEWS, Inc., 729 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y. 'Phone 9360 Bryant. Chicago Representative, W. M. Hight, 220 So. State St.; 'Phone Harrison 7667. Los Angeles Representative, J. C. Jessen, 429 South Figueroa St.; 'Phones 780 Pico, F-4661. Subscription $2 a year, postpaid, in United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands. Canada, $3. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for Motion Picture News at less than these rates. Have the agent who takes your subscription show his credentials and coupon book.

Copyright, 1918, by Motion Picture News, Inc.

PLAY A TRUMP AND WIN!

Samuel Faulkner, Manager of the Franklin Amusement Corporation, Oakland, Cal., in a letter to the George Kleine System, distributors for Essanay, says:

"The week just ended, featuring CHARLIE CHAPLIN in 'TRIPLE TROUBLE,' showed the biggest business ever done in the history of the Franklin Theatre. 'Triple Trouble' was not only an exceptional box office attraction, but proved thoroughly satisfactory to our audiences."

WE HAVE SCORES OF TELEGRAMS AND LETTERS LIKE THIS

Essanay
GEORGE K SPOOR PRESIDENT

George Kleine System
Distributors

Perfection Pictures

"When you see it in 'The News' It's News"

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

"The Exhibitors' Medium of Communication"

Volume 18. No. 15 October 12, 1918

The Patriot and Business Man

Elimination of Waste Is for Best Interests of the Industry

GEORGE KLEINE has taken the bit in his teeth and has laid before Washington the facts, as he sees them, as to the excessive number of pictures and exchanges now burdening this industry.

His action, to quote from an open letter to the trade, is designed "for the good of the nation, and possibly also for the good of the industry."

What is good for the nation, in these days, takes preference over the good of the individual and his business. The doughboy at zero hour doesn't think twice over that problem; nor does any patriot at home, in or out of the motion picture business.

So, if the Nation demands waste eliminated upon the part of the industry that is all there is to it; no patriot will take issue; no patriot will delay to come forward, declare himself and his utter willingness to meet that demand.

But will any one tell us why this is not good for the industry?

We know it is.

We know that here and there a producer and distributor is already proving it by proceeding along the lines of fewer pictures, better pictures and longer runs.

And, any way, we know that good business or bad business is, either one, simply an inevitable case of cause and effect.

Cause and effect figures will prove that over production and too many exchanges are the highway to economic disaster; cause and effect figures will prove that fewer and better pictures given greater circulation, and relieved from excessive distribution overhead, will bring better returns to every hand that deals with them.

Figures don't lie; and business is a matter of figures.

Waste elimination—the very same waste elimination asked for specifically by the Government for the good of the nation is for the good of the industry.

That is a fact!

The big point, however, is that conservation measures should only be initiated and carried through by men in sympathy with the film industry, conversant with its intricacies and big enough to tackle its necessarily big problems.

The industry's best interests and resources can be and must be protected; and this protection must be given to the weak as well as the strong.

That is why we appeal for help from within the industry itself.

That is why we ask for action—from the industry.

Can this action be delayed?

Why will the patriot not act? What is holding him back?

Why will the business man not act? What keeps him from acting in the best interests of the industry as a whole?

* * *

Advance Deposits and Liberty Bonds

Pittsfield, Mass., September 29, 1918.

Mr. William A. Johnston,
Editor Motion Picture News,
729 Seventh Ave., New York.

Can you suggest any device whereby manufacturers can be induced to allow exhibitors to buy Liberty bonds with exhibitors' money which is now on deposit and substitute the bonds as deposited security?

Frank B. Stanton,
Spa Theatre.

THE above telegram will get an instant and enthusiastic O. K. from every exhibitor in the country.

And the distributor who is exacting an advance deposit, in cash, will say in reply that such is his policy and that's all there is to it.

He'll simply decline to explain why he prefers cash to Liberty bonds. If the exhibitor wants his pictures badly enough the exhibitor will dig up the cash; and the distributor prefers the cash.

Why? Why the cash?

We would really appreciate a frank statement from the distributor.

The theory of the advance deposit is that the distributor—not being willing or able to trust the exhibitor, wants an advance payment as security, this security reverting to the exhibitor in payment for the last few pictures of the booking contract.

Very well—why not Liberty bonds as security? What better security? If the plain answer is that the distributor needs the cash in order to finance his business, then our discussion will have to end abruptly.

We can scarcely suggest that the distributor borrow cash on the Liberty bonds, since the bonds belong to the exhibitor; though, in reality, the exhibitor has to trust the distributor with his cash anyway and loses the interest on it in the bargain.

It would seem that as a matter of plain justice and now

(Continued on next page)

Speaking Editorially:

Advance Deposits and Bonds

(Continued from preceding page)

in view of the Government's appeal that each individual, corporation and industry strain its resources to buy Liberty bonds that this advance deposit money—which must aggregate several millions—be turned into Liberty bonds.

However, this is one of several conservation questions the distributor is not answering today.

* * *

Higher Admissions

ADMISSION prices are jumping up in a number of cities; and, of course, the public will pay them.

These theatres know how to book pictures, present them and advertise them—all of which are essential to raised admission prices.

The small town theatre man will say despairingly: "Well, they can do it; I can't"; and our sympathies are vastly with the small theatre man these days.

But there's this much about it: you cannot raise your prices unless you take the public into your confidence and tell them why—convincingly.

In other words, you must advertise.

You can do it.

Make a plain statement to your public—make several of them: write them yourself, in your own language, and print them in plain type in your local paper—signed by your name.

Tell your plain homely story to the public—in your own language.

Railroad companies, gas and traction concerns—up against bigger odds than you and with public feeling flat against them have done the same thing successfully.

Sincerity always goes with the American public.

If you are booking as good pictures as you can afford and the kind your public wants (that's up to you); and your house is attractive (that takes brains and elbow grease, not more money), then your public will come to you, if you will go to them.

If you're not running a good show then our advice won't help you one bit.

* * *

Usefulness and Essentiality

THE industry will be given an excellent opportunity, at its War Service Exposition, Madison Square Garden, October 5th-13th, to show the New York public—and through the press, the country at large—the large and vital war work being done by the film.

And thereby, a new criterion in the way of dignity and public service, will be set for future expositions of the industry's art and commerce.

What a fine thing, if, along with its exhibit of willing usefulness the industry at this time, by united action, could say to the Government: "We have united to obey your edict on conservation and are therefore ready for preferential listing as an essential industry!"

Rothacker Writes a Letter

My dear Mr. Johnston:—

Your "War! War!" editorial last week is the best ever and the preceding two on this were corkers.

You are absolutely right. And every real American member of the motion picture industry will lay aside his film business and consider his film industry; those who don't are Hun helpers and should be treated as such.

We must subordinate everything to a Win the War schedule, we must clear the decks for action—get into a fighting uniform where we can, and where we are denied that glorious privilege we must get into the game with both feet and with both fists and with our heads, and co-ordinate our power to back up our sublime President and our wonderful boys "Over There" in a manner which will make membership in the motion picture industry a signal honor.

Keep up the good work!

Yours for the Fourth Liberty Loan,
ROTHACKER FILM MFG. CO.,
Watterson Rothacker,
President.

* * *

League Efficiency

THAT Dr. Copeland has kept the influenza situation in the country's greatest port and city well in hand is due in no small way to the ability of the picture houses, through efficient League organization, to respond immediately to a grave public crisis.

Within twenty-four hours the New York Exchanges were placarded, slides were made for every theatre in Greater New York, and trailers for local distribution made and issued by the Universal Film Company.

"I am sure," says Dr. Copeland in a letter to Sydney S. Cohen, State League President, "that the many citizens of New York who will escape an attack will owe a great deal to the assistance which the motion picture industry is giving us."

The picture theatres of New York City are open and it is practically certain that they will remain open.

* * *

Good Business; Good Patriotism

WE have saved men, money and materials by reducing production and speeding up the efficiency of our Exchanges—thus, briefly, Vice-President Brunet summed up the policy of Pathe Exchange at the recent Save and Serve Convention of its branch managers in New York.

The best of it is that what Mr. Brunet says is not a mere declaration for publicity's sake: it's true.

Pathe Exchange is being run as a basis of scientific conservation; and that is not merely good business—it is good patriotism.

We cheerfully and sincerely take off our hats to such business principles. The film industry is in vast need today of their more general adoption.

State Exhibitors Give An Ambulance

New York State Exhibitors Hold Best Attended Conference at Albany and Act as a Unit to Promote Government Loan

A CONFERENCE of the moving picture theatre owners of the State of New York, representing 1,600 screens, opened at the Ten Eyck Hotel, Albany, N. Y., at noon on Thursday, September 26

A letter from Mr. Guy Emerson, Director of Publicity, Second Federal Reserve District, outlining the plans of the Treasury Department, was read. Resolutions were passed endorsing the Fourth Liberty Loan and lines were laid down in which an intensive campaign of bond selling will be waged throughout the motion picture theatres of the State of New York.

Up-State Exhibitors Present

It is regarded as very significant that for practically the first time in the history of New York State exhibitors the up-State theatre men were so thoroughly represented. In previous sessions the New York City exhibitors predominated.

President Cohen appointed fifty-one representatives, one in each Senatorial District comprising the State, in order that the proper statistics could be compiled of what the theatre owners have accomplished in the selling of Liberty Bonds. A representative was designated in each of the three assembly districts comprising each Senatorial District of the State.

By reason of the wide representation present and the helpful nature of the discussions and results which were obtained at the convention, it is felt that there has been started in New York a real business organization of exhibitors which will accomplish something definite for their welfare and that of the industry as a whole.

By reason of the Albany convention and the organization work done by President Sydney S. Cohen, the State League now includes all of the best known exhibitors, who are bound together in a closely knit body divorced from politics and petty jealousies. It is felt that this organization is a model of its kind, and one which, if patterned after by other State leagues, would result in the strengthening of the exhibitor movement throughout the country.

Ambulance to Be Purchased

One of the most popular resolutions introduced was that which provided for the purchase of an ambulance by the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of the State of New York, which is to be shipped to the firing line in the name of that organization. A committee consisting of the State president and the presidents of the various branch leagues of the State, together with any other exhibitors who may be designated, was appointed to secure subscriptions for this ambulance and to enlist the co-operation of the trade papers in publishing the names of the contributors to same.

That the exhibitors of the State of New York fully realize the need for intelligent and constructive action in marshalling their forces for the purpose of proper presentation of facts before the Finance Committee of the Senate was evinced by the discussion which proceeded a resolution introduced on this subject. This resolution provides that Mr. Cohen in conference with the president of every branch State exhibitor organization shall assemble all data and statistics of a definite nature, which will show the conditions under which the motion picture exhibitor is now laboring, and which will give the members of the Finance Committee an understanding of the industry and the problems of exhibitors that is based on real facts.

Sunday Opening Vital Question

When the question of Sunday opening was presented for consideration, the enthusiasm of the up-State men knew no bounds. It is the general belief that the efficient work and aid of the exhibitors in the support of Government propaganda will do much to clarify the Sunday opening situation in the State of New York. The loss of revenue to the Government due to certain sections of the State keeping theatres closed was forcibly presented by the president, Sydney S. Cohen, who believes that all political candidates are showing a tendency to remedy these conditions and to give the people in every municipality what those people decide they want.

Mr. Cohen made a strong appeal to the up-State exhibitors to make a gala week of October 5th to 13th, during the Motion Picture Exposition to be held at Madison Square Garden. Many pledges were exacted, and New York City can look forward to the most notable gathering of theatre owners in its history.

The next Government picture now ready for screening, "America's Answer," was called to the attention of theatre owners. Hearty endorsement of same was given, but many exhibitors expressed the opinion that the Division of Films could get much better results if these pictures were released to all exhibitors on a percentage arrangement, in order that the smaller houses could play same and the fullest amount of screening could be given to this Government propaganda. Resolutions to that effect were passed.

The Brooklyn delegation to the conference presented a resolution endorsing the work of William A. Brady, the courageous national champion, an engraved copy of which will be presented to Mr. Brady by the president. This resolution was passed unanimously.

A resolution was passed authorizing the State President, Sydney S. Cohen, to urge that proper representation be given the exhibitors of the State of New York in the new affiliation of the national exhibitor organizations.

Slides for Woman Suffrage

A resolution stating that a large percentage of the patrons of motion picture theatres being women, the president, Sydney S. Cohen, is urged to hold conferences with the leaders of the Women's Suffrage Party of the State of New York, in order that a closer co-operation can be effected for their mutual benefit. A letter from the New York State Woman's Suffrage Party was read, asking the exhibitors of the State of New York to show slides in their theatres urging the yomen of the State of New York to register on the coming registration days, October 7th to 12th.

A resolution was presented and unanimously carried approving of the request of the New York State Woman Suffrage Party, and pledging the screens of the State to give every possible assistance.

Among those who attended the convention were: Sydney S. Cohen, president of the New York State League; Charles O'Reilly, vice-president of Manhattan local; Samuel Berman, secretary of the State League; Samuel Sheer, Jr., president of Queens County Exhibitor Association; Frank Shay, of Schenectady; Wm. P. Donnelly, of Utica; Harry Lazarus, of Albany; Rudolph Saunders, president of the Brooklyn local; John Manheimer, president of the Manhattan local; Henry Herring, of Brooklyn; W. H. Didsbury, of Walden; Charles McCarthy, of Hoosick Falls; M. Sullivan, of Watervliet; David Cohen, of Binghamton; Ben Appel, of Troy; J. M. Shine, of Gloversville; L. A. Buettner, of Cohoes; George Cohen, of Poughkeepsie; Frank Barhydt, of Troy; J. Gardner, of Albany; Samuel Sucknow, vice-president

(Continued on page 2342)

THEIR BIT

New York Exhibitors Not Backward About Backing Up Our Soldiers

MOTION made that the Motion Picture League of the State of New York fully equip and furnish an ambulance to be shipped to the firing line of France in the name of this Association and that all Exhibitors in the State of New York be and are hereby requested to make donation to the fund necessary for such purpose and the trade papers are hereby requested to publish such list of all contributors to such fund and that a Committee consisting of the State President and Presidents of the various Branch Leagues of the State and such others as may from time to time be designated hereby are appointed a Committee to carry this Motion into effect.

This Motion unanimously adopted.

War Service Exposition Opens

National Exposition of the Motion Picture Industry Starts Saturday, October 5, at Madison Square Garden

EIGHT o'clock Saturday evening, October 5, Enrico Caruso, accompanied by the Strand theatre orchestra, officially opened the War Service Exposition of the Moving Picture Industry, to be held at Madison Square Garden, October 5 to 13, inclusive, and once more the sixth largest industry will have an opportunity to show how closely its interests and those of the Government are interwoven.

Every phase of Government war work requiring the use of skilled labor, from the manufacture of cloth for our soldiers' and sailors' uniforms, to the building of ships to carry them Over There, as well as the food and fuel to keep them healthy and comfortable until they return, will be represented. In all, these various exhibits will cover over one-third of the entire floor space of the Garden.

First from an artistic point of view will probably be the exhibit of the Woman's Land Army, which is going to explain to the unitiated that the patriotic woman can readily replace her brother in agricultural work while he fights for her at the front. Before a white-painted cottage, with a snugly thatched roof, the Land Army will demonstrate to the public the use of farm implements and machinery, many of them especially designed for the use of women.

The Remington Arms Company will exhibit a complete display of the various types of weapons and ammunitions used by our troops and those of Great Britain, France, Belgium and Italy. It will include machine guns, rifles and bayonets. A detachment of soldiers and representatives of the company will be on hand to explain the mysteries of their construction, and by way of illustration of what Fritz may expect from them there will be huge blocks of wood pierced with thousands of bullet holes to show the peneration of the Yankee bullet.

The Gas Defence Division of the Chemical Warfare Service of the U. S. Army will have forty girls at the Garden who will manufacture before exposition visitors the gas masks used by our men in the trenches. The use of the trench fan and system of blowing poison gas from the trenches and dug-outs will also be demontrated, and there will be examples of the masks used by both Germany and the Allies.

Of special interest will be the exhibit of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, who will show miniature ships in process of construction and the multitude of tools used in this important branch of war work.

One of the principal features will be the program of motion pictures shown nightly in the concert hall of the Garden. There will be pictures taken of the various war industries, of our army in France and a number of special releases by the Division of Films of the Committee on Public Information.

The motion picture industry itself will, of course, be well represented. Famous Players, Lasky, World, Vitagraph, Pathe, Fox, Metro, Select, Edgar Lewis' Productions. William A. Brady and William L. Sherry will have booths and various lighting and equipment firms will also be present.

Every day of the exposition will be devoted to some special branch of Government war service or of the motion picture industry, and the famous stars of the screen will be in attendance at the various booths to give the public an opportunity to meet them face to face and to give assistance to their Government in winning the war.

Paramount-Artcraft stars who will appear are Marguerite Clark, Elsie Ferguson, William Faversham, Shirley Mason, Ernest Truex, Billie Burke, John Barrymore, George M. Cohan, Bryant Washburn and William S. Hart.

The long-awaited and much-discussed Motion Picture Dinner under the joint auspices of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry and the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers, Inc., will be held Friday evening, October 11, in the Grand Ball Room of the Hotel Astor.

Selig Films Camp Pictures for Y. M. C. A.

The Selig Polyscope Company has been commissioned by the Y. M. C. A. to film a series of training camp pictures. George Bainbridge, director of the enterprise, announces that nearly 2,000,000 soldiers and sailors and marines will be in the cast. The title selected for the film is "The Red Triangle." It is to be released by the Mutual Film Corporation on October 20.

Included in this picture will be about 600,000 men in the training camps in the United States, as well as large bodies of men on the battlefields of Europe. The Y. M. C. A. is to use the picture in the United War Work Campaign.

A special film of two reels is being made for each locality, the main idea being to present the "home boys" at every place. To make this feat possible nearly 100,000 feet of film was necessary.

Universal Loan Films Arouse Interest

Sparks are flying from the Universal's activity in behalf of the Fourth Liberty Loan.

That company has produced five star pictures and has packed its news pictorials with knockout propaganda on the subject. The special films, featuring Monroe Salisbury, and Rupert Julian, Harry Carey, Mae Murray, Ruth Clifford and Dorothy Phillips, were shipped from the coast, and are being distributed according to plans devised by the committee in charge of the loan pictures.

The Universal believes it has established a record for fast and high class production in its efforts for the Loan.

Honor Roll

The name of Clem Pope, of Los Angeles, is added to the Honor Roll. He was in the employ of Motion Picture News until he joined the service.

Arthur Shivers, of the West Coast division of Motion Picture News, has joined the colors.

Earl Metcalfe is back from France on a special service mission. He was with the N. Y. 165th Infantry, and bears two service stripes.

The name of Leon J. Bamberger, head of the contract department of the Fox Film Corporation, has been added to the long and rapidly growing Fox roll of honor. Mr. Bamberger left Monday for Camp Greene, N. C., forty-eight hours after receiving notice from his local board.

Walter Morton, motion picture director, whose most recent production was "Daughter of Uncle Sam" serial for the Jaxon Film Corporation, has offered himself for work abroad as a Knights of Columbus secretary. He goes to Paris to work under James Hearn of New York, who is in charge of all field activities at K. of C. headquarters.

Dave Blythe, former Detroit exhibitor and film salesman, is now manager of the Liberty theatre, Camp Sevier, Greenville, S. C.

G. C. Jefferson, former publicity manager for Detroit office of Paramount, has been promoted to Lieutenant in the Ordnance Machine School. He expects to sail soon for overseas.

A. J. Kleist, Pontiac, Mich., exhibitor, operating the Howland and Eagle theatres, is now a Lieutenant, stationed at one of the Washington camps.

Harry Lorch, former publicity man for the Butterfield circuit and manager of the State Film Co., Detroit, is now general supervisor of the stock companies playing at the government Liberty theatres.

H. O. Pierce, former publicity manager for the John H. Kunsky Enterprises, Detroit, is now assistant manager of Liberty theatres of the United States, with headquarters in Washington.

The loss of the Boston branch's oldest employee, and probably the oldest employee of General Film, has been announced to the headquarters of the company by Manager J. D. Levine in reporting the resignation of E. H. Warren. The severance of this long connection was due to a call for army service.

Industry a Unit in Huge Loan Drive

Exhibitors, Distributors, Producers, Stars, and Every Component of the Motion Picture Industry Plunges Unanimously Into Fourth Loan Campaign

THE Motion Picture Industry's bit for the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign, which began Sept. 28, is to be the greatest contribution yet given by the industry to the Government's "Win-the-War-Quick" program, according to an announcement made this week by Adolph Zukor, chairman of the Industry's Liberty Loan Committee. Not only will the Motion Picture Industry provide what the Government confidently expects to be the greatest single sales agency of the entire campaign—the Liberty Loan Films contributed by the stars and producing companies—but the quota which the Industry has pledged to obtain for the Fourth Liberty Loan has been set at $1,000,000,000, a record breaking quota for the Industry.

One-Sixth of Entire Sum

Inasmuch as the Treasury Department has definitely announced that the amount of the Fourth loan will be $6,000,000,000, the Motion Picture Industry's contribution will be one-sixth of the entire sum to be raised for war purposes by the American people. The Industry's pledge is declared by film men to be the heartiest and most sweeping response yet given to the Government's call, and the success of its campaign will establish for all time the Industry's status as an essential arm of the Government.

This pledge must be raised through the medium of subscriptions from the producers, distributors, stars and players, exhibitors and the patrons who support the industry. All subscriptions received through the agency of the theatres of the country will be included in the Industry's quota, and it behooves every loyal, 100 per cent member of the Industry to roll up his sleeves and see that his share of the gigantic campaign is carried on successfully.

Still another indication of the importance of the recognition given the Motion Picture Industry by the Government is the fact that the Liberty Loan films patriotically contributed by the stars and producing companies are expected to be the most successful medium of selling bonds at the disposal of the Treasury Department.

To Make Record of Bond Sales

Arrangements have been made by the Liberty Loan Committee of the N. A. M. P. I. to keep a daily record of all bond sales in the moving picture theatres of the country. The various exchanges have been instructed to see that the exhibitors cooperating in the motion picture drive are supplied with the proper blanks to be used in making daily reports of the total amount of Liberty Loan subscriptions taken in the theatres on each day of the campaign. These reports should be rendered daily to the exchanges, which will be required to prepare daily reports of the total of subscriptions taken in the theatres booking the Liberty Loan prints.

The formal presentation of the Liberty Loan films to the Government took place on Friday. evening, September 27, at Washington at a special showing given for the benefit of the National Press Club by the Treasury Department. Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall, who was the chief speaker of the evening, and a notable gathering from all departments of official Washington were guests at the special showing. Executives, stars and leaders in the film industry from New York and other cities also were in attendance. Many members of both Houses of Congress were present to inspect the films contributed for the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign. Geraldine Farrar, who had contributed a special Liberty Loan Picture, "The Bonds That Tie," sang the "Star Spangled Banner."

The tremendous enthusiasm aroused on the part of the large audience represents one of the greatest and most sincere tributes ever paid the motion picture industry, and this demonstration of the valuable part motion pictures are playing in the Liberty Loan campaign is expected to be of great benefit in bringing about a closer and more harmonious understanding between the Government and the industry at large.

U. S. Officials Praise Industry

More than 2,000 invitations were issued by the Treasury Department. A striking tribute was paid the Motion Picture Industry by Frank R. Wilson, national director of publicity for the Fourth Liberty Loan Campaign, in the invitations issued for the Washington showing. The invitation, in part, was as follows:

"The Treasury Department is so enthusiastic over the quality and character of these films which have come to us through the patriotism and generosity of the producers and their stars that it is desirous of making this an occasion long to be remembered. We will have present the Washington representatives of the leading newspapers of the country, together with many notables from Washington official life.

"I cannot begin to tell you how deeply grateful the Treasury Department is for the magnificent co-operation which the entire moving picture industry has given it in this great drive to raise the sinews of war. I trust that the wide use to which the Treasury Department intends to put these films will constitute abundant proof of our belief in their efficacy."

Adolph Zukor Day in the Fourth Liberty Loan Drive of the Stage Women's War Relief is October 12, and in New York City will be one of the important events of Liberty Day.

At the Library booth a large program of the famous motion picture and theatrical stars will be presented. Among those it is planned to have appear are Enrico Caruso, Marguerite Clark, William S. Hart, Billie Burke, Elsie Ferguson, George M. Cohan, John Emerson and Anita Loos, Shirley Mason, Ernest Truex, James Montgomery Flagg, Burton Holmes, J. R. Bray, William Faversham, John Barrymore, Eugene O'Brien, Lina Cavalieri and many others.

Everybody Is Doing Their Bit

At the request of the Executive Committee of the Fourth Liberty Loan, Bessie Barriscale, Paralta star, was asked to open the campaign of boosting the loan by a short article, addressed to the people in the industry and Americans in general, and Miss Barriscale complied with a stirring appeal.

Two of the General Film Company's exchanges claim first honors in Fourth Liberty Loan subscriptions in their respective cities. District Manager H. E. Elder reports that the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh exchanges each made a 100 per cent subscription to the loan on the first day of the drive.

Geraldine Farrar inaugurated the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign in Washington on selling the first bond in the new series to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. Standing on a platform erected at the head of the Treasury steps and surrounded by a brilliant throng of notables, the Goldwyn star brought the dignity of motion pictures to the affairs of the nation.

Beginning October 12 subscription soliciting will be started in Chicago movie theatres. Prior to that time there will be no soliciting there. The ward organizations will have direct charge of the sales in theatres and each organization will appoint a captain for each theatre, who will work in co-operation with the theatre managers, and will have supervision over the work.

Arrangements were completed last week by which "Crashing Through to Berlin" will be shown under the auspices of the Liberty Loan Committee October 9 and 10 in the Convention Hall at Kansas City.

Madge Evans, World actress, who has just been made a colonel in the Ameriean guard, opened the Fourth Liberty Loan drive in the Yorkville section of New York City by selling $100,000 worth of bonds to Mr. Zittis, president of the Yorkville Bank, and Brigadier-General George R. Dyer, commanding officer of the guard.

The working force and officials of the William L. Sherry Service will make their Fourth Liberty Loan investments collectively instead of as individuals.

New York Exhibitors Help Drive

A conference of the moving picture theatre owners of the State of New York, representing 1,600 screens, opened at the Ten Eyck Hotel, Albany, N. Y., at noon on Thursday, September 26.

(Continued on page 2344)

BUY LIBERTY BONDS

The Government Theatre at Camp Taylor, Ky., "The Home of Smileage"

Stephens Optimistic Over Film Conditions

Picture theatre attendance is greater and generally higher admission prices are being paid than at any time in the history of the industry, according to S. T. Stephens, widely known New Orleans film man, who has just been appointed general supervisor of Mutual exchanges. Mr. Stephens came to New York last week for a conference with James M. Sheldon, president of the Mutual.

In the course of his visit Mr. Stephens discussed the conditions of the business in most optimistic terms. He looks for a record fall and winter attendance, and predicts a constantly increasing standard of production and exhibition.

"The summer business everywhere has been better than it ever has been," commented Mr. Stephens. "I attribute it to a variety of causes, but among the chief ones are the fact that, under new railroad rates, summer excursions have been less frequent, people have stayed at home more than ever and they have spent their money at the picture theatres.

Frank Whitbeck to France for Y. M. C. A. Work

Frank Whitbeck, for two years at Scranton, manager of the Poli theatre and Academy of Music, leaves soon for France to enter the Y. M. C. A. service. Mr. Whitbeck offered his services early last July and has since been expecting the call every day.

The call came last week and Mr. Whitbeck has been designated as one of the directors of amusements for the million and a half of men who are representing the United States on the fighting lines.

Many columns of valuable space in the newspapers of Scranton attest the popularity of Frank Whitbeck in that city. He is peculiarly fitted for the new post and it is safe to say that he will make good.

Osborn Back to General

After four years of absence from General Film Company, H. M. Osborn, a well known exchange man, has returned to that company, the announcement being made that he is the new appointee as manager of the Pittsburgh branch.

Buffalo Exhibitors Turn Down Stage Hands

BUFFALO, N. Y.—At a meeting of the local stage hands and the exhibitors in Sheas' Hippodrome the request of the former for an increase in wages was turned down, the managers declaring that they could not at this time see their way clear to abrogate the agreement between the managers' association and the union, which runs for two more years. This is the third request for increases that the exhibitors have had to deal with in the past several weeks. First came the musicians, who won their boost, then came the operators, who now have their individual managers to reckon with, and now the stage hands.

Manager L. Becker of the Linden theatre is offering three prizes in War Savings Stamps to patrons who bring in the most peach stones and all who bring in over ten pounds will receive two admissions free. The Linden lobby is now packed with peach pits.

Another Buffalo newspaper and theatre have linked forces in the issuance each week of a local film weekly. The Family theatre and the Buffalo Times inaugurated their first issue this week with a series of Liberty loan activities. It is planned to make the news film a permanent feature.

Italy's "Flaming Battlefront" was screened for local exhibitors at Al Becker's studio, 17 Swan street, this week, and from the comments heard after the screening the pictures will be heavily booked in this territory.

Buffalo theatres Saturday aided the Buffalo Evening News' Smokes for Soldiers' fund by contributing tickets which were auctioned off at a big rally at Lafayette square. Theatres contributing tickets were the Strand, Sheas Hippodrome, Palace, Teck, Regent, Sheas' vaudeville and the Lyric. Local managers have also from time to time aided the fund by placing acts and actors at the disposal of the News for rallies in the theatres and the public square. Over $6,000 was raised at the rally Saturday.

Earl L. Crabb journeyed with the Strand camera car to the annual outing of the Rotary Club.

Baltimore Exhibitor Has Floral Lobby Display

BALTIMORE, MD.—A distinctly original note in advertising his photoplay offering, featuring Fanny Ward in "A Japanese Nightingale," has been struck by Arthur D. Price, manager of the Blue Mouse theatre, Baltimore.

Mr. Price has the lobby of his theatre decorated to resemble a Japanese flower arbor. Supports such as are seen in old Japanese prints form an important part of the effect and flowers peculiar to that sunny country are arranged about the lobby in artistic manner. Artificial wisteria, cherry blossoms, Japanese carnations and asters, as well as chrysanthemums, form a part of the scheme.

Bernard Depkin, manager of the Parkway Amusement Company's chain of theatres, comprising the Parkway, Strand, Waizard, Peabody and McHenry theatres, Baltimore, plans to revive the Mary Pickford picture triumphs. Mr. Depkin has already shown one of these called "The Eagle's Mate," in which James Kirkwood supports little Mary, and which was originally released in 1914, and reports a tremendous business.

State Exhibitors in Convention at Albany

(Continued from page 2339)

of New York State League, Albany; Fred Elliott, of Albany; Morris Silverman, of Schenectady; Wm. Burnstein, of Schenectady; Walter Zeiser, of Schenectady; George Roberts, of Albany, president of the Tri-City local; Mr. Shirley, of Schenectady; B. E. Cornell, of Syracuse; A. N. Wolf, of Rochester; G. E. Lansing, of Catskill; L. F. Hanmore, of Newburg; Stratford theatre, Poughkeepsie; R. W. Landray, of Ogdensburg; Wm. H. Linton, of Utica; W. A. Dillion, of Ithaca.

Wires of acceptance of designation were received from: Max Spiegel, of the Strand theatre, New York; Ira Mosher, of Buffalo; A. C. Hayman, of Niagara Falls; Dr. John Howe, of Ithaca; J. A. Suchardt, of Buffalo; Daniel White, of Buffalo; G. H. Lux, of Utica; B. Young, of Ilion; J. Walker, of Schenectady; C. S. Smith, of Hornell; J. M. Schwartzwalder, of Auburn.

RUN LIBERTY FILMS

In and Out of Town

Tanned to a berry-brown after a summer spent in filming plays in the Grand Canyon of Arizona and elsewhere in the West, William Farnum, the Fox star, is back in New York, where he was called by the illness of Mrs. Farnum.

M. Camille Legrand, one of Pathe Freres' most valued cameraman, has arrived in New York from Paris on his way to the Far East. Monsieur Legrand will go to San Francisco, from whence he will sail for Japan.

Sergeant Chester Franklin, of the U. S. Army, formerly of the famous directing team, The Franklins, is in New York visiting his brother, Sidney A. Franklin, who is directing Miss Norma Talmadge.

Samuel Grand, president of the B. A. Rolfe Productions of New England, visited the New York offices of the firm this week.

"Under Four Flags" Takes Shape Steadily

Director Chas. S. Hart announces that the material for "Under Four Flags," the third U. S. Official feature war picture, is rapidly being culled from the thousands of feet of American, British, French and Italian film that is being sent from overseas, and that this will be, in many respects, the most comprehensive picture issued by the Division of Films of the Committee on Public Information.

The release date of the new picture has not yet been announced, but it will probably have its first showing in New York early in November.

W. J. MacInnes, Director of Advertising and Publicity for the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information, is organizing an art department for furnishing picture mats, covering the various film activities of the organization, to newspapers throughout the United States.

The mats include many novel lay-outs, with up-to-date pictures from the various fighting fronts, and have a distinct news and pictorial value quite apart from the fact that they accentuate interest in the official films.

Peach Stone Matinees a Patriotic Duty

The National Association of the Motion Picture Industry is about to institute a fruit pit and nutshell saving campaign in motion picture trade papers, to help provide material for manufacture of charcoal for Army gas masks.

N. O. Eltonhead, of the Association, reports that motion picture theatre owners in the Middle West have been giving "Peach stone matinees" that have resulted in the collection of much material. One house in Indiana obtained four barrels of peach stones at one afternoon performance.

The Council of National Defense, at Washington, has enlisted the services of all state councils of defense in the campaign.

Red Cross Films Make Headway

General Film Boosts Them Steadily and Finds Ready Co-operation—"Of No Use to Germany" Next Release

STRONG appreciation of the scope and importance of the American Red Cross motion picture activities is becoming apparent throughout the country. It is now only a few weeks since the reorganized Bureau of Pictures of the American Red Cross with W. E. Waddell, as director, issued its first release, which proved to be a subject of happy selection for a premiere, "The Historic Fourth of July in Paris." The enthusiasm with which this one-reel patriotic film was received in the largest down to the smallest theatres of the country stands out prominently in recent film history. Since then, as part of the original plan, other releases have been made, and a series of such releases is to be continued at regular intervals to cover the war from a Red Cross angle. The forthcoming releases will follow the current subjects, which are "Soothing the Heart of Italy" and "Of No Use to Germany."

The Bureau of Pictures of the American Red Cross is a department of the national publicity department of the American Red Cross with Jos. Johnson as head of the department. In behalf of the organization, the Bureau of Pictures is undertaking to give the widest circulation to film from abroad which has been taken under Red Cross auspices, and to present it to the American public as a graphic review of the important uses made of the funds so liberally subscribed for works of mercy in the war-torn countries. Back of this presentation is nearly every facility of the great organization.

The full force of this co-operation is just beginning to be felt. There are many angles to it, but one of the most impressive is the co-operation provided by the thirteen division organizations of the Red Cross in the United States.

The Bureau of Pictures refrained from undertaking to build up its own system of distribution depots, and chose rather to employ one of the existing distributing systems. The films already produced, and a series of others which are in work, are routed for the American Red Cross through General Film Company exchanges, these having been thrown open to the Red Cross in a spirit of co-operation. Theatres desiring to use these films may obtain them through these exchanges at a limited cost. Local Red Cross chapters are also served by these exchanges. The Bureau of Pictures desires it understood by the theatres and the trade that it is acting under the advice of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry as to distributing its materials. And it is further anxious for everyone to know that its film operations are not designed for revenue in any sense of the word. Any money that is received is to cover back the expense of taking and production. A statement to this effect was issued by Mr. Johnson at the beginning of operations by the reorganized bureau.

In the production of films the Bureau's aim is to present mainly human interest topics from the war zone. The work of the Red Cross being along humanitarian lines, those touches which present vividly the gentler spirit prevailing in the midst of a war atmosphere are sought by the cameramen and film editors. Where an inspiring martial note can be introduced, as was effectively done in "The Historic Fourth of July in Paris," and as will be evident in the forthcoming subject, "Advancing with the Eagle Into Italy," this note is seized upon and made part of a release. But battle scenes are avoided except where they may chance to be incidental to some picturesque bit of Red Cross work.

"It is not intended to duplicate the ordinary war scenes," said Director Waddell.

Empey and "Over the Top" Help Recruiting

Capt. Arthur Gardner, the officer in charge of recruiting for the Tank Corps, U. S. A., has organized an intensive recruiting drive in the Middle West, starting at Witchita, Kan., so as to give the brawny Western boys an opportunity of getting into this organization of daredevils.

In planning the drive, Capt. Gardner decided to use motion pictures as part of his work, the desire being to show a war film which would depict the American soldiers in action and actually going over the top. "Over the Top," the Vitagraph Special, was decided upon as the one which best met the requirements. Therefore, a request was sent to Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company of America, for a print, and he immediately donated one to be used during the tour of the recruiting officers. Walter W. Irwin, general manager of the Vitagraph Distributing Organization, immediately put the entire organization at the service of the Tank Boys.

Capt. Gardner has with him several veterans, among them Arthur Empey, hero of "Over the Top," and Sergeant Bowman, of the Ambulance Corps.

Margaret Marsh Helps Red Cross Drive

Margaret Marsh, not content with stripping her own trunks and wardrobes for old clothes drive, which the Red Cross is conducting for the destitute of Belgium and northern France, has also donated a receiving station. She arranged with Mr. Rolfe, president of the B. A. Rolfe Productions; Mrs. Paul Foerster of the New York Red Cross, and Mrs. Walter Taussig of the Westchester Chapter of the Red Cross, to use the reception room at the entrance of the Rolfe studio at 120 School street, in Yonkers, and every moment that she can spare from her work before the camera in the Houdini serial, "The Master Mystery," she will personally receive the bundles of clothing, and during her necessary absence from such war relief duties, society girls of Westchester will take her place.

Exhibitors Back the Smileage Movement Throughout Country

A new plan of getting Smileage Books into the hands of soldiers who want them has been proposed to the exhibitors and has received the approval of some of the biggest men in the industry. As Smileage coupons are now used in Government theaters in the forty-six largest camps, where something like 500,000 men are always kept for training, it is no surprise that about 1,000 requests for Smileage Books are received daily at the Smileage Division offices at Washington.

The new plan is to run a "Smileage Night" once every month in each theatre. Ten per cent. of the gross receipts on that night are to be devoted to the purchase of Smileage Books to go to the men who come from the same city the theatre is in. That is, the money raised by New York City picture houses will buy Smileage for New York City boys now in camp "over here." The Chicago funds will keep Chicago boys supplied, and Cedar Rapids cash will enable Cedar Rapids soldiers to have a good time in the camp theatres "on the folks back home."

As over 5,000 cities and towns have established permanent Smileage sales agencies, the entire country is pretty well covered. This additional method of assisting each local Smileage fund should enable the local chairman who has direct charge of the sales in his city to keep all "his boys" supplied with Smileage coupons.

Smileage coupons are based on the theory that people back home enjoying a show would be glad to take their khaki clad friends to the show with them if said friends were around town. As their friends are in camp, Smileage provides the acceptable substitute.

Peck Succeeds Horsfall At Montreal Mutual

Raymond S. Peck has been appointed manager of the Mutual branch at Montreal, succeeding Basil Horsfall. Mr. Peck comes to Mutual from the Canadian Moving Picture Digest, of which paper he has been editor.

Previous to entering the motion picture business Mr. Peck was associated with daily papers in the United States and Canada. His first experience in the picture business was with the Universal Film Company as director of publicity in Canada.

Bronx Exhibitors to Hold Sixth Annual Ball

The Cinema Exhibitors' Association of Bronx County, Bronx Local N. A. M. P. I. Exhibitors' Branch, will hold its sixth annual movie entertainment and ball on Monday evening, November 4 (election eve), at 8 p. m., at Hunt's Point Palace, 163d street and Southern boulevard, Bronx.

A handsome souvenir program will be issued.

DON'T BUY NEW SIGNS

Until the Fuel Conservation Rules Are Definitely Settled

ARE you contemplating the purchase of a dandy new electric sign for the exterior of your theatre?

One of those dazzling, zig-zag affairs that attracts attention a mile away?

Don't do it—

Until the Fuel Conservation Committee has definitely decided its policy regarding theatre lighting during the coming year.

The present outlook is for a ruling that will limit the exterior lighting of theatres to such lights as are necessary for public safety and barely enough to keep your house from looking like a cigar store.

It will most likely be essential that savings such as this be effected if we are to get enough coal to operate. And we must operate lights or no lights.

And, by the way, give a silent vote of thanks right now to Harry Crandall, the Washington exhibitor, who is doing yeoman work in the Capital on behalf of exhibitors with the Fuel and other bureaus.

Chester Tours for Ship Film

C. L. Chester has left New York on a trip that will carry him as far westward as the Pacific Coast, in the interests of a multiple reel shipbuilding picture which he is to make under the supervision of the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information.

This picture, it is announced, will attempt to catch the urge and proportions of the mighty ship undertaking, and will be a study of men as well as of materials. Mr. Chester finds that a considerable naval experience is standing him in good stead in his work.

Our Red Cross Entertains Italians with Films

Portable moving picture outfits provided by the American Red Cross now enable the Italian soldiers at all the rest houses and canteens to enjoy film dramas and comedies within range of the enemy's guns. The idea has made the biggest kind of a hit with the fighting men, who do not permit the shellfire and booming of cannon to disturb their enjoyment of the performance.

One of the Red Cross canteens has had its own moving picture show for some time past. The machine was loaned to this canteen by the Italian military authorities.

Vitagraph Presents Joyce in "Lion and Mouse"

Alice Joyce, Vitagraph star, soon will be presented in a new de luxe production of "The Lion and the Mouse," most famous and successful of the plays written by the late Charles Klein. It will be released as the third Alice Joyce production on the Blue Ribbon feature program during the present season, and it is promised by Vitagraph that the production will be the most important, from all angles, in which the beautiful star has been presented since her memorable appearance in "Within the Law."

"The Lion and the Mouse" was done in pictures once before about five or six years ago, but it will come forth now as a modern production, because the advancement in motion picture photography and composition make it possible for a superior production over the offerings of a few years back. The Vitagraph announcement of its plan for producing "The Lion and the Mouse" declares that it will strive to make it one of the memorable productions of motion picture history. Miss Joyce, it is said, will be surrounded by a cast of extraordinary strength, and the production will be directed by Tom Terriss under the personal supervision of Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company.

Peach Stone Matinee

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The Palm theatre, largest moving picture house in northeast Philadelphia, located at Frankford and Norris streets, with a seating capacity of 1,500, will conduct a peach stone matinee Wednesday, October 9, for the purpose of collecting peach stones for the Government, to be used in the manufacturing of gas masks.

A special attraction, one of Elsie Ferguson's latest productions, "Hearts of the Wild," has been booked for this day only.

Regular matinee price at this theatre is ten cents, but as an inducement to procure the fruit stones the price of admission at this matinee will be five cents and not less than five fruit stones. The Emergency Aid will furnish the barrels for collection of the fruit stones.

Industry Unit in Liberty Loan Drive

(Continued from page 2341)

A letter from Mr. Guy Emerson, Director of Publicity, Second Federal Reserve District, outlining the plans of the Treasury Department was read. Resolutions were passed endorsing the Fourth Liberty Loan and lines were laid down in which an intensive campaign of bond selling will be waged throughout the motion picture theatres of the State of New York.

President Cohan appointed fifty-one representatives, one in each Senatorial District comprising the State, in order that the proper statistics could be compiled of what the theatre owners have accomplished in the selling of Liberty Bonds. A representative was designated in each of the three assembly districts comprising each Senatorial District of the State.

American Producers Must Specialize

Sidney Garrett Declares This Is the Only Way in Which to Hold the World Market—Needs of Different Countries Must Be Studied

Editors' Note: Sidney Garrett, president of J. Frank Brockliss, Inc., one of the largest film exporters in this country, is a recognized authority upon picture conditions in the world market.

A partner in the house of J. Frank Brockliss, Ltd., of London, and one of the principal executives of the Mundus Film Company, of Paris, Mr. Garrett, through his close affiliations abroad, and his specialized study of international problems, both political and trade, has gained a reputation for his predictions of the developments in the foreign field.

It was Mr. Garrett, who, foreseeing the priorities' rulings, urged upon American manufacturers, many months before the restrictions actually went into effect, the necessity of permitting duping of their product abroad owing to lack of space on ships.

Incidentally, Mr. Garrett's record of achievement in the foreign field reflects in no small degree his apt discernment of foreign business conditions. Beginning a little more than a year ago to build a worldwide distributing system which would eliminate the burden of the middle man, and would provide American manufacturers with a direct source of distribution, Mr. Garrett, in the short time which has elapsed, has succeeded in extending his organization to more than seventy-five per cent. of the territory of the world, and, within a short time, expects to achieve a full hundred per cent. distribution.

In this comment Mr. Garrett can outline to the manufacturers of this country the possibilities of dominating the world market if they will give this business the consideration its value justifies, and can make some interesting and novel suggestions as to how they should proceed to increase their present hold on this trade.

THE war has shown American moving picture manufacturers the possibilities of the foreign market for their product. Today they are realizing from 25 to 40 per cent. of the negative cost of their pictures from this field.

Will they develop this important avenue of revenue? Will they retain it after the war is over? Or, will they do, as they did before the war, accept it as a matter of course—or more or less "a gift from heaven," and let it slip between their fingers?

It is up to them.

If they "watch their step"—if they give it real, sincere, intelligent consideration, American film may dominate the world. The outlook for the enduring supremacy of American pictures abroad was never better nor brighter. If the running start which the producers of this country have been given by reason of the war is taken advantage of—is appreciated and recognized for what it is—America can gain such headway that it will be impossible to catch her.

Note that I say the "running start which the producers of this country have been given," for it must be admitted that, as a whole, the producers of this country have in no sense been self-starters in the foreign field. They were pushed into the heart of its reservoirs through circumstances. Prior to the war American film was not a vital factor in the world market. England, France, Italy, and even Germany, all superseded the American product in popularity and extent of distribution.

Whatever the American producer gained from the market was regarded as so much extra "velvet." If these returns were large it was put down to luck. If they weren't large no concern was expressed over the fact. It was a matter of hit or miss—"ship the stuff over and trust to God that something may come back for it." To all appearances, the foreign field was to the American producer what many people regard the lemonade and peanut stand as being to the big show.

This may have been due to the fact that London at that time was the shipping and export centre of the world, or to the fact that films were harvesting so much money in this country that the producers became calloused to profits and business opportunities.

Whatever the cause, the fact remains that just prior to and immediately after the beginning of the war it was brought home to American manufacturers that the returns they had been getting from the foreign field were not to be laughed at.

With the increase of competition in this country many of the firms awakened to find, as Barnum once did, that the little lemonade and peanut stand was the only factor which made a profit column on the ledger possible. But this discovery came too late, for while America had, unconsciously, perhaps, belittled the foreign field, London and Paris had been working like beavers to corral it.

And they had succeeded, too, until the war forced the diversion of their interests completely. The trade which they had intensively cultivated fell into the lap of America. American films, in spite of the past indifference of their sponsors, received greater distribution than ever before. Foreign peoples, who had seen comparatively few American pictures, have now come to favor them in preference to all others, because of their vim and dash, and thus it is that America today, moving picturely speaking, is "on the map" as never before.

Argentina and Brazil, for instance, which as recently as eighteen months ago were wedded to European film, now show only 10 per cent. of the pictures of the countries across the Atlantic and 90 per cent. of the American product.

The Far East territory, regarded from time immemorial as buyers of only second-hand copies of American film, and few of these, is now using five and six prints of new copies.

Australia has used 2,000,000 feet more of American film during the first seven months of this year than during the corresponding period of last year, and 4,000,000 more feet than during 1916.

Shipping restrictions at present are necessarily curtailing the complete exodus of our product that the foreign demand would make possible, but advices from abroad are of the character that indicate, even more convincingly than statistics, the extent of the market that is awaiting this product.

In the face of such promising conditions, however, I have no hesitancy in predicting that the American distribution of film abroad will be small in comparison with that of other countries after the war unless the manufacturers of the United States give the attention to this field which it deserves, and which it must receive if it is to be retained and expanded.

England and France are not going to let this trade go neglected. They know of its vast possibilities, and when the war is over they are going to be experienced and determined contenders for its principal prizes.

In justice to themselves and to the American exhibitor, who has always been forced to bear a larger percentage of the cost of a negative than is necessary if this foreign trade were properly exploited, American manufacturers should see to it now that they do not lose this valuable possession.

The process of clinching their present hold on the field is simple, albeit necessary of conscientious and earnest effort. It consists simply of giving thought to the type of story that is produced—in other words, of making the product more saleable for the man who buys it, and, incidentally, for the producer himself.

Producers, seeking to gain the most from the foreign field, should consult constantly with their export representative to make certain that their contemplated productions contain nothing that will lessen their value abroad or limit the market for them.

They should see to it that their stories are universal in appeal; that they do not offend any race or creed; that they are adaptable to the introduction of special scenes to meet special requirements.

These scenes, if this thought is borne in mind during the production of a picture, may often be taken for a nominal sum, while they will add thousands of dollars to the value of the picture.

Lastly, and what is of most importance, American manufacturers must get out of their heads that any old thing is good enough for foreign audiences. They must understand that even in countries such as India the moving picture patrons are demanding artistic, up-to-date productions. Today the people of practically every country in which pictures are shown are exacting the same grade of film that is being shown in this country.

Countries which two years ago never dreamed of sending their buyers outside of a fifty-mile limit to find film, are coming to America once or twice a year for the purpose of personally picking the pictures for their patrons.

Perhaps the factor which has been most alert to the possibilities of the foreign field is the Committee of Public Information of the United States Government. It is co-operating in a most able and efficient manner toward the enlargement of the field for American film. If producers will manifest equally as much enterprise as the Government is showing in the exploitation of American films abroad, they will not go far wrong.

Licenses and Shipping Space

By ROBERT A. FOSTER

Export and License Manager, Inter-Ocean Film Corp.

I KNOW that the words expressed in the heading of this article have given many a film exporter a headache, still, investigation of the shipping situation shows that we have reason to be optimistic rather than gloomy.

Robert A. Foster, of Inter-Ocean Film Corporation

There is little complaint that a careful investigator can make with the attention and co-operation given American film interests by the various Government Departments that have to do with the licensing situation in the U. S. Of course, the whole condition is new and lots of unnecessary routine had to be eliminated by the officials. Much credit for this eliminatory work must go to John Tuerk, of the Committee on Public Information, who has developed a system in connection with the approving of American films for export that works so simply and with such even results that I wish I had the space to describe it minutely.

Dealing with this question at the Custom House in New York is Percy M. Reynolds, who seems to tackle the most intricate export problems with real delight, in the realization, as he has expressed himself to me, that he is performing a good American task in facilitating the sending to foreign lands of films depicting genuine American life and aspirations.

Of course, the War Department also exercises supervision over American film export and this third Governmental branch that the intending exporter must deal with is in charge of E. J. Albertson, of the War Trade Board. Mr. Albertson, like his associates in this work, is a very "rushed" man, who is also distinguished by his uniform courtesy to representatives of film industry on licenses bent.

The result is, that all in all, the securing of licenses has been made a not unpleasant process; but the securing of shipping space is still a problem and source of trouble to the whole industry. It will, no doubt, surprise the average reader to know that it is even difficult to get our films into so closely related a nation as France, to which there has not been a direct American film shipment for more than a year.

Foreign officialdom now knows that many pictures can be shipped in very little space. The people of France, who love everything American, are literally crying for our films. That is just one instance. It is the hope and prayer of the film exporter that the shipping space situation will rapidly clear, eventually presenting no greater problem to the shipper than the matter of licenses does today, thanks to the systematic endeavors of our Government's representatives.

Pathe Freres Builds New Offices in Bombay

MOTION PICTURE NEWS is in receipt of a letter from Pathe Freres, 90 Esplanade Road, Bombay, India, telling of the construction by that organization of a new building in Bombay to house its local offices.

The letter follows:

"We have pleasure in enclosing a drawing of our new building which is being erected in Bombay and which will be ready shortly.

"The building will consist of three floors, the ground floor being devoted to film vaults, machine stores, projecting rooms and a despatching department. The first floor will contain the hire department, counting house and general offices. The second floor, manager's offices, and the third floor will have a studio for making Indian dramas. The area of each floor being about 625 square yards.

"The entire structure will be of stone and reinforced concrete and thoroughly fireproof. A special passenger's lift will also be provided.

"It will perhaps be of interest to you to know that our firm has been established in this country since 1907, and that we were the first to open a branch out here and were in fact the only direct importers until a couple of years ago. We have a large branch office in Calcutta, and hope to open shortly one in Rangoon (Burma). Mr. J. F. Madan, of Calcutta, who has the largest circuit in the country, takes all Pathe films and has exclusive rights of our productions in all his picture palaces.

"The picture business itself is quite prosperous in this country and is thoroughly up to date, and nothing but absolutely first-class films are needed out here, there being no room for 'junk' or so-called exclusive films.

"Thanking you in advance, we remain.

"Yours faithfully,
"P. P. Compagnie Générale,
"Etablissements Pathé Frères,
"Phonographe and Cinematographe."

Ono Tells of Our Film in Japan

U. ONO of the Times building, New York, and who for some time has been interested in exports of film abroad, principally Japan, has prepared a brief article for this issue which will no doubt prove of interest to all readers. It has been but a short time since Mr. Uno made a trip to Japan, and he is well qualified to speak of conditions there, and how the Japanese people receive our films in their theatres.

Mr. Uno, to a representative of Motion Picture News, said: "I made the trip to Japan just at the time of the beautiful cherry blossom season, in April of this year. And I really enjoyed the spring atmosphere, travelling nearly all over Japan. It is a long time since I left there, and Japan has been changed in the last six years. The most remarkable thing I noticed is the Japanese general atmosphere that the people, especially the younger generation, are so enthusiastic to learn the Western idea in a business way and living way also; that is, the people are more democratic than the old Japanese way. And if anybody ever travelled that country he soon notices that every place there are many English speaking persons. Once I was told by one of the English ladies who travelled Japan some time ago that Japan is far more convenient for travelling than the European continent, and I have witnessed the fact in Japan today that all high schools teach the English language.

The enterprise of the moving picture throughout Japan has however developed remarkably in the last six years. More than 400 threatres have been built in Japan and you can see in every theatre all American picture and Japanese made films. And the program is divided to half of each of these two productions, to draw both audiences: one for the Japanese who are only able to understand native pictures alone and the other for Japanese and foreigner.

I always thought to the present time that only the people in the United States are able to produce good film, and I myself never thought that the Japanese cannot produce good pictures in comparison with the American production, yet when I saw those I really took my hat off for such wonderful improvement in last few years in every way, photograph, staging, acting and the coloring, and even at the title marks. And I do not hesitate to raise their effort to come to this point.

According to the number of the population in our country, seventy per cent. of the audience is wanted to see only Japanese picture without any care for foreign made film, so that naturally we do the business mostly with Japanese made pictures, and to fill this program they are making big numbers of dramas and comedies and scenics.

Exporters' Special Section on Page 2396

Exhibitors Box Office Reports

LAST MINUTE REPORTS

The Following Individual Reports Came in as Motion Picture News Was Going to Press

"Johanna Enlists" (Pickford-Artcraft)—"It pleased, box office was pleased."

.."On The Quiet" (John Barrymore-Paramount)—"Good cast, fair story, good business."

"The First Law" (Castle-Pathe)—"Good picture."

"Her Body In Bond" (Murray-Universal)—"Extra big."

"Cecilia Of The Pink Roses" (Select)—"Pretty picture but did not get business."

"The Kid Is Clever" (Fox)—"Big business but, Oh George, a few more like this and you're a dead one."

"Hearts Of The Wild" (Ferguson-Paramount)—"Education Film should have bought it for a scenic. Throwing away this star's talent."

"Ghost of Rosy Taylor" (Minter-Mutual)—"Minter well liked, second night better."

"Mr. Logan, U. S. A." (Mix-Fox)—"Very good picture, extra big business."

"Street Of The Seven Stars" (Sherry-Parex)—"More expressions of admiration from patrons than any picture for months."

Editor's Note: The Box Office Report chart includes all pictures released since July 1 on which a sufficient number of exhibitor reports have been received to base a verdict. In the column "Average of Exhibitors' Reports" the term "Extra Big" indicates a picture which far surpassed expectation; "Big" means a picture doing better than the usual business for that day under average conditions; "Average" is the grading given the production on which business held up to normal; "Poor" indicates the picture falling below normal in box office and entertainment value.

The comments given are no indication of the number of reports received, as many exhibitors merely check off the grading without comment.

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
ALL MEN (Morey—Vitagraph)....Aug.	Average	"Average picture." "Good picture."
ANNEXING BILL (Astra—Pathe)....July	Poor	"Fair."
BACK TO THE WOODS (Normand—Goldwyn)...July	Average	"Not bad; rather tame; got by, that's all." All out door; rather thin story, but well produced." "Good picture." "Picture only fair; poor ending." "Mabel don't draw." "Average."
BEHIND THE LINES IN ITALY (Kleine—Perfection) Sept.	Average	"On second and last week; picture good educational, attracting big percentage of Italians.
BELOVED BLACKMAILERS, THE (Blackwell—World) Aug.	Average	"Average story and average business." "Good."
BERLIN VIA AMERICA (Fordart—State Rights).....	Average	"Fair picture; good money maker; three days to big business."
BEYOND THE SHADOWS (Desmond—Triangle)..July	Average	"Average picture."
BIRD OF PREY, THE (Brockwell—Fox).....Aug.	Big	"Extra big." "Good show." "Brockwell's all right, but Oh that American stuff." "Good but people don't want Mexican stuff." "Blood and thunder; pleased here." "Just a big melodrama."
BOUND IN MOROCCO (Fairbanks—Artcraft)....Aug.	Average	Big drawing card but not altogether pleasing on account of weakness of plot. Only 'Doug could get away with it." "My patrons expected more than they received." "Doug. is story, cast and all." "Extra big." "Big to start, average on week." "Full of pep; no story; took well. Few didn't like it; good business." "Fair."
BONNIE ANNIE LAURIE (Hyland—Fox).....Sept.	Average	"Did not please."
BOSTON BLACKIE'S LITTLE PAL (Lytell—Metro) Aug.	Big	"Average picture to average business." "Picture good; star not known yet." "A dandy picture; Lytell coming to the front; it's pleasing; Joey Jacobs classy." "Bert Lytell is well liked for a new star." "Good story, direction poor, star well liked." "Big."
BREAD (MacLaren—Universal).....Aug.	Big	"Went very big." "It was well advertised and brought good patronage money and satisfaction; the title put it over."
BURGLAR FOR A NIGHT (Kerrigan—Paralta)...Aug.	Big	"A good picture with lots of class." "A dandy picture; they like him dressed up; went big all four days."
CITY OF DIM FACES, THE (Hayakawa—Para.)..July	Big	"Very good business." "Business above average." "One of the Jap's best." "One of Jap's best pictures; average business." "Best yet." "Good picture." "Fair."
CLAWS OF THE HUN, THE (Ray—Paramount).July	Extra Big	"Fine, went over big." "Very fine production." "Big opening two days. Dropped slightly." "Big. Very strong." "Excellent. Very good picture; good acting; brought them back." "Star liked; play liked." "Big for week." "Biggest thing he ever made." "Very good."
CRUISE OF THE MAKE-BELIEVES, THE (Lee—Paramount).....Sept.	Average	"A new Paramount star that registered fairly well for first picture." "Fair picture." "Fair." "Lila Lee made a good impression."
DANGER MARK, THE (Ferguson—Artcraft).....July	Average	"Very good." "Not the kind of picture that has drawing power." "Poor business for three days." "Star does not draw." "Great acting; story slightly muddled." "Ferguson" best." "One of Miss Ferguson's best pictures; patrons well pleased." "Average for week." "Star big favorite." "Good." "Good picture." "Very good." "Average."
DEATH DANCE, THE (Brady—Select).....Aug.	Average	"Not considered Brady's best, but very good." "Good."
DECIDING KISS, THE (Roberts—Bluebird).....July	Average	"Just ordinary." "Ordinary program picture; no star."
DEMON, THE (Storey—Metro).....July	Average	"Did not draw; Storey fails as a star." "Poor vehicle for Edith Storey."
DOING THEIR BIT (Lee Children—Fox).....Aug.	Average	"Lees good, picture poor." "Average picture." "Went big." "Average." "Good picture, did not draw." "Splendid, but mighty poor for box office value."
DREAM LADY, THE (Myers—Bluebird).....July	Average	"Average picture." "Fair." "Good." "Average program picture." "Great."
EMPTY CAB, THE (Percy—Bluebird).....July	Average	"Average picture."
FALLEN ANGEL, THE (Pearson—Fox).....July	Average	"Good society drama." "Fair, have seen better." "Just Fox; that's not much to brag about." "A sex play; star does not draw." "Average."
FEDORA (Fredericks—Paramount)..... Aug.	Average	"Rotten picture." "A good picture, but the title kept people away." "Average." "Big." "Good." "Big." "Fair." "Good."
FIRST LAW, THE (Castle—Pathe).....July	Average	"Average Castle picture." "Big to average."

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
FLOWER OF THE DUSK (Dana—Metro).....Aug.	Average	"Average picture." "Give us more pictures like this; pleasing, well handled." "Viola Dana is fine, but the pictures they pur her in are holding her back." "Well acted, but too morbid." "Big, extra big, and average respectively in three day run," Not her best."
FOR HUSBANDS ONLY (Jewel).....Aug.	Big	"Exceptionally good."
FRIEND HUSBAND (Kennedy—Goldwyn).....Aug.	Average	"Average picture." "Big." "Good light picture." "Fine picture." "Big." "Average." "This star is a big failure for us; picture good." "Did not draw at all, picture liked." "Average."
GENTLEMAN'S AGREEMENT, A (Shipman-Vitagraph).....July	Average	"Good picture; no drawing card."
GHOST OF ROSY TAYLOR, THE (Minter—Mutual) July	Big	"A good bet." "Big." "Ordinary picture, but pleasing." "Pleased nicely." "Good." "Average." "Big." "Star better liked each picture."
GHOST OF THE RANCHO, THE (Washburn—Pathe) Aug.	Average	"Good film, but poor crowd." "Fair show." "Very good."
GIRL WHO CAME BACK, THE (Clayton—Paramount) Sept.	Average	"Pleasing; a few weak spots." "Fair picture."
GLORIOUS ADVENTURE (Marsh—Goldwyn)....July	Big	"Audience well pleased." "One week to average and big business." "Audience well pleased." "Not much—story improbable; acting and settings pull it through." "Good picture; drew fair for hot weather." "A pleasing picture, but no drawing power for me." "One of Mae Marsh's best. Drew well in extremely hot weather." "Pleasing picture." "Average." "Average." "Marsh's poorest picture, did not please." "Star doesn't draw." "Very fine." "Good program picture, but can't seem to interest them in Mae Marsh."
GOLDEN FLEECE (Triangle).....July	Average	"Good entertainment; no drawing power."
GOLDEN WALL, THE (Blackwell—World) .....July	Average	"Good picture.
GREEN EYES (Dalton—Paramount).....Aug.	Big	"A very fine picture." "Average." "Not liked very much." "Great settings; interesting story; there on the first night advertised." "Good picture, big business."
GREAT LOVE, THE (Griffith—Paramount).....Aug.	Extra Big	"Great picture, a little slow at the start." "Great picture." "A 100% picture; timely, well balanced, splendid cast, great all around." "Extra big." "Regular riot, pleased all." "Extra big." "Not a Birth of a Nation by any means; drags slow until last reel or two." "Big business to average." "Many said better than Hearts of the World and not so sad." "Pleased every patron." "Second week extra big; pleased all patrons." "Hit my people harder than Hearts of the World because it is not too bloody and carries no German rape scenes." "Very strong feature." "Great picture does not cover it, it is the greatest picture we have run."
HEARTS OF THE WILD (Ferguson—Paramount) Sept.	Big	"Picture and business big." "This story did not fit the star." "Average picture."
HEARTS OF THE WORLD (D. W. Griffith Special)....	Extra Big	"Now in its fourteenth week." "Greatest picture of all times." "Good picture, but only fair business. We make more real cash on our regular programs." "Best picture ever made." "Wonderful, did capacity business two days, could have stayed week."
HE COMES UP SMILING (Fairbanks—Artcraft)..Sept.	Big	"Best Fairbanks, extra big for three days."
HELL BENT (Carey—Universal Special).....July	Average	"Good lively Western play. This star should be pushed ahead."
HELL'S END (Desmond—Triangle).....July	Poor	"Poor picture.'
HER BODY IN BOND (Murray—Universal).....July	Extra Big	"Hot weather, but picture went big."
HEREDITY (Castleton—World).....Aug	Average	"Very good picture, but weather against it." "Poor." "Well liked."
HER HUSBAND'S HONOR (Goodrich—Mutual)..Aug.	Average	"Poor business two days."
HER ONLY WAY (Norma Talmadge—Select).....Aug.	Extra Big	"Big City, High Class." "Miss Talmadge as usual pleased all." "A very good picture. You can always bank on Norma." "Extra good." "Good." "Extra big, star losing her beauty." "Average." "Big."
HER PRICE (Pearson—Fox).....July	Big	"Went big here for six days." "Had nice returns from this one." "Sex type; failed to draw. Dark picture all through." "Average." "Ordinary picture." "A very creditable picture." Good."
HIS BIRTHRIGHT (Hayakawa—Mutual).....Sept.	Big	"Went over with a bang, but not much picture." "One of his best; well directed; superbly acted." "Standing out in rain for second show; star well liked." "Average to big."
HOUSE OF MIRTH, THE (Metro).....Aug.	Average	"Very good, patrons well pleased." "A good picture, but title has no drawing power." "Fair picture." "Above average."
HUN WITHIN, THE (Paramount Special).....Sept.	Big	"A great picture." "Splendid big 100% production."
INSIDE THE LINES (Stone—World).....Aug.	Big	"Dandy war picture on a new theme. Star fine, but not known here. Business average for two days with slight decrease the third day." "An exceptionally good picture." "Great picture." "Very fine story, continuity great, did big business despite lack of well known stars; interesting every bit of six reels; not enough pictures like this."
IN PURSUIT OF POLLY (Billie Burke—Para.)...Aug.	Average	"Hit everybody hard, a corking good comedy." "A very weak picture: it took two reels, to tell the people that there was going to be a race." "Picture went over fairly well." "Best Burke picture yet." "Very pleasing comedy drama; average business three days." "Average." "Billie not as big a drawing card as she was."
IN JUDGMENT OF (Nilsson—Metro).....Aug.	Average	"Very good picture and star well liked here, but business only average." "Average picture. "An excellent production; well liked." "Fair picture." "Good." "A very good picture, holds interest throughout." "Average." "Good program picture." "A dandy picture; fine story." "Average."
ITALY'S FLAMING FRONT (First National).....	Big	"Went big solid week." "Splendid picture, went big at raised prices and pleased." "Photography fine considering conditions under which taken."
JOAN OF THE WOODS (Elvidge—World).....July	Average
JOHANNA ENLISTS (Pickford—Artcraft).....Sept.	Big	"Gee! but this picture took my patrons like Uncle Sam is going to take Berlin and the Kaiser: some picture and some Mary."
JUST FOR TONIGHT (Moore—Goldwyn).....Sept.	Average	"Very fair picture, star still to be made."
KAISER'S SHADOW, THE (Dalton—Paramount)..July	Average	"Poor title, but good business for two days."
KAISER, THE BEAST OF BERLIN (Jewel).....	Extra Big	"The best drawing card." "Big."
LAWLESS LOVE (Carmen—Fox).....Aug.	Average	"Average picture." "Good." "Pleased, but too melodramatic and impossible." "A good picture of its type; satisfied all patrons."
LESS THAN KIN (Reid—Paramount).....July	Big	"Very good." "Extra big." "Big to average." "Good." "Average."
LIAR, THE (Pearson—Fox).....Aug.	Average	"Entire week; big to poor." "Very good" "Average." "Not a desirable film, and one that didn't help the star; business fair." "Average."
LOVE SWINDLE, THE (Roberts—Bluebird).....Aug.	Average	"Big." "Average." "Average Bluebird." "A dandy."
LOVE'S LAW (Gail Kane—Mutual).....Sept.	Average	"Fair picture; good bits throughout picture. Miss Kane liked here; slowed up on third day."
MAID OF THE STORM (Barriscale—Paralta).....July	Average	"Poor business." "Good; pleased them all.
MARRIAGE RING, THE (Bennett—Paramount)..Aug.	Average	"Not Enid Bennett's best." "Good." "Splendid production." "A good story, drama pleased."
MERELY PLAYERS (Gordon—World).....Aug.	Big	"Good business for four days. The public likes Gordon, no matter what the exhibitor may think." "Excellent picture; good business for hot weather." "Big."
MISS INNOCENCE (Caprice—Fox).....July	Average	"June Caprice gets no business." "Average." "Fair story." "Fox only average here." "Splendid production; June Caprice's best vehicle since 'Miss U. S. A.'" "Fair."
MONEY MAD (Marsh—Goldwyn).....Aug.	Average	"Fair picture." "Good pleasing picture." "Big."
MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY (First National)..	Extra Big	"Best feature of the year. Crowded houses at 105 in the shade. Applause nearly raised roof. My opinion a 100% picture." Big business to advanced prices." "Best picture of war by far." "Repeated back for ten days after running week in 2,000 seat house in 4,500 population." "Big." "Extra big; return engagement."
MY OWN UNITED STATES (Daly—Metro).....	Average	"Fine picture." "Very good." "This picture pleased everyone." "Poor business for a week.' "A very good picture; we played to average business." "One of the best patriotic screen stories going and fine star but not known here, and public would like to write 'Finis' to all propaganda stuff; sick of it; business poor for a big picture like this." "Well liked, crowd a little off."
NEIGHBORS (Evans—World).....July	Average
NINE O'CLOCK TOWN A (Ray—Paramount)....Aug.	Average	"Ray could have scored heavier in a more suitable role." "Weak story, but went over on account of Ray's popularity." "Average Ray picture." "Not up to recent Ray standard." "Big."
NO MAN'S LAND (Lyttel—Metro).....July	Big	"Very good." "Average." "Big." "Fair."
ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS (Earle—Vitagraph) July	Average	"Not drawing card for Saturday."
OPPORTUNITY (Dana—Metro).....July	Average	"Average picture." "Star well liked; poor picture." "Big. Good clever comedy." "Good program picture." "The kind that makes you forget your troubles." "Very good." "Star liked; picture good" "Big." "Average." "Average picture." "Star liked best in this kind." "Poor picture; Metro pictures are getting poorer and poorer."

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
OTHER MEN'S DAUGHTERS (Hyland—Fox)....July	Average	"We did an average business for a whole week." "A good picture." "Very good program offering." "Not a very wholesome story." "Fair picture; absolutely no draw whatever."
OUR MRS. McCHESNEY (Ethel Barrymore—Metro) Sept.	Big	"Went big for two day run."
OVER THE TOP (Empey—Vitagraph)	Extra Big	"Big business for one solid week." "A great picture." "Well liked; good business." "Extra big." "A wonderful picture; pleased immensely; capacity crowds." "Poor, but pleased. Print bad condition." "Second day better than first; a top notcher." "Extra big." "One of biggest hits we ever had." "Second run average business."
PAIR OF SILK STOCKINGS (Norma Talmadge—Select).....	Big	"Star becoming more popular with each release." "Big."
PAIR OF CUPIDS, A (Bushman-Bayne—Metro)...July	Average	"Picture went over fairly good." "Excellent comedy drama." "Best picture these Cupid killers have ever done." "Handled cleverly." "Why the producers continue making comedies I can't see. The public don't want them." "Best Bushman-Bayne in some time."
PERSHING'S CRUSADERS (Com. Pub. Inf —First National).....	Extra Big	"Average. Three days." "Suggestive of animated weeklies. Patrons said, 'Not enough action and romantic interest for a long feature." "Wonderful show." "Big" "Pleased." "Did not draw." "Broke all house records." "Standing room only at advanced prices." "Extra big for week." "The biggest card of all." "Extra big two weeks." "Some liked it and others did not. Not a good picture of its kind." "All old stuff like news reels." "A picture every one should see."
POWER AND THE GLORY, THE (Elvidge—World) Sept.	Average	"Just an average picture; pleasing."
PRUSSIAN CUR, THE (Fox).....Sept.	Extra Big	"Admission increased from twenty-five to fifty cents; turned them away afternoons and evenings." "Only fair propaganda picture. Party playing Kaiser and party playing Wilson very rotten. Worst character for Kaiser ever seen."
RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE (Farnum—Fox).Sept.	Extra Big	"One of Farnum's best." "Extra big four days." "Great, extra big for four days. Going to have a return engagement."
RIDDLE GAWNE (Hart—Artcraft).....Aug.	Big	"Average picture" "Hokum De Luxe.' "A regular Hart picture, but poor; Hart is going. I think he is gone." "One of Hart's best." "Made many new Hart fans." "Hart is played out here." "One of Bill's best." "Big." "Average." "Average business." "Best Hart in long time." "Best Hart picture." "Much liked."
SAFETY CURTAIN, THE (Norma Talmadge—Select) July	Big	"A great picture." "Good production—kept business to average in exceptionally hot weather" "Average Norma picture; her's are always good." "Good; star is extremely popular." "Norma is as popular as ever." "Fine show." "Fine picture; good business two days." "Big three days, average four days." "Very pleasing."
SANDY (Jack Pickford—Para.).....July	Average	"Good." "Fair program offering; average business two days." "Fair picture." "Dandy picture." "Fair only; not Jack's best by any means." Satisfied everybody." "Good story." "Too bad Jack leaves us." "Fair." "Big." "Went big." "Big." "Jack Pickford well liked in this." "Only a fair day."
SAVAGE WOMAN, THE (C. K. Young—Select)...Aug	Poor	"Went poor" "Too improbable a story." "First day fair, second day poor; not the kind of picture for star." "C. K. Y.'s most pretentious Select subject, but story is not very well suited to pictures. C. K. Y. did not look a bit 'savage.' Business good, but——." "Poor." "Pleased."
SHIFTING SANDS (Swanson—Triangle).....Aug.	Average	"Big business."
SILENT WOMAN, THE (Storey—Metro).....Sept.	Average	"Good picture, poor business." "Average."
SOURCE, THE (Reid—Paramount).....Sept.	Average	"Fine picture." "Picture was poor; star well liked." "Star's makeup was poor, but picture well liked." "Great." "This deserved better patronage."
SUCCESSFUL ADVENTURE, A (Allison—Metro) July	Big	"A real good Southern picture is good for a change." "Good." "Good picture, but weather too hot." "Excellent." "Not a good drawing card. Picture well liked." "Fair."
STILL ALARM, THE (Pioneer—Star Rights) .. July	Big	"Went extra big solid week amid hottest weather in history of city."
TANGLED LIVES (Morey, Blythe—Vitagraph)....July	Average	"Good picture."
TARZAN OF THE APES (First National) ...	Extra Big	"At advance prices extra big" "Made big hit." "Extra big one week." "Extra big. Interesting picture but bad finish." "Fine picture, but extra business did not materialize." "Great picture out of the ordinary." "Big drawing card" "Elegant." "Two days to big business with thermometer above 100 mark." "Extra big." "Drew fine for five days. Public wants this kind of picture. It's different." "Extra big for three days." "Causing comment and interest or curiosity to see." "Big."
TILL I COME BACK TO YOU (De Milles—Artcraft) Aug.	Extra Big	"A great picture and one of De Mille's best." "This is a story that was liked by all." "Hits kids, women and men alike. Clean and thrilling. We mopped up with this picture." "Very good." "Best picture director ever made; class this as a super-production." "Great."
TINSEL (Gordon—World) ..... July	Average	Poor title did average business for two days." "Four days. Many good comments." "One of the best Worlds" "Average." "Average seven days."
TO HELL WITH THE KAISER (Screen Classics...	Extra Big	"Broke house records Capacity three nights." "Best thing yet; three days run; record breakers." "Good patriotic picture with wonderful pulling powers." "Great thriller." "Two days to capacity; very fine." "Good drawing card." "Has Beast of Berlin skinned to a frazzle." "Return date; went big." "Opened up big, but fell down awful."
TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER (Joyce—Vitagraph) July	Average	"Fair picture, and star one of the best going with her flowerlike face and womanly appeal; but for the love of Mike, what's wrong with the pictures they give her Business rotten." "Poor picture." "Good show and good acting." "Poor picture, took off second day." "Good."
T'OTHER DEAR CHARMER (Louise Huff—World) Sept.	Average	"Very good picture. New star for our house."
TURN OF THE WHEEL (Farrar—Goldwyn).....Sept.	Big	"Held out very well for long run." "Excellent picture; should go big." "A splendid production of a commpnplace story." "Picture did not draw here." "Well acted play, went well with big houses."
UNBELIEVER, THE (Kleine—Edison).....	Extra	"Returned for a week and went big." "Greatest patriotic picture ever." "Very good." "Five week knockout." "Great picture. Gave best of satisfaction." "This picture properly put over makes a big hit, and pulls them in." "Wonderful picture; pleased immensely—capacity houses." "Great." "Extraordinary picture, went big, a winner."
UNCLE TOM'S CABIN (Clark—Paramount).....July	Average	"Just a fair kid's picture; pulled off pronto." "Good for matinees—poor for night. Good picture of its kind." "Average for me." "With aid of colored singers in lobby managed to put this over. Personally thought it awful." "Average." "Big." "Took great; stood them up; star liked." "Average." "Didn't draw." "The best Clark picture in many months." "Poor." "Nice picture; Clark good." "Fair." "Hackneyed production very dull."
VAMP, THE (Bennett—Paramount).....July	Average	"Fine picture, but name against it." "Very interesting picture; good star." "Good" "Clever little picture."
VIGILANTES, THE (Bear State Film Co.).....Aug.	Big	"Starting second big week's showing."
VIVE LA FRANCE (Dalton—Paramount).....Sept.	Average	"This is a dandy picture and pleased them all."
WAIFS (Astra—Pathe).....Aug.	Average	"Clean, comedy drama."
WE CAN'T HAVE EVERYTHING (DeMille—Artcraft).....July	Average	"All star cast; great play; not satisfactory; too intricate for all to abosrb it; too jumbled up." "Excellent." "From big to average in week's run." "Average picture."
WEDLOCK (Glaum—Paralta).....July	Poor	"Poor picture."
WILD PRIMROSE (Leslie—Vitagraph).....Aug.	Average	"Picture went big; good picture." "Average."
WINNER TAKES ALL (Salisbury—Bluebird).....July	Big	"Went big; Salisbury good card." "Picture pleased." "Better than average Bluebird; Salisbury coming along good."
WOMAN'S FOOL, A (Carey—Universal Special)...Aug.	Big	"Big to average." "Extra big." "Good story, but poorly produced. Not enough action."

Exhibitor Service Bureau

Unbrotherly in Philadelphia

Chart Plan Shows One Slight Evidence of Cooperation, but Motion Pictures Get Slight Attention

THERE'S not much brotherely love evidenced in the co-operation of Philadelphia newspapers and motion picture theatres. The combination there of syndicate ownership and age on the part of the newspapers has not resulted in the recognition of the photoplay that one would hope to find in a city where there are 188 motion picture houses.

Of course of the things that is the matter is that Philadelphia is the third city of the country in population and the largest cities are generally poor so far as giving the motion picture a square deal. The other thing that is the matter is that the Philadelphia newspapers are on a purely commercial basis. Evidently the most of the newspapers don't look upon motion picture matter as anything in which the public is interested, and when such a viewpoint is taken there is little hope.

One is struck by the amount of matter that the Philadelphia papers give to matter concerning women and to the children's pages. Some years ago when the writer was the general working boss on a daily in a smaller city and accumulated the most of the general matter with scissors, he always went through the Philadelphia papers when he wanted matter to fill in the "society" column or get out the Sunday woman's page, and he did about the same thing when he wanted juvenile stuff.

But we wonder whether the same newspaper editors who would figuratively throw a fit if you suggested limiting this matter ever thought that most of these women and practically all of the children are deeply interested in motion picture matter and that the paper which prints the news of the photoplay and which carries the advertising of a large number of the theatres is regarded as a necessity in the home. How many copies of certain Sunday papers do you suppose are sold purely for the reason that the children like those particular comic supplements and because they persuade their fathers to buy that paper?

As a matter of fact a newspaper may start a circulation and double its circulation, but if it fails to hold that circulation it loses money. Circulation pays because it is a basis of advertising. The advertiser does not care to fool with the paper that has a circulation jumping around like a Mexican bean. The big advertisers make contracts to cover a considerable time for a large amount of advertising; they want an assured, normal circulation. And that is the main reason for the woman's page, for the serial story and for most of the other so-called features of newspapers—they are maintained as circulation holders.

Now we cannot imagine anything that would hold circulation better than matter that will interest the women and the children of the household as well as many of the men. And we cannot imagine better value to the advertiser than circulation that goes into the home and stays in the home. The average advertiser doesn't care much about the papers that are bought on the street, glanced over at lunch and then thrown away, as is the case in considerable afternoon circulation of the average paper. And neither does the advertiser care much for the circulation of the morning paper that goes to the men who simply read it on their way to work and then chuck it in the ashcan. But they do want circulation in the afternoon paper that is delivered to the home or that the man of the house TAKES home—and he is going to take it if the women and the children in his household clamor for it. And the same applies to the morning circulation that STAYS at home.

Therefore we believe that the regular use of real motion picture matter in newspapers is not only a circulation asset to the newspaper, but that it is a general asset to the regular advertiser. One of the excuses for the "amusement rate" is that it is not fair to the general advertiser to grant the theatres the same rate and then to print reading matter about it. The newspaper that takes that point of view will often admit that the photoplay matter is of real interest and that he does not consider it pure advertising, but that he must be "fair" to the general advertisers.

Now which do you think is the fairer? To publish the sort of a newspaper that will be really read by every member of the family? Or the sort that will be read for a few moments at the baseball park or in the bar-room or at the prize fight and then thrown away?

Don't you think that the general advertiser would rather see the motion picture houses getting the regular commercial rate and then news matter on the side if they knew that this matter was resulting in the newspaper, and consequently their own advertising being read by more people—and by people in the purchasing class?

There can be but one answer to that, and we have always failed to see why any newspaper can fail to get that argument—except for custom. It began to be the fashion in the early days of amusements to give the theatres reading matter and they came to be looked upon as a more or less legitimate grounds for a hold-up and consequently the rate went up. If the newspaper is really co-operating with the motion picture houses the fair thing to do would be to charge the houses that get reading notices certain times a week the amusement rate up to a certain amount of advertising and then the commercial rate for further advertising. The result of that would be to encourage business instead of to handicap it.

Now this comment is drawn forth by one fact that we find in the Philadelphia system, and that is that the Public Ledger and the Evening Ledger, the only papers to use the chart system, charge the theatres fifteen cents a line for representation in that chart. And if we are not wrong the chart system originated in Philadelphia.

It seems to us that the theory of the chart is that it is a great convenience to the public. We would say that the great majority of the people in any city would buy the paper that once a week gave the attractions for each day at all the houses. Of course that is merely ideal, for no one would expect the newspapers to print this matter for theatres that refused to advertise—and there will always be some who cannot see value of advertising—but comparatively few besides the Stanley houses take advantage of it.

Even in the insistence that we make that advertising pays, we realize that there are many of the neighborhood theatres that cannot afford to spend big amounts for advertising. Their appeal is to a certain extent limited and we believe that the fair thing for the newspaper is to grant them a low rate, as near the commercial as possible, for representation in this chart.

Lord and Thomas newspaper directory gives the circulation of the Philadelphia papers as follows:

Bulletin—Afternoon, 363,115.
Inquirer—Morning 156,612; Sunday, 310,966.
North American—Morning, 137,015; Sunday, 187,156.
Press—Morning, 35,470; Sunday, 102,100.
Public Ledger—Morning, 96,593; Sunday, 152,069.
Evening Ledger—98,418.
Record—Morning, 122,504; Sunday, 127,512.
Star—Evening (circulation not given, but small).

There are 159 theatres in Philadelphia proper and twenty-nine in the outskirts of the city. There are ten downtown houses and 178 neighborhood houses, and a total of twenty first-run theatres. There are ninety of these houses in the Stanley syndicate, the largest of which are the Stanley, Palace, Arcadia, Victoria, Regent, Great Northern and Imperial. The United Exhibitors' Association has fifteen houses, including the Locust, Strand, Belmont,

(Continued on page 2362)

Philadelphia Newspapers Give the Photoplay Little Show

At the top are three pages from the Sunday Ledger, then a page from the Saturday Bulletin, one from the Sunday Inquirer and at right from the Press. The lower row shows at the left a page from the Sunday North American, the Tuesday page of the same paper and the Saturday Evening Ledger.

FETES HELP N. A. SANITARIUM, EMERGENCY AID
Military—Engineering Training at Drexel
DREXEL INSTITUTE
COMBS CONSERVATORY of MUSIC

MYSTERY PLAY TO START SEASON AT ADELPHI; PLAYBILLS AT OTHER THEATRES UNCHANGED
Both Poker Outcasts
THEATRICAL INDICATOR FOR THE COMING WEEK

Vitagraph Issues Large Campaign Book on "The Iron Test"

FORTY-EIGHT pages, 9 by 12, are devoted by Vitagraph to a complete plan book on "The Iron Test," the new serial in which Antonio Moreno and Carol Holloway are starred. The book assembles in one volume a mass of matter that the exhibitors will use in putting over the picture and offers a complete campaign.

Vitagraph first talks to the exhibitor about the way to handle the serial and advises him to know it first. That is good advice because no one can exploit a single-reel picture, much the less fifteen episodes of two reels each unless he himself first knows what he is talking about. Then follows a page giving a few ideas of what exhibitors have actually done with other Vitagraph serials.

There is a series of four, two and single-column advertisements which may be used in advance of the first episode or any time during its showing. These are in line drawing, portraying some striking action and then a very small amount of reading matter, with a space left for the name of the theatre. It is suggested to the exhibitor that he can use the cuts which illustrate the specimens in preparing his own, and different advertisements to suit his purposes.

Vitagraph itself is conducting a bill posting campaign through the country with striking 24-sheets and in addition offers to furnish free as many of these as the exhibitor himself will post. There is a one-sheet, three-sheet and six-sheet on each of the fifteen episodes. Lobby displays and scene cuts on each episode are also offered and there are double column, single and thumb nail cuts of Moreno and Miss Holloway for use either in the advertising or in newspaper stories.

Additional aides include a banner, ten feet long by three feet, a slide and two matrices for the herald, on one of which the name of the theatre may be filled in and the other giving room for the brief synopsis of the various episodes. The story has also been novelized for newspaper use and the exhibitors are urged to get their newspapers to print this through a co-operative plan. There is also a set of press notices on each episode.

In short, except for the original things planned by the exhibitor himself, he will find a full set of material here, conveniently listed.

Twenty-four sheet with which Vitagraph is making a national campaign on its latest serial

Theatre Arranges Its Own Liberty Loan Parade

With Oregon conducting its Fourth Liberty Loan Drive ahead of the nation, Carl Marquard, the hustling manager of the Globe theatre, Portland, opened his screening of the Geraldine Farrar spectacle, "Joan the Woman," with a Liberty Loan parade that attracted much attention and resulted in capacity houses for his theatre.

At 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon the parade wended its way through the streets of Portland, the musicians' band in the van. One hundred and fifty members of the Junior Marine Corps marched; the theatre ushers, garbed in fleur de lis costumes, paraded in an automobile, and a huge float followed.

The float was constructed with a high embankment in the center, with a figure of Joan of Arc on top. On one side of the bank were three marines, with bayonets labelled to represent the First, Second and Third Liberty Loans. On the other side were two marines and Uncle Sam, with the latter handing the soldiers rifles bearing the label "Fourth Liberty Loan" and giving instructions for them to go "over the top."

At the theatre a patriotic stage tableau was presented afternoon and evening. Miss Lucille Traglio, ingenue of the Alcazar stock company, appearing as Joan of Arc. A color bearer and two sergeants of marines conducted a bayonet charge drill, with Joan, the spirit of France, furnishing inspiration for their efforts.

Theatre Circuit to Spend $35,000 in Paper

In one mail come two items that are mighty closely connected.

First of these is that Jensen and Von Herberg, who operate the Coliseum, Liberty, Strand and Mission theatres in Seattle, Wash., have just signed a contract with the Seattle Times by which they agree to use $35,000 worth of space in that newspaper during the next year.

A second announcement is that the Seattle Post-Intelligencer has just launched a special photoplay department. Heretofore the motion picture matter has been carried in the regular theatrical columns, having been made secondary. For some time the Times has been featuring the motion picture and has been devoting not less than four pages each Sunday to this. Incidentally the Times has been carrying the bulk of the photoplay advertising.

ADVISORY BOARD, EXHIBITORS SERVICE BUREAU

Samuel L. Rothapfel, Rialto and Rivoli theatres, New York.
Thomas D. Soriero, Park theatre, Boston, and Strand theatres, Lowell.
Harold B. Franklin, Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo.
Edw. L. Hyman, Film Director, U. S. Liberty Theatres, New York.
E. Mandlebaum, Loew's Stillman theatre, Cleveland.
Mrs. Joseph Grossman, Standard theatre, Cleveland.
George J. Schade, Schade theatre, Sandusky.
H. C. Horater, Alhambra theatre, Toledo.
S. Barret McCormick, Circle theatre, Indianapolis.
Theo. L. Hays, New Garrick theatre, St. Paul.
M. W. McGee, Majestic theatre, Detroit.
Chas. G. Branham, Strand theatre, Minneapolis.
Leo A. Landau, Butterfly theatre, Milwaukee.
Charles C. Perry, Liberty theatre, Camp Cody, Texas.
W. S. McLaren, Majestic and Colonial Theatres, Jackson, Mich.
Miss Flossie A. Jones, Waukesha Amusement Co., Waukesha, Wis.
Willard C. Patterson, Criterion theatre, Atlanta, Ga.
E. V. Richards, Jr., General Manager, Saenger Amusement Co., New Orleans.
Ernst Boehringer, Liberty theatre, New Orleans.
C. A. Lick, New theatre, Fort Smith, Ark.
F. L. Newman, Royal and Regent theatres, Kansas City, Mo.
H. M. Thomas, Strand theatre, Omaha.
Ralph Ruffner, Rialto theatre, Butte.
A. H. Hilton, Paramount Theatre, Lewiston, Idaho.
George E. Carpenter, Paramount-Empress theatre, Salt Lake.
Sam W. B. Cohn, Liberty theatre, Spokane.
G. F. Fullerton, Advertising Manager, Greater Theatres Co., Seattle.
E. J. Myrick, Liberty theatre, Portland, Ore.
A. S. Kolstad, Liberty theatre, Hood River, Ore.
P. E. Noble, Publicity Manager, Liberty and Columbia theatres, Seattle.
Eugene H. Roth, California theatre, San Francisco.
J. A. Partington, Imperial theatre, San Francisco.
Sidney Grauman, Grauman's theatre, Los Angeles.

New Orleans Papers Cause Public Appeal

MOTION PICTURE NEWS belongs to the people and the people have a right to expect the newspaper to print this matter as well as any other news matter. It has been a hard fight in some cities to convince the newspaper owners of this, and instead of making an attempt to show the public interest the exhibitors, in most instances, have been content to take things as they come and let them go at that.

In the articles on co-operation between the newspapers and theatre owners that have appeared in these pages from time to time we have always placed great emphasis on public interest. We have gone so far as to say to you that the newspaper owes it as a duty to supply the motion picture news to the public and that the paper that fails to satisfy the demands of this immense element is not a real newspaper.

And if these premises are true the proper forum before which the theatres of any community should try their case is the public. Of course you are not going to get the thousands that are interested in motion picture matter to write letters of protest to the papers, but you certainly are going to bring your theatre closer to the public.

AENGER AMUSEMENT COMPANY, New Orleans, owning the splendid Strand theatre in that city and controlling some fifty others in four states in the New Orleans territory, has just supplied an example of the way to do this. There are three daily newspapers in that city and they have a very close organization known as the New Orleans Newspaper Publishers Association. About the first of September it sends out a notice to all of the advertising theatres that there will be no daily motion picture matter carried and that the notices will be confined to the Sunday issue.

The reason for this given is that the War Industries Board has given notice of conserving white paper. This is true. But the Government has simply said to save white paper, and it is not attempting to say what may be printed on that paper. Naturally the War Industries Board expects that the newspapers will use the limited amount of white space to the matter that will interest the greater portion of the public and to print MATTER THAT WILL HELP WIN THE WAR.

NEW ORLEANS newspapers were at one time liberal with motion picture matter. All of the recent copies of those papers that we have seen have shown that they are still liberal to sporting matter.

The Government has declared that baseball is non-essential, and it has been adjourned until after the war. The Southern League, of which New Orleans was a member, "adjourned for the war" in mid-summer.

There is practically no football.

Instead of prize fighting the American people are expecting those gentlemen who are fistically inclined to use their prowess on the Germans.

Certainly horse racing and the drove of bookmakers who invade the city with each racing system and who do not violate the law because they take "individual wagers" isn't supposed to help very much toward the sale of Liberty Bonds.

Every official of the Government from the President down is on record as to the part that the motion picture is playing.

There are non-essentials. There are non-essentials in "news" as well as anything else.

WHEN the notice of this order from the New Orleans Newspaper Publishers' Association was received E. V. Richards, Jr., made a simple request that the papers do not shut off the theatres that change their bills no less than twice a week from a mid-week notice and he requested permission to appear before the Publishers Association. So far he hasn't been invited.

It is interesting in connection with the New Orleans situation to note that some ten days before this conclusion of the association was reached the Saenger Amusement Company submitted a proposition to at least one of the New Orleans papers to use increased advertising at the commercial rate and to expect no favors based on this expenditure. This letter said that "as at present conducted" these readers were practically valueless—and that it is largely true if the motion picture matter during the week consists merely of laudatory, adjectived matter instead of real news and real reviews of pictures. All that was asked was a mid-week review and, if necessary, to make up for this by cutting down the Sunday space.

One is purely commercial—the other is interesting to the public.

We are not informed whether the New Orleans publishers, in saving white paper and in denying matter during the week, is also offsetting this by granting the commercial rate.

AND so the Saenger Amusement Company has taken the question up with the public. Heralds have been distributed among the audiences at its theatres asking whether they resent motion picture matter being excluded from the newspapers during the week. It is reproduced here and its reading is well worth while.

The patron is invited to write to the local newspapers and tell them that this matter is desired and it tells them that if they and thousands of others tell the publishers that they want this matter they will get it. And that is right principle.

We hope that the people will respond and convince the newspapers.

But it's a sad state of affairs when the theatre has to go to the public to make the newspapers realize that interest and to make them know that the motion picture is today fighting shoulder and shoulder with Pershing in France.

It is also sadder to relate that this ruling of the publishers of New Orleans comes at the very moment that the theatres and the motion picture industry as a whole is giving every effort to the Liberty Loan—and that this is the very moment that the newspapers owe their most loyal co-operation.

Do You Resent?

DO you resent the ELIMINATION from the daily newspapers of the news of pictures being shown at the photoplay theatres? If you do, write the editor of your newspaper that you have missed this news and wish it to be included in his columns.

The Government of the United States of America, through the Committee on Public Information of which George Creel is chairman, says:

"THE SCREEN IS THE MEDIUM BY WHICH THE REAL NEWS, ALIVE AND IN THE MAKING, IS CONVEYED TO THE FAMILIES IN AMERICA—THEY ARE ALL WAITING FOR IT."

These words are significant. The Government views the screen as its most potent advisory agent to the populace at large and has enlisted its services on every occasion in which it has wished to enlighten its citizenry on matters tending to the one large end of WINNING THE WAR.

The screen speaks a UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE with UNMISTAKABLE FORCE. That is why the United States Government has listed the Motion Picture industry as ESSENTIAL—a classification, by the war, in contrast to that in which sports are listed.

It would seem, therefore, that the Government, in requesting the newspapers to limit the sizes of their editions, could not have intended an elimination of motion picture news items from the columns of newspapers—which construction has been placed upon the request by the press of New Orleans—when it did not intend or suggest a similar elimination of other dramatic news, which is also classed essential; or of sports, which are NOT classed as essential.

YOU are a motion picture patron. May we ask how many SPORTS you are interested in? Or how much interest you may take in MATTERS OF INTEREST SIXTY-THREE YEARS AGO? or other space-consuming articles which stare you in the face, but interest you NOT A WHIT?

The press of New Orleans has made the error of eliminating reviews and comments of current film productions. These, we sincerely believe, were of interest to YOU. The motion picture is the world's great recreation. You have a right to expect your newspaper to tell you a little of what's going on in the photoplay theatres. You CAN get this news. At your earliest convenience—RIGHT NOW, if possible, sit down and write a letter to the editor of your favorite newspaper and tell him that you miss the news of the photoplays and that you want him to print it. If you are not interested in the sporting page, tell him so. When he finds out that you and THOUSANDS OF OTHERS WHO WILL WRITE want the photoplay news, YOU WILL GET IT.

There are big things coming, things that you will not want to miss—some of them are GOVERNMENT FILMS—and you will know about them if you write the editor of your paper TO-DAY, RIGHT NOW.

Strand Theatre, New Orleans, Appeals to Public in Circulars

Your Idea and Ours

COLONIAL theatre, Indianapolis, missed its opportunity in advertising "The Talk of the Town." It did one thing right, and that was to play the name of the production strong and to feature the name of the star to a certain extent.

Now the Colonial has recently shown a desire to be a good advertiser, and though the space user, 5¼ inches across three columns, is comparatively small, it is large as far as most of the Indianapolis theatres are concerned. The designer has gone to the expense of having a specially drawn advertisement and has paid engraver charges. He has picked out one of the most attractive stills, but still, with all of that his work did not show up. Let's see what he could have done with the same material.

Suppose he had used 7¼ inches double column and had used the same figure of Miss Phillips with the background painted out, and then alongside this the name of the production in large letters, following with the name of the star. Then suppose he had followed up with one of the selling talks of the picture that we suggested last week in the Special Service Section. Then he would have brought out the attractiveness of Miss Phillips in her pose, he would have attracted more attention to the title, and he would have given a REASON why the person wanted to see this picture. And just a hint: Ben Day work is all right, but you have to use care with it if you want a half tone to stand out. In this display the half tone suffers badly.

Simple use of name and title are all right when you use them in advance. This is the way that the Superba theatre, Los Angeles, advertised the production four days in advance of its showing, and, too, 6½ inches double column to do it. And after this the theatre began to talk about the production itself. There's a whole lot of difference in a mere announcement such as this and in a selling argument that the Colonial should have tried to achieve.

To have ambition the "am" must be there.

THIS was evidently large space for the Colonial theatre, Toledo, O., to use. As the result the first thing that the designer of this display proceeded to do was to "fill her up." The first thing that strikes you is that the cuts were first

ALL NEXT WEEK Commencing SUNDAY (Tomorrow)
COLONIAL THEATER
Summit and Jackson Streets.
ALL NEXT WEEK Commencing SUNDAY (Tomorrow)
THE SECRET SERVICE sent "Mr. Logan" to smash an enemy plot! His sweetheart was led to believe that he was a traitor. He daringly rescues the girl from worse than death. WAS HE A SLACKER? See
TOM MIX IN "MR. LOGAN, U.S.A."
A William Fox First Run Feature
In which Grim Duty Outweighs the Call of Love.
ADDED ATTRACTIONS
ADMISSION—Daily Matinees, Special, All Seats 10c Nights, 15c and 25c.
SUNDAY—Main Floor, 25c, Balcony, 15c
COME EARLY OR YOU'LL STAND!
COMING to the Colonial Theatre Starts Week Sept. 15th—"The Caillaux Case" placed and then the writer proceeded to fill up the holes.

In the first place there are too many illustrations. We would have used the center one and would have made it larger. The selling point of this picture is on the feats that are performed by Tom Mix. The other two cuts mean nothing. Now directly under the name of the theatre we have the lines: "The Secret Service sent 'Mr. Logan' to smash an enemy plot. His sweetheart was led to believe he was a traitor. He daringly rescues the girl from worse than death." All very good, but then the writer adds the unnecessary "Was he a slacker?" There is nothing in the display telling of the stunts that Mix does. In fact, to pardon the pun, it is a very mixed up affair with no one thing standing out.

We fail to understand why the designer found it necessary to say in the two boxes at the top of the display "Commencing Sunday (tomorrow)".

HERE is a real use for a program—to get your intimate selling talk over to the public.

Now in a newspaper display you cannot go to the extent that you do in your house organ. In the daily paper you are always having to take into consideration the transient and the possible new patron. In the case of the program you base your selling talk on the theory that you are talking to one of your friends. That doesn't mean that you have to be flippant.

Now take this from the Auditorium, Coatesville, Pa., a theatre which is operated by the Y. M. C. A. This house is an institution. And therefore it says only "Introducing Lila Lee." Then there is a picture of her and a statement that this is her first time in any picture.

Now let's say first that several months ago we printed the program of this theatre as a model. It's because the theatre has advertised itself and when it puts its endorsement behind a picture. And right here it has done this in a clever way. It has simply said: "Here's Lila Lee. We've booked her pictures because we like her. Come on and see them, they're good."

And we'll bet that nine-tenths of the people that got this program received the same impression—and that they went to the theatre. You don't have to bay at the moon.

Let's all make this the Zero Hour—and GO OVER.

IN this quarter of a page display the Criterion theatre, Atlanta, Ga., shows what can be accomplished for a novelty by using various pictures of an attractive star. The main display is a scene from the picture, "Sauce for the Goose," and then we have in each corner a photograph of Miss Talmadge. These pictures with the pleasant expressions at once give the reader that this is a happy picture. The frame of mind is already there when one begins to read the small amount of matter that the advertisement does contain.

The general meat is in the announce-

What Live Wires are Doing

THIS WEEK
Criterion
Sauce For the Goose Served a Butter Pill For the Gander
Clever, Captivating, Capricious
CONSTANCE TALMADGE
In a Nifty Comedy From the Play
"SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE"
She Who Laughs Last—The Goose Mixes Sauce For the Gander

ment "Clever, Captivating, Capricious Constance Talmadge in a nifty comedy from the play, 'Sauce for the Goose,'" and then we have at top and bottom of the display two little phrases about the picture. And yet there is not a thing revealed about the story. In our opinion this advertisement embraces all the necessary selling matter and in addition has the quality of keeping up the suspense and appealing to the curiosity of the patrons, there being just enough said to let the public know that this is one of the sort of pictures in which Miss Talmadge is always at her best.

How much better this strong display on the personality of the star than devoting the corners to box effects about the picture or the rest of the program, a practice so common, but, thank Heaven, slowly dying out.

Advertising is the short way around the corners to true progressiveness.

WHETHER it is because they can't get them, or whether they won't abandon that Gothic type and heavy black borders to permit the proper use of cuts we confess that we do not know, but we do know that it is mighty seldom that one of the Duluth, Minn., theatres shows a tendency to use timely cuts. Now this advertisement could have been improved a hundred per cent. by doubling the space and using one of the striking cuts supplied by Jewel

ONE WEEK—STARTS TODAY
REX
SEE THE REAL KAISER
FOOL UNLEASHING AMERICANS—NOW WATCH 'EM GO!
AND ALL HELL CAN'T STOP THEM!
CRASHING THROUGH TO BERLIN
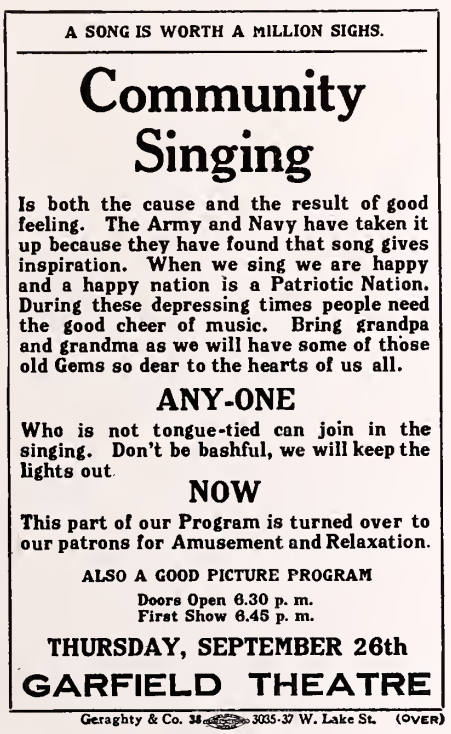
Whole Colossal Drama of the War and illustrated in the special service section of the NEWS for September 28.

Yet the theatre has put the selling argument over in fair shape in spite of the handicap that he has given himself. The Rex theatre has used six inches across three columns and has done well in playing up the title and then in calling attention to what the patron will see, making each one of these sentences impress upon the reader that this is an actual picture of the war, but we would have brought out stronger the lines that he has at the bottom of the display: "Not a Love Sick Story, Not a Fiction Tale—the Whole Colossal Drama of the War." He has also coupled the appearance of the field with the fact that "Foch Unleashes the Americans," etc., a very timely reference.

If you are merely "showing a picture" your patrons will soon cut the emphasis on the "show" part.

CHARLES H. RYAN, manager of the Garfield theatre, Chicago, is always doing things a little differently from the other fellow. Now community singing is not an especially new thing, for it is being tried in various sections of the country, but Mr. Ryan has made just a "little different"



A SONG IS WORTH A MILLION SIGHS.
Community Singing
Is both the cause and the result of good feeling. The Army and Navy have taken it up because they have found that song gives inspiration. When we sing we are happy and a happy nation is a Patriotic Nation. During these depressing times people need the good cheer of music. Bring grandpa and grandma as we will have some of those old Gems so dear to the hearts of us all.
ANY-ONE
Who is not tongue-tied can join in the singing. Don't be bashful, we will keep the lights out
NOW
This part of our Program is turned over to our patrons for Amusement and Relaxation.
ALSO A GOOD PICTURE PROGRAM
Doors Open 6.30 p. m.
First Show 6.45 p. m.
THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 26th
GARFIELD THEATRE
Geraghty & Co. 3035-37 W. Lake St. (OVER) appeal to the public to get the people to his theatre, which is a popular neighborhood house.

He has issued a special card which he encloses with his weekly program. On one side it is captioned "Can You Sing?" and then he gives the Thursday (the day he has community singing) program of pictures. The other side we have reproduced here. It is catchy and will get attention and bring results.

STANDARD
PROSPECT AND EAST 8TH
MABEL NORMAND
"Peck's Bad Girl"
You will like Mabel Normand better than ever as PAW PECK'S irrepressible daughter-the girl who set a village by the ears.

YOU almost find yourself laughing before you start to the theatre. That is the effect that this two column, ten inch advertisement of the Standard theatre, Cleveland, O., gives you. And it is all done because of the title of the picture and the cut that is used with it. A person "dressed" in a barrel suggests only one thing, and we know immediately that there's all sorts of almost slap-stick fun in this picture even if the Standard hadn't told us that she was to be seen in this picture as an irrepressible daughter of Paw Peck.

Now in a larger advertisement from Levy's Coliseum, Seattle, this same cut is used and the designer has seen fit to draw in a larger figure of Mabel riding a velocipede. The only effect it has is to weaken the half tone of the girl in the barrel. Then we have the lines: "Mabel is up to her old tricks again. She would just as soon break up a prayer meeting in Yankstown as a crap game, and spilling the beans on the plans of a gang of crooks—it was just as easy as shooting fish."

The difference between the two advertisements is that one invites you to come and laugh and the other tries to be funny in itself. And there's quite a difference.

A few sledge hammer blows of true exploitation will silence all the knockers in your midst.

Seeing Rialto and Rivoli with Rothapfel

HOW to put the Liberty Loan punches fully into your Animated magazines is being shown at both the Rialto and the Rivoli theatres this week. You have probably read the articles about the use of pictures for patriotic propaganda that Mr. Rothapfel has written for this department, but here you have the demonstration of how the wildest enthusiasm can be aroused. And so it is no wonder that at the evening performances the various speakers who appear are getting the greatest results.

Every theatre in the country is expected to do its part in this drive that will edge the retreating Hun further on his way. It does not mean that you have to provide elaborate stage settings, that you have to hunt up special acts or anything of that sort. If you get the right sort of spirit in almost the simplest thing, you get the appeal over, and we know of no way to do it more convincingly than in the use of news reels—a specialty in which Rothapfel has set a high mark.

During this campaign you want to get the Liberty Loan punch in your presentation, but if you try to build the whole thing around this plea to buy bonds, if you make that the obvious and the one purpose, you are not going to achieve your purpose and you may keep patrons away from our theatre. But if you get that appeal over and that appeal is made in the midst of a presentation that is delighting you, the appeal will be all the more convincing and all the more fruitful. And that is one of the reasons the performances at both theatres this week are arranged to have the "pleasant" run all the way through them. Given the frame of mind, the heart will quickly respond.

"Il Guarany," played with the lights all in gold, is the brilliant overture at the Rialto this week, and it is followed by one of the new Robert Bruce-Educational scenics, "Tales of the Tall Timbers," a picture made in the forests of Northeastern California and Idaho. The music adds a great deal to the enjoyment of the picture, starting with "La Source" and following through with "Scene Alsatienne," "Mountain Music" No. 1, "In Holland" No. 2, and "Woodland Sketches."

Lights are gold and the Byzantine setting is used for Miss Josephine Forsythe singing "Loch Lomon" and "Comin' Through the Rye," and then we get into the Animated, which brings the Liberty Loan punch right in at the start. It is a Hearst-Pathe picture of sailors in New York "clearing the decks" for the new drive, and there we have a bugle call and then "We'll Wollop the Kaiser," which continues until the Gaumont airship pictures, when the tune turns to "Liberty Lads," continuing to Screen Telegram pictures of flying over Chicago. Now here a clever effect is secured by the music stopping and the only sounds being a reproduction of the sound of the motors.

Screen Telegram shows pictures of Chauncey Depew presenting to Peekskill the statue of himself, and at first the music of "Banquettes," and then as the former Senator begins to talk there's an intimate touch added with "What's the Matter with Father?" Gaumont shows pictures of the visit of Prince Axel of Denmark to Washington and we have "Denmark" played once through, and then with the pilgrimage to Mount Vernon "Carry Me Back to Old Virginy," with the chorus only played twice, and then "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground."

Hearst-Pathe then comes in with pictures of the G. A. R. reunion in Portland, and with the piccolo and drum corps effect we have "Memories of the War." King George reviews some of his forces and then the men who are serving behind the fighting men, and during this the music is "Admirals All." Hearst-Pathe pictures show the visit of Secretary Daniels to the tent colony of a naval hospital in New York and "When You Come Back" accompanies these. With the title "Back from Chateau Thierry" the wounded men arise and salute and the music turns into the "Marine Hymn" until the souvenirs from the battle front, and then "When You Come Back" is used again. Letter B of "College Life" is used with pictures of President Wilson voting at Princeton and the audience goes wild with applause.

"When Yankee Doodle Learns to Parley Vous" is used for Hearst-Pathe pictures of the city of Lyons changing the name of a bridge to "Wilson," and then, under the caption "All Roads Lead to the Same Goal," we have pictures of preparing for the bombardment of Metz. Then comes the roll of drums, and this dies away and there is no music. We have pictures of the upstanding American boys who took so many Huns and then a flash of the throng of prisoners that they took. The audience is at the height of enthusiasm at this time and fully ready to get the appeal of the Liberty Loan cartoon that ends the weekly. This is "A Total Eclipse," with the Kaiser contemplating his dream of world dominion which is eclipsed by the Fourth Liberty Loan as "Pop Goes the Weazel" is played, and then as the figure of Uncle Sam fades in over that of the Kaiser the piccolos take up the refrain of "Yankee Doodle."

And you can bet that everyone is ready to buy Liberty Bonds—until it hurts.

Martin Brefel sings the aria from "Artha" and then we have the feature, and its patriotic touch adds no little to the appeal that is started in the Animated, for William S. Hart in "Border Wireless" frustrates a German spy plot and finally, after winning the girl, winds up in the army. The audience, when we saw the performance, greeted the title of the picture with great applause and was enthusiastic throughout its presentation. "Dearie" is the theme used for this first of the real love stories in which Hart has appeared, but most of the other music consists of the Rothapfel numbered selections. "Wyoming Days," "Dream Kisses," "Dainty Daffodils" and "Longing" are some of the other selections that are used. Use of the various cavalry calls during the scenes in which the soldiers are shown adds no little to the thrills.

The orchestra then takes up selections from "Alma, Where Do You Live?" and the audience is almost humming and then drifts right into "Happy Hooligan" in "A Bold Bad Man." Certainly everyone goes away from the theatre laughing, but the patriotic thrill has not been forgotten. No. While one leaves the theatre in better humor with most of the world, he has just a little stronger conviction that the Hun must no longer be.

At the Rivoli, too, there is a patriotic thrill in the feature, and a bigger one in the Animated.

"Carmen" selections form the overture there and then comes one of the most beautiful scenics that we have ever seen, "Raindrops," one of the Van Scoy Post-Pathe productions. Here, as in the case of others of the pictures that have been shown, verse is used for the titles. The picture opens with photographs of the falling rain, and then the development goes through night effects of raining, into the dripping trees, to the brook, into the river and finally to the ocean. Music for this is "Scene Poetique," "Spinning Wheel," and "Mountain Music."

THEY GET IT

Liberty Loan Pictures Are Doing Their Work Well

IF you have failed to show the Liberty Loan pictures at your theatre, you haven't been doing your duty for the Government or for yourself.

At the Rothapfel theatres a different one of these pictures has been shown each day this week and will continue to be shown until the campaign comes to an end.

They are getting torrents of applause and they are inspiring the people to buy more bonds, especially in cases like this where where there is a patriotic spirit running through the program.

And the comment that one hears in these theatres is mighty well worth while. People who did not stop to think that the motion picture is doing a great deal to help the winning of the war now realize it and they talk about it. That sort of advertising is mighty good for the motion picture in general and for your theatre in particular.

Be sure you make your theatre an essential during this drive.

One of the most beautiful effects yet achieved at the Rivoli is shown in the first musical number, John Hendricks singing "Asleep in the Deep." Before the curtains part we have the chime effects on the organ and then there is revealed to us a scene at the bottom of the sea where John Wenger has fantastically pictured the deep sea monsters and the tribute that Neptune has claimed. Small transparent balloons in the background create the effect of the bubbling water and the singer attired as a fisherman completes the picture.

Now the Animated at the Rivoli is very short, but the wallop is certainly there. The general title of the Official War Review is "Where the Allies Fight," and the first pictures shown are in the Balkans, where a view of Gen. D'Espere, the Allied commander, gets a great hand from the audience. Then follow pictures of President Poincare reviewing the Czecho-Slovaks and the spectators are again aroused to great heights at the pictures of the sturdy, marching men. We go thence to Italy, where we are shown the tunnels through the snow and the difficulties our Latin allies are overcoming. At the opening of the Animated "Queen of Sheba" is first used, and then there follows through "King of Lahore" until we have the title "And in France," where we are shown some of the second million of Americans to reach the battle line, and the music turns into "Flag of Victory," which is played once through, followed by "There's a Million Heroes."

First we have pictures of the hundreds and hundreds of men marching straight at the camera, and the way that audience shouts its approval you would think that a record for enthusiasm had been made—but wait till you get to the end. We are shown the Yanks chasing the Crown Prince out of Chateau Thierry and the bridge that they blew up and then the American engineers building a pontoon and the artillery galloping across.

With "Indian Allegro" played we have pictures of the camouflaged men creeping out on scout duty, and the final scene comes with Gen. Haig ordering a battery and there is a bugle call and the orchestra bursts into "Light Horse, Forward." We see them sweep into a river and the members of the orchestra shout, but one hardly knows that the shouts come from them, for scores in the audience take to the cry and there is the most wonderful display of unrestrained enthusiasm that you have ever known.

Yes, we are all ready to buy Liberty Bonds after that.

For the second musical feature the house is all dark except for a faint blue in the dome, and as the stage curtains part we are shown Miss Leeta Corder seated and a harpist on the stage. Only curtain effects are used, with a single evergreen at the side.

Then comes the feature, Dorothy Gish in "Battling Jane," and here again we have just enough of the war spirit brought in to make this the sort of a feature that will have a mighty good effect during the loan drive. Here, again, the music adds a great deal to the enjoyment of the picture. First we have "Idylle Sauvage" and then "Any Time Is Kissing Time," the chorus being played twice, and then comes in the theme "Purity." There is a comic touch added by the music with the introduction of the deaf grocer when we have "By Heck." During the scenes where the players are rehearsing "The Vampire's Revenge" we get "Admiration," played grotesque, molto glissando, twice through. After that we have "Tete a Tete" and "Midsummer," and then there is another clever touch added as Dorothy goes to the cradle and the chorus of "After the Ball" is played. Still another one that gets close to the audience comes with the title "You Made Me What I Am Today" and the organ plays "The Curse of an Aching Heart." "The Girl I Left Behind Me" is the music for the final scenes, which show the girl pushing the baby cart in the parade, accompanied by her soldier lover.

Here is the war map of Sid Laurence, manager of the Majestic Gardens, Grand Rapids, of which we told you. He keeps it right up to the minute

Then the Rivoli orchestra almost outdoes itself with the rendition of "In the Clock Store," a novelty which reproduces all the noises that one might expect to hear in a room where there were scores of all sorts of clocks. The applause is great, and the drummers, who are responsible for many of the effects, take a special bow.

And to finish up this perfect bill there is another one of those delightful O. Henry pictures, "Tobin's Palm." These have become a regular thing at the Rivoli and certainly there have been no pictures, regardless of their length, shown at that house which are enjoyed more. And Mr. Rothapfel knows that these are really features, for there is as much attention given to the music as in any of the biggest productions.

"Irish Selections" are used for the introduction as an oboe solo, and then we have the theme "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," and following through this is "I'm Hearin' from Erin," with the theme returning as the girl says farewell to her Irish home. The theme returns with the girl's arrival in this country, and then on the release of the youth we have "Mother of Mine," and then we get to Coney Island and "Yah de Dah"; counterpointed with the theme is used "Globe Trotter" as the pair enter the "Virginia Reel," then "Bon Ton," without the introduction, and "Oasis," played burlesque, for the visit to the fortune teller. When the youth encounters the "black man" we get Prior's "Fox Trot," and "Take Me Home" as Tobin meets the man with the crooked nose, and finally the return to the theme at the end when he finds his lost sweetheart.

And, believe us, we have never seen a theme make a greater hit with an audience. The people were humming it all over the house and as it was repeated the humming became louder and louder until at times it almost burst into actual song. The crowds were not only delighted, but they did not try to hide that delight.

They went away with a laugh, but there was also a little sob in their hearts. And there was a feeling that we were all the better for having seen these pictures and that we would go out into this world of ours and do more things that the real portion of the world—that lays outside the grasp of the Hun—shall be better for it.

We almost forgot to say that there is a Liberty Loan picture being shown at the Rialto and the Rivoli each day at all performances. Starting off the drive was Charles Chaplin in "The Bond."

Yes, there's real patriotism in the bills at the two houses this week. There's no blatant appeal, but there's the spirit in the presentations that opens our hearts, stirs our patriotism and makes us willing to give to the utmost.

And this is the sort that Uncle Sam wants you to create in your theatre.

It not only helps your theatre, but it works to make the world safe.

How Noble Used the Front of Columbia Theatre, Portland, and a Clever Piece of Automobile Advertising

"Lightless Nights" Spurring the Exhibitors to Use the Fronts of Their Theatres in Daylight

"LIGHTLESS nights have really helped business." That report has come to the MOTION PICTURE NEWS from a number of sources, the exhibitors reporting that many people who spent a large portion of the evenings studying the shop windows now come directly to the photoplay house.

It is altogether probable that there will be even stricter limits placed on the use of lighting during the winter so far as the fronts of theatres are concerned, and in that case the exhibitor will have to do more daylight advertising. From several showmen comes the advice that exhibitors should do more to use the fronts of their houses, not so much in lobby displays as in daylight signs.

Naturally most of the electric signs are designed for their effect at night and it is very hard to read the greater portion of them in the daytime. It is then that the greater number of people are passing the theatre, but they are not hunting for the theatre's bill which they will do at night when they are theatre bound, and therefore more striking displays have to be used in daytime to get the attention.

Several of the larger theatres have been most successful in using daylight designs in connection with the signs. The one that is illustrated here was used by P. E. Noble at the Columbia theatre, Portland, Ore. When Mr. Noble was manager of the American theatre at Butte, Montana, he made full use of the outside of his house and credits that with no small portion of the business that he did. In this case he simply employed the face of a clock with the hands pointing to nine o'clock and the name of Charles Ray to advertise "The Nine O'Clock Town."

In addition to this he used a design built on the rear portion of a roadster which was something on the same order. It showed the face of a clock and had the face of Ray and of his leading woman and on the pedestal he advertised the name of the picture and the theatre. And this was in addition to the big newspaper advertising that was done, for all the Jensen and von Herberg houses believe in liberal use of newspaper space.

George J. Schade, of Sandusky, O., is another one who believes in using the front of his house for advertising. Over the marquis he uses special display on the bigger pictures and finds out that these cause a great deal of talk and increase the receipts. A considerable portion of these displays are made from the cut outs of the larger paper supplied by the exchanges, but even if an original design is used the expense is not great.

Up until recently the most of the posters that were supplied were worth little because they did not get the big punch of the production, but the tendency now is to use less detail and larger figures so that this can be utilized in front of the house. When these are mounted on board and set directly across the street they are pretty sure to attract general attraction, but the name of the star and the title of the picture should be displayed also so as to be sure to get the punch over.

Cut outs of the stars can also be used to good effect in this way. Several of the companies are now supplying stock paper which includes big heads of the stars and when these are mounted on board and the reading matter painted in they become attractive. In cases where the title of the picture is the selling argument any picture that fits in with the title can be used to get the punch over, so long as they are not really misleading.

But of course the best display of this sort that you can use is the sort that will stop the people to look at your lobby and find out exactly what the display does mean. Take the one used by Noble on the Charles Ray picture: Now the meaning of the clock would not be plain unless one also knew the title of the picture of which it is so suggestive, but a display of that sort does arouse the curiosity and makes the people stop and look into your lobby and if you have, either in the shape of your stills or other attractive display, matter that backs up your "flash" you will get them into the theatre.

Offsetting the handicaps of the lightless nights we have the satisfaction of knowing that this is making all of us think and that we are planning more and more how we can exploit the pictures and put over the selling thing. And when this is the result those lightless nights are not such a bad thing after all.

NOW IS THE TIME

Really Doing Things with Pictures Will Make Up for Past Mistakes

ONE exhibitor writes, asking that his name be not used: "I have increased my receipts ten per cent since I have commenced trying to do things with pictures, and next I expect to change my program only twice a week instead of three times as I am doing now. I find that if I study the possibilities of pictures I can get more out of them, even if I cannot have a big orchestra and elaborate stage settings. The study of pictures has a big effect even on my conversation with the patrons. I find that I can talk the pictures sincerely and with enthusiasm and that what I say now carries weight."

That's mighty true. There's lots of difference in simply putting the picture on and letting it get the business that will come. The MOTION PICTURE NEWS is now giving you full advance information about pictures in the Complete Plan Book, and we want to record here what more and more you are doing to get the most out of productions.

Every time you really try to do something with a picture it helps your business; and every time you tell what you have done here it spurs others along to real accomplishments.

Rialto Theatre, Medford, Ore., Decorated for the Run of "The Unbeliever"

Medford Theatre Sets High Mark for Smaller Cities in Its Exploitation of "Unbeliever"

HERE is another theatre in a small city that is doing things and that is finding that it pays in box-office returns to invest money in newspaper advertising and in lobby displays. It is the Rialto, Medford, Ore., which is owned by A. J. Moran and H. L. Mercy. Though located in a city of 12,490 it is one of the most beautiful theatres in Oregon.

"The Unbeliever" was the attraction on the first anniversary of the theatre, and space which ranged up to seventeen inches across the newspaper was used. Big advertising was employed during and before the three-day run of the picture. The Seattle George Kleine office supplied the Rialto with the mats of the illustrations which were used in G. F. Fullerton's advertising for the Coliseum, Seattle.

In addition there was an attractive lobby display which featured a huge American shield, with the title of the picture across it. American flags and scenes from the production supplied the rest of the decoration. One hundred men in uniform were used on the streets of Medford to help advertise the production, and the net result of all this exploitation was that the theatre "stood 'em up" for the three days.

In the larger advertising that was used the Rialto took occasion to call attention to what it has done during the past year, and this was such a splendid selling talk for the house itself that we are reproducing it here:

"The Rialto theatre concludes today its first anniversary of public entertainment for the people of southern Oregon. It has been a year of triumph for this modern playhouse, notwithstanding the general confusion and uncertainty in the economic and industrial world and the trials necessarily injected into the first year's experience of any new amusement institution. The gratifying measure of success attained and enjoyed by its proprietors presages another year of greater triumph in every way.

"A year ago today the Rialto theatre presented to the local public Rex Beach's most virile and astounding photoplay, 'The Barrier.' Tomorrow, the first day of its second year, it will present the Edison super-feature of romance and action, 'The Unbeliever.' Between these two marvelous productions it has given its patrons the best pictures obtainable during the period of its matriculation. While making for itself a prominent place, not only among the thousands of patrons of the motion picture business, but among the exchanges with whom its contracts are made for film sensations, it has, on occasions, been compelled to yield to the exigencies of the situation in selecting its productions; but, having firmly established its leading place with film exchanges, it now enters upon a program and policy to give the local world the supreme triumphs in production by the big world outside.

"By a clean, candid and persistent desire to give to local amusement patrons the best productions exhibited in the great cities, it has frequently been compelled to ignore the incident of profit, directly; but, indirectly, increased patronage has shown that that policy will ultimately produce the reward it deserves. Therefore, our chief design has been to establish firmly the high character of the Rialto as a theatre conducted for a high-class clientelle.

"The success thus deserved and attained has enabled us to transmit to the war-tax department of the Federal Government large sums of money paid to the Rialto box-office as war tax. In addition to the satisfaction thus enjoyed, our patrons have realized the gratification that comes in 'picture contact' with the great forces that are now re-making the world."

That the Rialto is not afraid to show big pictures right along is proved by the fact that this picture was followed up with "Hearts of the World" and then "Heart of the Sunset." Although the city has been depleted of one-third of its population as the result of the call to the army and the shipyards, the Rialto is doing big business because of the intelligent way that it is exploiting its worth-while attractions.

By-the-way, the Rialto has one of the most attractive name plates that we have seen. It consists of the name of the theatre through which runs an arrow bearing the slogan, "Where Everybody Goes."

This Small City Theatre is Not Afraid to Advertise

Paper Invites Its Readers to Criticize Photoplays

Here is a plan that will create new interest in the newspaper and the motion picture. It is a new instance of co-operation between the newspaper and the photoplay houses and will result in increased business to all concerned wherever it is tried.

The Sunday Detroit News on its motion picture pages has invited its readers to review the leading first-run pictures and to send in a 150-word review before Thursday of each week. In the following Sunday's issue the prize winners will appear.

Two pictures will be offered for criticism each week. The first two were both Fox productions which were being shown at local theatres, "Salome" and "The Prussian Cur."

Famous Players Issues Biography Booklet

Famous Players-Lasky has just issued a ninety-six page booklet giving the biographies of the various stars and the officials of that company. Copies of it will be sent to exhibitors and newspapers. The suggestion is made to the showmen that they will find this valuable in preparing special stories about the players and that the newspapers will be able to get all the data about any Famous Players-Lasky star here.

Striking but Simple was the Lobby Display this Week at the Broadway Theatre. M. Kashin Pictures at Either Side James Lackaye and Harold Lockwood and the Big Scene Across the Top Shows Them Shaking Hands, the Title in Large Letters

Liberty Sing is Latest of Community Ideas; Audience Get Lots of Fun Out of Novel Plan

THE American public likes to sing. Community singing proves it. In Chicago and in a number of other cities the singers have been furnished by the ctiy authorities. In Detroit the idea was introduced for the first time in a theatre to a regular theatre audienee—an audience that had paid its way in—by Henry Santrey.

Mr. Santrey is the soloist at the Regent and he took it up with thc management. A name was suggested, the "Liberty Sing," and this has been followed out in all the advertising and publieity. Santrey introdueed it during his third week's engagement, but the week previously, during a song contest, when he had eight singers lined up across the stage, he invited everyone to join them in singing "Keep the Home Fires Burning."

Santrey starts his Liberty Sing without any great amount of striving, but before it is over he has his coat off and is running baek and forth all on a platform across the front of the auditorium where the public is seated. Santrey first sings a verse and chorus. Then the words of the ehorus are thrown on the screen and he teaches it line by line. At first the audienee did not join in very strongly, but by introducing some eomedy songs, such as the stuttering "K-K-Katy," and by getting one side of the house to sing against the other, he developed it. Now he will even divide the house into four sections. He has the married women sing one line and the single ladies the next, and so on.

The audience enjoys it quite as much as Santrey, with the result that the Victory Sing is now in its fourth week. It has been found that the new songs are the hardest to "put over." The audience likes the old ballads, and the old war-time songs,

Henry Santrey

"Marehing Through Georgia," "Good Bye, Dolly Gray," and others that they know.

McGee Arranges Setting for "America's Answer"

"America's Answer" is to be shown for two weeks in Detroit and Manager M. W. McGee of the Majestic theatre, and a master in the art of presentation of pictures, promises something unusual when they are shown. Mr. McGee has just returned to Detroit from New York and while here he had several eonferences with the Division of Films about the pictures after having seen them himself.

Horater Plans Record Campaign on "America's Answer"

H. C. Horater, manager of the Alhambra theatre, Toledo, Ohio, plans his biggest exploitation eampaign, and therefore his city's record on "America's Answer," the run of which is to start on October 20. He deelarcs that he is not going to be satisfied unless he sells every seat at every showing, and the preparations that he is making promise that he will accomplish just that result.

Before releasing the picture to the general public, Mr. Horater is going to give a privatc screening of the picture. To this srecning he is going to invite the Toledo Chamber of Commeree members, members of the Red Cross, officials of the Thrift Stamp campaign, leaders of the Liberty Loan Drive, and members of local civic organizations.

"Every dollar taken in at the Alhambra theatre during my run of 'America's Answer' will be invested in Thrift Stamps and Liberty Bonds," Mr. Horater has announced. He also stated that he will issue prizes consisting of Liberty Bonds of the Fourth issue, to teams selling the largest amounts of admission tickets. In addition to newspaper and billboard advertising, Mr. Horater has sent in an order for a tremendous amount of paper from the local exchange. He has ordered 300 one sheets, 100 three sheets, 50 twenty-four sheets, 12 press sheets, stills and lobby displays.

Fox Bulletin Devotes Space to Exhibitor Service

Fox Film Corporation has inaugurated a service department as a feature of the Exhibitors' Bulletin, the house organ of that company. In the current issue there are five pages of this matter giving advice on how to exhibit pictures and telling experienees of various exhibitors in handling Fox productions.

The bulletin this month contains forty-four pages. The cover design, done in brown on a heavy buff paper, is a drawing of Gladys Broekwell. Two pages are devoted to "18 to 45," the draft picture produced by Fox; two pages are given to "Why I Would Not Marry," the morality play which Mr. Fox has now in work, and two pages are given to Evelyn Nesbitt and "The Woman Who Gave."

Portrait Paints Attract New Crowds to Theatre

Joseph Grossman, manager of the Standard theatre, Cleveland, Ohio, has some very artistic three-sheets in his lobby. They are hand-painted pictures, done on sanitas by a young Cleveland woman whose specialty is portrait painting. She is Miss Irene Balazs, of 9001 Buckeye Road. Miss Balazs uses a still as a model. This she enlarges and colors in a most attractive manner.

Mr. Grossman is running the Goldwyn program this season and the beautiful Goldwyn stars give her plenty of inspiration for making pictures to attract the eye. Her pieture for "The Kingdom of Youth" showed Madge Kennedy, the very spirit of youth, leaning against a blossoming cherry tree. Next to her stood a little Nipponese lady dressed in brilliant colors.

Japanese Stage Setting at Majestic Theatre, Detroit, on "His Birthright"

Singers and Stage Settings Playing a Big Part In Presentation of Pictures at the Majestic, Detroit

ACCORDING to M. W. McGee, managing director of the Majestic theatre in Detroit, the successful presentation of any picture comes from the atmosphere surrounding it, such as the music and the scenic effects. A case in point is his recent offering of Sessue Hayakawa in "His Birthright."

This was a Japanese play, so Mr. McGee had his trio of singers who, locally, are known as the Majestic Trio, select some Japanese numbers. There was a love song in the original tongue, to give it variety and then "Good-By, Cherry Blossom." Jean De Caussin, the scenic artist, arranged a stage setting in harmony with the occasion. And the big orchestra played the overture to "Madame Butterfly."

After a short organ number the overture was offered. This was followed by the topical review, provided by the two Pathe weeklies, and, locally, a Ford Motor Company educational picture and the trio. Immediately after the trio sang, a paraphrase on "Pastorale," arranged for violin, harp, 'cello and organ was played, and when this was well under way the house lights were dimmed, the curtain raised on the stage and "His Birthright" was shown. Through the showing of the feature both orchestra and organist vied with each other in playing music that fitted the picture.

The arrangement of the Majestic on the stage is new this season. The orchestra is seated at the front of the stage in a setting that carries out the decorations of the auditorium, even to the boxes. Above the heads of players and directors and directly at their rear is a second stage with its own curtain. On this stage the singers appear. The screen is lowered and masked in before the curtain to the second stage is raised. This second stage permits of special settings without interfering with the musicians.

One of the features of the showing of "His Birthright" was the introduction of a number of young women, who appeared in costume and danced while the trio sang. They were advertised as "Geisha girls."

Theatre Advertises Greeting to Its New Rival

One of the most unusual events in the history of motion pictures has just been chronicled in Winnipeg with the reopening of the remodelled Province theatre. Just before the opening the Dominion, which is owned by different interests, used newspaper space to say:

"An appreciation. The Dominion theatre extends to the Province theatre its heartiest congratulations on the opening of their splendid new theatre—a theatre that is a monument to the worth of Winnipeg labor and a theatre which is at once a credit to the owners, the city and the entire Northwest.

"The Dominion theatre at this time desires to express its sincere appreciation of the high standing of the Province theatre and its wishes for their continued success.

"THE DOMINION THEATRE."

Naturally that advertisement made a marked impression. And it's good business, for it is always proven that the opening of a new high-class theatre never hurts the established ones of high class, provided the older ones have not gone back.

Are You Taking Advantage of Gasless Sundays in Advertising?

ARE you taking any advantage of the "gasless" Sundays to bring business to your theatre that day? From present prospects they are likely to continue for the duration of the war, and if you are not using efforts to bring that additional business to your theatre you are overlooking an opportunity.

At least one newspaper in the country is calling attention to these. The Cleveland Press each Saturday is running a strip across the top of its motion picture advertising, saying, "Spend autoless Sunday at your favorite photoplay theatre. Programme for Saturday, (autoless) Sunday and the coming week." That is certainly bringing it close home, and if you can get yours newspaper to run a similar heading it will attract much attention.

This was the idea of E. C. Fielder, special representative of Paralta Pictures in Cleveland, Ohio. He followed this plan up with a notice in every announcement that he sent out to exhibitors. In a footnote to his letters, he said: "What are you doing to increase your patronage on gasless Sundays?" It was only by constant hammering, and untiring application that Fielder finally succeeded in securing the co-operation of newspapers and exhibitors, both of whom were satisfied to let well enough alone, instead of taking advantage of a golden opportunity to build up a new patronage.

How McCormick brings out the "Gasless Sunday" idea in his newspaper advertising

S. Barret McCormick is calling attention to it in his Sunday advertising in what he calls a "Circle-ette." These are run at the bottom of the advertisement in connection with the standard name plate of the theatre, and they will not be missed by any one.

Don't build your advertising directly on the "gasless" day because some may think that you are trying to take advantage of a Government saving measure, but bring it in to your advertisement incidentally. This is likely to pull people to your theatre who have been spending Sundays in their machines and who are practical strangers to the photoplay theatre.

Chart System About Only Ray of Hope Found

(Continued from page 2350)

Coliseum, Frankford and Tioga. The Stanley theatre is the largest in the city, with a seating capacity of 1,680, and the Strand and Imperial are next, with 1,300 each. The Victoria has 1,000, the Palace 900, the Arcadia 650, and the Locust 550.

Now when we come to the advertising that is done we find a terrible slump from what we would expect. There are thirty-seven theatres that advertise regularly daily and Sunday in the Evening Ledger and the Sunday Public Ledger. The Evening Bulletin carries the advertising of twenty-nine houses and the other papers get scarcely any advertising.

And what advertising! Look at the page advertisement for the Sunday Ledger that we have reproduced and you will find there almost a column of display devoted to nine of the Stanley theatres. In another column we find 3½ inches devoted to four other theatres, which are all under the same management, and then we are done. The legitimate advertising absolutely dominates the page and certainly one gets the impression that the motion picture does not amount to much in Philadelphia. There is a combination layout on stage and screen on another page, but only brief reading notices, and then the "chart," which is repeated from the Saturday Evening Ledger, is chucked away on the "want ad" page. Now daily we find the Stanley, Palace, Arcadia, Victoria, Regent, Crosskeys and Broadway theatre using a total of a little more than eight inches in the amusement column, and on another page we have small advertisements of twenty-six Stanley houses, eleven United and four others.

The Press devotes a four-column layout to motion pictures and gives the advertising house press notices.

We have reproduced the advertising page of the Sunday Press to give you an idea of the conglomeration of advertising. The motion picture advertising is about the same as that of the Ledger. The Record carried a general amusement page, with the motion pictures occupying the smallest spaces in the layout and getting little representation on the page.

The North American gives a separate layout to motion pictures and actually prints nearly a column of screen gossip—certainly a welcome thing to see after hunting through the Philadelphia papers for something that looks like real motion picture news.

The Evening Ledger on Saturday gives a three-column layout on screen players at the bottom of the amusement page, used the chart there and gives brief paragraphs about the attractions for the week. The Bulletin has a fair Saturday page. The Star prints no motion picture matter, neither does it carry any advertising. It is only a four-page sheet.

All of the papers give reviews of the pictures on Tuesday, the North American devoting separate heads to the advertising theatres. The Press gives four columns to the reviews, and one motion picture, Geraldine Farrar in "Turn of the Wheel," gets a two-head. It carries some of the Stanley theatre advertising, the same as the Daily Ledger and two others. The Record gives a column to photoplay reviews, the Bulletin a column and a half to amusements in general, the Inquirer three columns to amusements, and the Public Ledger one and the Evening Ledger one.

In short, on advertising Philadelphia is about as bad as it could be. We thought that we were justified in holding New York back as the worst of the specimens, but we were mistaken, for at least a few of the houses here have learned to advertise properly and there are some real displays in the papers, and a few of the dailies are showing a trace of a desire to co-operate.

But for the few instances that we have noted we cannot find any evidence of that in Philadelphia. We know that it is hard work in the biggest cities to expect the smaller theatres to advertise, but certainly there can be no excuse for the papers as a whole remaining practically silent on photoplay matter.

It sure is commercial in the city of brotherly love so far as motion pieture eo-operation is concerned.

Empire theatre, New York City, used this attractive lobby decoration on "For Husbands Only." The hole, with its suggestion "Look," did the work, and hundreds who did read the illuminated sign inside the house, which read "Bring your wife and whole family to see, etc." The "house" stood eight feet high and cost $3

Wounded Soldiers Draw Crowds to Theatre

During the showing of "To Hell With the Kaiser" at the Park theatre, Boston, Manager Thomas D. Soriero attracted much attention to his house by inviting some fifty American soldier wounded who had just returned from France to be his guests. The soldiers were conveyed from the Boston hospital to the theatre in Red Cross ambulances, and the result was that the streets were crowded with cheering throngs.

The man who gets there first not only gets the edge but what's inside of it.

Liberty Loan Spectacle Arranged by Miss Flossie A. Jones at Waukesha, Wis.

Theatre Puts Over Big Liberty Loan Spectacle and Citizens Join in to Make It Great Success

THAT a theatre manager may use "home talent" to put over a big patriotic spectacle and that such efforts will increase the popularity of the theatre and gain the heartiest co-operation, has just been proven by a Liberty Loan appeal that has been put over by Miss Flossie Jones at Waukesha, Wis.

Waukesha followed a different method from most communities to "go over the top." There was an advance campaign of Four-Minute speakers in the theatres, and then one day was set aside for all to register in their wards, stating how many Liberty Bonds they had bought or why they had bought none. This was to be the smashing wind-up for the campaign. So Miss Jones arranged her appeal on the evening prceding the registration day.

Members of the state guard and some of the most prominent people in the city took part in the tableaux, and the reception that it was given broke records for enthusiasm. Preceding the tableaux two girls sang "Your Boy and My Boy," and then there was a patriotic speech by a woman speaker, and almost at the end of her speech the curtain was raised and there appeared the illustration of "Why we must buy bonds."

There was a daring combination used in the setting, one portion of it showing a home scene with all serene, and at the left a battlefield strung with wire and American boys in khaki going over the top. A sailor and a soldier at either side gave added meaning to the pleas that we have to support the boys over there if we are to keep our homes safe.

Just before the curtain came down a young lady stepped forward and sang "When the Boys Come Marching Home," which gave a striking finish.

No small part of the success of the presentation was due to the lighting plan that was followed. These were so arranged that there would be a heavy shadow separating the exterior and interior scenes. Blue lights were used in the border and foots in front of the trench scenes and white in the foots in front of the home scene, with an old-rose shaded lamp supplying the rest of the lighting. The entire auditorium was in darkness during the presentation and the entire effect gave one the impression that it was all a dream.

Not only from the point of view of patriotism it pays to do things like this, because of the stronger standing that it is sure to give your theatre in every community. And though Miss Jones controls all of the theatres, the very things that she does provides the reason. There is no need for other theatres when one manages his own, so that it is really the institution.

And to show the appreciation of the community, Miss Jones was presented with a certificate as Theatre Member of the Four-Minute Men of the Committee on Public Informtion, and in addition to this the local board of the Four-Minute workers adopted the following resolution:

"In view of the masterful manner in which all matters pertaining to the prosecution of the war have been presented to the people of Waukesha through the medium of the moving picture shows, therefore be it

"Resolved, That we accord to Miss Flossie A. Jones the honor due her from her superb management and wonderful success in the work."

WORK OR FIGHT?

What Are You Doing For Your Fellow Exhibitors Day by Day?

WE are all of us mighty familiar with the "Work or Fight" order that has gone out from the Government. It means that we have to make our business useful or get over into the trenches and spear a few Huns—the more the merrier.

Now let's carry the comparison a little further and suppose that the motion picture industry as a whole ordered you to work or fight on behalf of that industry. What are you doing for it? Are you in Lawrence, N. C., thinking anything about the success of the exhibitor out in Beattie, Kansas?

If the other fellow in the other town doesn't make money and pay his film rental that selfsame film rental is going to cost you more. It's a business proposition to put your good ideas forward so that they will do others good, if for a selfish reason—because it benefits you. Every hint that is given in exploitation, in business getting results in better pictures for you and more opportunities to make money.

Consider that when we ask you to make this the forum for the good ideas that you have. YOU'RE HELPING YOURSELF.

Live News from the Producers

Pathe Salesmen at War Dinner

Vice-President Paul Brunet Delivers a "Save and Serve" Speech at Pathe Convention Dinner

THE following is the speech of Mr. Paul Brunet, Vice-President and General Manager of Pathe, delivered at the War Dinner of the Pathe Save and Serve Convention at Delmonico's Thursday, September 26th:

"This Council of War with our Sales Force was held for discussion of the ways and means of effecting a maximum of serving and saving of the kind by which the Cinema Corps, as a unit, can help win the war. We have told one another how we have served and what we have saved up to now, and we have given one another helpful suggestions for serving still further and for saving still more. That's our job, gentlemen—the job of War-saving and War-serving. And that's how we got the name for this convention of our thirty Field Marshals from thirty picture Battle Fronts, namely—the Pathe Serve and Save Convention.

"Our Sales Force is our Field Army. The men who distribute our war reels are the men who keep the war wheels turning on the Firing Line of the Cinema Unit. The war over there will be won by force of sales—sales of our film of patriotism—sales of our features of propaganda. For these war pictures inspire the nation to Serve and Save in money and materials and man-power over here, in order to save lives over there.

"Every time you, of the Sales Force, place a patriotic reel of celluloid in front of the public eye, you help to slay the Hunnish dragon of Bloodlust, Landlust and World Destruction. Helpful propaganda of World construction is our ammunition. Celluloid reels are our cannon. And the men of the Sales Force are the gunners that fire the shells of Patriotic Service into the ranks of Slackerism and help to spur the nation to carry on and on to Victory.

"'Keep the Home Wheels Turning'—that's our slogan. The wheels of the Chariot of Victory turn slowly—but turn exceedingly sure. You, of the Sales Force, have hitched yourselves to the Chariot of Victory in the harness of Service and Saving. And you are keeping the Chariot wheels turning by keeping our patriotic reels turning in the twenty thousand projection rooms of the nation.

"We must not 'kid' ourselves, gentlemen, that this matter of Serving and Saving in the motion picture field is a matter optional with us. Nor is it a matter of volunteering such service and such serving, according to our convenience. We've got to do this Serving and Saving stuff at our greatest inconvenience and do it cheerfully, even if inconveniently. We've got to Serve and Save in our industry, gentlemen—or we've got to goose-step.

"The goose-step is the shackle of Kaiserism on the legs of an enslaved Nation. The Goose-step is the Hun-step devised for his uniformed slaves by the Imperial Goose that laid the rotten egg of Kultur. By serving and saving in the motion picture industry, and through Serve and Save Unionism in all industries, we will hamstring the enslaved Teutonic legs that walk the goose-step. And, with the Civilized Sword of Culture, we will cleave and smash the Germanized monster of Kultur.

"And now—just a brief review, gentlemen, of our own campaign against the kultur of barbarism. Serve and Save! What exactly do we in the motion picture fie'd save? And how exactly do we serve? Serve and Save! I will mention saving first. Because the very act of saving in itself constitutes an act of service. And he serves best who also saves.

"The slogan 'Business as usual' is a 'busted' theory. We're not doing business as usual. We're doing business in an absolutely unusual way and under unusual conditions. We're doing business the best we can do it consistently with war serving and war saving.

"We have effected a saving in the three larger ways in which saving is most needed for war purposes. We have saved: First, in money needed for the country's war chest—for the expenses of the war and for loans to our Allies. Second, in materials needed for the conduct of the war. Third, in man-power needed for winning the war.

Leah Baird, Featured in "Wolves of Kultur," Western Photoplay Serial Distributed by Pathe

And this saving of money, materials and man-power over here means saving human lives over there.

"The first consideration in war saving is the saving in the form of the dollar. Every dollar saved in the purchase of unessential material is an added dollar available for Liberty Bonds, Red Cross, War Savings Stamps and the myriad other forms in which a dollar can contribute to winning the war for freedom.

"The Government asks us to save money. Why? The Government estimated for war expenses and loans to our Allies a minimum total of Forty Billions. The raising of forty billions need not scare us. The nation's total annual income is about that figure—Forty Billions! And our total national wealth is 250 billions. To devote enough of our forty billion annual income to war expenses and loans to our Allies is our national task. A national task is merely the sum of the performance of that task by the individuals that compose that nation. So we are each of us individually responsible for saving the money for the forthcoming Fourth Loan—and for Fifth, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth loans—if these further loans become necessary to the completion of our task.

"We have saved material needed for the war by cutting down the extent of our product and by shortening our program. We have achieved this reduction in output and this abbreviating of program by producing quality rather than quantity.

"In considering the kinds of saved material that will help win the war—take the matter of coal—of fuel. Countless thousands of tons of coal will be saved this winter by the transfer of moving picture companies from the east coast to the sunshine and warmth of Southern California—Pathe companies being among the first to be thus transferred. We have already sent to California all our companies excepting one. And our lightless Eastern studios bear testimony of the coal we have saved for greater use in keeping ever in motion the bridge of ships across the Atlantic.

"By cutting down our production to quality only we have effected a tremendous saving in the use of chemicals that can be used in the conduct of the war. We are saving, also, gasoline—as requested by the Government—by cutting down to the minimum the use of motor cars in making pictures and by refraining from making pictures that call for use of airplanes. For the army needs gasoline more than we do.

"And then—the elimination of waste. In our home office and in every one of our thirty branch offices we have declared war—declared war on leakage of money—on waste of materials and on over-production. We're on the job of fighting

(Continued on page 2373)

Earle Rodney for Leads in Christie Comedies

Earle Rodney has been engaged to play juvenile leads in Christie Comedies and will work with Ethel Lynn at the Christie studio. Mr. Rodney played opposite Enid Bennett in recent Ince features.

Marvel Rae, one of the Mack Sennett bathing girls, has been added to the Christie Company and Russ Dudley, a juvenile lead, has also been engaged. All the released Christie Comedies featuring Bobby Vernon have been given first run showings at the Strand theatre in New York. Al Christie has completed the direction of Ethel Lynn and "Smiling" Billy Mason in the final Christie comedy in which Billy Mason will appear. It is entitled "Why Husbands Flirt."

A bronze tablet decorates the lobby of the Christie studio office. It reads: "We are proud of the men from this organization who are defending the cause of God, Humanity and America."

Charles H. Christie went to San Francisco this week on business for the Christie Film Company. He managed to get away between the Monday and Friday night meetings of the Fourth Liberty Loan Committee, of which he is the chairman for the motion picture industry.

General Claims Success for Charley Fang

Since the initial releases of two Charley Fang comedy productions several weeks ago, the venture of presenting a Chinese player in a humorous role turns out to have been well justified.

Comments from General Film exchanges indicate that the Oriental star in his quaint characterizations is pleasing audiences. Each of the Charley Fang subjects consists of a one-reel human interest story in which the principal roles are of straight comedy type. In fact the stories incline to the comedy-drama disc of the line at times. Such well known players as Jules Cowles and Paul Pantzer are in the casts.

The two favorite Charley Fang comedies appear to be "Fang's Fate and Fortune" and "Parson Pepp."

"Over the Rhine" to Be Released November 1

Work on Fred J. Balshofer's production, "Over the Rhine," continues at the company studios in Hollywood, California, and it is expected the picture will be ready for release by November 1st.

No method of distribution has as yet been decided upon, although two large distributing organizations are said to have made overtures towards securing the picture.

Select Pictures Has Produced What It Has Announced As a Great Special Production, Called "The One Woman," from the Story by Thomas Dixon. Reginald Barker Directed

Refilming Pictures Is Claimed Innovation

The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has started a movement that bids fair to establish a new field in the world of motion pictures. It is the refilming of former screen productions. Just as on the stage there are frequently given revivals of plays that have been unusually successful with new appointments and improved facilities in stagecraft, so, it is declared, will be the trend of the big motion picture producers.

Within a month the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has announced the refilming of two productions that several years ago were staged before the camera, i. e., "The Squaw Man" and "Arizona." The new version of "The Squaw Man" is now being staged by Cecil B. De Mille, who incidentally filmed this well-known play for the first time, some four years ago.

"Arizona," now being produced by Douglas Fairbanks as his latest starring vehicle for Artcraft, was pictured several years ago by Augustus Thomas, author of the famous play.

In connection with this idea of retaking pictures already screened, Jesse L. Lasky, Vice-President of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in charge of productions, said: "With the improved facilities for motion picture production, subjects that were filmed years ago can now be put on in such a way that the two photoplays will be about as different as night and day."

New Rainbow Comedies in Many Lively Topics

Rainbow Comedies, the new single-reel comedy brand for General Film release, has started off at a fast gait, the subjects being of an especially spirited nature.

"My Lady's Slipper," the current Rainbow Comedy, deals with a widow and a widower, neighbors, one owning a cat and the other a dog, and when the animals quarrel, the owners follow suit.

Joseph Richmond directed this picture for the United States Motion Picture Corporation, Lillian Vera and Eddie Boulden being the featured players.

Select Acquires "One Woman"

Will Distribute Thomas Dixon's "The One Woman" With Special Exploitation—Special Campaign Started

SELECT PICTURES CORPORATION announces that it has acquired for distribution through its exchanges the great special attraction, "The One Woman," the latest photoplay by Thomas Dixon, author of "The Birth of a Nation."

"The One Woman" is based on Mr. Dixon's famous novel of the same name, which, when published a few years ago, is reported to have attained one of the most sensational successes ever scored by a work of fiction in this country, its edition running into the hundred thousands.

Weight is given to this announcement by Select Pictures Corporation, who unhesitatingly present "The One Woman" as one of the most momentous special attractions of recent years.

The Select company will bring to the distribution of "The One Woman" a special campaign of advertising and publicity commensurate with the value of the production. Not only will the picture consistently be kept to the front in the trade journals, but other channels of advertising will be utilized. A striking twenty-four sheet, printed in six colors, is now coming from the press and will soon make its appearance on well selected stands in prominent locations.

Other posters are being prepared with great care and at extra expense, all the paper for this subject being printed in six colors. It is the purpose of the Select organization to put its entire force at the command of wide-awake exhibitors in order that the full box office possibilities of this big special attraction may be fully realized.

In selecting a man to direct "The One Woman," the producers were guided by the desire to secure a person who would combine technical genius with a complete intellectual grasp of the material contained in Thomas Dixon's remarkable book. Such a man was finally discovered in the person of Reginald Barker. Prior to his connection with this production, Barker directed "Carmen of the Klondyke."

The players who appear in the Thomas Dixon special make up a cast that may be adequately described as "all star." Lawson Butt takes the part of Frank Gordon, the radical minister. Clara Williams, who played the title role in "Carmen of the Klondyke," adds an even deeper note to her delineation of the character of Kate Ransom.

The part of Mark Overman, financial power, friend and later rival of Gordon for the mercurial affections of Kate Ransom, is portrayed by Herschel Mayall, and Adda Gleason, whose acting of the title part in "Ramona," endeared her to film fans, appears as Ruth Gordon.

Coldwey Joins L-Ko

Anthony W. Coldwey, well known for his scenario work with the Sennet comedies and formerly with the American, is now in charge of the scenario department of the L-Ko Company.

Realizing the necessity of a well-knit story, the L-Ko has adopted the policy of producing comedies with funny situations and "gags," but all built around the main theme of the story, as, even in comedies, "the story is the thing."

Madlaine Traverse Has Signed to Star for William Fox

Edward Dillon and James Kirkwood, Who Have Signed to Direct Features Under the William Fox Banner

Fox Reviews Standard Pictures

William Fox Promises Bigger and Better Productions Under His Standard Brand for Ensuing Second Season

ONE year ago William Fox started Standard Pictures with the announcement that they were to be the very best that money and brains could produce. That this promise has been kept to the letter is declared to be attested by the universal popularity which these pictures now enjoy, as well as by the tremendous number of bookings with which they open the new season.

A resume of the first year of Standard Pictures made recently in the Fox offices brought to light some interesting statistics. Four directors have produced the majority of the twenty-six Standard Picture releases of the first year—J. Gordon Edwards, Frank Lloyd, R. A. Walsh and Richard Stanton.

Mr. Edwards has six Standard Pictures to his credit in the first year. They are "Camille," "Rose of Blood," "Dubarry," "The Forbidden Path," "The Soul of Buddha," "Under the Yoke."

Mr. Lloyd's score was four, three starring William Farnum, and one, "The Blindness of Divorce," enacted by an all-star cast. The Farnum pictures are "When a Man Sees Red," "Heart of a Lion" and "True Blue."

"The Honor System," asserted to be one of the greatest money-makers ever released in the history of the films, was directed by R. A. Walsh. Mr. Walsh directed two of last year's Standard pictures, the other being "Woman and the Law," another picture which is said to have achieved a signal success.

The other director who has a large share in the production of Standard Pictures is Richard Stanton. Mr. Stanton's first Standard Picture was "The Spy," which set a mark for itself as the first as well as one of the best pictures that have been brought forth by the war. "Cheating the Public" was another Stanton picture, and he also directed William Farnum in "Rough and Ready."

Notwithstanding the artistic and financial success which Standard Pictures have made in their first year, William Fox is not content to rest on his laurels. For the season of 1918-19 he plans to strengthen Standard Pictures with new stars, better stories and with an even more elaborate scale of production.

To this end he has already added another star to the group, Evelyn Nesbit, one of the most advertised women in the world and an actress of ability.

Miss Nesbit has just signed a contract to produce a number of Standard Pictures. She this week completed her first in the series, "The Woman Who Gave," described as a startling story of an artist's model who hated her own beauty. In the supporting cast is Miss Nesbit's son, Russell Thaw.

In her next release, "Keep Smiling," Elinor Field, star of Mutual-Strand comedies, applies female strategy to get out of a situation which is not entirely pleasing to her.

Three Hundred Actors at World Studios

October is a busy month at the studio of World Pictures at Fort Lee. Over three hundred actors are employed in the picturizing of four photoplays that will be completed this month.

Tefft Johnson begins his second picture for the company by directing June Elvidge, Frank Mayo and Madge Evans heading a large cast in "The Love Defender." The story is by Maravene Thompson, scenarioized by George DuBois Proctor.

"The Hand Invisible," an original story by Wallace Clifton with the continuity fabricated by Clara S. Berenger, will serve as a vehicle for Montagu Love. Travers Vale will superintend the making of it into a photoplay. Mr. Love will be supported by Muriel Ostriche, Virginia Hammond, George Le Guere, Marguerite Gale, William Sorrelle, Martha Mansfield, Kate Lester and others.

Louise Huff will devote her talents to the making of "The Little Intruder." Oscar Apfel will direct. Forrest Halsey, a well known magazine contributor, is responsible for the story. Miss Huff will be supported by George MacQuarrie, Johnnie Hines, Christine Mayo, Stuart Holmes and Albert Hart.

Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley will spend the month of October at work on "Hit or Miss." Harry O. Hoyt and Hamilton Smith are credited with the authorship. Dell Anderson will oversee the making of the picture. Prominent in the supporting company are Jack Drumier, Robert Walker, George Sutton and Escamillio Fernandez.

Gillstrom Goes to Coast

Arvid E. Gillstrom, who recently joined the William Fox forces as a director and completed his first pictures, will leave for the Pacific Coast in the next ten days as the vanguard of the Fox producing forces, who in the near future will leave for Hollywood to make Fox films.

This migration is in compliance with the request of the Fuel Administration that all film companies move to the Pacific coast in order to conserve fuel.

Emmy Wehlen and Olive Tell, Among Metro's Most Popular Stars

William Desmond Joins Jesse D. Hampton

A new and concrete evidence that the Robertson-Cole Company proposes actively to enter the domestic field of film distribution is shown by the fact that this exporting film has contracted to handle in this country as well as in the foreign field the eight-feature films that Jesse D. Hampton will make with his new star, William Desmond.

Heretofore the activities of the Robertson-Cole organization have been chiefly confined to foreign countries.

William Desmond for some years has been an Ince and Triangle star. When Mr. Ince was at the producing head of the New York motion picture company he engaged Desmond as leading actor, and with the advent of the Triangle Corporation Desmond was advanced to stellar distinction.

Cast Selected for Next Russell Feature

Henry King has selected the supporting cast of his next William Russell feature for the American Film Company, "Where the West Begins," and started actual production on the picture this week.

It is another comedy-drama, just the type that Russell is proving so popular in, and King expects it to turn out even better than his previous Russell successes.

Eileen Percy, "Doug" Fairbanks' former leading lady, is playing the feminine lead.

Allison Finishes One

May Allison has finished her work before the camera in "Kate, of Kentucky," the production following "The Return of Mary" and "The Testing of Mildred Vane" at Metro's West Coast studios in Hollywood. The star was directed by Robert Thornby and the camera man was William E. Fildew.

Margarita Fisher, in "The Mantle of Charity," American Production

Twenty-four-sheet Used by Pathe for "Wolves of Kultur," Starring Leah Baird

"Wolves of Kultur" Wins Praise

Trade Showing of New Pathe Serial Well Received—Patriotic Organizations Expected to Assist Exhibitors Promote

WHEN "Wolves of Kultur" is released by Pathe on October 20 it will have thousands of patriotic persons throughout the land interested to witness its unfolding, through the hearty co-operation of the Committee of National Defense in various States, according to report, and this fifteen-episode serial, produced by Western Photoplays, Inc., while containing all the elements of popular entertainment is said to be an effective revelation of the operations of the secret enemies still at work at plot and propaganda in this country.

The exhibitors' showing of the first episodes of the serial on the New York Theatre Roof on Tuesday last was attended by representatives of all of the patriotic societies in New York, and they were said to be warm in praise of the story and what it promises.

Paul Brunet, vice president and general manager of Pathe, has been in correspondence for some time with the heads of the State branches of the Council of National Defense and is gratified by the ready and hearty manner in which they have promised to bring the power and influence of their organizations in recommending that "Wolves of Kultur" should be seen by every person who loyally stands behind the pushing of the war to ultimate victory.

The most characteristic letter promising co-operation is from Lafayette Young, former United States Senator and chairman of the Iowa Council:

"I wish to thank you for the work being done by your organization in the promotion of the patriotic picture play," he writes. "I think these plays have done great good. They reach everybody. I shall be glad to see 'Wolves of Kultur' when it makes its appearance.

"While I am chairman of the Iowa Council of National Defense I am also publisher of the Des Moines Capital, a daily newspaper, and have given some attention to the motion picture.

"I appreciate the 'Official War Review,' which you are sending out, also. It is a splendid piece of work. I wish you every success."

Lloyd M. Hopper, chairman of the Alabama Council, at Montgomery, heartily indorses the project and promises statewide co-operation.

Wyoming promises, through Maurice Goshen, acting chairman, to give active publicity aids and to tell the patriotic purpose of "Wolves of Kultur."

Joseph Hauser, secretary of the Idaho organization, promises: "Our publicity man will give it the widest possible advertisement through sources at our disposal."

Kerrigan Makes Drama of Alaska

At the Jesse D. Hampton studios, at Los Angeles, J. Warren Kerrigan is actively engaged upon his next screen effort, another Kenneth B. Clarke story, and a story quite out of the ordinary. It is a tale that has Alaska for its locale. It has to do with three men who live together in a one-room cabin throughout the long northern winter, and is titled "The Unfinished Story." Following this he will be presented in "Come Again, Smith," a comedy.

Ora Carew, New Leading Woman With Wallace Reid in Paramount Pictures

A Hint of the Stupendous Nature of the Settings for "Salome," William Fox Production, Is Gained by the "Still" at the Left. In the Center Is Tom Mix, in "Treat 'Em Rough." At the Right Is a Moment in "The Woman Who Gave," With Evelyn Nesbit

Farnum Scores Heavily in Latest Fox Film

AS an instance of the success which "Riders of the Purple Sage" is meeting, the Fox Film Corporation in a statement this week cites a letter received from a Fox representative in Los Angeles, who saw the Farnum play both at the Kenema theatre in Los Angeles and also at the Rialto theatre in San Francisco.

"Every house record at the Rialto," states the writer, "was broken the first day, Sunday, and on Monday afternoon the Rialto did two and a half times more business than it ever did on a Monday afternoon. Monday night, when Mr. Farnum made two personal appearances, the sidewalk was black with people. At 9 o'clock I heard one woman say she had been there since 7 o'clock and was going home because she could not get in. Probably two thousand persons were turned away.

"I saw the 'Riders' again Saturday night at the Kenema in Los Angeles, and when I arrived there at 8 o'clock only a few gallery seats were empty, and there was a line waiting for those, and besides there were two other lines waiting for orchestra and the better balcony seats.

"Up in San Francisco at the Rialto Mr. Lurie told me his telephone was busy with the question, 'When are you going to show "The Rainbow Trail?"' 'Riders of the Purple Sage' certainly is a winner."

Earle Williams, Vitagrapher Star, Being Shown the Intricacies of a New Camera by Lieut. Evans, the Los Angeles Photographer

Petrova's Fifth Reaches Printing Stage

The negative of the fifth special Petrova production, "The Panther Woman," has been finally cut and edited, and is now in the hands of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, for the purpose of printing the necessary copies for distribution. The utmost care and attention have been given to the editing of this negative, inasmuch as the production is considered by all concerned as the most important in which Madame Petrova has appeared up to date. It marks the fifth presentation of the star under her own banner.

The First National Exhibitors' Circuit, which has distributed the four previous Petrova vehicles, namely, "Daughter of Destiny," "The Light Within," "The Life Mask" and "Tempered Steel," will also handle the marketing arrangements for "The Panther Woman."

World Has Success in Post Card Campaign

At the suggestion of the Division of Films of the Committee on Public Information, World Pictures, which has been awarded the distribution of "America's Answer"—the second official government war picture—is conducting a post card campaign to determine what theatres in the United States desire to show this patriotic production.

Though the campaign has been in progress only a few days, the responses already received are simply enormous, according to report. It looks as though every theatre in the country wants to give its patrons the opportunity of seeing this attraction. This, by the way, is said to be the first mail sales campaign of the sort ever undertaken in the picture industry.

"Anti-Yellow Dog Club" Publishes Appeal

A half column story, sent out broadcast and published in daily and weekly papers throughout the country, came from the headquarters of the "Anti-Yellow Dog Club" and will excite great interest in the forthcoming Jewel production, which is titled "The Yellow Dog," and is brimfull of the propaganda advocated so strenuously by the "Anti-Yellow Dog Clubs." The newspaper story runs as follows:

THE GENUINE "YELLOW PERIL"

NEW BRANDS DESCRIBED BY FOUNDER OF YELLOW DOG DRIVE

Disrespectors of Government Security Salesmen Are Yellow Dogs

New York, September 28

The only real "yellow peril" that confronts America at the present time is from that type of citizen that has a Charlotte Russe for a backbone, and that the peril is very real and very yellow and very varied in species is indicated by the fact that the headquarters of the Anti-Yellow Dog Clubs, with branches in every city in the United States, has found it necessary to add to the original definitions of yellow dogism.

Henry Irving Dodge, founder of the Nation-wide movement to suppress verbally distributed enemy propaganda and who personally made arrangements for the entire finances of the drive, has found that there are other types of mongrel patriots beside those he originally described, and word has been sent to the two million members of the Anti-Yellow Dog Clubs to be on the look-out for the newest crop of "yellow dogs."

In an interview given to the press, Mr. Dodge says that when he founded the national Anti-Yellow Dog Clubs and pointed the way to combat the activities of the secret agents of the Kaiser, he believed he had covered every form of conscious and sub-conscious disloyalty in the ten definitions describing yellow dogism but, he says, that phases of yellow dogism develop so rapidly that one must be constantly on the look-out in order to be one hundred per cent American.

Mr. Dodge's definition describing the newest species of Yellow Dogs, brings the nation-wide campaign against them right up to the minute. The eight new types are:—

Anyone who shows disrespect to a Liberty Bond or Thrift Stamp salesman is a Yellow Dog.

Anyone who unnecessarily uses gasoline on gasless day is a Yellow Dog.

Anyone who dishonestly claims exemption from the draft is a Yellow Dog.

Anyone who growls about war taxes is a Yellow Dog.

The rent pirate is a Yellow Dog.

Anyone who adds to the burden by trying to make big profits out of the war is a Yellow Dog.

Anyone who over-eats is a stupid Yellow Dog—he's cheating himself.

All Yellow Dogs are contemptible, but the worst are those that hoard food.

Blackton Engages Count Pompeo Pieri

It was at Mr. Blackton's suggestion that Count Pieri became interested in motion pictures, and his engagement for work on "The Battle Cry of Liberty" is the result. This feature, which is to be produced by Commodore Blackton from a story written by Charles T. Dazey and himself, will be the successor of the producer's earlier success, "The Battle Cry of Peace." "The Common Cause," the current Blackton special under the auspices of the British-Canadian Recruiting Mission, is rapidly nearing completion, and date of distribution by Vitagraph will shortly be announced.

Vangie Valentine's First Picture in Work

A massive production, a large cast and an army of extras combine to make Harold J. Binney a busy man, for he is presenting as well as directing Vangie Valentine's first production, which was written especiallly for her by George Edwardes-Hall.

The story, which is said to be exceptionally powerful, is constructed upon unconventional lines, and is expected to create much discussion. It will be released through W. L. Sherry Service some time in November.

Big Cast Complete for "Sylvia on a Spree"

The cast has been completed for Emmy Wehlen's next Metro production, "Sylvia on a Spree," now in preparation at the Metro studio under the direction of Harry L. Franklin. The star, of course, is cast in the leading role of Sylvia Fairponts, and W. I. Percival will be seen as Jack Bradley, the fiance whom she requires to take her on the spree in question.

Geraldine Farrar, With Secretary and Mrs. Wm. McAdoo, at the Opening of the Fourth Liberty Loan Bond Campaign in Washington

Cast for "Wilson or the Kaiser?"

Screen Classics Chooses Popular Players for the Coming Super-Feature —Henry Kolker Gets a Chief Part

"EVERY member a star" is the slogan of Director Charles Miller in regard to the big multiple-reel Screen Classics, Inc., patriotic production, "Wilson or the Kaiser?" now in process of production, under the personal supervision of Maxwell Karger, its author. One of the two name-parts has already been chosen, as Henry Kolker will play the Kaiser, and an actor of attainments and ability to play the part of President Wilson is now being sought.

Henry Kolker has recently been associated with Albert Capellani in the direction of productions starring Mme. Nazimova, and has obtained a leave of absence from the Nazimova organization in order to appear in "Wilson or the Kaiser?" Mr. Kolker has recently appeared in leading roles in such Metro pictures as "Social Hypocrites," with May Allison; "The House of Mirth," with an all-star cast, including Katharine Harris Barrymore; and "The Shell Game," with Emmy Wehlen.

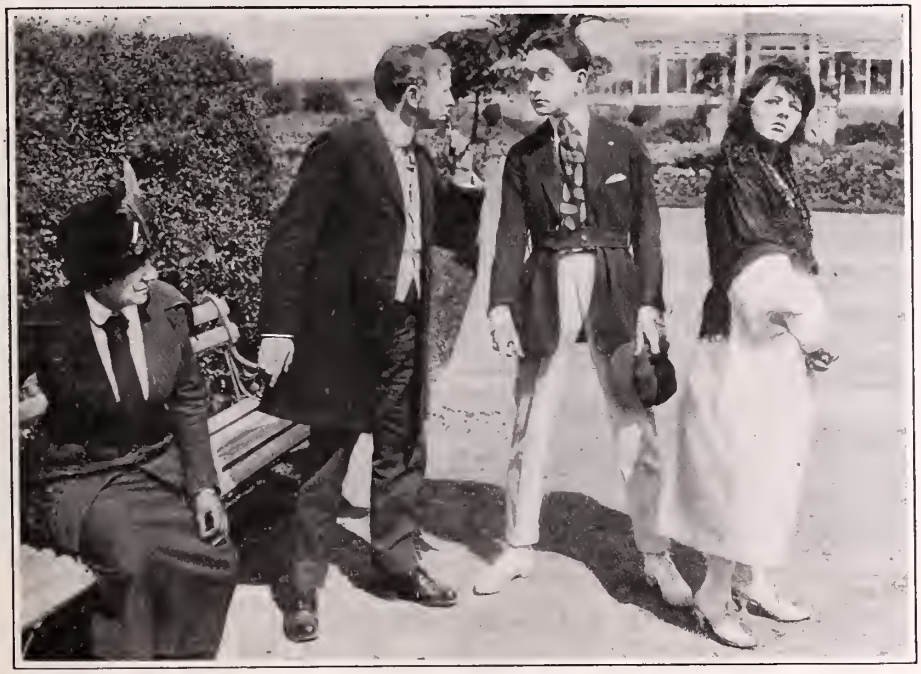
The engagement of Creighton Hale as the young Alsatian hero, Conrad Le Brett, has already been announced. Earl Schenck, who appeared as the German Crown Prince in the Screen Classics super-feature, "To Hell With the Kaiser," has been selected to play Lieut. Ober, the arch-villain of "Wilson or the Kaiser?"

Florence Short is one of the important players chosen by Director Miller for "Wilson or the Kaiser?" Miss Short will play Elaine, a Belgian woman, a role of powerful dramatic opportunities.

Joseph Kilgour will play the part of the hated von Bissing, who will go down in history not as a great general, but as the murderer of Nurse Edith Cavell.

E. J. Connelly was the star of Metro's picture version of George Ade's "Marse Covington"; he was Dr. Zulph in the serial, "The Great Secret"; and he played Griswold in "Toys of Fate," with Mme. Nazimova. In "Wilson or the Kaiser?" he has the part of old Le Brett, grandfather of the hero.

Baby Ivy Ward will be seen as a tiny Belgian, the little daughter of Elaine. The part calls for strong emotional ability on the part of the child, a power she displayed fully in "Draft 258." Margaret Aston, a grandnicce of the original Margaret Aston, who was a nurse associated with Florence Nightingale at the time of the Crimean War, will play Edith Cavell.



"How She Hated Men" Is the Title of the Current Rainbow Comedy Which Is Being Distributed by General Film

Program News on Page 2384

You are not giving — you are being offered a privilege to subscribe to the Fourth Liberty Loan

You are not giving — you are being offered a privilege to subscribe to the Fourth Liberty Loan

The more YOU read these advertisements the more useful to YOU we can make the "NEWS"

First Choice of America's first run Houses

LYONS MORAN

STAR COMEDIES

Latest Release

"The Price of a Rotten Time"

BOOK THRU NEAREST UNIVERSAL EXCHANGE OR UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING Co.
CARL LAEMMLE, President
1600 BROADWAY, N.Y.

You are not giving — you are being offered a privilege to subscribe to the Fourth Liberty Loan

Pathe Salesmen at War Dinner

(Continued from page 2364)

extravagance and halting the profiteer. We're on the job of serving and saving one hundred per cent.

"The first thing we did was to eliminate the cash waste. A wasted dollar, like an idle dollar, is a slacker dollar. We have converted our slacker dollars into patriotic dollars through reduction in the amount of purchase of material that can be used in the conduct of the war. We, of Pathe, have cut out the fuss, feathers, furbelows, trimmings and vanities of our business. We have eliminated the merely ornamental stuff—and are down to the rock bed of utility. Every dollar wasted on unessential material seems one dollar's worth less of bullets and shells for shattering Kultur.

"On the other hand, every reel of patriotic film that turns in the projection rooms of the country is a war wheel turning for the victorious armies of Liberty. And now—a word as to how we serve.

"In every war drive we play our part not only as couriers spreading the news; not only as a nation-wide Bureau of Intelligence for twenty millions of the public every day and night, but also as heavy contributors to the drives, in the form of cash and personal service. Thus we have helped the drives for War Savings Stamps; the drives for the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A.; the drives for Liberty Loans. And in every one of these drives each reel of ours turning in a projection room is a driving wheel in the great engine of war.

"We assist the drives, too, in supplying slides and space in our weekly topical films and other films—space devoted to information and inspiration relating to the drive of the hour. We serve by inspiring the service of others. We serve by issuing films that are in themselves an inspiration to the public to jump in and do something.

"We serve—by helping to sustain the national morale. Our News Weekly is a booster. All the war films we issue are boosters. Our advertising and publicity boosts. And when you boost morale, you boost victory. It is often said that we are behind our sublime Allies in their determination to win the war—meaning that we are backing them up. We must make the propaganda in our films show that we are not behind our Allies in this great work—not merely backing them up—but are shoulder to shoulder with them—crying not only 'Carry on'—but crying 'Come on.'

"We serve—even in our advertising and publicity, in much of which there is a patriotic note. When we issued 'The Fourth of July in France' we put out an artistic Liberty boosting poster that was, and still is, to thousands a reminder that doing one's bit is not enough, but that each one must do his most. We serve—because every time one of the sales force puts into motion in a projection room a patriotic war reel he reels the Huns back another step toward Berlin.

"Our battle-cry here at home is Economy. Our password—Efficiency. It is because of our efficiency in saving and serving that our industry was declared an essential industry by the President of the United States.

"To save and serve is every man's job, gentlemen, and it's a man's size job. It's our job—the entire nation's job—to serve and save. And you are here tonight—all of you—because you are all on the job. And because you are on this job, gentlemen of the sales force, you are helping the whole world to keep the flags of free peoples flying at the mastheads of Liberty.

"Our save and serve convention is nearly over. Tonight we adjourn. And the thirty field marshals of our sales force will return to the first line trenches of the moving picture battlefields, heartened in serving and encouraged in saving as the resu't of this Serve and Save Convention. Gentlemen of the sales force, in your service and your saving may you, each and all, win a place in the Cinema's Legion of Honor.

"And now, gentlemen, here are many colors—yet those who serve under them serve but one cause—These are the colors that have never run. And as long as you and I are properly on the great big job of serving and saving, each in our own way, and each to his limit of self-denial and sacrifice, none of these colors will ever run.

"Gentlemen, I give you our colors and the colors of our valiant Allies, and the Commander-in-Chief of our own Army and Navy, President Wilson!"

Picturesqueness Uppermost

Picturesqueness is said to be the strongest note in "The Hell Cat," Geraldine Farrar's next Goldwyn picture—picturesqueness and a powerful elemental appeal. Free and untrammeled by the conventions of society, Geraldine Farrar, as Pancha O'Brien, lives and loves and hates with magnificent abandon.

George Larkin Is Flirting With Death Via the Rope Necktie in "The Border Raiders," a Pathe Feature

First National Makes Statement

J. D. Williams Makes Statement Anent the Intermittent Releases of Chaplin Comedies and Attributes It to Desire of Comedian to Produce Limit of Capability

MANAGER WILLIAMS is quoted as follows regarding the Chaplin story published last week:

"We are issuing from our offices this week a statement explaining the policy which has been responsible for the intermittent release of Chaplin comedies under his contract with the First National Exhibitors' Circuit.

"Summarized, that policy, which is of Mr. Chaplin's own conception, means that he will not sanction the release of one of his comedies until he is absolutely satisfied that it represents the very best effort of which he is capable, and that all rumors and reports to the contrary, he is allowing nothing, of any character, to interfere with his fixed and unalterable decision to give to exhibitors and the public the full value in Chaplin productions for which they pay, which they expect, and to which they are entitled by every precept of fair business and war time conservation.

"And in connection with war time conservation we wonder whether Mr. Chaplin has not revealed with unmistakable clarity the proper interpretation to that paragraph in your editorial of Sept. 21, headed 'On Probation,' which quotes from the ruling of the Priorities Committee of the War Industries Board to the effect that:

"Each member of the industry will pledge himself to discontinue all non-essential production and eliminate wasteful methods.

"This paragraph is fathered by the one you wrote preceding it, in which you say:

"You know that you, willingly or unwillingly, are engaged in a feverish competition to produce, produce, produce—and distribute in the simple multiple fashion."

"Would not a broad interpretation of the ruling of the Priorities Committee on the question of conservation in the film industry mean first the production of non-profitable, non-entertaining pictures simply to 'produce, produce, produce.'

"Again we wonder whether Mr. Chaplin's decision of last January, when his contract with us for eight pictures was signed, to withhold each of his releases until it has been endowed with the utmost effort and ability at his command, and until the time when he could honestly and conscientiously say 'I can do no better,' was not a prophecy of the form of conservation which is so earnestly and sincerely recommended by outsiders as the saving grace of a situation which you most aptly and properly characterize as 'dangerous,'" concluded Mr. Williams.

"Romance of Tarzan" to Be Released Soon

Announcement of the release soon by the First National Exhibitors' Circuit of "The Romance of Tarzan," as the sequel to the big novelty feature, "Tarzan of the Apes" and "The Romance of Tarzan," tions for bookings to the various First National Exchanges, according to reports made to the home office during the past week.

Isadore Bernstein, supervising director for the National Film Corporation of America, producers of both "Tarzan of the Apes" and "The Romance of Tarzan," who arrived in New York recently from the Los Angeles studios, has declared his opinion that the sequel production, from the standpoint of originality of story, novelty of situations, scope of plot and real dramatic action, will, in the estimation of every exhibitor who books it and every patron who sees it, outrank the parent feature.

"Belle of New York" Marion Davies' Next

THE fact that Marion Davies is to appear in a production the title of which is so familiar to the amusement-seeking population of three continents, is declared to be a guaranty of an assured box office value in her third Select Picture, "The Belle of New York."

It was first produced on September 28, 1897, at the Casino Theatre, New York, where it ran for two solid years. Following this engagement the original cast was taken to the Shaftesbury theatre, London, where it ran for another year. "The Belle of New York" has been subject to more revivals than any other known musical comedy. At one time there have been as many as nine stock companies playing it in different cities throughout Europe and America, and it was chief favorite of Pollard's Lilliputians.

The film version of "The Belle of New York," in which Select Pictures will star beautiful Marion Davies in the rôle made famous by the inimitable Edna May, will follow Marion Davies' current Select Picture, "The Burden of Proof." Julius Steger will have complete charge of the production. Every line and situation that it is possible to adapt for the screen from the original book by Hugo Morton will be used.

"The Belle of New York" was famous for its bright and catchy music and the entirely novel and original situations which were woven into the plot of the play. In the film version of this famous production, which will easily surpass anything Miss Davies has ever attempted, nothing will be lost. It will be possible for orchestras to reproduce every line of the original music, while for the story itself much will be gained in modern direction and settings.

"The Burden of Proof" Shows Washington

MARION DAVIES' latest Select Picture, "The Burden of Proof," which is now being shown in first-run theatres throughout the United States, is declared to be one of the best "Washington-in-a-nutshell" souvenirs ever distributed.

Although "The Burden of Proof" is hardly in the picture post card class, it is said to provide the distant citizen with a better conception of his national capital than any postal card album or souvenir picture book ever published.

Among the most remarkable scenes are exteriors and interiors of the Army and Navy Building. This building provides one of the greatest difficulties in Washington to visitors. Even in times of peace visitors to this important office are discouraged, while in time of war it is practically impossible to obtain admission except on official business. Mr. Steger successfully overcame this obstacle, however, and the result is a series of extremely interesting scenes, which have never before appeared on the screen.

Equally interesting views show the Department of Justice Building, the new Union Station, White House, Capitol and numerous others. Miss Davies' second Select Picture makes a strong appeal to those who have never personally enjoyed a trip to the nation's principal city.

Many Paramount Productions in the Making

MARGUERITE CLARK has started work on her next Paramount picture, which is an adaptation by Adrian Gil-Spear of Maria Thompson Daviess' story, "The Golden Bird," which appeared serially in the Delineator a few months ago. John S. Robertson is directing Miss Clark.

Enrico Caruso and his fellow players in "Prince Cosimo," his second Artcraft picture, went up to Greenwich, Conn., last week, where for two days exterior scenes were taken under the direction of Edward Jose at the beautiful Flagler estate. In "Prince Cosimo" Charlotte Ives for the first time in her photoplay career is cast in what might be termed a vampire role.

The second John Emerson-Anita Loos production for Paramount, "Gosh Darn the Kaiser," in which Shirley Mason and Ernest Truex are again co-starred, is nearly finished. Joseph Burke and J. Herbert Frank are members of the cast.

Billie Burke has completed her Paramount picture, "The Make-Believe Wife," in which she was directed by John S. Robertson.

"Under the Greenwood Tree," the new Artcraft picture, on which Elsie Ferguson has been engaged under Emile Chautard's direction, is also finished and ready for release.

Ethel Clayton, in the Paramount Picture, "The Girl Who Came Back"

COMPLETE PLAN BOOK ON PAGE 2443

Select Serves Service

Capt. Sumner E. W. Kittelle, U. S. Navy, commanding the U. S. S. Georgia, has written to Mr. V. P. Whitaker, Select's Washington branch manager, thanking Select Pictures for the service it renders the boys in the service of Uncle Sam's navy. Capt. Kittelle has the following to say:

I wish to express my appreciation and thanks for the cordial and patriotic way in which your company has co-operated with the officer in charge of amusements in supplying to the GEORGIA the latest and highest grade of films for the entertainment of the officers and men at such moderate cost. By reason of your willing and ready co-operation we have been able to exhibit a grade of pictures that have been a source of the greatest satisfaction to all hands.

With best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

SUMNER E. W. KITTELLE,
Captain, U. S. Navy.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912, of "Motion Picture News," published weekly at New York, N. Y., for October 1, 1918.

State of New York } ss.
County of New York }

Before me, a Notary Public, in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared E. Kendall Gillett, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C., who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Business Manager of the Motion Picture News, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 443, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:

Publisher, Motion Picture News, Inc., 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Editor, Wm. A. Johnston, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Managing Editor, Robert E. Welsh, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Business Manager, E. Kendall Gillett, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.

2. That the owners are: (Give names and addresses of individual owners, or, if a corporation, give its name and the names and addresses of stockholders owning or holding 1 per cent. or more of the total amount of stock.)

Motion Picture News, Inc., 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Wm. A. Johnston, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; E. Kendall Gillett, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Henry F. Sewall, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Percy S. Alden, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Wentworth Tucker, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Carl Tucker, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent. or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: (If there are none, so state.) None.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

5. That the average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date shown above is.....

(This information is required from daily publications only.)

E. KENDALL GILLETT,
Business Manager.
Notary Public.

My commission expires March 30, 1920.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 23d day of September, 1918.

[SEAL] JAMES S. JUDD,

Additional Live News from the Producers

(Continued from page 2374)

Alice Joyce, Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Star, Whose Latest Picture Is "Everybody's Girl"

New "Around the Clock" Universal

So great was the popularity of "Around the Clock with a Rookie," said to be, that Universal has arranged to release a similar subject in behalf of Uncle Sam's Navy. The newest picture is "Around the Clock with a Sailor," which will be issued the week of October 6. This film is a two-reeler, where as the rookie subject was only in one reel.

Two well-known players take the leading roles. They are Otto Kruger and Helen MacKeller. Mr. Kruger was in training for an officer's commission, but gladly made arrangements to serve in the film. He will be recalled as a player on the legitimate stage, having starred in "Young America" and "Seven Chances."

Miss MacKeller was the star of "The Tailor Made Man," and this year is appearing in "The Unknown Purple." The war service of the Y. M. C. A. is strongly treated in the picture. It was produced by H. E. Hancock and photographed by George Coudert.

"The Daredevil," October 15, Gail Kane-Mutual

The release date of "The Daredevil," the second in the series of productions starring Gail Kane, which are being made by her own company, Gail Kane Productions, for Mutual, has been set for October 13. "The Daredevil" was taken from the story written by Maria Thompson Daviess and directed by Francis Grandon.

Norman Trevor is in the leading male role. Mildred Marsh, sister of Mae Marsh, is seen in the part of Sue Tomlinson. Duncan McRae plays the role of Armand de Lascelles, a French army officer; Roy Applegate does Colonel Robert Carruthers.

About New Pictures

"Our Four Days in Germany" is the title of one of the latest of Capt. Bud Fisher's Mutt and Jeff Animated Cartoons, as announced by the Fox Film Corporation. Although Mutt and Jeff spend only four days in Hunland, their stay is crowded with thrilling events.

A raid scene which contains both thrill and comedy will be a feature of Emmy Wehlen's forthcoming Metro picture, "Sylvia on a Spree," now in process of production at Metro's Eastern studio under the personal supervision of Maxwell Karger. Harry L. Franklin is directing "Sylvia on a Spree," assisted by Fred Warren.

In Dorothy Gish's first Paramount picture, to be released October 6, Hornetsville, a little town in the great big land of Uncle Sam, is said to play a role that is real, humorous, pathetic and most of all so human that you know each character, each action and each photographic "shot" made within the narrow walls of its existence.

That the Hun is not the only enemy in the Italian Alps is vividly shown in No. 15 of the Official War Review, released by Pathe the week beginning October 6. White death in the shape of avalanches comes with sudden sweep upon the passing troops; and these pictures give a view showing how such a disaster has engulfed the intrepid fighters and other soldiers struggling desperately to rescue them.

"The Temple of Dusk," the second of the Haworth Pictures Corporation series of productions starring Sessue Hayakawa, is set for release by Mutual October 20. It will be prereleased October 13.

In "The Law of the North," produced for Paramount by Thomas H. Ince, and directed by Irwin V. Willat, Charles Ray appears clad in furs and the usual attire of the dweller in far Northern wilds. He is known as "The Eaglet," and the romance and mystery of the snowbound lands enter into the story with all their majesty and splendor.

The eighth episode of "Hands Up," the Pathe serial, featuring Ruth Roland, is called "The Fatal Jewels," and will be released the week beginning October 6. Echo, the heroine, is rescued from death at the hands of the Inca Regent by the Phantom Rider.

Maurice Tourneur's second independent production, now in course of filming, is unique in many ways. For one thing the photo-offering is said to be remarkable in the number of beautiful women utilized in telling the story and the few men necessary to the unfolding of the plot.

"Love's Law," the first in the series of Gail Kane productions, released September 15 on Mutual's schedule, is booked strong in the South, is the statement of S. T. Stephens, general supervisor of Mutual exchanges.

Wallace Reid is in the midst of his new picture which James Cruse is directing, and which as yet is supplied only with a working title. It will be largely comedy. Edgar Franklin wrote the magazine story from which the picture has been scenariozied by Will M. Ritchey.

Priscilla Dean is soon to be seen as a beautiful crook. That is the role she essays in "Miss Dorris, Safe Cracker," a play of the underworld now being made for the Bluebird brand under Jack Dillon's direction. Fred Myton prepared the continuity from an original story by Jack Boyle.

Norma Talmadge, her director, Sidney A. Franklin, Assistant Director Ward Lascelle, Thomas Meighan, Gladden James and A. E. Warren, of her company, have left for Los Angeles to do the exteriors for Miss Talmadge's next picture, "The Heart of Wetona."

George Larkin, the strenuous rough rider, and Betty Compson, who can manage a broncho as well as most of the cowboys, are said to have an excellent subject for their talents in "The Border Raiders," a Western serial, produced by Diando, and released on October 6 as the first of the Pathe Program Features.

The many new and varied uses to which a camping trailer outfit may be put are comically depicted in "Society-in-Tents," a Century comedy featuring Alice Howell and Hughie Mack.

Clara Kimball Young is Now Making the First of Her Second Series of Select Pictures

Fox Secures Dillon to Direct Walsh

William Fox, because of the success attained by George Walsh in the light, wholesome, young-American type of comedies in which he has appeared recently, has just engaged for this popular star one of the best-known light comedy directors, Edward Dillon, who will begin work at once with Mr. Walsh in a new play which, it is believed, will prove one of the best the athlete-actor has ever enacted.

Mr. Dillon is one of the veterans of the screen art and he directed De Wolf Hopper in "Sunshine Dad," "Don Quixote" and "Mr. Good, the Samaritan." He also directed Bessie Barriscale in several productions. Other stars whom he has directed are Ann Pennington and Madge Kennedy. It was while directing Miss Kennedy in "The Danger Game" that Mr. Dillon broke his ankle. Laid up for fourteen weeks, he only recently recovered.

Demonstrations Planned for "The Yellow Dog"

The latest cities to take up the Yellow Dog Drive are Cleveland, Ohio and Pittsburgh, where the most elaborate preparations for the organization have been perfected and the formation of clubs is now under way.

In Cleveland, the Jewel production will find waiting for its presentation an organization headed by the Mayor, with branches in each ward in charge of political workers attached to the Mayor's staff. A big parade is being planned which will be headed by the city officials and be participated in by Boy Scout Troops, Red Cross workers and other regularly organized organizations that have joined in the campaign.

Jewel Film Gets Big Publicity

"The Yellow Dog" Receives Unprecedented Advance Newspaper Publicity Valued by Jewel As Worth Half Million Dollars

BACKED up by figures and the evidence of newspaper clippings, the Universal Film Company officially states that the Jewel Production, "The Yellow Dog," has already had five hundred thousand dollars' worth of advance newspaper publicity and it is estimated that half that much more will be given before the production is released on November 3.

Universal declares no other picture ever produced has had this volume of advance publicity, and Chas. J. Giegerich, national organizer of the Anti-Yellow Dog Clubs and publicity manager for the campaign, says that it exceeds the combined advance publicity of any ten productions released to date.

Practically every newspaper from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast has given space to "The Yellow Dog," and many of them have published series of articles on the general news pages, as well as giving space in the editorial columns for comment on the practical side of "The Yellow Dog" story.

To have the theme of a modern picture drama receive such wide editorial discussion is unique in the history of motion pictures, but having first attracted the official attention of State and City Officials and then inspired a nation-wide movement to curb the dangerous habit of incontinent rumor mongering "The Yellow Dog" acquired local interest everywhere and commanded editorial recognition.

Special magazine articles and trade paper publicity have not been taken into consideration by the company in its summary of advance notices. Only newspaper space was considered and the estimate of its value is made on a low basis of the rates charged by daily papers for reading notice advertisements.

The number of persons that have read of "The Yellow Dog," either through the columns of their local newspapers or through the two million circulation of the Saturday Evening Post when the story was published, cannot be fairly estimated and to this must be added the distribution of three million pieces of Anti-Yellow Dog Club literature, a further amount of Yellow Dog Clubbers' Club literature and the tremendous word-of-mouth publicity given the subject by the ubiquitous American boy.

Mr. Giegerich, who has handled many national publicity campaigns, including Sergt. Arthur Guy Empey of "Over the Top" fame and Lieut. Pat. O'Brien, the aviator who spent seventy-two days in Germany, making his escape, states that in the entire list of amusements nothing approaches this record, with the exception of the advance space that is accorded the Barnum Circus and in that exception the aggregate of space is spread over the entire country, while in the case of "The Yellow Dog" the publicity has been given in the space of three months and has covered the entire country at one time.

Metro Stars Shuttle Twixt Stage and Screen

METRO players are constantly weaving the shuttle between stage and screen, adding to their efficiency and value in one line by means of experience in the sister art. The stage has done no greater favor to the screen than to yield to it that great Russian star herself, who has discovered her real abilities in the screen world—Nazimova. Under the Metro banner she has already made "Revelation" and "Toys of Fate," with "Eye for Eye," "'Ception Shoals" and "The Red Lantern" to follow these successes.

The stage also gave Viola Dana to the screen, the little star of "Blue Jeans," "Flower of the Dusk," "Opportunity" and countless other screen productions. Hale Hamilton, Metro's newest star, proceeded from the stage to the screen; also May Allison, who arrived in front of the camera by way of the Savage production, "Everywoman." But Emmy Wehlen, who long ago forsook the musical comedy stage for the silver sheet, lends her voice occasionally to worthy causes, such as the Liberty Loan campaigns.

Ethel Barrymore, whose screen work has been exclusively for Metro, will devote the next few months to work in her original field of the spoken drama, as will Emily Stevens, another Metro star. "Lady Frederick," a picture version of the W. Somerset Maugham play.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, laughmakers and creators of the Metro-Drew comedies of domestic life, are delighting theater-goers with their charming offering, "Keep Her Smiling," on the dramatic stage.

So the "fair exchange," which is truly "no robbery," goes on, and the shuttle, which moves between the two worlds of spoken and pantomimic action, weaves a fabric of greater strength and beauty for the use of both.

World Benefits by Its Group Insurance

Recently World Pictures insured all of its employees with the Aetna Life Insurance Company, under a group policy inaugurated by that concern, and this week the first claim, due to the death of one of those insured, was paid by the company. This claim ($600) was paid to Mrs. Natalie Ostland, widow of Louis Ostland, the veteran World cameraman, who died a week ago. The claim was paid in record time after the death of Mr. Ostland.

Under this group policy all World employes are insured for amounts varying from $500 to $1,000 without cost to themselves, the World paying the premiums for the entire group.

Sessue Hayakawa, Haworth Star in "The Temple of Dusk," Released by Mutual

October Brings New Vitagraph Publicity

The nation-wide billboard campaign with which Vitagraph will introduce "The Iron Test," its new serial featuring Antonio Moreno and Carol Holloway, will be inaugurated early in October. Posting will start within a few days, and it will be complete all over the United States by October 15. Posting in Canada will follow a little after the start of the campaign on this side of the border.

The twenty-four sheet which Vitagraph will use to put "The Iron Test" before the public is declared to be the finest and most striking which the company has yet put on a serial. The sketch was made by the artist, Madan, who also turned out the company's great twenty-four on "Over the Top."

"The Iron Test," like its predecessors, is to be released in fifteen episodes, the first of which will be shown on October 21. The advance notices have declared it the equal of anything Vitagraph has ever put out, and Antonio Moreno and Carol Holloway are declared to be an ideal serial combination.

"'Ception Shoals" Scenes to Show Thrills

In "'Ception Shoals," Mme. Nazimova's forthcoming special production, which will be presented by Richard A. Rowland and Maxwell Karger, respectively Metro's president and production manager "close-up" views of great waves were necessary and every male member of the Nazimova organization donned oilskins and formed a living chain, at the end of which, far out in the water, was cameraman Eugene Gaudio, determined to get as close as possible to the biggest waves the camera would register.

Press Club Compliments Jewel Production

The Press Club, of San Francisco, several days ago paid a compliment to Jewel's production, "The Sinking of the Lusitania," by selecting it as the chief entertainment feature of a club party.

It proved to be a knockout, and Al C. Joy, president of the club, went on record to that effect with a tetlegram of appreciation to Jewel.

Some of the Reasons Why Famous Players-Lasky Releases Are Popular. These Stellar Lights Are Ethel Clayton, Enid Bennett, Enrico Caruso, Lila Lee and Billie Burke

Auxiliary Studio Built by Goldwyn

With all the Goldwyn stars in the midst of productions the Fort Lee studio has beeome too limited to aeeommodate Geraldine Farrar, Madge Kennedy, Mae Marsh, Tom Moore and Mabel Normand, and maintain the sehedule of releases expeeted by Goldwyn's exhibitor eustomers.

To overeome this diffieulty what is practically a new and separate studio has been built on the "lot." Where onee stood the Alexandran street and temple ereated for Mary Garden's "Thais" there is now a strueture of another kind.

It is a frame building, 100 feet square, and is in no sense an open air studio. Roofed and equipped with a full eomplement of lights, it offers every faeility for production found in the studio proper.

Critics at Los Angeles Praise "Salome"

The erities on the Los Angeles newspapers apparently had to dig up all their best and most enthusiastie adjeetives properly to express their admiration for the Theda Bara super-produetion of "Salome," on the oeeasion of this play's opening at Clune's Auditorium in that eity.

Every eritie in the eity hailed the great William Fox production, which will have its new York premiere Oetober 6th, at the 44th Street theatre, as the aeme of motion pieture art, and deelared that Theda Bara had made the greatest sueeess of her career.

Madlaine Traverse Joins William Fox

When at the beginning of this season William Fox announeed the inauguration of a policy whereby he would produee a group of productions under the brand of Excel Pictures, he deelared that the stars in this group would be Peggy Hyland, Virgina Pearson, Jane and Katherine Lee and other well known players of reeognized ability and drawing power.

The announeement now eomes from the Fox offices that another player has been engaged. She is Madlaine Traverse, one of the feminine stars now playing before the camera and noted for her ability in strong dramatic roles.

West Coast Active, Says Lasky

First Vice-President of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation Reviews Great Activities of West Coast Studios

PRIOR to leaving for New York on a periodieal business trip, Jesse L. Lasky, First Vice-President of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, at the head of all produetion, in an interview, gave several facts of interest to the trade, embraeing the statement that the West Coast Studios would be more busily engaged than ever in the months to come.

Diseussing the arrival of stars on the eoast, Mr. Lasky said: "Among others, Shirley Mason will arrive in the very near future to work at our Western studio. Bryant Washburn leaves to make the exterior seenes for his third Paramount pieture—the Saturday Evening Post story, 'Venus in the East'—in New York," eontinued Mr. Lasky. "He is aecompanied by his director, Donald Crisp, a eameraman, and the leading woman.

"An interesting change in the West Coast seenario department results from the promotion of Miss Mary O'Connor, former assistant to Frank E. Woods, to the position of seenario and film editor, while Gardner Hunting has been appointed assistant supervising direetor. Both will work under Frank E. Woods, supervising direetor.

"At this time, on the eve of my departure for the East, I note that Douglas Fairbanks is busily engaged upon a new screen version of 'Arizona,' Augustus Thomas' famous stage drama. Lila Lee is at work on a pieture by Monte M. Katterjohn, ealled 'Puppy Love,' under the direction of R. Wm. Neill. She has also eompleted 'Sueh a Little Pirate' and 'The Seeret Garden.'

"Wallaee Reid is finishing 'The Dub,' a new eomedy by Edgar Franklin, with seenario by Will M. Ritehie; Ethel Clayton is under Chester Withey's direetion in a sereen version of Charles Klein's famous play, 'Maggie Pepper'; Vivian Martin has eompleted 'Jane Goes a Wooing' under George Melford, and is to do a new eomedy, 'You Never Saw Sueh a Girl,' from a novel by George Weston, entitled 'The Kingdom of Heart's Desire,' to be directed by Robert Vignola.

"George Melford is going East to direet for a time, while William C. de Mille is engaged in writing a photoplay for Miss Lee. Ceeil B. de Mille has finished and is now engaged in eutting and assembling his modern version for Artcraft of 'The Squaw Man,' by Edwin Milton Royle, which is to be released under a new name."

"Borrowed Clothes" Has Big Fire Scenes

After mueh heralding from the Coast, the latest production by Lois Weber and Phillip Smalley, originally entitled "Orange Blossoms," is announeed as ready for release by Jewel November 4 under a new title. The picture now is ealled "Borrowed Clothes."

Its sponsors deelare that aside from the other attributes it possesses, "Borrowed Clothes" will prove a thriller by reason of the fire scenes which are depicted in it for several hundred feet. Miss Weber adapted the film from a story by Marion Orth. Mildred Harris, one of the sereen's daintiest stars, takes the leading role as Mary Kirk.

Franklin Renews Contract with Norma Talmadge

Sidney A. Franklin, who has direeted Miss Norma Talmadge's last three pietures, "The Safety Curtain," "Her Only Way" and "The Forbidden City," has just signed a year's contract with the Norma Talmadge Film Corporation to direet eight pietures for the star.

Mr. Franklin is in all probability the youngest direetor in the business, as he has just passed his twenty-fourth birthday and has to his credit many of the sueeessful productions of the screen.

Francis Paget with Ince

Franeis Paget, former writer for Paralta, and who wrote "A Law Unto Herself" for Louise Glaum, has been engaged by Thomas H. Inee, it was announced this week. He will be assoeiated with C. Gardner Sullivan in preparing some new screen stories for Louise Glaum, who is again with the Inee forees.

Five More Hits Says Goldwyn

Goldwyn Declares That Its "Year of Successes" Is Inaugurated with Ten Hits in Unbroken Succession

A FURTHER strengthening of exhibitor interest and support has been reported by Goldwyn in every section of the United States following the release of five big productions.

As in no other business, successful productions have a way of making themselves immediately felt, and Goldwyn reports great benefits from national approval of Geraldine Farrar in "The Turn of the Wheel," Mabel Normand in "Peck's Bad Girl," Tom Moore in "Just for Tonight," Madge Kennedy in "The Kingdom of Youth," and Rex Beach's "Laughing Bill Hyde," with Will Rogers.

The next five Goldwyn productions in point of release are Mae Marsh in "Hidden Fires," on October 7; Mabel Normand in "A Perfect 36," on October 14; Tom Moore in "Thirty a Week," on October 28; Madge Kennedy in "A Perfect Lady," by Channing Pollock, and Rennold Wolf, on November 4, and Geraldine Farrar in "The Hell Cat," on November 11.

Miss Marsh's picture, the current release, has the flavor and production beauties of "The Cinderella Man."

Following "Peck's Bad Girl," Mabel Normand has in "A Perfect 36" another broad comedy.

Tom Moore is a romantic and adventurous chauffeur in "Thirty a Week," written by Thompson Buchanan and directed by Harry Beaumont, who last year made the "Skinner" pictures.

Madge Kennedy's finest picture, the one with the most assured screen values it is said, turns out to be Messrs. Pollock's and Wolf's stage success, "A Perfect Lady," which served as a vehicle in the theatre for Rose Stahl.

In midsummer she had the timely story, "The Service Star," and this was followed by "Friend Husband." Then came her first Star Series picture, "The Kingdom of Youth," which is the current release at the Strand, New York.

Geraldine Farrar has found her most colorful and powerful cinema role in "The Hell Cat," which Goldwyn predicts will exceed in box-office popularity even her first vehicle, "The Turn of the Wheel."

"The Hell Cat" gives the star an opportunity to be a woman of elemental passions in an environment new and striking for her—the heart of the great West in the Rocky Mountains of Wyoming. Miss Farrar herself regards "The Hell Cat" as her greatest screen triumph.

Will Rogers, Who Has Made a Hit As "Laughing Bill Hyde," a Goldwyn Picture

Kirkwood and Brabin New Fox Directors

JAMES KIRKWOOD, who has directed many of the leading actors and actresses of the American stage, has joined the William Fox organization. He will supervise the making of the next Evelyn Nesbit picture and is already at work on the scenario.

Mr. Kirkwood has been prominent in the producing end of the film business for the past decade, having begun his career when the old single-reelers were in vogue. Among his early successes were "Classmates" and "Strong Heart," picture versions of two Robert Edeson successes.

He also directed Mary Pickford, Billie Burke, Mary Miles Minter and John Barrymore. It is understood the next Nesbit picture, the second in the series of productions to be made by her for William Fox, is a story of a frivolous woman who is purified in the fires of war.

Charles J. Brabin, who has directed numerous leading actors and actresses in the film profession, has also been engaged by William Fox and will direct Virginia Pearson, one of the stars in the Fox group of Excel Pictures.

Mr. Brabin will begin work at once. His first picture with Miss Pearson will be a dramatization of "Buchanan's Wife," one of the most popular novels written by the late Justus Miles Forman, who lost his life on the Lusitania.

Mr. Brabin has had wide experience and training as a director, having guided several big productions to success. He has directed Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, Marc MacDermott, Naomi Childers, Peggy Hyland, Viola Dana and other players.

Universal Serial Profits Go to England

IN arranging for the distribution of the seven-episode serial, "Fighting for Freedom," composed of Official War Pictures, the Universal has undertaken to turn over all profits to the British Government. The contract provides only a moderate percentage to the film company for service and cost of handling the picture.

"Fighting For Freedom," as judged by its reception at the opening in New York, is certain to take its place as one of the masterpieces of patriotic films. It is an authentic revelation of the British war forces on the ground, in the air and on the sea in action. The production will be released in regular weekly installments, with all the elements of a dramtaic serial. The first release is set for October 1.

Following are the titles of the episodes, each conveying an idea of the character of unusual scenes depicted: "Admiral Beatty's Fleet in Action"; "Bomp Dropping from Aerial Submarine Destroyers"; "The Sensational Capture of Bagdad"; "Thrilling Feats of the Royal Flying Corps"; "Repairing War's Ravages"; "Chinese and African Workers Trailing the Hun"; and Britain's Battling Bull Dog—The Navy."

Italian Clubs Boost Film, "Italy's Flaming Front"

Reports from exhibitors throughout the country who have shown the First National Exhibitors' Circuit release, "Italy's Flaming Front," tell of remarkable audiences attracted by this pictorial history of Italy's part in the world war.

Italian American clubs in many states have undertaken extensive voluntary propaganda work in behalf of the picture, going so far, in a number of instances, as to send broadcast special letters to all members their attendance at theaters showing it, and requesting their utmost co-operation in popularizing the subject in every conceivable way.

An interchange of correspondence between the many Italian American clubs, relating to "Italy's Flaming Front," has been directly responsible for a great national interest in the production, it is declared.

One interesting feature of the reports sent to the First National Exhibitors' Circuit is the scores of references made by exhibitors to exclamations from their audiences at the showings of the Italian war picture in recognition of soldiers seen marching or fighting in the Italian uniform, either far up in the Alps or along the banks of the Piave, who, a few months ago, were residents of the American cities and towns where their pictures are now being exhibited.

Outing-Chester Pictures Reported Popular

S. T. Stephens, general supervisor of Mutual exchanges, reports to Assistant General Manager Kirkpatrick that the Outing-Chester Pictures are well liked in the South, and the bookings have taken a big jump within the past few weeks.

The Circle Theater, of Indianapolis, is now showing the Outing-Chester Pictures with Screen Telegram.

"The trade throughout the South is delighted with the Outing-Chester Pictures," said Mr. Stephens.

Many Tributes Paid to "My Four Years in Germany"

Half-page advertising space, purchased by the Industrial Securities Company, of Harrisburg, Ind., and donated to the exhibitor without his knowledge, a record run of 168 performances to a gross of $23,401.75 at the Grand Opera House in Cincinnati, showing to 4,000 people of a total of 12,000 population in Grand Forks, N. D., and leading editorials in newspapers in scores of cities commending exhibitors who showed it and demanding that every reader patronize it, are some of the recent tributes to the First National Exhibitors' Circuit release, "My Four Years in Germany."

More than 100,000 residents of Cincinnati saw "My Four Years in Germany" during its four weeks' run. It is believed that this is a greater number of local theatregoers than had ever previously patronized any one picture.

The editor of one of the daily newspapers in Gallipolis, Ohio, published a two-column, half-page editorial on Ambassador Gerard's production, commending Mr. Kaufman, the exhibitor, for booking it, and urging every resident of the town to see it. The subject matter of the production, with its wealth of facts and dramatic picturization of actual conditions that existed in Germany and Belgium, was commented on at length.

Five Fox Plays Move to Completion

Five plays are now in work for William Fox in the east and west studios. The only star working in the West at present is Tom Mix, who is engaged on his third Charles Alden Seltzer story, which bears the temporary title "The Coming of the Law." In the east Evelyn Nesbit has just completed "The Woman Who Gave," the first of a series of five pictures.

Richard Stanton is nearing the finish of "Why I Would Not Marry," a Fox big, timely picture. Peggy Hyland has just begun on a new play under the direction of Harry Millarde, "A Stitch in Time," written by Fred Jackson, and Virginia Pearson is at work on "Buchanan's Wife," the picturization of Justus Miles Forman's novel.

Jane and Katherine Lee, who have just completed "Swat the Spy," under the direction of Arvid E. Gillstrom, are working on another picture under Mr. Gillstrom.

Melford Arrives to Direct Billie Burke

After ten years of absence from Broadway George Melford came back. He has been directing Famous Players-Lasky productions in Hollywood for the last five years and journeyed all the way from California to New York to direct Billy Burke's next picture, "Good Gracious Annabel," to be made at the Fort Lee studios.

Mr. Melford has been directing little Lila Lee, the new Lasky star, who, he declared promises to be one of the greatest stars in motion picture productions in the very near future.

William L. Sherry and His Official Family: Norman J. Sennott, G. M. Anderson, Dan Savage, A. M. Rowenstern, Harold J. Binney, Frederick Burlingham, Theo. C. Deitrich, Doris Kenyon, Mr. Sherry and Vangie Valentine

Wm. Sherry Seeks Another Star

Aims to Secure One to Rank with Calvert, Kenyon, Valentine and Anderson — Bookings Doing Well

THERE are qualifying conditions laid down for applicants to the Sherry program, which needs a couple of stars to make up its full complement. They must be stars that can rank with Catherine Calvert, Doris Kenyon, Vangie Valentine and Gilbert M. Anderson ("Broncho Billy"), who comprise the present list of Sherry stars.

Doris Kenyon's pictures, "The Street of Seven Stars" and "The Inn of the Blue Moon," have been booked solid over the Loew circuit, the Ascher Brothers and Lubliner-Trinz circuits and over various other circuits too numerous to mention. At the present time she is at work on her third De Luxe production on the Sherry program. It is called "Wild Honey" and is an adaptation by Louis Joseph Vance and Mrs. Vingie E. Roe from her story in the Pictorial Review.

Catherine Calvert, the Frank A. Keeney star, is also at work on her third production for the Wm. L. Sherry Service. This production will be called "Marriage," which was the title of the same story in fiction by Guy Bolton.

Miss Calvert's first two releases on the Sherry program were "Out of the Night" and "A Romance of the Underworld."

G. M. Anderson's return to the screen has met with response in the way of booking contracts. The first Anderson release on the Sherry program is said to be a gripping, masculine play called "Red Blood and Yellow." This will be followed by another feature entitled "Son-of-a-Gun."

Frederick Burlingham's series of travel pictures round out the Sherry program nicely. At the present time the entire series of thirty is booked solid at the Strand theatre, New York, and is giving great satisfaction.

Haworth Pictures After Two Women Stars

THE success with which the first two Hayakawa pictures have been produced and sold under the Haworth plan, brought the announcement today that Haworth Pictures Corporation is in negotiation with two important women stars for the production and release of pictures under the same arrangement.

When the Haworth Pictures Corporation was quietly organized on the Pacific Coast it was assumed that it was formed for the sole purpose of producing and exploiting the pictures of Sessue Hayakawa, and it has been generally accepted within the trade that Haworth was an exclusive Hayakawa producing company.

The Haworth Corporation has, up to this time, made no announcement of its plans further than those which pertained to the making and selling of Hayakawa pictures. It has been investigating the conditions of the market, however, and building an efficient and capable organization in anticipation of materially increasing its activities.

The extent to which the Haworth Corporation was to enter the motion picture field was to depend upon the success of the initial Hayakawa releases. The capital invested in the company insisted before going further upon assuring itself of the soundness of the Haworth plan.

Flagg-Paramount Comedy Showed to Marines

"Tell That to the Marines," the Paramount-James Montgomery Flagg comedy, scheduled for release October 13, was given a special showing at the U. S. Marine barracks at Washington.

In the audience were Major General Barnett, commander-in-chief of the U. S. Marine Corps, and his staff; Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson; Cabinet officials and 1,500 Marines.

Coming Program Offerings

Seven Fox Pictures In October

Widely Different Forms of Dramatic Stories in October Output and Four Leading Fox Brands Represented

SEVEN big pictures, representing the four brands of dramatic productions issued by William Fox, will be released during October by the Fox Film Corporation. These seven pictures, it is stated by the Fox offices, not only represent four brands, but they also typify seven widely different forms of dramatic stories, each considered the best in its field.

One of the October releases will be George Walsh in "On the Jump," in which the athletic Fox star is said to appear at his best. This picture was directed by R. A. Walsh, who staged "The Honor System," "Woman and the Law," "The Prussian Cur" and other big Fox productions. It will be the first George Walsh picture released under the new Fox Victory Pictures brand.

Another picture in October will feature Evelyn Nesbit in "The Woman Who Gave," a drama of an artist's model who hated her own beauty. In this picture Miss Nesbit appears as a woman who is duped into becoming the wife of a brutal Bulgarian nobleman. One of the principals in "The Woman Who Gave" is Evelyn Nesbit' son, Russell Thaw, and the picture was directed by Kenean Buel.

Peggy Hyland's second Excel picture, "Marriages Are Made," described as a production in which Cupid traps a spy and wins a maid, is also on the October schedule. The story was written by E. Lloyd Sheldon and staged by Carl Harbaugh.

Another of the William Fox big timely pictures for October, "Why I Would Not Marry," is a morality picture which treats of married life and problems. This picture has just been completed under the supervision of Richard Stanton, director of "Why America Will Win."

Theda Bara, William Fox Siren, in "Salome"

William Farnum in "The Rainbow Trail" will be another October Standard release, and is an adaptation of a novel of the same name by Zane Grey and a sequel to "Riders of the Purple Sage."

One of the most interesting October releases will be the production featuring Tom Mix in "Treat 'Em Rough," an adaptation of a novel by Charles Alden Seltzer. This picture, staged by Lynn Reynolds, is said to be even faster than "Mr. Logan, U. S. A.," which is declared to have won the most enthusiastic praise from every exhibitor who has shown it.

Under the direction of Arvid E. Gillstrom, who staged the great comedy success "Swat the Spy," Jane and Katherine Lee have just completed a fast comedy-drama which will be released the latter part of October.

Hodkinson Distributes Six Powell Pictures

THE W. W. Hodkinson Corporation announces that it will distribute a series of six Frank Powell pictures produced for the Sunset Pictures Corporation, of San Antonio, Texas. A filmization of Ridgewell Cullom's book, "The Forfeit," co-starring House Peters and Jane Miller, the initial Powell production, will be released November 11.

Mr. Powell will produce his pictures in San Antonio, having chosen this section of the country because it is his intention to produce only outdoor stories of American life in the Southwest. A feature of these pictures is said to be, that, rather than staging and acting pictures, Mr. Powell is picturing the adventure and romance of life as it really happens.

An open air stage, 80x100, provides floor space that permits interior sets to remain up until the picture is completed, permitting interior scenes to be photographed in some semblance of continuity. The Harlandale Sulphur Baths have been leased for a studio site, the buildings being used for dressing rooms and executive offices.

The Frank Powell productions are not a star series—the play, not the star, is to be the thing. House Peters and Jane Miller were chosen for "The Forfeit," because of their suitability for the role. "Good Indian," the second Powell picture adapted from B. M. Bower's book, features Jane Miller and Robert Elliott.

"Tony America" Arrives

"Tony America" is Triangle's release for the week of October 6 and presents Francis McDonald as the featured player. He will be recalled for his work with Alma Rubens in "The Painted Lily."

Pathe Announces Program Week October 6

The Pathe program for the week beginning October 6 is headed by "The Border Raiders," a Western drama with George Larkin and Betty Compson, produced by Diando, written by Frank Bercsford and Jack Cunningham, and directed by Stuart Payton. It is the first of the Pathe Program Features.

The 8th episode of "Hands Up," featuring Ruth Roland, is called "The Fatal Jewels" and revolves around the theft of the gem-encrusted headpiece of the Inca Regent. Stan Laurel, the English comedian, is before the American public for the first time on the screen, in "No Place Like Jail."

"The Triumph of Transportation" reveals how we are aiding in the war by an enormous production of powerful motor trucks. The Post Travel Series shows Antigua, British West Indies, typically English. The Official War Review gives diversified glimpses of the entire conflict and is called "Where the Allies Fight."

The Far Flung Battle Line series, sixth issue, deals with the "French Colonial Troops in the War."

"Private Peat" Film Has Patriotic Appeal

To produce a war picture, thereby evolving a thrilling spectacle for the screen, with realistic battle scenes, exploits, of heroism and views of war's desecration, is something which has been attempted many times during the past two years.

In the production of "Private Peat," the Paramount Artcraft Special, which is to be released October 13th, the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation asserts that it has made the first war picture of feature length in which is incorporated in every scene, in every subtitle, in practically every foot of film, a tremendous patriotic appeal.

Christie's October List

The Christie Comedy Company announces a diversified and interesting schedule of releases for October:

October 7th, "Why Get Divorced?" featuring Ethel Lynn and "Smiling" Billy Mason.

October 14th, "Three Hours Late," with Bobby Vernon and Dorothy Dane.

October 21st, "Why Husbands Flirt," with Ethel Lynn and "Smiling" Billy Mason.

October 28th, "Two's Company," with Bobby Vernon and Clare Seymour.

"Far Flung Battle Line," by Pathe October 6

The Far Flung Battle Line, Official War Pictures, issued by the British Government and distributed by Pathe in the week beginning October 6 will give a view of an unfamiliar side of the war .

From far away French Indo-China come these pictures, showing France's long line of man supply, from Senegal in Africa—colonies of the French motherland.

Marion Siegler, Who Has Come East from the West Coast Colony, to Play Straights and Characters

Hodkinson Distributes New Cabanne Film

The first independent production of W. Christy Cabanne, "The American Spirit," will be distributed throughout the United States by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation for release on November 4.

It is said the near future will bring about the announcement of other high quality product on the same equitable basis.

Mr. Cabanne, a director of long experience, directed Douglas Fairbanks in his first screen productions and directed such patriotic features as "Draft 258" and "The Slacker" for Metro. "The American Spirit" is also a patriotic special written by Mr. Cabanne himself and starring E. K. Lincoln.

Vitagraph Releases "The Mating," October 7

The Vitagraph program of releases has been scheduled for the week of October 7 as follows:

Blue Ribbon Feature—five parts—"The Mating," featuring Gladys Leslie. Written by Millicent Evison. Directed by Frederic Thompson. Serial—two parts—William Duncan in "The Engine of Terror," episode No. 13 of "A Fight for Millions." Supported by an all-star cast, including Edith Johnson and Joe Ryan. Written by Albert E. Smith and Cyrus Townsend Brady. Directed by William Duncan. Big V Special Comedy—two parts—"Bears and Bad Men." Featuring Lawrence Semon.

Jere Austin in Support of Madge Kennedy

A cast, every member of which is declared to have won laurels on the stage and screen, supports Madge Kennedy in Goldwyn's picturization of "A Perfect Lady," the Rosa Stahl stage success by Channing Pollock and Rennold Wolf.

Chief in the Goldwyn star's support is Jere Austin, who was Mae Marsh's leading man in here recent Goldwyn picture, "All Woman,"

Program Glances

Thurston Hall has replaced M. Rodolpho de Valentiana as Carmel Myers' leading man, for her next picture at least. In "The Beautiful Mongrel" which is now being made under Paul Powell's direction, others supporting the little star, of "My Unmarried Wife," and a dozen other successes are Kingsley Benedict, Betty Schade and William Dyer.

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle has been a busy man during the past few weeks, for in addition to making the picture, "Scraps of Paper," which is his contribution to the National Association's Liberty Loan Committee, he is now nearing the completion of "The Sheriff," his newest comedy for Paramount release.

A story of exceptional human interest and dramatic tensity is said to be told in "Her Family's Honor," the picture which is being produced by the Frank A. Keeney Pictures Corporation, with Catherine Calvert as star, under the direction of Sidney Olcott. It was written especially for Miss Calvert by E. Lloyd Shelron.

In Madame Lina Cavalieri's new Paramount picture, "A Woman of Impulse," which was directed by Edward Jose and released September 29, the operatic star is seen first as the daughter of a poor lacemaker living in Italy.

Jesse D. Hampton has purchased, through Edgar Selden, the rights to Richard Harding Davis' most popular and successful play, "Soldiers of Fortune." The price is said to be the largest of any recently sold play or story. Mr. Hampton wants "Soldiers of Fortune" for J. Warren Kerrigan.

Fritzi Brunette, whose two Bluebird features, "Playthings" and "The Velvet Hand," are now said to be breaking box-office records from Maine to Minnesota, will have as her next starring vehicle, "Sealed Orders," a play based on an original story by Andrew Soutar and George Hull, from which Harvey Gates has prepared a script.

"Two-Gun Betty" is the name of the first Bessie Barriscale picture, to be distributed by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation, under its new releasing arrangement with that star, who will make a series of productions at the Robert Brunton studios in Los Angeles. "The Heart of Rachel" completed Miss Barriscale's previous contract with Hodkinson for the distribution of eight pictures.

"Diana Ardway," which has been chosen as Viola Dana's next Metro feature production, w be the last picture made by this star before she leaves for the Pacific Coast for the winter. Miss Dana's further 1918-1919 releases will be made at the firm's Hollywood (Cal.) plant.

Can one imagine Ann Little as a cabaret girl? That is what she plays in "The Man from Funeral Range," the new Paramount picture in which Wallace Reid is starred, and which will be released October 5. This picture is from the play, "Broken Threads," by W. E. Wilkes, and the scenario was written by Monte M. Katterjohn.

Mae Marsh is given noteworthy support in her newest Goldwyn Picture, "Hidden Fires," the star's first production of Goldwyn's second year's output. She is surrounded by several players who have already made their mark in Goldwyn Pictures.

Reports from the West, where a recent review of "When Do We Eat?" Enid Bennett's newest Paramount picture, to be released October 13, was held at the Thomas H. Ince Studio, prove it to be a winner, according to a statement just issued by Paramount.

Though Capitol Comedies are limited to two reels, "Smiling Bill" Parsons, star and creator of them, always introduces some novelty in each of his productions—mechanical devices and tricks of photography that would do credit to a feature picture. A visualization of alibis is a novel touch in his newest production, "Bill Camps Out," distributed by Goldwyn.

The entire first floor of a city mansion is visible at one time in the production of "Five Thousand An Hour," the photodrama in which Metro will first present Hale Hamilton as an individual screen star.

The crowning achievement of Norma Talmadge's long list of screen successes, "The Forbidden City," the latest of Miss Talmadge's Select Pictures, in which she is presented by Joseph M. Schenck, will be shown at the Rivoli theatre in New York for the entire week of October 6 to 12. This is the first of Miss Talmadge's second Series of Select Pictures.

Alice Brady, Select Star, Who is Equally as Popular on the Legitimate Stage

Universal Finishes Most Expensive Feature

The finishing touches are being put on Dorothy Phillips' big war spectacle now being made at Universal City under the working title of "Until We Meet Again." It will be Universal's first big war effort since the universally successful "The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin." "Until We Meet Again" will be in ten reels and will be the most expensive production ever turned out by Universal. It is described as a drama, vibrant with the heart throbs of the titanic struggle, and one that will add even new laurels to the reputation borne by Dorothy Phillips.

"A Ramble in Aphasia," O. Henry-General

Perhaps the most humorously subtle of O. Henry's stories has been interpreted for the screen as the current offering on the Broadway Star Features program released by General Film, "A Ramble in Aphasia."

Edward Earle plays the frolicksome hero and Agnes Ayres his puzzled wife, and the direction is by Kenneth Webb, who has handled all the recent O. Henry pictures made by Vitagraph Company for Broadway Star Features. "A Ramble in Aphasia" will be followed by a Wolfville Tale, by Alfred Henry Lewis.

"The Temple of Dusk" Has Pre-showing

"The Temple of Dusk," the second production of the Haworth Pictures Corporation, released through Mutual exchanges October 20, through the courtesy of President James M. Sheldon, of Mutual, had a pre-showing at the Hamilton Club, Chicago.

The members of the club were said to be lavish in their praise of the production, and declared that it is without doubt the best picture in which the Japanese star has ever appeared.

In and Out of West Coast Studios

By J. C. Jessen

Paramount-Artcraft

Charles Murray, exponent of slapstick comedy, who was last week loaned to the Famous Players-Lasky Company by Mack Sennett to play the part of an Irish father in Lila Lee's new picture, had made quite a hit with Director Roy Neill this week in his new role. The new play is of the light comedy type, and Murray, according to all reports, is getting away with his part in fine shape. The story was written by Monte Katterjohn, and its theme is that of young love. Director Neill formerly handled the megaphone in Dorothy Dalton subjects.

Vivian Martin this week began work on a new picture at the Morosco studios. The nature of the story and the remainder of the cast were not announced.

Ethel Clayton has reached the middle of her new screen vehicle, "Maggie Pepper," in which Rose Stahl once starred. The story was written for the stage by the late Charles Klein.

Cecil B. DeMille this week celebrated the completion of his modern version of "The Squaw Man." Those who viewed the first showing of the picture at the studios pronounced it one of the best screen interpretations produced under the guidance of Mr. DeMille. Some of the principal people appearing in the cast are Elliot Dexter, Thurston Hall, Jack Holt, Theodore Roberts, Ann Little, Katherine McDonald and Tully Marshall.

The last lap on Dorothy Gish's new screen effort, "The Hope Chest," was reached this week. It is being produced under the direction of Elmer Clifton. Dick Barthelmess, former leading man for Marguerite Clark, is playing the male lead.

Fox Studio Doings

Gladys Brockwell has begun the filming of a new picture. Its tentative title is "Quicksands." It was written by Julia Burnham, and Edward LeSaint will be the director. Friend F. Baker will do the photographing. In the story Miss Brockwell takes the part of a nurse, although it is not a war picture.

Frank Lloyd, who has directed all William Farnum de luxe productions for William Fox, left for New York this week to meet William Farnum, whose next picture will be made at the Fort Lee studios. The subject will be based on an original story by E. Lloyd Sheldon, called "Freedom," and has to do with war and profiteering. Accompanying Mr. Lloyd were Scotty Dunlap, his assistant; Billy Foster, his cameraman; Mare Robbins, who acts in an advistory capacity, and W. E. Shepard, his technical director. Mr. Lloyd expects to return to Los Angeles within about six weeks. Mr. Farnum's return to the West will depend on the condition of Mrs. Farnum, who has been ill in New York.

Theda Bara left Los Angeles last Saturday for New York after being delayed one week on account of illness. According to information given out at the studios, Miss Bara is expected to make one picture in New York, when she will soon return to Los Angeles. Her director, J. Gordon Edwards, preceded Miss Bara to the Eastern metropolis. It is believed that when he returns to the Western studios that she will begin making a picture that will be as big, or even more elaborate, than "Cleopatra" or "Salome."

Henry Lehrman this week announced the engagement of Fred Fishback as a new director of Sunshine comedies. Mack Swain, George White and Ethel Tiers will be the principal players in a new comedy to be produced under Mr. Fishback's direction.

Universal Newsettes

Dorothy Phillips, who has just begun a new drama at the Universal studios entitled "Destiny," is to again have the distinction of having two leading men. They are Harry Hilliard and William Stowell. In "The Talk of the Town" she was supported by William Stowell and Norman Kerry. Hilliard made his debut in Universal productions with Edith Roberts in "A Romance for Home."

Al Ray, a cousin of Charles Ray, has been engaged as Ruth Clifford's leading man. He will appear with her in her newest Bluebird photoplay, "Home James," now being produced under the direction of Elsie Jane Wilson. It is a comedy drama.

"Riders of Vengeance" is the title of Harry Carey's next Universal Western. It was written by Carey and Jack Ford. The continuity is being prepared by Eugene B. Lewis.

Edith Robert's next photoplay will be called "The Royal Four Flush." It is being prepared for the screen by Rex Taylor.

"The Gutter Rose" is the name of the next play in which Priscilla Dean will be starred. It is based on "The Moth," a story by Evelyn Campbell. The continuity is being prepared by Harvey Gates. Ted Browning will be the director.

Robert Anderson, who played Monsieur Cuckoo in D. W. Griffith's "Hearts of the World," has been engaged by Universal. He will take an important part in Dorothy Phillip's picture, "Until We Meet Again," directed by Allen Holubar.

Juanita Hensen's new picture is called "The Wrong Side of Paradise." Many of the scenes are laid in the South Seas. Miss Hansen enacts the part of a white girl reared in the tropics by a beach comber whom she supposes to be her father. The monotony of her existence is broken when a United States Revenue Service cutter appears in the offing, and she later meets her Prince Charming.

About Metro Players

Robert Ellis, well known in stock with Morosco Stock companies, has been engaged to play the male lead with May Allison in her new play, "Thirty Days." This announcement was made Monday from the Metro studios. The picture will be directed by Webster Cullison. The story was written by Luther B. Reed and scenarioized by George D. Baker and Tom J. Geraghty. It is a lively comedy in which a lively girl with her automobile thoroughly arouses a perfectly sedate and inanimate country town. Bull Montana, formerly with Douglas Fairbanks, will play one of the principal roles in the picture.

Mary Anderson, a well known leading woman of the engenue type, who has appeared on Vitagraph and Paramount programs, has been engaged to play the feminine lead opposite Bert Lytell in "The Spender," a picture that has been in course of production for about two weeks. Up till this time no scenes were filmed in which the leading lady was compelled to make her appearance.

Live Triangle Items

"Success," the second Taylor Holmes feature for Triangle, was completed this week and is now in the editing department at the Triangle studios. It is a film adaptation from the Western comedy, "When the Highbrow Joined the Outfit," by Nina Wilcox Putnam and Norman Jacobsen. It was produced under the direction of Lawrence C. Windom. The final scenes were taken on a big Southern California sheep ranch. Incidentally, Mr. Holmes has left the Beverly Hills Hotel and has taken an attractive home in Hollywood.

Following a short vacation after returning to the Triangle studios from New York, Olive Thomas this week began work on her new picture, "Blood Will Tell."

Joe King is her leading man and Frank Borzage is her director. The cameraman is Jack Mackenzie. The story was adapted for the screen by William Parker and Beatrice Van from Verna Aldrich's original story. Miss Thomas will be seen as a Belgian girl facing the horrors of the German invasion. Joe King will appear in the uniform of an American army officer. Supporting Miss Thomas will be an exceptionally strong cast, including Mrs. Harry Vankirk, mother of Miss Thomas.

Nina Wilcox Putnam and Norman Jacobsen, whose stories in the Saturday Evening Post have brought them renown, arrived at the Triangle studios this week. Miss Putnam, it is announced, will remain in Southern California indefinitely, and she will be connected with the Triangle scenario staff.

Roy Aitken, general manager of the Triangle studios, left this week for New York. His stay in the East will be indefinite.

Director William Dowlan, who has been directing Alma Rubens, this week began work on a plan to direct Gloria Swanson in a new production until Miss Rubens recovers from her illness. "Those Unborn" is the temporary title of the Swanson picture. William Christy Cabanne is the author. It is a war story in which Miss Swanson will be seen as a Red Cross nurse. Miss Rubens, who underwent an operation for appendicitis about ten days ago, is reported to be recovering rapidly. She is expected to be at work again within a month.

Vitagraph News Bits

There have been a few transfers in the directorial staff at the Vitagraph Hollywood studio. Robert Bradbury, who played one of the "heavies" in the Hedda Nova-Frank Glendon serial, "The Woman in the Web," is assisting Director Paul Hurst in the concluding episodes of "The Iron Test," the serial in which Antonio Moreno and Carol Holloway are the featured stars. Gilbert Pratt has been given the direction of Earle Montgomery and Joe Rock in the two-reel Big V Special feature comedies. R. H. McCray, who directed these comedians in a two-reel submarine comedy at Catalina, could not be spared by W. S. Smith, manager of the studio, and he has again resumed his place as assistant to Mr. Smith.

Director David Smith, who is making "The Dawn of Understanding," the Blue Ribbon Feature in which Bessie Love will make her bow as a Vitagraph star, was one of those who registered in the 18 and 45 round-up of Uncle Sam. He left his little star and her company at Riverside, came down to Los Angeles to register and returned the same day to his location. The Love picture is nearing completion and during the ten days the company has been on location at Riverside some magnificent scenes were made.

Visitors to the end of the Santa Monica pier recently were thrillingly entertained by the Vitagraph Serial Company, which has Antonio Moreno and Carol Holloway for its stars, under the direction of Paul Hurst. The latter staged the fall of a Packard touring car, into the water off the end of the pier. Tony Moreno and another member of the company were in the car at the time of its drop.

The Larry Semon Company spent two days at the beach during the past week. They were two of the warmest days Los Angeles has had this year. This was the type of heat at which Californians shook their heads and prophesied, "This feels like earthquake weather."

In a shower of adobe the Earle Williams feature, which has the working title of "My Country First," completed its final scenes under James Young's direction at the Vitagraph studio. The blowing up of a trench marked the concluding shots in the picture. This occurred about midnight.

Here and There

Billy Rhodes is the author of a new innovation. She sold dances for two dollars each at a Red Cross benefit dance given last week at the junction of the Santa Monica boulevard and Western avenue., "Smiling Bill" Parsons assisted her. After each dance Miss Rhodes presented her partner with an autographed photograph. A tidy sum was realized, it is understood. Miss Rhodes is in the midst of a five-reel comedy called "The Springtime of Youth." It is a circus story from the pen of Bess Meredyth, and is directed by Miss Meredyth and Wilfred Lucas. Bertram Grassby is playing the leading male role.

"Bill" Parsons has been elevated to the position of production manager at the National Film Corporation's studios at Hollywood in the absence of Production Manager Isadore Bernstein. He is doing this work while at the same time he is working in a new comedy under the direction of William Chaudet.

Jack Cunningham, author and continuity writer, was this week engaged by Robert Brunton for exclusive work at the Brunton studios, according to announcement by Mr. Brunton. This step was taken, it is announced, because Mr. Brunton is arranging to accommodate as fully as possible the various producing companies with any kind of service they may need or demand. Special staffs of scenario writers, cameramen and directors, in addition to the studio technical forces, will be kept at the studios for the disposal of the space and service renters at the studios.

A new producing company, known as Mission Productions, has been formed by Los Angeles capitalists, it was announced this week, for the purpose of starring Baby Gloria Joy, aged six years. The child has been appearing in Oakdale films. I. W. Keerl, business manager of Dustin Farnum productions and secretary of the Corona Cinema Company, organized the new company, it is understood. Sherwood Macdonald, formerly with Balboa companies, has been engaged as director. Dan F. Whitcomb, who at one time wrote stories for Babie Marie Osborne, will assume similar duties for the new child star.

Dustin Farnum has just concluded a new contract with United Picture Theatres of America, under the terms of which Farnum will make eight pictures during the coming year, it is announced. Well known stories by noted writers are to be adapted for Mr. Farnum's new vehicles. Winifred Kingston, who has heretofore appeared with Farnum in his screen plays, will support him in several of the new productions.

Hollywood Hookum

OCT. 12, 1918 NEWS MORE NEWS

Rather cloudy at times.

Frank Lloyd is going East

Bill Russell is in town this week.

Double M Minter is in town this week.

Margarita Fisher is in town this week.

The American studio may be moved to town next week.

Tom Geraghty has invented the continuity shoestring.

J. Morley, by way of variety, is this week a cub reporter.

Slim Sommervile, the elongated comedian, is Vitagraphing these days.

Alice Lake is flitting about in the Sennett studio, as in days of yore.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran, during a serious moment, made a comedy scenario this week.

Hookum doesn't claim any originality in the question "Have you bought a Liberty Bond"?

Charlie and Harry Fuhr are writing a thirty-reel scenario, which they plan on sending to the Kaiser.

Tom Ince photographed the natives at San Diego last week, and will send the films "over there."

Income Tax and Liberty Bonds are the subjects of many bits of oratorical eloquence these days.

A minister's daughter has been writing to Sessue Hayakawa. Of course, she doesn't know that Sessue is married.

D. W. Griffith has a letter on Windsor Castle stationery. Yes, the King and the Queen liked the "Hearts of the World."

Bothwell Browne, the female vamp impersonator of the vaudeville stage, has been seen frisking about in front of one of Mack Sennett's cameras.

Very quiet this week in our town. Hardly any gun-play at all, inasmuch as Bill Hart's away back East, Liberty Loaning.

Charlie Chaplin has finished "Shoulder Arms." This story is really worth a page, but conservation and Hooverizing requires us to give but this space.

Red tape nowadays makes it somewhat inconvenient. Fatty Arbuckle wanted to jump from the mast of a boat into the briny deep, and it took him three hours.

Bert Lytell is to go on record as a Marathon Liberty Loan Spieler. He is going to talk four hours continuously, without note, on subjects pertaining to the war.

And now we have found an actress who desires to get away from the refined. Molly McConnell objects to being kept at the studio where she generally plays grande Dame roles.

The Ince studios are busy making a picture titled "Hard Boiled," and we regret to hear that Dorothy Dalton is being starred in a picture with such a title.

And now comes a press agent who claims the recent tidal wave of the Pacific was due to that wee bit of femininity. Mary Anderson, cavorting about in her morning plunge.

Bessie Barriscale and friend husband, Howard Hickman, her director, have found a way to keep peace in the family. They shoot the scenes both ways and permit a third party to say which is better.

Dorothy Dalton started to take a street scene this week, using a band of Salvation Army workers for atmosphere—and what do you think? The band moved right away. Of course this is no reflection on the Salvation Army.

There was quite a discussion at the "gineral store" one evening this week, and several of our well known filmsters attempted to tell why wheels turned backwards on the screen. The argument, or rather the debate, waxed warm, and was so interesting that Hookum has asked several authorities on the Cinema Art to prepare articles that the others of the industry and the people as well may know the cause of this grand phenomena. Our readers may expect some extremely interesting essays. If they are good enough, we will offer a prize for the best.

NEWSY ITEMS FROM THE STUDIOS

Little Helen Solle, of Los Angeles, Whose "Extra" Cleverness Stamps Her an Artist to Be Heard From

Miss Florence Reed, star of United Picture Theatres of America, Inc., who proved such a popular success in "Chu-chin-chow," will appear again in a new Broadway play, during which time she will also make a superfeature under the direction of John M. Stahl for the United.

In spite of an offer to return to the concert stage, Miss Dolores Cassinelli will continue her picture career, and is now at Great Neck, L. I., at work with Mr. E. K. Lincoln on the second of a series of patriotic Perret productions, "Stars of Glory," a successor to "Lafayette, We Come."

Alice Lenk, nine weeks old, is now playing in "The Hand Invisible," in which Montagu Love and Virginia Hammond are starring. Incidentally, it is Alice's fifth picture, her previous triumphs having included an impersonation of the Kaiser at the age of three weeks in "America Will Conquer." If she continues her screen career at this rate——?

Little Madge Evans declares that she is working quite as hard for the Liberty Loan as for her pictures. On Saturday last she was greatly gratified to report the sale of a $500,000 bond all by her lonesome—a splendid example for the American guard, of which she was recently appointed Colonel by Brigadier-General Dyer. Eleanor Gates is said to be very anxious to have Madge play the lead in her late dramatization of "Emmy Lou," but Madge's time is too well filled just at present to allow her to undertake the part.

The recent loss of a chinchilla scarf was not only a dire grief to its owner, Miss Louise Huff, but also quite an inconvenience to her entire company at the World studio, including Stuart Holmes, who is playing with her in "The Little Intruder." As the chinchilla could not be replaced, and Miss Huff had to wear the same fur throughout the picture, nearly 2,000 feet of film had to be retaken, and Mr. Holmes declares that, excepting the leading lady herself, he had far more work to do than anyone else.

June Elvidge and Frank Mayo are co-starring in "The Love Defender." This picture completes Mr. Mayo's contract with World, and as soon as it is finished he expects to leave for the coast.

In the Houdini serial, "The Master Mystery," which B. A. Rolfe is producing, Miss Liberty, said to be the only tame eagle in existence, will make her motion picture debut. The eagle is a special pet of Houdini's, and the magician, remembering Old Abe, the only other tame eagle ever known in this country, who was carried atop the colors during the Civil War, is hoping that Miss Liberty will ride up Fifth avenue on an American flagstaff at the head of our own returned victorious troops.

In her next picture, "Kate of Kentucky," May Allison will appear as an unkempt and ragged little mountain girl who would just as soon wear her brother's cast-off clothes as anything else. Robert T. Thornby is directing the picture.

A romantically beautiful scene will be shown in "Little Miss Moneybags," the next picture featuring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne. Much time was spent on locating the exact spot where the desired reflections in a crystal clear pool, necessary to the interpretation of the story, could be photographed, but the effect obtained is quite worth the effort expended.

As a contrast to the usual magnificent hotel scenes, Bert Lytell will have in his next picture, "The Spenders," the lobby of a "Family Hotel" in the late eighties. All the relics of the period will be used, including the plush-covered family album, the antiquated clock standing in the exact middle of the marble mantlepiece, and the uncomfortable and slippery horsehair furniture.

Barbara Castleton will be helped through several of her most difficult scenes in the "Silver King," in which she is playing opposite William Faversham, by two tiny tots—Dot Williams and Marion Stuart. "I am so glad they are in the picture," said Miss Castleton. "It is much easier to be emotional when there are children around."

Marguerite Clark and Pauline Frederick were recently the guests of Major Lyman and Captain John E. Lansdale at luncheon at Camp Merritt following the latter's visit to the Famous Players studio at Fort Lee. Alice Brady was also included in the invitation, but was unable to accept. She sent in her place a box of cigars and cigarettes almost as large as herself.

The 150 men of the 50th Infantry, Company A, in charge of Captain John E. Lansdale at Camp Merritt, who recently made their debut in the motion picture world in "Private Peat," may be said to have made up an all star cast, since they were the sole actors in the picture with the exception of Wm. Sorrelli and Miriam Fouche. At any rate, they declared that they enjoyed their screen career immensely. They were entertained at luncheon and dinner at the Paragon studio, and also were presented to Marguerite Clark, Pauline Frederick and Alice Brady. Why not? They were all fellow workers that day.

Louise Huff has just finished her fourth picture for World Pictures. It bears the title of "The Crook of Dreams," and was written by Forrest Halsey and directed by Oscar Apfel.

Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley have just completed a picturization of Kenyon Gambier's story, "Allies," which ran in the Saturday Evening Post under the title of "The Huge Black One-Eyed Man." It will be released during the coming winter.

Tefft Johnson made his first picture for World Film with Madge Evans in "The Latch String." This story was written by Mrs. Backus, who has for many years been one of the best known authorities on Normal school work as applied to young children.

Edmund Breese, star of the Metro picture, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," is the winner of the popularity contest conducted by the Morning Telegraph of New York. Not only has the actor the satisfaction of knowing his country-wide popularity, but he is also happy in the possession of a new automobile, the prize given to the lucky contestant.

The forthcoming Metro picture, starring Emmy Wehlen in "Sylvia on a Spree," will show an unusually beautiful tea-room decorated in Japanese style. The walls and tables are of polished teakwood, while the hangings are wonderful embroideries designed in black cherry branches on a mustard-colored background bordered by stenciled bamboo shoots.

"To Hell With the Kaiser," the Screen Classics production in which Olive Tell is the star, has been shown by the Government throughout military and mining camps, has caused many enlistments both in the army and navy by the enthusiasm it created, and not long ago was shown to an audience composed of "slackers," where it was noted that without exception they were converted to the universal cause against the Kaiser.

Margaret Marsh's scrap book, a dear possession, disappeared after she loaned it to Emmit Dalton, the noted bandit and outlaw, during a scene in the 15-episode Houdini serial now being produced by B. A. Rolfe. She has left its recovery to Houdini, the Master Magician, so she need hardly worry about it, do you think?

Not content with singing "The War Baby's Lullaby" for the phonograph, Geraldine Farrar sang the beautiful little song to some of her associates at the Goldwyn studio, including Mabel Normand, Tom Moore, Madge Kennedy and Mae Marsh.. How would you like to work in the Goldwyn studio?

Mabel Normand, usually most vivacious, brings with her a note of wistfulness to the Goldwyn studio these days. She has not heard from her brother, Claude, who went overseas in June. "Perhaps he has gone to Siberia. Perhaps he'll come back a Cossack and be cruel to me," mourns Mabel. But knowing soldier Normand and knowing his sister, the other stars wink at each other and say nothing.

"A Stitch in Time" is one of those spontaneous comedies where the situations develop from natural happenings—a young girl's hat is blown off her head and a young man's trousers come in contact with a nail on one of New York's busiest streets. "That's perfectly natural, isn't it?" says Mr. Schrock, as a proof of his theory that "Screen comedy technique" depends largely on the author's treatment of the commonplace incidents of life.

Madame Olga Petrova is now at work in her home at Great Neck, L. I., on an original manuscript to be known as "The Eighth Sin," which she expects to present on the speaking stage next January. Rehearsals started on September 25, and chief in support of Mme. Petrova will probably be George Basset, seen last year in "The Willow Tree."

Trinity Church will be one of the many unusual scenes which the audiences of "Five Thousand an Hour," the Metro play starring Hale Hamilton, will see in the forthcoming picture. The scene in which the church and churchyard is shown was taken from the offices of Harriman & Company, which are situated on the opposite side of Broadway facing the church. Permission was given to Director Ralph W. Ince to set up his camera in the broad windows of the offices, from where a wonderful view of the church and the passing thousands on the street below was photographed.

Metro's green and yellow parrot (not the trade-mark, but the real live mascot), is a knowing bird. Up to date his battle cry has been one which has helped to advertise his firm's wares, as at all hours of the day the studio rang with his cry "To hell with the Kaiser." Lately, however, in fact ever since the twelfth of September, the new draft registration day, he has continually warned all members of the studio to "Show your card, show your card." No one claims to be responsible for teaching him these words, so it is to be presumed that Polly wants to do his "bit" in this manner.

Gladys Leslie, Vitagraph Star in "The Mating," Blue Ribbon Feature

Special Service Section on

Wm. S. Hart in "The Border Wireless"

HERE is a picture that gives the exhibitor a real chance to get out and "do things" with it. It is a chance for showmanship coupled with the name of a star than whom none is better known.

It is not often that a thoroughly established star appears in a picture that gives the showman a chance to do something absolutely different with the exploitation of that star. But there is a brilliant one presented in the Artcraft, Ince supervised, production of William S. Hart in "The Border Wireless."

In most cases of star pictures you have the chance to say that "this is his latest picture" or "this is his greatest production." You don't have any reason for using those lines as mere lines in advertising this production. You have a chance to tell the people why it is different and what it has the big TODAY appeal in it.

Advertise this picture on what it is and tell what it is and why everyone who has ever admired this star in any production will want to see it and why everyone will get the big appeal. If you exploit this picture intelligently you can bring back every follower of "Bill" Hart and you can create new ones for him. It depends on whether you follow the hackneyed or whether you stop and think a moment.

YOU won't have to explain to the public that this is "Not a reissue." You won't have to tell them that it is "latest" if you tell the public what it is about. For this is a story of the war and bears on America's part of it and in the end you find "Bill" a soldier. And the best part of it is that you will not have to base the desire to see the picture purely on a war appeal, for you have a human element and a different element.

Now if you have in your possession that old cut of the "Two Gun Man," the first thing that you should do is to throw it away, at least so far as this is concerned.

In the first place "Bill" is not a villain in this picture. He shows the man throughout. There is never a pang for what he has done, but admiration for what he is doing.

Forget the old "grim smile," the "smirk of vengeance." Drop all the "old stuff."

JUST for a moment let us look at the character of the production. We have just a hint at the start that Hart has killed a man in another state and that he has gone further West to escape, but we haven't a bit of the crime element introduced. But on his way to Yellow Dog, Arizona, he comes across Elsa Miller, a telegrapher, who is attacked by a Mexican and rescues her and immediately falls in love with her. The love element becomes strong in the picture from the start, and that is something that the exhibitor should bear in mind here.

There is a real love story in "The Border Wireless" and it does not depend on renunciation or reform.

Then, right from the start, we have the German element introduced, for Elsa was on her way to deliver a message to Herman Brandt, presumably the head of the Magdalena mines, but really a spy conducting a wireless plant on the Mexican border. (For full story, see page 2445.)

"Bill" is there with the gun when it is necessary, and there's a flash of it, and he puts up a fight that will thrill your audiences, but these are incidents that add to the thrill, and though they add to the enjoyment of the picture you don't have to depend upon them for the selling point.

Famous Players-Lasky fully realizes this and the advertising is built around the wireless feature and the patriotic element—there is not a gun in the ready prepared newspaper advertising, and you will do well to follow the tip.

(Continued on next page)

FULL ACCESSORIES

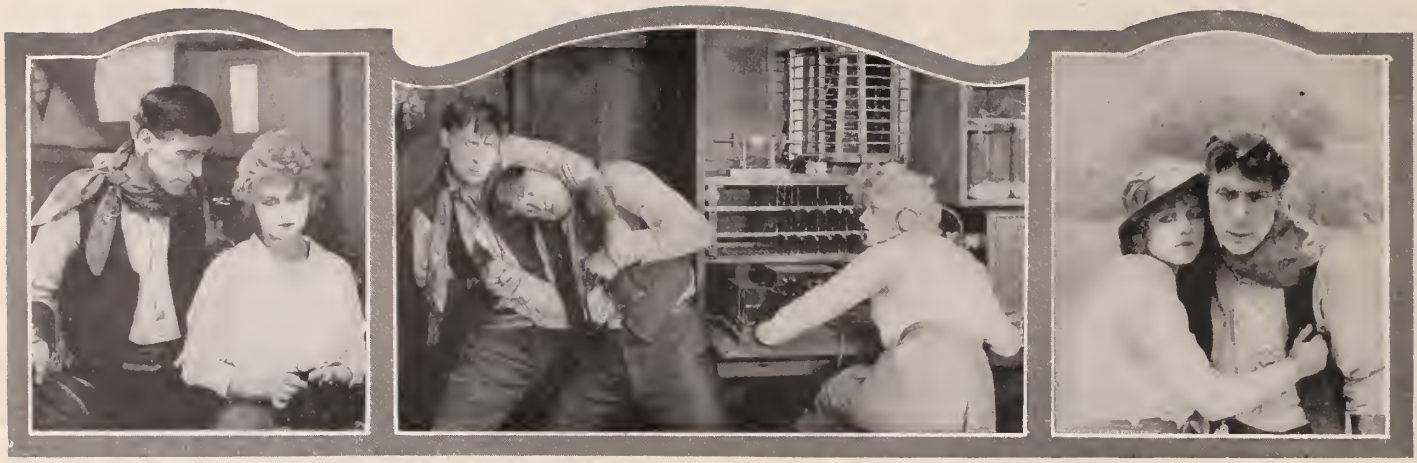
Plenty of Material For You To Advertise This Picture

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY has supplied a full line of accessories for advertising "Border Wireless." There are ready prepared advertisements and there are cuts that you can use in writing your own displays and then plenty of stills if you want to make your own cuts.

These, together with the paper, are illustrated on the advertising pages.

Make up your mind that you are going to do a little more with this production than any other of Hart's. It will pay you from every angle. You have a chance to get new business here. Think this picture first, and then talk it.

"Bill" is a real lover in this picture. Use these stills which bring out this and the comedy element



There is a big thrill around the German wireless plant that you can afford to play up as strong as possible

Strong Points to Be Brought Out in Exploiting "Border Wireless"

HOW often have you, as an exhibitor, wondered how this or that star would appear in such and such a role? How often have you assured the public that this and that are "entirely different?" You have probably made the statement and let it go at that. But here is a chance, if you use salesmanship, to show that to the public.

We have already suggested that you discard that "two gun" cut. And at the same time forget that element in your advertising. That doesn't mean that you should get away from the manliness of the picture, because Hart would be out of place in a role where he did not show the real red blood, but the point to avoid is the bandit stuff if you want to get the different appeal over.

Here we have Hart in a real romantic role. He is in love with the girl from the very start. We have some clever touches of comedy and we would play on them. If you make your own cuts you will find among the "stills" furnished by Famous Players-Lasky a number of them that bear out this angle. Some of these are reproduced on these pages. We have pictures of him with the flowers for the girl operator and we have others that get the love element in strong. It's one of the big points.

IN most of the pictures in which you have seen this player he has either seized this girl in the more or less cave man sort of fashion and has in the end won her love, or he has given her up and gone off into the mountains or into the desert. Here we have him purely as a lover.

There is one incident in the picture where he is primping himself up to call on the girl. There is a still of it that you may use in your advertising that will attract unusual attention, and even if you are not making your pictures we cannot imagine a better selling line than:

"Can you imagine 'Bill' Hart worrying about the way that his hair is brushed? He does in 'The Border Wireless' when he meets the girl operator that aids him in saving his country."

A REAL HERO

Play Up That This Is a Story Whose Ending Will Please

IN these days people like pictures whose endings are happy and that are without anything of the gruesome in them. That is one of the strong points in "The Border Wireless." Keep that fact before the public and keep that atmosphere in all of your exploitation.

Talk about Bill Hart's smile.

Talk about the way he makes love.

Talk about the incident when he is worried by the appearance of his hair—when he "slicks himself up."

Talk about Bill enlisting.

Then they'll all know that it is different, that it is an up to the minute production and you'll have everyone of the Hart fans and a lot of others besides in front of your theatre.

Specialize on this picture like it was your one picture of the season. You'll find it worth while.

Here's another line that will make them know that it is something different:

"He's there with a smile, for his face is lit with the ardor of love. Can you imagine 'Bill' Hart helpless with a bunch of flowers in his hands and faced by the girl he loves?"

Or this one:

"It doesn't take Steve Ransome to learn the girl he loves, and he fights for her and wins, for her and for his country."

THAT is one element in the production—an intensely strong heart appeal, but there is a second one and that is the patriotic. When you get the two combined in your advertising you have something hard to beat.

This is not a picture that is built on the patriotic appeal simply. There is a tense story, and the patriotic element comes in more or less incidentally, but it comes strong and with a punch to it. You

Here are a few lines:

"How do you think 'Bill' Hart would look in khaki? You see him as an American soldier in 'The Border Wireless.'

"He wrecks the ambitions of German spies in this country and then joins the American cavalry to put an end to the Hun over there. And you know what happens when 'Bill' and his horse and his gun start after 'em."

AS we have said, there is a wonderful fight scene in this picture, but we would regard it as rather incidental in order to get over the other big points in the story. You need not worry about pleasing the Hart fans, but if you can get additional ones in, so much the better. If there are those who have tired of the bandit style of picture, you have a stronger appeal than ever here by playing the elements of love and patriotism—two unbeatable elements.

"Talk" this picture in your advertising. Don't be content merely with a cut and the name of the star and the title of the picture. As a matter of fact, you can advertise this production without the use of a cut, if you use the proper selling arguments.

You don't have to impress upon the public that this is not a reissue.

You don't have to worry about repeating that this is Hart's latest picture.

Simply tell what it is about in brief sentences such as we have indicated to you.

Don't advertise this merely as a "war picture." Tell what Hart does in it and why he does it. Then you'll get the women who want to see "Bill" love and the men who want to see him fight.

Use of stills like these will help you get the most out of the picture in cooperating with the Liberty Loan. All will want to see Hart as a soldier

This Picture Helps Liberty Loan and Makes Friends

THIS picture comes to you at a time when you can do service to yourself and aid the government. It is not a war picture, but it is one that will do a great deal to stimulate subscriptions to the Liberty Loan, because it is a typically American picture and it has just enough of the war punch to get the thrill.

With the audiences at the Rialto theatre this week the picture is drawing unusual applause because the sentiments of the production get close home. It is the sort of a picture that will help your local committee get subscriptions and you ought to be able to get their endorsements easily. We would see to it that the leading workers in the drive come to the first presentations. You can use their personal endorsements in your advertisements and pull business with them.

But pictures such as this do more than get business for one production in your community. They will increase the interest in the photoplays as a whole and they will add convincing testimony to the part that the motion picture is doing in winning the war. The usual sensational war picture works for the single picture only, but here you have one where the genuine patriotic theme will build for your theatre permanently. And it's well worth while putting more advertising behind such a picture, not alone for the direct returns, but for future business.

YOU can get excellent decorative work for your lobby by using the three-sheet which shows the figure of Hart in uniform and his horse. Add the neeessary portion and mount these on cardboard and behind them you can use a decorative border of American flags to carry out the effect. Certainly you will not have to tell the public that this is a "different" sort of picture after you have shown the people Hart in an American uniform. The six-sheet may be similarly used because this shows the girl in Hart's arms with the American flag in the background.

In another place we have suggested the use of a wireless station in your lobby, and this with the cut-outs and the flags will be enough for your main effect. But we would strongly urge you to display prominently those of the stills that shows that this is a patriotic love story.

In other words make this a different display than any that you have made before on a Hart picture. Don't let anyone lead you in stacking the lobby full of so-called war relics or "Wild West" implimenta. Love and patriotism are your two big strong lines and these you want to play to the exclusion of everything else except the wireless element.

FOR your program and for the advertising that you design yourself, you are provided with three-column and single-column cuts of Hart in the role of a soldier and we would advise their use there and on your heralds. They will attract more attention than anything else that you can use and they will carry more conviction than volumes of reading matter.

You can arrange an attractive card for mailing purposes by using the one-column cut of Hart and then on other side say: "Bill Hart becomes a soldier of Uncle Sam in 'Border Wireless' after he has foiled a Hun plot and has won the girl with an impetuous wooing."

The three-column cut showing the fight in the wireless plant with the girl seated at the key is another strong one for use in your advertising or for newspaper illustration. We would recommend that you confine the use of cuts largely to those showing one of the three main elements, that of patriotism or of the girl or of the wireless plot. Then you are getting away from any other exploitation that you have ever done in a Hart picture and you are going to save yourself a lot of descriptive matter.

IN our opinion you do not need teaser or stunt stuff on this production. You are going to get more of them into your theatre on the merits of the production and by telling just what sort of a role Hart has here. And after that keep all of your exploitation on the same high level that you expect that the word-of-mouth advertising that is going to accrue will maintain.

You've got the goods here and you are equipped with the means to put over this picture. Forget all about the "reissue" and go to it. Hundred per cent exploitation here will bring you increased returns.

WIRELESS PLANT

Here's a Chance For a Novelty in Your Lobby Display

THIS has been done before, and it has been proven by the patronage that it has drawn.

You probably won't be able to get a wireless plant these days because the supply is exhausted by the demands of Our Boys over there for use in sending back the news of captured Huns. But there is an imitation that any electrician in your town can fix up for you. Get an ordinary telegraph instrument and an operator. Then have the electrician so arrange two wires so that with each touch of the instrument there will be a splutter and a flash. Any telegrapher will show you how to use an ordinary sardine can in the sounder so as to get the click that will draw attention.

Use an upright at either end of the lobby and string wire across these and you will pretty well have a wireless plant right in your theatre. It will stop the greater share of those going by and if the rest of your display is attractive there will be no trouble about getting them in.

Exporters' Special Section

Filming Our Way to Berlin

President Paul H. Cromelin, of Inter-Ocean, Tells of Far-Carrying Power of Our Films

WHILE our armies and generals are smashing their way through hostile territory the American motion picture is carrying the American Idea—of democracy and freedom—to the heart of Germany, in Berlin and elsewhere, via the screens of the countries that border on Germany.

This is due to the wonderful aid given to American film producers by the Committee on Public Information, who have secured for our films shipping facilities despite almost unsurmountable handicaps. And the committee has not aided us because our films were "propaganda." Very few of the films sent to the neutral countries bordering on Germany were of that type.

But the films that did go illustrated the best American ideals, the highest American thought and the spirit of absolute democracy that reigns here. Where neutral peoples would object to propaganda films they did not object to plain stories from real life. The fact that such stories depicted the high moral standards of Americans didn't make them objectionable—quite the reverse.

President Paul H. Cromelin, of Inter-Ocean Film Corporation

Of course, there is a constant ebb and flow of feeling between Germany and the nations on her border. Despite rigorous passport regulations, there is really more border-crossing than in peace time, for the reason that Germany has so many articles to secure, and she is shut out of all but the few neutral markets. Where she had access to every country before the war, her representatives are now permitted in only a few, and the result is that these few never saw so many Germans as they do right now.

These Germans are necessarily affected by the sentiments prevailing in the countries that they visit. So are the citizens of these neutral countries, who in return visit Germany. And the screens of these neutral countries are crystallizing public sentiment, bringing it to a knowledge of the true aims of America or Americans, slowly but surely removing Americans from the enemy-conceived role of profiteers and mercenaries.

We have won the heart of the neutrals through the screen, and across their borders and into Berlin is flashing a new, true picture of men who fight for high principle. This great truth is fatal to the plan of the Berlin militarists. It shakes the morale of their populace, makes them ask questions, diminishes their faith in their leaders and chills the war spirit. Thanks to the screen, we are literally "filming out way to Berlin"!

CORPORAL DARBY HOLMES HELPS TOBACCO FUND

A successful drive in behalf of "Our Boys in France" Tobacco Fund, of which MOTION PICTURE NEWS is the official organ, was put over by Corporal Darby Holmes at the 81st Street Theatre last week.

By permission of the British Government the soldier-author appeared in full uniform at the 81st Street Theatre, where he made an inspiring appeal for contributions.. He impressed upon the large audience at each performance the necessity for cigarettes and tobacco ever evistant among our American soldier fighting for us on the European battle fields. The first two days of the drive, he circulated several thousand subscription blanks among the audiences from which excellent returns were received.

On the final day of the drive he enlisted the aid of several uniformed men and a contribution was taken up which resulted in securing $186.51. Managing Director A. L. Shakmen, of the 81st Street Theatre, one of the most patriotic theatre managers in New York, gave full and complete assistance during the smoke drive.

DON'T FORGET THE SMOKES FOR THE BOYS

Universal Gets Globe Trotter as Export Head

G. R. Hammond, Who Has Traveled in Many Lands and Who Speaks Many Tongues, Takes Place of K. W. Linn—Latter Leaves the Picture Industry

G. R. Hammond, new director of the export department of Universal

THE Universal last week obtained the services of a distinguished traveler and student of world trade conditions to take the place of K. W. Linn, who is resigning as head of the company's export department to enter the industrial field. The newcomer is G. R. Hammond, of New York.

Mr. Hammond returned about six months ago from Spain, where he had passed the previous year. He has been absent for long periods from America, traveling in South America, Europe and the Far East. His experience includes several complete trips around the world.

Mr. Linn tendered his resignation in order to become president of the Granolite Corporation, with offices at No. 95 Liberty street. This enterprise is in the business of supplying powdered granite to industrial concerns. The product is used as an ingredient in the manufacture of paint, automobile tires, soap, roofing, etc.

The departing film manager announced that his decision was based purely on the attractiveness of the offer from the Granolite Corporation. His associates of the Universal assert he is leaving with the company's best wishes.

Mr. Linn came to the Universal four years ago, when the sale of films to the foreign market was in its infancy. Under his management the department grew fast, and despite many difficulties due to the war, the volume of exports reached large proportions.

The Universal now has fifteen foreign branches, so located that they serve every neutral and Allied country. It is the largest department of its kind in the film industry.

Mr. Hammond, the new manager, speaks French, Italian, Spanish and Portuguese, and besides his native tongue. A tinge of the foreign accent creeps occasionally into his conversation, due to his long sojourns abroad.

He had a hopeful, interesting statement to make on conditions he found in international commerce.

"The future looks bright for American trade," he said. "Especially is this true of the opportunities to be found in Spain. South America offers a great field for us, but the American exporters will have to make a fight for it."

Mr. Hammond declared that Germany is even now conducting a vigorous trade warfare in neutral countries, and is laying the groundwork for the most intense kind of competition after the war. He explained how that nation had virtually captured the South American market by extending long-time credits to the importers.

This market can be taken over now by America, he asserted, if the exporters would strive to give the kind of credits and service the Germans formerly did. Most of the South American countries were strongly pro-Ally, he declared.

He found Spain to be undergoing a radical change of sentiment during the last year, but declared his belief that the country will remain neutral.

"In the first three years of the struggle Spain was strongly pro-German," he said. "But lately it has been gradually turning its sympathies toward the Entente Allies."

Mr. Hammond expressed his opinion that the commercial arrangements between Spain and all other countries on both sides of the war were of such a nature that she probably could not be drawn into the fray. Spain offered especially fine commercial advantages to the United States, he added.

He confidently believes that the American film producers will reap a harvest abroad. The foreign pictures, he declared, were much inferior to the American product in the average. This was due, he said, to the fact that the foreign producers do not invest one-tenth the amount of money in manufacture that American companies do. Big salaries to stars were unheard of abroad, he said.

Mr. Hammond is in his thirties and rather youngish in appearance. He was born in Atlanta, Ga.

June Elvidge Receives Many Letters from Abroad

WHAT World Pictures say is an indication that of the great advance made since the start of the war in the exportation of American films is contained in the experiences of June Elvidge, famous World Pictures star, with letters from foreign admirers.

Before the declaration of war by the United States Miss Elvidge seldom received more than one or two letters a month from foreign film fans. Now her monthly average is about seventy-five, with the average constantly climbing upward. These letters come from all parts of the world, with the exception, of course, that no letters are received from the countries of the Central Powers. In her last month's foreign mail Miss Elvidge received letters from England, France, Italy, the Scandinavian countries, Japan, Australia and South America. World Pictures are now being shown regularly, on a weekly release basis, in all the countries of the world, with the exception of those with whom we are at war.

At INTER-OCEAN or London,

Special Talk with "Exporters' Special Section"

FLORENCE REED

J. WARREN KERRIGAN

LOUISE HUFF

HENRY B. WALTHALL

JUNE ELVIDGE

YOU'LL find these stars in big, money-making World, Paralta, Plaza, Selexart or other famous brands. You'll find great special features like "Wives of Men," with Florence Reed; "Hearts Across the Seas," with Arnold Daly; "The Victim," with Robert T. Haines; Ince's "Whither Thou Goest"; Pyramid's "Inside the Lines" and "Man of Bronze"; Selexart's "Honor's Cross," "Blue Blood" and "Social Ambition." Or adventure and travel specials like the "Frederick Burlingham Series," "Hunting Big Game in the Frozen North," and "The 13th Labor of Hercules." Or sparkling comedies like the Black Diamond, Vim, Bingo, "Charley" (Mabel and Fatty) cartoons.

INTER-OCEAN FILM

INTER-OCEAN BUILDING, 218
164 WARDOUR ST., LONDON, W.

ARNOLD DALY

ALICE BRADY

INTER-OCEAN FILM CORPORATION

KITTY GORDON

WE OPERATE

BUILDING, New York You'll Find →

Readers by

Paul H. Cromelin

President

BESSIE BARRISCALE

CARLYLE BLACKWELL

LOUISE GLAUM

MONTAGUE LOVE

RHEA MITCHELL

LEWIS S. STONE

YOU'LL find, too, Standard supplies and accessories like the "Fulco" list embracing 300 articles; Speer Carbons, which now lead the world in point of sales, and the wonderful Globe Steel Reel that permits the quick replacement of a broken spring. But, best of all, you'll find at "Inter-Ocean Building" courtesy, consideration, the will-to-please and the capacity to understand your exact needs and then fill them. You'll find—most important—a knowledge of your local conditions and an organization that, right through, is skilled in all that pertains to successful film exporting. You'll find—so important!—an organization that maintains a shipping schedule in and out of war time, that packs its pictures properly, invoices them properly, includes the proper advertising matter and thereby gives you service plus. You'll find, should you ever visit New York or London, a place with us to headquarter—logical, convenient, in the very heart of each film district—with a staff that is out to serve you and make your stay pleasant and profitable.

CORPORATION

Paul H. Cromelin, President

WEST 42ND STREET, NEW YORK

43 RUE LA BRUYERE, PARIS

EVERY-WHERE

KATHLEEN CLIFFORD

INTER-OCEAN FILM CORPORATION

ETHEL CLAYTON

Exporting—The Publicity Side

By BERT ADLER

Publicity and Advertising, Inter-Ocean Film Corp.

WHEN one day last February Paul H. Cromelin told me to "go ahead on the Inter-Ocean account"—which I had been making eyes at for almost a year—I thought I had a very choice and "cinchy" (advertising man's parlance) addition to my string. I was quickly undeceived on the "cinchy" side.

Bert Adler, of Inter-Ocean Film Corporation—Exporters' Special Section

I found that I was to "keep up" a mailing list that had as its address limits the poles. I found that I had to extend my acquaintance with periodical circulations to such heretofore "unknowns" as "Dun's Review," "The American Exporter," "Export American Industries" and a few in foreign languages that I won't mention for fear you might think I am trying to show how well acquainted with foreign tongues I am—not!

You will wonder how I got around this matter of the foreign language papers, many of them so vitally important in sales promotion of this sort. Well, Mr. Cromelin quickly provided for that; he put one of his foreign language experts "on" these journals and I regularly received English translations of all the data that would interest a house like Inter-Ocean.

The reader would be surprised at the size of our mailing list. He hears of the "twenty thousand address lists" that American film companies maintain, and will surely presume that a firm like the Inter-Ocean, which expects to cover the world, has a list that, proportionately, runs into the hundred thousand class. The fact is, our list is amazingly limited, because we are unusually strict in our surveillance of it. And also because, to begin with, an address has to be 100 per cent. "live" to go on it.

But we would rather have a restricted all-live list and work it hard, than a list of tremendous proportions to utilize now and then. We are certain that the magnificent results secured by Inter-Ocean in the foreign markets for numerous American film brands and several American moiton picture accessories is in large part due to persistent, systematized "hammering" at a not overlarge mailing list.

There is lots of joy for the American advertising man in export promotion work. You feel that you are helping spread the gospel of Americanism everywhere. It is a wonderful field for new ideas. There is really no limit to the results to be had from the proper exploitation of almost any good sales plan. And of course it's real fun to work with a man like Paul H. Cromelin, who knows his export field as Foch knows his Hun!

New Kinema Review Takes the Field

TOWARDS the end of the month of June there was published in Rome a new Kinema Review, international in character, written and compiled for the purpose of forwarding and facilitating business relations between the leading producing and selling markets. This review, entitled Cinemundus, is said to be backed by large financial support, and has in view vast industrial designs, based upon a group of journalists and businessmen, especially of businessmen having import and export business with foreign firms. The leading prerogative and characteristic of this review, it is said, will consist in the fact that it will be printed in four languages, namely Italian, French, English and Spanish. Every number will be profusely illustrated.

Complete Plan Book on Page 2443

John Olsen & Co.

Oversea Film Trading Co.

LONDON, STOCKHOLM, COPENHAGEN AND CHRISTIANIA

IN THE MARKET FOR SCANDINAVIAN RIGHTS ON ALL PRODUCTIONS OF MERIT

¶ Experience in the Scandinavian markets and personal representatives in nearly all the larger cities in Sweden, Norway and Denmark, fits us to handle your pictures to the very best advantage.

¶ We have the rights to such pictures as "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance" and many others.

¶ We want Comedies, Novelties, Educationals, Scenics, and all other short subjects as well as features.

¶ Write or phone us.

602 CANDLER BLDG. Tel. Bryant 4180-4181

E. MATTISON, Gen. Mgr.

"Do YOU Know What a Picture Is Worth in the Foreign Market?"

If you don't, how are you going to get all that is coming to you out of your splendid American production?

If you don't know how much a picture should bring, you cause the foreign buyers to go elsewhere and they are deprived of your better pictures.

Our specialized knowledge enables us to serve both ends, and we ask only a fair return for our efforts in bringing buyer and seller together.

We guarantee, to their mutual advantage.

Let Us Try It for You

J. FRANK BROCKLISS INC.

SIDNEY GARRETT Pres.

General Exporter and Importer

729 Seventh Ave. ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ New York City

Procedure Governing Exports to Sweden

THE War Trade Board, under date of September 23, has announced the adoption of the following regulations governing the procedure with respect to the issuance of licenses for the exportation of commodities to Sweden. Previous announcement with respect to such regulations (W. T. B. R. 19, August 9, 1918) is hereby withdrawn.

1. Exporters should apply for licenses to the Bureau of Exports, Washington, D. C., using application Form X, and such supplemental information sheets concerning the commodity as are required.

2. Exporters in the United States, before filing applications for export licenses, must obtain from the prospective importer in Sweden advice that there has been issued by an appropriate importing association, or by the Statens Handel's Kommission, a certificate covering the proposed consignment. The number of the certificate should be forwarded by the importer in Sweden to the American exporter. This number should be specified on Supplemental Information Sheet X-104, which must be duly executed and annexed to the application for an export license.

3. Applications for licenses to export to Sweden, commodities for which an importing association certificate or a Statens Handel's Kommission certificate is required, will be considered only in the event that the said certificate has been issued subsequntly to June 28, 1918. Certificates issued prior to that date will be treated as void, and exporters in the United States should not apply for licenses to export to Sweden on the basis of import certificates issued prior to June 28, 1918. The correct serial numbers of certificates issued subsequently to June 28, 1918, will be higher than 10,832.

4. In filing applications for license to ship commodities which are controlled by an import association, the shipment must be consigned to the association that issued the certificate, and exporters are required to state on the application the name of the person or firm in whose favor the import certificate was issued; as, for example:

(13) Wool Import Assocation, Stockholm, Sweden.
(14) Purchased abroad. (Here state person or firm to whom certificate was issued. Address of such person or firm.)

5. The import certificates for commodities which are not controlled by Swedish import associations will be furnished by the Statens Hendel's Kommission, and the goods may be consigned directly to the importer.

6. Commodities to be exported to Sweden may be shipped only on vessels flying the Swedish flag.

7. The War Trade Board further announces that no purchases for export to Sweden, nor arrangements for the manufacture of any article for export to that country, should be made before an export license has been secured.

8. The War Trade Board have been advised that the following import associations in Sweden will accept, on behalf of the Swedish importer actually interested, consignments of the articles mentioned below. Other import associations may be formed in the near future, in which case due announcement will be made.

Robertson-Cole to Distribute in United States

ROBERTSON-COLE, of 1600 Broadway, have decided to enlarge their scope by adding United States distribution to their export business, which has been growing steadily since the company was organized. Heretofore, the business of the Robertson-Cole Company has been confined to the purchase of feature productions for export. The new plans, according to an announcement, will include the distribution of films in the United States as well.

Robertson-Cole have bought the rights (world) to several big

(Continued on page 2404)

The Nippon Katsudo-Shasin Kaisha

(Japan Cinematograph Co., Ltd.)

(TOKYO and LONDON)

CONTROLLING EXCLUSIVE RIGHTS TO THE FOLLOWING MANUFACTURERS' PRODUCTS—

PARAMOUNT, METRO, TRIANGLE, WORLD, FOX, PATHE, VITAGRAPH, ETC., ETC.

Mr. U. ONO

SOLE AGENT

220 West Forty-second Street, New York City

PHONE BRYANT 4180-81

NEW YORK CALCUTTA SINGAPORE LONDON
SAN FRANCISCO BOMBAY RANGOON SYDNEY

ROBERTSON-COLE COMPANY

World-wide Film Distributors

TO THE PRODUCER:

are offered exceptional cash facilities for the purchase, in New York, of High Class Photoplays. We are prepared to execute contracts backed by our splendid financial resources and our unusual selling opportunities for the best possible handling of films by our numerous offices in the largest cities of the world.

TO THE BUYER OF FOREIGN RIGHTS:

Our catalogue of recent productions includes the output of some of the best of American film manufacturers. We are constantly adding to our already large and comprehensive list of pictures. Our policy of " nothing too good or too big for the Robertson-Cole Company " has resulted in our procuring the pick of the productions from the leading Independent manufacturers.

SOME OF OUR RECENT OFFERINGS:

We have just contracted with Jesse D. Hampton for the series of eight photoplays with the popular young American star, J. WARREN KERRIGAN, and have already distributed such successful pictures from this series as A Burglar for a Night, A Dollar Bid, Prisoners of the Pines, and Three X Gordon. We have also contracted with Mr. Hampton for the world's rights to the series of photoplays he will make with the widely known star, WILLIAM DESMOND. Our past record of successful sales include The Eagle's Eye, Tarzan of the Apes, Those Who Pay, The Woman Eternal, The Accidental Honeymoon, Passing of the Third Floor Back, Stolen Orders, The Zeppelin's Last Raid, and two score of others, all equally popular as distinct screen achievements.

ROBERTSON-COLE COMPANY

World-wide Film Distributors

1600 BROADWAY NEW YORK

Vitagraph In Foreign Markets

ANNOUNCEMENT is made for the first time of my achievements with VITAGRAPH productions during the past five months.

IT has suited my purpose to work quietly and conservatively until actual accomplishments could be cited.

SPAIN:—Delivered—The serials "Fighting Trail" and "Vengeance and the Woman." Contracted for—Four additional serials and all Blue Ribbon Productions on exclusive basis.

BRAZIL:—Delivered—The serials "Secret Kingdom," "Fighting Trail" and "Vengeance and the Woman"; 3 Vitagraph Special Productions. Contracted for—Four additional serials and all Blue Ribbon Productions on exclusive basis.

CHILE:—Delivered—The serials "Secret Kingdom," "Fighting Trail" and "Vengeance and the Woman"; 2 Vitagraph Special Productions. Contracted for—Four additional serials and 36 Blue Ribbon Productions for the year.

CUBA:—Delivered—The serials "Secret Kingdom," "Fighting Trail" and "Vengeance and the Woman"; 3 Vitagraph Special Productions. Contracted for—Four additional serials and 40 Blue Ribbon Productions for the year.

PORTO RICO:——Delivered—The serials "Secret Kingdom" and "Fighting Trail"; 15 Blue Ribbon Productions. Contracted for—Four additional serials and 40 Blue Ribbon Productions for the year.

PHILIPPINES:—Delivered—The serials "Secret Kingdom," "Fighting Trail" and "Vengeance and the Woman"; 4 Vitagraph Special Productions.

ARGENTINA:—Delivered—The serials "Secret Kingdom," "Fighting Trail" and "Vengeance and the Woman"; 3 Vitagraph Special Productions.

MEXICO:—Delivered—The serial "Secret Kingdom"; 3 Vitagraph Special Productions.

A TOTAL OF 2,792,000 FEET FROM ONE PRODUCER—CLOSED

OTHER productions of other producers have likewise been placed during this interval.

WHAT CAN I DO FOR YOUR PRODUCT?

L. H. ALLEN
Foreign Market Distribution of Motion Pictures
729 SEVENTH AVE., NEW YORK

Robertson-Cole in United States

(Continued from page 2402)

features and will dispose of not only the foreign showings but are planning the disposition of these productions so far as the United States is concerned. Whether or not these productions will be sold on the state rights basis or otherwise has not been determined. In the future whenever productions are purchased for the export market Robertson-Cole Company will make a serious effort to include Canada as well.

To provide for the expeditious handling of this expansion they have secured additional quarters at 1600 Broadway, and announce the following additions to their staff:

William A. Fine, of Chicago, will be office manager and in charge of the accounting department; David J. Mountan, formerly with William Fox, will have charge of the physical distribution of productions for the export trade, and Alexander Beyfuss, general manager for Herbert Brenon and the California Motion Picture Company, will look after the distribution of productions in the United States. At present he will devote his entire energies to the releasing of the Martin Johnson pictorial feature entitled "Among the Cannibal Isles of the South Pacific." It will be recalled that when this production was shown at the Rivoli Theatre in July that it was unusually well received by the critics of the trade as well as the general newspaper press.

Exporters Plan to Seek Relief from Tax

AT a meeting of the Flm Exporters of America, Inc., held September 27, at Rector's, in New York, it was decided to adopt a definite method of procedure in an endeavor to get back money paid in footage tax on exported films. Harry G. Kosch, attorney for the exporters, said they had a clear case.

Greater Vitagraph and the Western Import Company have signified their willingness to co-operate with the exporters in sending a petition to Attorney-General Gregory in which will be set forth the plea of the exporters to have the tax when applied to indirect shipments, which almost all the exporters do, declared illegal as was done in the case of films when sent direct from the producer.

The Film Exporters of America, Inc., wishes it known that its members are particularly anxious to learn of the firms who will become a party to the petition, because it is desirable to make the brief contain as strong a representation as possible.

David P. Howells, Sidney Garrett and W. E. Shallenberger discussed the legal phases of the question, September 28, in Mr. Howell's office from the Association's angle. Later the other interests were consulted and the one petition will be formulated.

The exporters, at the meeting, passed a resolution pledging their aid to the Committee on Public Information in its foreign work. They are anxious to assist in every possible way, and they have therefore arranged a meeting in the hope that they may be able to relieve or assist the committee in the furthering of American propaganda. Sidney Garrett, secretary, arranged a meeting with Public Information officials, October 3, at 4:30 o'clock in the Yacht Room of the Astor.

Piedmont Declares Exporting Is Still Young

THE film export trade, according to the Piedmont Pictures Corporation, one of the large firms engaged solely in the export of American films, is still in its embryonic state. As far as the prospects and expectations are concerned they are actually overwhelming, and as for future business already placed or about to be placed, they form the basis for safe conjecture.

"I have spoken personally to several large buyers, who confirm my belief in every way. In fact, it is no longer a belief; it is an established fact. Before the outbreak of the world war practically all of the films used in South America came from France

(Continued on page 2406)

Max Glucksmann

BUENOS AIRES

has just acquired the exclusive rights for

ARGENTINA
URUGUAY
PARAGUAY
CHILE
PERU
BOLIVIA

On Ten

MUTUAL-EMPIRE ALL STAR PRODUCTIONS

And Six

MUTUAL-EDNA GOODRICH PRODUCTIONS

ALSO THE EXCLUSIVE RIGHTS TO THE

EDISON PRODUCTIONS

AND THE SPECIAL GEORGE KLEINE PRODUCTION

"The Unbeliever"

The acquisition of these high class pictures is in accord with MAX GLUCKSMANN'S usual policy to supply his South American exchanges with

Quality and Quantity

American producers are advised that MAX GLUCKSMANN is in the market for any quantity of pictures for the above-mentioned territories.

Max Glucksmann now controls the following brands in his territory:

PATHE, TRIANGLE, METRO, MUTUAL-EMPIRE ALL STAR, MUTUAL-EDNA GOODRICH, AMERICAN, BALBOA, ESSANAY, MUTUAL-CHAPLIN, Etc., Etc.

MAX GLUCKSMANN
110 West 40th Street
New York

Jacobo Glucksmann
Manager

Exporting Still Young—Piedmont

(Continued from page 2404)

and Italy. At the outbreak of the war, the smaller producing companies were forced to discontinue producing and the larger companies turned out less pictures. These and subsequent conditions compelled the foreign buyer to turn to this country for his supply. And his satisfaction equaled that of the American exporter, for when he bought a few American subjects he found that his customers and the public in general liked the American style or subject, the American atmosphere and the American acting much better than he did the European. The question than was, 'Is this the case because the American films are a novelty, or will it last'? It lasted, and so well that every big foreign exchange has a buyer right here in New York City looking after its purchases.

"It would seem as though that cuts the exporter out—but far from it. In fact, it was just what the exporter wanted, because the export conditions during the last year became worse and worse, delays in getting licenses, etc. The foreign buyer in his quiet and normal country couldn't see that even by a stretch of the imagination and when his representatives came here he saw it quickly and surely, with the result that the exporters were given more business than ever.

"The film purchasing for foreign countries will never leave this country. That is proven by the large number of contracts we have closed for South America covering entire outputs of some of the biggest producers for an entire year, and in most cases with an option on the customer's side for another year, and still another. Among these number the Paralta subjects, Ivan and Rialto de Luxe pictures, Metro, Fox, etc., beside a great number of independent pictures. Yes, film export is young and growing fast, and I say without fear of contradiction, that as soon as this war is over and export conditions become less strained, the trade is due for an unprecedented boom, barring no other industry."

Glucksmann Gets New Contracts for Other Countries

JACOBO GLUCKSMANN, the manager of the New York buying office of Max Glucksmann, has taken another spurt of activity, having recently signed some new contracts for his territory of Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay, Chile, Peru and Bolivia. He has just acquired the exclusive rights for the above mentioned territory on the special Metro picture, "The Million-Dollar Dollies," starring the famous Dolly sisters.

He has also purchased the following ten Mutual-Empire All-Star Productions: "The Richest Girl," "The Unforeseen," "Please Help Emily," "Outcast," "The Beautiful Adventure," "The Runaway," "My Wife," "Her Sister," "The Girl and the Judge," "The Impostor."

Besides the above he also now controls the exclusive rights in his entire territory for the following six Mutual-Edna Goodrich Productions: "Reputation," "Daughter of Maryland," "American Maid," "Queen X.," "Who Loved Him Best," "Her Second Husband."

This week is was learned that Jacobo Glucksmann had closed a deal for the Edison pictures, and also bought the special picture, "The Unbeliever," produced by George Klein.

Although the concern of Max Glucksmann has been known to American producers for some years past, the establishment of a New York buying office under the direction of his brother, Jacobo Glucksmann, some eighteen months ago, has resulted in the name of Max Glucksmann, becoming known in the United States as one of the largest buyers and distributors for the territories of Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay, Chile, Peru and Bolivia, and the extensive advertising campaigns which the South American branches of Max Glucksmann conduct for the productions they control has tended greatly to increase the acquaintance of that South American public with American brands.

Jacobo Glucksmann's incessant energy and able selection of the best material the American market produces, has enabled him to uphold his concern's motto of quality and quantity.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT YOUR PICTURE IS WORTH IN THE FOREIGN MARKET?

If handled properly it may net you an extra income large enough to represent the difference between an "even break" and a substantial profit. Make your connections for foreign business NOW with the man who knows the entire field through actual first-hand contact with the best moving picture markets abroad.

CONTROLLING—First National, Paramount and Goldwyn Features—OVERSEAS

DAVID P. HOWELLS

729 7th Avenue, New York Film Exporter Phone Bryant 1166

International Variety & Theatrical Agency, Ltd.

Head Office: 3 LEICESTER STREET, LONDON

Branch Offices: JOHANNESBURG, CALCUTTA and SINGAPORE

Agents for African Films Trust Ltd.

African Theatres Trust Ltd.
African Film Productions Ltd.
India Films Ltd.
Middle East Films Ltd.

I.V.T.A.

I. V. T. A. 416 PUTNAM BUILDINGS
1493 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Mayfair Film Corporation

Announces

the acquisition of the World's Rights for

THE STILL ALARM

excepting the United States of America, Alaska, Dominion of Canada and Newfoundland

All Enquiries To

I. V. T. A. 416 PUTNAM BUILDINGS
1493 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Cables: LITORN Phone: Bryant 7660-61

PIEDMONT PICTURES CORPORATION of New York
130 West 46th Street N. Y. City

WORLD'S RIGHTS ON TEMPTATION
(5 REELS)
A fascinating psychological study of "The Eternal Combat."

LAW OF THE NORTHWOODS
(6 REELS)
A powerful love story of the Great Northwest.

THE MARRIED VIRGIN
(6 REELS)
Featuring CATHERINE KIRKHAN.

WHEN DESTINY WILLS
(5 REELS)

THE MAN WHO COULD NOT LOSE
(5 REELS)

THE SON OF STRIFE
(5 REELS)
An incident of the Great World War.

TRAITORS WITHIN THE GATES
(6 REELS)
Revealing the intrigue of the Kaiser's Agent, Bolo Pasha, and his followers.

Cable Address HABUNG NY Telephone Bryant 4200

STOLL FILM CO., LTD.
LONDON

The Largest Distributing Organization in Great Britain

U. S. Representative
ARTHUR L. FULLMAN
302 BROADWAY, N. Y.

We Can Pay Attractive Prices for Old Moving Picture Films in Reels or Scrap

PETER LEONARDIS & SONS
132 Nassau St., New York City 55 to 59 River St., Newark, N. J.

Advertising Here Makes Your Money Do Its Full Duty

Regarding the Foreign Salesman

By GUS SCHLESINGER
of the Inter-Ocean Film Corp. Sales Staff

THE salesman of foreign film is supposed to be a merry individual who knows how to buy campaign dinners for the foreign buyers. He must know a "good smoke" when he sees one and the art of entertainment to perfection. At least such is the outsider's conception of the foreign rights seller. Nothing, of course, is further from the truth.

Gus Schlesinger of Inter-Ocean Film Corporation

Foreign buyers really show their chief interest in the right films at the right prices. They are sufficiently endowed with the world's goods to buy their own entertainment and dinners. They are interested in a good mixer, of course, like men the world over, but hospitality is a secondary consideration with them.

I should say that the chief qualifications of the foreign salesman are a definite knowledge of local exhibiting conditions in the territory from which the customer hails and the ability to appraise American pictures on their suitability to such conditions.

The foreign customer never forgets a "bloomer." The average American salesman of foreign rights (attached to a responsible firm) is conscientious in his advice to customers both because its a safe business rule and because any other course spells loss of prestige. And it's odd how quickly news of a "bad buy" gets around.

The result is that the established salesman, the one who is in it for all time and not just a week or month, would rather lose his right arm than mislead a buyer.

The foreign salesman's business life is different from that of most other selling men, for the reason that he doesn't "close something" every minute, or expect to. He may spend weeks or months on a single customer. Patience is surely his by training. Of course, his sales when they are "closed" usually run into large amounts or for long terms, five-year contracts being no uncommon arrangement.

Demand for Educationals Increases, Says Hammons

DEMANDS for Educationals are increasing both in America and abroad, according to E. W. Hammons, vice-president and general manager of the Educational Films Corporation. Several important foreign deals were put through in the Educational's offices last week.

Through the Windmill Film Corporation, Reginald Warde, managing director, prints of the Bruce "Scenics Beautiful," Ditmars' "Living Book of Nature" and Wright's "Mexico Today" were sold to twelve foreign countries, ally or neutral. Besides Great Britain, for which Mr. Warde's company is the regular channel of Educational sales, the customers included firms in France, Holland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Japan, South Africa, Australia and Brazil.

The most remarkable feature of the domestic situation is the rapidly increasing vogue of the company's product in the Middle West. For example, no less than 150 houses in the Chicago district are using Bruce, Ditmars and Wright short-reelers and International cartoon comedies. That record is the record of less than three months since the R. C. Cropper exchange at 220 South State street, Chicago, was put in charge. Proportionately encouraging results are being achieved in Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis and Kansas City.

"It is only a question of speedy organization," says Mr. Hammons, "for Educational subjects to be used in all the better theatres of the United States. The Educational Distributing Corporation, Charles A. Dean, president, is now actively engaged in this work, so that the West and the Southwest will be as strongly represented in our distribution as the East or the Pacific Coast."

In the Independent Field

Harry Grossman, Vice-President and General Manager of B. A. Rolfe Productions

B. A. Rolfe Names New Houdini Serial

"The Master Mystery" is announced as the title chosen for the serial which, with Houdini as the star, is the first of the B. A. Rolfe Productions. "The Master Mystery" is in fifteen episodes, by Arthur B. Reeves and Charles A. Logue, and work is rapidly progressing at the Yonkers Studio under the direction of Burton King, according to reports this week.

"Me Und Gott" Gets Several Bookings

Wyndham Gittens, in a wire from Los Angeles on September 21 to MOTION PICTURE NEWS, announced that the First National Exchange of New York has signed contracts for the six-reel Romayne superfilm, "Me Und Gott," for New York State, and that the same action was being taken by First National Exchange for Northern New Jersey. It is also stated that First National of Pennsylvania has voiced its willingness to accept the same terms as New York, providing the picture passes the censors. Exhibitors' Film Exchange, Inc., holding the First National franchise for the Pacific States, followed suit.

"Me Und Gott" was booked at Miller's Alhambra theatre in Los Angeles to follow "America's Answer." Southern California and Arizona territory is being handled by Liberty Exchange, while Northern Californit, Hawaii and Nevada go to Turner and Dahnken.

Warners Produce "Kaiser" Film

Co-Producers of Ambassador Gerard's "My Four Years in Germany" Produce "The Kaiser's Finish" for State Rights

WARNER BROTHERS, co-producers of Ambassador Gerard's "My Four Years in Germany," announced this week the completion of a new eight-reel special feature production called "The Kaiser's Finish," made especially for the state rights market.

Characterized by its producers as "a photoplay prophecy of the day when the Yanks enter Berlin," and "the manner in which the Kaiser will find his place in the sun," "The Kaiser's Finish" is said to include, in its big cast, a number of the actors and actresses who had prominent parts in "My Four Years in Germany."

The production was directed by John Joseph Harvey, assisted by Clifford P. Saum. The Biograph studios of New York City were used during the time required for its making. William Nigh, director of Ambassador Gerard's picture, supervised the final editing and titling.

"We know," said Mr. A. Warner, "as a result of the total income to date from 'My Four Years in Germany,' the value to exhibitors of a production such as 'The Kaiser's Finish,' and it is possible for us to gauge with more than a fair degree of accuracy the approximate returns that state rights buyers will receive from it.

"'The Kaiser's Finish' was made for the state rights market, and we do not propose to deviate an iota from the sales policy which has existed since work on it was started several months ago."

An elaborate advertising campaign has been prepared for exhibitor use. A large press sheet, containing an abundance of advance notices and publicity stories, sample newspaper advertisements of varying sizes, and a complete line of illustrations in plate and mat form, is now being printed.

There are two styles of one sheet, two styles of three sheets, a six-sheet and a twenty-four-sheet, all with sensational and unusual illustrations appropriate to the main title of the production; two sizes of sepia photographic reproductions; a set of colored prints, 22x28; two styles of announcement slides, a two-color herald, window cards in colors and a plan of campaign suggesting the most timely and practical use of these accessories.

Louis Dean, who played the part of the Kaiser in the Gerard picture, again essays this role in the newest Warner special feature. Other principals in the cast of the previous picture have prominent parts in "The Kaiser's Finish."

Gaumont Changes In Indiana and Illinois

THE Gaumont Company has arranged a re-distribution of territory in Indiana and Illinois.

In future, the Doll-Van Film Corporation, Merchants Bank Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind., will handle the Gaumont News and Graphic for the entire state of Indiana except the counties of Lake, La Porte, Porter, St. Joseph and Elkhart, which, being near Chicago, will receive their supply of these independent news-reels from the Celebrated Players Film Corporation, of 207 So. Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

The Doll-Van Film Corporation will also distribute the News and Graphic in that portion of Illinois embraced in the counties of Edgar, Clark, Crawford, Lawrence, Richland, Clay, Wayne, Edwards, Wabash, White, Hamilton, Saline, Gallatin, Hardin and Pope. The remaining portion of Illinois is included in the territory supplied by the Celebrated Players Film Corporation.

The Gaumont News is issued every Tuesday, and the Gaumont Graphic every Friday. The Gaumont Company has been producing news reels almost since the beginning of the motion picture era, and today its news service covers every part of the civilized world. Besides having the advantage of this world-wide news-gathering affiliation, the Gaumont News and Graphic are the only independent news reels in the United States, and the producers take pride in the fact that it is handled only by the best State-right exchanges.

Glove Manufacturer Enters Film Business

A. H. Fischer, a prominent manufacturer of gloves and leather goods, has entered the film business and is associated with Rolfe Productions. Mr. Fischer brings with him a world of business experience. In an interivew, he stated:

"I have been interested in motion pictures for a great many years from the layman's viewpoint, and I have made many trips to the various studios throughout the country."

Mr. Fischer is the owner of the Mocha Mills in Johnstown, N. Y., and is interested in a great many other enterprises.

A Riotous Moment in Plunkett and Carroll's Production, "The Woman the Germans Shot," With Julia Arthur and Creighton Hale in the Principal Roles

Jester Comedies Twice Monthly

Double Output of Jester Two-Reel Comedies to Be Released Through State Rights Exchanges as at Present

WILLIAM STEINER, founder of the Jester Comedy Company, has decided to release the Jesters on a two-a-month basis, commencing November 1, and on the 15th and 1st thereafter.

Among those who will be seen besides Twede-Dan and Nilde Babette are Jimmy Aubrey, the comedian; Pearl Sheppard and A. Rustrelli, who was formerly with Max Linder. To the direction staff William Seiter has been added.

There has been eight Jester Comedy releases, which include "The Recruit," "His Golden Romance," "All 'Fur' Her," "The Wrong Flat," "It's a Great Life," "Oh, What a Day," "The Fly Ball," and "Ain't It So?" The first release under the two-a-month policy will be "Camouflage," followed by "Some Baby."

As heretofore, all the Jester comedies will be in two reels. The distribution of the comedies will be in the hands of the following: For Greater New York and northern New Jersey, Interstate Films, Inc., 729 Seventh avenue, New York City; for northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin and Indiana, the Unity Phtoplays Co., 207 South Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.; for Washington, Oregon and Alaska, the L. J. Schlaifer Attractions, 2022 3d avenue, Seattle, Wash.; for North Carolina, the Eltabran Film Company, Charlotte, N. C.; for South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee, R. M. Savini, 63 Walton street, Atlanta, Ga.; for the New England States, R. D. Marson Attraction Co., 26 Piedmont street, Boston, Mass.; for Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia, the Variety Pictures Corporation, 412 East Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md.; for the upper New York State, Doo-Lee Films, Inc., 445 South Warren street, Syracuse, N. Y.; for southern Illinois and eastern Missouri, the United Film Service Co., 3628 Olive street, St. Louis, Mo.; for Texas and Oklahoma, the Southwestern Film Corporation, 1911½ Commerce street, Dallas, Tex.; for Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas, J. W. Leigh, 305 Wells Fargo Building, New Orleans, La.; for western Pennsylvania, Quality Film Corporation, 414 Ferry street, Pittsburgh Pa.; for Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky, the Standard Film Service Co., Sloan Building, Cleveland, O.; for Kansas and western Missouri, the Equitable Film Corporation, Ozark Building, Kansas City, Mo.

United Reports New Exhibitor Members

More than the usual activity is reported from United Picture Theatres of America in the enrollment of new exhibitor-members, and keen rivalry is said to manifest itself among the various members of the field forces whose territory lies close enough to New York to bring them into personal contact in their visits of report to the home office.

Indeed, so verbally vigorous have been some of these enthusiastic debates of comparison of business prowess, according to report, that Manager Charles C. Johnson has found himself reluctantly compelled to abandon the policy of the open door to his office and has regretfully had to decide in future to receive his henchmen of the field individually.

Hugo Frank Buys Rights for New "Hun" Feature

The right to exhibit "Huns Within Our Gates," in Greater New York and Northern New Jersey, has been purchased by Hugo Frank, head of "Mothers of Liberty Co.," 145 West Forty-fifth street, New York, the production emanating from the Arrow Film Corporation, of which Dr. W. E. Schallenberger is president.

"Woman the German Shot" Completed

COMPREHENSIVE and commendatory endorsements were given to the new Plunkett and Carroll super-production, "The Woman the Germans Shot," by a group of high military and civil officials of the Allied governments, who were guests of the producers during the past week at a pre-release showing of the new picture.

"The Woman the Germans Shot" is an original screen play by Anthony Paul Kelly, the young playwright and scenarioist, whose success with the spoken play, "Three Faces East," has stamped him a leader in the younger set of playwrights.

Taking for his theme the story of the life and killing of the British Red Cross nurse, Edith Cavell, Mr. Kelly is said to have fashioned a play of tremendous power, and Director John G. Adolfi assembled a strong cast for his production.

In the leading role and starred in the production, portraying the character of Edith Cavell, is Julia Arthur, which marks her premier appearance before the camera.

In support of Miss Arthur in the leading male role is Creighton Hale, enacting the character of the young English "Tommy." Others of the cast are William Tooker, J. W. Johnston, George Majeroni, Sarah Alexander and Joyce Fair.

Plunkett and Carroll promise the release of this first production from their studios within the next ten days.

First Lillian Walker Released by Hodkinson

With the release this week, through the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation, of "The Embarrassment of Riches," the first of the series of pictures in which Lillian Walker is being starred at the head of her own company, work on the second picture was started in Los Angeles.

This production is an adaptation from the novel of John Breckenridge Ellis, called "Fear." Miss Walker will be directed by W. P. S. Earle, who, it is learned, will hereafter supervise all her productions.

Lester Park, president of the Lillian Walker Pictures Corporation, accompanied Mr. Earle and his assistant, and several members of the cast, to the Coast. Miss Walker preceded the party after the Chicago convention for a brief rest prior to the start of her second picture.

Prior to his departure, Mr. Park disposed of the foreign rights of the first Lillian Walker picture, "The Embarrassment of Riches," to Sidney Garrett, president of the J. Frank Brockliss Company.

Rolfe Appoints J. W. Grey Advertising Director

B. A. Rolfe has appointed John W. Grey advertising director for the B. A. Rolfe Productions.

Mr. Grey bears the reputation of having had as many big jobs as any other advertising man in the motion picture business.

Blanche Sweet, Popular Star Under the Management of Harry Garson

Blanche Sweet Story for Newspapers

"The Unpardonable Sin" in which Blanche Sweet will be starred by Harry Garson, and which is now in the making under Marshall Neilan, will be syndicated as a serial in more than one hundred of the principal newspapers throughout the country by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate, simultaneously with the releasing of the picture.

When the story ran as a serial in the Red Book, so great was the demand that every edition was wiped off the newsstands almost as soon as it appeared, according to report. Harper & Bros., who have published the story in book form, report the largest sales in the short space of time in their history. It is said to be almost impossible to find a book in the libraries anywhere, so great is the demand.

In speaking of the story, Colonel Roosevelt says: "The Unpardonable Sin" is a very, very strong book. It teaches just the lesson our people should learn. I am mighty glad Capt. Hughes wrote it, and I hope it will be most widely read." Capt. Hughes since writing the story has become a Major. The picture will be released about October 15.

Dustin Farnum-United at Brunton Studios

Announcement was made at the Brunton studios in Los Angeles this week that Dustin Farnum, who is now with the United Pictures Theatre of America, will begin producing his new plays for this company at the Brunton studios on or about October 1. Ernest C. Ward, who has directed Warren Kerrigan in a number of pictures, will handle the megaphone in Farnum's new vehicles.

Kitty Gordon this week began work on her first picture for the United Picture Theatres of America at the Brunton studios. Wallace Worsley, formerly director of Louise Glaum productions, will do the directing. The story was written by Adele Bleneau.

Important Film Sales by Arrow

Arrow Film Corporation Disposes of Most of United States on "Huns Within Our Gates"

THE activities of the Arrow Film Corporation for the past two weeks have been largely devoted toward preparation for the exploitation of the production "Huns Within Our Gates," in which Derwent Hall Caine and Mlle. Valkyrien are starred.

Without any extended announcement being made to the trade, the Arrow Film Coporation has within the brief period of eight days disposed of a greater portion of the United States, and within the past two weeks disposed of the following territories on that production:

Western Pennsylvania to the Bell Film Corporation of Pittsburgh.

Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas to the Southwestern Film Corporation of Dallas.

Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee and North and South Carolina to the Criterion Film Service of Atlanta.

Eastern Pennsylvania and Southern New Jersey to the Keystone Distributing Corporation of Philadelphia.

Greater New York and Northern New Jersey to the Mothers of Liberty Company of New York.

Illinois and Southern Wisconsin to the Unity Photoplays Company of Chicago.

Michigan to the Strand Features of Detroit. Ohio to the C. C. Hite Attractions of Cincinnati.

This disposes of more than fifty per cent. of the United States, and without any intensive sales campaign having as yet been inaugurated.

Dr. W. E. Shallenberger, president of the Arrow Film Corporation, ascribes the demand for this production apart from the high character of the attraction itself as a motion picture, to the fact that "Huns Within Our Gates" is a war propaganda picture without a battle scene or a uniform in it. "Huns Within Our Gates" will be released October 15th.

Dave Mundstuk, president of the Strand Features, operating in the State of Michigan, was presented a scheme of operation by Dr. Shallenberger in connection with the undisposed of productions controlled by the Arrow Film Corporation for the Michigan territory, and contracts were signed for the following releases:

Twelve two-reel re-issued Anna Little Westerns; "The Sunset Princess," starring Marjorie Daw; "The Woman's Law," a re-issue starring Florence Reed; "Her Aviator," "The Perfect Model," a re-issue of "Inspiration," starring Audrey Munson, and the following five-reel productions, being re-issues starring Harold Lockwood and May Allison:

"The Web of Intrigue," "The Fire of Hope," "Human Shuttles" and "The Shadow of Fear."

United Exhibitors Like Distributing Plan

AS a result of the announced arrangement whereby General Film Company has been selected by United Picture Theatres of America for the physical distribution of the latter's films, officials of President Berst's organization express themselves gratified by the receipt of many evidences of the favor with which that arrangement has been received by exhibitor-members, as also its concomitant agreement that General's exchanges are also to serve as local headquarters for United's representatives.

These endorsements have come to hand, says United, in the shape of letters bearing upon the advantageous centralization of labor effected by the United-General deal and on the economic cutting down of overhead resultant upon the transference of the United local managers to the General local exchanges. This installation has already been effected in Washington, D. C., St. Louis, Kansas City and Pittsburgh with other cities to follow.

In this connection a letter from Alton Crosby, secretary of the Willmar Opera House Company, Willmar, Minn., has been received, United reports, in which that prominent official expresses gratification on behalf of his company at the practical economical steps of one exchange and centralization of office.

"Excessive cost of film," says Mr. Crosby, "comes largely from excessive overhead cost of so many exchanges which we exhibitors have to keep up. United's arrangement gives us relief from that expense."

Many letters of similar purport have been received, United says, among which is one from Edward J. O'Keefe, manager of the City Square, Court and Criterion theatres in Atlantic City, N. J., typifying the spontaneous "boosting" by one exhibitor to another which is said to account for such of the successful progress of the United plan. After commenting upon his own arrangements for the three Atlantic City theatres mentioned Mr. O'Keefe's letter goes on, "I am going to see some of the fellows in town who would be included in your B, B and C classification and who I know will be glad to join hands with us. You are on the right track and I know will go right to the top."

Cunningham Joins Brunton Forces

Jack Cunningham has been engaged by Robert Brunton to do the "Scripts" for the Kitty Gordon pictures, which will be made at the Robert Brunton studios in Hollywood for the United Theatres Program, as well as a number of those in which Bessie Barriscale will appear at the Brunton studios during the next year.

Cunningham also has been engaged by Jesse D. Hampton to do a certain amount of screen writing for J. Warren Kerrigan, his second script for Mr. Kerrigan, on which work will be started in a few days in an adaptation of John G. Blackwood's play, "Come Again, Smith."

The Lloyd Carleton Productions Feature, "Mother, I Need You," Features Enid Markey and Edward Coxen

Garrett in Washington About Shipping

During the past two weeks Sidney Garrett, president of J. Frank Brockliss, Inc., has been back and forth between New York and Washington, D. C. Important matters relative to shipping conditions have been the occasion for his many trips. Between the different offices of the house of J. Frank Brockliss, Inc., in London, Paris, Rome and Sydney, Australia, a constant stream of cablegrams has kept their trade channels open, but certain developments of the past month have necessitated the presence of Mr. Garrett in Washington almost constantly.

By taking each individual department, or rather, each division of his firm's film ownings, under his personal activities for a certain period, Mr. Garrett has rounded out the territory sales so that no one division is overlooked.

For instance, during the past two weeks he has seen that every world territory was interviewed that had not previously contracted for Metro Film Classics. Starting with "The Million Dollar Dollies," "Revelation," "Blue Jeans" and "Toys of Fate," Mr. Garrett saw to it that not a territory was overlooked in his drive.

Samuel Cummins Buys "The Submarine Eye"

After long negotiations, Samuel Cummins, of Washington, D. C., has purchased outright the Williamson Bros'. underwater picture, "The Submarine Eye," for his territory.

It will be put out as a road show and only play first-class theaters at top prices, the same as it was shown at the Liberty Theater in New York and the Studebaker in Chicago.

Mr. Cummins' policy is pictures which he sends out as road shows. He has met with success with his two pictures now on the road—"Enlighten Thy Daughter" and "Birth." The price for "The Submarine Eye" is said to be in the neighborhood of $6,000, and will open in the territory in November after a big advertising campaign.

Gaumont Serial Carries Unique Story

Though the adventurer, whose daring escapades furnish numerous thrills in the twenty reels which comprise the new Gaumont photo-serial, "The Hand of Vengeance," is continually outwitting a clever detective, this serial should by no means be classed as a criminal or "underworld" story.

Nor should it be classed as a detective story, though the acts of the adventurer in avenging the wrongs of himself and others are declared by Gaumont to be opposed by as brainy an investigator of crime as was ever created by the originators of "Sherlock Holmes" or "Nick Carter."

Charles Schwerin Buys Two New Features

Charles F. Schwerin, general manager of the Success Film Productions, 421 Sloan Building, Cleveland, announces that he has purchased the state rights of "The Devil's Playground" and "The Crucible of Life."

"Manx-Man" Special Men Get Good Results

"It pays to know the exhibitor personally," says Sales Director J. L. Kempner, of the Manx-Man Company, "and every manufacturer ought to do it through skilled personal representatives. They can dissect the picture for the theater man and bring out its every exploitation point.

"This may account for the phenomenal increase in bookings the month of September has brought 'The Manx-Man.' The famous Hall Caine story has played more of the important theaters in the present month than in the three preceding ones. Of course, the cooler weather has been a help, but the 'personal contact' work of the 'Manx-Man' home office men is mostly responsible."

Special Representative Wiener, who is operating in Massachusetts from the Goldwyn Boston office, explained the exploitation possibilities of the picture to exhibitors in Quincy, New Bedford, Fall River, Weymouth, Plymouth, Lowell, Lawrence, Waltham, Woburn and Roxbury, and received a date in every city, according to report. Providence, R. I., where the Anglo-American publicity stunts were first utilized for "The Manx-Man," has sent for the film again, the big Emery Theater being the seat of the return date. It is going on in three St. Louis theaters next week—the Strand, Shenandoah and Park.

B. A. Rolfe Engages Pike for Serial

B. A. Rolfe, president of the Rolfe Productions, Inc., has engaged William Pike to play the juvenile role in the Houdini serial of mystery, thrill, intrigue and action, which has been especially written for Mr. Houdini by Messrs. Arthur B. Reeve and Charles A. Logue.

The character Mr. Pike portrays in the Houdini serial, that of Paul, son of Balcom, is one of the very prominent in the cast and will call for all the young actor's versatility, finesse and emotional ability.

Harry Edwards, Bobby Vernon and Al Christie at the Studio on Bobby's Last Day There Before He Joined the Submarine Service

Max Glucksmann's New Splendid Theatre in Buenos Aires, S. A.

Greiver Announces New Ford Contracts

The Greiver Distributing Corporation reports that the W. H. Film Company, 412 E. Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md., is handling the Ford Educational Weekly in Virginia, Maryland and District of Columbia, instead of the Super-Film Attractions, 1202 E street, Washington, D. C.

They also report the following contracts closed: Beehive Exchange, Milwaukee, Wis.; Beehive Exchange, Chicago, Ill.; V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.; Supreme Photoplay Corp., Denver, Col.; Standard Film Service Co., Detroit, Mich.; Standard Film Service Co., Cincinnati, O.; Standard Film Service Co., Cleveland, O.; Standard Film Service Corporation, Kansas City, Mo.; Standard Film Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.; Sterling Film Corporation, Omaha, Neb.; United Film Service, St. Louis, Mo.

Educational's Cartoon Travesty on Westerns

Happy Holligan, that international humorist, puts himself in the "Bill" Hart and "Doug" Fairbanks class through his latest cartoon comedy, "The Bold, Bad Man," released by the Educational.

As he tells the kids at the commencement of the story, it all happened when he was a fugitive from justice. One little kind act (his rescue of the villain's misused pup from drowning) served to save Happy's own life subsequently.

Kleindienst Joins Rolfe

One of the recent additions to the staff which Mr. B. A. Rolfe has gathered about him at the Yonkers studio, where he is producing the Houdini serial, is Harry C. Kleindienst. Mr. Kleindienst is well known to the cinema world for his long association in its financial department. In fact, he became associated with Mr. Rolfe years ago and now has joined the staff of the B. A. Rolfe, Inc.

Tourneur Working on Another Production

WITH his initial production, "Sporting Life," stamped a hit at the New York Rivoli theatre, Maurice Tourneur has given out some additional details regarding his second offering which has been named "One Woman."

"Having produced a melodrama, I decided to do something as widely different as possible," says Mr. Tourneur. "From 'Sporting Life' a story of highly colored melodramatic action and punch, I went into a drama in which the superficial action is the result of the exposition of an idea. I aimed not only to delve deep into human character but to present these reflections so that they will drive home my central idea.

"For the past four years during which I have been in the United States, I have endeavored to interest the companies with which I have been connected in the idea. They all turned it down as uncommercial. Upon launching myself upon the sea of production, I decided to produce my scenario. I had to produce it. To me the theme of the new production is absorbing, going deeply not only into psychology but into racial development, into the varying phases and problems of sex."

The cast numbers Flore Revalles, the dancer and singer of the Bakst Ballet Russe; Ethel Hallor, of the Century Roof Show; Diana Allen, of the Ziegfeld Follies; Fair Binney, of "Sporting Life"; Gloria Goodwin, the dancer of vaudeville and musical comedy; and Lyn Donaldson.

The masculine portion of the acting is upheld by Paul Clerget, the French actor, and Pierrot, Sr., of "Pierrot the Prodigal." Escamillo Fernandez, who recently appeared as Pierre in "Heart of the Wilds," Chester Barnett, Warner Richmond, of "Sporting Life," and Henry West.

Government Asks for "Stills" from Arrow

The Arrow Film Corporation, distributors of the six part production, "Huns Within Our Gates," has received a request from the War Department, office of the General of Staff, requesting a collection of the still photographs made from that production, the communication advising the Arrow Film Corporation that the still plates are to be incorporated in the permanent records of the War Plan Division of the General Staff, as evidence of the part the motion picture companies have played in the present war.

The communication is signed by Colonel C. W. Weeks, General Staff Chief, Historical Branch, and by Major K. Banning, of the Historical Section.

"Huns Within Our Gates" is the first war propaganda picture in which there does not appear a uniform and in which a representative of none of the Allied powers are represented.

The story of "Huns Within Our Gates" was conceived and inspired by the proclamation of the President of the United States, warning loyal citizens against engaging in conversation with unknown persons concerning the plans of our Government.

Oliver Leaves Keeney for Political Work

Arthur Oliver, director of publicity for the Frank A. Keeney Pictures Corporation, resigns to take up political publicity during the ensuing campaign.

His successor with Keeney has not been announced as yet.

B. A. Rolfe Moves

The B. A. Rolfe Productions move this week from their temporary offices in the Godfrey Building to 18 East Forty-first Street, where they have taken practically the entire fifth floor, and where they will have one of the most perfectly equipped offices in the city.

Big Events in Gaumont News and Graphic

Gaumont News No. 27, released on Tuesday, September 24, shows the successful test of the first Caproni plane built in the United States. His Royal Highness, Prince Axel, of Denmark, meets the President and members of the Cabinet in Washington, the harvesting of war gardens by soldiers and an unusually interesting subject to start the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign completes thhe reel.

Gaumont Graphic No. 27, released on Friday, September 27, shows the elaborate preparations the Aviation Corps is making, the saving of California's $14,000,000 grape crop by a quick mobilization of women, the voting of President Wilson in the recent primaries, activities of soldiers and women who are harvesting crops during the scarcity of farm labor, the work of the Red Cross, etc.

Carleton Picture Shows "Garden of Eden"

The story of "Mother, I Need You," the six-reel Lloyd Carleton production, does not deal with a biblical subject, but, as the sub-title of the picture play is "A Story of Eve and Her Modern Sister," a prologue dealing with the tragedy in the Garden of Eden was built into the picture in order that the observer might keep in mind the heritage of the sisters or daughters of Eve.

The producers took on a very large order when they attempted this prologue, and the Doubting Thomases in the camp said it couldn't be done, but it has been done, and, if Gustave Dore succeeded in putting the creation and the Garden of Eden in still pictures, the producers of "Mother, I Need You," have certainly made a most creditable effort at registering the same in pictures that live and move and have being.

The rising of the land from the waters, for instance, is said to be a wonderful bit of cinematographic art, as is also the creation of Eve.

Features---Current and Coming

Bluebird Photoplays

Sept. 9. The Brazen Beauty (Priscilla Dean) 5
Sept. 23. A Society Sensation (Carmel Myers) 5
Sept. 30. The Velvet Hand (Fritzi Brunette) 5
Oct. 7. The Lure of Luxury (Ruth Clifford) 5
Oct. 14. Together (Violet Merserau)..... 5
Oct. 21. Hugon, the Mighty (Monroe Salisbury) 5

Famous Players-Lasky Corp.

Oct. 6. Border Wireless (William S. Hart).
Oct. 6. Man from Funeral Range (Wallace Reid) .....
Oct. 6. Battling Jane (Dorothy Gish).....
Oct. 13. When Do We Eat? (Enid Bennett).
Oct. 13. Private Peat (Special).....
Oct. 13. Such a Little Pirate (Lila Lee).....
Oct. 20. My Cousin (Enrico Caruso).....
Oct. 20. The Make-Believe Wife (Billie Burke) .....
Oct. 20. Gypsy Trail (Bryant Washburn)....
Oct. 27. Women's Weapons (Ethel Clayton).
Oct. 27. A Daughter of the Old South (P. Frederick) .....
Oct. 27. Mirandy Smiles (Vivian Martin)....

SUCCESS SERIES (Reissues)

Sept. 1. The Eagle's Mate (Mary Pickford).
Sept. 8. Wildflower (M. Clark) .....
Sept. 15. The Girl of the Golden West (Special) .....
Sept. 22. Zaza (Pauline Frederick).....
Sept. 29. Carmen (Geraldine Farrar).....
Oct. 6. Man from Mexico (John Barrymore)
Oct. 13. Seventeen (Jack Pickford).....
Oct. 20. Snobs (Moore) .....
Oct. 27. The Cheat (Special).....

First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc.

Ambasador Gerard's "My Four Years in Germany."
"Tarzan of the Apes" (Elmo Lincoln and Enid Markey).
"Passing of the Third Floor Back" (Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson).
"Tempered Steel" (Mme. Petrova). .....
"The Life Mask" (Mme. Petrova).
"The Light Within" (Mme. Petrova).
"Daughter of Destiny" (Mme. Petrova).
"Italy's Flaming Front" (Italian Official War Pictures)
Edgar Lewis's "The Sign Invisible" (Mitchell Lewis).
Herbert Brenon's "Empty Pockets."
Herbert Brenon's "Fall of the Romanoffs" (with Iliodor).
"Alimony" (Josephine Whittell).
"Pershing's Crusaders."

Fox Film Corporation

TIMELY PICTURES

Sept. 1. The Prussian Cur.....
Sept. 1. Queen of the Sea (Annette Keller-
Sept. 8. Why America Will Win.....
Oct. 15. Why I would Not Marry.....
Oct. 15. 18 to 45.....

SPECIAL FEATURES

Aug. 4. Doing Their Bit (Jane and Katherine Lee) .....
Aug. 11. The Bird of Prey (Gladys Brockwell) .....
Aug.18. The Liar (Virginia Pearson).....
Aug.23. Lawless Love (Jewel Carmen).....

FOX STANDARD PICTURES

Sept. 1. Riders of the Purple Sage (William Farnum) .....
Sept. 15. The Caillaux Case.....
Sept. 29. When a Woman Sins (Theda Bara)
Oct. 13. The Woman Who Gave (Evelyn Nesbit) .....
Oct. 27. The Rainbow Trail (William Farnum) .....

PRODUCTIONS EXTRAORDINARY

Theda Bara in "Cleopatra."
William Farnum in "Les Miserables."
Annette Kellerman in "A Daughter of the Gods."

VICTORY PICTURES

Sept. 8. Mr. Logan, U. S. A. (Tom Mix)..
Sept. 22. Kultur (Gladys Brockwell).....
Oct. 6. On the Jump (Geo. Walsh).....
Oct. 22. Treat 'Em Rough (Tom Mix).....
Nov. 3. The Strange Woman (Gladys Brockwell) .....
Nov. 17. I'll Say So (George Walsh).....
Dec. 1. Fame and Fortune (Tom Mix).....

EXCEL PICTURES

Sept. 1. Bonnie Annie Laurie (Peggy Hyland) .....
Sept. 15. Queen of Hearts (Virginia Pearson)
Sept. 29. Swat the Spy (Jane and Katherine Lee) .....
Oct. 13. Peggy Hyland in "Marriages Are Made" .....
Oct. 27. Virginia Pearson in "Buchanan's Wife" .....

General Film Company

AUTHORS' PHOTOPLAYS

Her Moment (Anna Luther).....7 D

HANOVER FILM COMPANY

Camille (Helen Hesperia).....6 D
The Marvelous Maciste.....6 D
Monster of Fate .....

DUPLEX FILMS, INC.

Shame (Zena Keefe).....7 D

COSMOFOTOFILM

Hypocrites (Elizabeth Risdon) .....6 D

EXPORT AND IMPORT FILM CO. (Inc.)

Why—The Bolsheviki.....5 D

OAKDALE PRODUCTIONS

The Locked Heart (Gloria Joy).....5 D
No Children Wanted (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Miss Mischief-Maker (Gloria Joy).....5 D
The Midnight Burglar (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Little Miss Grown-Up (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Wanted, a Brother (Gloria Joy).....5 D

Victory Film Company

The Triumph of Venus (Betty Lee).....5 D

Goldwyn Pictures Corp.

Aug. 11. Friend Husband (Madge Kennedy) 5
Aug. 25. Money Mad (Mae Marsh)..... 5

GOLDWYN STAR SERIES

Sept. 2. Turn of the Wheel (Farrar).....5 D
Sept. 9. Peck's Bad Girl (Normand).....5 C
Sept. 16. Just for To-Night (Moore).....5 D
Sept. 23. The Kingdom of Youth (Madge Kennedy) .....5 C D
Sept. 30. Laughing Bill Hyde.....6 D
Oct. 7. Hidden Fires (Mae Marsh).....5 D
Oct. 21. A Perfect 36 (Mabel Normand)....5 C
Oct. 28. Thirty a Week (Tom Moore)....5 C D

GOLDWYN SPECIALS

Social Ambition 7
The Manx-Man 7
For the Freedom of the World..... 7

W. W. Hodkinson Corporation

(Paralta Plays)

Sept. 2. The White Lie (Bessie Barriscale).. —

(Plaza Plays)

Aug. 26. Petticoats and Politics (Anita King) ..... —
Sept. 9. Angel Child (Kathleen Clifford)... —
Oct. 7. Whatever the Cost (King..... —
Oct. 21. The Law that Divides (Clifford).... —

(J. D. Hampton)

Sept. 16. Prisoners of the Pines (Kerrigan) —
Oct. 28. Three X Gordon (Kerrigan)..... —

(Lillian Walker)

Sept. 23. Embarrassment of Riches (Walker) —

(Bessie Barriscale)

Oct. 14. The Heart of Rachael (Barriscale).. —

(Robert Brunton)

Oct. 14. Goddess of Lost Lake (Glaum)..... —

(Douglass Natural Color)

Cupid Angling (Ruth Roland)..... —

Jewel Productions, Inc.

Come Through.
Pay Me.
Sirens of the Sea.
Man Without a Country.
The Correspondent.
The Price of a Good Time.
The Grand Passion.
The Doctor and the Woman.
The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin.
A Soul for Sale.
For Husbands Only.

Perfection Pictures

(GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM)

Sept. — Conquered Hearts..... —
Sept. — Behind the Lines in Italy..... —
Aug. 26. Triple Trouble" (Chaplin)..... —

Metro Pictures Corporation

Sept. 2. The Silent Woman (Edith Storey), Metro 5
Sept. 9. Our Mrs. McChesney (Ethel Barrymore), Metro 5
Sept. 16. Kildare of Storm (Emily Stevens), Metro 5
Sept. 23. The Return of Mary (May Allison), Metro 5
Sept. 30. Unexpected Places (Bert Lytell), Metro 5
Oct 7. Select Strings (Olive Tell)..... 5

(SCREEN CLASSICS, INC., SPECIALS)

The Legion of Death (Edith Storey), Metro-Rolfe 7
Blue Jeans (Viola Dana), Metro-Rolfe..... 7
Revelation (Nazimova), Screen Classics, Inc. 7
The Slacker (Emily Stevens), Metro..... 7
Draft 258 (Mabel Taliaferro), Metro..... 7
My Own United States (Arnold Daly), Frohman 8
The Million Dollar Dollies (Dolly Sisters), Emerald 5
Toys of Fate (Nazimova), Screen Classics, Inc. 7
To Hell With the Kaiser (Lawrence Grant, Olive Tell), Screen Classics, Inc.....

Mutual Film Corporation

Aug. 18. Hoosier Romance (Selig starring Colleen Moore) 5
Sept. 15. Love's Law (Gail Kane)..... 5
Sept. 29. Treason (Edna Goodrich)..... 5

Pathe Exchange, Inc

Aug. 11. The Ghost of the Rancho (Bryant Washburn) 5
Aug. 18. Winning Grandma (Baby Marie Osborne), Diando 5
Aug. 25. The Girl from Bohemia (Irene Castle), Astra .....C D 5
Sept. 8. Her Man (Elaine Hammerstein), Advanced M. P. Corp..... 5
Sept. 23. A Japanese Nightingale (Fannie Ward-Astra) 5
Oct. 6. The Border Raiders (Larkin-Diando) 5
Oct. 20. The Bells (Frank Keenan), Anderson-Brunton Corporation .....5 D

Select Pictures

Aug. 18. Her Only Way (Norma Talmadge). 6
Aug. 25. Sauce for the Goose (Constance Talmadge) 5
Sept. 9. The Burden of Proof (Marion Davies) 5
Sept. 16. The Better Half (Alice Brady).... 5
Sept. 23. The Forbidden City (Norma Talmadge) .....

SPECIAL RELEASES

Over There (Chas. Richman, Anna Q. Nilsson) 6
The Lone Wolf (Bert Lytell, Hazel Dawn).. 5
The Barrier (Rex Beach Production)..... 7
The Wild Girl (Eva Tanguay)..... 5
The Public Be Damned (Charles Richman, Mary Fuller) 6

William L. Sherry Service

Aug. 11. Out of the Night..... 6
Aug. 18. Inn of the Blue Moon..... 6
Marriage 5

Triangle Distributing Corporation

(Subject to change without notice)

Sept. 1. Untamed (Roy Stewart)..... 5
Sept. 1. The Mask (Claire Anderson)..... 5
Sept. 8. Secret Code (Gloria Swanson)..... 5
Sept. 8. Mystic Faces (Jack Abbe)..... 5
Sept. 15. The Atom (Pauline Stark)..... 5
Sept. 22. Desert Law (Jack Richardson).... 5
Sept. 29. The Gray Parasol (Claire Anderson) 5
Oct. 6. Tony America (Francis McDonald).. 5
Oct. 13. The Pretender (Wm. Desmond).... 5
Oct. 20. Reckoning Day (Bella Bennett).... 5
Oct. 27. Love's Pay Day (Rosemary Theby). 5

Universal Productions

Aug. 12. A Woman's Fool (Harry Carey).. 5
Aug. 26. Bread (Mary McLaren)..... 6
Sept. 23. The Talk of the Town (Dorothy Phillips) 6
Oct. 7. Three Mounted Men (Harry Carey). 6
Oct. 21. Kiss or Kill (Dean and Rawlinson). 5

Vitagraph V-L-S-E

Sept. 2. The Green God (Harry Morey-Betty Blythe) 5
Sept. 9. A Nymph of the Foothills (Gladys Leslie) 5
Sept. 16. By the World Forgot (Hedda Nova-J. Frank Glendon)..... 5
Sept. 23. The Girl of Today (Corinne Griffith) 5
Sept. 30. A Diplomatic Mission (Earle Williams) 5
Oct. 7. The Mating (Gladys Leslie)..... 5
Oct. 14. The King of Diamonds (Harry Morey) 5
Oct. 21. Everybody's Girl (Alice Joyce)..... 5
Oct. 28. Miss Ambition (Corinne Griffith).... 5

World Pictures

Aug. 19. Merely Players (Kitty Gordon).... 5
Aug. 26. Inside the Lines (Lewis A. Stone).. 6
Sept. 2. The Power and the Glory (June Elvidge) 5
Sept. 9. The Road to France (Blackwell-Greeley) 5
Sept. 16. 'Tother Dear Charmer (Louise Huff) 5
Sept. 23. To Him That Hath (Montagu Love) 5
Sept. 30. A Soul Without Windows (Ethel Clayton) 5

Releases in the Independent Field

For Manufacturers' Addresses, Names and Addresses of Buyers handling films in any territory or any other additional information write—State Rights Department, Motion Picture News

Arrow Film Corporation

The Deemster.
Eyes of the World.
Ramona.
Persuasive Peggy.
Today.
The Mad Lover.
The Woman's Law.
Right Off the Bat.
The Struggle Everlasting.
The Accidental Honeymoon.
Million Dollar Mystery (Revised Edition).
The Finger of Justice.

Atlantic Distributing Corporation

Nine-tenths of the Law (Mitchell Lewis)..6 reels
The Devil's Playground (Vera Michelen).7 reels

Bear State Film Company

The Vigilantes.

Big Productions Film Corp.

VICTORIA FEATURE FILMS
The Sunset Princess (Marjorie Daws).

Christie Film Company

One-Reel Comedy Issued Weekly

Sept. 2. Some Cave Man.
Sept. 9. Are Second Marriages Happy.
Sept. 16. Married By Proxy.
Sept. 23. Look Who's Here.
Sept. 30. Oh Bobby! How Could You?
Oct. 7. Why Get a Divorce?
Oct. 14. Three Hours Late.
Oct. 21. Why Husbands Flirt.
Oct. 28. Two's Company.

Commonwealth Pictures Corp.

Charlotte, in The Frozen Warning.
Spanuth's Original Vod-a-Vil Movies (Released every two weeks)

Coronet Film Corporation

LIVING STUDIES IN NATURAL HISTORY
Animal World, No. 1 Issue.
Animal World, No. 2 Issue.
Birdland Studies.
Horticultural Phenomena.

Cosmofotofilm Company

Incomparable Mistress Bellairs.....4 reels
Liberty Hall .....4 reels
The Black Spot.....4 reels
Victoria Cross .....4 reels
His Vindication .....5 reels
I Believe .....7 reels
The Hypocrites .....6 reels

Crest Pictures

Lust of the Ages.....6 reels
The Grain of Dust.....6 reels

Doll Van Film Corp. (Chicago)

(In Illinois, Indiana and Southern Wisconsin)
The Mad Lover.
Public Defender.
Carmen o the Klondike.
The Grain o Dust.
Hearts of the World.
The Crucible of Life.
Nine-tenths of the Law.
The Belgian.
The Zeppelin's Last Raid.
Those Who Pay.
Just a Woman.

Doo Lee Film Co., Inc., N. Y. State

The Woman Who Dared.....7 acts
The Libertine.....6 acts
Babbling Tongues.....7 acts
Married in Name Only.....6 acts
Her Bargain.....6 acts
A Man's Law.....5 acts
Human Clay.....5 acts
One Law for Both.....8 acts
Sins of Ambition.....7 acts
A Slacker's Heart.....7 acts
Cleopatra .....5 acts
The Lonesome Trail.....5 acts
Mothers of Liberty.....6 acts

JESTER SUPER COMEDIES

The Recruit.....2 acts
His Golden Romance.....2 acts
All Fur Her.....2 acts
The Wrong Flat... .....2 acts
It's a Great Life.....2 acts
Released one a month.
June — Fabulous Fortune Fumblers.....2 acts
July — Fred's Fictitious Foundling.....2 acts
Aug. — Freda's Fighting Father.....2 acts
Sept. — Fatty's Fast Fliver.....2 acts
Oct. — Freda's Frivilous Finance.....2 acts

GAUMONT
Gaumont "News" released every Tuesday.
Gaumount "Graphic" released every Friday.

M. S. Epstin

Raymond L. Ditmars' "The Depths of the Sea," in a series of four parts.

Export and Import Film Co.

Birth of Democracy.
Why the Bolsheviki?

Foursquare Pictures

The Sin Woman (Irene Fenwick, Clifford Bruce, Reine Davies).
The Bar Sinister (Edgar Lewis's production).
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey).
Madame Sherry (Gertrude McCoy).
The Silent Witness (Gertrude McCoy).
The Great White Trail (Doris Kenyon).
One Hour (Zena Keefe and Alan Hale).
A Trip Through China.
The Fringe of Society (Milton Sills, Ruth Roland).
The Cast-Off (Bessie Barriscale).
The Submarine Eye.
Whither Thou Goest.
Should She Obey?
Men.

Fort Pitt Corporation

The Italian Battlefront.

Frohman Amusement Corp.

The Witching Hour (C. Aubrey Smith Jack Sherrill, Helen Arnold, Marie Shotwell and Robert Conness).....6 reels
Conquest of Canaan.....5 reels
God's Man .....9 reels
My Own United States (through Metro).

Gaumont Co.

The Hand of Vengeance.....

General Enterprises, Inc.

Mother (Elizabeth Risdon, McClure).....6 parts
The Warrior (Maciste) (McClure).....7 parts
The Liar (Jane Gail, Stanley Walpole)..6 parts

Jesse J. Goldburg

SCRANTON PHOTOPLAY VORP.
May 6. Cheerful Liars.
May 13. Fate and Fortune.
May 20. Parson Pepp.
May 27. The Ring and the Ringer.

RIALTO FILM CORPORATION
Apr. 15. My Husband's Friend.

D. W. Griffith

Hearts of the World.

Hiller & Wilk, Inc.

(Pictures handled in the Open Market)
"Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman."
"The Battle of Gettysburg."
"The Wrath of the Gods."
Sept. — "Sporting Life."

HART, FAIRBANKS, KEENAN AND TALMADGE RE-ISSUES
William S. Hart
The Patriot.
Captive God.
The Dawnmaker.
The Return of Draw Egan.
The Devil's Double.
Truthful Tulliver.
The Gunfighter.
The Square Deal Man.
The Desert Man.
Wolfe Lowry.

Douglas Fairbanks
The Good Bad Man.
Reggie Mixes In.
Flirting with Fate.
The Half Breed.
Manhattan Madness.
American Aristocracy.
The Matrimaniac.
The Americano.

Frank Keenan
The Thoroughbred.
Jim Grimsby's Boy.
The Sins Ye Do.
Bride of Hate.
The Drab.

Norma Talmadge
Children in the House.
Going Straight.
The Devil's Needle.
The Social Secretary.
Fifty Fifty.

Ivan Feature Productions

One Law for Both (Rita Jolivet, Vincent Serrano, Leah Baird, Pedro De Cordoba, James Morrison).....7 reels
Babbling Tongues (Grace Valentine, James Morrison, Arthur Donaldson).....7 reels
Married in Name Only (Gretchen Hartman, MBilton Sills, Marie Shotwell).....6 reels
Sins of Ambition (Barbara Castleton, Wilfred Lucas, Leah Baird, James Morrison) .....7 reels
Human Clay (Mollie King).....5 reels
Life or Honor (Leah Baird, James Morrison, Violet Palmer, Edward Mackey) .....6500 ft.

Jester Comedies

May — All "Fur" Her (Twede Dan)..2 parts
June — The Wrong Flat (Twede Dan)..2 parts
July — It's a Great Life (Twede Dan)..2 parts
Aug. — Oh What a Day (Twede Dan)..2 parts
Oct. — Ain't It So? (Twede Dan).....2 parts

Renowned Pictures Corporation

The Public Defender.....6 reels
Naked Hands .....5 reels
Mother Love and the Law.....7 reels
In Treason's Grasp.....5 reels
Should She Obey?.....7 reels

Frank J. Seng

Parentage .....7 reels

U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corp.

Just a Woman (Charlotte Walker).
The Crucible of Life (Grace D'Armond).
Men (Charlotte Walker, Anna Lehr, Robert Cain, etc).
Those Who Pay (Bessie Barriscale).
The Belgian (Walker Whiteside, Valentine Grant).
The Zeppelin's Last Raid.

Ernest Shipman

W. H. CLIFFORD PHOTOPLAY COMPANY, INC.—Featuring Shorty Hamilton.
June — The Snail .....5 reels
July — The Ranger.....5 reels
Aug. — Pen Vultures .....5 reels
Sept. — The Prisoner of War.....5 reels
FRANCIS FORD PRODUCING COMPANY—
May — Berlin Via America..... 6
July — The Isle of Intrigue..... 6
AL. AND FRANK JENNINGS PRODUCTIONS.
First release—Lady of the Dugout.....6 reels
The Coast Guard Patrol—Seven Parts.
A Nugget in the Rough—Five Parts.
Trooper 44—Five Parts.
The Tiger of the Sea (Seven Parts—Drama—By Nell Shipman).
Bill Tinger's Poems—A series of one-reel comedy dramas issued semi-monthly.

(Continued on page 2417)

Short Subjects Current and Coming

Josh Binney Comedies

(FEATURING FUNNY FATTY FILBERT)

May — Fabulous Fortune Fumblers.....2 reels
June — Fred's Fictitious Foundling.....2 reels
July — Freda's Fighting Father.....2 reels
Aug. — Fatty's Fast Flivver.....2 reels
Sept. — Fatty's Frivolous Fiancee.....2 reels

Burlingham Travel Pictures

Released by Sherry Service

Facing Death on the Blumlisalp.
Unknown Switzerland (The Lotschenthal).
The Pilatus Railway.
Allied War Heroes Arrive in Switzerland.

Educational Film Corp. of Amer.

Aug. 5. The Southern Tourist (Bruce Scenic) ..... 1 reel
Aug. 5. His Dark Past (International-Hooligan) .....Half reel
Aug. 12. Mexico's Floating Gardens (Wright) ..... 1 reel
Aug. 12. Tramp, Tramp, Tramp! (International-Happy Hooligan) .....Half reel
Aug. 19. Quest of the Big 'Un (Chas. Maigne) ..... 1 reel
Aug. 19. Judge Rummy's Off Day (International-Silk Hat Harry).....Half reel
Aug. 26. A Mexican Venice (Wright).. 1 reel
Ang. 26. International Cartoon Comedy.Half reel
Sept. 2. Cigars for Kings and Millionaires (Harold Horton)..... 1 reel
Sept. 2. International Carton Comedy.Half reel

Famous Players-Lasky Corp.

Oct. 13. Tell That to the Marines (Flagg)....2 C

PARAMOUNT BRAY PICTOGRAPHS

Oct. 6. A German Trick That Failed.
Oct. 13. Why Movies Move.
Oct. 20. Building the Eagle Boat.
Oct. 27. Development of Big Gun Construction.

PARAMOUNT BURTON HOLMES TRAVELOGUES

Oct. 6. Sight of Suva.
Oct. 13. Methodized Cannibals.
Oct. 20. Fiji Does Its Bit.
Oct. 27. Fire Walkers of Bega.

PARAMOUNT ARBUCKLE COMEDIES

Oct. 27. The Sheriff.

PARAMOUNT MACK SENNETT COMEDIES

Oct. 6. Beware of Boarders.
Oct. 20. Whose Little Wife Are You?

PARAMOUNT FEATURE—"THE SON OF DEMOCRACY"

Apr. 1. Down the River.
Apr. 8. The Slave Auction.
Apr. 15. Under the Stars.

Ford Educational Weekly

GREIVER DISTRIBUTING CORP. AND STATE RIGHTS
One Reel Each

111. Ausable Chasm.
112. Lake Champlain.
113. Kilauer Volcano.
114. Training Mechanics for Our National Army.
115. Work or Fight.
116. Niagara Falls.
117. Mile in the Sky.
118. America Swim!
119. The Milky Way.
120. The Red Cross Cares for the Wounded.
121. On Foot with Our Army and Navy.

Fox Sunshine Comedies

July 28. A Tight Squeeze.....2 C
Aug. 25. The Diver's Last Kiss.....
Sept. 22. Roaring Lions on the Midnight Express. .....

Fox Film Corporation

MUTT AND JEFF ANIMATED CARTOONS

Sept. 1. The Accident Attorney.....
Sept. 8. At the Front.....
Sept. 15. To the Rescue.....
Sept. 22. The Kaiser's New Dentist.....
Sept. 29. Bulling the Bolshevik.....
Oct. 6. Our Four Days in Germany.....
Oct. 13. The Side Show.....

General Film Company

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES
(O. HENRY STORIES)

The Marquis and Miss Sally (Patricia Palmer, William Lester).....2 D
Springtime a la Carte (Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle) .....2 D
A Bird of Bagdad (Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle) .....2 D
Transients in Arcadia (Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle) .....2 D

(WOLFVILLE TALES)

Faro Nell, Lookout (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
Dismissal of Silver Phil (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
The Coming of Faro Nell (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
Winning of the Mocking Bird (Carol Halloway, Robert Burns) .....2 D
The Jest of Talky Jones (Carol Holloway, William Lester) .....2 D
The Widow Dangerous (Hattie Buskirk, Patricia Palmer, Robert Burns).....2 D
The Wooing of Riley (Kate Price, Otto Lederer) .....2 D
The Heir of the Broken O (R. N. Bradbury, Patricia Palmer) .....2 D

BLUE RIDGE DRAMAS
(Ned Finley)

The Return of O'Garry.....2 D
Mountain Law.....2 D
The Raiders of Sunset Gap.....2 D
O'Garry Rides Alone.....2 D
The Man from Nowhere.....2 D

ESSANAY
GEORGE ADE FABLES
ESSANAY COMEDIES (1 reel)

Our Little Nell.....1 C
Check Your Hat, Sir.....1 C
Wild Algy of Piccadilly.....1 C
All Stuck Up.....1 C
The Lie That Failed.....1 C
The Jazbo Sheriff.....1 C

SNAKEVILLE COMEDIES
(One reel each)

Sophie's Legacy.
Sophie Gets Stung.
Slippery Slim, Diplomat.
Slippery Slim and the Claim Agent.
Slippery Slim's Stratagem.
A Hot Time in Snakeville.
A Snakeville Epidemic.
Snakeville's New Sheriff.
Sophie's Birthday Party.

ESSANAY SCENICS

How Canada and the Farmer Co-operate in Grain Raising .....1 Sc.
Agricultural Opportunities in Western Canada .....1 Sc.
Water Powers of Eastern Canada.....1 Sc.
A Romance of Rails and Power.....1 Sc.
Grand Canyon of Arizona and Canyon de Chelley .....1 Sc.

CHAPLIN COMEDIES

By the Sea.....1 C
In the Park.....1 C
Work .....2 C
A Woman .....2 C
The Tramp .....2 C
His New Job.....2 C
A Night Out. .....2 C

JAXON FILM CORP.

"A DAUGHTER OF UNCLE SAM" SERIAL (Jane Vance, Wm. Sorelle) 12 Episodes .....1 D

JAXON COMEDIES

What Occurred on the Beach.....1 C
An All-Fools' Day Affair.....1 C
Beating Him to It.....1 C
Forced Into Matrimony.....1 C

JUDGE BROWN STORIES

Love of Bob .....2 C-D
Dog vs. Dog.....2 C-D
A Boy Built City.....2 C-D
The Three Fives.....2 C-D
Kid Politics .....2 C-D
A Boy Built City.....2 C-D
The Case of Bennie.....2 C-D

RANCHO SERIES

In the Shadow of the Rockies.....2 D
Where the Sun Sets Red.....2 D

CLOVER COMEDIES

From Caterpillar to Butterfly.....1 C
A Widow's Camouflage.....1 C
Love's Lucky Day.....1 C

EBONY COMEDIES

Busted Romance.....1 C
Spooks .....1 C
The Bully .....1 C
The Janitor .....
Mercy, the Mummy Mumbled.....1 C
A Reckless Rover.....1 C
Are Working Girls Safe?.....1 C
The Comeback of Barnacle Bill.....1 C
Some Baby .....1 C
Good Luck in Old Clothes.....1 C
When You Hit, Hit Hard.....1 C
A Black-and-Tan Mix-up.....1 C
Fixing the Fakir.....1 C
When You're Scared, Run.....1 C

INTERSTATE FILM COMPANY

The Last Raid of Zeppelin L-21 (War Event) .....2000 ft

PROGRESSIVE FILM

On a Fox Farm (Educational) .....1 ree

CRYSTAL FILM CO.

Romeo and Juliet..... 2 C

CRYSTAL COMEDIES
(Pearl White, Estelle Deland, Don Barclay William Browning)

What She Did to Her Husband, Almost Lucky .....1 C
What's in the Trunk?.....1 C
Reuben's Romance .....1 C
The Lady Detective, His Wedding Day....1 C
Troubled Waters .....1 C
Her Necklace, His Hoodoo Day.....1 C

HIGRADE FILM ENTERPRISES, INC

Billie in Society (Ray Hughes).....2 C
Buneo Billy (Billy West).....2 C
Billy in Harness (Billy West).....2 C
Bombs and Bull (Billy West).....2 C

OFFICIAL WAR PICTURES
(Committee on Information)

Our Bridge of Ships.....2 Sc.

SCRANTONIA PHOTOPLAY CORP.

Parson Pepp .....1 C
Fang's Fate and Fortune.....1 C

AMERICAN RED CROSS

The Historic Fourth of July in Paris.....1 Sc
Soothing the Heart of Italy.....1 Patr.

RAINBOW COMEDIES

Nearly a Slacker (Lillian Vera-Eddie Bouldon) .....1 C
My Lady's Slipper (Lillian Vera-Eddie Bouldon) .....1 C

Goldwyn Distributing Corp.

CAPITOL COMEDIES
(Featuring "Smiling Bill" Parsons)

July 15. Dad's Knockout .....2 reels
July 29. Bill Settles Down.....2 reels
Aug. 12. Billy's Fortune .....2 reels
Aug. 26. Bill's Opportunity.....2 reels
Sept. 9. Up a Tree.....2 reels
Sept. 22. Bill's Sweetie .....2 reels
Oct. 7. Camping Out .....2 reels
Oct. 21. A Pair of Pink Pajamas.....2 reels

King Bee Comedies

June 1. Bright and Early .....2 reels
June 15. Straight and Narrow .....2 reels

George Kleine System

MONTGOMERY FLAGG'S COMEDIES
"GIRLS YOU KNOW"

May 8. The Starter .....Edison
May 22. The Spoiled Girl .....
June 5. The Lonesome Girl .....

ESSANAY

June 7. Broncho Billy's Grit.
June 14. Broncho Billy's True Love.
June 21. Broncho Billy and the Western Girls.
June 28. Broncho Billy Wins Out.
July 5. Broncho Billy Trapped.
July 12. Broncho Billy Rewarded.
Sept. 1. Broncho Billy and the Claim Jumper.
Sept. 8. Broncho Billy and the Sheriff's Office.
Sept. 15. Broncho Billy, Outlaw.
Sept. 22. The Accusation of Broncho Billy.
Sept. 29. Broncho Billy's Double Escape.

LINCOLN-PARKER WORLD TRAVELOGUE

Mar. 1. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 1.
Mar. 8. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 2.
Mar. 15. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 3.
Mar. 22. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 4.
Apr. 29. Peru and Scenes Around Lake Titicaca Bolivia.

Metro Pictures Corporation

METRO-DREW COMEDIES

Mar. 18. Special Today.....1 C
Mar. 25. When a Man's Married.....1 C
Apr. 1. Gas Logic.....1 C
Apr. 8. A Youthful Affair.....1 C

Mutual Film Corporation

STRAND (BILLIE RHODES)

July 1. Miss Informed .....1 C
July 8. Her Disengagement Ring .....1 C
July 15. Like Mother Made.....1 C
July 23. On Her Account.....1 C
July 29. She Almost Proposed.....1 C
Sept. 17. All Kinds of a Girl.....1 C
Sept. 23. A Maid and a Man.....1 C

STRAND (ELINOR FIELD)

Aug. 6. What Will Father Say?.....1 C
Aug. 13. The High Cost of Weddings.....1 C
Aug. 20. Winnie's Wild Wedding.....1 C
Aug. 27. Her Friend, the Enemy.....1 C
Sept. 10. Cupid in Quarantine.....1 C
Oct. 1. Keep Smiling .....1 C
Oct. 13. The Tale of a Hat.....1 C

OUTING-CHESTER PICTURES
To be issued one a week

Aug. 4. A Coorial on the Orinoco.....
Aug. 11. A Dam Catastrophe.....
Aug. 18. Statia With a Past.....
Aug. 25. Pines Up and Palms Down.....
Sept. 1. Finfeather Picanninies .....
Sept. 18. Saba, the Astonishing.....

SCREEN TELEGRAM
Issued Sunday and Wednesday of Each Week

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

Hearst-Pathe News released each Wednesday and Saturday

Sept. 29. Getaway (Chadwick-Astra), 2d...
Oct. 6. Triumph of Transportation (Leggett Gruen) .....1 Ed.
Oct. 20. Winning the War, No. 1.....1 Top.

ROLIN COMEDIES
One Reel a Week

Sept. 29. Swing Your Partners (Lloyd)...
Oct. 6. No Place Like Jail (Larel).....
Oct. 13. Why Pick on Me? (Lloyd).....
Oct. 20. An Enemy of Soap (Toto).....
Oct. 27. Nothing But Trouble (Lloyd)....

Official War Review released every Monday
Post Travel Series

Sept. 29. St. Kitts, The Mother Colony.....
Oct. 6. Antigas, British West Indies.....
Oct. 13. Barbados, British West Indies.....
Oct. 20. On Caribbean Lapped Shores.....
Oct. 27. Sumatra .....

THE FAR FLUNG BATTLE LINE

Sept. 29. British Picture.....
Oct. 6. French Colonial Troops.....
Oct. 13. Far Flying Battle Line.....
Oct. 20. France's Dusky Warriors.....
Oct. 27. Britain's Naval Air Power.....

BRITAIN'S BULWARKS
(Official Government Pictures—One reel each)

July 7. No. 9, King George and Queen Mary Witness the Black Arts of War...
July 14. No. 10, With the Policemen of the Allies on the North Sea.....
July 21. No. 11, The Canadians on the Western Front .....
July 28. No. 12, The Canadians at Vimy Ridge .....

"THE HOUSE OF HATE" (ASTRA)
(Serial) Two reels each
(Pearl White, Antonio Moreno, Paul Clerget, John Webb Dillion, Peggy Shaner)

June 2. Thirteenth Episode, Enemy Tliens.
June 9. Fourteenth Episode.
June 16. Fifteenth Episode, The False Signal.
June 23. Sixteenth Episode, The Vial of Death.
June 30. Seventeenth Episode, The Death Switch.
July 7. Eighteenth Episode, At the Pistol's Point.
July 14. Nineteenth Episode, The Hooded Terror.
July 20. Twentieth Episode, Following Old Glory.

"HANDS UP" (ASTRA)
(Serial) Two and and three reels each
(Featuring Ruth Roland and George Cheseboro).

Aug. 18. First Episode, The Bride of the Sun.
Aug. 25. Second Episode, The Missing Prince.
Sept. 1. Third Episode, The Phantom and the Girl.
Sept. 8. Fourth Episode, The Phantom's Trail.
Sept. 22. Sixth Episode, Flames of Vengeance.
Sept. 29. Seventh Episode, Tossed in the Torrent.
Oct. 6. Eighth Episode, The Fatal Jewels.
Oct. 13. Ninth Episode, A Leap Through Space.

WOLVES OF KULTUR

Oct. 13. First Episode, The Torture Trap.
Oct. 20. Tenth Episode, The Sun Message.
Oct. 27. Eleventh Episode, The Stranger from the Sea.

WOLVES OF KULTUR (WESTERN PHOTOPLAYS, INC.)
(Serial, Two Reels Each)
Leah Baird, Sheldon Lewis, Charles Hutchison.

Oct. 20. Second Episode, The Iron Claw.
Oct. 27. Third Episode, Trapping Traitors.

Triangle Distributing Corp.

TRIANGLE COMEDIES

Mar. 3. A Discord in A Flat.....1 C
Mar. 3. His Hidden Shame.....1 C
Mar. 10. Wives and Worries.....1 C
Mar. 10. She Didn't Do It.....1 C

KEYSTONE RELEASES

May 19. Newspaper Clippings (Francis McDonald, Claire Anderson) .....2 C
May 26. Are Wives Unreasonable? (Ed. Brady, Claire Anderson).....2 C
June 2. The Poor Fish (Ed Brady, Claire Anderson) .....2 C
June 9. Flapjacks (Geo. Hernandez, Josie Sedgwick, F. McQuarrie).....2 C
June 16. Isn't it Warm? (Bill Dyer, Harry Depp, Claire McDowell).....2 C
June 23. Cupid and the Cop.....2 C
June 30. Pearls Without Price.....2 C

Universal Film Company

Monday, September 2, 1918

NESTOR—Their Sporting Blood (Pat Rooney) .....1 C

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—How Charlie Captured the Kaiser.....1 reel

Wednesday, September 4, 1918

L-KO—Her Whirlwind Wedding (Eva Novack) .....2 C

Monday, September 16, 1918

NESTOR—Pat Turns Detective (Pat Rooney) .....1 C

Wednesday, September 18, 1918

L-KO—A Pullman Blunder (Harry Gribbon, Mae Emery, Helen Lynch, Harry Mann).2 C

Monday, September 23

NESTOR—The Slow Express (Victor Potel(.1 C

Wednesday, September 25

L-KO—Hello Trouble (Babe Hardey and Eva Novak) .....2 C

Monday, September 30

NESTOR—Parted from His Bride (Kerrigan) .....1 C

Wednesday, October 2

L-KO—Nuts and Noodles (Eva Novak and Charlis) from the Orient.....2 C

Monday, October 7

NESTOR—His Royal Nibs (Comedy Cast).1 C

Wednesday, October 9

CENTURY—Untamed Ladies (Alice Howell),2 C

Monday, October 14

NESTOR—Perils of the Parlor (De Haven)..1 C

Wednesday, October 16

L-KO—Scars and Bars (Helen Lynch and Dick Smith) .....2 C

Monday, October 21

NESTOR—The Love Craze (Florence Lawrence) .....2 C

Wednesday, October 23

L-KO—Painless Love (Babe Hardy).....2 C

WESTERN AND RAILROAD DRAMAS

Aug. 17. Roped and Tied (Hart-Sedgwick).2 D
Aug. 24. The Whirlwind Finish (Marie Walcamp) .....2 D
Aug. 31. Beating the Limited (Neal Hart)..2 D
Sept. 7. The Flame of the West (Cleo Madison) .....2 D
Sept. 14. Danger Ahead (Helen Gibson)....2 D
Sept. 21. The Human Tiger (Eileen Sedgwick) .....2 D
Sept. 23. Under False Pretenses (Helen Gibson) .....1 D
Sept. 30. All for Gold (Eileen Sedgwick)....2 D
Oct. 12. The Fast Mail (Helen Gibson)....2 D
Oct. 19. The Husband Hunter (Neal Hart).2 C
Oct. 26. The Dead Shot (Helen Gibson)..2 C

UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY
Released Every Wednesday

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE
Released Every Monday

UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS
Released Every Saturday

LYONS-MORAN STAR COMEDIES
(One reel each)

Aug. 5. Don't Shoot .....
Aug. 12. Give Her Gas.....
Aug. 19. Damaged Goods .....
Aug. 26. Housecleaning Horrors .....
Sept. 2. The Extra Bridegroom.....
Sept. 16. Nearly a Chaperone.....
Sept. 23. Please Hit Me.....
Sept. 30. Frenzied Film .....
Oct. 7. The Price of a Rotten time.....
Oct. 14. Nailed at the Plate.....
Oct. 21. Why Worry?.....

SERIALS
"THE BULL'S EYE"
Two Reels Each
(Eddie Polo)

May 6. Fourteenth Episode, The Firing Squad.
May 13. Fifteenth Episode, The Stained Face.
May 20. Sixteenth Episode, Running Wild.
May 27. Seventeenth Episode, In Irons.
June 3. Eighteenth and Last Episode, The Runaway.

"THE LION'S CLAWS"
Two Reels Each
(Marie Walcamp)

July 1. Fourteenth Episode (Hell Let Loose).
July 8. Fifteenth Episode, The Bridge of the Beast.
July 15. Sixteenth Episode, The Jungle Pool.
July 22. Seventeenth Episode (The Danger Pit)
July 29. Eighteenth Episode (Triumph).

"THE BRASS BULLET"
(Two Reels Each)
(Juanita Hansen, Jack Mulhall)

Aug. 19. Third Episode (Locked in the Tower).
Aug. 26. Fourth Episode (Smoked Out).
Sept. 2. Fifth Episode (The Mock Bride).
Sept. 9. Sixth Episode (A Dangerous Honeymoon).
Sept. 16. Seventh Episode (The Depth Bomb).
Sept. 23. Eighth Episode (The Magnetic Bug).
Sept. 30. Ninth Episode (The Room of Flame).
Oct. 7. Tenth Episode (A New Peril).
Oct. 14. Eleventh Episode (Evil Waters).
Oct. 21. Twelfth Episode (Caught by Wireless).

Fighting for Freedom (One Reel Each Week)

Oct. 14. Third Episode (Sensational Capture of Bagdad).
Oct. 21. Fourth Episode (Thrilling Feats of the Royal Flying Corps).

BOY SCOUTS TO THE RESCUE
Universal Special

Apr. 15. Aides of a Nation, No. 1.....2 reels
Apr. 22. On the Trail, No. 2.....2 reels
Apr. 29. The Great Mine Disaster, No. 3.2 reels
May 6. The Spies, No. 4.....2 reels
May 13. Treachery at Sea, No. 5.....2 reels

Vitagraph

BIG V COMEDIES

Aug. 5. Dunces and Dangers.
Aug. 12. Shines and Monkey-Shines.
Aug. 19. Dukes and Dollars.
Aug. 26. Flappers and Friskies.
Sept. 2. Mutts and Motors.
Sept. 9. Capers and Crooks.
Sept. 16. Wild Women and Wild Waves.
Sept. 23. Stripes and Stars.
Sept. 30. Hula-Hulas and Hocus-Pocus.

BIG V SPECIAL COMEDIES

Sept. 23. Huns and Hyphens (Semon).....2 C
Sept. 30. Roofs and Riots.....
Oct. 7. Bears and Bad Men.....

THE WOMAN IN THE WEB (Serial)
(Hedda Nova, J. Frank Glendon)

July 1. The Hidden Menace (Thirteenth Episode).
July 8. The Crash of Fate (Fourteenth Episode)
July 15. Out of the Web (Fifteenth Episode)

A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS (Serial)
(William Duncan, Edith Johnson, Joe Ryan)

July 15. The Snare (First Episode).
July 22. Flames of Peril (Second Episode).
July 29. The Secret Stockade (Third Episode)
Aug. 5. The Precipice of Horror (Fourth Episode).
Aug. 12. The Path of Thrills (Fifth Episode).
Aug. 19. The Spell of Evil (Sixth Episode).
Aug. 26. The Gorge of Destruction (Seventh Episode).
Sept. 2. In the Clutches (Eighth Episode).
Sept. 9. The Escape (Ninth Episode).
Sept. 16. The Secret Tunnel (Tenth Episode).
Sept. 23. The Noose of Death (Eleventh Episode).
Sept. 30. The Tide of Disaster (Twelfth Episode).
Oct. 7. The Engine of Terror (Thirteenth Episode).
Oct. 14. The Decoy (Fourteenth Episode).
Oct. 21. The Sealed Envelope (Fifteenth Episode).

THE IRON TEST (Serial)
(Antonio Moreno, Carol Holloway)

Oct. 21. The Ring of Fire (First Episode).
Oct. 28. The Van of Disaster (Second Episode).

DREW COMEDIES
(Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew)

July 15. The Honeymoon Baby .....
July 22. The Cub and the Daisy Chain.....
July 29. Their Agreement .....
Aug. 5. Miss Sticky-Moufie-Kiss .....
Aug. 12. Diplomatic Henry .....
Aug. 19. By Might of His Right.....
Aug. 26. The Professional Patient.....
Sept. 2. Mr. Blink of Bohemia.....
Sept. 9. A Lady in the Library.....

WHARTONS, INC.

The Eagle's Eye (Serial), featuring King Baggott, Marguerite Snow, twenty episodes—two reels each.

Independent Releases

(Continued from page 2415)

CORONA CINEMA COMPANY PRODUCTIONS.

Mother, I Need You.....6 reels

UNITED FILM CORPORATION

Crime of the Hour.....7 reels

W. H. Productions Co.

William S. Hart as Two Gun Man in "The Bargain" .....6 reels
William S. Hart in "The Bandit and the Preacher" .....5 reels
William S. Hart in "The Hell Hound of Alaska" .....5 reels
Also Series of two-reel W. H. Hart productions
Satan's Pawn (Bessie Barriscale).

Romayne Superfilm Company

Me und Gott or "The Awakening of America," 6 reels

Edward Warren Productions, Inc.

Souls Redeemed.
Weavers of Life.

Western Import Co.

Mickey (Mabel Normand).

The New Westinghouse Cooper Hewitt Mercury Rectifier will give you Better Results at Less Cost——Improved operating characteristics insure increased efficiency and increased power factor over other forms of equipment.

FEATURES

—Additional apparatus included as part of equipment which provides for adaptation to line voltages slightly off normal, automatic starting and protection of bulb against dangerous overloads.

—A simple change, instantly made, adapts the outfit to the operation of the arc on alternating current.

—All mounted in neat, compact, iron frame, preventing accidental breakage of bulb.

To begin with—

(1) The first Cost is Less

And, in addition, you secure—

(2) Higher Efficiency
(3) Increased Power Factor
(4) Greater Dependability
(5) Better Projection

Buy Liberty Bonds

Hence, and from now on, it will cost you less to increase receipts at the ticket window—because, good projection is a business asset—reliability is a business asset—and, increased efficiency and higher power factor are welcome economies.

It will cost you nothing to find out just why, and in what respect, this simple, inexpensive Mercury Arc Rectifier is superior to former equipments.

An illustrated, Descriptive Leaflet, will gladly be mailed upon request.

It will pay you to investigate.

Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company,
East Pittsburgh, Pa.

W WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC

Westinghouse

Equipment Service

FOR THE GOOD OF THE CAUSE

In the prosecution of the war, we accept and heartily concur in the subjoined schedule prepared by the War Industries Board.

WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD

Conservation Division,
Washington, September 17, 1918.

SCHEDULE FOR THE MANUFACTURERS OF MOTION PICTURE MACHINES:

1. The purchase of new lenses to be restricted from this date to 4 inches, 5 inches, and 6 inches focal lengths, and 16 inches, 20 inches, and 24 inches stereo. There is no restriction in dealing in second-hand lenses of any size.
2. After September 20, 1918, the following accessories to be furnished to purchasers only upon request as extras:
   (a) Rheostat
   (b) Rewinders
   (c) Reels
3. Each manufacturer to reduce the weight of his machines as much as is practicable and to advise this Division immediately of the amount of this reduction.
4. Each manufacturer to substitute some less essential material for brass, aluminum and steel insofar as possible, and to advise this Division of the action taken.

CONSERVATION DIVISION,
War Industries Board.

235-50

We pledge ourselves to abide by its provisions in every particular

ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. COMPANY
Manufacturers of Motiograph Projectors
564-572 West Randolph Street, Chicago, Ill.

PRECISION MACHINE COMPANY, INC.
Manufacturers of Simplex Projectors
317 East 34th Street, New York, N. Y.

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY, INC.
Manufacturers of Power's Cameragraph
90 Gold Street, New York, N. Y.

VICTOR ANIMATOGRAPH COMPANY
Manufacturers of Victor Projectors
Davenport, Iowa

Projection Music Laboratory Studio Theatre

FOR THE GOOD OF THE CAUSE

In the prosecution of the war, we accept and heartily concur in the subjoined schedule prepared by the War Industries Board.

WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD

Conservation Division,
Washington, September 17, 1918.

SCHEDULE FOR THE MANUFACTURERS OF MOTION PICTURE MACHINES:

1. The purchase of new lenses to be restricted from this date to 4 inches, 5 inches, and 6 inches focal lengths, and 16 inches, 20 inches, and 24 inches stereo. There is no restriction in dealing in second-hand lenses of any size.
2. After September 20, 1918, the following accessories to be furnished to purchasers only upon request as extras:
   - (a) Rheostat
   - (b) Rewinders
   - (c) Reels
3. Each manufacturer to reduce the weight of his machines as much as is practicable and to advise this Division immediately of the amount of this reduction.
4. Each manufacturer to substitute some less essential material for brass, aluminum and steel insofar as possible, and to advise this Division of the action taken.

CONSERVATION DIVISION,
War Industries Board.

235-50

We pledge ourselves to abide by its provisions in every particular

VICTOR ANIMATOGRAPH COMPANY
Manufacturers of Victor Projectors
DAVENPORT, IOWA

PRECISION MACHINE CO., INC.
Manufacturers of Simplex Projectors
317 EAST 34TH STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y.

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY, INC.
Manufacturers of Power's Cameragraph
90 GOLD STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y.

ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. CO.
Manufacturers of Motiograph Projectors
564-572 WEST RANDOLPH STREET, CHICAGO, ILL.

Equipment Service

Devoted to the technical branches of the motion picture industry, containing records of the latest accomplishments in the mechanical and scientific field; projection helps, inventions and suggestions; camera devices analyzed and commented upon; musical cue sheets for important feature pictures; improvements and innovations in the building and furnishing field.

No charge is made in these departments for answering questions of any nature. Correspondence is invited.

E. KENDALL GILLETT.....Editor

ALFRED S. CORY.....Technical Editor

Society of Motion Picture Engineers

THE fall meeting of the Society is to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, on October 21st, 22nd and 23rd. This meeting from present indications will be more extensively attended than any thus far held in the two years of the organization's existence.

Mr. H. A. Campe, chairman of the papers committee, has prepared a programme which should prove interesting, enlightening and most instructive, as the various subjects are to be discussed by the most prominent authorities in the country. The programme is to be as follows:

President's Address.....C. F. Jenkins
The carbon arc for alternating and direct current motion picture projection.....W. C. Kunzmann
Incandescent lamps for motion picture work
R. P. Burrows
Standardization of the motion picture industry and the ideal studio.....J. W. Allison
Natural color cinematography.....W. V. D. Kelley
Making of motion picture films.....George A. Blair
Sprocket teeth and film perforations and their relation to better projection.....A. C. Roebuck
Function of the condenser in projection apparatus
Dr. H. Kellner
Projection room and its requirements
F. H. Richardson
Advantages in the use of the new standard narrow width film for portable projectors..Willard B. Cook

The membership of the Society has grown since its organization in July, 1916, by ten men, until today it has a total membership of about fifty. These men represent some of the largest interests in the country who have not only come to realize the importance of the motion picture, but also its need of co-ordination, and the adoption of certain standards which must be complied with before the industry will reach its maximum in importance.

In order that those in the industry and not yet affiliated with the Society may realize its importance, it may be well to mention some of the companies already in the ranks such, for instance, as: General Electric Company, Fort Wayne Electric Company, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, Edison Lamp Works, National Lamp Works, Westinghouse Lamp Works, National Carbon Company, Bausch and Lomb Optical Company, Eastman Kodak Company, Gundlach Manhattan Optical Company, Precision Machine Company, Nicholas Power Company, Enterprise Optical Company, De Vry Corporation, Pathescope Company of America, Victor Animatograph Company, M. H. Wohl Company, Universal Film Manufacturing Company, Graphoscope Company of America, Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, Allison and Hadaway, Bell & Howell Company, United Theatre Equipment Corporation, Prizma, Incorporated, and Wollensak Optical Company.

That these companies have seen the importance of being affiliated should be proof to all those still hesitating on the outside.

I was talking the other day to the representative of a company not yet affiliated. This man, who knows the business well, said he considered the Society a step in the right direction, but that he could not conceive how we hoped to help an industry which did not know what it wanted, except that it was sure it did not want any suggestions or help no matter how sincere or practical. In other words, if the industry would not help itself how did the Society ever hope to help it?

This is the way in which many today look at the Society's work, yet it has gone steadily forward and each meeting accomplishes something that goes to make up the sum total which will count in the end. We must also remember that the industry will not always remain as it is today; some time the scientific details are going to play a more important part, and at that time the Society will be on the ground to point the way.

We are looking for new members. We want more men from the laboratory and studio fields. We should have at least one member from each of the various studios and a member from every one of the worth-while laboratories. We also want camera men of known ability; in fact, any and all influential men in the various branches of this, the fifth industry in point of size in our country. If you are not a member join now. We will be glad to see you in Cleveland. E. K. GILLETT.

Equipment Operating Projection Questions Answered

The Characteristics and Efficiency of Projection Screens

(Concluded from last week)

Focusing Screens

IN the previous section of this article the type of projection screen considered was the usual or reflecting type, which reflects back, to the eyes of the spectator, the image, or picture, projected upon it.

In some cases it is necessary or desirable, however, to project from behind the screen, in which event the image viewed is transmitted through the screen, which must consequently be partially transparent, or translucent.

Another familiar instance where the image projected by a lens is inspected by transmitted light, after its interception by a translucent screen, is the image viewed upon the ground glass or focusing screen of a camera. As the selection of suitable focusing screens and screens for rear projection is a matter of importance, both to photographers and optical projectionists, we have now to examine into the characteristics of the various types of screen which are available for these purposes.

In viewing a projected image by transmitted light it is desirable that the image be of maximum brightness, and at the same time be free from any specularly, or directly, transmitted light. As a rule ground and etched glasses diffuse through an angular distance of but 5° to 15° from the normal to the screen surface, while opal glasses diffuse through an angle of 180°. In the following table the diffusion in various glasses which have been used as rear projection or focusing screens is given. The brightnesses at various angles are exprcssed as percentages of the brightness of a surface transmitting 100 per cent. perfectly diffusely through an angle of 180°.

Angle	F. O.	P. O.	F. G.	C. G.	E_1	E_3	E_3	O. P.
105°	0.29	0.102	0.076	0.055	...	...	...	..
120°	0.33	0.121	0.125	0.077	...	...	...	..
135°	0.36	0.127	0.193	0.129	...	...	...	..
150°	0.39	0.133	0.386	0.355	...	...	...	..
165°	0.40	0.138	4.13	3.55	...	...	...	..
170°	0.41	0.141	7.9	5.56	3.0	5.5	1 7	2.1
175°	0.42	0.143	12.9	11.3	18.8	23.3	13.1	13.4
180°	0.42	0.145	16.1	13.2	66.0	57.0	135.0	56.6

In the table, F. O. represents flashed opal glass; P. O. pot opal; F. G. fine ground glass; C. G. coarser ground glass; E_1 is an etched glass; E_2 and E_3 are also etched glasses, prepared by a special process which leaves the surface covered with very small, shallow, spherical cavities. These tiny spherical depressions are negative lenses and form minute images which may be viewed with a microscope. In the final column of the table, O. P. is oiled paper of the sort used in the address side of window-envelopes.

The flashed opal glass (about 0.1 mm. thick) and the pot opal (about 2 mm. thick) in the first two columns of the table diffuse the transmitted light to a very high degree, and show no pronounced maximum transmission in the vicinity of the normal, while the fine ground and coarser ground glasses transmit chiefly within a small angle near the normal. The etched glasses are intended to concentrate the transmitted light within a small angle in the vicinity of the normal.

The fine ground glass (F. G., column 3) is a part of the mirror with ground surface No. 13, Table 1 (see last issue), and it is interesting to note that the light in passing twice through the ground surface (when the ground mirror is used as a reflecting screen) is diffused twice as much as when the same ground surface is used as a transmitting screen.

The extremely high diffusion of opal glass, even in very thin layers, is to be attributed to the fact that the diffusing particles are of just the proper size to give maximum diffusion, namely, of the order of two or three light wave-lengths. Opal glass is still almost completely diffusing in thicknesses as small as 0.1 mm., and when ground to a thin wedge shows regular transmission in thicknesses up to about 0.05 mm.

A Case of Laboratory Carelessness

Mr. John Rosecrans, Sioux City, Iowa, a valued correspondent and member of the National Anti-Misframe League, writes as follows:

"I am enclosing a misframed negative splice taken out of a two-reel Universal Helen Holmes railroad story entitled 'Danger Ahead.' We are receiving our Universal films from their Omaha exchange. Although Mr. C. H. Calvert, exchange manager, is prompt in checking up careless, incompetent operators and careless inspectors, I doubt the wisdom of placing upon him the blame for incompetent and careless laboratory employees. So I decided to forward this sample to you with a suggestion that whatever correction you may be able to secure, through the general offices, will, without doubt, be appreciated by the profession in general. For what is more exasperating to an operator than to have to hunt out a negative mis-framed splice? And the Universal is releasing these negative misframed splices entirely too frequently of late.

"I would also add a few remarks to the articles of Brother T. A. Gramtling, of Florence, Ala., and of Brother W. J. Fallon, of Sioux City, Ia., in regard to carbons and carbon troubles. I was working with Brother Fallon at the time he had his carbon troubles and I am positive that he was correct in his article contributed. Never before did I ever use such an absolutely worthless 'bunch of junk' called carbons. To more fully appreciate this statement, it would be necessary to use a few of the same kind—even with a generator set. Brother Gramtling may be correct about using 5/8" upper and a 5/16" silver tip lower with 50 amperes at 48 volts supplied by a 60 volt generator. But I would like his opinion as to possible results using 110 volt circuit supplying juice to five or more large power motors before reaching rheostats. I am using 45 amperes at the arc, with 3/4" upper and 7/16" Hold ark at the bottom, drawing through a separate rheostat for each machine, from a three-wire circuit, and am getting a good, clear, white light. Tried a 5/8" cored upper, but was unable to keep a steady arc, and had to burn carbons about 3/4 inch apart, thus getting a beautiful 'ghost' all the time. With the 3/4" upper I burn them about 3/8 inch apart, get a clear field and no trouble with arc flaming. I would like to see some others contribute experiences in regard to carbons and carbon troubles. Who will be the next? Who has had trouble and found the remedy? Come on, brother operators, and tell us about it. Everybody, manager, operator, or even the ticket seller, is interested in projection in their own theatre, and most of them read the articles contributed to the Projection Department. Let's all contribute and make the Department of interest to all by contributing experiences whether of large importance or seeming insignificance. The operator using a Powers 5 or Pathé machine and burning A. C. three nights a week is just as much of interest as the seventy-five-dollar-a-week projectionist of the largest cities, who rides to work in his own private Ford and puts in a day looking wise and bossing an assistant around to see that he earns his salary. So let us see a few more articles from interested operators and managers also."

Comment: The film clipping sent in by Mr. Rosecrans consisted of a section of subtitle, but what appeared to be a misframe in the negative from which the strip had been printed was, in reality, an apparent overlapping of two of the images at the frame-line—the extent of this overlap being equal to one-fourth the height of a picture on the film. The same appearance was noted at the two frame-lines preceding, although less in extent, so it was apparent that the printer had failed to properly register about the new light source for motion picture projection—the

(Continued on page 2424)

WESTINGHOUSE MAZDA LAMP

which produces better pictures for less money

Write for a copy of this booklet

Visit our booth at the Motion Picture Exposition at Madison Square Garden, and let us show you how much easier and simpler the WESTINGHOUSE MAZDA LAMP is to operate than the arc light; why it uses less current, makes better pictures and is more reliable in every way.

Westinghouse Lamp Co.
165 Broadway, New York

Sales Offices and Warehouses Throughout the Country
For Canada—Canadian Westinghouse Co., Limited, Hamilton, Ont.

WESTINGHOUSE MAZDA LAMPS

for Motion Picture Projection

The more YOU read these advertisements the more useful to YOU we can make the "NEWS"

(Continued from page 2422)

the images at that point. This frequently occurs, following a bad splice in the negative, but the films generally come into correct register again within a few feet of film, or within the space of a few images if the machine be a good one and in proper adjustment.

However, the defect brought to our attention by Mr. Rosecrans is directly chargeable to the laboratory, and one which should not be allowed to persist, for although slight defects frequently occur in the making of positive prints, these are all supposed to be removed before the films are shipped out by the laboratory. When misframes and places out of register are discovered in a new print, with no splices existing in the vicinity of the defective spots, it is readily apparent that such defects are of laboratory origin, and it is also fair to assume, in such instances, that the prints have not been inspected by the laboratory at all.

We have forwarded our correspondent's film clipping to the Universal Film Mfg. Co., with a report of the circumstances, and we have no doubt but what they will provide for more rigorous laboratory inspection in the future, because they have always co-operated with the members of the National Anti-Misframe League in the past.

With regard to the matter of carbons and carbon sizes, we believe that Mr. Fallon's views in this matter are now well understood by all the readers, but, as the present correspondent says, the experience of other operators on this matter is always useful for study and comparison.

In the majority of cases where D. C. is used for projection, the arrangements are such that a great deal of electrical energy is lost in resistances of some form or another, and it is possible that the carbon manufacturers recommend 5/8" upper carbons for amperages up to 45-50 because they represent less additional resistance in the circuit than would be the case if larger carbons were used for the same current—the final result representing slightly greater efficiency in the case of the smaller carbons.

There is no doubt whatever that a satisfactory light in all respects can in many cases be attained with a 5/8" cored upper carbon at 45 amperes, but on the other hand cases are known to all operators of experience where a larger upper carbon was required to produce a well-behaved arc, just as in the case of our correspondent. As it is the screen results, rather than small differences in relative efficiency, which are of chief concern to the average operator and exhibitor, we believe that most any operator would follow Mr. Rosecrans' procedure of increasing the upper carbon size, if a superior control of the light for the same amperage was thereby to be attained.

When it comes to increasing the amperage also, in addition to increasing the carbon size, we doubt that there is anything actually gained above 45 amperes. The brightness of the D. C. arc crater becomes a constant at considerably below that amperage, and the uncorrected condenser system cannot efficiently image the enlarged craters formed at high amperages, but this is another line of consideration, not raised by our correspondent.

We heartily endorse all of Mr. Rosecrans' good, sound, sensible remarks about the desirability of operators and managers frequently communicating their experiences and their difficulties to the Projection Department, and we stand ready to publish, advise and comment upon them at any time. Mr. Rosecrans sets a good example; let others follow it by bringing up for attention and discussion any subjects whose elucidation will be of benefit to all the operators.

Discolored Light with A. C.

Mr. Jacob Sheetz, Allentown, Pa., writes as follows:

"I am using White A. C. Carbons on a Bell & Howell Compensator on 40 amp., and I get kind of a pinkish bluish light when projected on a gold-fiber screen. When I press the carbons closer together the light changes to a yellowish or very light brownish on the screen. However, I keep a short arc on A. C. What causes this? Have the carbons a natural tendency to give such a light for they should give a very soft snow white color, and a very bright screen illumination?

"How can I coat a screen, just a regular muslin screen, in order to make either a silver screen, or a gold fiber. Can it be made by using silver glaze, or aluminum and bronze for a gold fiber?"

In reply: We do not think the correspondent can blame the discolored appearance of his screen illumination to the brand of carbons used; it is more likely that his method of setting them is at fault, or that his projector optical system can be adjusted to produce a more satisfactory screen result.

If the A. C. arc is so trimmed that images of both the upper and lower carbon tips are in focus simultaneously at the cooling plate there is generally a bluish streak across the center of the screen, and as this can hardly be avoided when the light from both carbon tips contributes to the spot, it is generally necessary to utilize the light from only one carbon tip for projecting the pictures, and if this is done the discolored streak across the screen of course disappears. If only one of the incandescent tips of the A. C. arc is to be used, it is naturally more convenient to use the tip of the upper carbon as light source. This is accomplished by advancing the position of the lower carbon, as with the D. C. arc; thus the lower carbon tip will be far out of focus when the tip of the upper carbon is clearly imaged on the cooling plate. If the illumination furnished by the upper carbon tip alone is not sufficient at the screen, then the amperage must be increased. The brownish appearance of the screen illumination mentioned by the correspondent is the natural result of feeding the carbons too close together.

Considering further the bluish tinge in the light of which the correspondent complains, this may be due to other reasons than the one already advanced. If too great a distance is maintained between the carbon tips, then there will be some flaming of the carbons, and the blue or violet color of the arc flame must naturally be apparent on the screen. The arc flame will always cause a blue spot in the vicinity of the center of the screen if the condenser distance is such as to focus the carbon tips (or crater with D. C.) at the aperture of the projector, but in such event the ghost may be made to disappear by suitably altering the condenser distance.

We will not publish instructions for the preparation of metal-coated screens by exhibitors, as the results of such attempts seldom justify the time and money expended, and suitable screens of this variety are on the market in abundance, and at fair prices. If an exhibitor has plenty of current available for projecting he will probably do as well with a white plaster or similar screen as with any other, but a plain muslin curtain is, of course, very wasteful of light, because a great deal passes right through instead of being reflected back to the eyes of the spectators.

Numerous Simplex Installations in the Service

IN the short time that J. S. Cifre has been connected with the Boston Motion Picture Supply Company, 197 Pleasant street, Boston, Mass., exclusive distributors for the Simplex projectors in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, he has made a number of installations of this make in New England.

Among the machines installed by him in September were three type "S" Simplex, motor driven, projectors at the United States Naval Training Station, Newport, R. I. Spotlights and booths were supplied with two of the machines which were installed in what is known as Destroyer Hall, a building two hundred and fifty feet by one hundred feet wide, with a fully equipped stage, and the third machine was placed in the Barracks "B" Building. One Simplex was already in use there. The films for both halls are booked by Lewis Astor, a sailor, who before entering the service, managed seevral theatres in New Orleans and its suburbs.

The Destroyer Hall opened with "Hearts of the World," and as in the case of the Barracks "B" Building, shows pictures every night in the week for the benefit of the men in the service. The machines are operated by two sailors, Arthur Martin, a member of Local No. 306, N. Y., and Sid Garwood.

Two other naval installations have been credited to Mr. Cifre's efforts in the last month. He installed a Simplex, motor driven, machine on the U. S. S. Savannah, and also a type "S," motor driven, Simplex on the U. S. S. Delaware.

While providing Uncle Sam's sailors with the means of seeing pictures, he did not neglect the boys in the army. He placed a type "S," motor driven, Simplex in the Christian Federation House, a finely appointed hut used for the entertainment of the soldiers at Camp Devens, Mass.

Among the theatre installations made by him is the Orient Gardens theatre, East Boston, Mass., which purchased two Simplexes. The owner is James F. Powers, who also owns the Congress Hall theatre, South Boston, Mass. The Orient Gardens theatre is a cozy family house, with a seating capacity of about one thousand, and ranks with the best equipped theatres of that locality.

Pathescope Co. Introduces Portable Generator of Novel Type

ON account of an ingenious illuminating system, which has always distinguished the Pathescope from other portable projectors, that instrument is capable of producing brighter screen illumination with a current consumption of about 40 watts than is obtainable with the ordinary systems using from 300 to 500 watts.

Thus the Pathéscope has always been a favorite with storage battery equipment on account of the very light current consumption, amounting to only a trifle over 2 amperes at 14 to 16 volts. Where storage batteries can be given intelligent attention and promptly recharged when exhausted, they make an ideal source of lighting current for the Pathéscope, but the makers have found that in remote localities the storage battery is not only subject to breakage in transit, but difficulties in recharging cause the batteries to be neglected until they are ruined by sulphating.

Portable Generating Outfit for Use With the Pathescope

On that account the Pathéscope Co. of America have developed for remote localities and particularly for export business, the hand operated generator shown in the illustration. In this apparatus a high grade direct current generator is used, driven by a belt from a fly wheel equipped with two cranks.

The generator gives sufficient current to properly illuminate an 8′ by 10′ screen at the moderate crank speed of 100 r.p.m., and may be placed at any distance from the projector, to which it is connected by suitable wiring.

The Pathéscope Company can furnish either the complete self-contained generating unit, as shown, or the generator only, and it is obvious that the generator can be driven in any other way, such as by a tiny gasoline motor, or a windmill, or water power. Only about 1/15 hp. is required to operate the generator.

For light weight and portability, this outfit is certainly a big step in advance of anything hitherto developed. The projector, as illustrated, weighs only 17 pounds and packs in a case 16″ by 13½″ by 8″. The generator weighs 12 pounds. The driving mechanism, including the stand and telescoping legs, weighs 68 pounds.

Bausch and Lomb Projection Lenses have long been considered standard equipment by the leading motion picture machine manufacturers. The product of America's greatest lens specialists, who have been producing high grade lenses of one type or another for 65 years, they are unexcelled in the clear-cut, evenly illuminated pictures they produce on the screen.

Because of the demand made upon our resources for some of the Government's most important military needs, we are unable to make projection lens deliveries for the present. While proud to be of such service in this world crisis, we shall expect to serve our other patrons even more efficiently than before, when the world is again at peace.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.
569 ST. PAUL STREET ROCHESTER, N.Y.
New York Washington Chicago San Francisco
Leading American Makers of Projection Apparatus (Balopticons and Lenses), Photographic and Ophthalmic Lenses, Microscopes, Binoculars, Range Finders, Gun Sights, Searchlight Reflectors and Other High-Grade Optical Products.

PERFECTED PROJECTION

THE mechanism of the DeVry Portable Motion Picture Projector is so wonderfully simple as to commend itself instantly to the amateur operator, while it combines all the necessary qualities of perfected projection to delight the appreciation of the professional.

Adopted by the United States Government in all Departments where motion pictures are used, and by the American Red Cross, at home and abroad. Used also in all Y. M. C. A. work, on transports, at home and "over there."

Write today for our Catalogue H-3

The DeVry Corporation
109½ North Wells Street Chicago, U. S. A.

THE MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE is always on the job and ready to give
EFFICIENT SERVICE
This machine because of its low cost of upkeep is worthy of the name
THE PROJECTOR PREDOMINANT
All GEARS, SHAFTS and SPROCKETS made of STEEL, BUSHINGS made of BRONZE.
3,000 ft. Magazines. 1/6 H.P. Motor.
Write Today for Catalog.

AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY
Largest Exclusive Dealers to the Motion Picture Trade
300-302 Mallers Building 5 South Wabash Avenue
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS
Dealers in Motiograph, Standard and Simplex Moving Picture Machines, National Carbons, Minusa Screens and Everything for the Theatre
WE SELL ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN

The Essential Requirements
for Improved Projection
are
SPEER CARBONS

SPEER Alterno Combinations
for A.C. Work
and
SPEER Hold-Ark Combinations
for D.C. Work

Produce Incomparable Results

Write today for descriptive folders. Read the unbiased opinions of operators

Place an order now with your Supply House

"The Carbons with a Guarantee"

Manufactured by
SPEER CARBON COMPANY
ST. MARYS, PA.

GOERZ

Goerz Kino Hypar F:3.5

Improvement is the constant aim of motion-picture producers. Scenes and effects must be well-nigh perfect. To accomplish such effects we recommend the GOERZ KINO HYPAR F:3.5 lens. It is made in 1⅝, 2, 2⅜ and 3 inch focal lengths and may be fitted to nearly all standard equipments. Used with the well-known GOERZ VIGNETTING DEVICES it leaves nothing to be desired. Write now or call for our latest descriptive matter.

C. P. GOERZ AMERICAN OPTICAL COMPANY
East Thirty-fourth Street, New York City

RADIO MAT-SLIDE
PATENT APPLIED FOR

LEND—THE WAY THEY FIGHT
A Good soldier doesn't let the thought of yesterday's battle make him forget today's.
Never mind the Liberty Bonds you bought before.
The 4th Liberty Loan is NOW! BUY BONDS TODAY!

RADIO MAT SLIDE Co. MAKERS NEW YORK

For Sale by all Leading Dealers

RADIO SLIDES CAN BE WRITTEN ON A TYPEWRITER LIKE A LETTER

$1.75 Box of 50

For Sale by All Leading Dealers

Accept no substitute—samples free

War News, Liberty Loan Announcements, Coming Attractions, Election Returns.
RADIO MAT-SLIDE CO. 121 WEST 42nd ST. NEW YORK CITY

Mazda Incandescent Electric Lamps for Projection Service

FOR several years development has been proceeding to adapt the Mazda incandescent electric lamp to motion picture projection.

This work has involved exhaustive studies of light source dimensions, optical systems and lamp performances. It has now reached a point where the incandescent lamp manufacturers announce a complete line of lamps for projection service. Of these the one which will deliver the most light to the motion picture screen is the 900 watt, 30 volt, 30 ampere Mazda C lamp. This lamp is in the T-20 tubular bulb, 2½" in diameter, 10" overall length, with a light center length of 4¾", and is fitted with the mogul screw base. It must be used with its own mirror and condensing lens system, the latter part of which has been recently developed, and will then give staisfactory service for throws up to 100 feet on a 12 x 16 screen with prepared or reflecting surface when the current consumption of the arc replaced does not exceed 60 amperes A.C. or 30 amperes D.C.

The next smaller amount of light is delivered by the 600 watt, 30 volt, 20 ampere lamp, which must also be used with its own mirror and condensing lens, and which finds its application where there are shorter throws and smaller screens, such as are used in churches, lodges and other places where less amount of light than that given by the 900 watt lamp is adequate. This lamp will find its major or principal use on country home lighting outfits and elsewhere where the power supply is limited. The lamp is made in the T-20 bulb, having the same overall dimensions and same light center length and base as the 900 watt lamp.

For other special services, such as portable projectors, stereopticons, spot lights, etc., additional Mazda C lamps in tubular bulbs have been standardized, giving a complete line of lamps in tubular bulb, as listed below.

MAZDA C LAMPS IN TUBULAR BULBS FOR STEREOPTICON AND PROJECTION SERVICE.

Volts	Watts	Bulb	Base	Light Center Length
6	72	T-10	Med. Screw	3⅜
6	108	T-10	Med. Screw	3⅜
12	72	T-10	Med. Screw	3⅜
12	108	T-10	Med. Screw	3⅜
28-30	300	T-16	Med. Screw	3⅜
28-30	*600	T-20	Mog. Screw	4¾
28-30	900	T-20	Mog. Screw	4¾
110-125	300	T-16	Med. Screw	3⅜
110-125	600	T-20	Mog. Screw	4¾
110-125	1000	T-20	Mog. Screw	4¾

This 900 watt Mazda C lamp is recommended in all cases for general motion picture theatre service.

*This 600 watt Mazda C lamp is recommended for short throws and small screens such as found in churches, lodges, etc., where a less amount of light than that given by the 900 watt lamp is adequate, and for use on country home lighting outfits where the power supply is limited. It is not recommended for general motion picture theatre service. October 1, 1918.

Operators' Inquiries

H. C. Young, Pittsfield, Mass., inquiries "From the head of my machine to the screen is a distance of 82 feet and my screen picture is 18 feet 3 inches by 14 feet. What size condensers do I need?"

Reply: Although the correspondent, like many others, has failed to furnish complete data, we assume from the measurements given that his projection objective is of 4 inches equivalent focus. We would therefore advise a 6½ inch and a 7½ inch condenser combination. If the condensers are of good quality and if the combination is properly focused, i.e., at the correct distance from the aperture, a suitable screen illumination should be obtained if other things are right.

Chas. H. Gresty, Blackwell, Okla., inquires: "What is a satisfactory recipe for making film cement? I make my own by dissolving 3 inches of plain film in one ounce of accytic ether. Do you approve of this?"

Reply: We do not approve of such a mixture, but we suppose the following recipe. It is: equal parts of collodion, sulphuric ether, amyl acetate, accytic ether.

WE PUT THE MOVE IN MOVIES—HERE

OVER THERE—Our boys have the IMSCO ENGINE and GENERATOR LIGHTING PLANTS for motion picture projection (and hut lighting), combined with the famous IMSCO SILVER SCREEN for perfect projection.

"ASK SOME ONE IMSCO PLAN COURTESY WITH SERVICE WHO DEALS WITH US"

WE SPECIALIZE IN MOTION PICTURE THEATRE EQUIPMENT. EVERY DEMAND SUPPLIED. LET US QUOTE LOWEST PRICES.

ALL MAIL ORDERS RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

INDEPENDENT MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY

W. H. RABELL 729 SEVENTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

MORE SATISFIED CUSTOMERS IN THE EASTERN TERRITORY THAN ANY OTHER SUPPLY HOUSE

BETTER SATISFACTION

This notice is addressed to the minority of our subscribers who do not regularly answer advertisements. The service described is, however, open and free to all who wish our help.

We do not wish to discourage you from writing direct to our advertisers; in fact, you do not do enough of it for your own good, but we do want you to get the proper goods to fit your needs.

There are many, perhaps you, who are too busy to write each company separately; therefore we are offering our co-operation, which means that you will receive full information on any subject which you may designate by merely filling out the coupon, designating by numbers the goods in which you are interested.

Your inquiries thus received will be forwarded to reputable manufacturers, even though the goods on which you wish information are not advertised in the "News."

1. Advertising Novelties
2. Architectural Suggestions
3. Arc Controllers
4. Brass Rails
5. Building Material
6. Cameras—Camera Attachments —Camera Lenses
7. Carbons
8. Chairs
19. Chair Upholstery
10. Change Making Machines
11. Condensers
12. Converters and Transformers
13. Developing Material
14. Developing and Printing
15. Developing Tanks
16. Disinfectants and Perfumes
17. Economizers
18. Electric Signs
29. Elevators and Escalators
20. Exterior Lighting
21. Film Cabinets
2 Film Carriers
23. Film Cement
24. Film Cleaners
25. Film Dyes
26. Film Stock
27. Fire Extinguishers
28. Floral Decorations
29. Gas Engines
30. Generators (See Gas Engine Card)
31. Heralds
32. Interior Lighting
33. Interior Telephones
34. Laboratory Apparatus
35. Lenses
36. Lighting Sets
37. Lithographers
38. Lobby Display
39. Lobby Novelties
40. Metal Ceilings
41. Motors
42. Mural Paintings
43. Musical Instrument
44. Paints
45. Perforating Machines
46. Printing Machines
47. Programs
48. Projection Booths
49. Projection Lenses
50. Projection Machines
51. Projection Machines (Homes)
52. Rectifiers
53. Reels
54. Rewinders
55. Rheostats
56. Safety Exit Locks
57. Screens
58. Slide Ink
59 Slides
60. Slip Covers
61. Stage Setting
62. Studio Lights
63. Tickets
64. Ticket Selling Machine
65. Ticket Taking Machine
66 Tripods
67. Uniforms
68. Vacuum Cleaners
69. Ventilating and Fans

Gentlemen: Please send me descriptive matter on the subjects marked in the above lists.

Name.....

Theatre.....

City.....

State.....

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

TYPHOONS COOL & VENTILATE

TYPHOON FAN CO
NEW YORK
281 LEXINGTON AVE

CAMERAMEN, LABORATORY-MEN
PRODUCERS, and EXPERIMENTERS
Let the Camera Department of
Motion Picture News
Solve Your Problems
Submit your questions to the
EDITOR OF THE CAMERA DEPT.

"NEWMAN" BRASS FRAMES AND RAILS

Read what C. A. Morrison of The Princess Theatre, Hartford, Conn., says about Newman Quality:

Gentlemen:
We have purchased quite a number of Brass Frames and Easels, together with Brass Ticket Rail and Three-Sheet Brass Poster Frames of your Company.
All of these goods reached us in perfect condition and the quality was the best. I have told several other managers in the city of your goods and in several instances orders have been sent you—all of which goes to show that your best advertiser is a satisfied customer.

PRINCESS THEATRE CO., Inc.
C. A. Morrison, Mgr. Hartford, Conn.

INSIST ON THE NAME "NEWMAN" WHEN BUYING FRAME
Write for New 1918 Catalog

The Newman Mfg. Company

ESTABLISHED 1882
Frames, Easels,
Rails Grilles,
Signs, Choppers,
Kick Plates, Door Bars

717-19 Sycamore Street, Cincinnati, Ohio
68 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Illinois
Canadian Representative—J. T. Malone, Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal, Canada
Pacific Coast—G. A. Metcalfe, San Francisco, Cal.

We manufacture the frames in various finishes which do not require polishing.

National Anti-Misframe League
Pledge

AS a motion picture operator who has the interest of his profession at heart and is willing to assist in eliminating some of the evils practised in the operating-room, I promise that I will to the best of my ability return films to the exchange in first-class condition. Furthermore, I will when it becomes necessary remedy all misframes, bad patches, etc., that may be in the film which I receive and in this way co-operate with my brother operators and give greater pleasure to those who make up the motion picture audience by showing films that are free from such defects. I also promise that I will not make punch marks in film, and when film is received by me, with punch holes, I will notify the exchange to that effect so that they may use their efforts to correct this evil.

Notice! Anti-Misframe League Members

Membership cards are now ready and are being sent out as fast as possible. There are a number of operators, however, who have neglected to send in the desired information. If you will fill out the blank and mail to this office, button and membership card will be forwarded.

Member's name.....

Home address.....

Name of theatre where employed.....

Address of theatre and name of manager.....

This notice does not apply to those who have already sent in this information, but it is for those who have neglected doing so, many having merely given their names and name of city, without any street address, making it impossible for the post office to deliver the letters addressed to them.

League Has Another Lady Member

THE acquisition of one of the fair sex as a member is always an event in the history of the National Anti-Misframe League, and requires to be chronicled, because it is gratifying to learn that the female element amongst exhibitors recognize the importance of the League's endeavors.

We were almost deprived of our opportunity to announce the recent enrollment of a lady member who typewrites her letters and signs them man-fashion, omitting the "Miss," but a more recent communication has awakened us to our previous lack of penetration.

Now that the secret is out we hasten to apprise the members of the N. A. M. L. that the lady's name is Miss Oweka Woodruff, manageress of ahe Southern theatre, Bucyrus, Ohio.

Miss Woodruff has just set the final seal of her approval upon the motives of the League by inducing her operator to enroll also.

Nicholas Power Notes

THE Power's Cameragraph has been selected by the Commonwealth of Australia for projecting all pictures before the Censorship Board. Every film used in Australia must pass before the censors. This means that all films used in Australia must first pass through a Power's Cameragraph.

THE Perkins Electric Company of Montreal, through George F. Perkins, report that business in Power's Cameragraphs is very encouraging. They state they have just placed an order with the Canadian Government for eighteen 6 B Cameragraphs.

WHITE A.C. SPECIAL

MOTION PICTURE CARBONS

For Alternating Current Projection

Silent operation of the arc and flickerless screen illumination is a reality with the use of White A. C. Special carbons on alternating current. Complete elimination of these disagreeable features of the old A. C. arc has made the alternating current arc a much more efficient light source.

White A. C. Special carbons give a pure white light of high intensity so necessary for even screen illumination and perfect definition.

It is absolutely unnecessary to invest a single cent in extra equipment to obtain excellent low cost projection. Simply replace the old A. C. carbons with White A. C. Specials.

Silvertips for Direct Current Projection

THE SILVERTIP IS THE STANDARD NEGATIVE CARBON. IT GIVES A PURE WHITE LIGHT OF HIGH INTENSITY

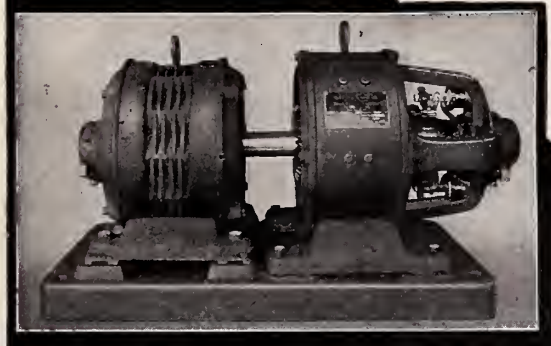
WRITE TODAY FOR OUR CIRCULARS

NATIONAL CARBON COMPANY, INC., Cleveland, Ohio

W WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC

Clear and Steady Pictures—Satisfied Patrons--and Westinghouse Motion Picture Equipment all mean the same.

There is no longer any excuse for poor projection. With WESTINGHOUSE MOTION PICTURE EQUIPMENT the projected pictures are clear and defined and the illumination constant. "Movie" goers appreciate well projected pictures and patronize those theaters where there has been no detraction in the entertainment derived from high-class pictures.



Buy Liberty Bonds

A WISE GOVERNMENT RULING

The judgment of Government officials that motion pictures are important factors in winning the war, has resulted in classifying this industry as essential. A more gratifying form of recognition could not have been bestowed and it should serve as a reminder of the importance of continuing the good work. Right here, we want to remind you of the importance of good projection. Why should the operator be handicapped? Why should your patrons be forced to strain their eyes on dim and flickering pictures, when will transform that flickering alternating current into steady direct current that makes the operator's job easier and the patron's delight greater? Write for our folder Number 4343.

WESTINGHOUSE MOTION PICTURE EQUIPMENTS

Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co.
East Pittsburgh, Pa.

Westinghouse

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

Camera Laboratory Picture Making Studio Technique

The Bell & Howell Splicing Machine

THE motion picture business is essentially an advertising business and certain departments of it are in the nature of things thoroughly advertised. There is, for example, no lack of publicity concerning the producing or exhibiting departments of the business.

Fig. 1.—Old Style Splice

But there is another department of the business of equal importance with those just mentioned, which is pretty generally overlooked. No dramatic interest attaches to the mechanical processes of the motion picture business, and there is nothing about them to arouse either vigorous denunciation or extravagant praise. But the importance of these processes is fundamental, since they are the foundation of the making and exhibiting of all motion pictures.

Fig. 2.—Bell & Howell Splice

Manufacturers of motion picture machinery have, during the past few years, gone quietly about the work of standardizing the mechanical processes of the industry. One of these processes—that of splicing the film—seems, however, to have been quite overlooked until lately. Film folks from laboratory to projecting room have, from the beginning, scraped two pieces of film more or less carefully; put some cement on the scraped places, laid one piece on top of the other and formed the splice illustrated by Fig. 1. Perhaps "patch" is a better word than "splice" just here. At all events, this method of joining film has many drawbacks. The film is doubled in thickness at the splice and is naturally stiffer there than at any other point, and so it "jumps" the sprocket. The stiffening of the film makes it less pliable, thus weakening the bond of the cement, and so the film is easily pulled apart at the splice. Other disadvantages of this method will suggest themselves, and they are so numerous as to make the patching of film splices an item for consideration in every exchange and laboratory.

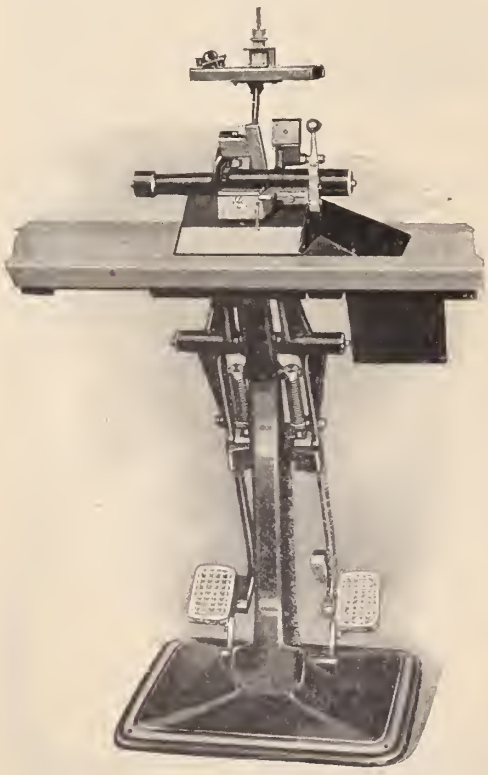

Fig. 3.—Bell & Howell Splicing Machine

Of course, such a condition of things demands correction in the interest of economy and efficiency, and the machine here illustrated (Fig. 3), is offered as a solution of what has become a serious problem.

The Bell & Howell Standard Film Splicing Machine produces a splice such as that illustrated in Fig. 2, which, like Fig. 1, represents a magnification of 40 diameters. It will be noticed that this spice is but one-third as wide as the old style splice, and that instead of doubling the thickness of the film, it adds but two and one-half thousandths of an inch to its thickness. This splice does not stiffen the film, nor lessen its pliability, and it follows that the spliced sections are much more firmly joined than by the old method. And, what is of just as much importance, it does not cause the film to "jump" the sprocket. In short, it is about all that the old splice is not, but ought to be. This machine qualifies for a place among the standardized machines and instruments made by the Bell & Howell Company, since it standardizes the width and thickness of the splice and its relation to the frame line and the perforations. The new machine has already found its way into a large number of the leading laboratories of the country and unsolicited orders have come in for export shipment.

Craftsmen Laboratories Increase Floor Space and Equipment

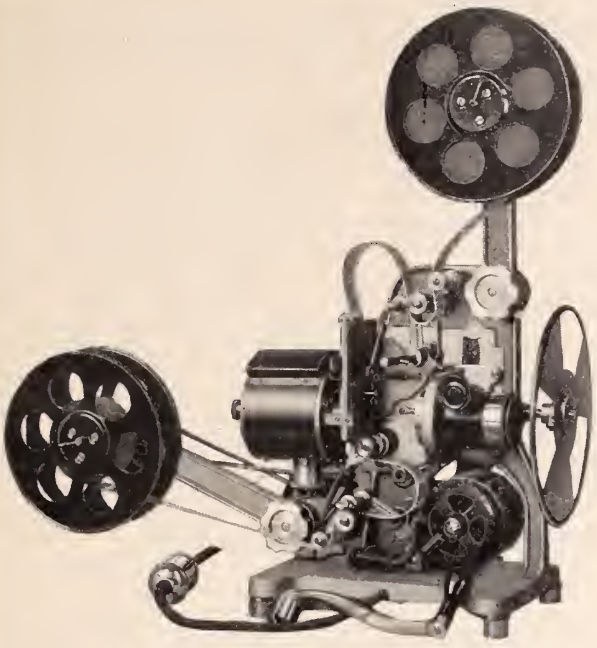
WHEN the Craftsmen Film Laboratories at 251 West 19th Street, New York City, were opened a little over a year ago, we gave a description of their efficient arrangements and modern equipment (Camera Dept., NEWS of August 4, 1917), but the growth of this firm's business, due to their policy of turning out technically perfect film, has necessitated a great increase over their original floor space, and the installation of many new machines and devices.

The interest taken by the concern in the technique of film production and processing makes the Craftsmen Laboratories an interesting place to visit at all times, and we have here to record the most important of the additions and changes which have been made to the equipment, and in the former arrangements of this plant.

The added space which has been taken by the Craftsmen Laboratories consists of an entire floor, which is the second floor at 251 West 19th Street, the original laboratory being housed on the floor above. The executive offices have, of course, been moved down to the second floor, for the convenience of customers, as have also the negative assembling department, the negative developing department, and the title-making department. In addition a large projection room, where a good-sized screen picture may be viewed at a comfortable distance, has been installed on the second floor, and may be reached by visitors with the minimum of inconvenience.

Even under the more restricted arrangements prevailing when the entire laboratory was on the third floor, negatives were always developed in a separate room at the Craftsmen plant, but a new negative developing room has been fitted up on the second floor. The air for this room is filtered by a system which completely changes it every three minutes, while the safe-lights are specially selected to permit the efficient handling of the very rapid modern negative stock. No metal pegs are to be found in the film racks, or frames, used in the Craftsmen Laboratory, but instead the racks are provided with wooden pegs.

Next to this negative developing room is a special drying room for negatives, which is one of the recent additions, located on the second floor. Here also the air is specially purified to exclude all dust, and three large drying drums accommodate the films



THE NEW

Premier Pathéscope

with its slow burning film

IS THE ONLY EQUIPMENT NOW APPROVED BY UNDERWRITERS' LABORATORIES, INC.,

FOR UNRESTRICTED USE ANYWHERE

No Fireproof Booth or Insurance Restrictions

The New Premier Pathéscope will run the narrow width, slow-burning film recently adopted by the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, as the New Standard for all portable projectors.

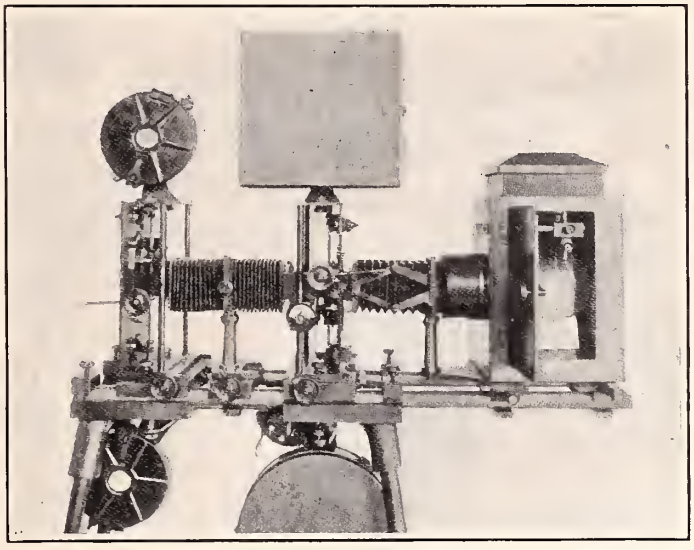
WE MAKE

Pathéscope Prints from Standard Negatives. Pathéscope Negatives from Standard Positives. Standard Prints from Standard Negatives with any new position of frame line.

Motion Picture enlargements up to full standard size from any portion of standard motion picture negative not less than ¼ of its size. (This is particularly applicable to making close ups and enlargements of heads, surgical operations, special industrial details, or mechanical operations, etc.)

Owners of Standard Films can have Pathescope Prints made therefrom which can then be exhibited anywhere, without booth or insurance restrictions.

Pathéscope Prints of Manufacturer's Industrial Plants and Processes, if of Educational value, will be given wide circulation in Schools, Churches and Institutions through our Pathéscope Film Exchanges in principal cities.



A PATHÉSCOPE COPYING MACHINE

We will perforate Eastman Slow-Burning Positive Stock with Pathéscope patent perforation at ¼ cent per foot, in the 28 millimetre narrow width recently adopted by the Society of Motion Picture Engineers as the new Standard for portable projectors, to comply with requirements of the Underwriters' Laboratories for use without enclosing booth or insurance restrictions.

The use of Pathéscope perforation dispenses with the necessity for any framing attachment, as threading in the projector automatically frames the picture. The patent on this perforation insures protection from possible unscrupulous infringers who might otherwise be tempted by the cheapness of celluloid stock to use it for portable projectors.

LABORATORY—LONG ISLAND CITY

The Pathescope Co. of America, Inc.

Suite 1879, Aeolian Hall, New York City

OR

Pathéscope Co. of New England, Boston.
United Projector and Film Co., Buffalo, Pittsburg, and Harrisburg.
Pathéscope Co., Chicago.
Pathéscope Exchange, Philadelphia.
Pathéscope Co. of Minnesota, Minneapolis.
Pathéscope Co. of Utah and Idaho, Salt Lake City.

developed in the dark-room adjoining. These drums are of exceptionally light construction, and are consequently very easy running, a very small motor sufficing to drive the loaded drum at the requisite speed. Even the motors are protected from dust in this immaculate drying-room, as they are covered with special housings whose only openings are those through which the driving belt passes.

Besides the various departments already mentioned, there is a series of cutting and assembling rooms on the second floor, for the use of directors and other customers of the laboratory.

The inspection room of the Craftsmen plant originally contained two regular Simplex projectors, which were used in projecting all finished product, in order to locate and eliminate any defects of manufacture. Due to the increased volume of work handled by the concern at present, it has been necessary to augment the inspection facilities, and a new inspection room has been installed, equipped with four Simplex projectors, and the same number of operators. The projectors are equipped with Sheck adaptors, using Mazda lamps, instead of the arc light previously used, and by an ingenious connection the Mazda lamp and the motor of each machine are put into operation simultaneously by snapping a switch, while the pilot light, with which each machine is provided, is extinguished automatically at the same instant. In this new inspection room the throw is short, and a small screen image is viewed by the inspectors at close range.

Proceeding upstairs to the third story, which originally accommodated the entire Craftsmen plant, we find that the removal of some departments to the floor below has permitted the necessary extension of those still remaining. The room formerly occupied by the projecting machines is now the polishing department, where the films are cleaned by Duplex polishing machines. The printing room has had its equipment more than doubled, for where there were formerly four Duplex printers, nine of these machines are now installed, and to facilitate rapid and uninterrupted printing special reels, carrying 1,200 feet of positive stock are attached to each printer mechanism. This permits each operator to print without stopping to renew the positive stock for three times as long as the former method. The rolls of printed stock sent to the developing room are, of course, only 200 feet long, as is usual, the operator cutting these lengths from the large supply roll after they are printed.

The assembling departments, which occupy a considerable portion of the third floor, remain much the same in arrangement and activity as on our earlier visit, but a Bell and Howell splicing machine has been added to the equipment. This device gives a good account of itself in actual use, and the Craftsmen Laboratories report that more splices can be made with it in a given time than by the most experienced joining room hand, while the quality of these machine splices is already well known.

Positives are all developed, washed and dried on the third floor of the laboratory, in rooms whose air is carefully regulated as to temperature and freedom from dust, and to meet the requirements of increased production the water filtering capacity has been trebled, thus insuring plenty of suitable wash water at all times. The substantial growth of the Craftsmen Laboratories in the space of one year's time is proof that producers are learning to discriminate in the matter of developing and printing.

Cine Camera Objectives

Mr. A. S. Walker, Trenton, N. J., inquires: "Are 2" focus lenses for motion picture photography now procurable, and if so where can I get one? These seem to be off the market at present."

In reply: As all of the optical companies who formerly made photographic objectives are now engaged in the production of instruments used in warfare by the several branches of the service, such objectives are not being made systematically, in quantities, for outside use at present. It is true that a few photographic objectives are still made by the various optical manufacturers, but these are all made on special order, and are used in work of national importance.

Before ceasing the manufacture of photographic and cinematographic objectives in quantities some of the large firms made up a considerable reserve stock of their most important types, including motion picture camera objectives, of course.

It is just possible that the Bausch & Lomb Optical Company, Rochester, N. Y., might be able to furnish a 2" cine Tessar, and the C. P. Goerz American Optical Company, 317 East 34th street,

(Continued on page 2434)

Subjected to accurate tests at every point in its manufacture

EASTMAN FILM

never has an opportunity to be anything but right.

Identifiable by the words "Eastman" and "Kodak" in the film margin.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

ONCE MORE

We call your attention to our long experience and excellent facilities for serving you when it comes to doing your DEVELOPING and PRINTING.

We are sure EVANS can please you better—much better in quality of work. Remember it costs you nothing to investigate. Why not do so now?

EVANS FILM MFG. CO.
416-24 West 216th Street New York City
Telephone: Audubon 6881-2

Figure 19

LIGHTS FOR STUDIO

Klieglight Arc Lamps
2-Section Klieglights
Lilliput For Travelling Spot Lights

Kliegl Bros. PROPRIETORS

Catalogue H on request

242 West 50th Street, New York City

THE SUN-LIGHT ARC

The Light That Never Fails

The sun-light that has no clouds to mask its illumination.

Don't fail to see the Sun-Light Arc illuminate Madison Square Garden for motion picture photography.

First time in history.

Pay a visit to the National Motion Picture Exposition, opening on Saturday, October 5th, until Sunday, October 13th.

Sun-Light Arc Company, Inc.

218 West 48th Street

New York City

TransVerteR

The Motor-Generator that produces Perfect Arcs

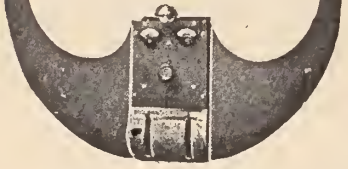
You Should Have One

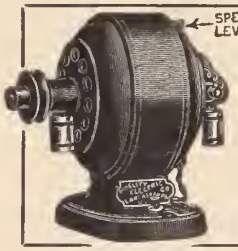
You can make a perfect dissolve with the Transverter

The Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co.
1908 West 114th St., Cleveland, Ohio

—

Exclusive Canadian Distributors
PERKINS ELECTRIC CO.
Head Office: Montreal, Can.





MOVING PICTURE MACHINE MOTOR

$18.00

Alternating or Direct Current Complete with variable speed lever. Immediate delivery.

Fidelity Electric Co
Lancaster, Pa.

Theatre and Exchange Mailing List Service

We rent lists of or address contemplated or existing theatres, exchanges, etate righte owners, publicity mediums and producere, selected ae to territory, claee, etc. Twenty thouaand changes were recorded in our list last year. Its use meane a saving to you of from 30 to 50% in postage, etc.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY CO.
80 Fifth Avenue, New York
Phone, 3227 Chelsea

Addressing Printing N183 Multigraphing Typewriting

"TO HIM THAT HATH"

(World-Montagu Love)

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1000 feet).

Theme: "Silent Sorrows" (Andante Pathetique Moderato) by Borch

1—"The Broken Melody"—Van Biene. (Adagio Con Expressione.) (2 minutes 45 seconds), until—At Screening.
2—"Adagio Expressivo"—Schumann. (From Symphony in C Major) (2 minutes), until—S: When stranger knocks at door.
3—Theme (2 minutes 15 seconds), until—S: When Aldrich greets Morton.
4—Organ only improvising (2 minutes), until—T: Morton's premonition comes. (Church scene.)
5—"Andante Dramatic No. 15"—Herbert (2 minutes 45 seconds), until—T: "I brung this for Mr. Morton."
6—"Dramatic Tension No. 36"—Andino (2 minutes 15 seconds), until—T: "Philip Morton has paid me."
7—Theme (4 minutes), until—T: After a sleepless night. (Telephone bell.)
8—"Heavy Mysterioso"—Levy (4 minutes 15 seconds), until—T: Alexander Chambers, Helen's.
9—"Lamento"—Gabriel Marie. (Andante Moderato.) (3 minutes 45 seconds), until—T: At 9 o'clock each night.
10—Theme (2 minutes 45 seconds), until—T: Kate Morgan.
11—"Premiere Amour"—Benoist. (Andantino Con Amour) (3 minuates 15 seconds), until—T: "Prison made, eh, so you've.'
12—"Perpetual Motion"—Borch. (Allegro Agitato.) (2 minutes), until—T: Tom Jenks a product.
13—"Impish Elves"—Borch. (Winsome Intermezzo.) (3 minutes)(until—T: "Won't you stay for supper?"
14—Theme (2 minutes 15 seconds), until—T: 'Well, how about the honesty."
15—"Visions"—Buse. (Intermezzo Characteristic.) (3 minutes 30 seconds), until—T: "Sleep me, oh, I sleep."
16—"Agitato No. 49"—Shepherd (15 seconds), until—T: "Not a cent, you low-down."
17—"Two Preludes"—Chopin. (Lento Assai.) (3 minutes), until —T: Months of despair (glass-crash) (storm effects).
18—"Mignonette"—Friml. (Allegretto Con Expressione.) (2 minutes), until—T: The annual outing of.
19—Theme (1 minute 45 seconds), until—S: When Helen enters David's room.
20—"Withered Flowers"—Kiefert. (Pathetic Intermezzo.) (2 minutes 15 seconds), until—T: "And you tried to steal."
21—"Gruesome Mysterioso"—Borch. (2 minutes), until—T: The open road.
22—"Agitato No. 69"—Minot. (Allegro Agitato.) (2 minutes), until—S: When Kate descends stairs.
23—"The Broken-Hearted Sparrow"—Bendix. (Andante Expressivo.) (2 minutes 30 seconds), until—T: The surrender.
24—"Barcarole"—Buse. (Summer Idyll.) (4 minutes 30 seconds), until—T: In the morning.
25—Theme (2 minutes 15 seconds), until—T: "And he didn't know I was."
26—"Prelude"—Jarnefelt. (Allegro Quasi Allegretto.) (2 minutes 45 seconds), until—T: "I told the poor nut."
27—"Aria Sonata Op. 11"—Schumann. (3 minutes 30 seconds), until—T: "So this is Mr. David Aldrich."
28—"Adagio Cantabile"—Berge. (Excerpts Beethoven Sonata Pathetique.) (2 minutes 30 seconds), until—T: From out the shadows.
29—Theme (3 minutes), until—S: When Lillian enters David's room.
30—"Lento Allegro"—Berge. (Symphonette Suite.) (3 minutes), until—T: "You get out of here."
31—"Adagietto"—Berge. (Symphonette Suite.) (3 minutes 15 seconds), until—T: The love supreme.
32—Theme (3 minutes 45 seconds), until—T: "I have just learned of your."—Until END.

Camera Objectives

(Continued from page 2432)

New York City, advertise that they are still able to supply their Kino Hypar in the short focus cinematographic sizes. Both of these objectives have an established reputation.

Occasionally these short focus cinematographic camera objectives also come into the hands of the camera exchanges, and by making his wants known to such concerns the correspondent would doubtless be able to secure what he requires in pretty short order.

Business Offerings

LABORATORY HELP WANTED, both male and female. Apply Evans Film Mfg. Co., 416 West 216th St., New York City.

Unless You Have The
Automaticket System
You Are Losing Money
1733 Broadway, New York

MOTORS
and speed controllers for 6A, including switch and cover, 110 V., 220 V. A. C. and D. C. Guaranteed perfect, $40.00. A few used mechanisms 6A at bargain.
The Stern Manufacturing Company
1023 Race Street
Philadelphia, Pa.

COMPLETE PLAN BOOK

Turn to it this week on page 2443 for complete reviews, advertising and other helps on all pictures reviewed during the past week.

IMITATORS have copied the Complete Plan Book because it gives more service than the exhibitor has ever received—but Motion Picture News continues to lead.

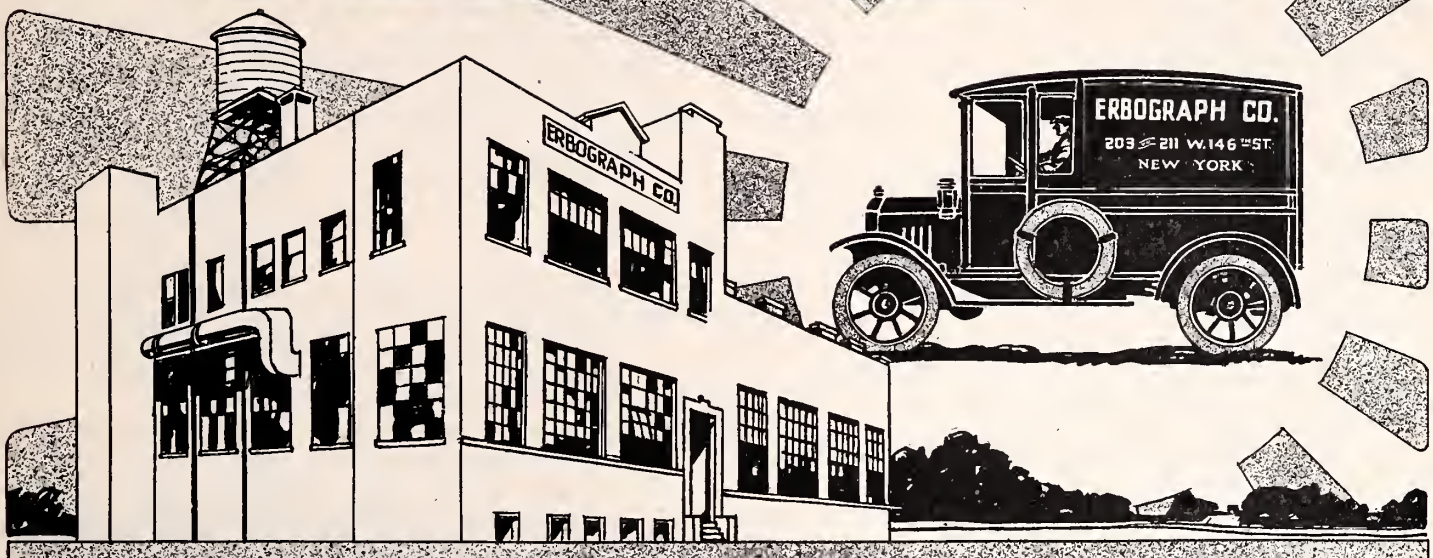
DOMINATES THE FIELD

MODERN EQUIPPED STUDIOS FOR RENT

UNEXCELLED FILM LABORATORIES AND STUDIOS CO. INC.
120-124 School St.
YONKERS, N.Y.
TELEPHONE—4600 YONKERS

HIGH CLASS DEVELOPING AND PRINTING

ERBOGRAPH FOR SERVICE



PRODUCERS OF

MOTION PICTURE FILMS

COMMERCIAL DEVELOPING and PRINTING

Telephone Audubon 3716

ERBOGRAPH CO.

LUDWIG G. B. ERB President

203-211 WEST 146TH STREET NEW YORK

Cue Sheets Latest Hits — Music — Musical Equipment

An Interesting Inquiry and the Answer To It

Musical Editor, Motion Picture News.

DEAR SIR: As I have but lately become a player in the motion picture theatre, I have been studiously reading your articles and find them of great benefit to me in playing pictures. In attempting to follow your music cues, I have requested my local dealer to obtain for me piano solos of the music suggested, and in innumerable instances the reply has been given me that piano solos of these numbers mentioned are not published, but there is a piano conductor part taken from the orchestra.

As I have never played in an orchestra, I do not understand what these parts mean and I would be obliged if you would let me know what they are and how to use them. You will realize that I am almost an amateur in playing the film, although I have always been considered a good pianist and can easily read six and seven graded music.

I am enclosing a stamped addressed envelope for reply, for which please accept my thanks.

Respectfully yours,
MILDRED MILLER.

THE above letter has been received in the editor's letter-box and the following reply is herewith given, because this is a subject which may interest others in the same quandary:

DEAR MADAM: Your inquiry is one that has at many times been received from amateur pianists entering the industry and the explanation of piano conductor parts is as follows.

An orchestration of a composition consists of all the separate parts needed in the make-up of an orchestra. The modern requirements of small orchestras or ensembles demanded that a piano should be added to the orchestra in order to reproduce those extra instruments usually found in the larger orchestra, so piano parts were then prepared which consist mainly of accompaniment, usually the viola, second violin, horns and bass. As time progressed and the demand developed for ensemble string combinations the wood-wind melodies were added to the piano part and sustained bassoon or 'cello melodies cued-in so that the pianist at his discretion could perform the missing melodies.

The development of this idea created a piano part, known as piano conductor and the directors of large orchestras used these to direct from in preference to the original violin conductor. From this idea, the piano became so prevalent that it is the exception and not the rule to find this instrument lacking in an orchestra.

Professional pianists have become quite used to the piano conductor part, because of their continual changing of positions, today playing in a large orchestra, tomorrow in a trio or quartet, that they get in the habit of reading the piano conductor part almost as well as solo.

The organist in the motion picture theatre in the greater majority of instances has served his apprenticeship either as a professional pianist or in the church, and is a little more conversant with the piano conductor parts. Therefore, when he has taken up the work in the motion picture house, he has found them adaptable, because in many instances they are written on three lines, that is bass, accompaniment and melody, so similar to correct organ music, and with perseverance and experience behind it, they prove exceptionally practical to him.

The answer to your inquiry as to why you received such a reply from your dealer is perfectly obvious. In musical suggestions for the picture, the music must be selected from that which is available for any combination of musicians, or in other words, exclusively from orchestral music, because one theatre has a twenty-piece orchestra, another ten, a third a trio or quartet, and the next a pianist or organist. Were the suggestions confined to piano only, how would a theatre with an orchestra be served? Furthermore, as much of the musical suggestions are available for piano solo, the pianist as well as the theatre orchestra are receiving attention. In those numbers wherein there is no piano solo you have been told there is the above mentioned piano conductor parts.

The outstanding fact in your letter is that you can easily read sixth and seventh grade music, or in other words, you certainly must be an excellent pianist. Hence, the editor would strongly recommend you to obtain these piano conductor parts and with a little perseverance you will also find that you are able to read them as simply as a piano solo. Incidentally, these parts are frequently cheaper than piano solo, and by a little study you learn more of the composition, because you find the composer's idea and orchestral coloring therein marked by the different notations for the conductor.

In conclusion, by a study of these parts, it opens up to you a large field of music which otherwise you would not be acquainted with, and incidentally qualifies you to at some time take your place as an orchestra pianist, which is a lucrative position and easy to obtain.

Trusting that this information is what you desire and will be of benefit to you, I remain,

Respectfully yours,
MUSICAL EDITOR.

Review of Latest Compositions

1—"There's a Light in Your Eyes." The Waltz song hit from Klaw & Erlanger's phenomenal Broadway musical success "The Girl Behind the Gun." Music by Ivan Caryll. (Chappell's, 41 E. 34th St., New York.)

2—"Some Day Waiting Will End," the phenomenal song hit—something new in tempos. Another hit from that Broadway Musical Success "The Girl Behind the Gun." Music by Ivan Caryll. (Chappell's.)

3—"Roses of Picardy," the great coast-to-coast success. Medley waltz on melodies from Haydn Wood's tremendous song hit, "Roses of Picardy," and including the refrain of the popular song, "Waiting" "When I Hear the Gate A-Swinging." (Chappell's.)

4—"A Birch Canoe and You." The dreamiest dreamy waltz ever published. By Lee S. Roberts. Composer of "Smiles". We cannot say too much for this number. It's great. (J. H. Remick & Co., 227 W. 46th St., N. Y.)

5—"Over The Top Boys." Empey's theme in his patriotic picture, "Over the Top"—Up and at the treacherous invading foe—musically portrayed in an inspiring American March. Composed by S. M. Berg. (Belwin, Inc., 701 Seventh Ave., N. Y.)

6—"Good Old Pals." March by M. L. Lake. The most effective medley march of the year. It introduces "We Won't Go Home 'Til Morning," "Home Again," "Turkey in the Straw" (Old Zip Coon) and the great gang song, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." Some march and some arrangement. (Carl Fischer, Cooper Square, N. Y.)

7—"A Love Suite"—1. The Lovers—2. Danse Capriccioso—3. Love's Lament. A little concert suite of intimate character, descriptive in style and thoroughly melodious. First an admirable duo of tender expressiveness; second, a dance both catchy and capricious; and, third, another bit of tender writing of unusually expressive charm. The arrangement and scoring is very effective. By M. L. Lake. (Carl Fischer.)

8—"Piccolo Pic." Humoresque by Walter L. Slater. The number which acts on your laughing nerves. Irresistibly funny—just a natural humoresque. (Carl Fischer.)

(Continued on page 2438)

Draft your Music

Recruit your orchestra and meet the appeal of the hour

The FOTOPLAYER

performs patriotically by releasing musicians needed in war service

The FOTOPLAYER furnishes the necessary musical appeal in a real human way. The reed and string tones are faithfully reproduced — the drums and traps complete a full orchestral equipment. . .

The FOTOPLAYER may be played manually or by roll. The double tracker device permits the operation of two rolls — optional in tune and tempo — to fit the mood and action on the screen. . . .

The FOTOPLAYER is built simple and strong, lowers the "up-keep" of the Pit and banishes the worries of an orchestra.

Hundreds of enterprising exhibitors are convinced that the FOTOPLAYER is a successful substitute for an orchestra.

WE CONSTRUCT ORCHESTRAL PIPE ORGANS
TO MEET YOUR REQUIREMENTS — WRITE US

The American Photo Player Co.

62 West 45th Street
NEW YORK CITY

Sherman, Clay & Co.
SEATTLE, WASH., and PORTLAND, ORE.

Lyon & Healy
CHICAGO, ILL.

Geo. L. Parker
120 Boylston Street
BOSTON, MASS.

109 Golden Gate Avenue
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

J W Jenkins Sons Music Co.
KANSAS CITY, MO.

Fredericksen-Kroh Music Co.
OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA.

737 South Olive Street
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

64 E. Jackson Boulevard
CHICAGO, ILL.

W. J. Dyer & Bro.
ST PAUL, MINN.

Cohen & Hughes
BALTIMORE, MD.

E. Witmark & Co.
MEMPHIS, TENN.

Beesley Music Co.
SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH

Review of Latest Compositions

(Continued from page 2436)

9—"For Your Boy and My Boy." Originally sung by Al. Jolson at the Century Theatre. Be patriotic—sing this song and help swat the Kaiser. Arranged as a one-step. (Jerome H. Remick & Co., 227 W. 46th St., New York.)

10—"Aces High." "Over the Clouds." A top notch march as high as the clouds in merit, characterizing the hum of the Liberty Motor. Composed by Ed. Roberts. (Belwin, Inc.)

11—"God Be With Our Boys Tonight." This wonderful song, as rendered by Mr. John McCormack, the world's most popular concert singer, is proving a veritable sensation. The intense emotional appeal in this great ballad is stirring the country as no other song of recent times has done. (Boosey & Co., 9 E. 17th St., N. Y.)

12—"Dreaming of Home, Sweet Home." A masterpiece by the writer of "Indiana." If songs could only talk, this wonderful new ballad by James F. Hanley would speak for itself. But it's the next ballad hit of Shapiro, Bernstein & Co., 230 W. 47th St., N. Y.

Musicians' Union of San Francisco Asks Higher Wages

COINCIDENT with the demand of San Francisco musicians for higher wages, the publication of the facts concerning the reduction of Milwaukee theatre orchestras to one man, raised considerable furor in the San Francisco Musicians' Union.

The action of the Milwaukee Theatre Managers' Association in conforming to the Government's request for conservation in manpower brought forth the following comment by Albert A. Greenbaum, secretary of the San Francisco Musicians' Union:

"When one takes into consideration the fact that General Crowder has ruled that all musicians employed in theatres are classed as being in essential industries, it leads to the suspicion that the action of the Milwaukee managers is the grasping of an opportunity whereby profits will be considerably larger than if orchestras were retained. Even though the price paid to one man appears to be quite high, the fact remains that an orchestra costs several times that amount, and we have yet to hear that the public is receiving any benefit in the way of bargain prices of admission."

Further discussing the published announcement that "in San Francisco, on account of the prospective scarcity of musicians at a time when the leading motion picture houses are organizing large orchestras, a general demand for higher wages is being made," Secretary Greenbaum makes the following statement: "The paragraph is incorrect, as the only reason that the musicians are asking higher wages at this time is an economic one. Expenses of living have increased so tremendously within the past year that the musician finds himself more illy compensated than the great majority of mechanics.

"The article would convey the impression that the musician is of the profiteering gentry. Such is not the case. The present rate of compensation for the musician does not permit him to maintain himself and family according to decent American conditions, and for that reason and no other he is asking an increase in salary which in no instance approximates the more than 55 per cent increase in the cost of living."

The new wage scale which the San Francisco Union proposes to put into effect on September 29 provides for an increase of $5 a week. For evening engagements only the new scale will be $30; for both afternoon and evening hours the wage will be $45. Considerable opposition has been aroused by a demand for $2.50 additional when musicians are required to wear evening dress for concerts on the stage.

LATEST MUSIC CUES

"PECK'S BAD GIRL"

(Goldwyn—Normand)

Specially selected and compiled by M. Winkler

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 feet).

Theme: "Impish Elves" (Winsome Intermezzo), by Borch

1—Theme (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "Peck is fond of pork-chops."
2—"Spider and the Fly" (3/4 Allegretto Intermezzo), by Armand (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "I got dignity."
3—Continue pp (35 seconds), until—T: "Peck's rheumatism medicine."
4—"Alborada" (Characteristic Caprice), by Andino (2 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "And about this time."
5—"Graciousness (Characteristic Allegretto Intermezzo), by Smith (3 minutes), until—T: "How do you do, Mr. Raskell?"
6—Continue ff (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "I told him to get out."
7—Continue pp (40 minutes), until—T: "It seems that Richard Hayes."
8—"Barcarole" (Summer Idyll), by Buse (3 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: "And Widow Mifkins calls."
9—"Half Reel Hurry" (for general use), by Levy (5 minutes and 5 seconds), until—T: "My name is Hayes."
10—Continue pp (1 minute and 55 seconds). until—T: "They just had a terrible time."
11—"Nola" (Capricious Allegretto), by Arndt (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "And poor little Minnie."
12—"Eccentric Comdey Theme," by Roberts (3 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "I agree with the rest."
13—Continue pp (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "Here is a chance for me."
14—"Shadowgraphs" (4/4 Allegretto), by Leigh (55 seconds), until—T: "And two city men came."
15—Continue to action (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—T: "And Peck's bad girl."
16—"Aubade Printaniere" (2/4 Intermezzo Allegretto), by Lacombe (4 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: "Didn't I tell you to hide that?"
17—"Dance of the Peacocks" (4/4 Allegretto Caprice), by Baines (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "And Willie found the right one."
18—Theme (3 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "And the money for the payroll."
19—"Gruesome Mysterioso," by Borch (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "And Minnie has forgotten."
20—Continue to action (2 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "And the cellar from the shop."
21—"Heavy Mysterioso," by Levy (2 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "Get the police."
22—"Hurry" (for pursuit and races), by Minot (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "They are a band."
23—Theme (1 minute and 30 seconds), until END.

"THE GIRL OF TODAY"

(Vitagraph-Corinne Griffith)

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler.

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 feet).

Spy Theme: "The Crafty Spy" (Original Descriptive Mysterioso) by Gaston Borch

Love Theme: "Love Theme" (Characteristic Moderato) by Abbott Lee

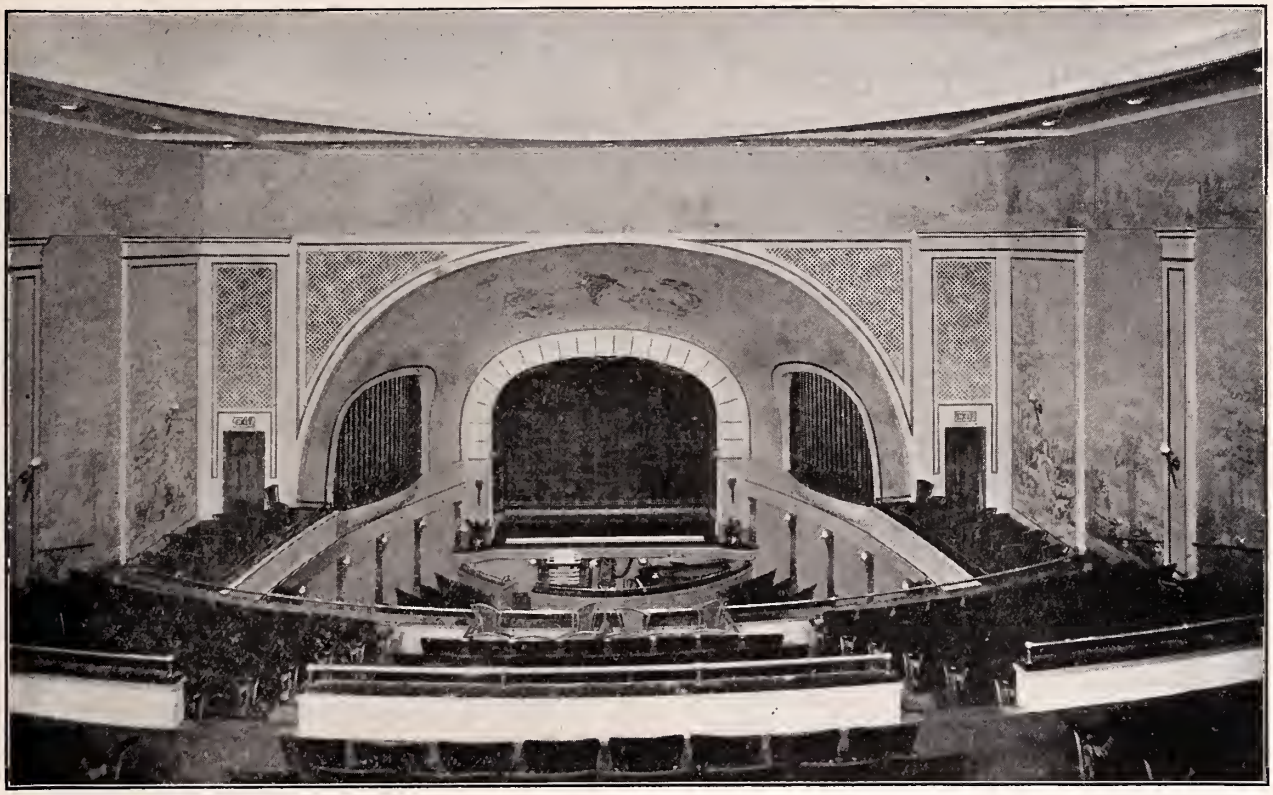
1—"Heavy Romantic, No. 1," by Luz (2 minutes), at screening.
2—Spy Theme (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "We will send our people" (wireless and wave effects).
3—"Over the Top Boys," by Berg (Patriotic American March) (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "A. D., a patriotic——"
4—Spy Theme (2 minutes), until—T: "The secret message finds its——"
5—"Heavy Mysterioso," by Levy (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "To Rosner's Belgian mind."
6—"Hunkatin," by Levy (Half-Tone One-Step) (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "The Wynns attend a dance."
7—"Valse Divine" (Valse Lento), by Rosey (45 seconds), until—T: "I don't trust that man."
8—"Perpetual Motion" (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Jack Wynn his mind full (explosion) (auto and car effects)."
9—Love Theme (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "I saw a man sneaking away."
10—Spy Theme (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: Dr. Wolff in laying seige.

(Continued on page 2440)

THE BARTOLA

You ARE SELLING PICTURES AND MUSIC. Be sure your music is as good as your pictures. Investigate our Instrument

CHAS. C. PYLE, General Sales Agent, 707-712 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill. Factory, Oshkosh, Wis.



THE CLEMMER THEATRE, SEATTLE, WASH., IS ANOTHER OF THOSE FINE WESTERN THEATRES THAT HAS INSTALLED THE ESTEY THEATRE ORGAN TO SATISFY THE CROWDS THAT COME EVERY DAY

Why are others doing it?

In many theatres the Estey Pipe Organ is delighting crowds nightly, furnishing all the music for the interpretation of the pictures, as well as the musical program.

We could tell you all about it, but you ought to ask us to give you the name of some theatre near you that has

THE ESTEY THEATRE ORGAN

See it, hear it and talk with the owner. There must be a reason why first-class, successful theatres are installing it, and you ought to know the reason if you want to play the game. It can be built to fit any theatre, large or small. It can make your program better and draw more people, as it has elsewhere. People talk about it.

Without cost to you, on request, we will send an expert to look at your theatre, tell you what kind of an organ you could use best, and give you an estimate of the cost. Write:

THE ESTEY ORGAN COMPANY, BRATTLEBORO, VERMONT

You can hear the Estey Pipe Organ at any of these branches:

Studios in New York, 25 West 45th Street; Philadelphia, 1701 Walnut Street; Boston, 120 Boylston Street
Los Angeles, 332 South Broadway

MUSIC CUE SHEETS

Special Releases

¶ Prepared under the personal supervision of our Music Editor can be secured through our Service Department by sending ten cents for each cue sheet to cover the cost of postage and typeing. Remember it takes time to get these cue sheets to you—don't wait till the last minute to write us.

All Woman
A Nymph of the Foothills
A Woman of Impulse
At the Mercy of Men
Back in the Woods
Blindness of Divorce
Babbling Tongues
Blue Blood
Boston Blackie's Little Pal
By the World Forgot
The Beloved Traitor
The Belgian
Carmen of the Klondike
Cecilia of the Pink Roses
Clutch of Circumstances
The Changing Woman
The Claw
The Danger Mark
The Death Dance
DeLuxe Annie
The Co-Respondent
The Conqueror
The Call of Her People
The Crucible of Life
The Danger Game
A Daughter of the Gods
The Devil Stone
The Fair Pretender
The Face in the Dark
Flower of the Dusk
Forbidden Path
For the Freedom of the World
The Flame of Yukon
Girl of Today, The
The Glorious Adventure
The Grain of Dust
The Great White Trail
The Garden of Allah
The Heart of the Sunset
Her Final Reckoning
The House of Glass
The House of Mirth
Her Only Way
Hidden Fires
How Could you Jean?
The Heart of a Lion
Her Fighting Chance
In Again Out Again
In Judgment Of
Inside the Lines
Joan of Plattsburg
Joan the Woman
Just a Woman
Jack and the Beanstalk
Laughing Bill Hyde
Lest We Forget
Legion of Death
Les Miserables
The Lost Chord
Marriage Trap, The Money Mad
My Own United States
Madame Du Barry
The Marionettes
The Million Dollar Dollies
Nine Tenths of the Law
The Narrow Trail
Ordeal of Rosetta
Over There
On Trial
One Law for Both
Pals First
Peck's Bad Girl
Price of a Good Time
Revelation
The Reason Why
The Road to France
Rough and Ready
Rose of the World
The Rose of Blood
Redemption
The Safety Curtain
The Savage Woman
The Service Star
Social Ambition
Stella Maris
The Splendid Sinner
A Successful Adventure
True Blue
Trail to Yesterday
Shirley Kaye
The Spy
The Studio Girl
The Silent Man
The Slacker
Thais
Those Who Pay
A Tale of Two Cities
The Tiger Woman
To-day
To Hell With the Kaiser
To Him That Hath
T'Other Dear Charmer
The Turn of the Wheel
The Venus Model
Woman and the Law
Wolves of the Trail
Woman and Wife
When a Man Sees Red
When Men Betray
The Whirlpool
Within the Law
Womanhood
The Zeppelin's Last Raid

¶ Cue Sheets for the following regular program releases can usually be obtained from the companies releasing the pictures. If these cannot be had we will be glad to cooperate in seeing that they are supplied to you.

Artcraft
Bluebird
Fox
Four Square
Goldwyn
Metro
Mutual
Paramount
Pathe
Select
Universal
U. S. Exhibitors
Vitagraph
W. H. Productions

The list of spe ial releases is brought up to date every week. Watch the changes.

"THE GIRL OF TODAY"

(Continued from page 2438)

11—Love Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—S: When Dr. Wolff leaves.
12—"The Slimy Viper" (Mysterioso Tone Picture), by Borch (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "The first trail Jack strikes."
13—"Allegro Agitato, No. 8," by Andino (30 seconds), until—T: "And I'm going to make a——"
14—Spy Theme (2 minutes), until—T: "A plan for restraining."
15—"Andante Dramatic," by Herbert (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Another bombshell."
16—"Military Tactics" (Patriotic Military March), by Rosey (45 seconds), until—T: "Every day in the State."
17—"Sinister Theme," by Vely (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "The day appointed by Imperial——"
18—"Frills and Furbelows" (Rondo Rococo), by Crespi (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Oh, but first you must show."
19—"Dramatic Tension, No. 64," by Borch (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—S: When Leslie installs dictaphone.
20—"Dramatic Andante, No. 39," by Berge (3 minutes), until—T: "With her mission accomplished."
21—"Gruesome Mysterioso," by Borch (1 minute), until—T: "A trooper of the New York——"
22—Spy Theme (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Five o'clock."
23—"Aces High" (Patriotic March), by Roberts (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "When Leslie leaves house" (auto and telephone-bell effects).
24—"Turbulence" (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Double your guards at——"
25—"Dramatic Agitato, No. 38," by Minot (45 seconds), until—T: "Little dreaming of tragedy" (shot).
26—"Rondo" (Excerpts Beethoven Sonata Pathetique), by Berge (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "A German outpost" (telephone-bell).
27—"Vivo Finale" (Symphonette Suite), by Berge (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "A troop of the New York——"
28—"Agitato, No. 69" (Allegro Agitato), by Minot) (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Wilbur Bridge" (shot).
29—"Furioso" (Half-Reel Hurry), by Levy (3 minutes), until—T: "With perseverance worthy" (shots) (explosion).
30—"Hurry" (Half-Reel Hurry), by Levy (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Leave at once there's——" (shot).
31—Repeat "Over the Top Boys" (1 minute), until—S: When bomb is disconnected. * * * * * THE END.

"PALS FIRST"

(Screen Classics-Metro-Lockwood)

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1000 feet).

Theme: "Sleeping Rose" (Characteristic Valse Lento) by Gaston Borch

1—Theme (2 minutes 15 seconds), until—At Screening.
2—"Peacefulness"—Borch. (Andante Simplice.) (2 minutes 30 seconds), until—T: "Please, Danny, don't jest."
3—"Down South"—Mydleton. (Southern Characteristic.) (1 minute 30 seconds), until—T: Winnecrest Hall.
4—Theme (3 minutes 30 seconds), until—T: Not many miles distant.
5—"Babillage"—Castillo. (Allegretto Intermezzo.) (2 minutes 45 seconds), until—D: When Jean leaves house.
6—Theme (1 minute 30 seconds), until—T: "I beg pardon, my good friend."
7—"Hunkatin"—Levy. (Half Tone One-Step.) (3 minutes 15 seconds), until—T: "Dat's Aunt Caroline."
8—"Scherzetto"—Berge. (Symphonette Suite.) (3 minutes 30 seconds), until—T: The resemblance is."
9—"A La Mode"—Rosey. (One-Step.) (3 minutes 15 seconds), until—T: Once there was a girl who. (Telephone-bell.)
10—"Graciousness"—Smith. (Characteristic Intermezzo.) (2 minutes 45 seconds), until—T: "Fine, Dick, fine." (Automobile effects.)
11—"Valse Divine"—Rosey. (Valse Lento.) (2 minutes), until—T: "This guy Castleman is a."
12—Theme (2 minutes), until—S: When Jean enters.
13—"Dramatic Recitative"—Levy. (3 minutes 15 seconds), until—S: When Jean leaves.
14—"Heavy Mysterioso"—Levy. (3 minutes 30 seconds), until—T: "Don't say it again, Dominie."
15—"Dramatic Narrative"—Pement. (2 minutes 45 seconds), until—T: "Why, Dick, I—I thought."
16—Theme (2 minutes 45 seconds), until—T: On the morrow when love is. (Wave effects.)
17—"Sachem"—Rosey. (3 minutes 15 seconds), until—T: "No, Dominie, the game has."
18—"Mysterioso Dramatique"—Borch. (1 minute 45 seconds), until—T: "The Squirrel also a."
19—Theme (1 minute), until—T: And when they gayly.
20—"Andante Dramatico No. 62"—Borch. (3 minutes), until—T: "Evenin', pale evenin'."
21—"Rondo"—Berge. (Excerpts Beethoven Sonata Pathetique.) (2 minutes 45 seconds), until—T: 'You d—d impostor."
22—Theme (1 minute 45 seconds), until—T: The call of the heart.
23—"Agitato No. 69"—Minot. (Allegro Agitato.) (1 minute 30 seconds), until—S: When Doctor seizes Jean.
24—"Capricious Annette"—Borch. (Moderato Caprice.) (3 minutes 15 seconds), until—S: When Doctor runs away.
25—"Adagio Cantabile"—Berge. (Excerpts Beethoven Sonata Pathetique.) (2 minutes 45 seconds), until—T: "No, Dominie, I'm going.
26—'A Dream"—Grieg. (Andante Expressivo.) (2 minutes 15 seconds), until—S: When Danny joint Jean.
27—"Repose of the Forest"—Grieg. (Molto Tranquillo.) (3 minutes 30 seconds), until—T: "Gee, you look funny."
28—"Romance"—Kerganoff. (Andante Sostenuto.) (3 minutes 15 seconds), until—T: "Won't you shake hands?"
29—"Inspiration"—Edwards. (Andante Sostenuto.) (3 minutes 30 seconds), until—T: "In my room at the St. Francis."
30—Theme (30 seconds), until—T: "It is I who should beg."—Until—END.

"LAUGHING BILL HYDE"
(Goldwyn-Will Rogers)

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler.

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 feet).

Theme: "My Paradise" (Moderato Ballad) by J. S. Zamecnik

(Used by permission of Sam Fox through Belwin, Inc., 701 Seventh Avenue, New York City.)

1—Theme (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "Laughing B Hyde."

2—"Sinister Theme" (Dramatic), by Vely (3 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "Before Bill lay the open——"

3—"Heavy Mysterioso," by Levy (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Even Thomas, the village doctor."

4—"Bleeding Heart" (Dramatic Pathetic), by Levy (4 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "Alice Walker, the doctor's——"

5—"Summer Nights" (Moderato), by Roberts (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "Traveling by blind baggage."

Note—Watch for railroad effects.

6—"Reve D'Amour" (Melodious Allegretto), by Zamecnik (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "Laughing Bill Hyde had——"

7—Theme (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Joseph Wesley Sayforth."

8—"Ecstasy" (Melody Allegro), by Zamecnik (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "The Aurora is mine."

9—"Dramatic Recitative," by Levy (1 minute), until—T: "There was great excitement."

10—"Turbulence" (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (55 seconds), until—T: "Those were great days."

11—"May Dreams" (Moderato Serenade), by Borch (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—T: "Tonatah ran the camp laundry."

12—"Dramatic Agitato" (to action pp. of ff.), by Hough (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: "No, if I wanted to kill him."

13—Continue pp. and slow (40 seconds), until—T: "The Aurora claim where——"

14—"Return to Me Soon" (Allegro), by Cregh (2 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "Dry panning a Mexican trick."

15—"Dramatic Tension, No. 9," by Andino (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "My father was the teacher."

16—Continue ff. (35 seconds), until—T: "Set a thief to——"

17—Continue pp. (45 seconds), until—T: "Laughing Bill had almost——"

18—"Golden Youth" (Valse Lento), by Rosey (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—S: Near mining camp.

19—"Phyllis" (Valse Novelette), by Deppen (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: "Dr. Thomas did have——"

20—Continue pp. (45 seconds), until—T: "Burg and Slevin ventured."

21—Theme (4 minutes), until—S: Near landing.

22—"Perpetual Motion" (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (1 minute and 35 seconds), until—T: "Doc, here's a customer."

23—"Sparklets" (Allegretto 6/8), by Miles (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—S: Interior of saloon.

(Continued in next column)

(Continued from preceding column)

24—"Savannah" (One-Step), by Rosey (1 minute and 55 seconds), until—T: "Better walk around."

25—"Sorrow Theme," by Roberts (1 minute and 35 seconds), until—S: The fight in bedroom.

26—Continue ff. with ad. lib. tympani rolls (30 seconds), until—T: "He darn near killed him."

27—Theme ff. (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: "Week by week."

28—"Pizzicato Mysterioso," by Minot (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Bill was not accustomed."

29—"Impish Elves" (Winsome Intermezzo), by Borch (4 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "Burg and Slevin decided——"

Note: Watch shot.

30—"Gruesome Mysterioso," by Borch (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "Your double crossin'."

31—Continue ff. (40 seconds), until—T: "The sale."

Note: Watch shot.

332—"Frills and Furbelows" (Rondo Rococo), by Crespi (2 minutes and 55 seconds), until—T: "Here's some news, kid."

33—Theme ff. (2 minutes and 45 seconds) * * * * * THE END.

Spokane Theatres Draw Big Business

THEDA BARA in her latest hit, "Salome," and a second-run here of "Cleopatra," drew Spokane houses. "Salome" was presented at the Auditorium and "Cleopatra" at the Majestic. The Auditorium also featured "The Cross Bearer," the graphic picture of Hun-ravaged Belgium, early in the week, and on the same bill was the Kitty Gordon picture, "The Interloper." George MacQuarrie, who used to play regularly at the Auditorum with the Jessie Shirley Stock Company in the days before the movies, has a minor part in the production.

The Casino had a William Farnum picture, "Riders of the Purple Sage," and a Fatty Arbuckle comedy.

Clara Kimball Young in "The House of Glass" was the drawing card at the Liberty.

Virginia Pearson, the Fox star, in her latest starring vehicle, "Queen of Hearts," was the Class A attraction.

"The Girl That Came Back," crook drama, starring Ethel Clayton, was the Clemmer card.

G. SCHIRMER

Just Published

PHOTO PLAY SERIES

A wonderful loose-leaf collection for exclusive use with MOTION PICTURES, each volume containing 10 distinct numbers

VOLUMES III and IV

No matter what scene is depicted on the screen, there is in this collection just the piece best suited to make the action more realistic and vivid.

Although the compositions are arranged for small or full orchestra, they are playable with any lesser combination of instruments and are surprisingly effective if played only by violin and piano.

Remember! This collection is exempt from all performing fees.

Send for leaflet giving contents of these new volumes

PRICE, EACH VOLUME (Net No Discount)

Complete for Full Orchestra	$4.15	Postage Extra (about) .30	Piano or Harmonium Parts	.50	Postage Extra .05
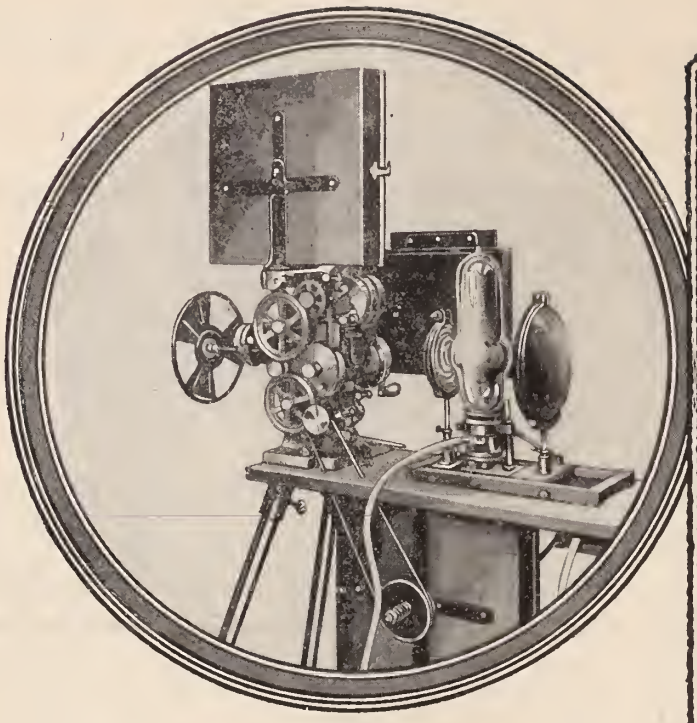
Small Orchestra	3.00	" " .30	All Other Parts	.30	" .05

3 EAST 43rd STREET, NEW YORK



A Lamp
that improves projection and saves electric current

IT'S not often that you can improve the quality of your pictures and at the same time lower your operating costs. But that's just what this new Edison MAZDA C Lamp does. It is the lamp for the small and average sized theatre.

The light has even intensity—a brilliant, steady beam with pleasing color tone; and the lamp, once focused, requires no re-focusing.

The control is simpler than that of the carbon arc. There is less heat, no flicker, and the absence of all carbon ash means less wear and tear on machines and film.

The results please the public, the operator and the management.

You can apply this lamp to your present equipment by purchasing a suitable lamp-and-lens housing and a compensator to convert alternating current to direct current.

When buying a new machine look for the machine equipped with this lamp. It costs no more. Send for Bulletin No. 43607 containing full information. Get in touch with our nearest distributor. Edison Lamp Works of General Electric Company, Harrison, N. J.

Partial List of Distributors:

NEW YORK
United Theatre Equipment Corp.
729 Seventh Ave.
Independent Movie Supply Co.
729 Seventh Ave.
Chas. Beseler Co.
131 E. 23d St.

BOSTON
A. T. Thompson
15 Tremont St.
United Theatre Equipment Corp.
26 and 28 Piedmont St.

PHILADELPHIA
Phil. Elec. Co., Supply Dept.
132 So. 11th St.
United Theatre Equipment Corp.
1233 Vine St.
Williams, Brown & Earle
918 Chestnut St.

ATLANTA
Southern Theatre Equipment Co.
Atlanta, Ga.

DALLAS
Southern Theatre Equipment Co.
1815 Main St.

PITTSBURGH
United Theatre Equipment Corp.
940 Penn Ave.

OMAHA
United Theatre Equipment Corp.
13th and Harney Sts.

CLEVELAND
United Theatre Equipment Corp.
74 Huron Road

CINCINNATI
United Theatre Equipment Corp.
115 W. 7th St.

CHICAGO
United Theatre Equipment Corp.
514 S. Wabash Ave.

DETROIT
United Theatre Equipment Corp.
57 E. Elizabeth St.

MINNEAPOLIS
United Theatre Equipment Corp.
16 N. 7th St.

KANSAS CITY
Kansas City Mach. & Supply Co.
813 Walnut St.

ST. LOUIS
Erker Bros. Optical Co.
608 Olive St.

SAN FRANCISCO
G. A. Metcalf
117 Golden Gate St.

EDISON MAZDA C MOTION PICTURE LAMPS

47D-11

GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY

Everything the Showman Needs on Every Picture Released

The Complete Plan Book

Under the Direction of Peter Milne

Advance Reviews

[In addition to Advance Reviews—covering pictures shown too early to be included in The Complete Plan Book—readers will also find under this heading each week the reviews of short features and serial episodes.]

"One Bright Idea" (Temporary Title)

With Carmel Myers

(Bluebird—Oct. 28. Directed by Paul Powell)

THIS is about the craziest thing I have ever seen. It is so funny you will die laughing when you see it. It seems strange producers don't make more pictures along these lines.

The scenario is based on the story of the same name by Edgar Franklin. It presents the hero as being hard up and trying to raise a million to work his copper mines. It is difficult to describe what happens when the millionaire, a rough looking illiterate man, the kind that made their money in gold mines, like Goldfield, Nevada, for instance, comes to talk over matters.

In order to help your imagination a little it is necessary first to tell you that the hero and heroine exchange identities with the visiting friends, a young man and a young lady. Their servants leave them that day when they found out their boss is broke. As it wouldn't do to receive the financier "servantless," they had to take their places. The ignorance of the miner with the consequent lack of manners, is the chief cause of the comedy. Imagine a young lady being asked impertinent questions (not vulgar). At one time the miner, thinking the impersonators are husband and wife, orders them to bed. He takes the clothes away from the young man to make sure his orders will be carried out.

The picture contains no offensive scenes. It is a wholesome comedy all the way through and fit to show to any audience.—P. S. Harrison.

"The Vanity Pool," with Mary MacLaren

(Universal Special—Nov. 4. Directed by Ida May Park)

THIS picture has been produced very artistically. Although it holds the interest well, owing to the nature of the subject, it will not have a universal appeal. It deals exclusively of scandals among married folks and of intrigues to satisfy personal passions. There are some audiences who like this kind of stuff, others again don't care about them. The degree of satisfaction it will afford depends entirely on which kind you cater to.

The scenario has been based on the story by Nalbro Bartley. It introduces the heroine as a pretty young girl of poor circumstances. She attracts the interest of a wealthy, married man, candidate for governor, who provides for her liberally. The inevitable then happens, he falls in love with her.

The usual intrigues follow. They are caused by one of his supporters, who turns against him because he cannot satisfy his base passions by winning the girl to himself.

In the story, a lady friend of the candidate's wife, is attacked by the villain. While avoiding him she falls from the window accidentally and is killed.

The acting of the principals is good. The interior settings splendid.

Franklin Farnum is also included in the supporting cast.

Length, 6 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

"Wolves of Kultur"

(Pathe—First two episodes)

THE first episodes of Pathe's new serial, "Wolves of Kultur," were shown last Tuesday on the New York Roof. As was to be expected from the title, the story deals with German agents. They are bent on securing a wireless torpedo, and the heroine, Alice, is bent on saving it for the United States Government. In the second episode Bob, the hero, comes along to help her out. Therewith the serial is under way with its action, and a vast volume of this it certainly gives promise of containing.

If the exhibitor books his serial on stunts and proven tricks of melodrama then let him seize upon "Wolves of Kultur." Sensationalism, both physical and mental, is raised to the nth degree. And while Joseph Golden's direction is exceedingly old-fashioned, as is exemplified in the players' chief method of expressing emotion—violent gesticulation—and while some of the sub-titles, including the patriotic deliverances, are molded on the time-honored "Curses, I'll have my revenge" plan, the action moves at such a pace that the serial devotee will be absorbed.

Only Sheldon Lewis' mysterious appearances on the scene remain as altogether too "serialized." If he were a mysterious character all well and good, but he is merely an amateur detective. He always manages to be on hand for the excitement, and his introductions are amusing.—Peter Milne.

"The Kaiser's Finish"

(Produced by S. L. Warner—To Be Released on a State Right Basis. Directed by John Joseph Harvey. Length, 6½ Reels)

"THE KAISER'S FINISH" presents the villainy of the Kaiser and that of his clique from a new angle.

It is true that the story is fiction, plain and simple, the product of fertile imagination, nevertheless, it will prove none the less interesting, as it has been produced well and carries an air of convincingness along with it.

The Complete Plan Book

Appears Every Week—Fifty-two Times a Year—Covers Every Feature Released

"THE STRANGE WOMAN—FOX

Free Love vs. Marriage—a Lengthy Discussion

WHEN a writer of ability, and William J. Hurlbut is generally considered such a man, sets out to evolve a drama concerning the relative virtues and vices in free love and marriage, he usually builds an interesting and enlightening entertainment for the better part of the way. He proves conclusively that marriage, as an institution is bad, and that free love, if considered in its true light, divorced from sensuality, is meritorious. This is what Mr. Hurlbut did with the case of "The Strange Woman." But in order to satisfy a too conventional public, the ultimate ending of such a controversy must needs be the marriage of the principal protagonists. The author is afraid to risk his idea against the public's.

If "The Strange Woman" had ended logically and according to its beginning it would have been convincing in the extreme. Now it is like a swiftly flowing river that suddenly is lost underground. However, and notwithstanding "The Strange Woman," to come down to language of the box office, is going to set them talking. Gladys Brockwell, elegantly and sparsely gowned, appeals with beauty and ability. The production has a number of excellent advertising angles and its subject is always interesting. The chief fault of the picture lies in its subtitles, which are too many and too long. They do not read as if written or edited by Hettie Grey Baker.—Released Nov. 3.—Length, 6 reels.—Peter Milne.

THE CAST

Inez de Pierrefond.....Gladys Brockwell
The Baron.....Charles Clary
John Hemingway.....William Scott
Charles Abbey.....Harry Depp
Mrs. Hemingway, John's mother
Ruby LaFayette
Walter Hemingway.....G. Raymond Nye
Mrs. Abbey.....Ada Beecher
Kate McMasters.....Eunice Moore
Clara Hemingway.....Grace Wood
Cora Whitman.....Margaret Cullington
Molly McGuire.....Lucy Donahue
May Armstrong.....Miss Billy Arnst
Henry McMasters.....William Hutchinson
The Princess.....M'ss Gerard Grassby
The Professor.....Louis Fitzroy

From the play by William J. Hurlbut.
Scenario by J. Grubb Alexander.
Directed by Edward J. LeSaint.

CATCH LINES

An absorbing drama with the question of the right and wrong of marriage forming a vital theme.

A scathing arraignment of the hypocrites one usually finds in every town, large or small.

Gladys Brockwell in a vital picture based on the marriage question.

A drama that pits Marriage against Free Love. There is good and bad in both—which is the better?

AD TALK

Have you ever thought much regarding marriage? Marriage as an institution? Whether it is right or wrong? It is a matter that will doubtless some distant day come to a head and be decided once for all by the higher courts of the nations. Until then it is a good subject to ponder on and in "The Strange Woman," a six-reel Fox production starring Gladys Brockwell, the observer is provided with ample material over which to ponder.

"The Strange Woman" is an adaptation of a play by William J. Hurlbut and has as its chief protagonist one Inez de Pierrefond, a widow of Paris, whose marriage has been such a misfortune that she decides never to enter into any such contract again. She will live and love, yes. But marry never. There comes into her life John Hemingway of a little provincial town in Iowa, who possesses very rigid ideas on marriage. When he runs counter to the views of Inez there is a storm—a severe one.

How these two shaped their destinies to meet a single end makes a vastly absorbing tale. It is a case of the principles of free love, free love divorced from any thought of that which is sensual, pitted against the conventional buttresses of marriage. The problem is solved in a totally unexpected manner. The problem is solved for these two, that is. For others it may still remain a problem. At any rate, the dramatic discussion of the subject presented in "The Strange Woman" is going to interest every man and woman. See this picture when it comes to the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

THE STORY

John Hemingway of Delphi, Iowa, bids his mother goodbye and sets out for Paris to study architecture. Inex de Pierrefond is a young woman of Paris who has been forced into a loveless marriage by a mercenary mother. In a drunken orgy her husband is killed. Disgusted with even the word "marriage," Inez thereupon determines to live and love but never again to bind herself to any man before the altar. In time Inez meets John Hemingway and a great love arises between them.

But John, on hearing Inez's views on the subject of marriage, is so shocked that he leaves her. His friend, Charles Abbey, reasons with him and eventually succeeds in bringing him to the point where he is able to look on Inez as a perfectly good woman holding ideas different than his own. John returns to Inez, willing to be convinced to her belief, believing that then he can restore her faith in the conventions of marriage.

A year later he returns to his mother in Delphi, bringing with him Inez. The gowns of the Parisian lady shock the community and so too, does her book on marriage—which is an attack on that institution. The people of Delphi consider marriage sacred even though in their own midst there are those whose hypocrisy makes them more wicked to the neutral eye than do Inez's revolutionary, though pure beliefs. While John is absent in Chicago the townsfolk decide to inform Mrs. Hemingway that Inez is unfit for her son. Inez hears of this and going to the meeting roundly denounces all those present as the hypocrites they are. She returns to Mrs. Hemingway and tells her the whole story. The old lady's great mother love for her son convinces Inez that the right course lies in marriage.

SUGGESTIONS

Here is a picture containing a story with a number of live advertising angles. A glance at the synopsis will reveal its character and if the exhibitor can not awaken interest with this startling theme there is something vitally wrong with him. The only thing to avoid is too much sensationalism. The discussion which involves a showdown of the principles of Marriage and Free Love is not one to be dealt with lightly. While the sensational angle of it may appeal to some exhibitors who deal with a transient or sensational loving public, the soft pedal should be put on this angle in certain sections.

Some good advertisements are suggested in the Fox press book on this picture, which is complete in every way. Most of these advertisements contain interesting lines, such as "Does Marriage Protect Women?" "Marriage, the Heaven and Hell of Human Existence," etc. These lines range from the moderate to the really sensational and are all good, depending on the type of audience advertised to.

The exhibitor is advised to procure a copy of the press book if he contemplates an extended run of the picture. This book is really one of the most complete and well written that has ever come to this desk and contains a variety of data that will be of great help to the exhibitor who wants to get the most from the feature.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—Two one-sheets; two three-sheets; one six-sheet; one twenty-four-sheet.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—Ten 8 x 10 photos; ten 11 x 14; three 22 x 28 (colored).

SCENE CUTS:—There are one and two-column scene cuts. Two of the two's illustrate scenes of wild revelry that are in the first reel of the production. The others are generally portraits of Miss Brockwell or cuts of the love scenes in the production.

ADVERTISING CUTS AND LAYOUTS:—Advertising cuts are procurable in one and two-column sizes, all well worded and calculated to awaken interest in the production with good catch lines. Other advertisements are suggested and the title of the picture is set up in a variety of styles of type in case the exhibitor has not the time to fuss with type styles himself. Mats of the title are procurable at Fox exchanges for the asking.

SLIDES, MUSIC CUE SHEET.

"THE STRANGE WOMAN"
WILLIAM FOX PRODUCTION.

"THE BORDER WIRELESS"—ARTCRAFT

Here's a Picture That Will Surely Add to Hart's Popularity

MOST of you will consider this picture as the best one in which Bill Hart has ever appeared. A pleasing feature about it, besides, is the fact that the star is again presented in an entirely new role. He comes across some dangerous German spies whom he captures, then joins the army. I wouldn't hesitate to predict that such a role will add to the star's popularity.

Thrill is the basic entertaining element in this attraction. And believe me, it is the genuine kind. It will hold your patrons on the edge of their seats. It is caused mostly by the situation where Hart, accompanied by the girl telegraph operator, enters the hidden wireless room of the German spies, beats the operator and fights off the other confederates, while the girl sends out a signal for help. The nearby army post gets it and the troops rush to the rescue.

Don't take this as the regular kind of a spy picture. It presents new and untouched angles, due to which the element of suspense is present in a marked degree. You may go to the limit with it. It is a clean offering and bound to please all, except the Germans at heart.—Released Oct. 8.—Length, 5 reels. —P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Steve Ransom, a Bandit.....William S. Hart
Elsa Miller, a Telegrapher.....Wanda Hawley
Herman Brandt, a Hun Spy.....Charles Arling
Carl Miller, Elsa's Brother.....James Mason
Frederick Schloss.....E. von Ritzen
Von Helm.....Berthold Sprotte
Esther Meier.....Marcia Manon

Arthur: Howard E. Morton.
Scenario by C. Gardner Sullivan.
Directed by William S. Hart.
Photographed by Joe August.

AD TALK

William S. Hart contributes his offering to the files of patriotic pictures in "The Border Wireless," his latest Artcraft picture to be shown at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week. It may be added, in passing, that Mr. Hart's contribution ranks well above the average. It is not the usual type of patriotic picture but rather a production that combines the type of Hart photoplay that has made him the wonderful figure he is today with a spy plot of the most thrilling order. It was written for Mr. Hart by Howard E. Morton and scenarioized by C. Gardner Sullivan while the star himself took charge of all details of the production.

"The Border Wireless" introduces Mr. Hart as Steve Ransom, a typical westerner who has turned outlaw because a southern railroad has caused the death of his father and mother by robbing them of their home. A price is soon put upon his head but he drifts alone, always managing to keep at least a jump ahead of the posses sent to capture him. It is in the town of Yellow Dog, Arizona, that things begin to happen. Here is the girl and here also are German spies. When the United States declares war on Germany, Steve makes all haste to Fort Scott to enlist. The spies, out of revenge because Steve forces them to kiss the stars and stripes, go through his belongings and discover his identity. They send word to Fort Scott demanding his arrest but Steve escapes.

How Steve rounds up the spies, prevents a serious catastrophe planned against the United States by the Germans and incidentally, by so doing, blots out his past record, are events which cap this tale with a truly thrilling climax. Pretty Wanda Hawley is seen as Mr. Hart's leading woman.

THE STORY

Steve Ransom, a westerner, turns bandit when his father and mother are turned out of their home by a southern railroad which takes possession of their property by underhanded methods. He soon becomes known to the station agents of the line through his daring robberies. Steve eventually drifts to Yellow Dog, Arizona, where he meets Elsa Miller, the telegraph operator. He saves her from an attack by Mexican bandits as she is on her way to the Magdelena mines to deliver a message to Herman Brandt, the proprietor. Brandt is a German spy and has hidden a powerful wireless apparatus in the mine.

Steve takes another name during his stay in Yellow Dog. When Brandt and his assistant, Schloss, insult the flag he forces them to kiss it. On the declaration of war, Steve hastens to Fort Scott to enlist. While he is away Brandt goes through his belongings and discovers his true identity. He wires to Fort Scott telling the authorities to arrest Steve when he arrives. Steve overhears the message while he is awaiting examination and makes good his escape. Elsa learns of this but does not lose faith in him.

Later a code message comes for Brandt and Carl, Elsa's brother, rides with it to the mines. He is thrown from his horse. Brandt discovers him unconscious and takes the message. Decoded, it is to the effect that General Pershing and his staff have sailed. A plan is laid to sink the vessel. Carl overhears this but is captured by the spies and left under guard. It remains for Steve to save the day. At great risk he hastens to the mine, sends a message to Fort Scott for help and then destroys the machine. The troops arrive just in time, arrest the spies, while the commander pardons Steve because of his patriotic service.

CATCH LINES

William S. Hart's contribution to the library of patriotic pictures—a production that is different from all the rest.

In which Bill Hart gets into a uniform and proceeds to wallop the very dickens out of fellows named Brandt and Schloss.

A bandit's past forgotten by a government grateful for services rendered in the cause of democracy.

An inspiring story of the manner in which a bandit heeds the call of his flag and wipes out his past with a record of fearlessness in hunting down German spies.

You wouldn't expect William S. Hart to offer up the conventional sort of patriotic picture, would you? Well, he doesn't. See "The "Border Wireless" and the inspiring story it offers.

For once, a patriotic picture that is plausible, convincing—and thrilling besides.

Don't forget that there is only one William S. Hart and so there is only one "Border Wireless." It's the best patriotic picture that the ——— theatre has yet offered.

He didn't want to turn bandit but they forced him to. He wanted to turn soldier and they didn't want him to. See how Steve Ransom managed to enter the service after all.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—Two one-sheets; two three-sheets; one six-sheet; one twenty-four-sheet; rotogravure one-sheet. One of the one-sheets and the six show Hart in uniform, part of the American flag seen in the background. These two are the best, it seems, as they give insight into character of this production. The other paper shows Hart in usual western makeup and is well gotten up though similar to paper on other of his pictures.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—Eight 8 x 10 black and white photos; eight 11 x 14 sepia; one 22 x 28 sepia; also 8 x 10 photos of star.

CUTS AND MATS ON PRODUCTION:—Five one-column; three two-column; two three-column. One of the one's and one of the two's show Hart in uniform. The others are scenes and poses of star in western makeup.

Same number of cuts and mats furnished on star in same sizes.

ADVERTISING LAYOUTS:—One, two and three-column layouts in usual effective Paramount-Artcraft style.

SLIDE, MUSIC CUE SHEET.

SUGGESTIONS

Here you have William S. Hart in a totally different type of picture. You, who have been crying for something different from this star, get out your megaphone and start to let the town know about it. Hart's "The Border Wireless" is a patriotic number of the Mexican border line. Advertise it as Hart's contribution to the list of patriotic features and be sure to mention that it is of a different type than the rest—as might be expected.

The name of Hart is still as magical as it used to be and with the additional angle of the patriotic stuff, "The Border Wireless" ought to get over big. The title is by no means a bad one either.

One, Two and Three-column Cuts as Above Supplied at Paramount Offices

"UNEXPECTED PLACES"—METRO

You Can't Believe the Story, But Entertaining Qualities Are There

YOU will find an extensive review of this attraction in advance reviews of issue of Oct. 5, on page 2243. It is a picture of the light type, the kind that are not based on a story constructed with the purpose of making you believe them, but with the object of entertaining you.

The story deals with reporters and German spies, with the never failing triumph of the hero.

It is a clean offering.

Released Sept. 30.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Dick Holloway.....BERT LYTELL
Lord Varden.....Colin Kenney
Hiram Penfield.....Louis Morrison
Mrs. Penfield.....Edythe Chapman
Ruth Penfield.....Rhea Mitchell
Jocelyn.....John Burton
"Cherie".....Rosemary Theby
Brauer.....Stanton Heck
Meyer.....Jay Dwiggins

Story by Lieutenant Frank R. Adams.
Scenario by A. S. Le Vino.
Directed by E. Mason Hopper.
Photographed by Robert B. Kurrle.

THE STORY

Dick Holloway, star reporter of the New York Chronicle, is sent to investigate the mysterious death of Lord Harold Varden's valet. Varden has come to the United States on a diplomatic mission and is evidently being pursued by German spies. At the hotel he enters the dining room and approaches Varden's table. The Englishman suddenly becomes faint and collapses. He gasps out to Dick that his food has been poisoned and also asks him to secure certain papers in his room before the spies get there. He is rushed to the hospital where antidotes are administered.

While Dick is in Varden's room a beautiful girl enters and addresses him as "Cousin Harold," introducing herself as Ruth Penfield. Dick sees no other way out but to carry the deception through and as a consequence he becomes a guest at the Penfield country home. He gets in touch with Varden on the 'phone and the latter implores him to continue playing the imposter. Dick is willing enough until Varden's wife appears and then he explains the whole situation.

The Penfields understand. Ruth is kidnapped by the spies and held a prisoner. Dick gets a message demanding the papers if he desires the girl to be released. Dick pretends to accede to these demands and succeeds in saving Ruth. He hands over the paper to the spies and then snatches them back. Grasping a poker he downs all three of them and escapes with Ruth in an automobile. Later the spies ran right into the arms of the police.

Varden at length appears and offers Dick his warmest thanks. Dick's story is a wonderful "scoop" but it is his last one as he accepts a position as Penfield's secretary and—as Ruth's husband.

AD TALK

Bert Lytell, one of the newer stars of the screen, comes to the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week in his latest Metro feature, "Unexpected Places," a thrilling tale in which a New York reporter outwits a group of German spies. Since Mr. Lytell's first appearance on the screen about a year ago he has risen in popularity with each succeeding picture, until today he is up among the first of the men motion picture stars. His knowledge of acting, his ready grasp of the essentials of studio technique, his clean cut personality and his good looks are a combination that make all Mr. Lytell's rivals look jealously to their laurels.

In "Unexpected Places" he is seen as a reporter with unlimited energy and resourcefulness. While investigating a murder mystery he is mistaken for an English agent, Lord Varden, and it is while assuming this role he overcomes the German spies and wins the heart and hand of a beautiful girl. Those of you who like fast action, a story with many a lively turn and twist, high suspense and not a little humor will find in "Unexpected Places" a worthy entertainment indeed.

The story originally appeared in the Blue Book Magazine under Lieutenant Frank R. Adams' name. It was transferred into scenario form by Albert Shelby Le Vino and was produced under the direction of E. Mason Hopper. Rhea Mitchell, a beautiful blonde, and Rosemary Theby, an actress of contrasting type, appear in Mr. Lytell's support heading a cast that acquits itself creditably with respect to every individual.

CATCH LINES

New York reporter captures German spies after thrilling series of adventures.

Bert Lytell in one of the fastest, snappiest, most daring melodramas of German spies outwitted.

All reporters are supposed to possess superior acumen, dauntless courage—they are supposed to be real Romeos and everything—fact is, the reporter in "Unexpected Places" is just this sort of a fellow. You'll like him.

How a reporter outwitted a band of German spies by posing as an English nobleman—and how he won a wife besides.

Lord Varden was asking a lot when he suggested that Dick Holliday, reporter, take his place for a few days. German spies were bent on killing the Englishman and naturally they would be bent on killing Dick if he signed his name with Lord in front of it. But even so, Dick was game. He played his hand, defeated the spies and won the prettiest girl in the world as his wife.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—In colors including two styles of one, two, three and six sheets. These posters give enlarged pictures of star, scenes from production including pictures of star and other members of the cast.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—8 x 10 sepia, 11 x 14 sepia, and 22 x 28 colored including stills of star and scenes from production. Title card also goes with this layout.

CUTS AND MATS:—One and two column cuts of star and scene cuts available at Metro exchanges.

SLIDES, MUSIC CUE SHEET, HERALDS.

SUGGESTIONS

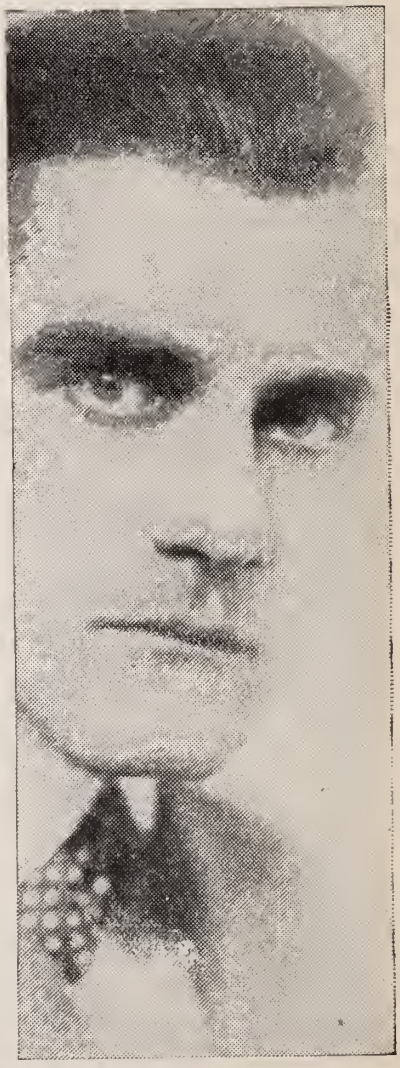
In advertising this feature it can be said that it is a German spy proposition—the spies being duly defeated by a reporter. This can also be forgotten if desirable. The spy play is merely the old crook play brought up to date and is not a thing to be declared "out" just because of many others that have been before. So if desirable play up the side of the picture which deals with the energetic young reporter, his romance conducted while he is posing as an English lord, etc. Bring the spies in as an after-thought if you must. You might even run a line explaining what was said above, such as "We used to have crooks to furnish the clash with the hero, now we have German spies."

Bert Lytell appears to be generally well liked, so let them know he is the one starred in "Unexpected Places." Rhea Mitchell and Rosemary Theby are well known leading women who also appear in the production.

ALWAYS FIRST

Have you noticed that we always carry the reviews first of all trade papers, either in the Complete Plan Book or Advance Reviews?

Service doesn't go very far if it is not the kind you can use and profit by. Plan Book service will help you.



BERT LYTELL.

Stock Star Cut Supplied at Metro Exchanges

"THE HEART OF RACHAEL"—HODKINSON

Bessie Barriscale Fortunate in Getting Good Story and Making it Better

BESSIE BARRISCALE may well feel proud of her work in this picture. She has a perfect right to feel so. It is the best she has ever done, in my opinion. She may also thank Director Hickman for the intelligent directing, and Jack Cunningham, the continuity writer, who prepared the scenario. Like a good mechanic, he made every part of the machine fit just right.

Picture in your mind a faithful wife, who bears in silence and in the most dignified manner, the insults of an unappreciative husband, until the cup fills to the brim, when she demands her freedom. Picture her again as the wife of a man who professed love to her without bounds, then as a mother of two children, then being alienated of his affections by another woman, without ever giving the slightest cause for such ill luck, and you will fully understand the role the star assumes. Your sympathies go to her from the very beginning and never once leave her. Such a role never fails to move a human being.

A good story, based on the popular book of the same name, by Kathleen Norris, and perfect team work among the different factors, have produced what one may safely call 100% picture.

Released Oct. 14.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Rachael.....Bessie Barriscale
Clarence Breckenridge.....Hershel Mayall
"Billy".....Ella Hall
Dr. Warren Gregory.....Herbert Heyes
Magsie Clay.....Gloria Hope
Joe Pickering.....Edward Coxen
Jim, Rachael's son.....Ben Alexander
Book by Kathleen Norris.
Scenario by Jack Cunningham.
Directed by Howard Hickman.

CATCH LINES

Bessie Barriscale supported by an all-star cast including Ella Hall, Gloria Hope, Edward Coxen and Ben Alexander.

Adapted from the well-known book by Kathleen Norris.

A picture dealing with the evils of divorce and the glory of true love.

A lavish production dealing with the eternal triangle in a new and absorbing fashion.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—Two one-sheets; two three-sheets; two six-sheets. All paper shows scene from production and Bessie Barriscale. These obtainable at General exchanges handling the Hodkinson product.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—11 x 14, 22 x 28 of star and production.

CUTS AND MATS:—Two styles of one and two-column cuts suitable for reproduction in either text or advertising columns of your newspapers.

AD TALK

Bessie Barriscale, supported by a cast that may safely be termed "all-star" is to appear at the ——— theatre of ——— of ——— week in her latest photoplay entitled "The Heart of Rachael," an adaptation of one of the season's best sellers by Kathleen Norris. The cast includes Ella Hall and Gloria Hope, stars in their own right, and Little Ben Alexander, who scored such a hit in D. W. Griffith's "Hearts of the World." The personnel of the cast only goes to show the extent to which the Hodkinson Company is going in its efforts to produce only the best of pictures. "The Heart of Rachael" is a striking example of the type of production that an organization so well oiled as this can turn out.

Kathleen Norris' novel is based on marital troubles and in dealing with them the author has displayed her keen insight of human nature, her ability of characterization and her knack of hitting upon the novel in plot. Miss Barriscale is seen as Rachael, the second wife of Clarence Breckenridge, a profligate. She divorces him in order to marry Doctor Warren Gregory, her life-long friend. What is her dismay to discover that Gregory, whom she thought a home-loving man, immediately becomes a "high-stepper" after his marriage and commences a life similar to that of her first husband.

How this distracting problem is solved and how the two are brought together again is well told by Miss Norris and has been finely handled on the screen by the scenario writer, Jack Cunningham. Howard Hickman has produced the picture effectively and with a number of most artistic touches.

THE STORY

Clarence Breckenridge, a widower, has married Rachael, a woman little older than his daughter Billy. Rachael endeavors to be both a good wife and mother but finds her efforts unappreciated. Billy is spoiled and Breckenridge devotes himself to wine. Warren Gregory, a doctor, is called to attend Breckenridge. He has been a life-long friend of Rachael's and it is over Breckenridge's bedside that the two come to a realization that they love each other. Rachael soon afterwards divorces Breckenridge and marries Gregory.

Gregory, previous to his marriage, a quiet and home loving man, undergoes a change. He wants to see life and lots of it, though Rachael is tired of frivolity. As a result, Gregory picks up an acquaintance with Maggie Clay, an actress. In Breckenridge's household, Billy elopes with Joe Pickering, a worthless young man, regarding whom Rachael had often warned her stepdaughter. Breckenridge, whose only love was Billy, kills himself.

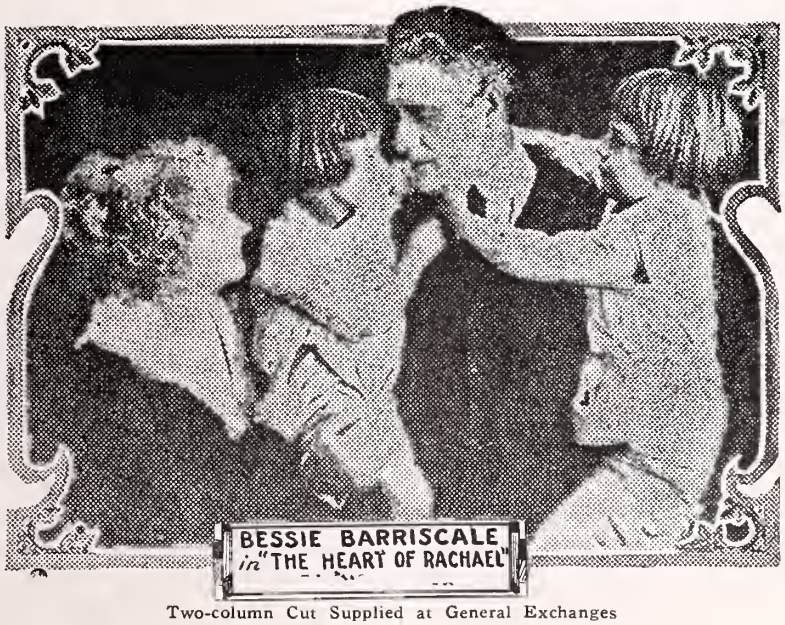
After a number of years Rachael discovers her husband's affair with the actress. At length Magsie comes to Rachael and confesses her love for her husband. Rachael answers that she will not contest a divorce if they so will it. But Gregory will not hear to this. It remains for Rachael's little boy, Jim, to reunite the drifting couple. He is severely injured in a fall and Gregory is the only physician who can save him. In their anxiety in saving Jim's life a greater love grows between Rachael and her husband.

SUGGESTIONS

Kathleen Norris is the author of many a best seller and "The Heart of Rachael" is by no means the least of these. It is such a well-known novel that it affords the usual opportunity for an exhibitor to tie up with his book store on advertising the picture. If this course is not desirable, you might get your book store to tie up with you and so reverse the order. In other words, you might sell copies of the book in the lobby of your theatre. If the book seller has an eye for business he will welcome this proposition.

At any rate, you might get a few copies of the book and make a lobby display of them. A very good idea has been worked out on some pictures in this way: procure say three copies of the edition. If you have deep frames place one of the books closed in the center; open another to the first page and the third to one of the interesting passages in the book. Try to find a page that turns over in the middle of an exciting passage. This certainly serves to arouse interest.

Miss Barriscale and the other members of the cast should be given real prominence. Seldom does the exhibitor get such a combination of talent all in one picture. Run your eye over the cast and see for yourself. Don't forget that Little Ben Alexander has made a name for himself in "Hearts of the World."



Two-column Cut Supplied at General Exchanges

"SWAT THE SPY"—FOX

The Lee Children Practice Patriotic Pranks

JANE AND KATHERINE LEE, the junior Fox stars, who always call to mind the title of one of their recent pictures, "Two Little Imps," appear in a patriotic comedy entitled "Swat the Spy." It is a clever title, to be sure, and be further sure that Jane and Katherine swat the spy, several of them, for that matter, in practically every foot of celluloid that goes to make up the five reels.

If an audience be in the humor to witness the usual practical jokes of the Lee children turned to patriotic effect there are passages of "Swat the Spy" that will surely amuse. Pies are thrown at the Kaiser's picture, the ambitious mustache of the German butler is clipped while he snoozes, a time-clock bomb set for the American chemist is turned against the plotters, etc.

Yes, Jane and Katherine keep up their usual pace. However, those of intelligence are obliged to suffer much in the name of patriotism these days and in viewing "Swat the Spy" the reviewer absorbed the idea that Arvid E. Gillstrom still believed himself directing the Billy West company.—Released Sept. 29.—Length, 5 reels.—Peter Milne.

THE CAST

Jane Sheldon.....Jane Lee
Katherine Sheldon.....Katherine Lee
Andrew Sheldon.....Charles Slattery
Karl Schmidt.....P. C. Hartigan
Lena Muller.....Florence Ashbrooke
Story by Arvid E. Gillstrom.
Scenario by Raymond L. Shrock.
Directed by Mr. Gillstrom.

CATCH LINES

Jane and Katherine Lee turn their pranks against German spies and prove instrumental in their capture.

Swat the Fly, yes, but don't forget the Spy, Swat him, too, and swat him hard. See Jane and Katherine in their swat fest in "Swat the Spy."

Mr. Fox has dubbed the Lee children the "Baby Grands." But they make more noise than any grown-up star.

A picture that is bold enough to take the comedy viewpoint on the German spies. Have a little fun at Germany's expense. You'll never get a bill.

Pie-throwing turned to good advantage at last. The target is the Kaiser's picture.

Jane and Katherine Lee are two of the biggest little patriots in New York. They really are. They make Liberty Loan speeches—War Savings Stamp speeches—Red Cross speeches—speeches for everything going—and in "Swat the Spy" they give further proof of their intense patriotism.

If you are a German sympathizer keep away from this theatre during the showing of "Swat the Spy"—and keep away from it forever.

AD TALK

In the good old summer time you have been told to swat the fly. Now winter is here, and with it the season for swatting spies. Jane and Katherine Lee, the junior Fox stars, have already undertaken their duties along these lines, and in "Swat the Spy" patrons of the ———— theatre will be able to see the results of their efforts when the picture is shown on ———— of ———— week.

"Swat the Spy" is a picture full of pranks that the Lee children know so well how to play. But in this, their latest effort, they combine forces against a band of German spies who are servants in the household of their father. The father is a chemist, and—need we say more? He is manufacturing a high explosive for the Government. Naturally the spies seek the formulae. Suffice it to say here that due to the untiring efforts of Jane and Katherine the spies wind up where all German spies eventually do wind up—in the hands of the United States Department of Justice. The formulae is saved.

However, don't get the idea that "Swat the Spy" is the usual melodrama by reading this mere sketch of the plot. It is not melodrama at all, rather is it burlesque, and burlesque of the most contagious type. The many admirers of the Fox Baby Grands as these two children have come to be known will revel in their latest pranks, particularly when they are captivated by the desire to assist in such a worthy cause as running the enemy within to the internment camp where he belongs.

THE STORY

Andrew Sheldon, experimental chemist, works on an explosive which he plans giving to the United States Government. His house is filled up with German spies. The butler is a spy, the housekeeper is a spy, the maid is a spy, the chauffeur is a spy, and there are others hanging about in the offing. Andrew hasn't got time to notice all this. What with the experiment and the prospect that his wife is about to present him with a baby—he has his mind full. But Jane and Katherine, his daughters, have their eyes open.

Even before they make the discovery that they are being served by spies, they make life generally miserable for the Huns within the house. They break up a meeting by smearing the Kaiser's picture with pie—and decorating his ears with lettuce leaves. When the butler is about to smash one of those prismatic pictures that shows Wilson, Washington and Lincoln from different angles, they bring the hammer down first on his foot, and then on his head, and save the picture in some miraculous manner.

As a relief to their campaign against the Hun they run away to New York when their new baby brother comes, and endeavor to enlist because their father and mother are centering attention on the newcomer to the exclusion of all else. But they can't enlist—instead they aid in getting recruits for the Navy and subscriptions for the Fourth Liberty Loan. And then at last they are responsible for the roundup of the German spies. The butler attempts to steal the secret formulae, but he only gets half-way across the Hudson with it before he is overtaken and made prisoner.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—Two one-sheets; two three-sheets; one six-sheet.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—Ten 8 x 10 photos; ten 11 x 14 photos black and white; three 22 x 28 colored.

SCENE CUTS:—There are five single-column cuts and four two-column cuts included in the accessories on this production. The single columns all have the Lee children in comedy poses, and any one is acceptable for either text or advertising columns of the newspapers. The two-column cuts, of course, present bigger scenes and are also suggestive of the comedy in the feature.

ADVERTISING CUTS:—The display ads include two and one-column cuts with illustrations of a comedy nature and display lettering. There are also one and two-column type advertisements suggested in the press sheet on this picture, each one taking up some angle of the picture and referring to it cleverly.

SLIDES, MUSIC CUE SHEET.

SUGGESTIONS

This is not meant to be taken seriously. The Lee children have fun at the German spies' expense. These kiddies are real favorites, particularly with the soldiers and sailors. Their pictures are excellently received in the training camps. You might advertise them as favorites of our fighting men, you won't be misleading any one.

Also it might be a good idea to mention the Fourth Liberty Loan in connection with the showing of this feature. Mention the fact that the Lee children were instrumental in raising large sums of money for the preceding loans, and add that they are doing their bit with respect to the present one.

But always accentuate the comedy angle of the picture, and don't forget that the title is a corker for display purposes.

Up-to-Date

The Index on Page 2242 last week will keep you posted on all pictures reviewed in the Complete Plan Book.

File It with Reviews

SWAT THE SPY" WILLIAM FOX-PRODUCTION

Illustration of Cuts Supplied for Both Text and Advertising Columns

"THE GOAT"—ARTCRAFT

Fred Stone Good, But Should Have a Story More Suitable

AS it was said in last week's issue, in the advance reviews, page 2261, this is only a fair picture. It depends on the physical action, the clever stunts performed by the star and on the comedy element to entertain. It lacks heart-appealing situations.

The story is a disclosure of picture making, as it actually is in the studio. I am afraid this will lessen the pleasure a spectator derives from watching a picture, as it will destroy some of the illusion due to the mystery surrounding picture production.

Mr. Stone displays rare competence as a screen actor, when the fact that this is his first picture is taken into consideration. He seems to be adapted more for Western plays than any other kind. With a suitable story to work with no doubt he can present a good picture.

It is a clean attraction. Released Sept. 22.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Chuck McCarthy, an Iron Worker....Fred Stone
Mrs. McCarthy, his Mother.....Fannie Midgely
Mr. McCarthy.....Charles McHugh
Bijou Lamour, an Actress.....Rhea Mitchell
The Baby Vampire.....Sylvia Ashton
Marmaduke X. Caruthers, an Actor
Philo McCollough
Molly O'Connors, Chuck's Sweetheart
Winifred Greenwood
Director Griffin.....Noah Beery
Jimmy Quicksilver, Assistant Director
Raymond Hatton
Director Graham.....Charles Ogle
Studio Manager.....Ernest Joy
Casting Director.....Clarence Geldart
Written by Frances Marion.
Directed by Donald Crisp.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—Two one-sheets; two three-sheets; one six-sheet; one twenty-four-sheet; rotogravure one-sheet.

The six, the twenty-four and both threes are catching comedy posters that will arouse curiosity. One of the one's is a more sober scene while the other is a portrait of Stone.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—Eight 8 x 10 black and white photos; eight 11 x 14 sepia; one 22 x 28; also 8 x 10 photos of star.

CUTS AND MATS ON PRODUCTION:—Five one-column; three two-column; two three-column.

These are mostly comedy scenes from production and comedy portraits of star.

The same number of cuts and mats on Stone are to be had in the same sizes.

ADVERTISING LAYOUTS:—In one, two and three-column sizes, dressed in usual Paramount-Artcraft style and giving good ideas of type of production.

SLIDES, MUSIC CUE SHEET.

AD TALK

Fred Stone, the popular musical company favorite, makes his debut in pictures in the Artcraft subject, "The Goat," which is scheduled for presentation at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week. There were many opinions expressed when Fred Stone decided to take a flier in the pictures. People said that his voice was 51 per cent of him and that on the screen he would fail to make anything more than an average impression. But that is what people say whenever any stage celebrity goes into pictures. The facts of the case are, and we speak with authority after having seen "The Goat" ourselves, is that he is perfectly well at home on the screen—in fact he is a wonderful success.

On the stage he is known for his acrobatics as well as his ability as a comedian. And in "The Goat" he has ample opportunity to prove himself along both lines. Frances Marion, who prepared the story and scenario of this picture, has seen to it that he has every chance possible to show himself off to the best advantage. As a consequence "The Goat" is a succession of fine comedy and startling stunts, never forgetting the very human little love story that runs through it so tying up the more spectacular events.

Miss Marion's story concerns the adventures of an intrepid iron worker in a motion picture studio. Because of his fearlessness he is made "The Goat" of the place. Whenever there is anything particularly dangerous to be done it is Chuck who is called upon to do it. He "doubles" for the stars who are afraid of having their skins scratched. And here, of course, do the stunts come in. We are not going to go into superlatives about the picture to any greater extent. New stars are always over-advertised. We want to under-advertise Mr. Stone, right here, that is, and permit the gentleman to prove his worth on his own merits—he'll do it too.

THE STORY

Chuck McCarthy, an iron-worker, thinks money does not come fast enough in his chosen trade and decides to seek more lucrative fields—the movies for instance. While working on a new studio one day he catches the pet monkey of Bijou Lamour's, an actress. In this way he gets the chance to "double" for her in a roller skating scene. The Filmcraft Company decides that Chuck must stay to perform other such stunts when the trepid professionals say "nay." So Chuck becomes the "goat" of the studio, the official stunt man, who does all the work and gets none of the credit.

Molly, Chuck's sweetheart, quarrels with him over his movie career and they part company, Chuck caring little because he revels in the glances of Bijou. Bijou only turns her eyes on him, however, to make one Marmaduke X. Caruthers, matinee idol, jealous. Chuck unwittingly becomes the laughing stock of the studio. Acting on Bijou's suggestion he buys a fine wardrobe and shows up silk hatted and swinging a cane. Molly grieves for him but Chuck looks forward to a brilliant career before the camera.

One day Chuck is called upon to "double" for Marmaduke in some battle scenes. His horse stumbles and he is thrown to the ground, sustaining severe injuries. The manager seeing the chance for a story regarding Marmaduke's fearlessness, winds him up in bandages and has him carted away to the hospital. Chuck is removed through the back door. That night Chuck reads the story of Marmaduke and also that Bijou Lamour is engaged to him. Molly comes to his humble flat with an offering of cheap flowers and Chuck at last comes to and realizes the stuff she is made of.

The Filmcraft Company sends Chuck a check for a thousand dollars. Chuck is worried over his superfluous wardrobe but Molly opines that this will come in handy on their honeymoon to Niagara Falls.

SUGGESTIONS

Owing to the vast popularity of the shows in which Fred Stone has appeared, both those of recent date and those in which he appeared with his late partner, Dave Montgomery, the star's name is undoubtedly a wonderful box office asset. Stone's two last musical comedies, "Chin Chin" and "Jack o' Lantern," played entire seasons on Broadway and extensively on the road. Hundreds of thousands of people have seen him. Remember this in advertising him, for although he is new to the screen he is one of the popular actors of the day in his older profession. Old timers (that are not so very old), will also remember him in "The Wizard of Oz," "The Red Mill" and other comedies of the musical stage.

Fred Stone is a stunt comedian and deserves to be featured as such. Some of the feats he performs in "The Goat" are real thrillers. You can go the limit on this angle. Also the comedy end should be accentuated.

The material in this production makes it an ideal subject for children's matinees, although it is a picture that the whole family will appreciate. But the special matinee idea would be a good one to play up. Again have his stage comedies pave the way for you. In New York and the other big cities where he has played, the afternoon shows are always crowded with children. He is a favorite with everyone.

If you can get hold of some of the musical numbers from "Jack o' Lantern" and "Chin Chin" use them frequently during the run of the picture. There were a number of real popular song hits in these shows that will make an excellent accompaniment for the feature.

CATCH LINES

Fred Stone, comedy favorite, in a whirlwind, human comedy of life in a motion picture studio.

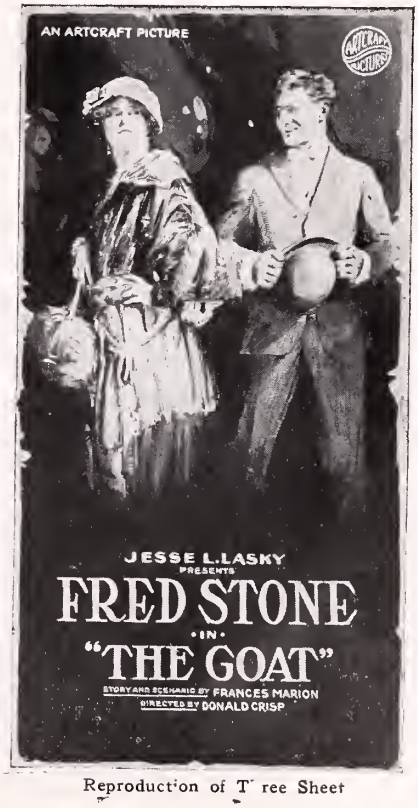
The beloved Scarecrow of "The Wizard of Oz," the Chink of "Chin Chin" and the Jack of "Jack o' Lantern," revealed as a motion picture star.

If you think everyone in the motion picture studio has an easy time of it see Fred Stone in "The Goat" and learn the truth.

See the secrets of picture production revealed in one of the finest comedies of the season.

"The Goat" marks Fred Stone's debut in motion pictures—but it is a debut that closely resembles the zenith of the average star's career.

The team name of Montgomery and Stone was long a byword in things theatrical. Fred Stone seems destined to carry this fame into the picture world from his performance in this, his first picture.



Reproduction of Three Sheet

"THE ROAD TO FRANCE"—WORLD

The Name Should Draw the Crowds to This Picture

THERE is no question in my mind that this picture will draw, owing to its title. For that matter, the word "France" stretched across the lobby of your theatre is enough to bring in the crowds. But to expect your patrons to enjoy, or even believe such a conglomeration of impossible situations, it is asking too much of them. There was a chance to make a knockout of it had the story been written intelligently and had it been entrusted in the hands of a director that would draw a sharp line between acting and moving of figures on the screen.

It is a melodrama of the most absurd kind, the sort that could have gotten by five years ago.

The picture has been produced with the co-operation of the shipping board. Chairman Hurley is shown at the opening. Actual scenes of the operation of the machinery as well as the launching of some of the completed ships are shown in it. Apparently it was the intention to base the story on ship construction, but it hardly can be said that the idea has been carried out.

If you expect to play this picture, I would suggest you lay stress more on the acutal scenes of ship construction shown than on the story. You will have less kicks from critical patrons.—Released Oct. 14. —Length, 7 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Tom Whitney.....Carlyle Blackwell
Helen Bemis.....Evelyn Greeley
John Bemis.....Jack Drumier
Mollie.....Muriel Ostriche
Robert Whitney.....George De Carlton
Mrs. Whitney.....Jane Sterling
Hector Winter.....Richard Neill
Mrs. O'Leary.....Inez Shannon
Burns.....Henry West
Hugo Kraus.....Alex Shannon
Chief of Police.....Joseph Smiley
Dennis O'Leary.....James Davis
Little O'Leary Girl.....Elizabeth Kennedy

Story by Harry O. Hoyt.
Directed by Dell Henderson.
Photographer by Louis Ostland.

SUGGESTIONS

This picture suggests a number of courses for the exhibitor to pursue. If you are in a town where there is shipbuilding get some of the workers to attend in a body. Officials of any town will be glad to indorse the production. The newspapers should be glad to give you considerable space on this. If you show it for a week's run, invite them to a special showing, and get their opinions for your advertisements. All patriotic societies should be glad enough to cooperate with you on putting this over, for remember, you haven't had anything like it. A good picture of work in a shipyard has not yet been shown to our knowledge.

AD TALK

We have had pictures dealing with our boys' activities on the other side, of the activities of our Allies in the fighting zone, of the activities of all the armies back of the fighting line, of munitions making and of practically every branch of the Government that is now serving in the one great cause, but "The Road to France" introduces scenes and fields of activity that have not, as yet, been revealed to the public eye through the medium of the screen. This special World Film production in six reels which comes to the ———— theatre on ———— of ———— week for a run of ———— days, is laid, for the most part, in one of the shipyards of the United States, and the various branches of shipbuilding are unfolded before the spectator in all their interesting detail.

Special permission from Chairman Edward N. Hurley, of the United States Shipping Board, was secured to photograph these scenes, and Director Dell Henderson and his entire company headed by the stars, Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley, spent many days taking these scenes. The results are some of the most entertaining ever shown of the screen of the ———— theatre, for combined with a story that has all the elements of popular appeal, "The Road to France," offers practically everything the particular patron could ask for.

It is not merely a string of scenes on the building of ships. Rather are these scenes shown as incidental to the main action which is a strong story of a man's regeneration through devotion to patriotic service. How he captures three spies bent on stopping work in the shipyards, and by his capable work is reinstated in the graces of the girl he loves makes a story that is ever absorbing. Don't miss it.

THE STORY

Tom Whitney, a young man of good family who has descended to the depths because of drink, attempts to commit suicide, but is prevented from so doing by a policeman. The officer asks for his draft registration card. Showing it Tom explains that he has been exempted because of an old injury sustained in football. The officer suggests that he buck up and get work in the shipyards any way, as they are sorely in need of men. As a result, Tom goes to work in the yard owned by John Bemis, the father of the girl to whom he was once engaged, Helen. Helen had broken the engagement because on the morning after Tom's last "party" he had produced an impossible person called Mollie, who claimed to be his wife.

In the shipyard Tom soon rises from one position to another, until he becomes one of the most valuable all-around workers in the place. Various construction work on a ship is shown during the course of Tom's apprenticeship in different positions. Tom finally gets wise to the fact that three men in the yard, Burns, Kraus and Winter are German spies, posing as agitators. They try several times to incite the workers to strike and violence, but always Tom manages to make a patriotic appeal to them in time to save the day.

One of the Germans murders Bemis after a quarrel, and fastens the blame on Tom. By a trick Tom and the Secret Service men succeed in tricking the German into a confession of his crime. The spies quarrel among themselves when all goes wrong, and it is then discovered that Mollie is, in reality, the wife of Winter. All obstacles are thus removed from between Tom and Helen. The last scene shows them witnessing the launching of the great ship "Liberty," on which Tom has worked so diligently.

CATCH LINES

"A Bridge of Ships is the Road to France"—Chairman Hurley, of the United States Shipping Board. See this Bridge of Ships in the course of construction in World Film's thrilling picture, "The Road to France."

A stirring drama of a man's regeneration through patriotic service laid in one of the monstrous shipyards of the United States.

See one of the "splashes" that Berlin is hearing every day.

Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley in a patriotic picture laid in a shipyard of the United States.

"The life blood of the nation is being shed on French soil for an unselfish purpose, and the men in our new shipyards have the same spirit, pluck and unselfishness, as the men in the trenches"—Chairman Hurley, of the Shipping Board. See these men at work in World Film's special drama, "The Road to France."

There are patriots on this side of the water as well as "Over There." See hundreds of them at work in one of the United States shipyards.

A patriotic picture with one of the most realistic backgrounds ever photographed—one of the United States shipyards.

See the men of the United States building "The Road to France."

No other nation in the world could build such a "road" over the Atlantic Ocean. It takes the vast resources and energies of the United States to turn the trick.

ADVERTISING AIDS

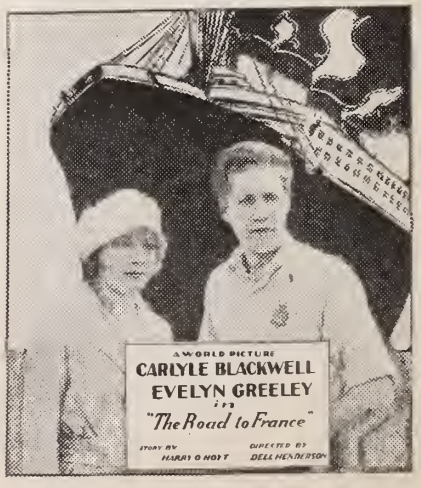
PAPER:—Two one-sheets; two three-sheets; one six-sheet and one special eight-sheet. From appearance of the reproduction of the sketches for this paper it is some of the best ever issued. The eight, though an off size, is a magnificent poster, showing two long trails of ships sweeping into the foreground. In the right corner is a bit of the French flag, while a woman's figure in armor, evidently Jeanne d'Arc, reaches out in welcome. The six shows the stars in right foreground with the huge ships under construction in the rear. Both ones are suggestive of the industrial side of the picture rather than the dramatic. One of the threes shows workmen busy building, while the other has Blackwell and Greeley with a ship in the background. The detail on all the sketch reproductions is remarkable.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—Two 22 x 28 colored photos; eight 11 x 14 colored; eight 8 x 10 black and white.

CUTS AND MATS:—There are two one-column cuts with Blackwell and Greeley in foreground; ships in background. Two two-column cuts, one Blackwell and Greeley in oval insert, the rest of the cut showing a ship, and one eight and a half inch deep cut of the stars. The two three-column cuts show ships under construction with stars in foreground.

One and two-column type advertisements have also been suggested in the World press sheet on this production.

SLIDES, MUSIC CUE SHEET.



One-Column Cuts Like This at World Exchanges

"RULING PASSIONS"—SCHOMER PHOTOPLAY

Touching Moments and Excellent Handling Make This a Winner

THIS is an excellent production, heart interest being the basic element in the story.

The plot concerns the hero, who saves a boyhood chum from self destruction, offering him financial as well as moral help. Later the hero thinks he is wronged by the man whom he assisted, and from a person possessing the brightest of natures and the most happy of dispositions, becomes a hater of every human being. Eventually he is restored to his former self by a kind-hearted girl.

The story is remarkable as it gets along without a villain. Although marred by dark clouds for a time, it lays stress mostly on the bright side of life. Two of the scenes, the one at the beginning of the picture, where the two friends meet, and the other near the end, showing their reconciliation after the estrangement, are very touching. They will bring the tears to many an eye. It will leave no bitter taste, however, but on the contrary a pleasing one.

The reformation of the hero is accomplished in a unique and very clever manner. It is not done by preaching, but by the utilization of the understanding of human nature.

The subtitles are short and to the point. The acting is of the highest standard. One is surprised why Edwin Arden doesn't appear in pictures oftener.

You may shut your eyes and book it if you have room for it. It is a clean and wholesome entertainment, the kind that is bound to have universal appeal.

To be released on a State Right basis.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Eveline Roland.....Julia Dean
John Walton.....Edwin Arden
Louise Palmer .....Claire Whitney
Alexander Vernon.....Earl Schenck
Lew, the Butler.....Doan Borrup
Written and directed by Abraham S. Schomer.

SUGGESTIONS

Your title and cast are strong selling points on this feature. Without doubt the former is a good box office magnet and, prominently displayed, in both newspaper and billboard advertising, will attract attention that will count in dollars and cents. It lends itself well to display advertising. In red electrics it will stand out even more, and if the paper on this is designed with an idea of carrying the suggestion in the title into the illustrations it should be well worthy its price. (The paper and accessories have not yet been supplied.)

With the case of the cast the names of Edwin Arden and Julia Dean are well known both in stage and studio circles, while Claire Whitney has long been a picture favorite, and Earl Schenck has come to the public notice often of recent day by his many portrayals of the Crown Prince in war pictures.

AD TALK

As a special attraction for ——— of ———— week, the management of the ——— theatre will present "Ruling Passions," a photoplay written and directed by Abraham S. Schomer. This is a special length feature and is enacted by a notable cast, including Julia Dean, Edwin Arden, Claire Whitney, Earl Schenck and Doan Borrup, the first three well known stars of the screen, the latter two fast coming into prominence through their consistently good work in photoplays of promience.

"Ruling Passions" takes up the story of John Walton, a millionaire, who for some reason entertains a perpetual grouch against the world in general. As a result of this he suffers a nervous breakdown, and after a number of nurses have successively left him, unable to stand his violent temper, one Eveline Roland appears and takes his case in hand. In order to fully acquaint herself with the details of the situation and so be of some use to the raving man she determines to learn the why and wherefore of his condition, and so gets his butler, who has been long in his service, to tell her the story.

Thus is the body of the photoplay unfolded. The strange story of the manner in which John Walton became embittered against the world makes a drama of high sustaining force as unfolded by the guiding hand of Mr. Schomer and his associates in the acting before the camera. There is not a situation that is not developed with the greatest attention to detail, realism and, above all, to sure dramatic effect, and as a result "Ruling Passions" stands as one of the best stories of domestic life ever unfolded on the screen. The principals act with rare skill and much of the production's strength is due their untiring efforts.

THE STORY

Because John Walton, wealthy New York banker and broker, is embittered against the world he suffers a nervous breakdown. One after one the nurses hired to tend him in his illness leave him, unable to stand his violent temper. At last Eveline Roland, a nurse of culture and refinement, is brought to his bedside. She alone is able to calm him and, in order to learn more regarding his case, she questions his butler.

It appears that, two years before, Walton had befriended an old schoolmate, Alexander Vernon, and had eventually made him partner in his firm. Vernon had become the idol of the fair sex and was lionized by society. Walton had loved Louise Palmer, a country school teacher, but she had returned no love for him. But when Walton saved her brother from prison, he having committed a forgery, Louise felt that she owed him her hand if not her love. However, she met Vernon and fell in love with him, and when Walton discovered them one day embracing one another a violent scene had taken place. The business partnership had been dissolved and Vernon had departed with Louise as his wife.

As a result of all this Walton had become a slave to the passions of Hate and Revenge. Eveline is even more tender toward the soured millionaire on learning his story and tries her best to soothe him. Eventually she brings Vernon, Louise and their child back to the Walton home and succeeds in banishing the poisonous passions from Walton's mind, replacing them with Love and Mercy. Later Walton discovers that Eveline has become more than a nurse to him and they are married, while the old firm of Walton and Vernon is established once again.

CATCH LINES

Hate and Revenge were the Ruling Passions in John Walton's heart until Eveline Roland sought and succeeded to displace them with Love and Mercy.

A superb photodrama, enacted by an all-star cast, including Edwin Arden, Julia Dean, Claire Whitney and Earl Schenck.

In jest, John Walton asks his good-looking partner, Vernon, to keep away from his betrothed—but the jestingly anticipated happens. Walton's fiancee falls in love with Vernon, and as a result the deserted man becomes embittered against the world until Eveline comes into his life. The manner in which he is taught the way out forms a gripping photoplay.

The Ruling Passions in John Walton's heart were Hate and Revenge, and as a consequence he lost every man and woman he had called a friend. See his faith restored in Abraham Schomer's graphic photoplay, "Ruling Passions."

The cast is headed by Julia Dean and Edwin Arden, skilled and well-known players, while Claire Whitney and Earl Schenck are seen in roles of next importance.

A picture of special length, of special merit and enacted by a special cast.

FILE IT!

The Complete Plan Book is Always Bound Separately in MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

By Lifting the Staples Under the Back Cover You Can File the Complete Plan Book from Week to Week.

Edwin Arden and Julia Dean in Scene from Production

"THE LURE OF LUXURY"—BLUEBIRD

Good Acting Goes a Long Way in This Feature

THIS picture was reviewed in advance reviews in issue of Sept. 28, on page 2093, under the title of "Love of Luxury." It is an average program offering, the intelligent acting of the star saving it. The plot is rather weak.

The story deals with a young girl, just out of a seminary, who falls in love with the first young man she ever met, a farmer. Later an older man, wealthy and refined, attempts to win her for himself. In the end, remembering that he has lost his girl in a similar way when he was young, gives up the effort.

When the older man is introduced, you can hardly tell whether he is intended for a villain or a hero. You cannot define what he is. He is a puzzle.

Miss Clifford is given an opportunity to display her emotional powers. She acquits herself.—Released Oct. 7.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Dale Aldis.....Ruth Clifford
John Coventry.....Edwin Hearn
Phillip Leswing.....Harry V. Meter
————.....Elizabeth James
————.....Janet Sully

Story by Nalbro Bartley.
Scenario by Fred Myton.
Directed by Elsie Jane Wilson.

THE STORY

Dale Aldis, daughter of Mizra Aldis, a woman of English parentage, who resides in one of the most exclusive sections of the town of Amherst, returns home after finishing her studies in a convent. Both her mother and the servants in the family affect a lofty air before the other village folk in respective positions, and the Aldis home in "World's End" is, as a consequence, looked down upon by the rest of the people. It is a dreary and unpopular place.

One day Dale meets John Coventry, son of the village no-account and drunkard. She falls in love with him despite his position. Dale does not adhere to the standards of snobbery adopted by her mother. Then there appears Phillip Leswing, the family's attorney, who has had charge of the estate since the death of Lord Aldis. He falls in love with Dale and lays siege to her heart and hand. He succeeds in persuading Dale to give up John, whom she has promised to marry, and become his wife.

When Dale imparts this information to John he becomes despondent and starts drinking heavily. It is not until then that Dale realizes how much she means to him, and once more she announces her intentions to marry him. Leswing, his love for Dale so sincere, decides that it is all for the best and readily but sorrowfully relinquishes all hold on the girl. With Dale's love returned to him John straightens up and with the marriage of these two all ends happily.

AD TALK

On ———— of ———— week, "The Lure of Luxury," an unusual photoplay bearing the Bluebird trade-mark, will hold the screen at the ———— theatre. This production is one of the most lavish that has come from the Bluebird studios in California, and in the featured role is the pretty favorite, Ruth Clifford. The story of this picture was written by Nalbro Bartley, the continuity was prepared by Fred Myton, one of the ablest scenarioists in the art, while the direction was in charge of Elsie Jane Wilson, one of the few women directors who have risen to prominence in the business of picture production. "The Lure of Luxury" embraced the type of story which Miss Wilson is specially qualified to handle. It deals in a large part with the emotions of a young woman, fresh from a convent, and how she feels when she emerges into the great world after leading a life of practical seclusion.

Miss Wilson has pictured with infinite care and great attention to detail the character study of this girl, Dale Aldis. To be sure, she was aided in no small measure by Miss Clifford, who essays this role, but it is a fact that cannot be denied that Miss Wilson, being a woman, has caused Miss Clifford to create a character more realistic than few men directors could have done. The story concerns this young woman from the convent, John Coventry, the first man she meets, and Phillip Leswing, an older and wiser man.

How the destinies of these three intimately concern one another and how finally the drama reaches its happy ending after a series of intensely human and dramatic episodes have been evolved, makes an entertainment well worth your while. Edward Hearn and Harry V. Meter are seen at the head of the star's supporting cast.

CATCH LINES

Dale Aldis thought to sacrifice Love on the altar of Luxury, but Experience intervened in time to save her from such a fate.

The story of a girl who was reared in a world of women and who didn't recognize Love when at last it came to her.

Dale Aldis had two suitors, one a country boy with nothing to offer but youth, another a middle-aged man with money. She loved the former's priceless possessions but envied the latter his gold, and both wished to marry her.

Ruth Clifford, the dainty Bluebird favorite, in a romantic drama produced under the direction of Elsie Jane Wilson.

The romance of the daughter of the most exclusive family in Amherst with the son of the village drunkard.

Dale Aldis thought to heed the Lure of Luxury instead of the Call of True Love. See how she was saved from sacrificing herself on the altar of Gold.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—There are two one-sheets, one of which is an attractive portrait of Ruth Clifford; two three-sheets and two six-sheets on this production. All paper is printed in the style of past Bluebird subjects. The colors are attractive, the lettering striking, and the selected scenes most suitable for this type of reproduction.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—There are a selection of scene and star stills in the usual standard sizes suitable for framing in an attractive lobby display. A title card goes with each set of stills.

ADVERTISING LAYOUTS:—Scene cuts are provided on this production in one and two-column sizes. These can be used in either the text or advertising columns of the newspaper. There are also stock star cuts of Miss Clifford in an attractive pose.

SLIDES, MUSIC CUT SHEET, WINDOW CARDS and PRESS SHEET are among the other accessories supplied on this production, as on all Bluebird offerings.

SUGGESTIONS

As with the majority of Bluebird and Universal features, the producers have taken great care to select a good box-office title for this production. In passing it is worth while to recall these titles. This company certainly hands the exhibitor a lot along this line, a lot that shouldn't be neglected. "The Lure of Luxury," besides being alliterative, has a catchy sound and is calculated to arouse the interest, which in all probability it will do. Don't forget the title, for while Miss Clifford is one of the better known stars, these business-pulling titles have been selected for your benefit and should be made use of.

In newspaper advertisements and in the display on your theatre play it up prominently and you will be sure to draw the attention of the passer-by, even though he is a stranger in your vicinity.

REPRINTS

ARRANGEMENTS Have Been Completed by Which Motion Picture News will Be Able to Furnish Reprints of pages in The Complete Plan Book to Manufacturers at Actual Cost.

They Make a Most Valuable Aid to Every Exhibitor Booking Your Picture.

The Supreme Test—
Buy Liberty Bonds and Help
Your Government
Back up the Boys Abroad

Stock Star Cut of Miss Clifford Supplied at Exchanges

"THE RETURN OF MARY"—METRO

Without the Subtitles There Would Be No Picture

THE quality of this program offering doesn't exceed the average. There is hardly any physical movement, or action of plot in it, the unfolding of the story being accomplished mostly through dialogue. In nearly half of the picture, the explanation of the story can be effected by the subtitles alone, without the aid of the scenes.

Pictures which depend mainly on talk, expressed through the medium of subtitles, are naturally slow. They can hardly hold the interest. It is an exception, however, when such talk represents an address or a narration carrying dramatic appeal, or is expressed in the form of humorous or witty expressions. The subtitles in this attraction possess very little dramatic power and no comedy.

As far as the direction is concerned, no fault can be found. It is the plot that is rather weak. The kidnaping of a child forms its basis.

The picture is clean.—Released Sept. 29.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Mary.....May Allison
John Denby, Sr.....Clarence Burton
Mrs. John Denby, Sr.....Claire McDowell
"Jack" Denby.....Darrell Foss
John Graham.....Frank Brownlee
Clark, the Denby's butler.....Joseph Belmont
Play by Hale Hamilton.
Scenario by George D. Baker.
Directed by Wilfred Lucas.
Photographed by William E. Fildew.

CATCH LINES

May Allison, Metro's beautiful young star, in a pretty drama that contains real heart-interest.

Adapted from Hale Hamilton's well-known play of the same name.

John Graham, engineer, was charged with the crime of causing the railroad wreck because he rounded a curve at high speed. In reality he was running under orders from headquarters—but even so he was convicted and sent to prison. He planned a revenge on the man responsible, but love intervened and brought about a happy ending.

May Allison, one of the fairest daughters of the South, in a drama that will make your heart warm.

Jack Denby awoke one day to the realization that he was in love with his own sister—kindly Fate intervened to prove there was no blood relationship between the two.

May Allison in her latest and best Metro picture based on the play by Hale Hamilton.

AD TALK

May Allison, the dainty Metro favorite, in a picture version of Hale Hamilton's drama, "The Return of Mary," will be the featured attraction at the ———— theatre beginning ———— of ———— week. This picture opens with the kidnapping of little Mary Denby, daughter of a railroad president by a fireman who had been discharged from the road's employ. After the passing of seventeen years we find Mr. and Mrs. Denby still living in the hope that their daughter will be returned to them.

How a girl named Mary is introduced into the household and seemingly proven the Denby's daughter, her romance with Jack, the son of the house, and the final clearing up of the situation which points to the fact that Mary and Jack are not kin, makes a tale fraught with unusual interest from start to finish. Miss Allison is seen at her very best as the girl, and Miss Allison's best is, indeed, something definitely superlative. Her support includes Darrell Foss, a popular leading man; Clarence Burton, Claire McDowell, Frank Brownlee and Joseph Belmont.

The picture has been attractively staged by Director Wilfred Lucas. The scenes are varied, prettily set and quite ideally photographed and form a background of beauty for the story. Mr. Hamilton's original drama, under the same title, achieved a distinct success on the speaking stage. It has been carefully adapted for screen presentation by George D. Baker, manager of production at the Metro studios.

Other pictures on the bill have been carefully selected by the management and include .....

THE STORY

Mary, the baby daughter of John Denby, president of the Great Eastern Railroad, is kidnapped. All search for her proves vain, and the years slowly pass until the world is seventeen the older. At this time there is a big wreck on the road owing to the fact that John Graham, the engineer, undertook to round a curve at high speed. Denby insists that he go to jail, but his wife and son, Jack, plead for clemency, due to the man's fine record in the past. One night an old man brings a girl named Mary to the Denby household, and gives proof that convinces the family that she is the long lost child. Graham starts to serve a five-year sentence for criminal negligence.

Jack grows to admire Mary greatly, and his love for her is more than merely platonic. He finishes his studies in college and then takes up the case of Graham. It is through his efforts that a pardon for the engineer is secured. Denby, Sr., dislikes this, but all thought of the proceedings passes from his mind, when Mary, on hearing Graham discussed, informs them that he is the man who has been father to her for the greater part of her life.

Graham is brought to the house and asked to explain. He tells the story of Mary's disappearance. She was kidnapped by a disgruntled fireman of the road, but died shortly afterward. Mary, the present Mary, is in reality his own daughter. She does not know what to do, whether to go with her father or remain with her new friends, but naturally Jack solves all these difficulties, while to make the ending happier, Graham is reinstated in a much more important position.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—Colored posters include two styles of one, two, three and six sheets, with star prominently displayed in either portrait or scenes.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—The usual lobby display provided on all Metro releases may be obtained on this subject. Photos are 8 x 10 in sepia; 11 x 14 in sepia and 22 x 28 of star. Title and synopsis cards are supplied to complete this display.

ADVERTISING CUTS AND MATS:—One and two-column star cuts procurable at Metro exchanges.

SLIDES, MUSIC CUE SHEET.

SUGGESTIONS

This is an old-fashioned heart-interest picture which forgets all about the war. Its advertising possibilities offer nothing unusual. May Allison is the star, and is deserving of featured prominence. The fact that the picture is based on a play by Hale Hamilton might lend the subject additional weight in some sections where this man's name is known. It could be advertised as "a picture of railroad life, both in the engine cab and in the president's office." This might serve to create more interest. Or a line reading: "Who is responsible for the railroad wreck, the man at the wheel or the man in the office," might awaken interest if displayed prominently over the body of the advertisement.

BUY BONDS

ALL IN ONE SPOT!

No More Does the Exhibitor Have to Spend Weary Hours Looking Up the Information He Needs on a Coming Attraction.

No More Does He Spend Fifteen Minutes Looking For the Review, Another Fifteen Seeking the Ad-Talk, and More Time to Find What Advertising Accessories Are Supplied.

It's All in One Spot Now—in The Complete Plan Book.

MAY ALLISON
Stock Star Cut Supplied by Metro

"HOBBS IN A HURRY"—AMERICAN

Here's One That's Above the Average; Full of Entertainment

THIS picture is a little above the average. Its entertaining qualities chiefly are physical action, a little comedy and some dare-devil stunts, of the cowboy style, performed by the star, attired, in the first half of the picture, in a regular dress suit. Towards the end he becomes a real cowboy.

The hero is introduced as the son of a Wall Street magnate, who is sent by his father to buy back some mining property he had once sold as worthless, but is later informed that it is rich in Tungsten values.

The hero is shown as riding over a fast passenger train and performing several tricks that are really dangerous.

The picture is clean. Released Oct. 6.—Available at Pathe Exchange.—Length, 6 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

J. Warren Hobbs, Junior.....William Russell
J. Warren Hobbs, Senior.....Henry Barrows
Helen Renshaw.....Winifred Westover
Rufus Renshaw.....Richard Morris
Lord Willoughby.....Hayward Mack
Louis Willoughby.....Hayward Mack
Angus MacDonald.....Carl Stockdale
Story by George Lee McCandless.
Scenario by Stephen Fox.
Directed by Henry King.

CATCH LINES

The story of a young American who traveled such a fast pace that he forgot to sleep.

William Russell, the American favorite, in a comedy-drama of love and business.

How often have you seen a musical comedy that you felt like sweeping off the stage with one fell swoop—that's what happened to a bum show in "Hobbs in a Hurry" and then the riot started.

The fascinating story of a young man who won out in love and business though confronted by tremendous odds.

J. Warren Hobbs hired a professional bad man to keep people away from a mine he wanted to purchase. The trouble happened when the professional bad man thought he'd become one in reality.

Lord Willoughby and Louis Willoughby were twins, Louis was good and the Lord was bad. Louis owned a mine, the Lord dressed up in his clothes and sold it for a large sum. Louis sold it to someone else. The Lord got caught in his shady business and Louis—Louis—Lord, see it for yourself at ——— theatre, it's too funny to write about.

William Russell in his latest and best American production.

AD TALK

The swift movement, ingenious character and excellent comedy values apparent in the later William Russell pictures have given this actor a big boost toward lasting fame. His favorites increase in numbers by the day. Patrons of the ——— theatre even now will recollect the fine showing Mr. Russell made in "Up Romance Road" and other pictures but it may safely be said that he has never appeared in a more pleasing production than "Hobbs in a Hurry," a picture based on a story by George Lee McCandless which will be shown at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

"Hobbs in a Hurry" is a comedy-drama of finance, romance and sufficient villainy to provide the ever valuable element of suspense. It tells of the manner in which business rivals seek to buy the same mine and its complications are some of the most exciting and amusing ever reflected upon the screen. It is futile to go into the details of the story here for no idea could be given of the merit of the production from a mere outline of the plot. It is one of those pictures that must be seen to be appreciated and having seen it already the management of the ——— theatre suffers no hesitancy in announcing its hearty appreciation of the production.

Mr. Russell is seen to excellent advantage as Hobbs, a typical, aggressive young business man, dauntless and unafraid. The supporting cast is particularly good, including as it does Winifred Westover, Henry Barrows, Hayward Mack in a dual role, Richard Morris and Carl Stockdale. Don't fail to miss "Hobbs in a Hurry" during its run. It is one of the most wholesome and amusing and at the same time exhilarating features we have shown.

THE STORY

J. Warren Hobbs, broker, looks with covetous eyes on a tungsten mine owned by Louis Willoughby and commissions his son, J. Warren Hobbs, Jr., to go West and purchase it. At the same time Rufus Renshaw, father of Hobbs' fiancee, Helen, decides to purchase the mine acting on the suggestion of Lord Willoughby, the owner's twin brother. Hobbs Sr. to make things sure for his son has hired Angus MacDonald, a professional bad man to keep all strangers away from the mine until the transaction has been completed.

And so the scene shifts to the West and here things begin to happen fast and furious. Lord Willoughby enters ardent suit for Helen's hand, but finding his attentions undesired he turns villain. Shaving off his moustache he dresses as his brother and succeeds in selling the mine to Renshaw. He pockets the money and makes off for the Renshaw private car there to get his things. While this goes on, however, Hobbs is buying the mine from the real owner.

In the car when the party is about to depart the two purchases are discussed and Hobbs is mystified. However, he soon gets on Lord Willoughby's trail and straightens this out. Then he gets word from his father that the mine is worthless after all. Here Hobbs' ingenuity asserts itself and he sells the mine back to Renshaw when he is promised Helen's hand. Hobbs and Helen remove themselves from Renshaw's private car fearful of the storm that will break when the tricked man discovers that the mine is no good. And while they wait for Hobbs' car the young man who has been constantly on the go since leaving the city leans forward to kiss Helen but falls asleep on her shoulder.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—One one-sheet; one three-sheet; one six-sheet. There is a one-sheet of Russell while others contain scenes giving good idea of light character of production.
LOBBY DISPLAY:—Eight 11 x 14 photos; one 22 x 28 of star; one 22 x 28 of scene. All are scenes suggesting light character of production. Title card is also furnished.
SUGGESTIONS FOR DISPLAY ADVERTISING:—Include one-one column; one two-column and one three-column cut.
SLIDES, MUSIC CUE.

SUGGESTIONS

This is the type of production that has made the Saturday Evening Post famous. A fast comedy of business and romance and it deserves to be featured, as much for the story as for the star, William Russell. Russell is becoming more popular day by day and in some localities rivals and offsets stars of much bigger reputation. Get the most out of his reputation and his ability as an actor, before whom stunts appear as mere incidents in a day's work.

The production deserves to rank alongside of such comedy-dramas as the Skinner series and the Taylor Holmes comedies. It appears that this type of picture is growing more popular every day. Play it up big as a comedy-drama and dress the rest of the bill accordingly.

BUY BONDS
AND KEEP THEM

FULL SERVICE ON ONE PAGE

THE complete plan book is the ultimate in service to the exhibitor.

Service was inaugurated when the First review on a motion picture was printed.

Later advertising suggestions and various aids were printed.

These suggestions and aids, elaborated upon and combined with the review on one page form a compact, valuable service that no showman who cares to get the most from his purchase should overlook.

It is the aim in these pages to help the exhibitor—

Not to show him.

This help is put before you in the best possible style that we know of——

And all in the same place.

Star Cut Supplied at Pathe Exchanges

"MANTLE OF CHARITY"—AMERICAN

A Good Farce That Is Clean and Should Please Everyone

THIS picture was reviewed extensively in the advance section of issue Oct. 5, on page 2243. It is a light comedy drama, of the farce type, produced along the lines that are in demand now-a-days.

The basic idea of the story is an innocent deception, accomplished through the medium of a pet dog, dressed as a baby. The heroine fools the hero. He does not become aware of the fact until towards the close. In the end, they become engaged.

Of course the story was not constructed with the idea of making one believe it, but with the object of entertaining.

The climax is very amusing. It will undoubtedly cause roars of laughter. It shows a woman, whom the hero and the heroine are trying to help, get behind the hero and strike him on the head with the poker, when she sees that her husband is in danger of getting the worst of it. It makes no difference that he is a worthless human being, and that he had mistreated her right along. He is her husband after all.

This attraction is clean and should please everybody.

Released by the Pathe Film Exchange.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Norah McDonald.....Margarita Fisher
Paul Howell.....Jack Mower
Judge Kerr.....Dan Gilfeather
Anna Houlahan.....Louella Maxam
Tom Houlahan.....Gordon Russell
Mrs. Malone.....Kate Price
Scenario and Direction by Edward Sloman.

THE STORY

Norah McDonald doesn't like the idea of turning her pet dog over to the tender mercies of the baggage man when she travels and as a result she dresses the pup up in baby's clothes and makes her way to her compartment with the bundle in her arms. Paul Howell, millionaire and philanthropist also claims the compartment but he immediately gives way when he sees a woman with a baby. He becomes acquainted with Norah on the trip and opines that she is rather young to be married. Norah replies that she never was married and furthermore has no immediate intention of taking the fatal step. Paul is righteously shocked.

At the terminal, Norah is met by her guardian. Paul is of the opinion that he is the scoundrel that caused her downfall. He offers her a position in his settlement and Norah accepts, only to discover that his system of helping the poor is all wrong owing to the overwhelming amount of red tape that is involved in dealing with every case. When the case of Anna Houlahan, a starving mother, owing to the bibulousness of her husband, is brought up before the settlement, Norah takes matters into her own hands, working on the principle, "help first and investigate afterwards." For this, Paul discharges her.

Across the way Norah sets up her own settlement and works things out on her own idea. Little by little Paul comes to see the error of his ways in the management of things and sees that Norah has the right idea. Norah finally suggests to Paul that the right way to adjust the Houlahan case is to teach the male member of the family how to work. Paul invites Norah to come and watch the "teaching" and he sets out to administer a sound thrashing to the laggard. He is getting the worst of things with Mrs. Houlahan's interference but Norah intercedes and saves the day. Houlahan is cured and Paul combines forces with Norah. Not until then does he learn the true identity of the "baby" and so nothing stands between the lovers.

AD TALK

A delightful little comedy-drama will be presented at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week when Margarita Fisher appears in "The Mantle of Charity," her latest production for the American Film company. This story revolves around a misunderstanding and a very funny one. Norah McDonald, a wealthy young woman, objects putting her dog in the charge of the king of the baggage car while traveling and so dresses the pet up as a baby and seeks her compartment in the Pullman. Paul Howell, a millionaire and social worker, also claims the compartment but willingly waves all claims when the girl appears with "a baby in her arms." In the course of their conversation Paul remarks that Norah is rather young to be married. And Norah innocently replies that she is not married nor has she ever thought of taking the vows.

Paul at this is shocked to the extreme and believes Norah a wronged woman. The scene then shifts to the city where Norah has accepted a position as Paul's secretary in his settlement work. She soon discovers that there is far too much red tape in the handling of his cases and so she parts company from him and establishes a settlement of her own. How she finally brings Paul to a realization of the mediocrity of his system and how the matter of "the baby" is finally cleared up brings this charming photoplay to a humorous conclusion.

Miss Fisher has appeared in many comedies recently but it is safe to say that none of them contains the genuine humor and homely touches apparent through the five reels of "The Mantle of Charity." The picture has been excellently produced by Edward Sloman, while as in her previous pictures Jack Mower appears as leading man. This production will be shown at the ——— theatre ——— and don't miss it, for by so doing you will miss many a good laugh.

CATCH LINES

Margarita Fisher in her latest American comedy.

He thought her dog was a baby and as a consequence thought her an abused woman when she told him she wasn't married—this is only the beginning of the fun in Margarita Fisher's latest comedy, "The Mantle of Charity."

Comedies are all too scarce these days of war pictures and spy melodramas. Come around to the ——— theatre and have all the laughs you crave by watching Margarita Fisher in "The Mantle of Charity."

Margarita Fisher in her latest and best American comedy—a picture that starts with a laugh and ends with a roar.

One of the most pleasing productions from the comedy viewpoint—and that is the major viewpoint these days—that the ——— theatre has ever presented on its screen.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—One one-sheet, one three-sheet, one six-sheet. One-sheet contains attractive scene of Miss Fisher and opposite lead. Three-sheet contains light scene giving good idea of humorous nature of picture. Six-sheet contains scene of melodramatic character.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—Eight 11 x 14 photos and title card; all are good scenes suggesting light character of production. One 22 x 28 of scene; one 22 x 28 of star.

SUGGESTIONS FOR DISPLAY ADVERTISING INCLUDE:—One three-column, one two-column and one one-column.

SLIDES AND MUSIC CUE.

SUGGESTIONS

Don't forget in advertising this feature that Margarita Fisher has made a big name for herself in the comedy line. Her past releases have generally been meritorious works built to get the laughs—and they have gotten them. "The Mantle of Charity"—despite its title, which implies anything but comedy—is another one of these humorous numbers that the exhibitor can go the limit on in advertising. A light entertainment is worth much these days so don't fail to feature the production for what it is.

Recall Miss Fisher's success in her last release, "Money Isn't Everything," which placed her in even greater popularity and advertise her as the star that believes in making happier the sadder hours of the present day. To boost this line of comedies that the American company is offering is certainly doing yourself a service as well as establishing a line of goods that the public will eventually clamor for, even if they are not doing it already.

Newspaper Star Cut Supplied by the Distributors

FOR THE GOOD OF THE CAUSE

In the prosecution of the war, we accept and heartily concur in the subjoined schedule prepared by the War Industries Board.

WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD

Conservation Division,
Washington, September 17, 1918.

SCHEDULE FOR THE MANUFACTURERS OF MOTION PICTURE MACHINES:

1. The purchase of new lenses to be restricted from this date to 4 inches, 5 inches, and 6 inches focal lengths, and 16 inches, 20 inches, and 24 inches stereo. There is no restriction in dealing in second-hand lenses of any size.
2. After September 20, 1918, the following accessories to be furnished to purchasers only upon request as extras:
   - (a) Rheostat
   - (b) Rewinders
   - (c) Reels
3. Each manufacturer to reduce the weight of his machines as much as is practicable and to advise this Division immediately of the amount of this reduction.
4. Each manufacturer to substitute some less essential material for brass, aluminum and steel insofar as possible, and to advise this Division of the action taken.

CONSERVATION DIVISION,
War Industries Board.

235-50

We pledge ourselves to abide by its provisions in every particular

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY, INC.
Manufacturers of Power's Cameragraph
90 GOLD STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y.

PRECISION MACHINE CO., INC.
Manufacturers of Simplex Projectors
317 EAST 34TH STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y.

ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. CO.
Manufacturers of Motiograph Projectors
564-572 WEST RANDOLPH STREET, CHICAGO, ILLS.

VICTOR ANIMATOGRAPH COMPANY
Manufacturers of Victor Projectors
DAVENPORT, IOWA

THE WILLIAMS PRINTING COMPANY, NEW YORK

THE WEST COAST

Communications Pertaining to "West Coast" Section Should Be Sent to Our
LOS ANGELES REPRESENTATIVE Telephone Pico 280, F 4661 429 SO. FIGUEROA STREET

Ince Uses Public in Scene at San Diego

AT SAN DIEGO, CAL., on Sunday afternoon, September 22, Thomas H. Ince, the well-known west coast producer, carried through successfully a plan which was an innovation in motion picture making.

With the co-operation of two of the San Diego daily papers, the Union and the Tribune, wide publicity had been given the plan for a period of ten days, setting forth the fact that a monster gathering of men, women and children who have men in the service in the present war would be held at Balboa Park, and that motion pictures were to be made, to be shown later in ever "Y" and K. C. hut in France, as well as in every training camp in America.

The result was the assembling of some thirty thousand people in the park, about the grounds formerly used by the San Diego exposition and now occupied by the navy training station. Near the mammoth out-door organ Mr. Ince had his elevated platform, from which his camera-men shot the scenes while he enthusiastically directed the movement of the great crowds, with the aid of detachments of sailors under command of Lieutenant Commander Wallace.

For more than two hours the line of people was kept moving down one of the paved thoroughfares, directly towards the cameras, with Mr. Ince calling for "action" all the while. "Smile, smile, smile," he called through his megaphone. "Throw a kiss to your boys, and look directly at the camera," was his injunction, and they did it, old fathers and mothers, with tears in their eyes, possibly, but sending their greetings with the others to the boys "over there." Babies were held aloft that their daddies might see them. It was a continual display of the human emotions, and the film is bound to prove a popular one when projected before the fighting men of the country.

It is probable that the plan will be followed in other cities in the near future.

Alhambra Theatre Substitutes Fotoplayer for Orchestra

IN marked contrast with the announced policy of several large San Francisco motion picture houses to enlarge their orchestras, the Alhambra Theatre has eliminated all musicians and installed a de luxe style number 50 Fotoplayer.

This action was taken by manager Frank L. Browne in anticipation of the new draft and with an aim to conserve man power. The new organ was supplied by the American Photoplayer Company of San Francisco.

Clemmer Gets Peach Pits for Government

"BE at the Clemmer theatre any time between 11 a. m. and 6 p. m. Friday with a pint of peach pits thoroughly washed and dried. These plus the war tax, will be as good as a ticket." Such an invitation, extended through the press by Dr. Howard S. Clemmer, premier picture showman of Spokane, Wash./ brought 3,000 youngsters and adults with a similar poundage of peach pits for the Red Cross to the Clemmer theatre last week. The congregation so blocked traffic that it was necessary to call out the police to help maintain order. The pits gathered are sufficient to make carbon for 750 gas masks, enough for three full companies of infantry. The number collected is estimated at 150,000. Free admission was given for each pint, or 50 pits. The Clemmer management is the first in the West to hold a peach pit matinee. Their anticipations were far exceeded by the outpouring of peach pits. Seven barrels had been placed at the curb in front of the theatre, but these were filled early in the afternoon. Dry goods cases and crates were secured hurriedly but before they were put in place, the vestibule was piled high with pits. When the rush ended at 6 o'clock, after which no more pits were accepted, the harvest was seven barrels, four dry goods cases and two crates filled to overflowing. In addition to the pits that were carried to the theatre by youngsters numerous shipments were received by mail and express, just to help the cause along. The Clemmer peach pits were turned over to the Spokane chapter of the Red Cross for forwarding to the government mask department.

San Francisco to Have Made-at-Home Feature Film Production

THE LIBERTY FEATURE FILMS COMPANY, producers of the first made-in-San Francisco motion picture, "The American," has announced its plans for a second patriotic feature of ten reels, entitled, "Don't Bite the Hand that Feeds You."

Stars for the leading roles will be brought from Los Angeles, according to the announcement of the film company, and the extras, of whom it is proposed to use a great number, will be selected locally. All exterior scenes will be taken in San Francisco and San Rafael, California. Interiors will be made either at San Rafael or in Southern California studios.

Harold E. Wallace will direct the new production. Florian Fischer is the business manager. The Liberty Feature Films Company is financed by San Francisco men.

THE WEST COAST

Kennedy Books Liberty Films on Coast

L. E. KENNEDY, former manager of the Pathe exchange, but now in the service at the Submarine base at the Los Angeles harbor, this week received special permission from his commanding officer to take charge of the booking of Government Liberty Loan pictures to be released in this territory during the Fourth Liberty Loan. He will be in uniform, and his selection for this important government work met with the general approval of all exchangemen on film row.

The committee co-operating with Mr. Kennedy is composed of Harry G. Ballance, of Paramount-Artcraft, chairman; A. B. Lamb, Metro; B. E. Loper, Select Pictures; Harry Lustig, special representative of Metro, and P. N. Brink, special representative of Hodkinson.

Thirty-five different subjects will be released, ranging in length from 300 to 1000 feet, featuring as many different stars. No theatre will be allowed to run one picture longer than one day, and no theatre will be allowed to exhibit more than one picture at a time.

"We are working for Uncle Sam," is the way Manager Ballance put it, "and these pictures were made to arouse interest in the Liberty Loan campaign, and not for the purpose of bringing business to the theatres. Therefore, we have planned for a 100 per cent booking, and we intend that this rule shall be lived up to.

"Mr. Kennedy will arrange all bookings, and the distribution will be made by the various exchanges."

Fire Burns Reels in Butte Theatre

THREE THOUSAND FEET of the feature production, "Hearts of the World" burned in Butte at the Broadway theatre on the evening September 18. It was the second day of the exhibition here and a packed house was in attendance. In fact the house was also sold out for the next day, which was to be the closing day, and Manager Levy had to refund the money. It is alleged that due to defective film it got caught and bunched up so that the strong light set it on fire. When the strings holding up the shutters on the fireproof booth broke the shutters came down with a crash. This caused some uneasiness among the spectators and there was a serious nervous tension for a moment. Men and women leaped to their feet and a few started to stampede. Promptly the lights were put on and the orchestra struck up the Star Spangled Banner, just after Mr. Levy had announced from the stage that there was no occasion for alarm as the building was fireproof and the booth would not permit the blaze to get any farther. Several women fainted. No one was hurt.

The usual "simp" was in the house and yelled "fire" which came within an ace of starting a serious crush.

The first three reels were burned so that showing of the bill that night was impossible. Presence of mind of one of the operators doubtless saved the entire film from going up in smoke. "Hearts of the World" will again be shown in Butte and it is certain to draw to capacity.

Service Film and Supply Sells Many Machines

ACCORDING to reports from Portland, Ore., the Service Film and Supply Company, 393 Oak street, Portland, Ore., has been entertaining more out-of-town buyers than usual recently, with the result that business has taken a decided jump upward.

Recent visitors to the company's offices on Film Row in Portland were J. B. Sparks, Condon, Ore.; M. Coble, Liberty Theatre, Bend, Ore.; B. P. Abbott, Baker, Ore.; Charles Hettum, Kalama, Ore., and others.

The Service Film and Supply Company installed three new machines in the Bligh and Liberty Theatres, Salem, Ore. Exhibitor Kuhn, of Lebanon, has brought a new machine, and E. C. Smith, of Dayton, has invested in two.

Gets Arrested to Advertise Picture

E. MARSHALL TAYLOR of the Orpheum theatre, Butte, Mont., ran into the strong arm of the law in Walkerville, a suburb of Butte, the other day when he went crashing through that town with posters and placards advertising the feature, "Crashing Through to Berlin." Here is the story. There is an ordinance in Walkerville requiring a license of any theatre to distribute handbills or placards in the little city. There is one theatre in the town and when he invaded the Hill city Taylor got onto foreign soil. Result: he crashed right into the police court. He was arrested for the violation of the said ordinance because he placed some of the advertising matter in the store windows and handed some out to individuals. The irrepressible Taylor says that since the picture was of such a patriotic nature such a small matter as a city ordinance should not be permitted to interfere in the advertising of it. "Just the same," he says, "'Crashing Through to Berlin' is going to have a big run at the Orpheum and Walkerville people will come to see it. They can't help it. I really figure the man who arrested me is going to try to get in."

All Star Gets "Natural Law" and "Hand of Vengeance."

SOL L. LESSER, All Star Features Distributors, Inc., San Francisco, has purchased the state rights for Arizona, California and Nevada to "The Natural Law," a seven reel version of the play by the same name. Marguerite Courtot, starred in "The Unbeliever," is featured in "The Natural Law."

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912, of "Motion Picture News," West Coast Edition, published weekly at New York, N. Y., for October 1, 1918.

State of New York
County of New York } ss.

Before me, a Notary Public, in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared E. Kendall Gillett, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C., who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Business Manager of Motion Picture News, Inc., which publishes "Motion Picture News," West Coast Edition, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in secton 443, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:

Publisher, Motion Picture News, Inc., 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Editor, Wm. A. Johnston, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Managing Editor, Robert E. Welch, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Business Manager, E. Kendall Gillett, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.

2. That the owners are: (Give names and addresses of individual owners, or, if a corporation, give its name and the names and addresses of stockholders owning or holding 1 per cent. or more of the total amount of stock.)

Motion Picture News, Inc., 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Wm. A. Johnston, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; E. Kendall Gillett, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Henry F. Sewall, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Percy S. Alden, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Wentworth Tucker, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.; Carl Tucker, 729 7th Ave., N. Y. C.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent. or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: (If there are none, so state.) None.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

5. That the average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date shown above is.....
(This information is required from daily publications only.)

E. KENDALL GILLETT,
Business Manager.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 23d day of September, 1918.
[SEAL] JAMES S. JUDD, Notary Public.
My commission expires March 30, 1920.

What Exchanges and Theatres Are Doing

"NICK" STEELE, who has been branch manager for the William L. Sherry service since the opening of that office in Los Angeles, has been appointed Pacific Coast district manager in place of William Alexander, who has resigned. Mr. Steele was formerly with Fox and Goldwyn, where he enjoyed unusual success as salesman and later as manager. Mr. Steele's first trip in his new capacity will be made to San Diego, and then he will go to San Francisco and Seattle.

E. K. LAMKON has been added to the sales force of the William L. Sherry service. He will begin calling on exhibitors immediately.

THE entire series of the Burlingham adventure scenics have been booked at the New California theatre, on Main street, which is scheduled to open in October.

CHARLES ALTHOUSE, of Globe, Ariz., called at the William L. Sherry offices this week and booked the entire Sherry service for his house at Globe.

SOL L. LESSER, of San Francisco, has been in Los Angeles a few days. A number of conferences have been held with D. W. Griffith relative to "Hearts of the World," and possible other Griffith subjects, he said. He will be here another week.

THE first releases of the six Select pictures, "The One Woman," from Thomas Dixon's famous book of the same name, starring Clara Williams, and "The Midnight Patrol," a Thomas H. Ince production, will be released in Los Angeles early in October, according to announcement this week at the Select offices.

TOM MIX, Fox Western star, will make a public appearance at the Kinema theatre when his new picture, "Mr. Logan, U. S. A.," is released soon at that house. This announcement was made by A. Walsh, branch manager of the Fox exchanges. The picture made a big hit at the Rialto theatre in San Francisco last week, acording to advices received in Los Angeles from the Northern City.

STEVE BROWN, a prominent exhibitor at Globe, Ariz., was a visitor in Los Angeles last Friday and Saturday.

THE WORLD FILM EXCHANGE this week announced that it has been selected to release "America's Answer" in Arizona. Already a number of bookings have been made, and the exchange expects to book the film solid before another week.

BEGINNING October 9, the World exchange will begin releasing first-run pictures to the Hippodrome theatre in Los Angeles and to the Hippodrome theatre in San Diego.

MERRILL AND HOWE, of Riverside, this week signed contracts with the Paramount-Artcraft exchange for the entire Paramount and Artcraft program for the next twelve months, according to Branch Manager Harry G. Ballance.

ANOTHER twelve-months' contract for Famous Players-Lasky productions was announced by Branch Manager Ballance with W. Marcus, of Santa Barbara. Mr. Marcus has arranged to handle the entire Paramount and Artcraft program in Santa Barbara for another year.

JOE BRANDT, assistant treasurer of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, will arrive in Los Angeles on September 28 from New York on a tour of all the Universal exchanges on the Pacific Coast. After a few days in Los Angeles he will go to San Francisco, thence to Seattle, Portland and other Northern Pacific Coast cities.

THE Y. M. C. A. war film "Around the Clock with the Rookie," a one-reel subject released by Universal, will be exhibited next week at the Kinema theatre. The film shows the life of a rookie in camp from the time he rises in the morning until taps are sounded at night. It was produced under the direct supervision of the Y. M. C. A. War Work Committee.

ANOTHER exchangeman who reported a successful visit this week to Arizona is R. G. Turner, of the Metro exchange. Mr. Turner reports unusual success in the booking of the patriotic subject "To Hell with the Kaiser." The Metro program, generally, he said, is receiving a welcome at the hands of the Arizona exhibitors.

GEORGE MAUK, proprietor of the Columbia theatre at Phoenix, was in Los Angeles this week lining up his program for the fall and winter months.

A. C. CAVENESS, owner of the Plaza theatre at Phoenix, was also a visitor to film row.

C. J. ALDEN, proprietor of the Dime theatre at Globe, Ariz., called on the Mutual exchange last Saturday and booked a number of subjects for his fall program.

J. LIGGETT, owner of the Airdome theatre at Douglas, Ariz., was also in Los Angeles. He called on a number of the exchanges and booked several pictures.

AL WINGHAM, Arizona salesman for Mutual, who returned to Los Angeles Saturday, said that business in Arizona this fall is better than in many seasons. He reported a number of new accounts for first-run pictures.

THE UNIVERSAL EXCHANGE this week concluded a contract with Grauman's theatre for the showing in that house, beginning September 30, of the Universal Animated Weekly. The contract was negotiated by Branch Manager David Bershon.

THE BLUEBIRD release "For Husbands Only," which had its first run in Los Angeles at the Kinema theatre, will be brought back to the Superba theatre this week.

A special review of Goldwyn releases of "The Turn of the Wheel," with Geraldine Farrar, and "Peck's Bad Girl," with Mabel Normand, was made last week at the Arlington theatre. These pictures are the first releases of the Goldwyn star series. A number of representative film people were present at the showing.

DUHEM
MOTION PICTURE MFG. CO.
Films Made to Order
EXPERT DEVELOPING, PRINTING AND COLORING
CAMERA OUT-FITS AND RAW FILM SUPPLIED

CAMERA MEN
SENT ANYWHERE

985 Market Street, San Francisco, California

Telephone: Hollywood 1200
GEORGE W. CHAPMAN CO.
Incorporated
EVERYTHING IN MOVING PICTURE PROPS.
Specialties: Miniature Sets and Plaster Breakaways
5155 Santa Monica Boulevard
Los Angeles, Cal.

SLIDES Title Cards and Film
L. A. SLIDE & FILM CO.
122 WEST THIRD ST., LOS ANGELES

THEATRE SETTINGS
We Have Installed Hundreds From $100 to $10,000 Each
BEST SCREENS, SCENERY
EDW. H. FLAGG SCENIC CO.
Largest in the World
Los Angeles San Francisco

WINFIELD-KERNER COMPANY
Established 1905
Manufacturers of Actinic Ray Arc Lamps for Motion Picture Producers and Photographers. Effect Lamps and equipment. Resistance and Magnet Coils made to order.
Phones: Pico 2646 A 2215
325-27 E. Sixth St., Los Angeles

JOE MERRICK, Pacific Coast supervisor of Mutual exchanges, with headquarters in Los Angeles, returned to the city Saturday, following a two months' tour of all the principal cities on the Pacific Coast. He says that Seattle in one year has increased its population by 60,000 people, and that Portland has gone ahead with an additional 40,000 people, with the result that the motion picture theatres in these cities are doing a land office business. A wonderful business was reported by him in all other cities lining the Coast, but the inland towns are not doing so well.

A particular feature that impressed him is the fact that the Japanese are acquiring much property in certain sections of Seattle, and a number of them are rebuilding old stores into theatres. He expects to be in Los Angeles about thirty days, when he will make another trip through the Pacific Coast territory.

MUTUAL EXCHANGES are reporting a tremendous demand for the new Sessue Hayakawa pictures, according to an announcement this week by Joe Merrick, Pacific Coast supervisor of Mutual.

BERNARD FISH, special salesman for Goldwyn, returned to Los Angeles Saturday from Arizona, where he reported the biggest business ever secured in that state by Goldwyn. He made contracts with a majority of the Arizona exhibitors to play the Goldwyn star series during the coming year.

BEN FISH, branch manager of the Goldwyn exchange, made a hurried trip to San Diego last Friday, where he secured contracts for the showing of the Goldwyn star series at the Superba theatre at San Diego and the Silver Strand theatre at Coronado Beach.

C. A. HOWE, proprietor of the Regent theatre at Riverside, was a visitor to film row this week and he signed a new contract for Goldwyn star series.

MORE than sixty-five new contracts for first-run pictures were made with leading exhibitors of Southern California and Arizona during the past three weeks by Goldwyn, according to announcement by Branch Manager Fish. The list inlcudes the Kinema theatre, Los Angeles; Strand, Pasadena; Quinn's Rialto, Los Angeles; Charles Gogg, Bakersfield; Hippodrome, Taft, Cal.; Superba, San Diego; Empress, Phoenix, and houses in scores of other towns and cities in this territory.

E. H. SILCOCKS, branch manager of the George Kleine System, resigned his position last Friday. It is understood that he will accept a position with another exchange, but no announcement to this effect was made by Mr. Silcocks. M. J. Cohen, branch manager of the San Francisco exchange, arrived in Los Angeles Saturday from Chicago, and he immediately took charge of the office until a successor to Mr. Silcocks has been named. Mr. Cohen expressed regret that Mr. Silcocks had resigned.

M. J. COHEN, branch manager of the San Francisco office of the George Kleine System, announced in Los Angeles this week that the patriotic film "Behind the Lines in Italy" is expected to get a big run on the Pacific Coast. He made a special trip to Chicago to make arrangements for the distribution of this subject in this territory.

H. M. LENTZ, formerly with the Select Pictures Corporation, was this week appointed manager of the United Picture Theatres of America exchange in Los Angeles. The appointment was made by Lee Ochs, vice-president of the corporation, on the eve of his departure for New York. Mr. Lentz has had much film experience and his friends predict for him much success in his new position. His headquarters will be maintained in the General Film offices.

Seattle Exchanges and Accessory Firms

L. J. SCHLAIFER ATTRACTIONS
2022 Third Avenue Seattle, Washington
Parentage-Ivan Productions—2 Reel Jester Comedies—2 Reel Hart Re-Issues
AND OTHER BOX OFFICE PICTURES

NOW BOOKING—NORTHWEST TERRITORY
"FALL OF BARBARY COAST"
OR "FINGER OF JUSTICE"
RAN FOUR CONSECUTIVE WEEKS AT REX, SEATTLE
G. M. SANDERSON, MANAGER, 2016 THIRD AVENUE, SEATTLE

Exhibitors Film Exchange
INCORPORATED
Member of First National Exhibitors Circuit
-- NOW BOOKING --
A DOG'S LIFE
MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY
TARZAN OF THE APES
PERSHING'S CRUSADERS
THE STILL ALARM
ITALY'S FLAMING FRONT
ETC,. ETC.
-- COMING! --
SHOULDER ARMS
(Second Chaplin Comedy)
ROMANCE OF TARZAN
ANITASTEWART SUPERFEATURES
1200 FOURTH AVE.
SEATTLE, WASH.
F. V. FISHER, Manager

GREATER FEATURES COMPANY
2020 Third Avenue
SEATTLE, WASHINGTON
Rep. Consolidated Film Corp. Showing
LITERARY DIGEST NEWS
CARTOONS—NEWMAN TRAVELS
JACK LANNON, OWNER

Lantern Slides
J. C. COREY SIGN CO.
3rd & University St., Seattle
Cutouts and Lobby Displays

GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM
Perfection Pictures
W. J. DRUMMOND
Branch Manager
2012 Third Avenue

What Seattle Exhibitors Say

FILLUM ROW was pleased to greet Julius Sax the other day when he came up from Portland, Ore., to say "Hello, boys," to the managers and the fellows in the offices with them. Mr. Sax has two sons serving Uncle Sam, Leone A. Sax, at Camp Fremont, and Moe Sax in the First Division at the Orleans base hospital. These two young men were operating the "Princess" before they joined Uncle Sam's fighting corps. While they are away, the oldest brother, Samuel A., will manage their affairs together with the father, Julius Sax.

GUY NAVARRE of the Paramount-Artcraft, who has returned from his vacation, says he will be able to sell twice as many reels as he did before, because of the mountain air that put the salesmanship stuff into him.

SAM COHEN, of the Liberty, was in town the other day. Among the other out-of-towners who registered on Film Row were Manager Peterson, who has houses in Granger and Zillah, Wash.; Frank Stannar of the Gem, Wenatchee; Fred Mercy, of Yakima, Wash.; L. L. Kenworthy, owner of the Vandette, Tacoma.

THERE has been a change in managership in the Seattle "Select" office during the past few days. H. B. Dobbs, former branch manager of the Select, has resigned to take the position as sales manager for the De Luxe Feature Film Company of Seattle. He will also handle "Barbary Coast" and some other pictures for himself. H. S. Hicks has been chosen to take the place of Mr. Dobbs. Mr. J. S. Woody, formerly Seattle salesman and manager in Seattle for "Select," but now holding a high position with the Select in New York, has returned to the biggest town on the Eastern Coast.

MANAGER EDEN, of the Fox Company, has left for a short business trip to Portland.

BILL CODE, manager of the big theatre in Nome, Alaska, was on the Row a few days ago, saying that things could be better up there, but he thought it was a good thing to keep things straight and looking business-like anyway, so he bought a new Minusa screen anyway.

EVERYTHING has been slow in Alaska this year, except the rivers that block up all ways of communication. However, a letter was recently received from Dick Thorne, Fairbanks, Alaska, that after a great deal of trouble he finally received his shipments.

C. M. THALL, one of the owners of the "Liberty theatre," Camp Lewis, Wash., has been made office manager for the De Luxe Feature Film Company, of Seattle and Portland.

FRIENDS of Manager Hill, of the Goldwyn Company in Seattle, are glad to see that Mr. Hill is back in his office after being laid up for a short time with a sprained ankle.

GEORGE RING, proprietor of the "Society," the largest suburban theatre in Seattle, has left for Camp Lewis, where he will train to "ring in" the Kaiser with a Western lasso.

In and Around Denver

IN extenuation of the national prayer movement and a recent proclamation of the Mayor of Denver calling upon all citizens to cease from their various labors for one minute each day at noon and invoke God's blessing upon the Allied cause, the Empress theatre of Denver now flashes a prayer on the screen at the beginning of every performance. The moment it appears on the screen the audience arises and stands in silent prayer for the success of American and Allied arms in the field and ships at sea.

THE MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION has arranged for release through the Denver office the entire product of the Affiliated Distributors in this territory. The Affiliated Distributors are to be represented in territory covered out of Denver and Salt Lake by The Exhibitors Booking Association of Salt Lake City and San Francisco. Mr. L. S. Stallings, of Salt Lake, is in charge of the business and has been in Denver several days during the past week in conference with Manager H. D. Cassidy, of the local Mutual exchange, arranging details. The first release, which is their big special, is entitled, "Lafayette, We Come, or Pershing—17." It will be released about October 5.

THE DENVER FILM EXCHANGE BOARD OF TRADE, through all its members, has co-operated 100 per cent in launching the advance publicity in connection with the Fourth Liberty Loan drive. The exchanges through the board of trade have perfected a plan for the distribution of all Liberty Loan prints, and in all there will be 104 prints distributed through the activities of the various exchanges represented in the board of trade. The conception and success of the plan has been warmly commended by the State war board.

MANAGER CHARLES R. GILMORE announces that the United Pictures Theatres Company in this territory, in their campaign for releasing of funds preparatory to the issuance of stock, has gone over the top 100 per cent. He states that he has lined up every exhibitor in this territory, which includes Denver and Salt Lake and embraces Idaho and Montana.

"BRONCHO BILLY," Jim Anderson's first five-reel production under the Shirley banner, arrived in Denver a few days ago. It was well received at a recent trade screening and pronounced a winner by local exhibitors. The local Shirley exchange has also received the first three subjects of the Burlingham Travel series, and announces that the second two subjects are equally as good as the first.

H. E. SKINNER, of the Alhambra theatre, Ogden, Utah, visited the various exchanges on Film Row last week. Mr. Skinner is heavily interested in the Exhibitors' Booking Corporation.

LOUIS MARCUS, district manager for Paramount-Artcraft, has returned to Salt Lake following several days spent in Denver last week in lining up office affairs with M. H. Cohn, local manager.

AT the opening performance of "America's Answer," September 22, at the Broadway theatre, the General Ordnance Company of Denver purchased every seat in the house. Their object was to stimulate the interest of their employes in the manufacture of war material.

J. L. JONES, owner of the Iris theatre at Leadville, was a recent visitor at local exchanges.

C. E. PERCY, former manager of the Denver Paris and more recently road salesman in Denver territory for Mutual, has returned from Albany, where he was connected with the World exchange, and will probably remain here to again become identified with one of the local exchanges.

HARRY SCHWARTZ, well known local film man, has opened the Gem theatre on the North Side with a showing of Mutual, Universal and Pathe pictures. The Gem, which has been closed all summer, was formerly owned by Mrs. Flora Fitzmiller, who is now an exhibitor at Berkeley, Cal.

F. W. NORMAND has returned from his initial trip for Goldwyn, which he reports was very successful. He covered part of South Dakota, Wyoming, Montana and western Nebraska. The local Metro office has won the prize for the most bookings secured in a contest which closed August 1, awarded by the Rita Jolivet Film Corporation, owners of the production, "Lest We Forget."

WALTER S. RAND, district manager for General, with headquarters in Los Angeles, has written that he will arrive in Denver in a few days from Seattle.

H. A. KYLER, of the Supreme Photo Plays Corporation, is back from a successful trip covering the western slope and the Big Circle.

LOUIS GOLDSTEIN, former local manager for Supreme and recently stationed at Camp Dix, has left there for France.

EARL RADCLIFFE, road man for Select, is out on a long trip covering Nebraska, Wyoming and South Dakota.

ADVERTISE IN THE WEST COAST

News of the Week in Portland

FOR the sixteen weeks ending September 14, Portland motion picture theatres, on behalf of their patrons, paid the United States Government $42,000 as admission war tax. For the same period the State of Oregon turned in $168,000 to Uncle Sam. This means nearly a half million dollars in admissions for Portland during the sixteen weeks, and more than a million and a half for Oregon during the same period.

JOHN A. JENNINGS turned the Sunset theatre over to the Multnomah Guard on Thursday night during the showing of "My Four Years in Germany," for a special 11 o'clock showing for the benefit of the "welfare fund," created to care for the dependents of the boys of G-H Company who have joined the colors.. An elaborate program was presented, including the G-H quartet in campfire songs, solos by several members of the company, and a patriotic talk and song by Alice Fleming, of the Alcazar Players.

AL EDEN, of Fox, and Carl Stearns, of Metro, were recent Portland film visitors from Seattle. Eden was much pleased at the success of the Theda Bara picture, "Salome," during its seven-day screening at the Majestic.

SOME of the most artistic advertising copy ever turned out in Portland was placed in The Oregonian by Charles E. Couche for the Bara subject, "Salome."

LOUIS CHRIST, former manager of the Star theatre, Portland, and for several years on the road with theatrical ventures, is now a salesman with Mutual in Washington and Oregon.

W. W. KOFELDT, Majestic theatre manager, who enlisted in the merchant marine and went to San Francisco as a steward, is back in Portland. He was taken from the boat in the California harbor and leaves soon on another Government vessel.

C. H. HOLTZCLAW, manager of the Circle theatre, Portland, is on a trip to his old home in Tennessee. He will investigate theatre conditions in a number of Eastern cities while on his trip. F. M. Hamburger, formerly with Mutual, is in charge of the Circle during "Colonel" Holtzclaw's absence.

SOL BAUM, Universal district manager for the Northwest, is colonel of district 168 in Portland for the Fourth Liberty Loan.

RECENT out-of-town exhibitor visitors to Portland were: M. G. Colley, of the Silverton, Ore., theatre; E. C. Smith, of Dayton, Wash.; R. Kuhn, of Lebanon, Ore.; S. H. Moses, of Philomath, Ore.

THE five-cent film houses of Portland are commencing to invade the ten-cent field. Manager Stevens has raised the Burnside to ten cents. The Princess, managed by Sax Brothers, goes to a dime on Sundays, while Manager Fleischman, of the Novelty, announces a ten-cent admission for Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

SAM WHITESIDE, of the Majestic theatre, Corvallis, Ore., has been in Portland recently with Mrs. Whiteside, who underwent an operation in the Rose City.

W. E. RICHARDSON has closed the theatre at Lind, Wash., and has gone to Seattle to work in the shipyards. His lease expired on the theatre.

A. L. EDWARDS, of Reedsport, Ore., is reported to be seeking to have a theatre constructed in that town.

G. H. REIZNER is investing $50,000 in a new theatre at Raymond, Wash.

JAMES LANE is building a new theatre in Yakima, Wash. It will be known as The Rose.

JOHN McKEE has sold his Everett, Wash., theatre to C. P. Merwin.

What Coast Studios Are Doing

BOTHWELL BROWNE, impersonator of female vampire roles on the vaudeville stage, has been engaged by Mack Sennett to appear in Paramount comedies. He may later be seen in other Paramount productions.

D. W. GRIFFITH has begun work on a new war picture which has in its cast such well-known players as Lillian Gish, Robert Harron, Elmo Lincoln, David Butler and Kate Bruce. The picture has not been named.

THE WILLIAM RUSSELL COMPANY of the American studios at Santa Barbara, having finished a number of scenes on location at Bakersfield in Mr. Russell's new play, "Where the West Begins," will come to Los Angeles next week to add some finishing touches to the picture. He will be in Los Angeles four or five days.

RUTH STONEHOUSE has wired friends from New York that she is threatened with appendicitis, but that she will not undergo an operation at this time. She added in her telegram that she believes the California sunshine will be sufficient cure when she returns to Los Angeles.

NELL SHIPMAN this week began work on her first picture for Vitagraph. It is a Wolfville story and the continuity was written by Miss Shipman. Others appearing in the cast with her are Otto Lederer and Patricia Palmer. Vitagraph is planning to film one Wolfville story every month.

SLIM SUMMERVILLE, who has appeared in Mack Sennett and Sunshine comedies, was engaged this week to play in Vitagraph comedies. He will work under the direction of J. A. Howe, who has been directing Montgomery and Rock in Big-V productions. A special company is being provided for Summerville, and it is announced that the stories for the company will be provided by Summerville and his associates. The nature of the first comedy has not been announced.

ANTONIO MORENO and his company returned this week from Balboa, where a number of outdoor scenes in the Vitagraph circus serial were filmed. The fifteen episodes of the serial are being produced under the direction of Paul Hurst. Carol Holloway is playing the feminine lead. The serial is about half finished.

BESSIE LOVE will this week finish her latest picture, "Sue." The subject is being directed by David Smith.

WILLIAM DUNCAN has reached the last lap of the fourth episode of the Vitagraph serial "A Man of Might." He will begin work on the fifth episode next week. Others who are appearing with him in the picture are Edith Johnson, Joe Ryan, C. A. Rogers and Vincenti Howard.

WILLIAM HILES, who has appeared in leading roles with Madge Kennedy, Constance Talmadge and other stars, was engaged this week by Thomas H. Ince to take important parts in Dorothy Dalton plays.

THE new Dorothy Dalton production, begun last week at the Ince studios, has been christened "Hard Boiled." This, however, is the working title of the play, and it will never get farther into the world than the studio gates, the Ince forces announce.

CHARLES RAY has had a busy week. He has not been playing in any picture, but he has been superintending the construction of an oddly-fashioned automobile that is to play a prominent part in his next picture. He said the machine, when in perfect running order, would surely break all speed limits. He expects to get at least fifteen miles an hour out of the affair, he says.

TOM J. GERAGHTY, who was last week placed in charge of the Metro scenario department, announced this week that the mails brought fifty-five scripts to his office, the largest contribution during a single week since the war began. He does not know what to think of it, he says, unless the contributions can be traced directly to his popularity as a scenario editor.

THE METRO STUDIOS this week brightened up and retouched all the patriotic flags on the premises so as to be ready for full representation when the Fourth Libery Loan starts on September 28. Besides a service flag with twenty-five stars, the studio boasts of Liberty Loan flags for all previous drives, Red Cross flags, War Savings flags, the American flag and flags of the Allies. "In fact there are enough flags on the lot," said Publicity Director Robinson, "to completely supply a battleship."

SHIRLEY MASON, who has been working in Eastern studios, is planning to come to the Coast this winter, acording to supplemental announcements this week at the Famous Players-Lasky studios. She has been appearing under the direction of Ernest Truex, but it is understood that she will have a new director when she comes West.

Ogden Short Paragraphs

JOSEPH GOSS, manager of the Orpheum theatre, received a letter a few days ago from his brother, "Dick" Goss, an ambulance driver for the French army, announcing that he had been decorated with the Cross of War by the French Government. Young Goss has been driving ambulance for the French Government since July, 1917. He has been in many of the important battles on the West front in the past year.

MANAGER H. E. SKINNER, of the Alhambra theatre, has returned from Chicago, where he was in conference with Western film men. He says that the plea of the managers was for more comedies.

NAZIMOVA in "Revelation" at the Utah theatre, a return engagement, did phenomenal business during the first part of the week.

MANAGER S. B. STECK, of the Cozy theatre, has struck a happy cord with the youngsters by his Saturday matinees of Wild West pictures. The Bill Harts hold the first place as drawing cards for them.

THE OGDEN THEATRE hung a service flag of two stars in the window of the box-office this week. It is for H. W. and L. H. Peery, brothers, both managers of the theatre, who have gone into the service. The former is in the navy and the latter is interpreter at War Prison camp at Fort Douglas, where hundreds of Germans are interned. The Ogden theatre is also displaying a sign which says, "Soldiers and sailors admitted free upon payment of Government war tax of two cents." This has proven very popular with the soldiers and sailors who pass through Ogden.

SINCE the raise in the prices in Ogden from fifteen to seventeen cents for adults and five to six cents for the children, the business of the motion picture houses of the city has been better. Very few of the pictures are put

SEE
THE COMPLETE
PLAN BOOK
IN THIS ISSUE

Directory of Los Angeles Exchanges and Supply Houses

PAREX FILM CORP.
FURNISHING
WM. L. SHERRY SERVICE
SAN FRANCISCO — 180 Golden Gate Ave., C. I. LUNTZ, Mgr.
SEATTLE — 2022 Third Ave., L. A. TODD, Mgr.
LOS ANGELES—511 W. Eighth St., F. M. STEELE, Mgr.
WM. ALEXANDER, District Mgr.
Headquarters—LOS ANGELES

LOUIS HYMAN
Manager
ALL STAR FEATURE DISTRIBUTORS, Inc.
514 West Eighth Street

J. SLIPPER & CO.
Projecting Machines
Simplex, Baird, Motiographs
Hertner Transverter
Theatre Equipment and Supplies
728 South Olive Street
Write for Catalog

The George Kleine System
Perfection Pictures
E. H. SILCOCKS
Branch Manager
209 Knickerbocker Building

AMERICAN FILM CO., INC.
William Russell Margarita Fisher
Mary Miles Minter Productions
C. J. CROWLEY, Representative
Distributed Through Pathe Exchange
732 So. Olive St.

UNIVERSAL FILM EXCHANGES, INC.
Successor to California Film Exchange
DAVID BERSHON, MANAGER.
Distributors of Universal, Jewel and Lois Weber Productions, Blue Bird Photoplays, Century and Lyons & Moran Comedies
822 S. OLIVE ST.

H. F. CHARLES
District Manager
American Photo Player Co.
737 South Olive Street

VITAGRAPH
So. California and Arizona
W. H. HEPBURN
Branch Manager
Knickerbocker Building
643 South Olive Street

on here at advanced prices. It will probably be a matter of a short time before the managers realize that they can get a quarter to see a good picture as well as seventeen cents.

DURING the past week several large pictures have been shown in Ogden and have all made good. "The Great Love" at the Alhambra was a good card. Theda Bara in "Cleopatra" was at the Orpheum. Theda's a bear when she does Cleo." She's also bare except for a costly necklace and a bewitching smile, but we can bear to see her in a similar picture. Norma Talmadge in "Her Only Way" packed 'em in at the Ogden theatre for the first four days this week. Mabel Normand in "Peck's Bad Girl" followed to three good nights.

NEWSPAPER men and managers were given the opportunity of reviewing "The Blot," the picture made in Ogden Canyon about a year ago under the direction of Harry Devere. The picture has been smoothed over and is fine. It is possible that it will be given an early showing in Ogden.

THE "S. O. S" call was sent up by Manager Joe Goss, of the Orpheum theatre in this city, yesterday, when he gave a matinee of "A Dog's Life" with Charlie Chaplin and admitted the children who brought ten or more peach stones. The youngsters turned out in force and soon had the entrance of the theatre blocked with packages of peach, apricot, plum and other fruit pits. There were so many packages of the peach pits that Manager Goss sent a hurry-up call to Rev. John E. Carver, president of the Red Cross, to bring a dray and haul the stones away.

THE pits of various kinds of fruit are being saved in this big fruit locality for the Government. They are used to make charcoal for the gas masks worn. The charcoal from the pits is the best absorbent of poisonous gases there is.

MANAGER GOSS arranges many such events at his house every month. It sure does the work and stirs up patriotism in the breast of young America. The Orpheum theatre has been donated to the women of the city on next Monday for a big Liberty Loan mass meeting.

Salt Lake News and Views

JOE BRENDT, general manager of the Universal Film Company, is due in Salt Lake in the next few days in course of his tour of the western states.

"CRASHING THROUGH TO BERLIN," the latest patriotic production of the Universal Film Company, is "going big" in this territory, according to G. A. Hager, manager of the Salt Lake office.

The Mountain-Plains Theatre Supply Co.
1514-18 Welton Street, Denver, Col.
106 So. 14th St., Omaha, Neb. 136 E. 2nd So. St., Salt Lake City, Utah
Distributors for Simplex and Powers Machines. Everything for the Motion Picture Theatre. Also distributors for latest in Reels and Film Shipping Cases.
Write for Catalogue

A. L. SELIG of the publicity service of the Fox Film Company was in Salt Lake two days during the past week.

H. K. ERIN, who has been representing the Universal company in Butte, has been transferred to the Salt Lake office to handle special attractions.

E. F. ROSENBERG, manager of the Salt Lake office of the Metro Company, was in Butte and other Montana territory for the greater part of the past week.

INCREASED business has necessitated increase by four of the office force in the Salt Lake office of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, according to Manager L. Marcus.

MELL S. WILSON, representative of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in Montana, was in Salt Lake for a few days the past week.

EXCLUSIVE rights for booking of the picture, "Lafayette, We Come," have been secured by the Exhibitors' Booking Association in the eleven western states which the association serves, according to George C. Lindsay, general manager.

A. B. KNOX, manager of the Salt Lake office of the First National Exhibitors' circuit, is scheduled for three weeks of field work in Idaho and Wyoming. Mr. Knox reports that the picture, "Italy's Flaming Front," is going like wildfire. It has broken records in attendance at the American theatre here, he says.

San Francisco Film Men Like Federal Trade Ruling

SAN FRANCISCO motion picture men were highly pleased with the decision rendered by the Federal Trade Commission in the case of the Stanley Booking Corporation at Washington on September 16. The specific injunction against coercion tactics, as ordered by the Trade Commission, found unanimous approval among those connected with the industry in San Francisco.

H. L. Knappen, newly appointed Select Pictures Exchange manager, voiced the collective opinion of San Francisco exchange men as follows: "The decision will eliminate trust methods on the part of producers in their dealings with exhibitors, prevent theatre combinations or circuits from browbeating the producers, and in a general way it will tend to keep the film industry on a fair and honest business basis. Here in San Francisco, the evils which the Federal Trade Commission seeks to remedy have not existed, so far as I am aware, but in certain Eastern sections they have been very serious."

San Francisco News Condensed

THE MOTION PICTURE DIVISION of the Stage Women's War Relief Committee gave a dance to enlisted men on Saturday night, September 21, at Foto Player Hall in San Francisco, which was a largely attended and enjoyable affair. The American Photo Player Company donated the hall and lights for the occasion and the decorations were furnished by Major Mike Cohen, manager of the George Kline System.

ALL the special films for the Fourth Liberty Loan are distributed in this city from one central office. Leon Netter, of the All Star organization, has been appointed special booker for this distribution. The following committee was appointed to handle the matter: Herman Wobber, of the Paramount (chairman); Sol Lesser, of the All Star; Leon Netter, of the All Star; M. Lewis, of the Paramount; William Citron, of the Fox, and L. Reichert, of the Metro.

THE METRO PICTURES CORPORATION had two great pictures at local theatres last week. At the Strand, Ethel Barrymore was appearing in "Our Mrs. McChesney," while the Tivoli was presenting "The House of Mirth."

MAJOR M. J. COHEN, manager of the George Kline System, has been on a trip East and is expected to return during the present week. Sol I. Lesser, of the All Star, spent the best part of last week in Los Angeles in the interests of his company.

THE UNITED PICTURE CORPORATION has established headquarters with the General Film Company of San Francisco, but the name of the man who will have charge of the business has not as yet been made public.

H. W. SCHMIDT, manager of the General Film Company, Inc., in its San Francisco office, has just returned from a short trip up the Sacramento. He reports that he was successful in placing a number of pictures in that territory and that he made a number of new connections which promise to be profitable.

WALTER S. RAND, Division Manager of the General Film Company, Inc., left for the Northwest last week after spending several days in the San Francisco office.

C. H. DOUGLAS, manager of the Elite theatre at Merced, associated with Mr. Slyback of Seattle, has bought the Tulare theatre at Tulare from S. O. Greenwood and will take over its management at once. The new owners have booked six comedies a week from the Peerless Film Service, Inc.

THE GARDEN THEATRE at Burlingame, Cal., was opened last week under the management of W. T. Archibald, who formerly owned the Strand theatre at Los Gatos. The new playhouse is very prettily decorated and will comfortably seat 800 spectators. Mr. Archibald has made arrangements to run pictures from the Triangle, Fox, Goldwyn, Select and Pathe.

IT IS reported that Ben Lebman, who owns Fischer's theatre, in the Richmond district, San Francisco, has bought the Lincoln theatre in the same district. It is also said that he intends to completely remodel the Lincoln theatre into a modern up-to-date picture house.

F. RODRIGUEZ, of the local Pathe headquarters, and A. M. Bowles, the American representative of the corporation, have just returned from a trip through the San Joaquin Valley territory. They found business good throughout the district, and they look for a bright fall and winter demand for Pathe films.

THE DUHEM MOTION PICTURE MFG. CO. recently made some interesting pictures in San Francisco. One of them shows about 300 carpenters working without wages to construct buildings for the Red Cross headquarters on ground owned by the city at the Civic Center. The other was a picture of the parade which accompanied the big Italian celebration held in San Francisco. These pictures will be circulated by the Universal.

N. L. KAPPE, manager of Select Pictures in San Francisco, announces that he will soon have releases on six big pictures, the first one being "One Woman," by Thomas Dixon. One of the big scenes in this picture is a fight between Herschel Mayall, who plays the part of a millionaire Wall Street broker, and Lawson Butt, taking the part of a minister. The second to be released will be "The Midnight Patrol," produced by Thos. H. Ince and directed by Irvin V. Willat. Mr. Kappen also announces that he has just arranged for a first-run for Second Select Star pictures in Oakland.

WILLIAM BERNARD will shortly start on his field campaign in northern California for the Second Select Star Service. Mr. Bernard has been identified with the Select since its advent in this territory and is widely and favorably known to exhibitors. Another Select roadman already on the trail is Robert A. Brackett, who is now lining up the exhibitors on the Second Select Star Service in the San Joaquin Valley.

WITHIN the next two weeks the World Film Corporation will give a preview exhibition to exhibitors of the new picture, "On the Road to France—A Bridge of Ships." Floyd St. John, the local manager of the corporation, who just returned from a short trip to the interior of the State, says that this film has more "pep" and story in it than any other of the war films he has seen.

M. E. CORY, assistant manager of the Universal Film Exchange, Inc., has just returned from one of his semi-annual trips through the interior, and reports that he found most of the exhibitors making money. He says that H. F. Nagle recently sold the Liberty theatre at Pleasanton, Cal., to R. M. Reep. Mr. Reep formerly managed the Alpaugh theatre at Alpaugh, Cal.

THE San Francisco theatres report a successful week and are looking forward to a steady business. The California with "The Hun Within" has again been breaking box-office records. Chas. Pettus, of the California, says that in his opinion the theatre has the greatest patriotic picture made to date. He says it has more thrills and is more exciting than some of the others which are perhaps more instructive. The Imperial has been running to comedy this week and Manager J. A. Partington expresses the opinion that Fatty Arbuckle in "The Cook" is far and away the best thing that Arbuckle has done. The Rialto opened Sunday with "America's Answer," and if the entire two weeks' run measures up to the first two days' run it will break all records for this popular theatre.

AT a recent private view of "The Border Wireless," William S. Hart's latest Artcraft picture, before an audience of film men, those who witnessed the exhibition were unanimous in declaring this to be not only the most gripping but the most unusual story in which W. S. Hart ever appeared. The scene is laid on the Mexican border and every inch of film is filled with action.

JOS. A. HUFF, formerly manager of several theatres in San Francisco, has joined the sales force of the Vitagraph Company.

H. D. NAUGLE, Western Division Manager of the Vitagraph Company, is scheduled to be in San Francisco the latter part of the week.

AMONG the managers from interior points of the State who visited San Francisco last week in the interest of future bookings were: W. S. Wilson, of the Strand at Woodland and Dunsmuir; C. S. Douglas, of the Elite, Merced; Mrs. May Pettingill, of the Pastime, Eureka, and C. L. Langly, of the Hippodrome at Taft and the T. & D. at Hanford.

Directory of San Francisco Exchanges

UNITED STATES OFFICIAL WAR FILMS
Presented by THE DIVISION OF FILMS
Committee on Public Information
Geo. Creel, Chairman Chas. S. Hart, Director
Released in California by SOL. L. LESSER
Chairman Division United States Official War Films, State Council for Defense for California
191 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco 514 West Eighth St., Los Angeles

NOW BOOKING

"AMERICA'S ANSWER"
EIGHT REELS
A masterpiece of living action of what has been done in France by our boys and the United States Government

"PERSHING'S CRUSADERS"
SEVEN REELS
Khaki-clad millions of Americans sweeping on to meet the foe

"OUR BRIDGE OF SHIPS"
TWO REELS
Visualizing the tremendous energy of America aroused to defeat the U-boat menace

"OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW"
ONE REEL
Authentic action in the war zone from the Governments of the United States, France, Great Britain and Italy. Released every week. Photographed by the United States Signal Corps, A. E. F.

TURNER and DAHNKEN
BRANCH OF
FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' CIRCUIT, Inc.,
Music Rolls Exchanged—Supplies of All Kinds
134 Golden Gate Avenue San Francisco, California

CONSOLIDATED FILM CORPORATION
90 Golden Gate Avenue SAN FRANCISCO
2020 Third Avenue SEATTLE
DISTRIBUTING KATZENJAMMER AND HAPPY HOOLIGAN CARTOONS—DITMAR'S LIVING BOOK OF NATURE—BRUCE SCENICS—NEWMAN TRAVELS—GAUMONT NEWS AND GRAPHIC AND LITERARY DIGEST (SEATTLE ONLY)

KALE-ALTA SLIDE CO.
B. O. YOUNGMAN
24 Hour Slide Service
The Quality is the best
Latest Song Slides for Community Singing. Best Patriotic and Stock Slides on the Coast
1028 Market St., San Francisco

PERFECTION PICTURES
Distributed Through
The George Kleine System
M. J. COHEN
Branch Manager
183 Golden Gate Avenue

M AND R
SOMETHING NEW COMING
730 So. Olive St. Los Angeles
107 Golden Gate Ave. San Francisco

BRECK PHOTOPLAY SUPPLY COMPANY
DISTRIBUTORS OF
Simplex Projectors
Theatre Equipment and Supplies
NATIONAL CARBONS
98 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco

M. H. LEWIS
Branch Manager
PARAMOUNT-ARTCRAFT

G. A. METCALFE
Distributor
POWER'S MACHINES
SPEER CARBONS
117 Golden Gate Avenue
San Francisco, Cal.

Short News of San Diego

MISS LEATRICE JOY, recently motion picture actress with United States Film, Fox, and Paramount, has joined the Virginia Brissac Company in stock at the Strand theatre.

MANAGER WHITSON of the Plaza succeeded in getting some good publicity in advance for "America's Answer" by having the co-operation of a naval band when his float advertising the second big government war picture motored through the streets of the business section.

"CRASHING THROUGH TO BERLIN" drew big houses at the Pickwick for a week, and was followed for the same period by Theda Bara in "Salome."

USING a timely catch-line, opportune because of the presence of the Barnum & Bailey show in the city, the Superba management advertised "The Geezer of Berlin" as "better than a circus."

THOMAS H. INCE and members of his staff accepted the invitation to come to San Diego and take motion pictures of San Diegans as they walked past the big organ in Balboa Park, especial preference being given to all who have relatives or sweethearts in the service in France. The film will be shown at the Savoy and Hippodrome theatres here before being sent across, where it will be projected in every "Y" hut in France, England and Italy.

Coast Works Hard for Liberty Loan

A UNITED EFFORT to put the Fourth Liberty Loan over the top in Los Angeles is being made by the people of the film industry of the West Coast Producing City, in a MAMMOTH DRIVE conducted afternoon and evening in Central Park, Los Angeles, one block from the busiest street crossing of the City.

Organization work has been in progress for the past several weeks, and active studios, and active committees of every studio will on Saturday morning, September 28, begin the work of seeing every member of the producing organization in an effort to make every studio 100 per cent American.

Stars from all studios have volunteered their services to appear at theatres in Los Angeles, where on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings they will make selling talks from the stages, and will conduct an active campaign in the lobbies. The talks in the theatres have been limited to five minutes, and this will in no way interfere with the programs at the theatres. This Committee is in charge of Mr. H. B. Caulfield, chairman; Harry Leonhardt. Sid Grauman, J. S. Lustig and Glen Harper.

Another theatre committee, composed of prominent exhibitors and all officers of the Theatre Owners Association, with Emil Kehrlein as chairman, will call upon every theatre in an attempt to sell bonds to every employee.

Dave Bershon, manager of Universal Film Exchange, is chairman of the Exchange Committee, and with his members will see that every employee of the exchanges purchases bonds. Mr. Bershon is also serving as treasurer of the Theatre Sales Committee, and all bonds purchased by theatre men and their employees, will be turned through him.

A Tank, with large stage built in connection, conducted under the auspices of the Motion Picture Industry, and managed by yours truly will be the centre of all bond selling activities in Los Angeles.

The purchases of all bonds at studios, theatres, exchanges and accessory houses will be turned in to the Bond Committee through this Tank, as well as the sales made at the meetings throughout the three weeks' drive.

A complete program, arranged by Mr. Jessen of the Motion Picture News for the twenty-three meetings is as follows:

Sept. 28. Dedication and Unveiling Meeting, 2:00 o'clock, D. W. Griffith, chairman; Mary Pickford, guest of honor; Frank Keenan, special announcer. Evening meeting 7:30 p. m. Motion Picture Directors Association in charge, Frank Beal, chairman.

Sept. 30. Charlie Chaplin studio.
Oct. 1. Clara Kimball Young.
Oct. 2. Vitagraph studio, W. S. Smith, chairman.
Oct. 3. Metro-Hampton studios, Jos. Engel, chairman.
Oct. 4. Hart, Christie and Strand Comedies and Francis Ford Company, Chas. Christie, chairman.
Oct. 5. Famous Players-Lasky studios, C. B. De Mille, chairman.
Oct. 7. Brunton studios, Frank Keenan, chairman.
Oct. 8. Sunset studios, Geo. Fawcett, chairman.
Oct. 9. Douglas Fairbanks.
Oct. 10. Fannie Ward and Pathe players.
Oct. 11. Ince studios, Thos. Ince, chairman.
Oct. 12. 2:00 p. m. Liberty Day. Triangle and American studios. 7:30 p. m. Motion Picture Producers Association, W. J. Reynolds, chairman.
Oct. 14. Universal and L-KO studios.
Oct. 15. Sennett studios.
Oct. 16. Julian Eltinge and Lois Weber studios.
Oct. 17. Wm. Fox and Lehrman Comedy studios.
Oct. 18. Theatre and Film Exchange Men, Laboratory and Accessory Men's Night.
Oct. 19. 2:00 p. m. Roscoe Arbuckle.
7:30 p. m. Closing night. Motion Picture War Service Association.

In addition to the Motion Picture people taking part in the various programs at the Tank Meetings and theatres during the drive, they will also go to the smaller cities throughout southern California. Two tanks mounted on large trucks will visit every city and town in southern California, and from the tops of these, members of local studios will make bond sales talks. These two tanks are booked for meetings morning, afternoon and evening, and will go to more than 75 towns.

Work of organizing studios, theatres and exchanges is in the hands of C. H. Christie, who estimates that 90 per cent of the studios will prove themselves 100 per cent efficient. Mr. Christie is chairman of the Committee of the Motion Picture Industry and has the co-operation of directors at all studios, where active committees are at work securing the subscriptions of all identified with the industry, as well as at the theatres and exchanges.

What Butte Is Doing

AMONG the Montana exhibitors visiting in Butte the past week were Gilbert Heyfron of Missoula and W. B. Hartwig of Dillon.

THEO. JOHNSON of Salt Lake, road man in this territory for Metro, was in Butte the past few days after a tour of Montana. He came from Lewistown where he was during the county fair week. The Myrtle at Lewistown is showing Metro pictures and reports good business.

"TO HELL WITH THE KAISER" was the attraction at the Ansonia the past week. It packed them in and is now showing to big crowds in other Montana cities.

MEL WILSON is now making his headquarters at Salt Lake and is road man for the Famous Players-Lasky corporation. "Things picking up" is what Mel reports after a trip to southern Montana.

UNCLE DICK SUTTON opened the Empress with stock on September 29. The theatre had been dark for several months.

F. J. OBER, road man for the Universal's local exchange, is back in Butte after a trip about the state.

DAVE SCHAYER has gone to Salt Lake to close up business at the Salt Lake office of the Famous Players-Lasky Company relating to the Butte branch, now a thing of the past.

MANAGER RAILEY of the American reports business as picking up right along.

FOR THE GOOD OF THE CAUSE

In the prosecution of the war, we accept and heartily concur in the subjoined schedule prepared by the War Industries Board.

WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD

Conservation Division,
Washington, September 17, 1918.

SCHEDULE FOR THE MANUFACTURERS OF MOTION PICTURE MACHINES:

1. The purchase of new lenses to be restricted from this date to 4 inches, 5 inches, and 6 inches focal lengths, and 16 inches, 20 inches, and 24 inches stereo. There is no restriction in dealing in second-hand lenses of any size.
2. After September 20, 1918, the following accessories to be furnished to purchasers only upon request as extras:
   - (a) Rheostat
   - (b) Rewinders
   - (c) Reels
3. Each manufacturer to reduce the weight of his machines as much as is practicable and to advise this Division immediately of the amount of this reduction.
4. Each manufacturer to substitute some less essential material for brass, aluminum and steel insofar as possible, and to advise this Division of the action taken.

CONSERVATION DIVISION,
War Industries Board.

235-50

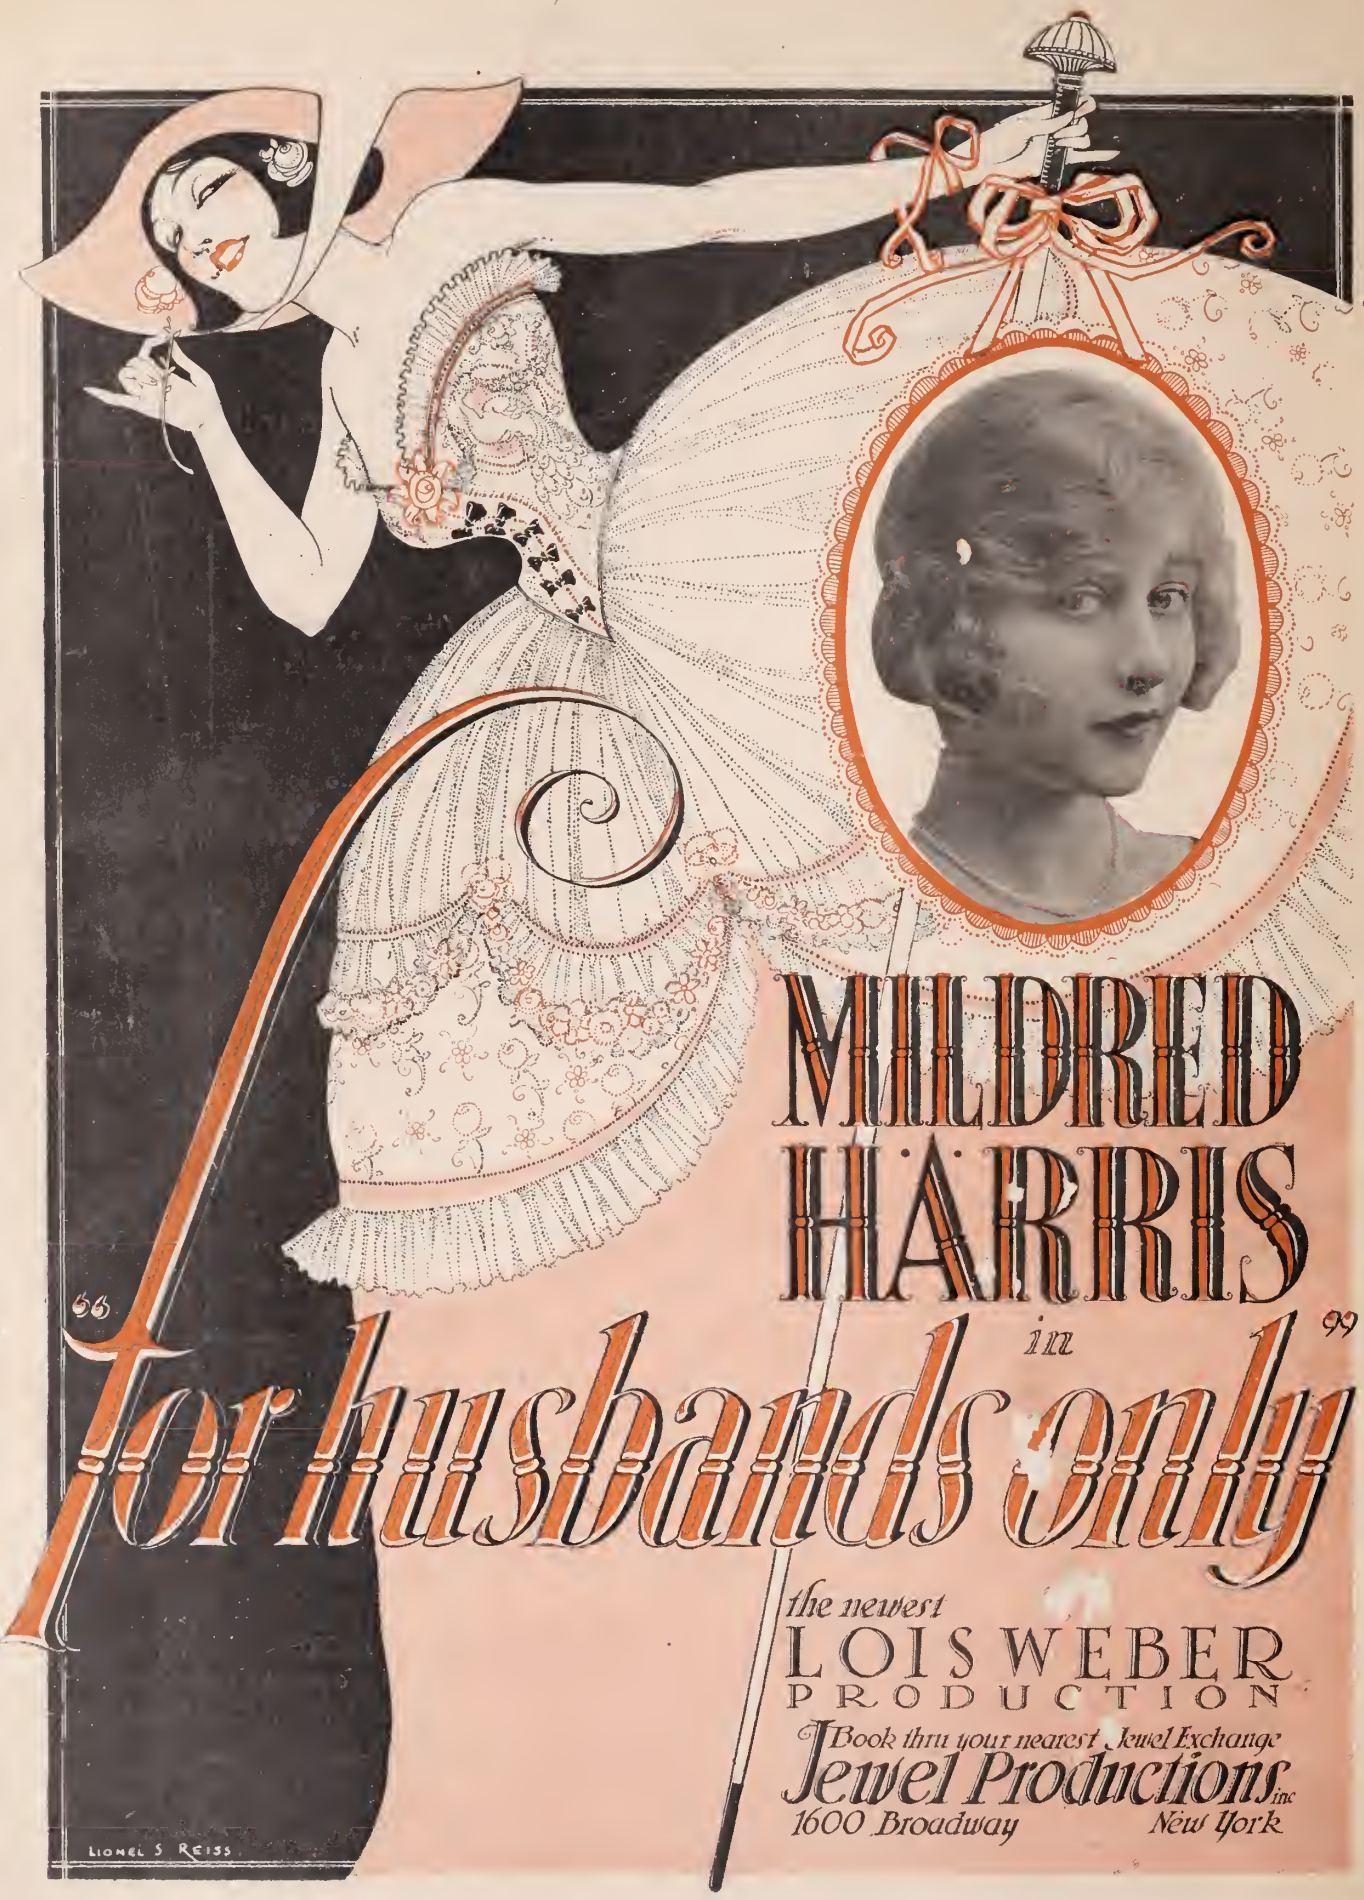
We pledge ourselves to abide by its provisions in every particular

PRECISION MACHINE CO., INC.
Manufacturers of Simplex Projectors
317 East 34th Street, New York, N. Y.

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY, INC.
Manufacturers of Power's Cameragraph
90 Gold Street, New York, N. Y.

ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. CO.
Manufacturers of Motiograph Projectors
564-572 West Randolph Street, Chicago, Ills.

VICTOR ANIMATOGRAPH COMPANY
Manufacturers of Victor Projectors
Davenport, Iowa



MILDRED HARRIS

in

"for husbands only"

the newest

LOIS WEBER PRODUCTION

Book thru your nearest Jewel Exchange

Jewel Productions inc

1600 Broadway New York

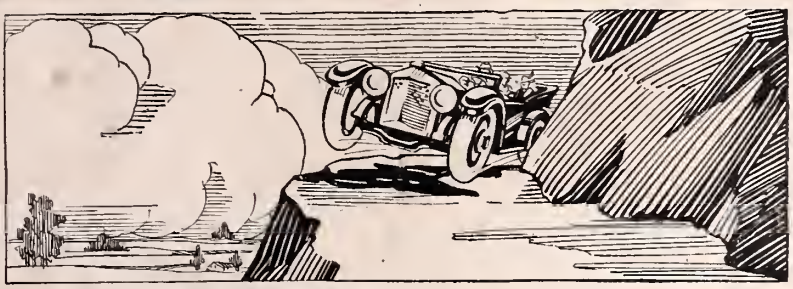
OCTOBER 19, 1918

Motion Picture News

Reg. in U. S. Patent Office

West Coast Edition

DOMINATES THE FIELD



Don't Take A Chance!

THE exhibitor who tries to "get by" with cheap pictures is risking the life of his business.

When you show

Paramount and Artcraft Pictures

(NATIONALLY ADVERTISED)

you take no chances. You know and the public knows that the Paramount and Artcraft Trade Marks are the guide posts along the safe road to the best amusement.

Paramount Pictures — FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION — ARTCRAFT PICTURES

ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General

NEW YORK

VOL. XVIII-NO. 16 Entered as Second Class Matter, August 27, 1917, at the Post Office at New York, N.Y., under the act of March 3rd 1879 PRICE 15 CENTS

Chicago — 729 Seventh Avenue, New York — Los Angeles

LIONEL S. REISS
MONROE SALISBURY
IN
"HUGON THE MIGHTY"
A GREAT BIG OUTDOOR DRAMA OF AN UNRELIGIOUS MAN WITH A HEART OF PUREST GOLD
BOOK THRU YOUR NEAREST BLUEBIRD EXCHANGE
BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS INC.
1600 BROADWAY N.Y.

A NEW ERA IN VITAGRAPH

BLUE RIBBON FEATURES AND SERVICE

ALICE JOYCE STAR SERIES

October 21, 1918—"Everybody's Girl" to be followed by seven other Alice Joyce features on these dates:—

December 2, 1918
January 13, 1919
February 24, 1919
April 7, 1919
May 19, 1919
June 30, 1919
September 22, 1919

Every Liberty Loan Film that you run is a Wisp in the Mighty Broom that will Sweep the Huns off the earth

Albert E. Smith Presents

ALICE JOYCE

in The First of Her Eight Star Series Releases

"Everybody's Girl"

A FIVE PART BLUE RIBBON FEATURE

ADAPTED FROM THE FAMOUS STORY "BRICKDUST ROW" By O. HENRY

Directed by TOM TERRISS

O. Henry and Alice Joyce—the combination will prove irresistible to the most exacting patron. O. Henry's name is one to conjure with wherever the word "story" is mentioned. Alice Joyce, by her dramatic portrayals in "Within the Law," and "Womanhood, the Glory of the Nation," will ever hold a marvelous appeal to the hearts of millions. And in "Everybody's Girl" she will materially add to her potency as a star.

The selection of Vitagraph favorites for the supporting roles in this exceptional feature has been made with results that justify the time and care given. Prominent in the cast are: Walter McGrail, Percy Standing, May Hopkins and Bernard Siegal.

VITAGRAPH

Stand in the Back of Your Theatre

when your operator is running one of VITAGRAPH'S new

TWO REEL "BIG V" SPECIAL COMEDIES

The Laughs That You'll Hear Will Help to Explain the Boost in Business on That Day

Every one of these new feature comedies is going to make NEW BUSINESS for your theatre on the next day that you show a

TWO-REEL BIG "V" SPECIAL COMEDY

"MISFITS AND MATRIMONY"
Featuring
MONTGOMERY AND ROCK

"BEARS AND BAD MEN"
Featuring
LARRY SEMON

"HUNS AND HYPHENS"
Featuring
LARRY SEMON

"CHUMPS AND COPS"
Featuring
MONTGOMERY AND ROCK

"ROOFS AND RIOTS"
Featuring
MONTGOMERY AND ROCK

"FRAUDS AND FRENZIES"
Featuring
LARRY SEMON

"SUBMARINES AND SIMPS"
Featuring
MONTGOMERY AND ROCK

Talk about pictures with a kick in them! You'll help to land the biggest kick in the world on the Kaiser with every foot of Liberty Loan film that you run.

VITAGRAPH

ALBERT E. SMITH
President

The Strongest Testimonials Ever Given

Are the Figures

Written on the Profit Side of the Box-Office Statement by Vitagraph Serials –

"THE FIGHTING TRAIL"
"VENGEANCE AND THE WOMAN"
"THE WOMAN IN THE WEB"
and
"A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS"

are titles that mean MONEY!

Run Liberty Loan Films — and Our Boys Over There Will Run the Hun Back to Berlin!

Now Booking–

ALBERT E. SMITH Presents

"THE IRON TEST"

VITAGRAPH'S LATEST AND GREATEST PHOTOPLAY SERIAL

FEATURING

ANTONIO MORENO and CAROL HOLLOWAY

in 15 Smashing Episodes

Written by ALBERT E. SMITH and CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Directed by Paul Hurst

VITAGRAPH

Lewis J. Selznick ~ Constance

"The Shuttle"

"The Studio Girl"

"Good Night, Paul"

Here you see CONSTANCE TALMADGE in the star role in each of her past SELECT SUCCESSES!

The "boots" are bought

"Scandal."

"The Lesson."

"Up The Road With Sallie"

"The Honeymoon"

"Sauce for the Goose."

"A Pair of Silk Stockings"

presents

Talmadge in "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots"

SELECT SP PICTURES

from the celebrated play by AUGUSTUS THOMAS

Scenario by Edith Kennedy
Directed by Walter Edwards

She admires her purchase

The "boots" become a bone of contention!

She's done it again—has Constance Talmadge! She has made another corker—another of those laughter-plus-drama hits—and a worthy successor of the nine that have gone before (see opposite page). Is your house getting the benefit of the patronage-building pictures in Constance Talmadge's First and Second Select Series? An early play-date means an early opportunity to play the next picture. Your patrons will be waiting for it!

A Love Story of Great Tenderness in

SELECT SP PICTURES

Great Special

In no screen drama yet presented has the beautiful theme of wifely devotion been so nobly presented as in Thomas Dixon's great photoplay, "The One Woman," made from his sensationally popular novel of the same name. Mother love, the love of husband, the love of home, of honor, of a fair name—these are threads interwoven with consummate skill by Reginald Barker in a dramatic fabric in which virile passions and selfish desires strike a harsh but compelling counter note.

Distributed by

SELECT PICTURES CORPORATION

"The ONE WOMAN"

by

THOMAS DIXON

Directed by Reginald Barker
Produced by MASTERCRAFT

On these two pages are shown bits from the great production—the "wedding by proclamation" scene in The Temple of Man, above, and, at right, the return of Frank Gordon to the wife who has kept her faith in him and the children who have waited him during his "long journey" to the shores of Free Love. On the page opposite are seen Adda Gleason as Ruth, the Mother; Clara Williams as the Other Woman; and a detail from the thrilling fight between the Banker (Herschel Mayall) and Frank Gordon (Lawson Butt). The children are Mary Jane Irving and Ben Alexander.

Yours—For a "Full House"

3 Aces

in one Triangle Play

BELLE BENNETT

the beautiful woman whose keen intellect conquers the vicious plot to divert American charitable donations to the treasury of the Kaiser.

With

J. Barney Sherry and Jack Richardson

in

"RECKONING DAY"

the photoplay based on an actual experience of the Secret Service in Washington during 1918.

Presented with three of Triangle's most popular favorites.

The proper presentation of this picture means profits for you, to invest in War Savings Stamps.

Play this for profits and patriotism.

Scheduled for early release

Triangle Distributing Corporation

1457 Broadway New York

Goldwyn Pictures

He Dared To Love The Daughter Of The Richest Man In Town.

A HANDSOME chauffeur on "thirty per" in war-time. A beautiful girl who made him forget all about the high cost or living—and loving.

The romance of a thin bankroll and a stout heart.

Obstacles, disappointments, adventures—none of these could keep Danny Murray, with the laughing eyes and the romantic heart, from winning. His motto was "You can't beat the luck of the Irish."

In the great game of Love he came, he wooed, he conquered. This will indicate to every live exhibitor how he can exploit and profit on

TOM MOORE in Thirty A Week

by Thompson Buchanan
Directed by Harry Beaumont

Released everywhere October 21. This rattling, speedy story would make any likable personality a star over-night.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION
SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President
16 East 42nd Street New York City

Goldwyn Pictures

How Many Brains Work For You Besides Your Own?

AS an exhibitor with an investment you have a mind and business judgment of your own. An intelligent manager also tells you what some of your patrons think.

Have you additional resources to make your house a success? Combine the advantages you have with the tremendous resources of the powerful Goldwyn organization.

Remember that Goldwyn is in touch by letter or face to face, through managers and salesmen, with never less than 10,000 exhibitor's like yourself. It seeks and finds the exhibitor's voice. It guides itself by exhibitor facts and not by producer theories.

Goldwyn is the the custodian of thousands of exhibitor intelligences and confidences. It is counselled by hundreds of the world's ablest and most successful authors. And, above all, it is shaped by the suggestions of its own customers—the most conspicuously successful showmen of the nation.

You are forming a Partnership of Power when you put Goldwyn Pictures in your theatres. All of the elements that the chemistry of human brains can devise are in them to make them the most perfect productions in the industry. Goldwyn Pictures are sired by you, the exhibitors who play them.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

CAPITOL COMEDIES

THERE'S A WIDE-WORLD CRY FOR LAUGHTER

FOR happiness—fun—cheerfulness. For relief from tension and depression. Those who have wept must also smile.

This is THE GREAT LAW OF REACTION. Americans are hungry for something to appeal to their unquenchable and unbeatable sense of humor.

Their demand is answered every second week by a national comedian of high favor and great popularity

"SMILING BILL" PARSONS
in CAPITOL COMEDIES

26 a Year Every Second Monday

The twelve rollicking two-reel comedies that have established his fame and drawing power since May are in perfect condition and can be booked from any Goldwyn office at the rate of one a week until you catch up with his current bi-weekly releases. His newest releases are:

Oct. 7: Bill Camps Out
Oct. 21: A Pair of Pink Pajamas
Nov. 4: The Jelly-Fish
Nov. 18: You Know What I Mean

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION
SAMUEL GOLDFISH President
16 East 42nd Street New York City

How can an advertiser continue advertising? By giving YOU value.

"AUDIENCES ROSE FROM

THERE'S the dollar-mark verdict of exhibitor and public approval of the most successful special production offered to American exhibitors in months—

Betzwood Film Company's Spectacular Patriotic Melodrama

For the FREEDOM

with LADY TSEN MEI

THE SCREEN'S ONLY CHINESE STAR

Conceived and Directed by Ira M. Lowry

It is the verdict of the great Stanley Theatre, Philadelphia, which has never before played any special production of an independent producer.

As proof of its great profit-making powers, this production has been booked for second, third and fourth runs in Philadelphia; at every important neighborhood house in the city, and for first runs in all the larger cities in the entire Philadelphia territory.

"For the Freedom of the East" thrills because it is packed to the brim with action, melodrama, romance, mystery, intrigue and heroism. A picture showing history in the making and revealing the dramatic alliance of America, China and Japan that has crumbled the Kaiser's hopes of conquest through Asia.

Honored by the attendance of China's Ambassador to the United States and his aides at its opening performance.

THEIR CHAIRS AND CHEERED"

of the EAST

PHILADELPHIA PRESS: Opening the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign, "For the Freedom of the East" proves a smashing attraction at the Stanley. Love, romance, hatred and strife as the themes and the unusual star, Lady Tsen Mei, were responsible for record patronage.

PHILADELPHIA NORTH AMERICAN: "For the Freedom of the East" lives up to all the things that have been said about it in advance. An unusual star with personality and charm. . . The story is a thriller.

PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN: Rarely does the eye ever see on the screen such an unusual picture as "For the Freedom of the East." As strong a patriotic production as could possibly be conceived.

PHILADELPHIA RECORD: "For the Freedom of the East"—powerful, daring, thrilling—also shows the triumph of Allied arms and the salvation of Russia. A picture exactly attuned to the popular tastes of the moment.

PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEDGER: Something brand new in screen drama is "For the Freedom of the East." A really remarkable picture that all Philadelphia seems to be going to see this week at the Stanley.

PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER: A drama of gorgeous coloring revealing the deviltry and stupidity of the German spy system. A tremendously powerful and timely production.

This sensational production should be booked now to enable you to obtain its fullest and greatest publicity values. Directed by the same skilled hand that produced the other great money-maker, "For the Freedom of the World." Write or wire your nearest Goldwyn office at once for playing dates and prices.

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

NOW

BREAKS ALL RECORDS

NOW

At "THE PLAYHOUSE" Michigan Ave. Chicago
Run of Three Consecutive Weeks

A Love Story of the Great West in the DAYS of 49

7 Reels of Stirring Action

STATE RIGHTS

NOW SELLING

THE "VIGILANTES" IS TO THE WEST WHAT THE "CLANSMAN" WAS TO THE SOUTH

What the Chicago Press Says:

"THE VIGILANTES" IS "THE BIRTH" ALL OVER AGAIN EXCEPT FOR SLIGHT CHANGES OF TIME AND PLACE. MADE ALTOGETHER IN THE GRIFFITH MANNER" CHICAGO EVENING AMERICAN

"THE VIGILANTES IS AN ELABORATE AND AMBITIOUS SPECTACLE. IT IS OUT OF THE ORDINARY" EVENING POST

"THE VIGILANTES DESERVES BEING DUBBED A HEAVY PICTURE. IF YOU LIKE MELODRAMA IT WILL BE RIGHT IN YOUR LINE" CHICAGO TRIBUNE

"VIVIDLY AND COMPREHENSIVELY DOES THE VIGILANTES DESCRIBE THE STIRRING DAYS OF THE FORTY-NINERS. IT IS AN ELABORATE AFFAIR" DAILY NEWS

PHOTOGRAPHY IS CONSISTENTLY GOOD. CALIFORNIA'S BACKGROUNDS ARE BEYOND CRITICISM" HERALD-EXAMINER

"THE VIGILANTES IS OF UNUSUAL MERIT WELL DIRECTED ACTED AND PHOTOGRAPHED." JOURNAL

NOW

Presented By BEAR STATE FILM Co
1004 Consumers Bldg
220 South State St. Chicago

Illinois Now Being Released by UNITY PHOTOPLAY Co
207 South Wabash Av.
Chicago Ill.

NOW

WILLIAM RUSSELL
in
HOBBS IN A HURRY

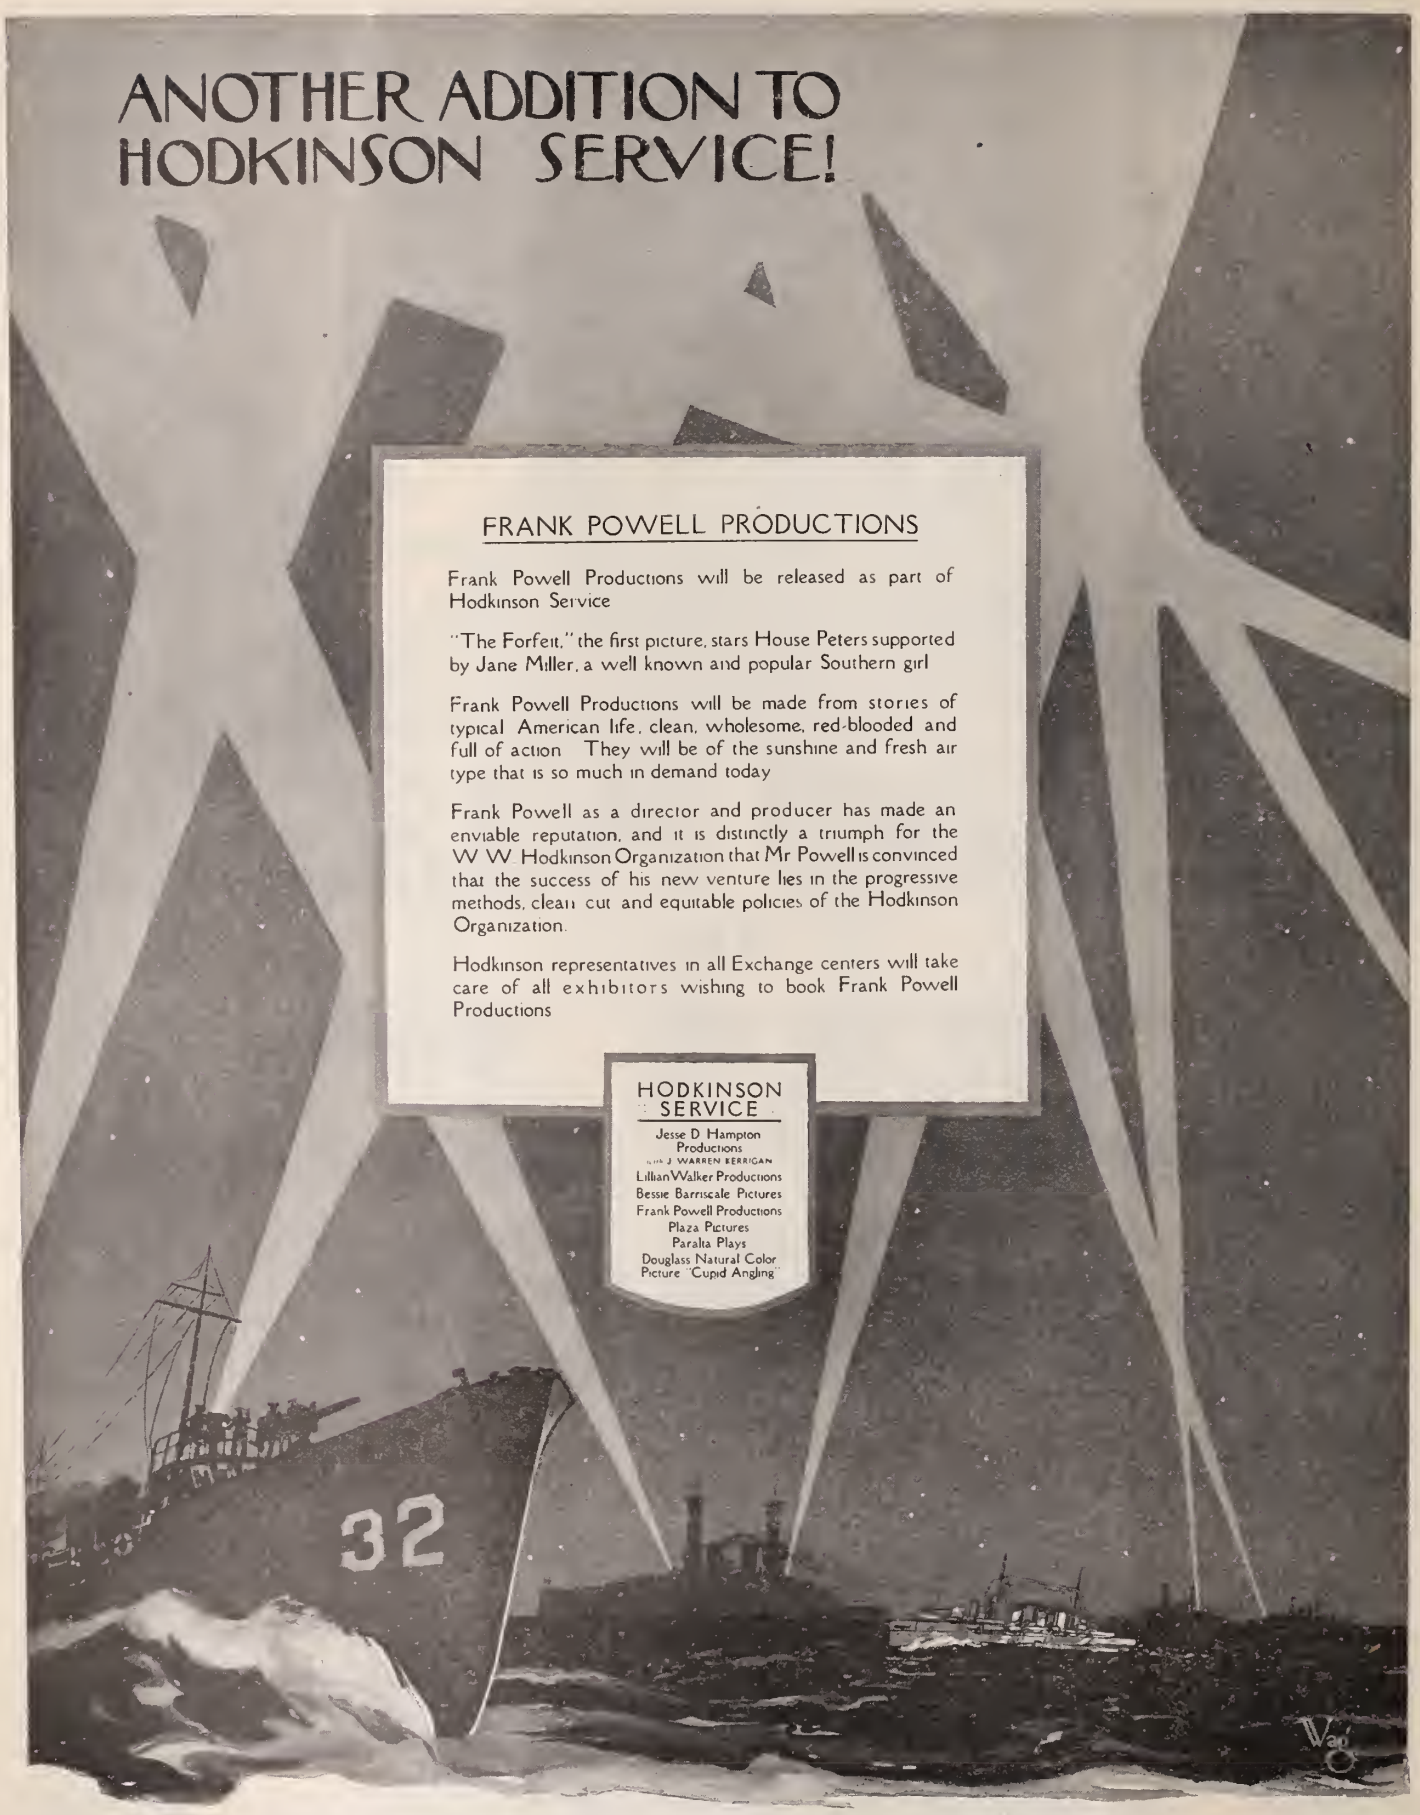
By George Lee McCandless
Directed by Henry King

Exhibitors everywhere have packed their theatres with William Russell productions. He has proven himself a real box office magnet. Now—more than ever before—you can get the crowds with this first of his new productions—"Hobbs in a Hurry." It's a western comedy-drama that is filled with thrills.

American Film Company representatives at all Pathé Exchanges are prepared now to show you this new Russell production on the screen—to arrange bookings for you. Make your application now. Attract the throngs to your theatre.

WILLIAM RUSSELL PRODUCTIONS

DISTRIBUTED BY PATHÉ



ANOTHER ADDITION TO HODKINSON SERVICE!
FRANK POWELL PRODUCTIONS
Frank Powell Productions will be released as part of Hodkinson Service
"The Forfeit," the first picture, stars House Peters supported by Jane Miller, a well known and popular Southern girl
Frank Powell Productions will be made from stories of typical American life, clean, wholesome, red-blooded and full of action They will be of the sunshine and fresh air type that is so much in demand today
Frank Powell as a director and producer has made an enviable reputation, and it is distinctly a triumph for the W W Hodkinson Organization that Mr Powell is convinced that the success of his new venture lies in the progressive methods, clean cut and equitable policies of the Hodkinson Organization.
Hodkinson representatives in all Exchange centers will take care of all exhibitors wishing to book Frank Powell Productions
HODKINSON SERVICE
Jesse D Hampton Productions with J WARREN KERRIGAN
Lillian Walker Productions
Bessie Barriscale Pictures
Frank Powell Productions
Plaza Pictures
Paralta Plays
Douglass Natural Color Picture "Cupid Angling"
32

W·W·HODKINSON CORPORATION 527 FIFTH AVE NEW YORK

HODKINSON SERVICE AT ALL GENERAL FILM EXCHANGES

Be sure to mention "MOTION PICTURE NEWS" when writing to advertisers

"The Forfeit"
A Frank Powell Production
THE "FORFEIT" IS PAID IN FULL HOUSE PETERS AND JANE MILLER
IN A POWERFUL AND DRAMATIC STORY OF THE GREAT SOUTHWEST
ADAPTED FROM THE NOVEL BY RIDGEWELL CULLOM
PHOTOGRAPHED IN TEXAS
A "HAIR TRIGGER" MOMENT
"AN EYE FOR AN EYE"
Produced by SUNSET PICTURES, Inc.
Distributed by
W. W. HODKINSON CORPORATION

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

Louise Glaum
in the GODDESS of LOST LAKE
by M. Vandowater directed by Wallace Worsley
AN UNUSUAL DRAMA of a modern frontier—a fun loving maid of the mountains whose heritage of Indian blood precipitates the sacrificial tragedy, which so often precedes the coming of complete happiness. Louise Glaum in a distinctly new and unusual role.

Distributed by the W. W. HODKINSON CORPORATION
as part of HODKINSON SERVICE at all General Film Exchanges

Jesse D. Hampton Announces

J. WARREN KERRIGAN

in a new production

"THREE X GORDON"

by Kenneth B. Clarke · directed by Earnest Warde

A "different" story visualizing in an absorbing manner the great work of remaking men—and making them fit to fight distributed by W·W·HODKINSON CORPORATION.

The more YOU read these advertisements the more useful to YOU we can make the "NEWS"

ROBERT BRUNTON

Announces the Early Appearance of

BESSIE BARRISCALE

in a New Series of Important Feature Photo-Plays

Directed by Howard Hickman

To Be Distributed by

W. W. HODKINSON CORPORATION

BURLINGHAM TRAVEL PICTURES

HAVE YOU BOOKED THESE?

1. Facing Death on The Blümlisalp

2. Unknown Switzerland
(The Lotschenthal)

These Are The First 4 of a Wonder Adventure Series of 30 Pictures

3. The Pilatus Railway

4. Allied War Heroes Arrive In Switzerland

Released only through

WM L. SHERRY
729 SEVENTH AVENUE

SHERRY SERVICE

For U. S. and Canada

SERVICE
NEW YORK CITY

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

Try the Easiest Way!

Press a button—slip in the clutch—and you're off! Skilled mechanics and simplified mechanism have made transportation easy. Automobiling is a heap of fun—as long as the motor works smoothly.

So with the motion picture business; managing a theatre has it all over any other job on earth as long as the motor's working right.

And the picture is the thing that makes the theatre go.

You have a contract. You depend on the producer; he's your skilled mechanic. It's a "pipe" for the first week or two; then the motor begins to rattle. Pretty soon it's bucking and wheezing—then rackety-bang-bing-bunk-she stops! So do the people. So do receipts. So do you.

You've not only lost business, but prestige! The interest on your investment in pictures is gone with the principal. The cumulative profits that come with a succession of uniformly good pictures are missed altogether. You cancel—and begin over.

Start right, this time! Try the easiest way! Book dependable pictures—Fox pictures!

Should William Fox make a poor picture he would lose twice—as producer and as exhibitor. And those who have stood losses as exhibitor know he couldn't hold up long under that sort of strain.

Therefore there aren't any poor Fox pictures.

Witness STANDARD PICTURES. Those who signed for this series expected to get only the productions of the two stars who made STANDARD PICTURES such a big success last year. But William Fox saw a chance to contract for the most widely advertised woman in the world—EVELYN NESBIT—and STANDARD PICTURES exhibitors soon will be cashing in on

"The Woman Who Gave"

The production is one of the biggest releases of a day of big pictures and will establish EVELYN NESBIT as a foremost actress of the screen.

Her son, Russell Thaw, is in the cast.

FOX FILM CORPORATION

BUY LIBERTY BONDS

Book Fox Pictures!

Witness also the William Fox VICTORY PICTURES! These releases, now only a month old, are the sensation of the new season! The stars—Tom Mix, Gladys Brockwell and George Walsh—are being shown in a series of productions that rival the highest grade pictures ever released by any producer. The proof will be found in the current release,

George Walsh in "On the Jump"

a revelation of German attempts to muzzle the American press—a timely picture in which the pepper box of the films performs a most amazing series of stunts, including the climbing of the outside of a seventeen story building.

Witness likewise the productions that have been properly named EXCEL PICTURES—releases featuring Virginia Pearson, Peggy Hyland, Jane and Katherine Lee and the star of "The Caillaux Case", Madlaine Traverse. The current release showing is the story of a real American heroine—a girl who upset a German plot to destroy American ships and thereby won the man of her choice.

Peggy Hyland in "Marriages Are Made"

Then there are those amazing productions

Henry Lerhman's Sunshine Comedies

which have come to be recognized as the only dependable releases of the sort on the market. They are a pleasant relief from slap-stick, pie-throwing attempts to be funny. They have a real clean comedy basis—true comedy situations—and they go over big everywhere.

Shorter, but every inch of them full of fun, are

Mutt and Jeff Animated Cartoons

Bud Fisher, their author, is the recognized American war cartoonist. He's there at the front—captain of an artillery company—and he's showing the folks at home that there's a happy side to life in the trenches.

Try the easy way to success! Book these Fox pictures!

FOX FILM CORPORATION

AND KEEP THEM!

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

RICHARD A. ROWLAND and MAXWELL KARGER present

The Great NAZIMOVA

in

EYE for EYE

A newer and larger production starring the greatest artist in the world.

From Henry Kistemaeckers' drama "L'Occident," adapted by June Mathis and Albert Capellani and directed by Albert Capellani in Seven acts . . .

NAZIMOVA PRODUCTIONS

METRO
DISTRIBUTORS

MAXWELL KARGER
DIRECTOR GENERAL

Opening at the Strand Theatre New York on November 3rd

for a run

METRO SUCCESS

is builded on three straight production years, on actual performance rather than on advertising claims · Metro Pictures go beyond their advertising and this is real showmanship· Metro Pictures are consistently great–they are tremendously interesting–they are intelligent and clean ·

Metro Pictures have led the world on merit and they still are far ahead·

The newest All Star Series Metro presents

EMMY WEHLEN

in

HIS BONDED WIFE

From the delightful story by Lois and Arthur Zellner–adapted by June Mathis and directed by Charles J· Brabin in 5 acts·

Released by METRO October 14th

MAXWELL KARGER
Director General

ANNOUNCEMENT

For the past two years, or since the amalgamation of the Hearst International News and Pathe News, this reel has occupied the premier position in the news reel field.

For the past two years, THE GATHERING OF ALL FILM AND THE PHOTOGRAPHING OF ALL SUBJECTS for the Hearst-Pathe News, has been in charge of the HEARST ORGANIZATION, owing to its superior and tremendous news gathering facilities.

After December 24th, 1918, the name of PATHE will be discontinued, and this news film will be issued under its former name of the

HEARST INTERNATIONAL NEWS

It will contain the up-to-the-minute news topics that have made this film famous.

It will contain the cartoons by the famous artists of the Hearst newspapers, such as Hal Coffman, Winsor McKay and Harry Murphy.

It will have behind it the unequalled facilities of the Hearst Organization for the gathering of news subjects and the tremendous publicity power of the Hearst newspapers.

Issued by the INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE CO., Inc.

729 Seventh Ave., New York City

American Rights For Sale

of the two most important British Productions of 1918

"The Way Of An Eagle"

by Ethel M. Dell, produced by Samuelson

and

"The Elder Miss Blossom"

by Ernest Hendrie and Metcalfe Wood

We should be pleased to show these productions to your British Representative at any time.

If you are interested communicate by cable or letter direct with

SUN EXCLUSIVES

Sun House, 11, Holloway Head, Birmingham, England

Cable Address: Sunsol, Birmingham, Eng.

Who is the Best?

Exhibitor Ad Writer
Exhibitor Publicity Man
Exhibitor Lobby Artist
Exhibitor Impresario
Exhibitor Salesman

$1200.00 IN LIBERTY BONDS

Of The Fourth Loan

TO EXHIBITORS WHO KNOW HOW TO ADVERTISE

This offer is to exhibitors who have booked "The Romance of Tarzan" prior to date of this announcement of contest, or who hold contracts for Regular First National Releases.

Little Theatres Have the Same Chance as Big Theatres.

Offer Open Until December 30, 1918.

A board of experts from the trade papers will act as judges and have full control of awarding prizes.

Theatres will be divided into four classes.

First class—2,000 seats and over; second class—1,000 to 2,000 seats; third class—700 to 1,000 seats; fourth class—less than 700 seats.

The Subject We Have Chosen For This Test Is

"THE ROMANCE OF TARZAN"

It Affords Unprecedented Opportunities for Exploitation and Will Make Good Any Publicity Statement in Reason

THE FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' CIRCUIT, Inc.

6 West 48th Street New York, N. Y.

Are Exhibitors Practical Retailers?

THE purpose of the contest is to encourage owners of later run houses to give a greater degree of attention to their advertising and retail sales campaigns for the various features they book.

Because a production is three, four or six months, or even a year old, does not imply that its merchandising possibilities are not just as great at that age as on the day of release. Excepting in rare instances, where theatre location is unusual, or normal competition is lacking, the axiom that a feature is only as profitable as its retailer is efficient will apply generally.

Just how capable the average exhibitor is as a retail salesman of motion pictures has been a much mooted question among manufacturers, exchangemen, and even theatre owners themselves. Limited editorial space makes it physically impossible for the trade journals to publish more than a small fraction of the samples of profitable theatre advertising that are submitted to them, or to treat with more than a slight percentage of the many exhibitor ideas that come to their attention.

For this one reason no trade journal has ever been able to follow any one picture through its various ages to obtain a thorough and concrete idea of just how efficient a retail advertiser and salesman the average exhibitor is, from the first run account to the man who plays it after its first birthday.

For the edification of the industry, as an illustration to other distributing agencies of the possibility for more intimate and practical cooperation with exhibitors by keeping all of them informed of what the comparative few are doing to attain consistent returns on their bookings, and for the particular benefit of those exhibitors who play features after they are ninety days old, and who want a comprehensive illustration of how all earlier run accounts advertise and sell to the public, the First National Exhibitors' Circuit announces this contest, to be conducted with one specific release as a means of more accurately gauging the retail sales capacity of theatre owners, and the variations in method according to house location, class of patronage, competition, and conditions generally affecting the box-office.

Entry blanks for the contest will be mailed, free of any cost, by exchanges of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, or on application to the Tarzan Editor of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, 6 West 48th Street, New York City, or to the Exhibitors' Service Department Editor of this trade journal.

Conditions To Be Observed

AN entry blank, correctly filled in, must accompany all matter submitted, from each individual entrant.

Entries of newspaper advertising must consist of at least one copy of each issue of local newspapers in which the copy is published. This is necessary to enable the judges, in scoring the points, to make an accurate mathematical calculation for position, general appearance on the page, and strength of copy and typography.

Entries of publicity material, in story form, must consist of at least one copy of each issue of the local newspapers in which the stories appear.

Entries of stunt publicity matter, if carried out in newspapers, must consist of at least one copy of each issue of the local newspapers in which it is printed; if it consists of special posters, banners, signs, floats, parades of characters, snipes, or lobby treatment, send one print of the scrap book photographs you will have made in the ordinary course of events.

Entries of lobby display matter must consist of one print of the usual photographs you have made, showing the arrangement and a sufficiently complete illustration of the entire lobby, so that the judges can accurately credit points on the basis of general arrangement, harmony, novelty, appeal, contrasts, visibility and its ability to create interest and curiosity in the production.

Entries of stunt presentations must consist of one print of the usual scrap book photographs of stage arrangement, interior decorations, special costumes for ushers and general employees, one copy of the house program containing the musical score, if one is used, and which shows the position on program of singers or novelty interpolations contributing in any way to effective presentation.

To avoid any possibility of error in crediting points, the judges will refuse to pass on any newspaper page, special window card sample, special poster sample, sample snipe, sample slide, copy of house program, or copies of newspapers, containing examples of advertising and publicity matter, or photographs of outdoor stunt publicity or interior decorations or arrangement bearing on presentation, unless each individual exhibit, whether newspaper, house program, sample window card, poster, snipe or photograph has written on it, plainly and legibly, the name of the exhibitor, name of the theatre, street and city address of theatre.

Every exhibit submitted will be returned to you, if desired.

The receipt of every entry will be immediately acknowledged by mail.

The Board of Judges will score the exhibits in each individual instance, crediting the entrants with the points merited by his material, and the results will be published in this trade journal at the conclusion of the contest, December 30, 1918.

The awards will be made by the Board of Judges, direct to the winning contestants.

Reproductions of the winning examples of advertising in each theatre classification, and under each sub-division for style and kind of advertising, will be available, in printed form, to every exhibitor in the country, and particularly for those who will not book "The Romance of Tarzan" until after December 30, 1918.

On The Way

DAVID LLOYD GEORGE

By Sir Sidney Low

The Romantic Life Story of the Great Welsh Statesman

Produced by the Ideal Film Renting Co., Ltd., LONDON

(Under the sole direction of MAURICE ELVEY)

TEN PARTS TEN PARTS

Which allied Statesman, outside America, has most CAPTURED THE IMAGINATION and won the hearts of the world?

Beyond a doubt it is DAVID LLOYD GEORGE, the great little Welshman, who has fought his way up by sheer grit, FROM COTTAGE TO PARLIAMENT, from bootmaker's protege to the Champion of England and the cause of civilization!

Fiction in its most fascinating pages contains no more captivating chapter than the real-life ROMANCE OF DAVID LLOYD GEORGE. The old saying that "Truth is stranger than Fiction" has received no more wonderful exemplification than in Lloyd George's great upward climb to leadership.

AMERICA AND LLOYD GEORGE

To-day the entire world hangs upon his every utterance and in particular no international figure makes so VIVID an APPEAL TO THE PEOPLE OF AMERICA!

His picturesque speech, his freedom from the spirit of caste, his rise to fame from humble origins, his determination to make the common people prevail over TYRANTS IN PURPLE, all give him in especial degree the ear and the heart of the Democracy of the United States.

LIKE ABRAHAM LINCOLN

It is not to be wondered at that the Nation that produced an ABRAHAM LINCOLN should admire such a figure as DAVID LLOYD GEORGE, for there is something wonderfully akin in the characters and careers of the two men.

The "Ideal Film Renting Co.," whose famous masterpieces such as "MY OLD DUTCH" and "MASKS AND FACES" found a warm welcome in America, have been engaged for AN ENTIRE YEAR ON THE PICTURE!—such is their determination to make it accurate as well as realistic!

The life story of LLOYD GEORGE, besides its fascinating romance, will be the most vivid illustration of THE REAL OBJECTS OF THE WAR that has yet been anywhere exhibited.

Through it move such famous Americans as WASHINGTON, LINCOLN, WILSON, etc., and it is, otherwise, PACKED WITH INTEREST FOR THE PEOPLE OF AMERICA.

SHOWING SOON

THE LIFE STORY OF DAVID LLOYD GEORGE will be shown to the Trade in London in October.

Those who may be interested please communicate at the earliest moment with the "IDEAL FILM RENTING CO., LTD.," 76-78 WARDOUR STREET, LONDON, W. 1, and arrange without fail to be represented at the Trade Show.

! A MODEL CINEBIOGRAPHY
THE PICTURE THAT ALL AMERICA WILL WANT TO SEE !

Note:—The picture has been so constructed that it may be released in episodes or completely

MAURICE TOURNEUR

"The legitimate occupation of man's mind is woman"
GEORGE MOORE.

MAURICE TOURNEUR PRODUCTIONS

ANNOUNCES

ITS SECOND PRODUCTION

WOMAN

Written by Charles Whittaker

Directed by Maurice Tourneur

Rights to "SPORTING LIFE" in the following countries are still available: South America, Panama, South Africa, China, Japan, Dutch East Indies, Italy, Spain and Russia.

MAURICE TOURNEUR PRODUCTIONS

STUDIOS—FORT LEE, N. J.

SELLING AGENTS, HILLER & WILK
LONGACRE BLDG., 42ND & BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY

BUY LIBERTY BONDS—SMASH THE "GERM" OUT OF GERMANY—BUY LIBERTY BONDS

BUY LIBERTY BONDS—SMASH THE "GERM" OUT OF GERMANY—BUY LIBERTY BONDS—SMASH THE "GERM" OUT OF GERMANY

BUY LIBERTY BONDS—SMASH THE "GERM" OUT OF GERMANY—BUY LIBERTY BONDS—SMASH THE "GERM" OUT OF GERMANY

OUR CHIEF DUTY

—— and it's both a patriotic and a pleasing duty —— is to knuckle down and do all we can —— and even more than that —— to WIN THE WAR!

OUR NEXT DUTY

—— and it's also pleasing and patriotic —— is to make the best possible pictures:

Pictures so good they will cheer and entertain our people whose sons and husbands and fathers are fighting the unspeakable demons of Kultur;

Pictures so good they will increase the war revenue of our Government, and enable us to purchase double our proportion of

LIBERTY LOAN BONDS

Independent exchanges and exhibitors in every part of the United States are co-operating with the Gaumont News and Graphic to show to the people attractive pictures calculated to stimulate subscriptions to the

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

Gaumont PARIS

Gaumont Co.

FLUSHING, N. Y.

Gaumont LONDON

BUY LIBERTY BONDS—SMASH THE "GERM" OUT OF GERMANY—BUY LIBERTY BONDS

Forward!

The same sharp challenge to battle is sounding for us. We must answer in the same proud way — the way of our fighting men — the American way. We must lend the way they fight.

We must show the war-maddened Hun a united American people moving forward shoulder to shoulder, irresistibly, to Victory.

Our task is to supply the money, the ships, the guns, the shells that we must have to win. It is a tremendous task. We must do it as our fighting men do theirs—with the indomitable spirit of Victory.

We must work, and save, and lend with one thought only—TO FIGHT AND WIN.

Get into the fight—with your whole heart

Buy Bonds—to your utmost!

Run Liberty Loan Films and Slides!

This Space Subscribed to Winning the War by
MOTION PICTURE NEWS

"LAFAYETTE WE COME!"
(Pershing 1917)
A Super Patriotic Motion Picture Spectacle
FIRST - PUT THE KIBOSH ON THE BOCHE - THEN
SECOND - SEE THIS MASTERPIECE - THEN
THIRD - SHOW IT TO YOUR PATRONS - THEN YOU AND YOUR PATRONS WILL Buy FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN BONDS
EXHIBITOR CONTROLLED
AFFILIATED DISTRIBUTORS
1476 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

GEORGE KLEINE

PRESENTS

BEHIND THE LINES IN ITALY

THE UNBELIEVER

MOTION PICTURE NEWS—ISSUE OCTOBER 5TH

"It should be a matter of patriotic duty to give these pictures a showing in your theatre."

A PICTURE SO FINE—SO BIG—SO TRUE
THAT IT TAKES PRECEDENCE OVER ALL

Ask any exhibitor who has played it.

Arrange Dates Now Through the Nearest Exchange of the

GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM

READY FOR RELEASE SOON

"THE WALL INVISIBLE," Starring Shirley Mason; "In the Fog," with Raymond McKee; "THE GIRL ALASKA," the first feature ever filmed in Alaska.

Motion Picture News

Vol. 18 No. 16. October 19, 1918

The Week in the Film World at a Glance

FEATURES

LET'S START RIGHT (WM. A. JOHNSON).....2513
SPEAKING EDITORIALLY.....2514
THE HONOR ROLL.....2518
IN AND OUT OF TOWN.....2519
EXPORT NEWS OF INTEREST.....2543
GETTING OVER THE FULL BILL.....2530
THE COMPLETE PLAN BOOK.....2591

NEWS OF THE WEEK

Influenza Brings Industry to Halt.....2515
Industry Leads Coast Loan Drive.....2516
Film Interests Press Loan Drive.....2517
Kleine Letter a Scorcher.....2518
News of Men with the Colors.....2518
"Expo" Big But Crowds Are Not.....2519
In and Out of Town.....2519
Victory Dinner Is Postponed.....2520
Goldfish Against the Tax Raise.....2520
Complaints on Liberty Films.....2521
Newsettes of the Week.....2522
Newsy Reports from All Sections.....2523
Special Correspondence of Interest.....2524
Universal Man Invents Liberty Loan Plan.....2526
Live News from the Producers.....2544
Advance Offerings of the Programs.....2569
In the Independent Field.....2571
Complete Plan Book.....2591
Newsy Items of the Studios.....2608

OF SERVICE TO EXHIBITORS

Exhibitors' Box-Office Reports.....2527
Exhibitors' Service Bureau.....2530
Coming Program Offerings.....2569
Releases—Current and Coming.....2610
Equipment Service.....2575
Projection Department.....2578
Camera and Picture Making.....2582
Music and the Picture.....2585
The Complete Plan Book.....2591

COMPLETE PLAN BOOK

Advance Reviews.....2591
"Salome" (Fox Super-Production).....2592
"The Kingdom of Youth" (Goldwyn).....2593
"On the Jump" (Fox).....2594
"The Man from Funeral Range" (Paramount).....2595
"The Caillaux Case" (Fox).....2596
"Treason" (Mutual).....2597
"The Goddess of Lost Lake" (Hodkinson).....2598
"Such a Little Pirate" (Paramount).....2599
"The Gray Parasol" (Triangle).....2600
"Just Sylvia" (World).....2601
"Little Miss Grown-Up" (General).....2602
"Battling Jane" (Paramount).....2603
"Kiss or Kill" (Universal Special).....2604
"Whatever the Cost" (Plaza-Hodkinson).....2605
"Together" (Bluebird).....2606
Advance Reviews.....2607

Newsy Announcements of the Week Found in the Ad-Pages

Monroe Salisbury's Latest for Bluebird is "Hugon the Mighty".....2462
A Prominent Exhibitor Praises "Out of a Clear Sky," with Marguerite Clark.....2463
"Private Peat" is completed by Famous Players.....2464
The Latest Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature.....2465
Big V Comedies.....2466
"The Iron Test," Vitagraph's New Serial Featuring Moreno and Carol Holloway.....2467
Select Ready with the Great Dixon Picture, "The One Woman".....2468-69
Constance Talmadge's Latest Success, "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots".....2470-71
Triangle's "The Reckoning Day" Presents Belle Bennett..2472
Tom Moore's Second Starring Picture for Goldwyn.....2473
A Message from Goldwyn to Exhibitors.....2474
The Bill Parsons comedies Announced for Month Ahead..2475
Comment of the Philadelphia Press on "The Freedom of the East".....2476-77
Comment of the Chicago Press on "The Vigilantes".....2478
Two Pathe Features, "The Narrow Path" and "The Bells".....2479-80
The Harold Lloyd Rolin Comedies Are Consistently High Class.....2481
Producers' Distributing Corporation Offers "Her Mistake" with Evelyn Nesbit and Russell Thaw.....2482
"Hobbs in a Hurry" Is a William Russell Hit.....2483
Hodkinson to Distribute "The Forfeit," Frank Powell's Latest Feature.....2484-5
Unusual Role.....2486
"The Goddess of Lost Lake" Offers Louise Glaum in an
The Merit of the Hodkinson Booking System.....2487
Robert Brunton Announces Bessie Barriscale in a New Series of Pictures to be Distributed by the Hodkinson Corporation.....2488
The Burlingham Travel Series Through the William L. Sherry Service.....2489
A Number of Reasons Why the Exhibitor Should Book Fox Pictures.....2490-91
Metro Offers Iits New Features.....2492-93-94
Announcing the Heart International News.....2495
Sun Exclusives of England Has Two Productions for Sale Here.....2496
The B. A. Rolfe Insert on the Houdini Serial.....2497-98
First National Speaks of "The Romance of Trazan", 2499, 2500, 2501
Pre-release and Regular Release Dates Announced on the New Chaplin Comedy, "Shoulder Arms"—a Three-reeler.....2502-3
The Ideal Film Company Picturization of "The Life of Lloyd George".....2505
United Picture Theatres Announces Sale of Foreign Rights.2504
Hiller & Wilk Latest Production.....2506
"Our Chief Duty" from Gaumont Company.....2507
Affiliated on "Lafayette, We Come".....2508
George Kleine Presents "Behind the Lines in Italy"....2510
Trade Paper Comment on Chaplin in "Triple Trouble"....2512
Universal Weekly First with the South Amboy Explosion..2553
"For Husbands Only" Termed the "Best Bet of the Season" by an Exhibitor Who Knows.....2554
Universal Animated Weekly and Current Events.....2555
"Crashing Through to Berlin".....2556-57
Universal's New Serial, "The Lure of the Circus," with Eddie Polo.....2558-59
More Merits on "The Talk of the Town".....2563-4-5-6

Wm. A. Johnston, Pres. and Editor. Henry F. Sewall, Vice-Pres. E. Kendall Gillett, Sec. and Treas.

Published on Friday every week by MOTION PICTURE NEWS, Inc., 729 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y. 'Phone 9360 Bryant. Chicago Representative, W. M. Hight, 220 So. State St.; 'Phone Harrison 7667. Los Angeles Representative, J. C. Jessen, 429 South Figueroa St.; 'Phones 780 Pico, F-4661. Subscription $2 a year, postpaid, in United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands. Canada, $3. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for Motion Picture News at less than these rates. Have the agent who takes your subscription show his credentials and coupon book.

Copyright, 1918, by Motion Picture News, Inc.

CASH IN ON TRIPLE TROUBLE!

Read the advice of experts

"CHARLIE CHAPLIN'S tricks in 'TRIPLE TROUBLE' will get the laughs. You needn't worry about that. In fact I can safely say they will be as hearty as any that have ever been caused by his contributions in the past."—Motion Picture News.

"'TRIPLE TROUBLE' is one of the funniest comedies that CHAPLIN ever appeared in, and he uses some of the most original laugh producing tricks that were ever screened. This picture is not a reissue; the scenes and story are new."—Photoplay Journal.

"'TRIPLE TROUBLE' was made when the comedian was at his best, and is one long continuous laugh."—Motion Picture Bulletin.

ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

George Kleine System
Distributors

Perfection Pictures

Be sure to mention "MOTION PICTURE NEWS" when writing to advertisers

"When you see it in 'The News' It's News"

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

"The Exhibitors' Medium of Communication"

Volume 18. No. 16 October 19, 1918

Let's Start Right!

Mr. Kleine Suggests We Cure Toothache by Removing the Head

WE are publishing elsewhere in this issue the letter of George Kleine to Chairman Edwin B. Parker of the Priorities Committee of the War Industries Board.

Mr. Kleine's letter, we have no doubt, was prompted by a patriotic motive and a clear appreciation of the industry's waste in production and distribution.

This waste is denied by no one who is at all familiar with film industrial conditions and has the courage and unselfishness to express himself.

Mr. Kleine groups this waste under three headings: (1) Production, (2) Distribution, (3) Trade Advertising.

* * *

Production

THE average feature production, he says, in the past two years has been shown in only 20 per cent of the theatres of the country. He estimates that 1,300 features—at the rate of 25 a week—were made in 1917, and that at least 1,000 of these are of good average quality. This is high.

To restore to these pictures their lost circulation he submits that motion picture production, save only pictures bearing upon the war, be stopped or heavily reduced for say a year, thereby releasing men and saving valuable materials for war work.

Mr. Kleine's figures on lost circulation are about correct; and we agree fully that the lost circulation of acceptable productions is the very root of the waste in the film industry.

It is a big waste per se; but it also is responsible for the other big branches of waste.

It must, it will eventually, be torn up.

But we disagree flatly with Mr. Kleine's plan of procedure.

To stop new production is to stop creative effort, which is the life-blood of the picture industry. That would be harmful, probably impractical; and it is unnecessary.

To curtail present production is highly desirable and necessary: but the curtailment should be done from the ground up and not arbitrarily from the top down.

Production must be based upon demand; true of any commodity.

This demand is the demand of the public, as such demand is made known to the theatres.

Therefore we cannot reduce production, its quantity and quality, until we know how the theatres want it reduced.

So we must go first to the theatres and work up to production. We must know demand before we can regulate the supply needed to fill it.

It would be fatal to do otherwise—to regulate from the top down, to do so with no sympathy with the public demand for pictures.

Even if Mr. Kleine's plans were practicable, and acceptable, and were put into effect during the War, what would be done after the War?

The industry would immediately revert to its present overproduction; would it not?

Why impose temporarily an arbitrary surface reduction, when a fundamental reduction, based upon demand will meet the War situation and in so doing put the industry upon the highroad to economic health?

* * *

Distribution

MR. KLEINE says that each exchange requires at least five employees, but that the traveling sales force of all the national distributors can and should be dispensed with and the selling of film be done by mail.

There is an excessive number of traveling salesmen today because there is excessive production. Reduced production will automatically reduce the number. We believe this reduction should be gradual in this way and regulated only by reduced output of pictures.

Mr. Kleine says nothing of reducing the number of exchanges.

Here, obviously, is the greater and more unnecessary expense. We have always contended that exchange roofs —not selling effort—should be reduced.

We believe that the number of exchanges can be and should be very greatly reduced—so that the preposterous example of Omaha, for instance, which has an exchange to every theatre, should be made impossible everywhere.

But this reduction also should not be arbitrary nor done from the top down.

If we first determine what kind and how many films (embracing new and old productions) are needed to meet the public demand and then reduce production accordingly we shall find that two or three exchange roofs—in the exchange centers—can easily handle the new film, while allowing full opportunity for the exercise of individual sales initiative and efficiency.

We have individual exchanges operating today on as little as five reels weekly. A few years ago a General Film exchange dispensed 60 reels a week. We do not need more than 60 reels today of the right kind of film to fill the demand of all the theatres in the United States. Why then do we maintain fifty separate exchange systems?

(Continued on next page)

(Continued from preceding page)

Trade Advertising

MR. KLEINE puts in evidence four trade journals and calls attention to the excessive space used by advertisers, fancy inserts, laborious art work and suggests a drastic curtailment, etc.

In the first place, trade journals are of the publishing, not the film business, and as publications they are already being regulated by the Government through their use of raw material, namely white paper.

As to the film advertising in them that, like the number of film salesmen or any kind of selling effort, is a matter the regulation of which is a delicate question and a hazardous undertaking. The Government has not seen fit to restrict advertising; nor has this been done in Great Britain except insofar as advertising was reduced by the reduced use of white paper.

The waste in trade journal advertising space is largely due to unnecessary duplication. There are too many trade mediums. No more than two are needed. The maintenance of more is directly due to wasteful policies in producer advertising.

There are wasteful methods, too. It is not that excessive space is used, but that excessive space is given over to circus like announcements to the exhibitor, whereas the same space could be profitably and economically employed in placing in the exhibitors' hands the advertising material he greatly needs to reach his public with.

This advertising material is being mailed direct to the exhibitor today and therein lies the greatest waste in trade advertising.

Every exhibitor in the country will bear witness that his desk is crowded each day with mail matter over 90 per cent of which is unusable—circulars, press sheets, plan books, etc., etc.; that he is compelled to sell for a few cents a hundred weight; a great mass of useless printed matter, including posters which he cannot return to his exchange.

Every sizable newspaper in the country will as eagerly testify that it is swamped with unusable press matter and photos from the film trade the preparation and mailing expense of which and the apparently ungovernable supply of which are matters of common amazement—and disgust.

* * *

To Sum Up

THE usefulness of the motion picture, now and in the future, to the Government of the United States, to its Allies, to neutral countries and to the great cause of world liberty is the transcendent question.

America today feeds the world's film markets, and American film has a grave responsibility to the security and welfare of the whole world.

Therefore this usefulness of the motion picture must not be impaired by any false effort to correct the industry's waste in the interests, however pressing, of war conservation.

Two great objectives must be observed:

(1) The present public attendance at theatres must not be diminished.

(2) The production and distribution and exhibition machinery of the business must not be impaired, so that, immediately the war is over the film may continue, with all power, to uphold everywhere the true ideals of justice and democracy and help prepare the way for the inevitable industrial and commercial expansion of the United States, and its Allies.

These two great objectives can be securely held, we believe—as they must be held; and yet the industry's waste be eliminated to meet the Government's wishes and the industry's own best interests.

The process, however, must begin fundamentally and be strictly economic and orderly.

It should and will be in accord with policies now held by certain companies in the business; for after all the industry will in the due course of time do just what the Government would now like to have done quickly; and some clear thinking men are now and have been working right along the lines of centralized distribution and the elimination of that lost circulation of pictures which, as Mr. Kleine points out, is the root of its waste evil.

They are making fewer pictures, better pictures, and by intensive effort behind these pictures, assuring them longer runs, longer life, greater distribution, greater circulation—and therefore a much greater gross income per production, with reduced expenses all along the line and a greater profit for every hand the pictures pass through.

To speed up the economic readjustment—to do it now, instead of letting the industry painfully and haltingly evolve it, is obviously a desirable thing in every interest.

* * *

This Can Be Done—and Done Quickly

BUT, we repeat, it must not be done by hammering down from the top; it must be:

(1) Begun with a survey of theatre demand;

(2) Followed with a reordering and reduction of picture production to fill this demand.

(3) A gradual elimination of unnecessary exchanges, advertising matter prints, selling effort—all involving men, materials and money—as this new and basic order develops and in so doing holds to what it wants and discards what it does not need.

We realize that we are offering here only a central plan. No definite recommendations are made as to its working out.

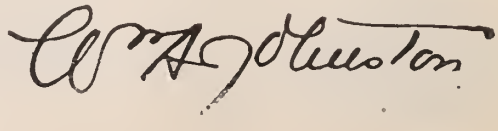
But we are only, at this writing, interested in a central plan. We hold that this is of all importance; that the one engrossing essential is to start right; that having started right no great errors can be made in an incidental way; and that there are men within this industry fully competent, once the basis is right, of working out, as a board, the conservation in production, distribution and selling effort necessary to fit this basis.

This work will be difficult. Plants and commitments stand in its way. The thing that encourages overproduction today is overhead, as established expense, in other words, in the way of studios and exchanges that constantly calls for more pictures to help out this established expense.

This established expense is too great—by far. It is based upon too many pictures—upon an exaggerated idea of the quantity of pictures needed, and the quality of pictures called for.

It is an illogical and uncalled for condition.

Therefore, it must be revised. But it is highly essential that the revision be made with every effort to protect fully the investment involved.



Influenza Brings Industry to a Halt

"No New Pictures for a Month" Is Decision of Principal Manufacturers—Serials and News Weeklies Not Affected—Epidemic's Spread Cripples Over Dozen Exchange Territories

REPRESENTATIVES of eighteen producing and distributing organizations following all day meetings Wednesday and Thursday, signed an agreement suspending all production and release of new pictures for four weeks starting October 14.

The drastic action of the producers was forced by the alarming spread of the influenza epidemic during the past week, reaching proportions that seriously crippled close to a dozen of the exchange territories of the country. News weeklies and serials are the only exceptions made to the agreement.

Pictures already released are expected to carry the theatres through the standstill period in those sections where the health authorities have not closed the shows.

According to a statement made by Adolph Zukor at Thursday's meeting the epidemic has already closed seventy-five per cent of the theatres of the country.

Mutual and George Kleine were among the few prominent manufacturers not represented at Thursday's meeting. First National's attitude is also understood to be in doubt. The last word was that the release of "The Romance of Tarzan," October 12, would not be affected.

Scourge Spreads Rapidly

Meetings of the manufacturers will be held each week and it is promised that the ban will be lifted at the first sign of a let-up in the epidemic.

Percy Waters, Gabriel Hess and Ricord Gradwell, have been appointed a grievance committee to iron out any difficulties arising. Stars will not be paid during the four weeks of idleness, but a corresponding time will be added to their contracts.

Those present at the meeting also decided to discontinue trade paper advertising during the standstill period.

Investigation by manufacturers and MOTION PICTURE NEWS prior to Wednesday's meetings disclosed that the "Spanish influenza" epidemic had spread to such alarming proportions as to practically cripple half the exchange territories of the country. All of New England, Pennsylvania, Indiana, New Jersey, Delaware and the Montreal territory were at a complete standstill, while the other offices were affected in varying degrees. On Monday the Chicago theatres were ordered closed for an indefinite period by the health authorities.

Reports from the balance of the country showed the Atlanta territory the most seriously affected due to the large number of soldiers' camps throughout the South. "All the large cities and many of the towns in this territory have been closed for an indefinite period," was the exchange report from this city. "Business hurt worse than in any other epidemic of city's history."

From Denver came the word that thirty-five cities in the territory, including Denver, had been closed with State-wide action probable at any moment. Kansas City reported all theatres closed, but declared the health authorities optimistic.

Charlotte, Cincinnati, and Oklahoma City are other sections almost at a halt.

Conditions on the West Coast appear to be the nearest to normal in the country. With the exception of Seattle, which is closed, the exchanges are still doing business with all the cities and towns of the territory.

Picture theatres throughout the country are co-operating heartily with the health authorities in attempting to stay the spread of the scourge. Where closing orders have not yet been issued the theatres are aiding by slides and other propaganda in acquainting their patrons with the warnings of the health departments.

New York City is still open, thanks to the energetic manner in which Sydney Cohen, president of the State League and the organization's members have co-operated with Health Commissioner Copeland. The authorities are, however, keeping a close watch on the ventilation of the smaller houses.

SENATE SUGGESTS TAX REDUCTION

WASHINGTON, (Special)—The Senate Finance Committee has made a cut in the new Revenue bill provision for a twenty per cent admission tax.

Instead of this doubling of the present tax as decided by the House Ways and Means Committee the Senate body substituted a tax of one cent for each five cent unit in the admission price.

This would aid exhibitors charging a fifteen cent admission price and who under the present bill must collect a two cent tax and under the new one would have to get four cents from the patron.

It is thought in Washington that at the conference meeting to come later the House committee will most likely accept this change.

The provision for a one cent tax on all children under twelve years has also been eliminated by the Senate committee.

Exchange Manager Victim in Chicago

CHICAGO (Special).—E. H. Duffy, manager of the Chicago exchange of the Mutual Film Corporation and one of the most widely known of the Middle West's film men, died at his home, 5210 Kenmore avenue, Chicago, Friday, October 4.

He was stricken almost at the outbreak of the influenza epidemic and before he had fully recovered from the attack typhoid fever set in. Weakened as he was from influenza, he was unable to combat the fever, and death came before but few of his friends and associates knew he was seriously ill.

Duffy had been in the film business since boyhood when he entered the old H. & H. exchange in Chicago as a clerk. At the time the H. & H. exchange closed he was transferred as chief clerk to the offices of the Continental Feature Films Company, a subsidiary of the Mutual, where he advanced to the position of manager, which he held at the time of the absorption of Continental by Mutual.

He remained with Mutual as assistant manager of its Chicago exchange for several years, leaving to go to Dallas. He returned from the Southwest as manager of the Chicago branch of the Triangle and in September, of 1917 was appointed manager of the Chicago exchange of the Mutual.

"The Mutual organization feels keenly the loss of E. H. Duffy," said A. S. Kirkpatrick, the assistant general manager. "He was loyal, faithful and able, one of the finest young men in our company.

Washington Closed on October 4—Reopening Indefinite

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—By order of the Health Department all picture houses, places of amusements, etc., were closed on October 4 to prevent the spreading of the Spanish influenza which has gripped the Capital City. In the face of the heavy losses this means to the picture industry here, hearty co-operation has been offered by the managers. No definite date has been set by the Health Office for the reopening of the houses. No serious cases of influenza have been reported in motion picture circles.

During this forced idleness of the Strand and the Garden theatres, Tom Moore is taking opportunity to make some improvements on his houses.

The opening of Loew's new Palace theatre has been planned for October 14.

Industry Leads Coast Loan Drive

Motion Picture Industry Leads All Others in Los Angeles and Exceeds Its Allotted Quota—$2,179,000 Was Raised by Monday, October 7

MOTION picture industry is the only one in Los Angeles to be up with its quota for the Fourth Liberty Loan. Up to and including October 7, the total sales aggregated $2,179,000, made by three tanks being conducted under the auspices of the film industry.

The biggest receipts of any single night in Los Angeles was Monday night when Helen Keller, Kitty Gordon, Bessie Barriscale, Lillian Walker, Madame Yorska, Dustin Farnum and others of Brunton Studios, sold $161,000 worth of bonds and the attendance was forty-five thousand.

Friday evening, October 4, Hart and Christie night, receipts were $105,000. Hart subscribed $30,000. Al Christie was there with thirty Liberty blondes and acted as chairman.

Saturday afternoon Sessue Hayakawa and Tsuri Aoki sold $20,000 to crowd and Hayakawa purchased $10,000 worth himself. Saturday night Famous Players-Lasky stars were present and presided at ten selling stations. C. B. De Mille was chairman and made a stirring address.

Studio people purchased $70,000 worth of bonds and sold $40,000 worth to crowd.

On Tuesday, Sennett's fun makers bought $22,000 worth and sold $18,000 more. Sennett bought $10,000 worth himself.

Made Auspicious Start

The subscriptions of the several meetings at Tank "Victory" in Central Park, Los Angeles, were as follows:

Dedication meeting when D. W. Griffith unveiled the Tank; Mary Pickford christened it, and Frank Keenan acted as chairman, $149,100. Saturday evening seventy-five members of the Motion Picture Directors' Association, under the chairmanship of Frank Beal, sold $52,100.

Monday evening, September 30, Douglas Fairbanks induced the crowd to buy $34,200. Early in the evening he made the proposition he would double the amount purchased by the people, and the following morning bought $35,000, making the total of his meeting $69,200.

Tuesday evening, Clara Kimball Young and Blanche Sweet were the guests of honor. Members of the Young Producing Company bought bonds to the amount of $4,200, and the crowd swelled the receipts to $51,650. Miss Young will buy her bonds later in the campaign.

Wednesday evening William Duncan was chairman and almost fifty Vitagraph players and executives were present at the Tank to put Vitagraph night over the top. Included in the number were Nell Shipman, Edith Johnson, Bessie Love, Grace Darmond, Montgomery and Rock, Frank Glendon, Larry Semon, and a number of others, including twenty-five cowboys. The total receipts for the night, including $40,000 bought by Vitagraph people, climbed to $75,300.

The final feature of the evening was a roll call of States, and natives from each State in the country bought a hundred dollar bond, and were lined up at the long counter in front of the desk, each with a card designating his native State, and pictures were made for the News Weeklies. In addition to every State being represented, practically all of the Allies were in the front row, as was also the territory of Potsdam. The latter was represented by marine, sailor, soldier and aviator.

Tanks Get Big Results

The two tanks presided over by motion picture people that are touring southern California are meeting with phenomenal success.

Tank "Democracy" at Venice Saturday with Carmel Meyer and Wallace Reid sold $9,800. Jack Mulhall and Bert Lytell on Sunday sold $16,800 in the same town. Roy Stewart and Josie Sedgwick were with "Democracy" from Monday morning until Saturday night, and the sales were as follows: Ocean Park, $33,600; Santa Monica, $40,400; Sawtelle, $14,100; Beverly Hills, $5,100; Sherman, $2,600; Hollywood, $25,000.

Roy Stewart was named captain of Tank "Democracy" and took charge the following Monday, when $37,000 worth of bonds were sold. On Thursday, $20,000; Friday, $30,000; Saturday, $49,000.

Tank "Liberty" opened at Long Beach with Mary Miles Minter. During the day $364,000 were sold, and in the evening in two hours William Duncan, of Vitagraph, sold $150,200. On Sunday at Long Beach, Kathleen Clifford and Miss Minter sold $19,200. The receipts for Monday in the several towns, including Anaheim, totaled $102,950; Orange and Santa Ana, $73,400; Huntington Beach, Wednesday, $41,200.

Thursday the receipts were $56,000; rain killed meeting Friday, but Saturday brought $103,000; Sunday, $48,000; Monday, $56,000.

Mary Miles Minter continues as star of this tank.

Metro Studio People Are to the Fore

Metro's West Coast studios in Hollywood are organized to do things in the Fourth Liberty Loan drive in Los Angeles. The studios won an honor flag in the last loan campaign, and are out to win another.

Joseph W. Engel, treasurer of the corporation, who is now in Hollywood, is chairman of the Metro Studios Committee, which includes also George D. Baker, manager of production; Clifford P. Butler, studio manager; Bert Lytell, May Allison, Viola Dana and Mme. Nazimova, Metro stars, and Ralph D. Robinson, publicity writer.

Operator Originates Two Liberty Loan Slides

The operator at the Strand theatre at Stamford, Conn., originated two striking slides, and it is reported that each slide brought heavy applause from the audiences.

The first one was: "To Hell with the Kaiser. Buy Liberty bonds and help pay his fare."

The second slide stated: "America's Answer to Pershing's Crusaders is, To Hell with the Kaiser."

The Strand theatre went over the top 100 per cent, as every employee bought bonds.

Famous Players-Lasky Stars Campaign

Famous Players-Lasky stars whose pictures will play an important part in the 1918 Victory Loan campaign are: Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, William S. Hart, Elsie Ferguson, Wallace Reid, Lillian Gish, Dorothy Dalton, Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, and the Mack Sennett stars.

The enthusiasm aroused in official quarters at Washington by the Liberty Loan pictures has convinced the Canadian authorities that the Victory Loan pictures will be one of the most powerful selling agencies to be used in their own 1918 Victory Loan campaign.

Shirley Mason Sells to Automobile Men

Shirley Mason, Paramount star, appeared at the New York showrooms of the Hupmobile Company on Broadway and Fifty-sixth Street and established a new record for speed in bond selling there.

In two minutes Miss Mason sold $2,000 worth of bonds in fifty and one hundred dollar subscriptions, and before she left the platform her arms were full of subscription blanks for much more. Autographed photos of the star proved a good bait for prospective buyers.

Cosmo Hamilton Tours for Liberty Loan

Mr. Cosmo Hamilton, author of the well-known novel, "The Sins of the Children," which screen version of same has just been finished by Harry Rapf, is now touring the country on behalf of the Liberty Loan drive.

Film Interests Press the Loan Drive

Every Interest in the Motion Picture Industry in Every Section of the United States Are Pressing Forward in Fourth Loan Drive

REPORTS of the gigantic progress made by every person and organization in the motion picture industry in pushing the Fourth Liberty Loan "Over the Top," continue to pour into the various headquarters.

It is amazing. On the West Coast the industry has already exceeded its quota and is plunging on ahead. From the New York offices of producers and distributors, from the heads down to the office boys, the line of bond buyers and bond boosters embraces everybody, and they all appear to be imbued with the spirit of "give and serve."

Exhibitors throughout the country are conducting strenuous campaigns for the success of the Fourth Loan, and even the musicians and ushers are so enthusiastic that the campaign continues unabated.

The Motion Picture Industry is making history for itself that will never die. And the Government and the people are apparently appreciative witnesses and cognizant of the united patriotic stand of the motion picture people.

New York Universal in Successful Rally

The business part of a rattling Liberty Loan rally was held in the Universal Film Mfg. Company's New York headquarters, and the total of subscriptions reached $100,000.

It was a 200 per cent. response from Universal workers to their country's need. From the head of the company to the smallest office boy, they all contributed to the limit—and in many cases beyond their limit.

The rally opened at noon with a luncheon sent up on trays from Rector's. It was staged in the accounting department on the third floor. The place was packed, and the session sizzled for three hours.

Henry Irving Dodge, author of "The Yellow Dog," made the introductory address. Then Hy Mayer, the cartoonist for Universal's Animated Weekly, told his famous yarns about Mr. Cohen on the telephone, etc., and drew sketches on a full length board.

Nat Rothstein and Manny Goldstein and C. H. Macgowan then cut loose with the drive for subscriptions, while Macgowan, as general manager, kept tabs on the subscriptions on the drawing board.

One of the biggest subscriptions was that received by wire from Carl Laemmle, the president, who is in the West. It was for $15,000. R. H. Cochrane, vice-president, subscribed $10,000, and later he increased this amount by several subscriptions. P. A. Powers, treasurer, duplicated Mr. Cochrane's investment.

Jack Cohen, Julius and Abe Stern, became enmeshed in a competition with the honor of their departments at stake. S. A. Lindholm, M. T. Colon, E. F. Davidson and Arthur Jacobson, likewise pitted their bids against each other.

"I'll give $500," said Rothstein at one time, turning on his playmate, Manny, "if you'll write any kind of a subscription long enough for me to talk a second." Manny "covered" the bet.

Then Sam Zierler, shouting from the side lines, got Macgowan involved. They see-sawed for five minutes, until both grew pale. Hy Mayer subscribed $500. Mr. and Mrs. Dodge subscribed $1,200.

From time to time the swirl of conflict dragged P. D. Cochrane, F. R. Katley and George E. Kann into competitive subscriptions. Joe Brandt and Al Tuchman, who are on the road, each wired $500 subscriptions.

In the end a pool was taken for a $50 bond, and the latter was raffled. Eddie Roskam won it with No. 11, and turned the bond over to the Red Cross. The party closed with the singing of the national anthem, which was led by Miss Anna Wildman. Then the throng pledged allegiance.

Mrs. Minnie Todd, Miss Blanche Wallach, Miss Wildman and Miss Pomerance took an active part in serving the lunch. Their efforts were guided by Mr. Colon and Mr. Friedberger.

Elinor Field Makes Film for Hoover

While the rest of the stars of filmdom were making Liberty Loan pictures, Elinor Field, the little lady who plays in Strand-Mutual comedies, made a picture for the well-known Mr. Hoover.

She calls it "A Tea Time Tip," and it has to do with the waste of sugar in the American teacup. The film was considered such an effective bit of food conservation propaganda that it was included in Screen Telegram No. 62, released by Mutual October 1.

Fairbanks Sells $750,000 Bonds First Day

Douglas Fairbanks opened the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign in Los Angeles by selling no less than seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars' worth of bonds on the first day of the drive.

In accomplishing this remarkable achievement the Artcraft star autographed for the bond buyers nearly twelve hundred of his own photographs.

Universal Builds Special Big Loan Theatre

Men and young women from headquarters of the Universal distinguished themselves last week by doing most of the work of promoting and operating the biggest Liberty Loan theatre in New York. The structure, the stage of which is an exact replica of the White House front, stands at the entrance of Central Park, at Broadway and 59th street.

Funds for the enterprise were largely contributed by the Universal in co-operation with the Liberty Loan Committee of the Twenty-sixth Precinct.

H. M. Berman, sales manager of Jewel, and M. Kashin, manager of the Broadway theatre, shouldered most of the responsibility. Mr. Berman mobilized the working force and directed promotion of the theatre, while Mr. Kashin designed and directed the building work.

Captain C. H. Carr, chairman of the district Liberty Loan Committee, also had an active part.

The dedication took place Saturday evening, and was marked by an interesting programme. Nat Rothstein, head of Universal's advertising department, served as master of ceremonies. The dedicatory address was delivered by A. B. Leach, chairman of the Metropoliton Canvass Committee.

Before the night was over a total of $30,000 in subscriptions had been taken.

A band of young women, most of them recruited from the Universal offices, under the direction of Mrs. H. M. Berman, worked in the crowd of 3,000 persons that swarmed about the square, taking subscriptions.

Manny Goldstein had the stage a great part of the evening, conducting a peppery ballyhoo. Among other speakers and entertainers were A. G. Morse of the United States Shipping Board, whose son was wounded in France; Bomber Harry Morse of the Canadian forces, Private Jack Evans, Mme. Virginia Sassard, operatic star, and Mr. Willard, "the man who grows."

George Kann, secretary to Carl Laemmle, who is the theatre's business manager, kept track of things in geenral.

Houdini Is Prominent in Loan Campaign

The opening day of the Fourth Liberty Loan drive, Houdini, the star in the serial of the B. A. Rolfe Productions, showed several of his marvelous feats at the Liberty theatre, New York, conducted by the Stage Women's War Relief, and $10,000 worth of bonds were sold.

The crowd literally packed the block between Forty-first and Forty-second streets while the Strong Man showed them how easy it is (for him) to escape from German handcuffs, which had previously been snapped around his wrists by two husky representatives from the United States Navy.

Kleine's Letter Is a Scorcher

Throws Bombshell with Sweeping Suggestions to War Priorities Board Calling for Use of Knife on Picture Industry

"STOP production, eliminate salesmen, cut positive prints by 25 per cent," sums up the radical suggestions contained in George Kleine's letter to the War Priorities Board at Washington.

The letter, which is discussed by William A. Johnston on the editorial page of this issue, overrides previous action of the National Association and places Mr. Kleine.

September 14, 1918.

War Industries Board,
Washington, D. C.

My Dear Sir:

This letter is written with special reference to economies in labor and material that can be effected in the motion picture industry without loss of efficiency, bearing in mind that it has been declared essential.

This concern has been continuously engaged in the moving picture business since they first became a commodity in 1896. At various times its activities have included the manufacture and sale of projecting machines, the production of motion pictures in Europe and America, and in the distribution of the same among theatres.

At the present time our principal activities cover the distribution of motion pictures made by ourselves in the past, and current productions of other producers; we are not now engaged in production, but buy motion pictures from other manufacturers from time to time.

We have distributing exchanges in eighteen principal cities of the United States.

We are not members of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry and its representatives do not speak for us.

PRODUCTION: Accurate statistics are not available, but it is the writer's belief that the average important moving picture production of the past two years has not had a 20 per cent. showing; that is to say, the average feature film, 5,000 or more feet in length, has not been shown in 20 per cent. of the theatres of the United States. The total American output in 1917 approximated twenty-five films weekly, say, about 1,300 productions; of these at least 1,000 are of good average quality, but have not been seen in the vast majority of the theatres of the United States.

We therefore submit that motion picture film production except such as has a bearing upon the war, should be stopped or heavily reduced for a period of time, say one year, to the benefit of the Government and the industry, and that serious conservation of labor and material would result. Labor would include painters, mechanics, scene shifters, carpenters, directors and assistants, camera men and actors. In material there would be an enormous saving of negative and positive film stock, releasing material for explosives; electric current and fuel; large quantities of lumber that is used in studios, fiber board, canvas and other fabrics, hardware, costumes, furniture, objects of art, automobiles, cartage, transportation to and from locations and an infinite variety of other items.

Investigation will probably show that many of the productions that are available have not earned the cost of production and distribution. It is the practice of the exhibitor to exhibit the late issues, which leads to constant neglect of older films that would serve the purpose equally well. This pressure for new subjects, and rivalry between competitors, are the chief causes of overproduction.

In calculating the production output of the past period, it should be noted that the basis is the productions actually published and distributed, as there is a great deal of negative footage made which never sees the light. Your committee has already taken note of excessive negative production with individual subjects, as, for instance, exposing 30,000 feet or more of negative to produce a 5,000 foot picture. Each concern should receive credit only for the subjects produced and distributed during any given recent month, and this should be scaled down as in your judgment may seem wise for the corresponding month in the coming period.

POSITIVE PRINTS: The number of positive prints that are made from a negative varies greatly according to the popularity of the film, and a limitation to this use would be practical. The number of prints per subject may vary from thirty prints to eighty. A reduction of, say, 25 per cent. in the use of positive footage per subject would probably create no severe hardship. The effect would be, assuming that all prints are working steadily, which is not usually the fact, to postpone the exhibition of any particular subject in certain theatres for a short time. If production of negatives is seriously reduced it would be necessary to make new positive prints of some of the older subjects for projection in those territories which have not previously seen them, and assuming also that some of the existing prints have been worn and are ready for scrapping.

ECONOMY IN DISTRIBUTION: The pressure that will be brought to bear on this industry, like all others, by the coming draft will make it difficult to operate with a full staff. All distributing exchanges require a certain standardized force in the exchange office, such as an exchange manager, assistant manager, booker, bookkeeper, and shipper. These positions should only be filled by males with the exception of the bookkeepers.

There is, however, unnecessary employment of labor in the forces of traveling salesmen. Every national distributing concern, including ourselves, has such a staff, varying from 40 to 250 men. These men spend much time upon railroads, are usually physically fit and capable. Their function is not essential. They carry no samples, their duty consisting in traveling from town to town, visiting exhibitors in other than cities where exchanges are located, and soliciting orders from photographs, press matter, etc. There is no reason why this business cannot be done through the mails between exhibitor and the exchange, except that it is necessary for all of us to maintain this force if competitors do the same. It is a known fact that towns with one or two picture houses have been visited in one day by four or more salesmen soliciting orders for their exchanges.

We understand that the Revenue Bill now before the House proposes a tax of 10 per cent. of the total turnover of the exchange and producer. It is impossible for producers or distributors to pay this tax and exist, and it will have to be passed to the exhibitor. In many cases these men are working on a very close margin, and the tax will be burdensome, if not prohibitive. The situation will be much alleviated if film production is stopped for a time and unnecessary activities of employees eliminated. If this were done prices could be reduced by an amount that would enable the exhibitor to pay the tax without serious strain.

TRADE PAPER ADVERTISING: Under separate cover we are mailing copies of the last issues of the four principal trade papers, and your attention is called to the excessive space used by advertisers, fancy inserts upon high-priced paper, laborious art work, etc. In view of the general practice to take excessive space each advertiser is individually compelled to follow his competitors in taking much more space than is necessary. A horizontal reduction of last year's space enforced upon each concern, or a drastic elimination, would not hurt the industry, and would conserve different kinds of labor and material.

A cursory examination of reading matter will show many puffs and other copy which is non-essential and has no news value.

We therefore recommend:

1. PRODUCTION OF NEGATIVES.

(a) Stoppage of negative film production from October 1, 1918, to Septembe 30, 1919, except such films as have value in war service; or

(b) Compulsory reduction of output to 50 per cent. of the output of the corresponding month one year ago; this output to be gauged upon the negative footage actually released during that month, without credit for productions not released or waste negative footage.

(c) Reduction of the number of positive prints made from these negatives by 25 per cent.; that is to say, if 40 prints were issued of the production of one year ago, the new release should be limited to 30 prints.

(d) Permission should be granted to complete all productions now actually in work, even though concerns had no corresponding production last year to avoid the waste of investments already made.

2. DISTRIBUTION OF FILMS.

(a) Forbid the opening of new film exchanges. Existing distributing offices are more than ample to fill requirements. If it can be done without serious damage to individual concerns, all exchanges opened during a recent period, say, within six months, should be closed, as it was a fact well known in the industry that the needs of the business could be taken care of without the opening of new exchanges.

(b) Declare traveling salesmen who solicit ,lm orders from theatres non-essential, and forbid the employment of men for this purpose.

3. TRADE PAPER ADVERTISING.

(a) Reduce trade paper advertising of each concern by 50 or 75 per cent. of last year's space; or

(b) Reduce the advertising space of any single concern to a maximum of one page in each issue.

(c) Forbid advertising inserts.

(d) Reduce reading matter by 25 per cent.

In so far as any rules that your committee may promulgate for the national welfare will affect our business, they will be accepted without protest, as they will no doubt apply to the entire industry, and will not give any concern an advantage over its competitors.

Very respectfully yours,
GEORGE KLEINE.

Honor Roll

Charles Manfre, former Fox branch manager at Omaha, writes Sidney Meyer, present Fox manager there, that he has already seen real action in France. Mr. Manfre enlisted shortly after America's entry into the war.

Fred Goodwins, who played the husband in "For Husbands Only," a Lois Weber production, is now acting sergeant in charge of a party of British recruits bound for England via Nova Scotia.

George Siegmann, who directed Carmel Myers' picture, "My Unmarried Wife," has deserted the films to become a lieutenant in the Signal Corps. He is now in France, according to advices received this week at the Universal Studios.

L. L. Lancaster, superintendent of the Universal laboratories at Universal City, has left for Columbia University to train for a commission in the photographic division of the Signal Corps.

Jerome Sobel enlisted five months ago from Atlanta and is now located at Camp Upton, 29th Company, Eighth Battalion, 152nd Depot Brigade, and he told the NEWS that he was anxious to hear from his film friends. He has represented the World and Select for many years and was for a time with Vitagraph. His activities have ventured around Atlanta, Boston and New York. Mr. Sobel declares that the MOTION PICTURE NEWS reaches him regularly and that he could not be without it. He expects to join the Officers' Training Camp shortly.

Lamont Manston, former employee of the Temple during its management by his father, Frank Manston, left for Jefferson Barracks, Mo., October 2, with men called from Elgin in limited service.

Melton Phelos, who was instrumental in erecting the Rialto, Elyria's most elaborate picture house, and who was manager of the house for some time after its completion, is now among those present at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe.

A service flag with 25 stars—one of them of gold—has taken its place with three other patriotic emblems that are an ornament to the administration building at Metro's West Coast studios in Hollywood.

Walter Morton has sailed for Fraice as field secretary of the Knights of Columbus. Mr. Morton has had ten years in the motion picture business generally as leading man or director. He enlisted from New York and had been with David Horsley, Universal, Edison, R. C. Whitney, Kalem, Pathe and Keystone.

Harry M. Rubey, an official of the National Film Corporation of America, has gone to an officers' training camp at Jacksonville, Fla.

In and Out of Town

H. G. Segal, general manager of American Feature Film Company, of Boston, Mass., was a New York visitor registered at Hotel Astor, October 10, 11, 12. Mr. Segal states that he is in the market for state rights productions.

This week Sidney Garrett, president of J. Frank Brockliss, Inc., was surprised by a personal call from Mrs. Clement Mason, representing Clement Mason, the big film man of Sydney, Australia. Matters of importance are brewing in film circles in far-off Australia and Mrs. Mason decided that only a long personal talk with Mr. Garrett would suffice to get all affairs in the Australasian market thoroughly understood.

Joseph Monat of the Monat Film, Paris, France, is at the offices of The Beacon Films, 220 West Forty-second street. Mr. Monat is in the market to obtain American films for France and Spain.

Influenza Delays "America's Answer" Release

Dennis J. Sullivan, manager of Domestic Distribution of the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information, announces that, owing to the epidemic of influenza throughout the country, and the fact that in many States the prelease showings will be stopped by the closing of the motion picture theatres, the World Film Corporation has been authorized to change the release date of "America's Answer," the U. S. Official War Picture, from October 28 to November 11. This will avoid the necessity for cancellations, and simply suspend the bookings until the situation has been cleared.

St. Louis Exhibitors Aid with Slides

St. Louis (Special).—At the request of the local Health Department exhibitors in this city are running slides to aid in a campaign against the spread of "Spanish influenza."

Hector Pasmezoglu, head of the local exhibitor organization, extended the heartiest co-operation of the theatre men to the health men.

Griffith Picture Moves

In order that D. W. Griffith might continue the New York run of "Hearts of the World," the Knickerbocker theatre has been secured for this production, and "Hearts of the World" is now housed at this theatre, the opening performance there registering its 427th consecutive showing in Greater New York.

During its tenancy of the Forty-fourth Street theatre, "Hearts of the World" piled up a record of seven months, quite a long time for a motion picture or any other form of entertainment in these days of unsettled conditions.

"Expo" Big But Crowds Are Not

Influenza Aids Apathy in Keeping Down Attendance at Show that Presents Interesting Government Features and Good Exhibits by Manufacturers

POWER OF CAMERA

We Always Knew the Box with the Crank Would Come Into Its Own

MISTAKING the motion picture camera which he was cranking near the first line trenches in France for a new kind of Yankee machine gun, seven terrified German soldiers hurled down their weapons and threw up their hands, surrendering to Lieutenant Edwin H. Cooper, of Harrisburg, Pa., a former photographer, according to a letter the lieutenant has sent to his parents in that city, accompanied by a photograph of his human prizes.

Cooper was formerly employed in the Kellberg Photographic Studios, Harrisburg.

EXPOSITION week at Madison Square Garden is drawing to a close with a dismal outlook for the profit side of the National Association ledger. The "Spanish influenza" epidemic is given chief blame for the general public's attitude. The Liberty Loan drive is included in the list of alibis.

In addition to comprehensive exhibits of the Government's war activities the booths on the Garden floor this year are pretty representative of the manufacturing and distributing branches of the industry, though there are a few "absentees" of note. The accessory men are present in good number.

The attendance of screen stars during the week was good, and the luminaries found opportunity to achieve double results in meeting the fans and selling Liberty Bonds. When the complete figures are in it is expected that a good sale of bonds will be shown for the exposition. Caruso opens the show.

Following a stirring speech by William A. Brady, President of the National Association, Caruso started the ball rolling on Saturday evening by singing four numbers to a "fifty-cent audience." The attendance that such an event would naturally bring, however, was hurt by the shutting down of New York's subways and bridges through fear of the South Amboy munitions explosion.

The Government's exhibits include a showing of the work of building Uncle Sam's new merchant marine, the work of the U. S. Employment Service, the methods of gas mask manufacture, a section of trenches showing conditions "on the firing line," and a scout plane and mammoth cannon which aided in the defense of Paris.

Vitagraph, Pathe, Famous Players-Lasky and Metro show up with the greatest amount of exhibiting space in the picture manufacturers' ranks.

William L. Sherry's new distributing organization was represented with an attractive exhibit, while World Pictures made good use of its space to aid the sale of Liberty bonds.

It is likely that the William Fox exhibit made one of the hits of the week with the straggling attendance at the Garden. For Fox let a sign that declared in effect that his organization was too busy making pictures and selling Liberty bonds to pay much attention to exposition gee-gaws. At any rate the Fox booth was the subject of most of the conversation on Saturday evening.

Three booths were found necessary for the extensive Nicholas Power exhibit, and Edwarde Earle and Will C. Smith were found on hand many evenings of the week with a smile for all comers.

The Simplex drew its share of attention at the Precision Company's space where some new projection wrinkles were presented.

Westinghouse Lamp Company, National Carbon Company, American Photoplayer Company and General Electric Company are among the other accessory manufacturers represented.

Workers Are Recruited Through Medium of Screen

Besides the general entertainment value of the two-reel U. S. Official War Film, "Our Bridge of Ships," a specialized use has been found for it in the course of distribution over the country.

In Indianapolis, Exchange Manager C. W. McDaniel, of the General Film Company, has secured an arrangement by which the U. S. Employment Bureau in that district has booked the film for showing in connection with man-power recruiting for shipyards and other industrial plants on Government work. The Bureau has engaged the film for a definite period, and from the inspiring character of the subject it is expected that it will concentrate attention upon the demand for skilled and patriotic labor in the shipyards and munition plants. Other U. S. Employment Bureaus are expected to follow this plan for stimulating the workers.

"Our Bridge of Ships" is considered one of the most interesting short-length film produced by the Division of Films, of the Committee on Public Information, in that it tells a concise, dramatic and complete story of the huge achievement represented in upbuilding a new merchant and transport fleet for the world by dint of America's energy and genius for organization.

Victory Dinner is Postponed

Spread of Influenza Scourge Prompts Decision of Committee to Postpone Affair That Promised Dazzling Success

DECISION to postpone the Victory dinner of the Motion Picture Industry, arranged for Friday evening, October 11, at the Hotel Astor, under the joint auspices of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry and the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers, Inc., was announced Wednesday evening following a series of conferences between the committee and the respective organizations they represent.

Announcement of the new date will be made later.

The status of the Victory dinner, the success of which was assured from every point of view, was outlined in a letter written to Walter W. Irwin, chairman of the committee, by John C. Flinn, secretary, after the present crisis of the industry because of the prevalence of the influenza scourge had been discussed. The letter follows:

Dear Mr. Irwin:

The daily meetings we have had and the opportunity for close co-operation and hard work has resulted, as you know, in an extremely optimistic outlook for the banquet from every point of view —service, speakers, entertainment, and a complete consummation of the result desired—the exposition of what the motion picture industry has done in behalf of the various important Government war activities and the public and official acknowledgment of the same.

The speakers who have accepted our invitation to the dinner are Governor Charles S. Whitman; Hon. Alfred E. Smith, Democratic nominee for Governor; Governor P. G. Harding, member of the United States Federal Reserve Board; Frank R. Wilson, Director of Publicity of the Liberty Loans, who comes with a statement to the industry especially written by the Hon. William G. McAdoo; Daniel C. Roper, United States Collector of Internal Revenue, who will have a most intimate message to deliver to the industry in connection with taxes, and United States Senator William S. Calder from New York.

The entertainment features settled upon include the appearance of Lieutenant John Philip Sousa and his Jackie band of 300 pieces, and the Yale Club Liberty Loan Chorus of eighty male voices, who are going to sing melodies of the most popular patriotic and Liberty Loan songs. This portion of the entertainment, as well as the exhibition of the pictures especially prepared, is in the hands of Harold Edel, who has turned over his staff from the Strand theatre to the command of the committee.

Sufficient tables have been sold and reserved to guarantee an attendance at the dinner of between twelve hundred and fifteen hundred.

In view of the fact, however, that the schools in the suburbs of New York are being closed by order of the Health Department in the fight to stay the advance of the influenza and in recognition of the cancellations of public gatherings on account of the scourge and the probable orders for regulation of meetings in Manhattan, I am of the same opinion as yourself and William A. Brady that we should heed these suggestions and forthwith postpone to a near future date the dinner set for Friday night.

The conference this noon between the dinner committee and the distributors' and producers' branches of the National Association further confirms this judgment to postpone, since the men there assembled, representing the biggest factors in the industry, were unanimous in sustaining the conclusion of the committee.

Permit me to thank you for the splendid co-operation the committee under your leadership has extended during the weeks of preparation.

Yours very truly,

JOHN C. FLINN, Secretary.

Goldfish Against the Tax Raise

Endorses Stand of Publication Which Criticises Proposed Measure—Claims Higher Tax Will Lessen the Revenue

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, president of Goldwyn, has written the following letter to the editor of a daily paper in approval of a recently published editorial criticizing the proposed doubling of the tax on admissions to theatres.

Your editorial of October 3rd states the problem of the proposed 20 per cent. tax on theatre tickets with entire clarity and precision. I think the people who provide the nation's amusements have proved their patriotism sufficiently to be entitled to belief when they say that they protest against this tax not as selfish business men merely fighting against the destruction of their means of livelihood, but as patriotic individuals anxious to help the Government in every way possible. And obviously it cannot help the Government to realize less from the theatre taxes than they did last year.

This proposition is an inevitable result of the unfortunate system that entrusts the initiation of all taxes to men who are no more fitted to make a budget than John McGraw would be to conduct the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The reasoning of these men is that if a 10 per cent. tax produced $50,000,000, a 20 per cent. tax must assuredly produce $100,000,000. As a matter of fact the reverse will undoubtedly be the case. The 20 per cent. tax will produce a sum closer to $25,000,000 than $50,000,000. It will also have the effect of depriving a great majority of people of their legitimate amusements, the people, moreover, who are most in need of legitimate amusements. There is a point beyond which people simply will not be able to stand any further drain on their pockets.

The rustic elements in Congress judge theatregoers by the people who buy their tickets from agencies and pay exorbitant prices. They say: "If people can afford to pay $5 a seat to see 'The Follies' and 'Going Up,' then they can very well afford to pay a little more in taxes to the Government." But the truth is that those people form the most inconsiderable part of the theatregoing public in only one city. If the amusement industry had to rely on them it would be bankrupt in a day. It is not the people who pay $5 or even those who pay $2 and $1.50 who enable the theatres to live. It is those who pay their half dollars, quarters and dimes. It is the people who have to make their weekly budgets with the utmost care, who have to consider every nickel before it goes out. To these people an extra 20 per cent. tax on each ticket is more than a serious matter. It will force them to enjoy just half as much amusement as they have been accustomed to. And does anybody dare to say that it is too much?

The proposed 20 per cent. tax will thus have three most unfortunate results: It will bring in less taxes to the Government; it will curtail the people's amusements, and it will cripple the people who are trying to provide those amusements in the face of increasing handicaps and difficulties.

There is not a man or woman in either the Goldwyn Corporation or, I venture to say, any other organization, who is not entirely willing to sacrifice his or her livelihood if it be necessary to help the Government. But we do protest against being sacrificed to Congressional ignorance in such a fashion as will actually be a detriment to the Government, a fashion that will do the least possible good to the greatest possible number.

SAMUEL GOLDFISH.

Siegel Undergoes Operation

Henry Siegel, Select's New York branch manager, underwent a serious oeraation last week at the French Hospital. Mr. Siegel was taken ill last Monday, but at the time his condition did not warrant his removal to a hospital.

Smileage Book Campaign Southern California

David Bershon, branch manager of the Universal Los Angeles exchange, upon authority from the War Military Entertainment Council of the War Department Commission on Training Camp Activities, this week began a campaign among the theatres of Southern California and Arizona for funds with which to buy smileage book for soldiers in the various camps. More than one hundred theatres were lined up in this work before the campaign was three days old, Mr. Bershon stated. After explaining the object of the campaign and defining the meaning of a smileage book. Mr. Bershon's letter said in part:

"I am going to ask you for your patriotic co-operation with the Commission on Training Camp Activities in pledging your support by giving the sum equal to 10 per cent of the gross receipts of your theatre on one day each month for the period of the war.

"The money received will be sent each month to the War Department Commission on Training Activities, Washington, D. C., where it will be credited to the individual accounts of the theatres.

"The men from the various states and cities, wherever possible, will receive these smileage books and will be notified that they have been furnished through the courtesy of this particular exhibitor. Thus the boys from their home towns will know the theatre where he spent his money, the theatre where his father, mother, sweetheart, brothers and sisters are attending today are doing their bit to keep him happy while he is doing his share for humanity.

"Special permission has been secured from the War Department, so that the theatres can advertise to the public that upon a specified day of each week they will give ten per cent of the gross receipts to this smileage fund. In addition to this a certificate will be given to the theatres, which they can display in their lobbies, thus proving their loyalty."

Lightless Nights Injure Cleveland Business

CLEVELAND, O.—Lightless Monday and Tuesday nights are having a decidedly adverse affect upon some of the motion picture theatres of Cleveland which are situated in the outlying districts. "I have been told by more than a dozen women patrons," said Ike Morris, manager of the Home theatre, East 105th street and Superior avenue, "that they are afraid to come out on these nights. They will not let their children go out on the dark nights either, and we have noticed a decided falling off of our receipts on these nights."

The down-town houses are not so greatly affected by the lightless order as are the neighborhood theatres, because the streets are better illuminated downtown. Uptown the street lights are reduced to one-half of their regular pressure, and the result is that many of the houses are in pitch darkness, especially those whose lobbies are narrow so as to prevent any radiation of light from within.

Adolph Zukor Day in Loan Drive Oct. 12

A large program of events was on the card for Adolph Zukor Day in New York, which was October 12.

Nahan Franko's Orchestra started the day's program with "The Star Spangled Banner," at eleven o'clock, after which some of the very foremost singers in the world appeared through courtesy of Charles D. Isaacson, music editor of the New York Evening Globe.

Another feature was presented by James Montgomery Flagg, who promised to sketch any purchaser of a $500 bond.

Gus Edwards, the well-known theatrical producer and song writer, appeared in person accompanied by a number of wounded marines from overseas, and sang "Tell That to the Marines," his new song, based on James Montgomery Flagg's famous poster. Autographed copies of the song will be auctioned off by Mr. Edwards.

Among the motion picture stars who appeared in person and sold bonds were Elsie Ferguson, Marguerite Clark, Alice Brady, William Faversham, Billie Burke, Shirley Mason, Ernest Truex, John Emerson, Anita Loos and Eugene O'Brien.

H. E. Aitken and R. Aitken Interested in "Mickey"

A story that recently appeared in the trade publications stated that "Mickey" has been taken over for distribution by the Birth of a Nation syndicate. In order to clear up any misunderstanding that may exist as a result of this announcement, it was given out at the Birth of a Nation offices in New York, that there is no connection between the two productions other than that some officers of the Epoch Producing Corporation, which owns "The Birth of a Nation," are interested in a new organization which is now planning a nation-wide distribution of "Mickey."

Mr. H. E. Aitken, president of the Epoch Producing Corporation, and Mr. Roy Aitken, secretary of that company, prominently identified with the four years success of "The Birth of a Nation," are now interested in the new organization which will handle the distribution of "Mickey."

New Representatives for Division of Films

Dennis J. Sullivan, manager of Domestic Distribution for the Division of Films. reports encouragingly on the organization of his department for the exploitation of "America's Answer" and the other films issued by the division under the direction of Chas. S. Hart.

James F. McLaughlin, of New York City, has been appointed to take charge of the St. Louis district, with headquarters in that city; H. J. Marshall, also of New York, will handle the Atlanta district, and Ned E. Thatcher, recruited from the New Orleans Times-Picayune, will be in charge of the New Orleans district. The Chicago district will be taken care of from the Chicago office, of which R. E. Ricksen is manager.

Complaints on Liberty Films

Mix-Ups Cause Some Cities to Feel Slighted — Reports from Most Sections Are Encouraging to Liberty Loan Workers

REPORTS received from all sections of the country by Adolph Zukor, chairman of the National Association's Liberty Loan Committee, indicate that the industry will go well "over the top" in carrying out its part of the six billion dollar drive.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, who saw the Liberty Loan films on the opening night of the campaign at Keith's theatre in Washington, was so impressed with their high quality that he sent a message complimenting Frank R. Wilson, the national director of publicity for the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign, upon the splendid co-operation extended the Government by the motion picture industry. These congratulations have been conveyed to Mr. Zukor by Mr. Wilson.

From isolated points, however, come complaints that exchanges have slipped up in the handling of the subjects, while one letter to MOTION PICTURE NEWS raises the point that the State Rights exchanges have no Loan films for their customers.

Moving picture men of Rochester, N. Y., had considerable difficulty in getting their allotment of Liberty Loan films for the first week of the campaign. Arrangements had supposedly been made with the Buffalo exchanges, through which Rochester books all of its pictures, for the city to have some of the biggest stars, including Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Marguerite Clark. For some reason the films were not forthcoming, the Buffalo exhibitors, according to the complaint of the Rochester men, keeping all the best ones themselves.

On the Wednesday before the opening of the campaign, George J. Keyes, chairman of the Rochester Liberty Loan Committee, told William Calihan, manager of the Regent theatre and chairman of the theatrical committee, to make a rush trip to New York City to straighten out the situation and get all the films that the city needed. Mr. Calihan did so and returned with the promise that Rochester was to have all 37 pictures, which he was to distribute among the Rochester houses in such a way that every house would have one every day and the smaller houses would fare just as well as the larger. Things went wrong again far the first fey days, as some of the films failed to arrive and some of the houses were forced to do without any. However, before the end of the week it was announced that the system was working smoothly and that every movie house in the city would be able to keep right in the thick of the Liberty Loan fight for the rest of the campaign.

Besides Mr. Calihan the Rochester theatrical committee for the Liberty Loan consists of: John J. Farren, Victoria; Henry Kurtz, Lyric; M. I. Salyerds, Lyndhurst; William R. Corris, Lyceum; Howard Shannon, Piccadilly; John J. Fenyvessy, Family; Albert A. Fenyvessy, Strand; A. N. Wolff, Rialto; Joseph Stoffel, Grand; John R. Sarr, Fay's; John H. Finn, Temple.

An October 7 report from Springfield, Ill., declares:

"Springfield theatres feel that they have been slighted in the matter of the Liberty Loan films. Not more than two have been seen there since the opening of the bond drive, and it is now almost half over. The Gaiety and Vaudette, the local houses which run Paramount-Artcraft and Goldwyn plays, Sennett comedies, Chaplin and Arbuckle comedies, have not had a picture from their companies as yet. The Vaudette had Alice Joyce in 'Her Choice,' a Vitagraph production, for Sunday, October 6. This and the one shown at the Princess, 'The Boy Next Door,' are the only ones to come to this city."

From Sidney B. Lust, of Super Film Attractions, Washington, D. C., comes this letter:

"Motion Picture News, New York, N. Y.

"GENTLEMEN: It seems to me that whoever has charge of the distribution of the Liberty Loan films has overlooked the State Right exchanges throughout the country.

"You no doubt realize that the various large State Right exchanges have as good distributing outlet as some of the other exchanges, and I for one feel that I could assist a great deal if I had these films to distribute.

"I want to do my share the same as the rest, and why we have been overlooked I cannot understand.

"Yours very truly,

"SUPER FILM ATTRACTIONS, INC.,

"Sidney B. Lust, President."

Four Goldwyns Selected by Loan Committee

It is gratifying to Goldwyn that four Goldwyn pictures, three of which were produced far in advance of the flood of war dramas, should have been selected and especially recommended by the Liberty Loan committee for exploitation in connection with the drive.

Mae Marsh's "Fields of Honor" was the first production made by Goldwyn with a war background. It was released after "For the Freedom of the World," produced by Ira M. Lowry.

Mabel Normand's "Joan of Plattsburg," in which the versatile Goldwyn favorite made her first appearance in a serious role, is also underlined by the Liberty Loan committee.

Madge Kennedy's "The Service Star," also on the list of selected productions, was made by Goldwyn precisely for the purpose designated by the committee.

William Faversham Very Active in Loan Drive

William Faversham, starring in the new Famous Players-Lasky production, "The Silver King," now being made at the Fifty-sixth Street studios, offered his services to sell Liberty bonds last Saturday. He went to Smithtown, near his own home, and collected an audience of farm hands and workmen from the various industries close by.

Rothacker Will Enter Producing Business

The following assertions by W. R. Rothacker will bear notice:

"Right in line with Mr. Johnston's excellent editorials which signalize the Motion Picture News' war toesin, and in harmony with the true Win-the-War note, we of the Rothaeker Film Manufaeturing Company have eleared the decks for war action and will not countenanee any wasteful or ill-timed efforts or expenditures.

"For years we have been planning business extensions, which, when consummated, will see Rothaeker laboratory-studios in Los Angeles and in New York, as well as Chicago, and numerous serviee stations at other properly seleeted points of the country, but until the all-important war is thoroughly won the expenditure of more money and time on this projeet will be held in abeyance.

"To the well informed it has been no seeret that a speeial series of single-reel comedies, two-reel society dramas and multiple-reel features, all bearing the Rothacker brand, have for months been seheduled for production, but these, too, will have to wait until the Kaiser and his hordes have been properly and eompletely smashed.

"Our Industrial Department will be maintained at full war strength and extraordinary efforts will be extended in this braneh beeause of its wonderful power to hit hard and true along lines quite in aeeord with the great war program in whieh moving pictures are playing sueh an important and effeetive part.

"Releases marketed under the Rothaeker brand will eaeh and every one show educational, industrial and edifying value. We will not attempt to till other fields until the Government ealls for new erops.

"It is our privilege to have twenty-three men with the eolors; our pride will grow with our serviee stars, and as we add a star to our flag we will add a correspond-ing amount of steam to our efforts and our its - up - to - eaeh - one - of - us - to - do-more spirit will develop strength.

"The Rothaeker Film Manufaeturing Company will use women power to the utmost. We will not employ any man whose family and physieal position make it possible for him to don the Army or Navy uniform. We will not permit our people to be contaminated by the presenee of any individual who will not participate in our Liberty Bond, Red Cross and War Saving Stamp spirit.

"We pledge ourselves to live up to the spirit, as well as the letter of the great war program, in whieh the motion pieture industry must play a big, powerful 100 per eent. part."

New York Police See Film

As a part of the eampaign now being carried on by the War Department for the prevention of soeial diseases, the four-reel produetion "Fit to Fight" was given a private showing at Loew's Columbia before the members of the Poliee Department and Medical Corps.

Major Pullman, Chief of Poliee, addressed the audienee as to the purpose of the film.

Newsettes of the Week

Madame Olga Petrova and Frederick L. Collins, president of the Petrova Picture Company, last week celebrated the first anniversary of the formation of the Petrova Picture Company by a little informal tea party at the Hotel Ritz-Carleton. Mme. Petrova was accompanied by her personal representative, Beulah Livingstone, who assures us "A pleasant time was had by all."

A thick coating of pine needles over the rocky lip of a cliff in the San Bernardino Mountains was responsible for Louise Glaum, the Hodkinson star, taking a dangerous fall, not from a horse, but with a horse—for her pinto Indian pony fell also, during the filming of a new feature.

Helmith, general manager of the Co-operative Film Exchange, Ltd., of Melbourne, Australia, was the guest during the past week of C. J. Christie, manager of the Christie Film Company. The Co-operative Film Exchange is one of the first to handle the Independent output of the Christie Company.

W. I. Percival, who has been engaged by Metro to play the part of Jack Bradley opposite Emmy Wehlen in "Sylvia on a Spree," has spent the past eight years in one unbroken stretch on Broadway. When not actually appearing in big stage productions, he has lived on his Connecticut estate.

Jane and Katherine Lee, the diminutive Fox stars, were among the motion picture leaders who attended the opening of Marcus Loew's new theatre, the Metropolitan, in Brooklyn. The children were in a box when they were observed by Mr. Loew. He had them stand up, and then introduced them to the audience that packed the big house.

"The White Lie," the latest Paralta production starring Bessie Barriscale, was chosen to open the Pantheon, the new million-dollar-theatre of the Lubliner & Trinz Circuit in Chicago on Thursday, September 11. A triumph of beauty and simplicity, the Pantheon, with a seating capacity of 3,000, is one of the finest examples of the new style of architecture in motion picture theatres.

The Miller theatre, one of the most beautiful and attractive motion picture theatres in Los Angeles, opened the theatrical season recently with the Selig-Mutual special production, "A Hoosier Romance," an adaptation of the famous poem by James Whitcomb Riley.

M. H. Karper, who last year deserted the screen, and with his own company appeared in the miniature musical comedy, "Karper's Klever Kids," in vaudeville, has again resumed his screen work in a part of Maurice Tourneur's latest screen masterpiece, "Sporting Life."

Kenyon Gambier, author of "Allies," the story from which a photoplay is being made by World Pictures, with Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley starred, has written a most interesting letter dated in the trenches. Mr. Gambier says: "The other day one of our patrols brought back three young Wurtemburgers, and when taken before our captain they began to plead for their lives. Scared stiff hardly represents their mental attitude. They had been told that 'the crazy Americans.' anxious to get back home, could only obtain their release from the army by killing a certain number of Germans."

After something like a week spent in the "hot belt" near Bakersfield, Cal., the Cecil B. De Mille Company making a modern version of Edwin Milton Royle's famous play, "The Squaw Man" for Artcraft, has returned to the Lasky Studio at Hollywood to do interiors. It was, as every one admitted, one of the warmest "spells" encountered in some little time.

George Melford, the well-known director of Paramount pictures, is to pursue his activities for the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in Gotham for a time. He has reached New York to direct one of the Eastern Paramount stars.

William Farnum last week received a letter from his former chauffeur, now an ambulance driver. Jaffe was in London, and this is what he wrote: "Your picture, 'When a Man Sees Red,' was shown here yesterday. I went to the theatre and saw it four times. I think I will go again to-day."

An instance of the exceptional care and lavishness which are prevailing in the production of the great William Fox morality play, "Why I Would Not Marry," is given in an announcement this week that Richard Stanton, the director of the play, is using no fewer than three studios at Fot Lee, N. J., as the settings for the picture.

Soldiers' Letter League Well Supported

The Soldiers' Letter League movement, inaugurated by the well-known film magnate, George Kleine, has received the hearty support and co-operation of the motion pieture theatre managers all over the country and from one end of the United States to the other slides furnished by the George Kleine System are being exhibited before, after and during all performances reminding the public not to forget to write to the Boy in the serviee.

Some of the inseriptions on the slides are unique to say the least but they serve the purpose and have caused many a letter to reaeh the soldiers from their absent-minded relatives and friends. Eaeh slide is appropriately illustrated and some of the pictures have made big hits.

One slide with an illustration from Briggs' famous eartoons, "When a Fellow Needs a Friend," bears these words:

"There is no sorrow half so bitter as the thought you are forgotten. Do not let our Boys ever know that feeling. Write that happy homelike letter to your Boy today."

Another inseription that pleases the publie mightily reads:

"Kill the Kaiser with a fountain pen. Write that happy, eheerful letter to your Boy today. Join the Soldier's Letter League."

Still another popular slide says:

"That 'the pen is mightier than the sword' is just as true today as it ever was. It is the eheerful letter penned to the Ameriean Soldier that will defeat the German sword. Join the Soldier's Letter League and write the Victory letter today."

There are a dozen or more different slides with pungent thoughts and elever drawings and they are doing their part toward keeping up the morale of the army and navy. Many an absent boy owes his letters from home to the happy foresight and publie spiritedness of Mr. George Kleine and his moving pieture friends.

Stars of American Film Active for Loan on West Coast

The Fourth Liberty Loan drive began in Santa Barbara, Saturday, September 28, with the Ameriean Film Company, as in previous loan drives, playing its part. Because of its large subseriptions in previous drives, the ehairman of the local eampaign committee has made the studio a separate unit, captained by J. R. Crone, studio manager.

Team workers are William Russell, Henry King, his direetor; Mary Miles Minter and her director, Lloyd Ingraham, and Margarita Fisher and her direetor, Edward Sloman.

Mary Miles Minter, Margarita Fisher and Bill Russell spoke at the local theatres. Miss Fisher and Miss Minter went to Los Angeles and Long Beaeh on speaking tours. Russell is on a tour to the Santa Cruz mountains whieh he eovered by automobile.

Newsy Reports From All Sections

Philadelphia Thrives Under Price Raise

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—It has been a month since the exhibitors have increased the admission prices throughout the city, and the results have justified the move. The increase varied from five to fifteen cents, and the business did not fall off because of the co-operation among the neighborhood theatre managers. There are so many people living in Philadelphia now who are munitionetting and have money that they do not think of the price of entertainment and so far the theatres have had a prosperous fall season. This cannot be said of the spoken drama, because the business has not been good. Probably the slump has been due to the poor attractions, but it meant good business for the movies, because the public could be sure of being entertained at a small admission charge as against the high prices of the legitimate theatre.

The Walnut Street theatre, Ninth and Walnut streets, will present its first motion picture next week, when "Hearts of the World" is shown. It is a fitting tribute to D. W. Griffith that his production should have been selected. This is the one hundred and tenth year for this playhouse, which is said to be the oldest in America. Thomas Dougherty, C. C. Wanamaker and Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger are interested in the venture. Mr. Nirdlinger has a number of theatres under his control.

Employees, bills and other money matters which require payment will be done in a novel way this week by the Nixon-Nirdlinger Circuit of theatres. Liberty bonds will be the coin of the realm and every one is happy in co-operating with the firm in making the stunt a success.

Lady Tsen Mei and Dr. H. Wellington Koo, the Chinese Ambassador, were present at the Stanley theatre to witness the screen debut of the Oriental lady in "For the Freedom of the East."

Several theatres have engaged soloists to participate in the Liberty sings which are being held as part of the loan drive. This is unusual for Philadelphia houses, and the managers are reporting success with the experiment.

Pennsylvania Lowers Age Limit for Operators

Coming to the rescue of the motion picture exhibitors of Pennsylvania who have been confronted with an alarming situation because of the large number of machine operators entering the service of the nation, the State Industrial Board of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry, has just announced at the capitol in Harrisburg that it has reduced the minimum age limit for operators from 18 to 16 years. The change in the age limit comes in the form of an amendment to the industrial code of the state, and the board makes it clear that the plan is operative only for the period of the war.

Buffalo Faces Many Hardships

Car Strike and Epidemic Unite to Keep People from Theatres—Exhibitors Forge Calmly Ahead

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Buffalo theatres are having a hard time of it these days what with a street-car strike, "gasless" days, and now talk of closing up all together on account of the "flu" epidemic. Last week the employees of the International Railway Company walked out and are still out, with the result that business has reached a low ebb at all the down-town houses, with the climax reached on Sunday when the only way to reach the theatres was via the O'Sullivan route. On the Sabbath not a wheel was turning because of the combination of the car strike and "gasless" day, so that what is usually the biggest day of the week was the smallest.

Now the Spanish influenza scare has reached town and one of the leading newspapers is favoring a complete shutdown of all public places including the theatres. A meeting was called by acting Health Commissioner Irving Gram this afternoon at which were representatives of the local theatrical interests to discuss whether it was necessary to close up at this time. The result of the evening was that it has been decided to start at once a widespread campaign on the screen and in the newspapers telling people how to ward off the disease. The idea of closing up the theatres has been put aside for the moment. One of the big things in favor of keeping them open is the great help which the exhibitors are giving to the local loan campaign.

At present the end of the strike is not in view and the theatres are losing hundreds of dollars daily as a consequence. Were it not for the many motor cars in use, a shutdown would be necessary. Shea's Hippodrome has Doug. Fairbanks in "He Comes Up Smiling," and the Strand "America's Answer," and many fans would like to see these pictures, but alas—the strike forbids it. If the strike continues Buffalo will have a hard time to reach its loan quota because most of the bonds are sold in the theatres, and with the present audiences, speakers are working in vain. Exhibitors are praying for an early end of hostilities.

Charlie Chaplin is just as big a favorite with the second-story men as he is with the millions of honest persons who see him daily, with the result that today the local branch of the First National Film Company is minus one of their Chaplin Liberty loan pictures, which according to the report given the police, was stolen Sunday evening from the office at 145 Franklin street. The local Artcraft-Paramount office, which is in the same building also was entered by thieves and seven reels of "The Whip" stolen. Somebody is going to have a nice little show of their own—when the machine and a bed sheet is stolen.

Harold B. Franklin, manager of Shea's Hippodrome, had charge of the entertainment features at the weekly luncheon of the Buffalo Advertising Club in the Hotel Lafayette. Mr. Franklin arranged a great bill of film features and acts from the various theatres.

"America's Answer" is at the Strand this week, being shown at regular prices. Manager Earl L. Crabb has "Lest We Forget" booked, but had to lay it on the shelf in order to comply with the request of the Government that the war picture be shown. However, Mr. Crabb will show the Metro feature at a later date. The local papers have been giving "America's Answer," some excellent notices.

Enrico Caruso and his bride will be the guests of the local Artcraft management Thursday morning at a special screening of the famous singer's first picture, "His Cousin." Caruso sings in Buffalo in Broadway Auditorium Friday evening. With his presence every exhibitor in western New York will be sure to be on hand at the Hippodrome. It is hinted that Caruso may consent to sing for the local managers.

Manager F. Webster of the local Select branch showed exhibitors "Stolen Orders" the other evening and is now being flooded with bookings for this timely feature.

Manager Harry Greenman is doing some great work for the Liberty Loan at the Victoria theatre. He is being helped by Boy Scouts and pupils from the surrounding schools in getting subscriptions with the result that other exhibitors will have to hustle if they expect to beat him.

All the loan films are being thrown on the screen each evening at Lafayette Square and the stars are doing their bit in attracting large crowds to buy bonds. The screen was erected by Harold B. Franklin, manager of the Features Bureau of the local committee.

The News-Strand Local Events this week is showing scenes of the local street-car strike, and as the employees of the railway see how easy it is for folks to get home via auto or auto truck they are somewhat dubious as to whether the people will urge an early settlement. As a matter of fact the folks seem to be enjoying it. Today the Strand camera man "shot" some excellent views of the Royal Italian Grenadier Band as it marched up Main street.

Rose Tapley Honored in Chicago

Rose Tapley, special representative of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, has been honored by the board of managers of the Women's Association of Commerce, of Chicago, who have elected her chairman of the association's Motion Picture Committee.

Special Correspondence of Interest

Keystone Censor Waxes Warm

Declares National Board Is Camouflage, But Defends State Censors —Points Out Loopholes in Censorship

HARRISBURG, PA.—Declaring that the "National Board of Censors is a camouflage and is deceiving few people," and that federal control of motion pictures "is not feasible at this time," Dr. Ellis P. Oberholtzer, of Philadelphia, secretary and member of the Pennsylvania State Board of Censors, appeared on September 30 before the Harrisburg Ministerial Association and made a peppery speech in defense of legalized state censorship. It was at his own request that he was granted a hearing by the association whose special committee recently, after viewing several hundred motion picture shows, criticized the work of the State Censors and the law under which they are operating.

Dr. Oberholtzer admitted that under the existing law in Pennsylvania many parts of pictures which he does not deem proper are approved and go before the public, but he contended that the pictures are censored as closely as the law admits. He pointed out that there are only three States besides Pennsylvania which have State censorship laws—Ohio, Kansas and Maryland—and declared that the principle of legalized State censorship can be applied to the best advantage only after it has been adopted by 20 to 25 additional States.

This statement he based on the assertion that so long as only a few States have censorship the picture-makers will continue to produce what in many cases are indecent and salacious pictures in the belief that such films will prove the greatest drawing cards. It is his idea that if a large number of States enforced strict censorship so many eliminations would be made throughout the country that the producers could not afford to see the films so generally hacked to pieces, and the result would be the production of a class of pictures that would be clean in their original form.

While referring specifically to Pennsylvania's censorship law Dr. Oberholtzer, though admitting that it is far from being a perfect enactment, said that it is the best that has yet been passed by the Legislature of any State.

"The law," he said, "should never be repealed. It should never be changed except for the better."

The biennial session of the Legislature will convene at the first of the year and apparently there is no concerted movement for repeal of the law, Dr. Oberholtzer declared. Some dissatisfaction has been expressed among Pittsburgh exhibitors with that provision of the act which requires that the board's official seal of approval be shown on all films, and there may be an effort made to amend the law so as to eliminate that provision. Generally speaking, however, there is no united effort on the part of exhibitors this season either to have the law repealed in its entirety or to have its "teeth" extracted.

Relating to the general scope of the work of the Pennsylvania censors, Dr. Oberholtzer said that many of the producers and many of the exhibitors are cooperating with the board in its efforts to provide the people of the Commonwealth with only healthy, clean, entertaining if not instructive films. The exhibitors of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh are now under the control of the board, but films brought in from Buffalo, N. Y., exchanges are causing the board much trouble, as in the Erie and northern tier counties bordering on New York State.

"All films now, before they can be exhibited in Pennsylvania, must come before the board for approval," Dr. Oberholtzer added. "We keep six machines going day and night. The three members of the board cannot watch all of these and, unfortunately, the number of inspectors is too small. When anything questionable in a film comes up, two members of the board have the power to eliminate it. Some idea of the work that comes before us may be gained from the fact that in 1915 there were 20,000,000 feet of original film examined; in 1916, 17,000,000, and last year between 14,000,000 and 15,000,000. That represented practically the entire production of the United States and a considerable proportion of the films produced in Europe.

"I know that the board ought to do more than it is doing or has done, but no board is now doing so much to check the evils complained of as the Pennsylvania board."

Dr. Oberholtzer said that Pennsylvania represents 8 per cent. of the entire field in the motion picture market, but that so long as there is but one State "with high standards" the censorship cannot be expected to influence the studios.

"They are not making pictures for Pennsylvania," he added, "but for New York and all the rest of the States."

Loan Films Aid Workers in Atlanta, Ga.

The newspapers in Atlanta, Ga., are devoting columns to the great aid the special Liberty Loan films are giving in the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign.

The Four-Minute Men have begun their campaign in the theatres and movie houses, and the feature Liberty Loan firms made by famous producers and their stars are being shown in addition to the regular program at several theatres.

Horrors! Can Pictures Be As Bad As That?

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—In connection with the annual report of the Rochester Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, Superintendent Richard S. Redfern took occasion to blame the picture shows for a good share of the matrimonial troubles of the city, which his report showed to be on the increase.

"The women of to-day," he said, "are getting outside the home more and more. And one important reason for it is the moving pictures. Of course the movies are not entirely to blame for neglected homes, for there are other factors, such as automobiles and the temptation of large wages that are offered in so many lines of work. In fact, the whole tendency of the day is to bring women more and more out into the world and away from their husbands and children. Such at least seems to be the case in Rochester, judging from the abnormal increase in cases of delinquent husbands last year. But it is quite evident to me that the influence of the movies in this respect is bad. There are women who spend many of their afternoons in the movie shows, getting home late in the afternoon, tired and in no condition to provide a comfortable welcome for their husband. When he arrives from work, a cold and cheerless home awaits him. What is the result? He decides that married life is all wrong and he declares that he will not pay another cent for the care of his family. All of these cases are not confined to the poor classes. In fact, we find all too many cases where the husband is making good wages and is abundantly able to care for his family. I am not condoning the delinquent husbands, but I maintain that it is not always their fault."

Grace Wynden-Vail Now At Malden, Mass.

Grace Wynden-Vail, who as publicity manager for Southern Paramount and Artcraft Pictures Company at Atlanta, Dallas and New Orleans, made scores of friends in the South, is located at Malden, Mass., for this season, where she is assistant to Manager William Bradstreet at the Auditorium theatre.

Mrs. Vail is also in charge of the publicity for the Auditorium theatre and the Mystic picture theatre. The Auditorium plays dramatic stock.

Spanish Influenza Takes Two Novotny Brothers

The many friends of Charles A. Novotny, chief auditor of the Wm. L. Sherry Service, New York, will be grieved to learn of the death of his two brothers, Will and Frank, both of whom died September 25 at a Connecticut army encampment, victims of the strange prevailing epidemic known as Spanish influenza.

Gathered by Our Special Correspondents

Texas Town Experiences Price Raise

DALLAS, TEX.—A unique event was staged in Hillsboro, Tex., last week when Edward Rowley, of the firm of Robb and Rowley, opened the newest addition to the R. and R. string of Southwestern theatres, the Best. The event was pulled off with the co-operation of Harry Owens, Dallas manager of Paramount, who motored to Hillsboro for the opening.

Coincident with the opening of the house, which was bought from Tom Gaines, who is entering the service, the first gun of a campaign for higher admission prices in that city was fired. The attraction was Mary Pickford in "Johanna Enlists" and Fatty Arbuckle in "The Cook," and, according to Mr. Owens, this double bill stood 'em up for nine hours during the day, something unparalleled in the annals of Hillsboro, which is a thriving town of 10,000 population in North Texas.

The Best theatre has been enlarged and otherwise improved. The entire Paramount output has been booked for this and next season. This is the fourth Texas city that Robb and Rowley have invaded. They own theatres in Abilene, population 13,000; San Angelo, 10,000, and Big Springs, 4,500, in addition to their newest house in Hillsboro.

Newsy Notes About Texas Exhibitors

DALLAS, TEX.—J. H. Snell has opened the new Queen theatre at Sweetwater, which inaugurates competition in that town for the first time in a number of months.

Burns and Burns have bought out D. A. White's Kozy theatre at Hobart, Okla.

Theodore Polemanakos, former owner of the Crown theatre in Houston, and famous for his wine buying proclivities in the halcyon days when Texas was wet and he desired some other fellow's service, has broken again into the game by buying the Opera House at Greenville.

Joe Clemmons, of Beaumont, is mighty popular these days among exchange men, the reason being that in addition to being the owner of the Tivoli he is likewise opening the new Liberty there in October.

Rickson in Chicago for Division of Films

R. E. Ricksen, who was in charge of the publicity for the War Exposition, recently presented in Chicago by the United States and Allied Governments, has been appointed manager of the Chicago office of the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information, which has been opened at No. 39 La Salle Street. The Chicago office will keep in close touch with all activities of the Division of Films in the Middle West.

Gasless Day Helped Theatres

Buffalo Houses That Cater to a Large Automobile Trade Report That Gasless Sundays Do Not Hurt Their Business

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Houses in Buffalo that cater to large automobile trade have not been hurt in any way by the gasoline saving order of Fuel Administrator Garfield. Harold B. Franklin, manager of Sheas' Hippodrome, which house is usually surrounded by machines on Sunday afternoon and evening, said that his business was excellent all day and evening.

He attributes this to the fact that persons being unable to go out of town, picked the "movies" instead. Earl L. Crabb, manager of the Strand, said that he noticed many of his motorist patrons in the audience Sunday evening, they having come to the house in street cars. However, neighborhood houses got a goodly share of the folks who usually motor to the big downtown houses.

Manager E. O. Wineberg of the Elmwood and Harry Greenman of the Victoria, the two largest neighborhood houses, reported that many car owners in their district, who usually attend the big theatres downtown on Sunday, were seen in their audiences.

It was thought at first that the order would keep many away from the downtown houses, but the opposite seems to have been true, which goes to prove that Buffalo movie fans are glad to do anything to help win the war.

Earl L. Crabb has motored to Syracuse with the big Strand camera car to "shoot" scenes at the New York State Fair for the News-Strand Local Events. The films will also be shown at the Strand, Syracuse, a Mark-Brock house. Mr. Crabb will develop and print the films in his own studio in the Strand theatre and the Buffalo Evening News will give the pictures some front page publicity. Mr. Crabb also plans to film the Batavia and Hamburg fairs.

Buffalo houses have been doing a tremendous business during the first week in September, the Strand having broke all financial and attendance records. Sheas' Hippodrome has been doing phenomenal business, said Harold B. Franklin to the NEWS representative. This is true of most of the downtown and neighborhood houses. The close of the beaches, the return of the local vacationists and the growing popularity, as well as the improved presentation of the pictures, are among the reasons given for the business boom.

Winifred R. Sheehan, general manager of the Fox Film Company, who has been confined to the Emergency Hospital, suffering from an attack of inflammatory rheumatism, the result of a trip on the night boat up the Hudson and a motor trip across state from Albany to Buffalo, has fully recovered and has returned to Gotham. During its trip up the Hudson it is reported that Mr. Sheehan left the window to the stateroom open, with the result that during the night, when a severe storm came up, he was drenched. Upon his arrival in Buffalo, after the cross-state motor trip, he was taken immediately to the hospital, where he was confined several days. Mr. Sheehan is well known in Buffalo, where he has many friends. He was at one time a newspaper man here, having worked as a reporter on the Buffalo Evening News.

The Academy theatre has taken up the lead of Sheas' Hippodrome and boosted prices five cents. Manager J. H. Michael announces the raise is necessary if the quality shows given are to be continued. The granting of the boost asked by the musicians was another factor in deciding in favor of the increase. The Academy is showing pictures and has now added vaudeville to the musical comedy stock bill. The Sunday prices, when pictures are shown exclusively, have also been boosted five cents.

Chief Henry J. Girvin spoke at Sheas' Hippodrome one evening last week on "Safety First," during the showing of a film on the same subject made by the Universal Film Company for the Firestone Tire Company. The bringing to the Hippodrome of the Chief of Police was a novel stunt and his speech went over big.

The audience at the Drohen theatre, Dunkirk, N. Y., was thrown into a panic one evening last week by the explosion of a couple of railroad torpedoes, which were placed on the track in front of the theatre by the flagman on a New York Central freight train, which had become stalled at the crossing. Several of the audience rushed out of the building, thinking it was on fire. Chief of Police Fred W. Quandt and officers who were in the vicinity rushed into the theatre and explained the cause of the blast to the frightened audience, and soon after the show proceeded.

Recent Film Thefts Probed by District Attorney

An important conference was held between the members of the Distributors' Division of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry and District Attorney Swann recently relative to the prevalence of film thefts within the motion picture industry.

The District Attorney's office under the immediate direction of Assistant District Attorney Tally has been extremely active during the last two or three weeks in apprehending the ringleaders in the gang of film thieves who have been operating with great success for the past two or three years.

Among those present at the conference were Messrs. McBride, Hess, Pitman, Inneranty, Atkinson, Schaefer, Goldstein, Johnson, Bickerton, Eltonhead and Executive Secretary Elliott of the National Association.

Dayton Theatres Report Excellent Business

DAYTON, OHIO.—The hot wave that has been in evidence in Dayton for the past few weeks has subsided and business is once more normal.

Mr. Clay Brehm, manager at the Strand theatre, reported that D. W. Griffith's "The Great Love" done more than was expected out of it. The writer did not have the opportunity to get around to the Strand during the showing, but when Mr. Brehm says he had 'em standing they sure were standing.

Heavy competition was felt in Dayton during the run of "The Great Love" at the Strand and just a few blocks up the street the Dayton theatre had them packed in on "Cleopatra," featuring Theda Bara.

Mr. John Seifert at the Ideal theatre sure is taking in the iron men during the past two weeks when "Inside the Lines" and a Chaplin and Arbuckle comedy was showing. Every performance a line was seen down Fourth street and by closer inspection they were found to be heading into the Ideal. Mr. Charles Gross at the Columbia theatre sure has been showing some fine pictures at his theatre. William Farnum in "Riders of the Purple Sage" opened Sunday and ought to please the Dayton audiences.

Mr. Harry Neimeyer selling Pathe releases was in Dayton last week and he sure is getting the "Official War Review" in every Dayton theatre.

The exhibitors in Dayton were all very surprised and very sorry to learn that a motion picture man, Mr. E. J. Banker, met with an accident that proved fatal while out driving in his car.

Conscientious Objectors Converted by Film

"At the conclusion of the performance six of the conscientious objectors in attendance signified their change of attitude and expressed their willingness to become United States fighting men," writes the manager of the Liberty theatre, Camp Pike, after special showing of 'To Hell With the Kaiser.'"

E. L. Hyman, Director of Pictures for the Liberty Theatre Division of the War Department, Commission on Training Camp Activities, has directed all Liberty theatre managers to give special morning propaganda performances whenever possible.

Bureau of Pictures Now in New York

The Bureau of Pictures, of the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information, has been moved from Washington, and is now installed in the New York offices at 6 West Forty-eighth Street. Director Chas. S. Hart announces the appointmentt of William A. Grant, President of the Rathbun-Grant-Heller Company, of Chicago, as manager of the bureau, which will be organized to meet the needs of newspapers for still pictures of the war more comprehensively than has hitherto been possible.

Universal Man Invents Liberty Bond Plan

The Universal last week put into effect a new Liberty Bond plan which abolishes bookkeeping from the records of subscriptions by its employees. The system was invented by C. H. Macgowan, assistant general manager. The officials of the Liberty Loan Committee have pronounced it better in many details than any process previously devised for the taking of individual bond subscriptions.

By Mr. Macgowan's method the corporation may enlist the subscription of all its employees, no matter how large the number, without the necessity of keeping a single written record. This overcomes the greatest difficulty that has been encountered by big institutions in their subscription efforts.

The task of taking subscription of employees on the installment plan has been one fraught with the greatest difficulty in previous loan drives. They were required to keep cash books and ledgers with progressive entries of every payment by every employee. Under the Macgowan plan not a single ledger account or cash book is needed in the entire operation of the subscription payments.

Plans were undertaken by the Universal last week, immediately after its system was perfected, to place it at the disposal of other corporations.

Fox Picture Opens House in Texas

The Opera House, in Greenville, Tex., was opened by Theodore Polemankos, formerly of Houston, on October 4, and the attraction was William Fox's "Riders of the Purple Sage." Polemankos bucked heavy competition from other movie houses there, and likewise is situated about a block from the main part of town. To counteract this, he used a string of gaudy-colored electric lights leading from the main street to his theatre. It is understood that Mr. Polemankos is backed in his latest venture by the Beckhams of Greenville and Abilene, owners of the Beckham and Grace Hotels and other valuable property. Polemankos has booked the Fox program in its entirety for the winter season, although it is announced that the house is prepared to play large legitimate attractions also.

"Cavell" Film Subtitles from Original

Many of the subtitles of "The Woman the Germans Shot," the Plunkett-Carroll production based on the murder of Edith Cavell, are said to be taken direct from the documents relating to the case, and this fact will give, it is believed, an additional point of appeal to the picture.

The role of Edith Cavell in this picture, which was written by Anthony Paul Kelly, is taken by Julia Arthur, who, after having repeatedly turned down motion picture offers, came to the screen to portray this heroine. Creighton Hale leads in support, and the direction is by John G. Adolfi.

Y. M. C. A. Boosts "Around the Clock"

The Y. M. C. A. is conducting some unusual activities to put over the "Around the Clock" series. The pictures reveal war service activities. They are distributed by Universal. The first subject was "Around the Clock with a Rookie." The second one which is just out is entitled "Around the Clock with a Sailor," and the third one, entitled "Around the Clock with a Marine," will soon be issued.

Y. M. C. A. secretaries and workers in all cities are co-operating with Universal exchanges in getting the pictures a wide circulation. In several cities the secretaries have arranged with the telephone company to call up every home in the city and notify the residents that the picture in question will be shown at a certain theatre on a certain night.

Sherry Issues Elaborate Bulletin to Exhibitors

"The Sherry Bulletin" is an elaborate eight-page bulletin issued by William L. Sherry, profusely illustrated, and of great aid to the exhibitors.

It is all summed up in the following modest statement:

"The Sherry Bulletin is starting out modestly. This first number is a puny effort. As the weeks and months go by we expect the little publication to outgrow its present anaemic state and in the course of time to develop gradually into a state of typographical and editorial elegance and excellence that will assure for it an entree and a welcome everywhere, for its own sake."

Indiana Will Prosecute Violators Vigorously

INDIANAPOLIS (Special).—All the motion picture theatres in the State of Indiana were ordered closed beginning October 7 as a means of preventing the spread of the "Spanish influenza" in Indiana.

The order, which was issued by the State Board of Health, is to extend indefinitely and includes under the ban the schools and churches of the State and all public gatherings.

Acting under instructions from the State Department health officers all over the State have declared that the order is to be rigidly enforced and violations will be prosecuted. Between five and six hundred theatres are affected by the order.

John S. Lopez to Direct Production for Moss

John S. Lopez, who has just completed the adaptation and direction of Harry Rapf's latest production, "The Sins of the Children," begins next week the direction of an elaborate six-reel production for B. S. Moss.

Work on the new feature will begin Monday in the Esstee Studios on West 125th street.

Exhibitors Box Office Reports

LAST MINUTE REPORTS

The Following Individual Reports Came in as Motion Picture News Was Going to Press

"The Talk Of The Town" (Phillips-Universal)—"Fair business first day, better second, excellent third day. Good story, daring in extreme carried through successfully by Phillips' clever acting and gowning of picture."

"Crashing Through To Berlin" (Jewel)—"Extra big."

"The Silent Woman" (Storey-Metro)—"This picture made a lot of friends for Edith Storey."

"Out Of A Clear Sky" (Clark-Paramount)—"Very good. Average business for three days."

"Peck's Bad Girl" (Normand-Goldwyn)—"Pleased. Drew better than her previous picture. Type of picture for her."

"The Clutch of Circumstances" (Corinne Griffith-Vitagraph)—"Star absolutely unknown. Has not much action to story although not a bad program picture. Business Rotten."

"Riders of the Purple Sage" (Farnum-Fox)—"Big Bill's best. It has everything, story, star, director, photography and punch. Wonderful."

Editor's Note: The Box Office Report chart includes all pictures released since July 1 on which a sufficient number of exhibitor reports have been received to base a verdict. In the column "Average of Exhibitors' Reports" the term "Extra Big" indicates a picture which far surpassed expectation; "Big" means a picture doing better than the usual business for that day under average conditions; "Average" is the grading given the production on which business held up to normal; "Poor" indicates the picture falling below normal in box office and entertainment value.

The comments given are no indication of the number of reports received, as many exhibitors merely check off the grading without comment.

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
ALL MEN (Morey—Vitagraph)....Aug.	Average	"Fair."
BACK TO THE WOODS (Normand—Goldwyn)...July	Average	"Not bad; rather tame; got by, that's all." All out door; rather thin story, but well produced." "Good picture." "Picture only fair; poor ending." "Mabel don't draw." "Average."
BEHIND THE LINES IN ITALY (Kleine—Perfection) Sept.	Average	"On second and last week; picture good educational, attracting big percentage of Italians.
BELOVED BLACKMAILERS, THE (Blackwell—World) Aug.	Average	"Average story and average business." "Good."
BERLIN VIA AMERICA (Fordart—State Rights).....	Average	"Fair picture; good money maker; three days to big business."
BIRD OF PREY, THE (Brockwell—Fox).....Aug	Big	"Extra big." "Good show." "Brockwell's all right, but Oh that American stuff." "Good but people don't want Mexican stuff." "Blood and thunder; pleased here." "Just a big melodrama.'
BOUND IN MOROCCO (Fairbanks—Artcraft)....Aug.	Average	Big drawing card but not altogether pleasing on account of weakness of plot. Only 'Doug could get away with it." "My patrons expected more than they received." "Doug. is story, cast and all." "Extra big." "Big to start, average on week." "Full of pep; no story; took well. Few didn't like it; good business." "Fair." "Extra big."
BONNIE ANNIE LAURIE (Hyland—Fox).....Sept.	Poor	"Did not please." "Did not even get film rental. This star a loser. Picture satisfactory."
BOSTON BLACKIE'S LITTLE PAL (Lytell—Metro) Aug.	Big	"Average picture to average business." "Picture good; star not known yet." "A dandy picture; Lytell coming to the front; it's pleasing; Joey Jacobs classy." "Bert Lytell is well liked for a new star." "Good story, direstion poor, star well liked." "Big." "Excellent business, story not much, Lyttel popular here." "Average."
BREAD (MacLaren—Universal).....Aug.	Big	"Went very big." "It was well advertised and brought good patronage money and satisfaction; the title put it over."
BRAZEN BEAUTY, THE (Dean—Bluebird)....Sept.	Big	"Priscilla Dean is to be reckoned with as a coming star. Her assets are brains, beauty, intelligence and personality. Liabilities, 'scrambled' hair that kills the effect of an otherwise beautiful woman. Slick it down, Priscilla, there's a good girl."
BURGLAR FOR A NIGHT (Kerrigan—Paralta)...Aug.	Big	"A good picture with lots of class." "A dandy picture; they like him dressed up; went big all four days."
CITY OF DIM FACES, THE (Hayakawa—Para.)..July	Big	"Very good business." "Business above average." "One of the Jap's best." "One of Jap's best pictures; average business." "Best yet." "Good picture." "Fair."
CLAWS OF THE HUN, THE (Ray—Paramount).July	Extra Big	"Fine, went over big." "Very fine production." "Big opening two days. Dropped slightly." "Big. Very strong." "Excellent. Very good picture; good acting; brought them back." "Star liked; play liked." "Big for week." "Biggest thing he ever made." "Very good."
CRUISE OF THE MAKE-BELIEVES, THE (Lee—Paramount).....Sept.	Average	"A new Paramount star that registered fairly well for first picture." "Fair picture." "Fair." "Lila Lee made a good impression."
DANGER MARK, THE (Ferguson—Artcraft).....July	Average	"Very good." "Not the kind of picture that has drawing power." "Poor business for three days." "Star does not draw." "Great acting; story slightly muddled." "Ferguson" best." "One of Miss Ferguson's best pictures; patrons well pleased." "Average for week." "Star big favorite." "Good." "Good picture." "Very good." "Average."
DEATH DANCE, THE (Brady—Select).....Aug.	Average	"Not considered Brady's best, but very good." "Good."
DOING THEIR BIT (Lee Children—Fox).....Aug	Average	"Lees good, picture poor." "Average picture." "Went big." "Average." "Good picture, did not draw." "Splendid, but mighty poor for box office value."
FALLEN ANGEL, THE (Pearson—Fox).....July	Average	"Good society drama." "Fair, have seen better." "Just Fox; that's not much to brag about." "A sex play; star does not draw." "Average."
FEDORA (Fredericks—Paramount)..... Aug.	Average	"Rotten picture." "A good picture, but the title kept people away." "Average." "Big." "Good." "Big." "Fair." "Good."
FIRST LAW, THE (Castle—Pathe).....July	Average	"Average Castle picture." "Big to average." "Good picture."

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
FLOWER OF THE DUSK (Dana—Metro).....Aug.	Average	"Average picture." "Give us more pictures like this; pleasing, well handled." "Viola Dana is fine, but the pictures they pur her in are holding her back." "Well acted, but too morbid." "Big, extra big, and average respectively in three day run," Not her best."
FOR HUSBANDS ONLY (Jewel).....Aug.	Big	"Exceptionally good." "Great picture, but a Blue Monday killed box office receipts." "Fair."
FRIEND HUSBAND (Kennedy—Goldwyn).....Aug.	Average	"Average picture." "Big." "Good light picture." "Fine picture." "Big." "Average." "This star is a big failure for us; picture good." "Did not draw at all, picture liked." "Average."
GHOST OF ROSY TAYLOR, THE (Minter—Mutual) July	Big	"A good bet." "Big." "Ordinary picture, but pleasing." "Pleased nicely." "Good." "Average." "Big." "Star better liked each picture." "Minter well liked; second night better." "Big."
GHOST OF THE RANCHO, THE (Washburn—Pathe) Aug.	Average	"Good film, but poor crowd." "Fair show." "Very good."
GIRL WHO CAME BACK, THE (Clayton—Paramount) Sept.	Average	"Pleasing; a few weak spots." "Fair picture."
GLORIOUS ADVENTURE (Marsh—Goldwyn)....July	Big	"Audience well pleased." "One week to average and big business." "Audience well pleased." "Not much—story improbable; acting and settings pull it through." "Good picture; drew fair for hot weather." "A pleasing picture, but no drawing power for me." "One of Mae Marsh's best. Drew well in extremely hot weather." "Pleasing picture." "Average." "Average." "Marsh's poorest picture, did not please." "Star doesn't draw." "Very fine." "Good program picture, but can't seem to interest them in Mae Marsh."
GREEN EYES (Dalton—Paramount).....Aug.	Big	"A very fine picture." "Average." "Not liked very much." "Great settings; interesting story; there on the first night advertised." "Good picture, big business."
GREAT LOVE, THE (Griffith—Paramount).....Aug.	Extra Big	"Great picture, a little slow at the start." "Great picture." "A 100% picture; timely, well balanced, splendid cast, great all around." "Extra big." "Regular riot, pleased all." "Extra big." "Not a Birth of a Nation by any means; drags slow until last reel or two." "Big business to average." "Many said better than Hearts of the World and not so sad." "Pleased every patron." "Second week extra big; pleased all patrons." "Hit my people harder than Hearts of the World because it is not too bloody and carries no German rape scenes." "Very strong feature." "Great picture does not cover it, it is the greatest picture we have run."
HEARTS OF THE WILD (Ferguson—Paramount).Sept.	Average	"Picture and business big." "This story did not fit the star." "Average picture." "Educational should have bought this for a scenic. Throwing away this star's talent." "Average."
HEARTS OF THE WORLD (D. W. Griffith Special)....	Extra Big	"Now in its fourteenth week." "Greatest picture of all times." "Good picture, but only fair business. We make more real cash on our regular programs." "Best picture ever made." "Wonderful, did capacity business two days, could have stayed week"
HE COMES UP SMILING (Fairbanks—Artcraft)..Sept.	Big	"Best Fairbanks, extra big for three days."
HELL BENT (Carey—Universal Special).....July	Average	"Good lively Western play. This star should be pushed ahead." "Good satisfaction."
HER BODY IN BOND (Murray—Universal).....July	Extra Big	"Hot weather, but picture went big." "Extra big."
HEREDITY (Castleton—World).....Aug.	Average	"Very good picture, but weather against it." "Poor." "Well liked." "Average."
HER HUSBAND'S HONOR (Goodrich—Mutual)..Aug.	Average	"Poor business two days."
HER ONLY WAY (Norma Talmadge—Select).....Aug.	Extra Big	"Big City, High Class." "Miss Talmadge as usual pleased all." "A very good picture. You can always bank on Norma." "Extra good." "Good." "Extra big, star losing her beauty." "Average." "Big."
HER PRICE (Pearson—Fox).....July	Big	"Went big here for six days." "Had nice returns from this one." "Sex type; failed to draw. Dark picture all through." "Average." "Ordinary picture." "A very creditable picture." Good."
HIS BIRTHRIGHT (Hayakawa—Mutual).....Sept.	Big	"Went over with a bang, but not much picture." "One of his best; well directed; superbly acted." "Standing out in rain for second show; star well liked." "Average to big."
HOUSE OF MIRTH, THE (Metro).....Aug.	Average	"Very good, patrons well pleased." "A good picture, but title has no drawing power." "Fair picture." "Above average."
HUN WITHIN, THE (Paramount Special).....Sept.	Big	"A great picture." "Splendid big 100% production."
INSIDE THE LINES (Stone—World).....Aug.	Big	"Dandy war picture on a new theme. Star fine, but not known here. Business average for two days with slight decrease the third day." "An exceptionally good picture." "Great picture." "Very fine story, continuity great, did big business despite lack of well known stars; interesting every bit of six reels; not enough pictures like this."
IN PURSUIT OF POLLY Billie Burke—Para.).. Aug.	Average	"Hit everybody hard, a corking good comedy." "A very weak picture; it took two reels, to tell the people that there was going to be a race." "Picture went over fairly well." "Best Burke picture yet." "Very pleasing comedy drama; average business three days." "Average." "Billie not as big a drawing card as she was."
IN JUDGMENT OF (Nilsson—Metro).....Aug.	Average	"Very good picture and star well liked here, but business only average." "Average picture" "An excellent production; well liked." "Fair picture." "Good." "A very good picture, holds interest throughout." "Average." "Good program picture." "A dandy picture; fine story." "Average."
ITALY'S FLAMING FRONT (First National).....	Big	"Went big solid week." "Splendid picture, went big at raised prices and pleased." "Photography fine considering conditions under which taken."
JOHANNA ENLISTS (Pickford—Artcraft).....Sept.	Big	"Gee! but this picture took my patrons like Uncle Sam is going to take Berlin and the Kaiser: some picture and some Mary." "It pleased; box office was pleased." "Pickford never made a better one."
JUST FOR TONIGHT (Moore—Goldwyn).....Sept.	Average	"Very fair picture, star still to be made." "Fair story."
KAISER, THE BEAST OF BERLIN (Jewel).....	Extra Big	"The best drawing card." "Big."
LAWLESS LOVE (Carmen—Fox).....Aug.	Average	"Average picture." "Good." "Pleased, but too melodramatic and impossible." "A good picture of its type; satisfied all patrons." "Average."
LESS THAN KIN (Reid—Paramount).....July	Big	"Very good." "Extra big." "Big to average." "Good." "Average."
LIAR, THE (Pearson—Fox).....Aug.	Average	"Entire week; big to poor." "Very good." "Average." "Not a desirable film, and one that didn't help the star; business fair." "Average."
LOVE SWINDLE, THE (Roberts—Bluebird).....Aug.	Average	"Big." "Average." "Average Bluebird." "A dandy."
LOVE'S LAW (Gail Kane—Mutual).....Sept.	Average	"Fair picture; good bits throughout picture. Miss Kane liked here; slowed up on third day."
MARRIAGE RING, THE (Bennett—Paramount)..Aug.	Average	"Not Enid Bennett's best." "Good." "Splendid production." "A good story, drama pleased."
MERELY PLAYERS (Gordon—World).....Aug.	Big	"Good business for four days. The public likes Gordon, no matter what the exhibitor may think." "Excellent picture; good business for hot weather." "Big."
MISS INNOCENCE (Caprice—Fox).....July	Average	"June Caprice gets no business." "Average." "Fair story." "Fox only average here." "Splendid production; June Caprice's best vehicle since 'Miss U. S. A.'" "Fair."
MONEY MAD (Marsh—Goldwyn).....Aug.	Average	"Fair picture." "Good pleasing picture." "Big."
MONEY ISN'T EVERYTHING (Fisher—American-Pathe).....Sept.	Average	"Picture lacks punch. Good business first day, top notch second day (Saturday and Sunday) when public will patronize 'any old picture.' Fisher too old for these 'peaches and cream' roles. Her work in 'The Devil's Assistant' has not been equalled since. Better try another along those lines." "Good."
MR. LOGAN, U.S.A. (Mix—Fox).....Sept.	Big	"Very good picture, extra big business."
MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY (First National)..	Extra Big	"Best feature of the year. Crowded houses at 105 in the shade. Applause nearly raised roof. My opinion a 100% picture." Big business to advanced prices." "Best picture of war by far." "Repeated back for ten days after running week in 2,000 seat house in 4,500 population." "Big." "Extra big; return engagement."
MY OWN UNITED STATES (Daly—Metro).....	Average	"Fine picture." "Very good." "This picture pleased everyone." "Poor business for a week." "A very good picture; we played to average business." "One of the best patriotic screen stories going and fine star but not known here, and public would like to write 'Finis' to all propaganda stuff; sick of it; business poor for a big picture like this." "Well liked, crowd a little off."
NINE O'CLOCK TOWN A (Ray—Paramount)....Aug.	Average	"Ray could have scored heavier in a more suitable role." "Weak story, but went over on account of Ray's popularity." "Average Ray picture." "Not up to recent Ray standard." "Big."
NO MAN'S LAND (Lyttel—Metro).....July	Big	"Very good." "Average." "Big." "Fair."
ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS (Earle—Vitagraph) July	Average	"Not drawing card for Saturday."
ON THE QUIET (John Barrymore—Paramount).Sept.	Average	"Good cast, fair story, good business."
OPPORTUNITY (Dana—Metro).....July	Average	"Average picture." "Star well liked; poor picture." "Big. Good clever comedy." "Good program picture." "The kind that makes you forget your troubles." "Very good." "Star liked; picture good." "Big." "Average." "Average picture." "Star liked best in this kind." "Poor picture; Metro pictures are getting poorer and poorer."

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
OTHER MEN'S DAUGHTERS (Hyland—Fox)....July	Average	"We did an average business for a whole week." "A good picture." "Very good program offering." "Not a very wholesome story." "Fair picture; absolutely no draw whatever." "Average."
OUR MRS. McCHESNEY (Ethel Barrymore—Metro) Sept.	Big	"Went big for two day run."
OVER THE TOP (Empey—Vitagraph)	Extra Big	"Big business for one solid week." "A great picture." "Well liked; good business." "Extra big." "A wonderful picture; pleased immensely; capacity crowds." "Poor, but pleased. Print bad condition." "Second day better than first; a top notcher." "Extra big." "One of biggest hits we ever had." "Second run average business."
PAIR OF SILK STOCKINGS (Norma Talmadge—Select).....	Big	"Star becoming more popular with each release." "Big."
PERSHING'S CRUSADERS (Com. Pub. Inf.—First National).....	Extra Big	"Did not draw." "Broke all house records." "Standing room only at advanced prices." "Extra big for week." "The biggest card of all." "Extra big two weeks." "Some liked it and others did not. Not a good picture of its kind." "All old stuff like news reels." "A picture every one should see." "We are slow in playing this."
POWER AND THE GLORY, THE (Elvidge—World) Sept.	Average	"Just an average picture; pleasing."
PRUSSIAN CUR, THE (Fox).....Sept.	Extra Big	"Admission increased from twenty-five to fifty cents; turned them away afternoons and evenings." "Only fair propaganda picture. Party playing Kaiser and party playing Wilson very rotten. Worst character for Kaiser ever seen."
RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE (Farnum—Fox).Sept.	Extra Big	"One of Farnum's best." "Extra big four days." "Great, extra big for four days. Going to have a return engagement."
RIDDLE GAWNE (Hart—Artcraft).....Aug.	Big	"Average picture." "Hokum De Luxe.' "A regular Hart picture, but poor; Hart is going. I think he is gone." "One of Hart's best." "Made many new Hart fans." "Hart is played out here." "One of Bill's best." "Big." "Average." "Average business." "Best Hart in long time." "Best Hart picture." "Much liked."
SAFETY CURTAIN, THE (Norma Talmadge—Select) July	Big	"A great picture." "Good production—kept business to average in exceptionally hot weather " "Average Norma picture; her's are always good." "Good; star is extremely popular." "Norma is as popular as ever." "Fine show." "Fine picture; good business two days." "Big three days, average four days." "Very pleasing."
SANDY (Jack Pickford—Para.).....July	Average	"Good." "Fair program offering; average business two days." "Fair picture." "Dandy picture." "Fair only; not Jack's best by any means." Satisfied everybody." "Good story." "Too bad Jack leaves us." "Fair." "Big." "Went big." "Big." "Jack Pickford well liked in this." "Only a fair day."
S VAGE WOMAN, THE (C. K. Young—Select)...Aug.	Poor	"Went poor." "Too improbable a story." "First day fair, second day poor; not the kind of picture for star." "C. K. Y.'s most pretentious Select subject, but story is not very well suited to pictures. C. K. Y. did not look a bit 'savage.' Business good, but——." "Poor." "Pleased."
SHIFTING SANDS (Swanson—Triangle).....Aug.	Average	"Big business."
SILENT WOMAN, THE (Storey—Metro).....Sept.	Big	"Good picture, poor business." "Average." "Excellent picture; Edith Storey at her best."
SOURCE, THE (Reid—Paramount).....Sept.	Average	"Fine picture." "Picture was poor; star well liked." "Star's makeup was poor, but picture well liked." "Great." "This deserved better patronage."
SUCCESSFUL ADVENTURE, A (Allison—Metro) July	Big	"A real good Southern picture is good for a change." "Good." "Good picture, but weather too hot." "Excellent." "Not a good drawing card. Picture well liked." "Fair."
STILL ALARM, THE (Pioneer—State Rights).....July	Big	"Went extra big solid week amid hottest weather in history of city."
TANGLED LIVES (Morey, Blythe—Vitagraph)....July	Average	"Good picture."
TARZAN OF THE APES (First National).....	Extra Big	"At advance prices extra big." "Made big hit." "Extra big one week." "Extra big. Interesting picture but bad finish." "Fine picture, but extra business did not materialize." "Great picture, out of the ordinary." "Big drawing card." "Elegant." "Two days to big business with thermometer above 100 mark." "Extra big." "Drew fine for five days. Public wants this kind of picture. It's different." "Extra big for three days." "Causing comment and interest or curiosity to see." "Big."
TILL I COME BACK TO YOU (De Milles—Artcraft) Aug.	Extra Big	"A great picture and one of De Mille's best." "This is a story that was liked by all." "Hits kids, women and men alike. Clean and thrilling. We mopped up with this picture." "Very good." "Best picture director ever made; class this as a super-production." "Great."
TINSEL (Gordon—World).....July	Average	"Poor title; did average business for two days." "Four days. Many good comments." "One of the best Worlds." "Average." "Average seven days."
TO HELL WITH THE KAISER (Screen Classics)....	Extra Big	"Broke house records. Capacity three nights." "Best thing yet; three days run; record breakers." "Good patriotic picture with wonderful pulling powers." "Great thriller." "Two days to capacity; very fine." "Good drawing card." "Has Beast of Berlin skinned to a frazzle." "Return date; went big." "Opened up big, but fell down awful."
TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER (Joyce—Vitagraph).July	Average	"Fair picture, and star one of the best going with her flowerlike face and womanly appeal; but for the love of Mike, what's wrong with the pictures they give her. Business rotten." "Poor picture." "Good show and good acting." "Poor picture, took off second day." "Good."
T'OTHER DEAR CHARMER (Louise Huff—World) Sept.	Average	"Very good picture. New star for our house." "Average."
TURN OF THE WHEEL (Farrar—Goldwyn).....Sept.	Big	"Held out very well for long run." "Excellent picture; should go big." "A splendid production of a commpnplace story." "Picture did not draw here." "Well acted play, went well with big houses."
UNBELIEVER, THE (Kleine—Edison).....	Extra	"Returned for a week and went big." "Greatest patriotic picture ever." "Very good." "Five week knockout." "Great picture. Gave best of satisfaction." "This picture properly put over makes a big hit, and pulls them in." "Wonderful picture; pleased immensely—capacity houses." "Great." "Extraordinary picture, went big, a winner."
UNCLE TOM'S CABIN (Clark—Paramount).....July	Average	"Just a fair kid's picture; pulled off pronto." "Good for matinees—poor for night. Good picture of its kind." "Average for me." "With aid of colored singers in lobby managed to put this over. Personally thought it awful." "Average." "Big." "Took great; stood them up; star liked." "Average." "Didn't draw." "The best Clark picture in many months." "Poor." "Nice picture; Clark good." "Fair." "Hackneyed production very dull."
VIGILANTES, THE (Bear State Film Co.).....Aug.	Big	"Starting second big week's showing."
VIVE LA FRANCE (Dalton—Paramount).....Sept.	Average	"This is a dandy picture and pleased them all." "Patriotic drama, fairly well liked."
WAIFS (Astra—Pathe).....Aug.	Average	"Clean, comedy drama."
WILD PRIMROSE (Leslie—Vitagraph).....Aug.	Average	"Picture went big; good picture." "Average."
WOMAN'S FOOL, A (Carey—Universal Special)...Aug.	Big	"Big to average." "Extra big." "Good story, but poorly produced. Not enough action."

FLASHBACKS

Individual Opinions on Earlier Releases Received During the Past Week

"Viviette" (Paramount)—"Real entertainment." "Average picture."

"The Mad Lover" (State Rights)—"Extra big in large downtown house."

"The Shuttle" (Select)—"Big for two nights in small town."

"Up Romance Road" (Russell-Mutual)—"Good, but why the title. Well liked, business good."

"Kidder and Ko" (Pathe)—"Good comedy drama."

Exhibitor Service Bureau

Getting Over the Full Bill

You Will Probably Reach More People If You Know How to Advertise the "Other" Subjects

ADVERTISING the motion picture changes just as the public desires in photoplay entertainment progresses. We have always said that it is foolish for any person to attempt to lay down for you a set of hard and fast "rules" for motion picture advertising, for, besides the rules of common sense, "there ain't no such thing."

What would have been good advertising for the photoplay two years ago will ignore the main appeals that you may have today. Not only are the pictures themselves not the same, but, even if they were, you would have to make a different sort of an appeal to the public. And one of the great factors in bringing about that state of affairs is the education of the hundreds of thousands of fans. A great portion of them know more about the stars and productions than do many of the exhibitors themselves.

Two years ago we did not advertise at all, meaning by the "we" the greater part of the showmen of the country. It is unfortunate that the motion picture exhibiting business was built on the wrong plane. The men who put their money into it in the early days did it as an experiment—very much in the same spirit that a man started the sideshow on the side street. He depended on the people who passed by his "stand" to come in.

At first he used painted banner, and probably he advertised "The Great Train Robbery" in a conglomeration of colors. He expected to clean up on this picture and get away to some other town, and he usually did. But after this there was the nickleodeon, and the manager was looking for new things. He took to the motion picture because it was a novelty, but he soon found that his patrons were paying more attention to the "show" generally upstairs than he was to the shooting gallery and the penny-in-the-slot machines in the arcade.

Then came the day of the "moving picture show," and all of the exhibitors in those days thought that all they had to do was to fill the front of their houses with glaring bills and take in the money. They counted on the people walking around the streets and deciding on which of this or that picture they would rather see. The patron was governed simply by the bill, for the motion picture theatre and the newspaper were almost enemies. There was nothing in common between them. The picture house depended on the bally-hoo and the newspaper naturally resented the fellow trying to do business on the main street without advertising.

Then the feature gradually stole in. The idea grew and it has stuck. Then came the star feature with its advertising. It came to be the common rule to use a picture of the star, his or her name, the title and then let it go at that. In the past few months there has grown up the conviction that there must be selling arguments with the pictures even though the stars are there. And this selling argument idea has accumulated until most of the wise exhibitors have accepted it.

But there is another factor that has entered, and this comes in the words of an exhibitor, who writes:

"I have enjoyed your advertising articles and they have given me a great many hints. But you seem to have put all of your emphasis on exploiting the main feature and forgetting the rest of the program. Now I have to give the people something more than a single feature. I have to draw them to the theatre on something more than one offering. I can take Mary Jones and advertise her to the limit, but I won't get the business unless I can convince the people that I am giving them a full offering."

From another source comes this:

"You tell us to center our advertising on one thing and not to say to the public that this is an unusually big bill or anything of the sort, but it remains that the people who live in my town feel that they have to have a bargain, that they have to get a lot for their money before they will come to the theatre."

Now in the first place the theatre that has sought to build itself on the bargain basis is not a theatre that will last. A department store can afford to devote certain days of the week to bargain offerings, but its business is founded on the principle that it fulfills all the needs of the people within its limits. The amusement business must be exploited along the somewhat different lines—that it fulfills not only all the WANTS, but even the UNEXPRESSED DESIRES of its patrons. It must anticipate rather than merely "offer."

It must put over the appeal. It must impress upon the public that this is a show AS A WHOLE that they cannot afford to miss. It must tell the public WHY this is an offering that has the appeal.

Once, when we were in charge of certain editions of one of the largest papers in the country we designed a front page that we thought was one of the "very prettiest" pages that we had ever seen. We expected to be praised for the very fine effect that we had obtained. But instead of that the managing editor called us to the carpet and asked why we had played two stories with equal prominence. Our "very clever" answer was that the two stories were of equal value and that we could not decide which was the most important and so we had used both of them.

"There is only one story of the day," he replied, "and it depends on you to make it that. There is only one story to sell the newspaper. If you cannot tell, make it one or the other, but make it ONE."

And that is a mighty safe rule to apply to a motion picture theatre, but the difference is that the manager generally knows mighty well what is the main thing to play up. But the other trouble is that we have been taught that all we have to do is to use a picture and the name of the star and the title and to let it go at that. Provided that you add the selling argument this is all that you need for the house that is offering the feature alone and then turning them out and getting a new crowd in.

Two years ago the manager who thought he had an excellent presentation had the feature and the comedy and he let it go that way, but there are a lot of others who have realized that in their particular communities they need the news reels and the scenic or the educational, or musical numbers to appeal to the great majority of the people. These are the ones who are asking to know how to advertise their full offering.

Never forget your main attraction. We have seen at the Rivoli and the Rialto six hundred feet of film shown that we would have advertised ahead of anything else on the programme from the point of view of personal satisfaction. But, after all, it is like the fellow who goes in for a table d'hôte dinner. His main reason for going is that he expects a meat dish that will satisfy him, but perhaps it will be the salad or the dessert that he remembers in the end. But the restaurant man could not have afforded to have advertised this salad or this dessert. He must feature the big dish and take things that you and I like better as an incidental.

Now let us take the theatre that wants to offer the "bargain bill." Our advice is against it. You cannot afford to line up one day as giving more volume of entertainment than any other unless you get money for it. You are not only selling the entertainment that you have today, but you are having to bear in mind that you have to sell your program today, tomorrow, and every other day that you remain in charge of your showhouse.

So, except in unusual cases the feature is the main offering, but the point is that you want to impress something else on the public—the fact that you have the satisfaction of all amusement desires.

Now for the purpose of illustrating this we have taken two ad-

(Continued on page 2541)

How to Get Over the Real Appeal to Every Possible Patron

These are two sixteen inch, three column advertisements of the Circle Theatre, Indianapolis, bringing out not only the selling points of the feature, but of the other attractions. See article opposite Another Brilliant Star in the Exclusive Circle Constellation.

Elsie Ferguson, the young dramatic actress who stepped from Broadway to the silver sheet but a single year ago and scored such a success that she immediately became recognized as one of the screen's most brilliant lights, will grace the Circle program during the coming season. Quite the most notable group of stage and screen celebrities ever announced will constitute the Circle's roster of stars for the year just starting and include in addition to Miss Ferguson, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Geraldine Farrar, Nazimova, Anita Stewart, Enrico Caruso, Fred Stone, Will Rogers of the "Follies," Madge Kennedy, Mabel Normand, the Gish Sisters and other favorites while D. W. Griffith will continue to contribute his spectacles. The finest dramatic productions such as presented during the past season will also be offered and the comedy will be provided largely by Charlie Chaplin in his "Skinsture projected" films, Roscoe Arbuckle and Jimmy Flogg. All of which gives promise of the most brilliant entertainment ever offered in a single theater.

ELSIE FERGUSON

In "Heart of the Wilds"

Adapted From Edgar Selwyn's Successful Play "Pierre of the Plains"

The Canadian Northwest, land of romance and picturesque drama, with its trail blazers and Royal Northwest Mounted Police, its virile men and unspoiled women, forms Nature's stage setting to Edgar Selwyn's play and Miss Ferguson's latest starring production.

Always full of lure, ever inviting Adventure, the North Country provides bounteous drama—but the genius of a great playwright and the artistry of a gifted actress imbue it with a new realism. Miss Ferguson's admirers will recall that it was she who created the stellar part in the stage productions.

A Half Hour of Laughs at Potsdam's Expense!

"The Geezer of Berlin"

A Travesty on "The Beast of Berlin."

Well, friends and allies, here's the whole crew from across the Rhine, just as they really must look when reading Pershing's big league returns. Von Hindenburg, Von Turpentine, General Bum Luck, Bethmann Bowlegs, the Turkish Embarrassor, the Clown Prince and if we must mention it, the Big Cheese himself. (P. S.—Golt not included in the cast.)

CIRCLE CINEMA NEWS and ALLIED WAR REVIEW
Latest events, including official government war pictures.

A CHESTER-OUTING TRAVEL ADVENTURE
"Fines Up and Palms Down."

MISS BEULAH DALE,
Dramatic Soprano, Soloist.

The principal concert number by the Circle Orchestra will be "Kol Nidre," Mr. Max Weil Conducting.

Morning and Afternoon Prices, 15c, 25c; Evening Prices, 15c, 25c, 35c.

ALL NEXT WEEK—STARTING TOMORROW

The Circle — SHRINE OF THE SILENT ART

TODAY (SATURDAY) LAST TIMES
Geraldine Farrar in "The Turn of the Wheel"
Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle as "The Cook."

Glorious Farrar, the Golden Voiced —And a Drama That Strikes Every Emotional Chord of Her Dynamic Being!

What a wonderful artiste opera has given to the screen! What a glorious personality has stepped from the stage of the Metropolitan to the silver sheet of the Circle! Here is Farrar, the actress, every emotion surging for expression in this drama of today. The composite of tigerish Carmen, gentle Marguerite, tragic Butterfly. No previous production has afforded such magnificent opportunities for emotional art.

Geraldine Farrar

—IN—

"The Turn of the Wheel"

Gloriously gowned, radiantly beautiful Farrar greets her audience in this play as Rosalie Kean, an art student in Rome. At Monte Carlo a young American has staked his all at the gaming table—and lost. Maddened he presses cold steel to his head when a strange woman presses a five-hundred franc note in his hand and bids him play. He wins—and breaks the bank. As they gaze at each other love is instant. The next moment both are arrested for murder. Dramatic climax after dramatic climax follows—suspense creeps after suspense—while the magnificent art of Geraldine Farrar sways one at its will.

A Side Dish of Culinary Comedy

—With the Funster Who Made the Custard Pie a Classic

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle As "THE COOK"

Circle Cinema News and Allied War Review
Latest News Pictures of Events at Home and "Over There."

PRICES
Mornings and afternoons.....15c, 25c
Evenings...15c, 25c, 35c
War Tax Paid.

Songs from Grandfather's Day
Miss Jane English
The renowned coloratura in a costume and scenic song recital, "A Bit of Crinoline."
Excerpts from Bizet's "Carmen," presented by the Circle Orchestra, Mr. Max Weil conducting.

ONE SOLID WEEK—STARTING TOMORROW

The Circle — SHRINE OF THE SILENT ART

TODAY (SATURDAY) LAST TIMES
Special State Fair Week Attraction.
"ITALY'S FLAMING FRONT"
and DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS in "BOUND IN MOROCCO."

WHEN HE COMES BACK

Do You Work Upon the Successes of a Player in the Past?

SUPPOSE you have an unusually good picture that causes comment of the public and that in this the work of some player stands out? Do you remember that fact and do you use it for your benefit in exploiting the next picture in which that player appears?

If you are one of the managers that keeps himself close to his public you will overhear a great deal of comment. We do not advise the manager to ask his patron for his opinion of a particular film. Often the patron will not express his real feeling; in other cases it simply invites adverse criticism that would not be voiced. But the comment that you overhear, that comes to you directly is the valuable sort.

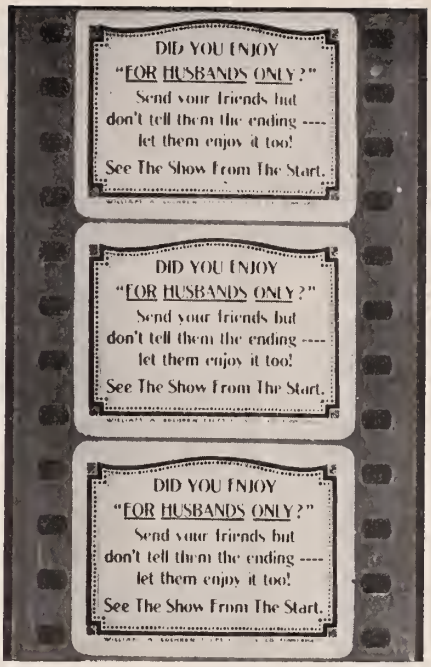
Recently in an unusually fine production one player made a pronounced impression. A manager tells us that he used this in a way that brought him greatly increased returns in the next picture in which the player appeared, although the name of the actor did not figure in any of the producer's advertising. But the exhibitor had saved his scene cuts of the first production and used cut outs of the player from these and the second and then featured in his lobby the fact that such and such an actor was coming again.

Everybody who had been impressed with the first picture came. Just a little thought added many dollars to the box office receipts.

Town of 5,000 Runs Films Ahead of Big Cities

Is this a record? T. E. Barnes, manager of the Mission theatre in Sulphur Springs, Texas, a town with a census population of 5,151, is believed to be the only exhibitor in a city of that size who gets a print of a new weekly direct from New York and shows it several days before his key city of Dallas gets the same picture. He is running the Pathe news weekly and is making it one of the features of his program.

He is pursuing the same policy with many of his feature productions and recently he played the first of the Lila Lee pictures, "The Cruise of the Make-Believes," several weeks ahead of the Queen theatre in Dallas. Mr. Barnes declares that he has built up a large trade in the surrounding country by being able to advertise that he shows pictures first in his whole section of the country and that the added expense is justified by his receipts.



DID YOU ENJOY
"FOR HUSBANDS ONLY?"
Send your friends but don't tell them the ending ----
let them enjoy it too!
See The Show From The Start.
DID YOU ENJOY
"FOR HUSBANDS ONLY?"
Send your friends but don't tell them the ending ----
let them enjoy it too!
See The Show From The Start.
DID YOU ENJOY
"FOR HUSBANDS ONLY?"
Send your friends but don't tell them the ending ----
let them enjoy it too!
See The Show From The Start.

These inexpensive trailers make people talk more about current pictures.

Trailer Urges Patrons to Tell Friends About "Talk of the Town"

HERE is an idea that will appeal with an unusual picture.

Arthur G. Stolte, manager of the Strand theatre, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, had a twenty foot trailer made to be used at the end of "For Husbands Only." It is rather an unusual thing to advertise the picture that has just been projected, but Mr. Stolte found that it was good business because it resulted in more talk about the feature. The simple invitation for those present to "tell their friends" had an excellent effect.

The sentence, "See the show from the start," was coupled up with the newspaper advertising, which gave the hours at which the different performances started.

Mr. Stolte, by the way, has just left the management of the Cedar Rapids house and has taken a position with the midwest "Hearts of the World" company and will go on tour with that attraction.

Phonograph and Organ Used with Farrar Picture

During the premier presentation of the first Goldwyn-Geraldine Farrar picture, "The Turn of the Wheel," at the Standard theatre, Cleveland, O., Manager Joseph Grossman used a phonograph to good results. He obtained one of the largest models of phonographs and placed it on the stage. Two of Miss Farrar's records were used, but with an organ accompaniment which increased the similarity to the natural voice. Three of the Victrola dealers of Cleveland also co-operated by using large pictures of the star and a set of scenes from the production.

SPECIAL SERVICE

Tell Us of Suggestions Follower or Your Better Ideas

ALMOST every week these appears in the NEWS a special service section on some picture, matter prepared by the Exhibitors' Service Bureau. The first of these Special Service sections ever issued was on "Over the Top" and it has been followed by numerous others. In the last three issues "Crashing Through to Berlin," "Talk of the Town" and "The Border Wireless" have been covered. There will be another next week.

We would like to have accounts from exhibitors of the way that they have employed any of the suggestions made in these special sections, for the result is to spur other exhibitors on to try to do things and the net result will be that the producer will afford you more and more cooperation. When you show your interest in getting better results, you are going to have better and better aids supplied you.

And where you have used your own and better ideas, don't fail to let us hear what you have done. In all cases send pictures of lobby displays or stage settings and specimens of the advertising.

This is aimed to be real service and not a series of "stunts" that will land the exhibitor before the city judge or make him the laughing stock of the town.

Real Sawdust Trail Featured in Adrian Theatre

You can hit the "sawdust trail," a la Billy Sunday, if you visit Adrian, Mich., and attend the theatre conducted by enterprising Elwyn M. Simons. Mr. Simons has gone some of the others one better by inviting those who wish to go on the stage and sing to the audience.

Down the aisle of the theatre sawdust is sprinkled and the two young men, who conduct the sing, suggest that every one come on the stage.

"There is always some one in a crowd who likes to go before an audience," says Mr. Simons, "and this satisfies them. The more modest people may set in their seats and sing, but a number always go on the stage. And this brings many who want to hit the trail again or spectators who wish to see who hits the trail."

Mr. Simons has had cards printed containing the chorus of six songs, "Smiles," "What Are You Going to Do to Help the Boys?" "Over There," "Keep the Home Fires Burning," "Liberty Bell" and "We'll Nail the Stars and Stripes to the Kaiser's Door," the latter being the product of an Adrian composer.

Exhibitors' Contribution Toward American Victory

They have real stage settings in some of the Liberty theatres. Here are two views taken at Camp Travis, Texas, where more and more patrons for you, after the war, are being made

By Edward L. Hyman

Film Director, United States Liberty theatre, War Department Commission on Training Camp Activities

SECOND only to the actual fighting man, the exhibitor's contribution toward victory is greater than any other class of industry.

His craft—the knowledge of showmanship—combined with those powers of necromancy afforded by that magic space behind the footlights, enables the live theatre manager, to make his showshop the most potent medium in the land for the selling of Liberty Bonds. He controls the possibilities of the psychological moment because he can drive home to his people the truth that it is their sacred privilege to buy the Government securities of the United States of America. American audiences worked up to this realization will buy until it hurts.

And so, let every exhibitor in this great republic of the West assume his full share of the responsibility which his position calls for. Let him express through his efforts the appreciation he feels toward the tribute paid him by the governmental declaration that pictures are a war-time essential.

And in the name of the hosts of khaki who are fighting for us on the Western front; in the name of the boys in blue who are keeping the sea-paths open; in the name of Democracy and Freedom; and in the fair name of the industry—come! quick! now! put your shoulder to the wheel and help to keep inviolate the unsullied traditions of the American people.

Our country, the greatest democracy of all time, allied with the decent nations of the earth against the menace of the hellish Hun, is fearlessly facing this modern ordeal by fire.

Her tremendous resources, her vast reservoirs of men and materials, are being swiftly developed to that point where they will prove to be the controlling factor in this colossal conquest against Kultur.

And in these days of stress, with the "carry on" note influencing every move of individual and nation, there is no greater servant to the needs of the Government than the motion picture theatre.

Has it not been placed on the essential list by the War Industries Board? Surely the full significance of this splendid recognition has brought home to every exhibitor in the land the signal honor which his Government has accorded him. He has been given a message to deliver and through his forum, which he can make a well-spring of patriotism in the center of his community, he can deliver this message and carry on for Uncle Sam with the same fervor, the same ardent zeal and the same "pep" which is being displayed by our overseas stalwarts.

Pershing's battalion fighting with boyonets, bombs and batteries are crushing Kaiserism over there.

Over here, the exhibitor with his weapons, the screen, the Four Minute Man, the special Liberty Loan film and the patriotic picture, is the soldier who must stamp out the smouldering sparks of sabotage, spread "win the war" propaganda, and help to maintain that intense feeling of loyalty and co-operation which has thus far enabled America to accomplish the seemingly impossible.

ADVISORY BOARD, EXHIBITORS SERVICE BUREAU

Samuel L. Rothapfel, Rialto and Rivoll theatres, New York.
Thomas D. Soriero, Park theatre, Boston, and Strand theatres, Lowell.
Harold B. Franklin, Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo.
Edw. L. Hyman, Film Director, U. S. Liberty Theatres, New York.
E. Mandlebaum, Loew's Stillman theatre, Cleveland.
Mrs. Joseph Grossman, Standard theatre, Cleveland.
George J. Schade, Schade theatre, Sandusky.
H. C. Horater, Alhambra theatre, Toledo.
Mark Gates, Dayton Theatre, Dayton, O.
S. Barret McCormick, Circle theatre, Indianapolls.
Theo. L. Hays, New Garrick theatre, St. Paul.
M. W. McGee, Majestic theatre, Detroit.
A. F. Moeller, Theatret de Luxe, Detroit.
Chas. G. Branham, Strand theatre, Minneapolls.
Leo A. Landau, Butterfly theatre, Milwankee.
Charles C. Perry, Liberty theatre, Camp Cody, Texas.
W. S. McLaren, Majestic and Colonial Theatres, Jackson, Mich.
Miss Flossie A. Jones, Waukesha Amusement Co., Waukesha, Wis.
Willard C. Patterson, Criterion theatre, Atianta, Ga.
E. V. Richards, Jr., General Manager, Saenger Amusement Co., New Orleans.
Ernst Boehringer, Liberty theatre, New Orleans.
C. A. Lick, New theatre, Fort Smith, Ark.
F. L. Newman, Royal and Regent theatres, Kansas City, Mo.
Herbert J. Thacher, Strand theatre, Salina, Kan.
H. M. Thomas, Strand theatre, Omaha.
Ralph Ruffner, Rialto theatre, Butte.
A. H. Hilton, Paramount Theatre, Lewiston, Idaho.
George E. Carpenter, Paramount-Empress theatre, Salt Lake.
Sam W. B. Cohn, Liberty theatre, Spokane.
G. F. Fullerton, Advertising Manager, Greater Theatres Co., Seattle.
E. J. Myrick, Liberty theatre, Portland, Ore.
A. S. Kolstad, Liberty theatre, Hood River, Ore.
P. E. Noble, Publicity Manager, Liberty and Columbia theatres, Seattle.
Eugene H. Roth, California theatre, San Francisco.
J. A. Partington, Imperial theatre, San Francisco.
Sidney Grauman, Grauman's theatre, Los Angeles.

Your Idea and Ours

HERE are two displays that go to extremes. The Strand theatre, Denver, makes the picture of Fannie Ward practically the whole thing and omits any selling talk on the specific picture. Alhambra theatre, Indianapolis, makes the name of

ALHAMBRA
FIRST HALF THIS WEEK
CONSTANCE TALMADGE
BUOYANT WITH YOUTH, VIVACIOUSNESS AND FRESH BEAUTY IN
Mrs. LEFFINGWELL'S BOOTS
She thought they were an EXCLUSIVE design and they fit her pretty foot like a silken glove
Mr. Leffingwell also thought they were EXCLUSIVE—so much so that when he saw another pair just like them in another man's house, he believed them to be his wife's. THEN—
Suspicion slapped him right in the eye with those dainty boots—and you know what that means!
SCREEN TELEGRAM
MUTT and JEFF

the production the dominating thing, puts Constance Talmadge in the background and then does not even mention that "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots" is taken from the famous stage production.

We'll admit that since so many motion pictures have been made from legitimate successes and noted books that the playing up of the author has been very badly overdone in many instances, but certainly here is a case where the designer of the advertisement was convinced that the name of the production was the big thing—and then he failed to tell the public why. We would rather have played Miss Talmadge a little stronger. But there is an excellent sales talk with this picture that doubtless got the people to the theatre just the same.

In the case of the Denver display we fail

FANNIE WARD
IN "THE JAPANESE NIGHTINGALE"
STRAND —NOW PLAYING— STRAND
This Vivacious Star as YUKI, the Geisha Girl, Adds New Laurels to Her Most Enviable Reputation to see why anyone except the ardent admirers of Miss Ward went to the Strand during the engagement. A picture of a pretty woman always serves to draw attention to an advertisement, but what is the use of drawing that attention if there is nothing else there. While there is no question about the pulling power of a star's name, the time has passed when the greater portion of the public will go to see a star and nothing else. They want to know something about the picture. The name of the star will make it easier to sell them the specific production, but you have to have the sales argument unless you are depending upon some freak of fortune to get the patronage.

There is one so-called selling line in this whole display and almost hidden away. It is "This vivacious star as Yuki, the Geisha girl, adds new laurels to her most enviable reputation." Now ask yourself: What does that mean to the public? Granted that all of this is true, tell the public WHY she adds new laurels, tell them something about the offering, something about her role, stimulate the heart interest.

Some people are always looking for an excuse: that's the reason they are.

THIS is a splendid example of making the drawing do most of the work. It comes from Rialto theatre, San Francisco, and occupies a space nine inches deep across four columns.

The old story of the moth and the flame is well applied here and when you have the line "He played with fire. How many

HE PLAYED WITH FIRE... How Many of Us Have Done the Same?
Starting Tomorrow, RIALTO THEATRE presents That Supreme Actress
THEDA BARA
—in—
"When a Woman Sins"
RIALTO
MARKET NEAR SEVENTH

of you have done the same?" and then the title and the name of Theda Bara, you have the selling argument of the picture put over in the fewest possible words. In the oval at the foot of the candlestick is a scene from the production, though it is barely noticeable in the great reduction made here.

Recently we made some remarks about the use of meaningless cuts as worse than no cuts at all, but when you can get a drawing of this character that is so full of punch and understandable by everyone you serve the double purpose of catching the eye and then telling your story in almost a single flash.

STARTS TOMORROW
LIBERTY
EIGHT DAYS
The Master Mind of Motion Pictures
D.W. GRIFFITH PRESENTS
THE GREAT LOVE
ALWAYS—MURTAGH, MASTER MUSICIAN
POSITIVELY NO RAISE IN PRICES
Consistent with our policy of showing the best at the lowest possible price, we announce D. W. Griffith's latest (and some say his greatest) super-story (seven reels) at our regular prices—practically the entire cast of "Hearts of the World" and "Birth of a Nation," including Henry Walthall, Lillian Gish, Robert Harron, Rosemary Theby, George Siegman and Gloria Hope are seen in this wonder drama

HERE is one of the few cases where we have to hand it to the boxed effects. It is the work of P. E. Noble, who was formerly manager for the American theatre, Butte, and who is now manager of the Columbia, Portland, and advertising manager for the Jensen and von Herberg houses there.

Now Noble had a number of things to say about this picture and he put these over in six different punches, each short and to the point and each separate and distinct. We like especially the way that Griffith was featured as "the master mind of motion pictures." There was a reason for the peculiar method of this appeal—to get into the theatre people who do not ordinarily go to motion pictures, and we haven't the slightest doubt that it will go then.

THIS is always the day.

IT can't be done. The moment that you try to advertise two things in equal value at the same time you are going to cause a confused effect. Now some of the gest advertising that has been produced in these columns has been represented by the work of the Modern theatre, Providence, R. I. But this is not one of them. The only effect that is gained by this display is that of quantity, and, in our opinion, if you are advertising your theatre merely for the mass of the bill that you have to offer you are neither exploiting one idea or are you building for your house.

This one occupies eight inches across five columns. In order to give the "balance" to the advertisement the designer thought that he had to use scenes from both productions. A careful analysis will show which picture belongs to which production, but you have to "figure" to find out, and when you set a reader off to such a start you offer a handicap.

What Live Wires are Doing

If you have to give "bargain" bills, why not play up one of your pictures and sell THAT ONE, and then, as the best of business, offer the other one as our well known vaudeville friend, "Added Attraction."

Are your shoestings always untied? Maybe your theatre is.

LAST week we had something to say about the Colonial theatre, Toledo, O., using a quarter of a page and then crowding the display up with a mass of matter. We haven't anything to take back about that, but justice demands us to tell you that the Colonial is not remaining in that habit. This theatre is running mainly Fox productions and has begun to hit the really big points in advertising them.

Here is a quarter of a page on William Farnum in "Riders of the Purple Sage" which, with a little better half-tone work

ADMISSION
COLONIAL
ONE SOLID WEEK
Commencing Sunday! Sept. 1st
WILLIAM FARNUM
IN A NEW WM. FOX PRODUCTION
RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE
A PICTURIZATION OF ZANE GREY'S FAMOUS NOVEL
See the Mightiest Two-Gun Fighter that the great West ever knew
A Story of Love, Mystery and Adventure in the Great West...
Your blood will tingle at the of deeds the avenger
ENACTED BY ALL STAR CAST

or printing—which ever is the matter—would have been almost an ideal display. There is just one line in this that we do not like and that is: "See the mightiest two-gun fighter that the West ever knew." Now W. S. Hart has been coupled in the minds of the public with the "two-gun" spirit, and the impression that you leave on some people is that this is an imitation of his work. Of course it is not, and it is a production that stands on his merits, but it is a mighty good idea to avoid in all of your exploitation anything that any reader might consider imitative or misleading—especially when there is not the silghtest excuse for this. The designer had already used a picture of Farnum that bore out that idea, so why go further?

If you are as ponderous as a complete one-volume dictionary you will be sought just about as often.

OUR impression is that "The Unbeliever" had been shown in Rochester, N. Y., before it was presented at the Grand theatre, and therefore that house expected that there would be hundreds of people who wanted to see it and who had failed to come at the original showing. Of course that is the theory of return bookings—to get the value of the great amount of word of mouth advertising.

But why make the display as blind as possible. This display is only 3½ inches single column, and about one-tenth the space that the production deserves, but even if you are not going to use any more space why not make the lines that you use say something. "A picture that every American should see. One of the most intense photodramas ever shown in Rochester." For heaven's sake what a case of mere verbiage.

"They spin not, neither do they sow." It might be paraphrased? "They advertise not, neither do they get business.

HERE is one of the best examples of using cut matter supplied by the producer and of the local advertising designer thinking at the same time. Twelve inches, three columns is used by the Trianon theatre, New Orleans, and if this display did not bring the crowds into the theatre nothing will bring them.

The main cut is one supplied by Universal, but a large part of the reading matter is the work of the advertising designer. The only slight fault that we have to find is evidently that of the composition. We would have had the words, "You Can't" and "Play with Fire" aligned or have used a bracket there. There is a clever idea introduced just below the cut under the heading, "What They All Say" where "Grandpa" and "Grandma" and "Sister Sue" and "Brother Bill" are

PEARCE'S TRIANON
TODAY AND THRU FRIDAY
Play With Fire Without Getting Burned!
YOU CAN'T
Little Toot thought she had it all over "friend husband" in her flirtatious "carrying-on" with the Man-About-Town. But—DID SHE?
"For Husbands Only"
Jewel Incorporated Presents
Lois Weber's
Smart Screen Camouflage
With a Brand New Story, and Daringly French
Big Dramatic Treat for the Whole Family
Featuring
Mildred Harris
What They'll All Say:
Grandpa "Ha! Ha! She's a peach, all right!"
Grandma "Scandalous! Nothing like that when I was a girl!"
Sister Sue "Isn't she a darling—and those gowns!"
Brother Bill "I'd like to see some Jane put that over ME!"
Don't Forget to Bring Your Wife!
What Will She Say? Well, We're Married Ourselves, So We Know What YOU'LL GET!
ALL THE NEWS—IN THE GAUMONT NEWS
—Pictorial review of our boys "Over There"—some are harvesting while others fight.
—Preparations for the Fourth Liberty Loan Drive.

quoted. It shows that it is a picture that will appeal to the whole family.

"For Husbands Only" has been responsible for an unusual amount of good advertising all over the country, but of all the specimens that we have examined we believe that this is just about the best because it involves the right element of spice with the proper appeal to the whole family. Consistent advertising like this will certainly make for a theatre's prestige.

Recently we commented adversely on the fact that the two leading Pearce theatres, the Tudor and the Trianon were being advertised together. We are mighty glad to see that this has been stopped. Now while the Tudor uses smaller space, 3½ inches double, the designer has done splendid work here again. In that limited space there could have been nothing more striking than the largest possible cut of Margarita Fisher, with a few lines of selling argument added.

We want to compliment the Pearce theatres, also, on the new name plates that they are using. The name of the houses with an arrow bearing the word "Pearce's" is effective and distinctive.

As the result of the space occupied and the attractive character of the displays the two theatres dominate the motion picture page of the paper that we have at hand.

PEARCE'S TUDOR
TODAY and TOMORROW
Margarita Fisher
In
"Money Isn't Everything"
From the Magazine Story, "BEAUTY TO LET"
—They organized a new beauty company and soon everybody had money in the bank.
—Girls, here's a new way to earn money.

Seeing Rialto and Rivoli with Rothapfel

THERE is really a revolution in the program at the Rivoli theatre this week, reversing most precedents and resulting in a novel and satisfying presentation. As all of you know, the ordinary arrangement of the bill at the Rialto and Rivoli theatres is: overture, scenic, musical number, Animated, musical number, feature picture, orchestral number and then the comedy. And to a considerable extent the program was arranged this week, but after it had been printed Mr. Rothapfel saw how he could improve the entire effect and make one of his numbers the more impressive. And so he did not hesitate to do it.

Soon after we began writing these articles we quoted Mr. Rothapfel as saying that if he had his way he would never have a program in his theatre, but that he was compelled to bow to custom in this respect. There is always a certain element that wants to know just what is coming and enjoy full measure of the anticipation. But you will find that the great majority of the regular patrons of these houses rarely look at the program. They take it home and refer to it after the show to make certain just what song that singer sang or who played a certain part in the feature.

Far the larger part of the people come to these two houses because they know that they are going to see a good show and because they expect to be surprised and want to be. They know that the spirit of the music and the songs and the settings are going to be linked in together to afford a perfect atmosphere, but they want to have the effect of having this atmosphere instead of theoretically hunting up the umbrella to be prepared for the rainy day. A "surprise" is not necessarily a jar. It may startle for a moment, but then it links in with the remainder of the presentation and the atmosphere is complete.

So, for the first time since either of the Rothapfel houses have been opened, the overture does not start the presentation at the Rivoli this week. It comes second; but wait—

At the first evening performance it is usual for the curtain to go up, revealing the orchestra, and the overture starts. The lighting is in keeping with the character of the number, but this week the curtain goes up in darkness and from the organ there come the chimes and the distant sounds of the organ. The curtains part revealing a wonderful setting by John Wenger, with an altar looking to the open, a single star overhead in the blue sky and the Madonna windows at either side. In the center there is a cowled figure, but the other three members of the Rialto male quartette could not be distinguished. Then the singing of "The Lost Chord" began. The papers tell us about all of the Spanish influenza in New York, but there was not a person who even coughed during the rendition. It was the most remarkable stillness that we have ever seen accorded a musical number—until the torrent of applause at the end.

IT'S NOT TOO LATE

Let's Record What You Did for the Liberty Loan

THIS week there are recorded a number of things that have been done by theatres on behalf of the Fourth Liberty Loan. By the time that issue is received the drive will be near an end, but that does not afford any reason why you should not record the things that you have done to co-operate with the Government.

The motion picture industry has been working hard to make this drive a great success and we want to record here the things that you and all the other exhibitors have done. You have your part in winning the war and we are sure that it has been well done. Let us have your story. It will be valuable to other exhibitors for later efforts.

Then comes the regulation overture, Franz Liszt's "Les Preludes," played with the lights all in gold. It is a remarkably descriptive composition, based on the fact that life is a series of preludes to death, but it ends with the crashing effect of the man responding to the danger signal and rushing to his post in the strife that he may regain full mastery of himself.

Now the reason for the switch: After that ending of the "overture" the quartette number would have lost most of its impressiveness and it would not have gotten the wonderful tense attention that it does gain. And then the martial ending of "Les Preludes" is made to enter into the militant spirit of the Animated that follows.

To the music of "Salambo" the Animated opens with a Liberty Loan cartoon showing the Kaiser and the Crown Prince in a storm with the lightning coming from the Fourth Liberty Loan, and in the end the pair of them starting out to "beat it for Berlin." It gets both laughs and great applause and then works into one portion of the Official War Review, captioned "When the Line Bends," and shows the Italians falling on the Austrians, with some fine shots of the big guns at work and the effect of their fire. "La Navarraise" is the music here. Then follow pictures of the French, also aiding in Italy, and their batches of Austrian prisoners, and for these scenes "Dogcs' March" is used.

Now after this setting what more appropriate picture could be used than those showing the visit of the Italian Alpine heroes who are here to work for the Liberty Loan. And they are shown to "Bersaglierri March."

Then we switch back again to the Official Review, and the first pictures that come are the new French tanks at work, and here "The Spirit of Pageantry" is used. But the big punch comes at the end, with the title "When France Speeds Forward," and we have pictures of the dashing cavalrymen going into battle. Three trumpets give the first few bars of "Marseillaise" and then the entire orchestra bursts into "March Lorraine," and we have another one of those uncontrollable and roof-raising demonstrations that we have been telling you about so often.

The lights come up red and the curtains part, revealing a beautiful Chinese setting looking from a Chinese home with a temple in the background, and then some strain from "Madame Butterfly" is used, and gradually the screen curtains lower for the presentation of the feature, Norma Talmadge in "The Forbidden City," a story of China. "Butterfly" is the theme here and most of the music is either Oriental or of the dance character, melodious and crooning. The theme is first used when the American goes to the little Chinese girl as she is praying to Buddha and then it is used three times during the run of the pictures and the last eight bars of it at the very end. "Lakme," "Idylle Japanese," "Night in Japan" and "La Source" are some of the other selections employed.

Now, while the picture can by no means be called a depressing one, it is certainly tense, even with its happy ending, and so it is well that the remainder of the program should take the usual Rothapfel course and turn to laughter. We are put in a merry humor with the rendition of "In a Bird Store." First the lights are blue for the night before dawn and then the birds start their singing. We have the representation of all sorts of birds' voices and the lights turn to red, signifying evening, and then to blue again with night, when a cat invades the scene, only to be driven off by Polly. It is distinctly a humorous composition and everyone was happy and smiling at the end, but they were sailed into uproars with a Jeff and Mutt Animated cartoon, "The Side Show."

Here we have a program starting off with a most impressive number, religious, then turning into a classical selection with the spirit of battle at the end, and then into a stirring arousal of patriotism. And after that the tense feature. Now there are few laughs in the bill up to the end of the feature, but you must remember that the arousing of the emotion of patriotism gives the same relief as laughter. But at the end we are given a full dose of humor—to set us right, but without blotting out the good things that we have seen.

"Capriccio Espagnol" is the overture at the Rialto and it is played with the lights all in gold. "On Caribbean-Lapped

Rialto and Rivoli

This is not merely a freak crowd picture designed to advertise the fact that thousand thronged to see "The Talk of the Town," we have other pictures showing just as big crowds as "For Husbands Only" and other attractions. But it does show that even a big city like Chicago does appreciate the opening of a fine house like the Patheon, which Lubliner and Trinz have just dedicated. And on the heels of this comes the Riviera, the new Balaban and Katz house, which are going to put Chicago right up in the forefront of the leading cities of the country so far as motion pictures are concerned Shores" is the Post-Pathe scenic that follows. It starts with a map showing the location of the islands pictured and then there are a number of beautiful shots. The first music is "Habanera," which is played until the pictures of the Pillar of Hercules, and then we have "Serenade Espagnol" until the views of the negro natives, that talk with an Irish accent, and then we have "Admiration" and there follow through "Serenade, Chaminade" and "Serenade, Buerne."

Then Miss Annie Rosner sings "Jeanne d'Arc." The main dome is in red with a green center, with the facade of the proscenium arch in purple and the inner dome in red. Miss Rosner begins to sing the moment the curtains part, and the effect is striking.

Rialto Animated opens with a Hearst-Pathe cartoon showing the German dream of Mittel Europa shattered, picturing the result of the surrender of Bulgaria, and then, to tumultuous applause, scenes during the visit of the President here to make his Liberty Loan speech. Then from the same source come the pictures of the opening of the drive in Baltimore, and after the title "The Guest of Honor Needed No Introduction" we have pictures of Col. Roosevelt speaking. And the audience waxes most enthusiastic, but there is a heart appealing change. During all of these pictures "Invincible Eagle" has been the music, but when Screen Telegram shows us pictures of American soldiers in France decorating the grave of Quentin Roosevelt the orchestra drops out and the organ takes up "For Your Boy and Mine," adagio.

"Rule Britannia" once through is used for Hearst-Pathe pictures of the British flag being placed on the Altar of Liberty, New York, and from the same source comes views of the Alpine soldiers on their Liberty Loan visit, with "Bersaglierri" the accompaniment.

There is a little intimate touch added here with Gaumont pictures of an aged Chicago woman with the cover, made of the standards of the Allies, to keep the winter's cold from General Pershing, and here we have "Over There." From the same source come pictures of a visit to the bird's retreat, near Salt Lake City, and the second "Arabesque" is used.

Hearst-Pathe supplies some excellent flying pictures from Kelly Field, Texas, which are shown to "Aviation Tournament," and then come Screen Telegram views of building the world's largest rifle range at Caldwell, N. J., where we have "To Victory." A gallop is used for Gaumont pictures of soldiers riding to the hounds on motorcycles in Georgia.

We get back to the patriotic wallop again with Hearst-Pathe pictures of students at the New York colleges hearing the call to arms. First we have "Assembly Call," given once, and then "Stars and Stripes Forever," with the trumpet call of "Call to the Colors" as the flag is raised, and then a return to "Stars and Stripes." Gaumont shows us pictures of a football game between the sailors and the Marines at Oakland, Cal., with the orchestra playing "Semper Fidelis," and then Screen Telegram pictures of Floyd Gibbons, the war correspondent, being welcomed in Chicago, where we have "Marine Hymn," and then comes the big smash at the end with a large number of soldiers on the side of a barren ridge forming the letters "Buy Liberty Bonds." "For Your Boy and Mine," the chorus only, is here played and the audience gets the spirit of it—the spirit of sacrifice—of young Roosevelt, who gave his life that the world may be safe, and of us at home who are asked to give only our dollars.

That repetition of the music got the wallop of the Liberty Loan appeal over stronger than anything else could have done. Isn't it strange how much one of these so-called "little things" means?

After Martin Brefel sings "O Paradise" we have the feature, Lila Lee in "Such a Little Pirate." There is really no theme for this, though "Pirate Song" is used at the start, and then at the end just before the final "Canteyman." "Life on the Ocean," "Sicilian Vespers" and "Before the Mast" are some of the other familiar selections that are played.

Then comes the orchestra, playing selections from "The Fortune Teller," and the bill is rounded out with a Mack Sennett comedy, "Beware of Boarders," which provides all sorts of laughs and which gives the orchestra a chance for all sorts of effects. And, believe us, they do not hesitate to take advantage of the chance.

Because of the slightness of the Rialto feature, the Rivoli bill naturally stands out as the stronger one, but the difference in the arrangement that we mentioned at the start would have made it stand out just the same with equal features—because it is so different. Now Mr. Rothapfel regards the arrangement that is followed at the Rialto this week as the ideal one for the usual motion picture presentation, and we agree with him, but it is the old story of the exception that proves the rule. It pays to be different sometimes.

New York audiences are notoriously hard to please, so far as legitimate productions are concerned, especially those around Broadway and Forty-second street. The people seem to get a sort of delight in going into a theatre and tearing the production to little bits. There is an element of the people who think that they show their "New York superiority" by doing this. But in all the time that we have been visiting the Rothapfel theatres and attempting to study not only the presentations, but the effects on the people, we have never seen anything of this sort. They go away remembering at least one thing that is striking, with at least one conviction in their minds.

And so as we left the Rialto Sunday we heard one man asking a friend whether he had subscribed to his Liberty Bonds yet, we heard a woman mentioning to her companion the sacrifice of Roosevelt's son and we saw others laughing and heard others whistling. They were all pleased—and that is a mighty good net result

And at the Rivoli they were the same way, and the interest was so tense through the presentation that not one of the other twenty-two people in the loge where we sat even recognized one of the country's most famous motion picture stars, who was there, too.

Display of Tudor Theatre, Atlanta, on "Snashing Through to Berlin"

Atlanta Live Wire Proves What All-Around Co-operation Will Do

J. F. JACKSON, manager of the Tudor theatre, Atlanta, Ga., has just scored a big success with a week's run with "Crashing Through to Berlin" and at increased prices. He used the full advertising campaign arranged by Universal, including half pages, quarter pages, and smaller displays during the run of the picture. He began his advertising seven days before the opening of the picture.

Mr. Jackson coupled the advice given in the Special Service Section printed by the Motion Picture News and coupled the showing of the picture up directly with the Liberty Loan drive. A photograph of the front of the house, taken on Sunday when the motion picture houses are not allowed to operate shows how effectively he did this, though the title of the production just below the battle scene does not come out well in the picture, because it depended on the lighting.

Here is a house front that will attract attention anywhere, although the lobby itself does not offer space for very lavish inside display. American flags figured very largely in the decoration, three pairs of them being arranged just below the sign carrying the name of the house and others surrounding the main display which, by the way, was made from the twenty-four-sheet and the six-sheet supplied by Universal, the six-sheet being used at the left. Another cut-out, but with the title left on, is used at the right of the lobby. The remainder of the display consists of a framed three-sheet, some specially prepared posters and a number of scene pictures.

Only one thing nearing a "stunt" was employed and this was done three days before the opening of the picture when there was a parade of a big circus. Mr. Jackson placed men on top of a number of the big buildings and from these there fluttered down seven thousand of the imitation newspaper mats which are also supplied by the producers.

In short, for using the aids provided and for following the advertising campaign the Tudor theatre showed one hundred per cent. strong what all around co-operation will do.

The time has passed when the up-to-date exhibitors pass over real service suggestions that are offered to them, especially when they have the material with which to get the matter over. Now Mr. Jackson was convinced that he had a big picture here and he was willing to go to big advertising. But for that and the small expense of decorating the house he did not have a great deal of expense for, as we have explained, most of the material he used was that furnished by the company.

But this is not a disparagement of the management of the Tudor; it is really a tribute. He knew when to take advantage of a chance and he did so most intelligently and the box office receipts show how successfully.

It will be better for everyone concerned to have more real co-operation like this.

ULTRA MODESTY

Yes, the Things That You Are Doing Helps You, Too

MOST exhibitors who fail to send accounts of what they are doing to the Exhibitors Service Bureau excuse themselves on the ground that others will not consider their efforts good enough. That's false modesty, but just the same you are shirking your full duty.

Shortly after this department was started a certain exhibitor wrote us that the things that he was doing were not worth recording. We differed with him and insisted. Many accounts of the things that he has done have appeared in these pages, though he was "only a small city exhibitor."

And just a few weeks ago he was made manager of a fine new theatre in one of the largest cities in the country. It goes to show that the men who are investing money in the industry are keeping in touch with the live wires. They know that the men who are doing things in the smaller cities or the lesser houses are the calibre of men who can really do things with the biggest ones.

Full Chinese Atmosphere for Hayakawa Picture

In exploiting "The City of Dim Faces" in which Sessue Hayakawa is starred, and which was filmed in Chinatown, San Francisco, the Mission theatre of that city carried out the atmosphere of the picture. The interior of the house was decorated in Chinese style and special settings were employed. Special "tickets" printed on red Chinese style paper and carrying some Chinese letters were used, and then the name of the star and the title in English

Laurie Becomes Manager of Guelph Theatre

A. J. Laurie, whose work as publicity manager of the Midway theatre, Montreal, has often been recorded in these columns, has just taken the management of the Regent theatre, Guelph, Ontario, for the Paramount Theatres, Ltd. Guelph is a city of about 15,000 and about forty miles from Toronto.

One of the first stunts that he used was during the showing of "The Flame of the Yukon." Just before the last reel he inserted a slide announcing a prize for the best ending of the story. Patrons had been provided with cards on entering the house and before the last reel the lights were thrown on for a few moments to give the patrons a chance to fill out the cards. Winners were announced in the local papers the following day.

Simple but striking lobby display at Broadway Theatre, New York, on "Together"

Kashin Keeps In with Public Feelings and Governs His Lobby Displays by Current Events

ONLY three nights a week are the theatres of New York allowed to have exterior lights these conservation days, and so lobby displays that will get the business all of the time have to be designed with that idea in view.

And so M. Kashin has furnished an excellent example of getting an appeal on both lightless and lighted nights in his display on "Together," starring Violet Mersereau, at the Broadway theatre this week. Though simple, the display is attracting a great deal of attention.

There is another purpose served in the display, and that is to bring out the idea of youth and sunshine in the theme of the picture. The background is white, with ornamentations in gold, and the lettering in bright red, light blue and other happy colors. Its very novelty makes it attract attention.

On either side of the entrance are two oil paintings of Miss Mersereau, one showing her as her own golden-haired self and the other as a boy. Above the doors is a huge painting of the star. Part of the display is devoted to advertising "Around the Clock with the Sailor," the Y. M. C. A. picture, which is being distributed by Universal.

There is nothing heavily impressive about the display. On the contrary, the one object of it is to please the eye and recall the happier side of life to the passers-by on Broadway. The scare of the Spanish influenza epidemic, we suspect, governed Mr. Kashin in making this one of the happier displays and bringing out the sunshine element as much as possible.

There's a whole lot in keeping everything about your theatre in with the spirit of the times. There are too many exhibitors who do not couple up their showings with either local events or national states of mind. Here is where the psychology of the motion picture comes in, and it applies just as much to the lobby display as to any other phase of your exploitation or presentation.

In most cases it is impossible for exhibitors to make switches in their pictures, because they have to make the bookings so far in advance, but it is possible to put the little niceties into the exploitation. You don't have to make these things obvious. In fact, it is far better not to do so. What you want to do is to get into the spirit of the people. And there's a whole lot in being cheerful at the right time.

It is mighty seldom that Kashin fails to get right up to the minute, especially in his displays. That recalls that he made a big hit during the recent visit of President Wilson to New York to deliver his Liberty Loan message. The Broadway theatre is only a little more than a block away from the Metropolitan Opera House, where the President spoke, and that evening the street was crowded with tens of thousands of people who were waiting to see him. So on the corner of the theatre there was a huge sign bearing the words: "Welcome to the President," and the regulation lights on the marquise, which generally carry the name of the attraction or of the star, were also devoted to the welcome.

The result was that the attention of thousands who were not familiar with the Broadway or the fact that it is now showing pictures was gained, and there is not the slightest doubt that this will result in added patronage in the future. It would have been glaring advertising to have put the name of the feature or of the star in bigger letters just for the occasion, but when Kashin devoted his whole resources to the "Welcome to the President" he got more advertising for his theatre than he could have obtained with all the ballyhooing in the world.

3 NEW MEMBERS

Exhibitors Who Are Doing Things Added to Advisory Board

THREE new members are added to the Advisory Board this week. This is in keeping with the policy of making this body fully representative of the live wire exhibitors of the country.

Mark Gates is managing director of the new Dayton theatre, Dayton, O., one of the handsomest houses in the country and one that represents the best in photoplay development. Mr. Gates is a strong believer in advertising and many of his displays have been reproduced under the heading "Your Idea and Ours."

When we invited A. J. Moeller to become a member of the board he was manager of a theatre in Ann Arbor, Mich., but his merit was recognized by others at the same time that we sent him the invitation and he has just left his former post to become manager of the new Theatre De Luxe which is nearing completion in Detroit.

Herbert J. Thacher, manager of the Strand theatre, Salina, Kan., is one of the representatives of the smaller theatres. He has made his house a real institution in Salina and the opinions that come from him will prove of great value to hundreds of others who haven't the advantages of the big communities and the palatial theatres.

Watch for the new things that are to come from members of the Advisory Board.

Town Fire Department Aids in Advertising Picture

When Manager Ben Brown, of the Opera House, Yreka, Cal., viewed "For the Freedom of the World" he conceived the idea that this was a big patriotic picture that merited a novel presentation and he decided to pull off a stunt that is unique in the history of motion picture exhibition. In this he was able to get the co-operation of the town authorities.

He obtained permission to rope off an entire block in the business section, and then he got the co-operation of the local fire company and had them to answer an alarm in the middle of the day and then turn the hose loose on the street. The main purpose of this was to lay the dust for the comfort of the spectators, but the stunt also served as an excellent advertisement for the picture. During the evening the feature was projected on a screen on one end of the street, which was literally packed with spectators.

Plaza Theatre, San Diego, brought the crowd when it pulled a parade of its own

Talking Your Stars an Essential of Success; How Theatres Have Boosted Madge Kennedy

IF you will look over the box-office reports you will find one of the common remarks that are made by exhibitors is: "This star does not seem to draw well here" or that "He is losing followers in this community."

Aside from the continued argument of star and non-star attractions it remains that you have to boost the pictures that you are showing. It remains a regrettable fact that a great share of the exhibitors lose their opportunity to MAKE a player in their community, and that others simply follow the goddess wheel of fortune and expect the star's name to bring them results.

During the time that "Diary of a Successful Exhibitor" was running in the Motion Picture News that exhibitor told how he MADE one of the biggest drawing cards for himself. He found out that a little girl who was being starred in films was a native of his state and born in a town not so far away. No one has ever suspected that from the press matter that was sent out about her.

He set about to play up the local interest first. He accumulated every picture of her that he could get. At first the producers to a certain extent resented his interest and he immediately got the co-operation of the girl herself by having her send different pictures of herself and little letters of greeting to the people of her home state about each production in which she appeared. This exhibitor to-day declares that she is the best drawing card of the stars that he has playing his theatre, though she is not one of the very topmost actresses of the screen.

He used his newspaper space in talking about this girl. He sent in news items about her for the regular Sunday screen column. He kept something about her before the public all the time. And because she was a local girl he had an advantage, but the big point is that he kept talking this girl. He kept the public interested in her. There may have been lots and lots of people who did not like her in a certain production, but he was not basing his advertising on the claim that "this is her greatest picture" or anything of that sort. He was talking the star and he was putting her over despite the handicaps of any bad picture in which she may have been cast. He was TALKING THE STAR AND KEEPING HER PROMINENT.

This temptation to use merely the name of the star and nothing more is especially strong with the exhibitor in the case of the ones that have made their names on the legitimate stage. The exhibitor is too often merely "awed" and tries to "awe" his patrons with the name. The reason why the producer these days takes over a star of the stage is because of her ability. Formerly, in the days when the New York successes went on the road for long tours, it was different. Today the star who comes into motion pictures has to depend on ability and not because of her success in New York.

Goldwyn Pictures shows three splendid examples of this sort of talk to the patrons on the latest Madge Kennedy production, "The Kingdom of Youth." Three theatres present the best form of advertising in the "talks" that they give on this production. For instance, H. C. Horate, manager of the Alhambra, Toledo, O., uses the caption lines: "All Over America They Say: 'We Love Her Too,'" and then he says, in advertising that is in addition to his regular display:

Watch Madge Kennedy and you realize instantly why YOU like her so much; why all over the United States she became an instant screen favorite; why from every part of the world hundreds write her daily, saying: "I've seen all your pictures and I love you."

It's youth, freshness, happiness, fineness, charm and a gorgeous sense of comedy.

You can't deceive the camera. All of these wonderful assets she has. From the beginning of her Goldwyn career she has been a favorite.

You have seen her at the Alhambra in "Baby Mine," "Our Little Wife," "Nearly Married," "The Fair Pretender," "The Danger Game," "The Service Star," "Friend Husband" and now "The Kingdom of Youth."

And you will see her next in "A Perfect Lady," by Channing Pollock and Rennold Wolf. It's fine, too.

H. C. HORATER.

Doric theatre, Kansas City, goes just a little bit stronger on the production itself, but it still keeps the star idea predominant. Here is the caption: "It is easy to understand why Madge Kennedy became an instantaneous international screen idol." And then it goes ahead to say:

Watch Madge Kennedy on the screen, as millions are doing daily throughout the world, and you will realize instantly why YOU like her so much. To-day and all week at the Doric theatre audiences will see and delightedly approve "The Kingdom of Youth"—the best Madge Kennedy picture Goldwyn has ever made. This production marks another step in the rapid development of a star who has been a favorite from the day of her debut under the Goldwyn name.

Simultaneously throughout the nation, or within the past fortnight, this brilliant production has won the unanimous praise of the daily newspapers. I am delighted to invite you to come to see her at the Doric theatre.

"Somebody I Like and Somebody You Like" is the intimate caption used for the talk by H. B. Kester of the Cameraphone theatre, East Liberty, Pittsburgh. His selling argument:

Madge Kennedy has been a favorite with cameraphone audiences from her first picture, "Baby Mine."

Each time she returns in a new picture the audiences at the Cameraphone grow larger.

She is the favorite star of most of our patrons. I agree with Cameraphone patrons.

If you desire my word on the subject, I predict that you will like her more in "The Kingdom of Youth" than anything else she has done.

I suggest that "you test my judgment" by seeing this picture. I know you'll do it.

H. B. KESTER.

Circus Fails to Show Up, So Theatre Hires Band and Pulls Parade

IN his advance publicity for the showing of "America's Answer," W. W. Whitson of the Plaza theatre, San Diego, Cal., secured the co-operation of the army and navy, each branch of the service furnishing a band for the street work.

On one day the Barnum & Bailey circus was in town and was to give a parade, but owing to delay in reaching the city, this was called off. The streets, however, were lined with thousands of people and, thus opportunely, the Plaza float, accompanied by a band, passed over the route which was to have been pursued by the circus parade. Hearing the band approaching the crowds naturally thought the circus parade was on its way. It got the Plaza feature talked about, and everybody knew where "America's Answer" was to be shown.

Each night during the week the picture was on the screen a band played in front of the Plaza, helping to draw big houses, for this government release was on.

The management secured the endorsement of the Community Council of Defence and the San Diego Division of the State Council, the heads of which published a request in the daily papers that all patriotic citizens see the picture, and the endorsement of prominent citizens was also secured and given publicity. All the time large space was being occupied with display ads and readers. Billboards were used with the big official display sheets.

Chorus-"For your boy and my boy."
For your boy and my boy and all of the boys out there— Let's lend our mon-ey to the U. S. A. And do our share— Ev-'ry bond that we are get to-geth-er till they come back home And do our share— Ev-'ry bond that we are buy-ing— Will help to hold the fighting line— Buy Bonds— Buy Bonds— For Your Boy And Mine—buy-ing— Will help the boys to cross the Rhine— Buy Bonds— Buy Bonds— For Your Boy And Mine—

Fifty-nine girls used as "notes" at the Broadway Strand, Detroit.

(Continued on page 2530)

vertisements of the Circle theatre, Indianapolis. You have read from week to week the articles on various phases of advertising that have been written by S. Barret McCormick, managing director of the Indiana theatre. His great effort is in "merchandising" the picture, in putting it over on its actual selling points. And he always does that, but there is no rcason why other features of the bill should not also have selling points and he proves them to you in the two displays that have been reproduced.

Let's look: On the day that he had Elsie Ferguson in "Heart of the Wilds" he had another strong attraction in the "Geezer of Berlin." But the first thing that he centered on was the star attraction. He used a large and attractive cut of Miss Ferguson and then a scenic picture, but in the mortise at the top he told you that this was a new star added to the galaxy that would appear at the Circle regularly. It was a sort of an introduction, combined with a guarantec. Below he gave you a selling argument on the picture.

And then he took up the "Geezer of Berlin" and told you why you would laugh with it. He devotes a cut at either side to the display and the result is that it stands out almost as strong as the feature. It is just as plainly an ADDED ATTRACTION as if that shop-worn vaudeville term were used in the largest type.

It is just as strongly sold as the feature.

Then he takes up and lists the Official War Review, the Outing-Chester scenic, and the musical numbers. The impression of quantity had gone over far better than if he had startcd in to tell the public how much it was to get.

In the other display that we have shown he has told you of the charm of Geraldine Farrar in "The Turn of the Wheel." There is a longer selling argument than we would recommend for most exhibitors to use unless they know exactly how to nse it.

Ordinarily it would be hard to add any interest to such a bill. And there is one of the points that you want to remember in advertising a FULL BILL. You cannot afford to draw from the pulling point of the main thing that you advertise, but you want to make the other things ALMOST as strong.

And so McCormick calls the "Fatty" Arbuckle comedy a "side dish of comedy." In other words it is something worth having—but it is in addition.

How much stronger are these displays than one of those that would spread across the top "BIG DOUBLE BILL TODAY?"

There may be an element in your community that wants the "double stuff," but the sooner you get away from that appeal the better.

If you are uncertain the best thing for you to do is to try to sell one thing that you have, and gcnerally that will be the feature. You can figure on getting the people to the theatre on that selling point and then giving added pleasure by the other pictures that you show them. But if you can put over all the selling arguments of the program you are one hundred per cent.

Now without any aspersion on the picture we can imagine a family where there are two people who want to see the Geraldine Farrar picture and where there is another kicker who doesn't care for that, but who is won over by "Fatty." We can see where there is a party with members who don't like the title of "Heart of the Wilds," but who are ready enough to sit through the evening if they can laugh at the "Geezer." It's simply a case of getting them all.

Study these advertisements of McCormick. They are worth while. The day is coming more and more when you have to vary your bill, when you have to give all of the people SOMETHING that they like and when you have to advertise this "something" in advance.

Figure out your main attraction. It is probably your feature, but it may not be. Any way play that strong, but where you have thc space and where you have the goods don't forget the second appeal. Don't forget that the rest of the bill may get a lot of them in.

Lots of people go into a restaurant who don't order steak, but who want ice cream. But they do not go there unless the ice cream is good—and they know it in advance.

Advertise your feature, whatever you think it is, and PUT YOUR PUNCH BEHIND IT.

Forget the bargain sale, but tell the people HOW GOOD the "added attraction" is.

Don't advertise quantity. A mere recital of it is far better.

59 Girls Appear as "Notes" in Opening Detroit Loan Drive

OPENING gun of the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign in Detroit was fired from the desk of the Broadway Strand theatre just a week in advance of the regularly assigned date, through the co-operation of the manager, Phil H. Gleichman. The latter conferred with Eddie McGrath, the regular soloist at his theatre, and also chairman of the Music Committee of the Liberty Loan organization.

It resulted in the decision to put on an animated song sheet, and more than 80 girls were secured for volunteers, though only 59 were used at each performance. A Liberty Loan song, "For Your Boy and My Boy," which was adopted by the Local Committee as the official song, was painted on a huge drop with bits of black cloth at the notes. The drop is 20 by 34 feet in size, and back of it is a three-decked platform.

Mr. McGrath sings the words and chorus and then out through the notes pops the heads of the 59 girls who sing the chorus. The audience liked it so well that it would be encored a half dozen times at every performance.

This week a new animated song sheet was built for "You Havent's Sacrificed at All," a song written by J. Fred Lawton, cheer leader for the Liberty Loan Committee.

"For Your Boy and My Boy" was sung in every Detroit theatre the first week of the campaign. At the Crystal Manager Arthur Baehr engaged "Baby" Estelle and a chorus of 20 girls. The Majestic Trio sang it at the Majestic, and at the Regent Henry Santrey with his Victory Sing made the audience join in.

Franklin Warns Against War Depression

At left, Liberty Loan setting at Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo, and at right, Liberty Loan booth erected by the Buffalo theatre men

By Harold B. Franklin

Manager, Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo

FAR-SIGHTED theatre managers should not feel any depression on account of the war if they prepare now for the future. It has been argued that on account of the drafts, heavy taxes and the increased costs of operation that the theatre of today has a hard road to travel and that the future is discouraging.

Morale is just as important among exhibitors as among soldiers. Do not let discouraging tales harm your efficiency. Go right ahead with those plans for the future. Those who are left behind are earning big money and there is and will be less idleness among the people than at any other time during the last decade. Girls are earning men's wages and they naturally turn to the motion picture for their entertainment. The workers of today find the films practically their sole diversion.

In Canada where the war is in its fourth year, theatres that are deserving of it, are doing splendid business. In England, France, Italy, theatres close to the scenes of operation, are continuing to attract capacity houses.

The motion picture theatre has a great mission at home. Among its duties are: To alleviate the sorrows of those who have left the war through the loss of beloved ones who have paid the last great measure of devotion; to help maintain the high morale and spirit of the great industrial army behind the lines and thus afford amusement for the masses at prices within their reach; to spread propaganda in aid of the Government, and a thousand and one other things that will help this country to "carry on."

All waste must be eliminated from the theatre. TRUE ECONOMY, HOWEVER, IS NOT ACHIEVED BY A CESSATION OF SPENDING; it is rather accomplished by eliminating wasteful expenditures which add to the cost of running your theatre without materially adding to its entertaining qualities.

The motion picture theatre is about to enter into the biggest period of its history. Properly handled it will play an important part in the winning of the war. Its value for the dissemination of Government propaganda has been recognized by Washington, and it is worth noting that practically 100 per cent of the theatres of the country have voluntarily given over their screens to whatever use Uncle Sam would make of them.

The shortage of operators, musicians and other skilled employes is a matter that will adjust itself. Should necessity command it, women can be trained for these positions. These are times that test the ability of the exhibitor. Some meet the test—others do not. Those who do not should find out why—and at once. The manager with vision will plug away with full confidence as to the theatre's future and not let any war problems mar his perspective.

The big thing before every business is to win the war and the activities of our theatre must be directed along those channels. At present every exhibitor should get behind the Fourth Liberty Loan with both hands and feet, strip to the waist and push so that when the grand total is added up Uncle Sam will find that one of the big sums noted is that opposite the theatres of the country. Welcome loan speakers to address your audiences from the stage. Put up booths in the lobby from which women can sell bonds to those entering or leaving the theatre, turn your stage setting over to the boosting of the loan by reproducing some of the many splendid Liberty Loan posters together with your own ideas, get on the local committees yourself, and working faithfully show that you are appreciative of the Government's action in placing the industry on the essential list.

Here in Buffalo every exhibitor is working for the success of the Fourth Liberty Loan. The exhibitors have donated money to erect a large booth on Main street, a reproduction of a big gun, from which their representatives sell bonds at all hours. Their screens are boosting the loan by the showing of the many loan pictures, their lobbies contain booths for the selling of bonds, the Four Minute men are addressing audiences from the stages and adding thousands every day to the local quota. Buffalo exhibitors are 100 per cent workers for the success of the Fourth Loan.

The increased taxation, which of course is not looked upon with favor must be met cheerfully, and where theatres cannot operate profitably at the present scale of admission prices, they should not hesitate to boost them, telling patrons in a straight-from-the-shoulder manner why the boost is necessary. The public will pay, providing it gets value for its money. The duty before the exhibitor is to give them value and charge for it.

This is no time to sit around figuring on how to cut down your bills. Rather figure how you can spend more money in improving your shows. Put pep into your programs; let your optimism radiate from the screen and shine on the audience. Make your patrons feel that you are trying to give them just a little more than they are entitled to—it pays. Don't cut down your orchestra—increase it, and if you find it necessary to increase your admissions in order to do all well and good, but draw your patrons' attention to the reason for the boost, and if the music is better at the next show—they'll congratulate you.

Theatre Made a Bit of Japan for "His Birthright"

Japanese effects were used at the Strand theatre, Milwaukee, during the showing of the first Sessue Hayakawa picture, "His Birthright." The entire interior of the theatre was decorated in Oriental style and the stage and orchestra were banked with flowers and potted plants, the whole thing giving the atmosphere of a Japanese tea garden. The effect was further carried out by garbing the girl ushers as Geisha girls. A selected chorus, in Jap costumes, sang selections from "Madame Butterfly" as a prelude to the feature.

How Foreign Exhibitors "Take to" American Pictures

WORLD PICTURES by reason of its world-wide circulation of product is constantly in receipt of letters from exhibitors from the furthermost parts of the globe.

An exhibitor writing from Pekin wants all still pictures for lobby display to be colored. Chinese very fond of American picture play. We do best business with American picture. Chinese think anything American best. Chinese remember American peoples very kind during Boxer trouble. Chinese never forget kindness. See American picture play and want to buy clothes like in picture.

From far off Rhodesia comes a letter in which an exhibitor speaks of the reason American-made pictures draw best with his patrons because they have plenty of action in them.

Australians express their liking for the picture made in U. S. A. because, as an exhibitor expresses it, "You are very much like the Australians in temperament." Your American plays have always done better here than the London successes.

Japan, as every one knows who is in the export trade, buys 90 per cent of its films from the United States. From the popularity of our pictures it is evident that nothing can shake our hold on Japan. The psychology of our popularity in Nippon is due to the fact that Japanese want to imitate us as closely as possible and find in our pictures admirable copy.

Australia Reports Metro Pictures a Success

ALEC B. HELLMRICH, general manager of the Co-Operative Film Exchange, Ltd., of Australia, distributor of Metro pictures in the antipodes, was a recent visitor to Metro's west coast studios in Hollywood. Hellmrich spent a few days in Los Angeles en route from New York to Melbourne by way of San Francisco.

At the Metro studios Hellmrich exchanged greetings with Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro Pictures Corporation; Joseph W. Engel, treasurer; James D. Rhodes and Count Cippico, now in the West on an important business mission, and with George D. Baker, manager of production at the Hollywood plant.

Hellmrich declared business conditions to be thriving in Australia, notwithstanding the war, and said Metro stars and productions were rapidly gaining in favor throughout the British dominion. Before his departure for San Francisco, where he is to board a Pacific liner for home, Hellmrich armed himself with a bundle of the newest photographs of May Allison and Bert Lytell, the two stars now at Metro's Western studios, as well as the portraits of others in the Metro galaxy, for which, he said, there is a tremendous demand among Australian exhibitors and "movie" fans.

American Made Pictures Educating Foreign Countries

THE opinion has been expressed on all sides that the increased interest in the export trade in its relation to the motion picture industry is going to wield a tremendous influence in the exploitation of merchandise manufactured in the United States after the termination of the world war.

The millions of dollars spent by Germany during the past decade in building up foreign trade will have lost its potency as a result of the absolute annihilation brought about through the control of the seven seas by the Allies.

Today America is in a commanding position as regards moving pictures. The percentage of pictures of American manufacture seen in foreign countries is easily seventy-five per cent. of all shown on the screen in these embraced in the southern half of this hemisphere and the other continents.

The educational value of our pictures will unconsciously mould the minds of foreigners so much that when our commercial agents arrive on foreign shores they will meet with a hearty welcome. These foreign buyers will have become acquainted with our way of living, our customs, and being familiarized to our institutions through seeing them on the screen they will not display a reticence such as they did in pre-war days.

World Pictures realizing that now is the time to build firmly a foreign trade of permanent stability is not losing time to make proper connections that wil survive any onslaught of intense competition that is bound to come as soon as the great war is over.

Importance of Proper Decorative Effect in Titling

THAT it is important to develop efficiency in an organization created to produce photoplays has long been recognized. It is also true that efficiency methods operates to create a better product at reduced expenses. Still efficiency in the nature of saving money can also be developed to a point where it makes for an output that lacks certain essentials characteristic of successful merchandise. Successful in the sense that the public see something that unconsciously creates a feeling there is a lack of an indefinable quality which for a better term we call finish. It is the same feeling one has who is on the verge of purchasing a fine piece of china, and just as we are about to exchange our money for the shopkeeper's merchandise we detect a rough spot or an almost invisible break in the lacquer.

No effort is made to limit expense, so long as it is in the range of reason, in the making of a picture with a combination of a fine cast and a corking good story. Yet how often have we seen the cheese paring policy step in when the studio work is finished and utterly destroy the fine work of directors, actors and scenario writers by cheap, ineffective and unartistic decorations used in connection with the titles.

In the production of a play it is the stage settings that either give distinction to the entertainment or classify it as an indifferent or commonplace presentation. The right sort of furniture, rugs, draperies and bric-a-brac unconsciously please the eye to such an extent that we go away from the theatre feeling that we have seen something that has pleased us even though the subject matter of the drama was not entirely to our liking. We sum it all up as being in good taste. With screen productions the manner in which the titles and sub-titles are shown to us is as much a part of the stage decorations as those actually used in the studio when the story was filmed.

Proper efforts should be expended in not alone working out the decorative effects in the matters of borders and backgrounds for titles, and in addition the lettering should have no little mental energy in creating the atmosphere of good taste.

World Pictures, realizing the tremendous importance of proper titling of pictures has, instead of having this work done on contract by outside artists, created a department consisting of highly talented artists. Instead of waiting until the picture is finished before beginning work on titles and the decorations that go with them, the artists are given the original story from which the scenario is created as well as the continuity, and when the picture is brought over for its first projection after the director has assembled it, they begin to work out the effects and motifs. In this way these artists are as much a part of the production department as the directors, the actors and the continuity writers. Consequently, World Pictures have that element of good taste so necessary to finished products.

"Road to France" Sells Quick

ONE of the quickest sales ever recorded for the foreign rights to an American made feature must be accorded "The Road to France," made by World Pictures, with Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley as the stars. The sale was consummated by the Inter-Ocean Films.

It will be given a simultaneous showing in England, France and Italy. It will also be seen in Spain, Sweden, Norway and Denmark. Prints are speeding to the Orient, where, besides Australia and New Zealand, Japan, China and India will witness the terrific and successful efforts of the United States to more than overcome the ravages of the ruthless policy of the "U" boat campaign of the Germans.

Live News from the Producers

Triangle Studios to Goldwyn

Goldwyn Leases Entire Triangle California Studios, Marking Company's Greatest Expansion and Forecasting Unusual Production Facilities

AS a prelude to the largest and most ambitious production plans of the company's career, Goldwyn Pictures Corporation has leased in its entirety the complete Triangle studios and producing plant in Los Angeles. The negotiations and contracts for this big deal were made by Samuel Goldfish, president of Goldwyn, and Harry Aitken, of the Triangle. Goldwyn acquires immediate possession of what is rated physically as one of the finest motion picture studios in the world.

Already Tom Moore and his director, Harry Beaumont, are in California completing the third of Moore's star series productions, this one having been begun in Fort Lee.

All future Geraldine Farrar, Pauline Frederick, Mabel Normand, Madge Kennedy, Mae Marsh and Tom Moore pictures will be made on the coast, as well as the Rex Beach pictures, which means that there will be an almost immediate exodus of Goldwyn celebrities for the land of the sunlight.

"This decision," said Samuel Goldfish in making the announcement, "marks the greatest expansion thus far attained by Goldwyn. It indicates, too, that our organization has reached a stage of successful internal operation where I can devote a good deal of my time to production in California.

"The main part of our scenario organization will be on the coast, as I have always believed that director, star and author should be together during all the stages of production. I am glad to announce that Mr. J. G. Hawks, long with the Ince forces, now comes to Goldwyn and will be at our coast plant. He has done originals and continuities for many of the most successful productions of the past four years. We shall also have a scenario organization here in New York and our stories will be purchased here.

"Our trusted production executives who have had much to do with the distinctiveness of Goldwyn Pictures are going West under Mr. Abraham Lehr, our vice-president in charge of production. These include Hugo Ballin, art director, and others in charge of departments.

"Goldwyn, in its operating and managerial phases, has reached that stage of success where I feel able to have our productions made at a distance of 3,000 miles from the home office and where I shall be able to spend a good deal of my time in California. The Triangle plant we have taken is admittedly the finest studio in the industry and we have the complete and exclusive use and control of it during the tenure of our lease."

W. H. Productions Co. Gets More Re-Issues

AFTER many months of careful investigation and selection, W. H. Productions Company believes they have made another "find" in their four new series of short subjects to be released soon, viz., two series of twenty-eight each, single reel Keystone comedies—the Liberty Keystone Brand, the Eagle Keystone Brand—and two series of fifteen each of two-reel Kay Bee Western dramas—the Columbia Kay Bee and U. S. Kay Bee Brands.

With the possible curtailing of motion picture production, and with the ever increasing cost of production, these productions, which W. H. Productions Company has been and is re-issuing, are declared to be proving a salvation for many of the exchanges and exhibitors, at the same time sustaining the prestige of the theatres showing them, and satisfying their patrons.

The single reel Keystone comedies, of which there will be two distinct series, were produced by Mack Sennett. Among the most notable stars in these series are Mack Swain, Mack Sennett, Mabel Normand, Roscoe Arbuckle, Sydney Chaplin, Fred Mace, Chester Conklin, and many others.

The two series of Kay Bee Western dramas are said to be the best productions of their kind ever produced, and it is claimed that today it would be practically impossible to produce anything resembling their combination of stars, their settings, etc. They were made by Thos. H. Ince at Santa Monica.

The stories were written by Wm. Clifford, Thos. H. Ince, and by C. Gardner Sullivan. Their casts contain a combination of screen stars, among whom are Charles Ray, Clara Williams, Rhea Mitchell, Richard Stanton, Anna Little, Walter Edwards, Sessue Hayakawa, and a great many others.

"The advertising material, such as lobby display, posters, etc., will surpass everything ever done on such productions before," said a W. H. official, "and our usual co-operation with exchangemen and exhibitors will be extended."

"The Road Through the Dark" is Now Being Made by Clara Kimball Young on the West Coast for Select Distribution

New "Mission Productions" Stars Gloria Joy

Mission Productions, the newest feature photoplay company to enter the field, has been organized at Los Angeles to star Gloria Joy, the little girl whose relcases by Oakdale Films, "The Locked Heart" and "No Children Wanted," have stamped her as stellar material, according to the new company.

Daniel Whitcomb, well known for the series of Little Mary Sunshine stories produced by Pathe, is to write for Gloria Joy, while Sherwood Macdonald, who directed several of her pictures for Pathe, will again direct her. William Beckway, formerly chief cameraman with Jackie Saunders' productions for Mutual, will have charge of photography for Mission Productions.

For the present, production of Gloria Joy features will be made at the Robert Brunton Studios, Hollywood. I. W. Keerl will be general manager of Mission Productions, and, in addition to handling its business affairs, will supervise productions.

Government Tests Its Cameras in Brooklyn

The Vitagraph studio in Brooklyn is being used as a testing ground for the new battle-line motion picture cameras which the Government is using in France and other theatres of war.

Lieut. Nelson F. Evans, the well-known photographer of Los Angeles, who has pictured virtually all of the prominent motion picture players on the West Coast, is now on special duty for the Government, acting as inspector of cameras and photographic supplies at the Port of New York.

Cohn Discusses Scoops for News Reels

"THE news pictorial business," said Jack Cohn, of Universal, "is the life blood of motion pictures. It's the newest, greatest form of news expression. Newspapers nowadays aren't one, two, three with the news pictures. Why? Because the news pictures are printed in a language that everybody can read. They have the greatest circulation of all news mediums. People have got so now that they can't close a day without seeing news pictures. A picture theatre wouldn't last two days without news pictures."

As editor of Universal's three news film departments, he had just been credited with two or three scoops.

They were principally on affairs relating to the Fourth Liberty Loan. The Animated Weekly and Current Events under his guidance were said to be the first services to release Liberty Loan films after the official time of such pictures had come. The first subject was a series of cartoons by Hy Mayer.

A raft of other pictures in the Universal service put over special progaganda for the recruiting of men in the aeronautic division and for the mobilization of nurses and money for the Red Cross.

"My Husband's Friend" Goes to Interocean

A contract was entered into between Jesse J. Goldburg, owner of the production "My Husband's Friend," a re-issue of "The House of Mirrors," and Paul Cromelin, president of the Interocean Film Corporation, whereby that company purchased the entire foreign rights on the production.

The contract provides that the negative is to be delivered to the Interocean Film Corporation. All the territory in the United States has been sold to State Right buyers with the exception of Eastern Pennsylvania and the Mountain States.

Mary Miles Minter, American Film Star, in Her Most Charming Pose

G. M. Anderson and William L. Sherry, Performing the Operation of Closing a Contract. In This Case the Contract was to Distribute the Anderson Pictures Through the Sherry Service

Famous Players-Lasky Studios Very Lively

WITH three of the organization's foremost feminine stars all at work there on new productions at the same time, the Fort Lee studio of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation became more than usually lively last week.

Under the direction of Emile Chautard, Elsie Ferguson started work on her new Artcraft picture to follow "Under the Greenwood Tree." It is an adaptation of "The Green Orchard," the stage success in which Josephine Victor appeared in the leading role.

Billie Burke has started active work in "Good Gracious, Annabel," under direction of George Melford, who was brought on from the coast for the purpose.

Marguerite Clark, under the guidance of John Stuart Robertson, is well along in the production of her new Paramount picture, "The Golden Bird," which was written by Maria Thompson Davies and scenarioized by Adrian Gil-Spear.

That Caruso really enjoyed his excursion into filmland was more than evidenced last week when the great tenor presented remembrances to each and every one with whom he was associated in the production work, however remotely. To his director, Edward Jose, he presented a gold cigarette case, and to Mrs. Jose a gold mesh purse. To Hal Young, the cameraman, he gave a platinum scarfpin, and to Assistant Director William J. Scully a gold match holder. The scene shifters and other workmen in the studio received gifts of money and autographed photographs were presented to the office force.

Director George Irving is making splendid progress at the Fifty-sixth Street studio in the production of "The Silver King," the Paramount-Artcraft special, in which William Faversham, supported by a fine company, is to be starred.

Director John Emerson is now cutting and assembling the second John Emerson-Anita Loos production, co-starring Shirley Mason and Ernest Truex, which was filmed under the tentative title, "Gosh Darn the Kaiser."

Goldwyn Shifts Managers to New Locations

SEVERAL shifts and promotions in the managerial ranks of Goldwyn Distributing Corporation contain elements of interest for exhibitors and for the several hundred employees of the organization in twenty territories of the country.

Announcement is made of the return to the organization of F. M. Brockell as manager of the Goldwyn St. Louis office, succeeding Paul H. Bush, who has taken charge for the time of the booking of the patriotic Liberty Loan pictures of all companies in that district.

Richard Wernick, until recently chief salesman of the Goldwyn Detroit office, has been promoted to the management of the Boston office succeeding the late M. Ralph Camp, who fell a victim to the influenza scourge.

Oscar F. Bower, the new Goldwyn manager in Cincinnati, succeeding A. J. Pincus, was formerly chief salesman of the Goldwyn Philadelphia office.

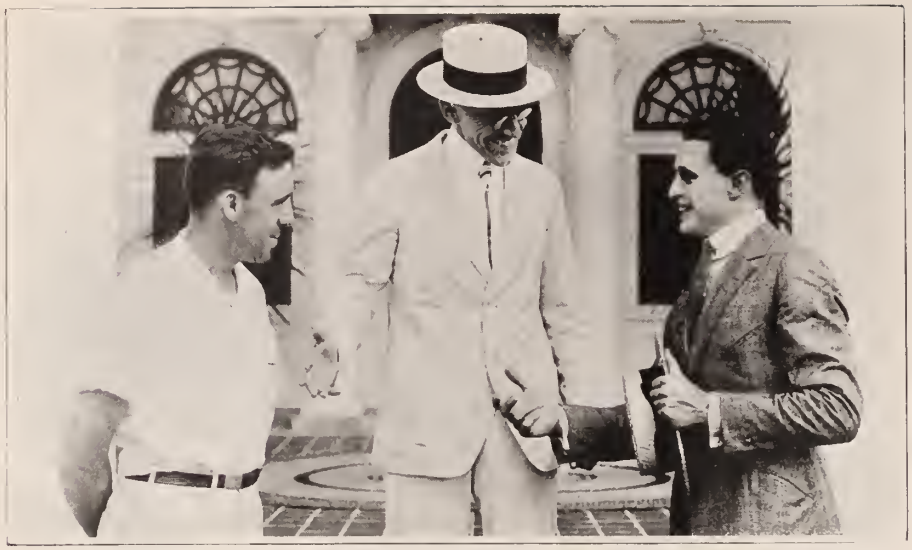
In Philadelphia, George W. Smiley has been named as Goldwyn's manager.

The Goldwyn sales organization in the United States alone now numbers several hundred persons independently of the New York home office staff. The company has, of course, contributed its quota of men to both the first and second drafts, but its main fabric has been unbroken, the great majority of its men being married and having children.

Harry Depp to Mutual

Harry Depp, the comedian, has been secured to play leads with Elinor Field, the star of the Strand Mutual comedies.

The first Strand-Mutual in which Mr. Depp will appear is "The Maid and the Man," released September 24.



R. A. Walsh, Ralph Faulkner as President Wilson, and George Walsh, Fox Star, Discussing "On the Jump," in Which Walsh is Starred

Fox Uses Fourteen Directors

With Four Directors Recently Added William Fox Now Has Fourteen Directors on His Staff

WITH the acquisition of James Kirkwood, Charles J. Brabin, Edward Dillon and Arvid E. Gillstrom, William Fox now has fourteen directors on his staff, and considers that these fourteen men constitute the best-balanced and most versatile staff of directors now making pictures for any one producer.

Mr. Kirkwood is now engaged on a new production starring Evelyn Nesbit. This picture, entitled "I Want to Forget," is Mr. Kirkwood's first production under the Fox banner.

George Walsh is the star who will work under the direction of Mr. Dillon. Mr. Dillon and Mr. Walsh have already begun work on a new play written by George Scarborough, which bears the working title of "The Splendid Malefactor."

Striking thirteen on his first picture with the Fox organization is the record made by Arvid E. Gillstrom, the director of Jane and Katherine Lee's latest release, "Swat the Spy!" Mr. Gillstrom is now at work on his second Fox picture, another Jane and Katherine Lee feature, entitled "Tell It to the Marines."

The veteran for the William Fox directorial forces is J. Gordon Edwards, who, before his return East last week, finished his thirteenth production for Mr. Fox. Mr. Edwards has to his credit the direction of some of the most successful film productions ever released, notable among which are "Salome" and "Cleopatra."

R. A. Walsh is director of "The Honor System," "Woman and the Law" and "The Prussian Cur." Mr. Walsh's greatest success is expected to be "18 to 45."

Another newcomer to the Fox forces is Charles J. Brabin, who is now engaged on his first Fox picture, an Excel Picture, starring Virginia Pearson. It is a picturization of one of Justus Miles Forman's best-known novels, "Buchanan's Wife."

Director of "Les Miserables," "Riders of the Purple Sage," "The Rainbow Girl" and other productions, Frank Lloyd is now in California, after completing a new William Farnum De Luxe picture.

Richard Stanton, who directed "Why America Will Win," just completed the William Fox 1918 morality play, "Why I Would Not Marry."

Edward J. LeSaint directed Gladys Brockwell in all of that star's most recent pictures. "Kultur," "The Bird of Prey" and "The Strange Woman" are three recent pictures directed by Mr. LeSaint.

Lynn Reynolds, director of Tom Mix, has to his credit "Ace High," "Western Blood," "Mr. Logan, U. S. A." and "Treat 'Em Rough."

Kenean Buel directed the first picture Evelyn Nesbit made for William Fox, "The Woman Who Gave." Edmund Lawrence has directed Virginia Pearson in some of her best plays.

"Bonnie Annie Laurie," with Peggy Hyland as its star, is the work of Harry Millarde, Fox director. The slap-stick comedy genius of the films is the apt title which reviewers have bestowed on Henry Lehrman, the creator of the Fox-Lehrman Sunshine Comedies.

Oklahoma City Called "Bluebird" Town

Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, has become virtually a Bluebird town, the Universal exchange reports, and declares that there are only two theatres in that city—and it is a mighty large city—that have not booked Bluebirds. The five other theatres are booking Bluebirds regularly.

The Bluebird theatres of this town are the following: The Majestic, the Lyric, the Air Dome, the Aldridge and the Liberty.

Jewel Productions issued a report last week that it had booked "The Geezer of Berlin" on a one hundred per cent. scale in the chief chain theatres of New York.

The production is scheduled to run in all the Loew theatres for a period of sixty-four days; on the Fox Circuit for sixty days, and on the Moss Circuit for twenty days.

Filming "The Yellow Dog" R. H. Cochrane's Idea

It was R. H. Cochrane, vice-president of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, who conceived the idea of filming the story of "The Yellow Dog," written by Henry Irving Dodge.

When it was necessary to state in the titles precisely who had projected the notion of making the film and who therefore was its sponsor, they found that Mr. Cochrane had promoted the venture and that he did it in the face of considerable difficulty. There were many advisors on hand when he proposed it who believed such a picture was impractical.

"The Yellow Dog" will be released November 4 by Jewel as one of its master productions of the day.

Ray Smallwood for West

Ray Smallwood, head of the camera and photographic departments of New York's Metro studio, has been notified by Maxwell Karger, director general, to hold himself in readiness to leave at any moment for California to install the new photographic equipment at the firm's West Coast studio, where future productions will be made.

Mr. Smallwood will have charge of cameramen, cameras, "still" photography equipment and laboratory work, and will take a part of his present staff with him to the Coast.

Alicia Ramsey Sells Original Stories

Alicia Ramsey, who has written several stories for various picture stars and organizations, sold on one day of last week two scenarios to different companies at about the same time. The buyers are announced as Famous Players-Lasky and Vitagraph. Pauline Frederick, May Allison and Billie Burke have starred in stories written by Miss Ramsey.

Peggy Adams, Who Has the Chief Feminine Part in "The Romance of Coal," Produced by Educational

William Desmond and Ethel Fleming, in "The Pretender," Triangle Play

Serial Benefits Relief Work Instead of the British Government

Through a misunderstanding, it was reported in the trade press recently that the British Government was receiving profits from the distribution of "Fighting for Freedom," the serial being released in this country by Universal. The fact is that revenue is paid by the Universal to the Official Government Pictures, Inc., which in turn devotes the money to British relief work.

Great Britain, however, does not receive any share of the revenue in the form of profits.

A statement to this effect has just been issued by the British Bureau of Information. It sets forth that the Official Government Pictures, Inc., purchased the world rights from the Ministry of Information. The American rights were sold to the Universal on a basis that provided funds for various British relief work.

Risks Death for Amboy Explosion Films

James Goebel, a camera man in Universal Current Events, is said to have risked his life to obtain close-ups of the terrific explosions in and around Morgan and Amboy.

By being persistent enough he managed to secure a pass and, according to report, he crawled for four hours thereafter through weeds and woods, and along stretches of road choked by refugees, and dodging a cordon of military police. Tremendous blasts shook the earth and the sky blazed every moment with flares from the explosions.

He dragged his way for eight miles, it is said, into the very heart of the explosion scene, and as dawn began to lighten the surroundings, set up his camera and turned the crank.

The pictures he took were of soldiers pawing around in ruins for maimed victims. Every moment or two they revealed a new explosion which threw the searchers to the ground.

"The Great Love" to Capacity

D. W. Griffith's First Production for Artcraft Continues to Receive Praise from Exhibitors Throughout the Country

REPORTS of the success attending the presentation of D. W. Griffith's first production for Aircraft continue to pour into the home offices of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

It is now six weeks since the picture started out, but public interest in all the larger centers throughout the country continues unabated, and the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation reports that many of the first-run houses have found it necessary to hold the film for a second, and in many instances a third, week in order that the crowds may be accommodated.

One of the most recent messages received is that from J. K. Johnson, manager of the New Garrick theatre, Minneapolis, who wired: "Griffith's 'The Great Love' played to biggest business in history of theatre. Held over second week to capacity crowds. A sure-fire hit for every exhibitor. Has everything you would want in it for success."

On September 13, Bernard Depkin, Jr., manager of a chain of theatres in Baltimore, wired: "After breaking attendance records at the Parkway theatre for six days, 'The Great Love' is now on its second week at our Wizard theatre, playing to biggest crowds in history of this house. A wonderfully produced picture, 25 per cent. enhanced by the superb music score. Trying today to arrange to hold over for a third week."

During the presentation of "The Great Love" at the Washington theatre, Detroit, John H. Kunsky, president and managing director of John H. Kunsky Theatrical Enterprises, wrote: "'The Great Love' is going very big at the Washington theatre, and I have arranged with your local representative to hold it over for a second week."

From the Walnut theatre, Cincinnati, Manager Lisbon telegraphed: "Playing D. W. Griffith's 'The Great Love' at our Walnut theatre this week, and I have no hesitancy in saying that this is the best production we ever played. It was received enthusiastically by the public of Cincinnati and will break all house records."

Samuel Pinanski, manager of the Modern theatre, Boston, wired: "'The Great Love' went over the top at every show. In spite of the terrific heat, it surpassed all expectations and dwarfed to insignificance all past achievements. Congratulations and thanks for release of this timely, gripping and inspiring master money-getter."

"Wolves of Kultur" Drew at Trade Showing

An exhibitors' showing of "Wolves of Kultur" on the roof of a New York theatre, last week, drew a large attendance, among which were many representatives of patriotic societies, who were present on special invitation. All were reported as cordial in their comment on the big patriotic serial, produced by Western Photoplays, distributed by Pathe and featuring Leah Baird, supported by Sheldon Lewis and Charles Hutchison.

The first three episodes, seven reels in all, were shown to the musical investiture of a full orchestra. The prologue showing President Wilson, and quoting from his speech, which runs through the entire serial as an inspiration, was enthusiastically applauded.

Hall Returns to Mutual

Ray L. Hall, who was loaned to the Government for service in the Division of Films of the Committee on Public Information in July, has returned to the Screen Telegram to resume his duties as news editor. While in the service of the Government he organized the department under him as manager of production and handled the issuance of the Official War Review.

Earle Williams Hands the Clown Quince a Wallop in "A Plea to Buy," His Vitagraph Liberty Loan Film

One of the Dramatic Moments in "Borrowed Clothes," Jewel Production Featuring Mildred Harris

Tarzan Book and Film Coupled

First National and Publishers Have Perfected Joint Arrangements in Exploiting "The Romance of Tarzan"

THE First National Exhibitors' Circuit and the publishers of the Tarzan books have completed the details of a joint agreement whereby exhibitors who show "The Romance of Tarzan" will receive maximum local advertising co-operation from the dealers who will take direct advantage of the present publicity accorded to the sequel to "Tarzan of the Apes" as a sales stimulus for the entire library of Tarzan works by Edgar Rice Burroughs.

The sudden revival of public interest in the character of Tarzan, immediately following the release of "Tarzan of the Apes" as a special motion picture production, brought orders to Mr. Burroughs' publishers from scores of book dealers throughout the country who previously had not carried a stock of Tarzan volumes. This intensified the distribution of the books and added a great number of new dealers, making the retail representation throughout the United States nearly one hundred per cent. complete.

As a result of the first campaign there is now at least one dealer in practically every city and town in the country who handles the Tarzan books. With this representation as a basis from which to work, the publishers are sending out this week to every local retailer an announcement of the details of the co-operative arrangement between them and the First National Exhibitors' Circuit.

This first notification recommends to the dealers that they prepare immediately for a special window display of Tarzan books to begin simultaneously with the first announcement by the local exhibitors of the presentation dates for "The Romance of Tarzan." It is also suggested to them that they supplement their own window displays and interior store advertising with copy to be run in the local newspapers concurrently with the theatre copy on the Tarzan sequel, thus obtaining a double tie-up between the production and the books.

Select Pictures Offers Three in October

THREE releases of Select's star series are announced by this corporation for the month of October. These will be Constance Talmadge, who is presented by Lewis J. Selznick, in "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots," Alice Brady in "Her Great Chance," and Clara Kimball Young in "The Road Through the Dark." Norma Talmadge in "The Forbidden City" was released September 30, and therefore virtually becomes an October release also.

Constance Talmadge's picture, "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots," is by the well-known dramatist, Augustus Thomas. The scenario is by Edith Kennedy. Walter Edwards directed the production.

Alice Brady's October picture will be "Her Great Chance." This is a film adaptation by Charles Maigne of Fannie Hurst's popular novel, "Golden Fleece."

Clara Kimball Young comes to the front in October with "The Road Through the Dark," which is based on a story of the same name in the Metropolitan Magazine. Miss Young and her director, Edmund Mortimer, together with the technical director, and a corps of assistants, are now busy at Miss Young's Sunset studio, at Hollywood, putting the finishing touches on this photoplay.

Trademark Capitalized

Since the start of Goldwyn's second releasing year and the inauguration of the new Star Series booking system, many leading theatre owners have put forth extraordinary efforts in advertising Goldwyn quality and Goldwyn power through the medium of the Goldwyn lion trade-mark.

Theda Bara in "Salome" Scoring Heavily

The success of "Salome," the great Theda Bara super-production, continues to grow all over the country, according to reports received by the Fox Film Corporation. Playing at $1 top prices, "Salome" is said to have established a triumph that is expected to be surpassed only during its engagement at the Forty-fourth Street theatre, New York.

The engagement of "Salome" at English's Opera House, Indianapolis, is cited only by the Fox Film Corporation as an example of the exceptional business done by Miss Bara's masterpiece. "Salome" played English's for a solid week to capacity business, despite the worst kind of weather.

On the opening day a crowd two blocks long stood in front of the theatre practically all day and well into the evening buying tickets for "Salome." Several times during the day it rained hard, but, it is asserted, the crowd still stuck.

Anti-Yellow Dog Clubs Strong in Minnesota

The patriotic principles in "The Yellow Dog" have been enthusiastically received in the twin cities, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Hon. J. A. Burnquist, Governor of Minnesota, has accepted the position of Generalissimo in the state-wide drive on yellow dogism. Secretary of State Julius A. Schmall is Acting Major General, and Lieut.-Governor Thomas A. Frankson has been appointed Lieutenant-General of the Minneapolis army of propaganda fighters.

In Minneapolis within a month Anti-Yellow Dog clubs, with a membership of over two thousand, are said to have been organized in the public schools, and the work of these youngsters has already been noticed.

Oakdale Productions Success, Says General

Now that all of the current series of Oakdale Productions, six in all, have been released, an estimate of these feature dramas, containing the juvenile note uppermost, is possible from the response notes at General Film exchanges.

Branch managers of the company pronounce the exhibition worth of the Oakdales thoroughly established, it being reported that exhibitors showing one of the pictures have run all six.

Walsh in Role of Crook in New Fox Film

Having played young patriots, newspaper reporters, live young business and nearly every other conceivable male role, George Walsh is now going to play the part of a crook—one, however, who has seen the error of his ways and reformed, in a play in which he is working under the direction of Edward Dillon, a new William Fox director.

Virginia Pearson Thanked by Marcus Loew

Virginia Pearson, Fox star, is making personal appearances at all the Fox and Loew theatres in behalf of the Fourth Liberty Loan. Just previous to the loan drive she appeared at the opening of one of Marcus Loew's new theatres and his appreciation is shown in the following letter:

September 26, 1918.

"My Dear Miss Pearson:

"Any thanks which I am able to offer you for opening our Bethlehem theatre would be weak and futile in comparison with what you have done for us.

"Judging by the enthusiastic reports of the manner in which you captured the city and captivated everyone who saw you, you have done more to start the theatre on a prosperous career than anything that we could possibly plan.

"You may feel certain that I appreciate it thoroughly and would consider it a favor if we ever have an opportunity of repaying you. Very sincerely,

"MARCUS LOEW."

Mae Marsh Completes "Southern Pride"

Emmett J. Flynn, Goldwyn director, has completed work on his second Mae Marsh picture for this company. It is entitled "Southern Pride" and described as a drama that fits Miss Marsh's talents to a nicety. Mr. Flynn is also responsible for Miss Marsh's picture immediately previous to this, entitled "Little Mother," which is to be released.

Mr. Flynn is a young director but of long experience. He served his apprenticeship with the Thomas H. Ince Company on the coast and made his first mark as a director with the Paralta company, which concern he joined with many others of the Ince forces. "Alimony," a picture bearing his name, was distributed by the First National Exhibitors Circuit, and another production made by Mr. Flynn was "The Right Hand and the Left," which is to be released on the state rights basis shortly.

Title Changed on Coming Kerrigan Feature

The Jesse D. Hampton production to follow J. Warren Kerrigan in "Three X Gordon" on the Hodkinson Service program, has had its title changed from "The Unfinished Story" to "The Drifters."

This story of adventure in Alaska is from the pen of Kenneth B. Clarke, who was also responsible for Kerrigan's previous successes, "Three X Gordon" and "Prisoners of the Pines."

Fielder in Loan Drive

E. C. Fielder, the Hodkinson representative in the Cleveland territory, is running a little idea of his own in augmenting the various committees' work in the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign.

He has sent a neatly printed post card to exhibitors throughout his territory urging them to carry Liberty Loan advertising in all their advertising.

Which Is Norma Talmadge? Yes, That's the Select Star in the Back Row, Center, Surrounded by Chinese Youngsters Who Appear With Her In "A Tale of the Forbidden City"

"Deadly Sins" to Be Re-Issued

McClure Will Reissue "Deadly Sins" Series, Cut Down from Six Reel to Two Reel Lengths

M'CLURE PRODUCTIONS, INC., will reissue a new and complete version of the Famous "Deadly Sins" series. In accordance with a request from various exhibitors, the productions will be issued in two-reel lengths, as opposed to their original six-reel form when published several years ago.

The leading figure in the new two-reel versions is the present Paramount star, Shirley Mason, who recently appeared in her first Artcraft Production, "Come on In."

Miss Mason plays congenial roles in each of the two-reel "Deadly Sins" series. She appears in company with H. B. Warner, Holbrook Blinn, Nance O'Neil, Ann Murdock and Charlotte Walker.

In deciding upon the innovation in relation to the McClure series extreme care has been taken to preserve only the most exciting episodes throughout the original lengths of the pictures. The result is said to have been a series of two-length subjects which are unexcelled for their action, "punch" scenes and entertainment. A complete staff of cutters and assistants have been quietly at work for mauy weeks going through the entire negative footage of the original productions, securing the most desirable portions of each picture for use in the condensed version.

The McClure series of "Deadiy Sins," headed by Shirley Mason, were originally published through the exchanges of the Triangle Film Corporation in their entire length form; the productions recently were reissued through the exchanges of the General Film Company. This organization reported marked success with the experiment.

Due to this fact, they are now about to be re-issued for the third time in the form of special two-reel length features starring Shirley Mason. The distribution of the new "Deadly Sins" will be handled by the exchanges of the General Film Co., and an extensive advertising and exploitation campaign is to be carried out in connection with their release.

Vitagraph Exhibitors' Booking Chart Ready

THE Vitagraph Distributing Organization, this week, will have available for exhibitors the 1918-19 edition of the "Exhibitors' Booking Chart." For several seasons past Vitagraph has provided these film record books for the exhibitors of the country, giving them out at the beginning of each year, or on January 1.

This season, however, they have advanced the distribution date to October 1, which marks the inauguration of the company's new Blue Ribbon Booking plan and policy, so that exhibitors may start keeping tabs on their features now and carry them in the one book until next fall.

The 1918-19 edition of Vitagraph's "Booking Chart" contains a lot of valuable information for exhibitors at large and is particularly valuable for those handling Vitagraph product. The Vitagraph week, from the releasing standpoint, begins on Monday, and in the calendar section of the book, one page has been devoted to each week of the year, beginning September 30, 1918, and ending September 30, 1919.

Margarita Fisher's Next

A rolliicking romance is announcedin in "Fair Enough," Margarita Fisher's next picture, made by the American Film Company and released by Pathe.

Jack Mower, her leading man, takes the role of a millionaire.

F.I.L.M. Club Honors Alice Brady

To show their appreciation of Alice Brady as a screen and stage star, more than 300 members of the F. I. L. M. Club attended in a body a performance of Miss Brady's new stage success, "Forever After," at the Central theatre.

Included in the audience were about fifty employes of Select's New York exchange and home office, exclusive of the representation from the F. I. L. M. Club—all anxious to do homage to the undoubted talent displayed by Select's "Alice" in "Forever After."

William A. Brady was present and spoke from the stage, admitting that Miss Brady's work was noteworthy, even if she was his daughter. Miss Brady responded and twitted her well-known parent with the fact that this was the first time he had ever given public approval to any of her stage efforts.

World Will Distribute "Under Four Flags"

The authoritative announcement is made by Director Chas. S. Hart, of the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information, that the World Film Corporation, which is now distributing "America's Answer," will also handle the distribution for "Under Four Flags," the third U. S. Official War Picture, which will have its first showing early in November.

"After very careful consideration," says Mr. Hart, in making the announcement, "it was deemed advisable not to open the distribution of 'Under Four Flags' to competition."

Novel Herald Advertises "A Perfect 36"

The Service Department of Goldwyn has announced to exhibitors the preparation of an original exploitation campaign for "A Perfect 36," Mabel Normand's second Goldwyn Star Series production, to be released October 28.

An advertising herald in the shape of a corset—a "perfect 36" model—is the stunt conceived for "A Perfect 36."

This Defiant Miss is Viola Dana, Metro Star

Dorothy Phillips Is the Star of "The Talk of the Town," Universal Production

Santschi with Farrar in "The Hell Cat"

Exhibitors will no doubt be pleased to learn that an old favorite again steps into the limelight in Geraldine Farrar's next Goldwyn picture, "The Hell Cat." He is Thomas T. Santschi, long a Selig favorite and one of the stars in the first extra length feature, "The Spoilers."

Mr. Santschi will appear as heavy in "The Hell Cat" and also in Miss Farrar's subsequent pictures "The Shadows" and "The Greater Vow." His appearance in the trio of Goldwyn pictures named will undoubtedly be cordially welcomed by the many friends he made while with the old Selig company.

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, Western Sheriff

In his latest Paramount-Arbuckle comedy, "The Sheriff," which will be released October 13, Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle has the burlesque role of a Western sheriff whose models of action and propriety are well-known motion picture heroes of the athletic and quick-at-the-draw variety.

A particular fondness is evinced by the big comedian for the feats of Douglas Fairbanks and Bill Hart and he seeks to outdo them at every opportunity.

Big V Special Comedies Praised by Exhibitor

The Vitagraph distributing organization last week received numerous letters of commendation from exhibitors running the new Big "V" special feature comedies. N. W. Thomas, manager of the Rialto theatre, Omaha, Neb., was one of those who displayed great enthusiasm over this new two-reel unit of Vitagraph service, and wrote as follows:

"Allow me to congratulate you on your new two-reel 'Big V' special comedies. At the present time I am running "Huns and Hyphens," and it is giving eminent satisfaction, making our audiences howl with glee, so I know it must be a regular comedy. Just keep up your present gait and there's no question as to the success of these comedies."

Vitagraph inaugurated its "Big V" special feature comedies, which are released in two reels each week, on September 16. The fifth in the series, scheduled for release on October 14, features Earle Montgomery and Joe Rock in "Submarines and Simps."

Sherwin Joins Goldwyn Publicity Staff

After a record of eight years as dramatic critic of the New York Globe, Louis Sherwin has retired from that newspaper to become Special Press Representative of Goldwyn Pictures Corporation.

Mr. Sherwin, long known in Los Angeles and Denver journalism, came to New York twelve years ago, and from the day that he joined the Globe attracted the attention of a large metropolitan clientele.

Many Dates for Kenyon's

"The Inn of the Blue Moon," with Doris Kenyon at the head of her own company, played a solid week's engagement last week on the Harry Davis Circuit in Pittsburgh, B. F. Lyon, manager of the Wm. L. Sherry Service, in Pittsburgh, reports.

In addition "The Inn of the Blue Moon" has also been booked over the Ascher Brothers Circuit in Chicago, in the Loew theatres in New York City and in the majority of theatres in all leading cities, it is said.

Wallace Reid, Starred by Paramount in "The Source"

First Again!

Exclusive Scenes of the South Amboy Explosion

Whose cameraman shot the only close-ups of the biggest explosion this country ever saw? Whose cameraman was the only cameraman inside the barred zone at South Amboy? Whose cameraman stood up and cranked under a storm of bursting shells while competitors failed to get closer than five miles from the disaster? Whose News Service was first on the screen with exclusive shots-on-the-spot, bringing roar on roar of applause at the Rivoli in New York City even before the explosions had ceased?

UNIVERSAL

Animated Weekly and Current Events

always have been first—are first now—always will be first. Being first is our business. And being first with all the biggest news pictures ought to be your business too—if you want to make money and reputation. Book either one or both of the Big U. News Weeklies and the Screen Magazine and you'll have all the newest and best and biggest and have it all first. Book now! Scoops won't wait!

UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING COMPANY

1600 Broadway, New York Carl Laemmle, President

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

"—the best bet of the season"—

"FOR HUSBANDS ONLY"

Lois Weber's
Production De Luxe
featuring MILDRED HARRIS

SAXE'S ALHAMBRA THEATRE
Refined Motion Pictures
Management of George Fischer
Milwaukee

"'FOR HUSBANDS ONLY', on which we are completing a week's run, deserves every praise that both critics and public can give it. From a box-office standpoint, no attraction we have ever shown has had a more successful run.

"This unsolicited letter is primarily intended to advise fellow exhibitors to book the best bet of the season."

George Fischer

JEWEL Productions INC
1600 Broadway, New York City

UNIVERSAL
Animated Weekly and Current Events

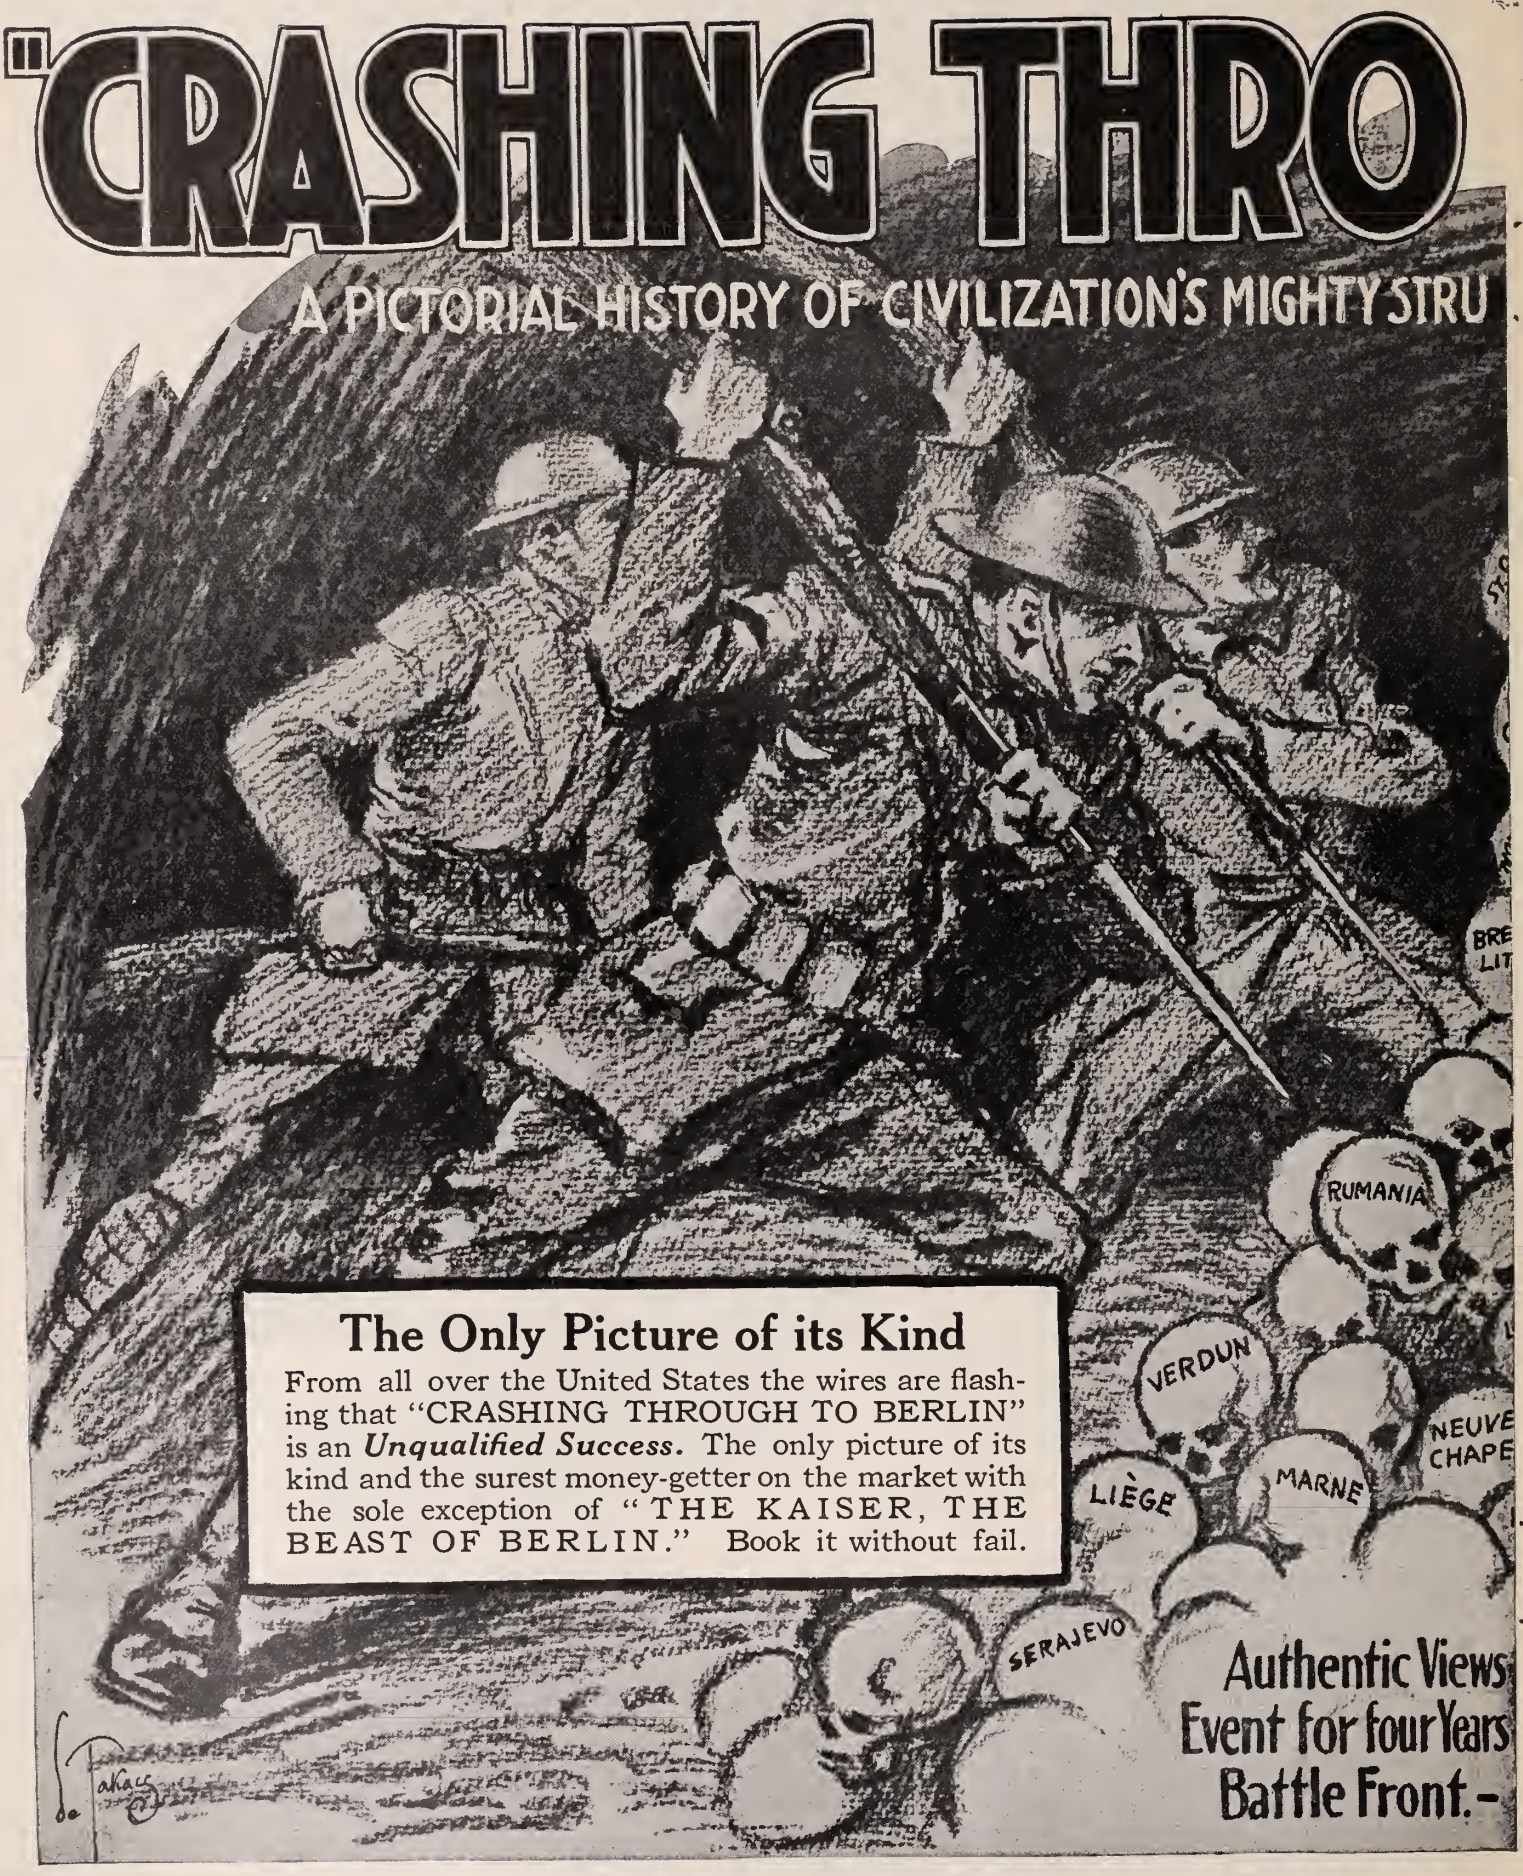
FIRST
MAJOR GENERAL J. FRANKLIN BELL AT TRIAL FLIGHT OF BOMBING PLANES
POLICE COMMISSIONER ENRIGHT RE-ESTABLISHES SUCCESSFUL METHOD OF IDENTIFYING SUSPECTS
AMERICAN BUILT CAPRONI PLANE A SUCCESS
PRINCE AXEL OF DENMARK PAYING TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF WASHINGTON
APPLES FROM THE WAR GARDENS AT CAMP DIX
FIRST

FIRST!

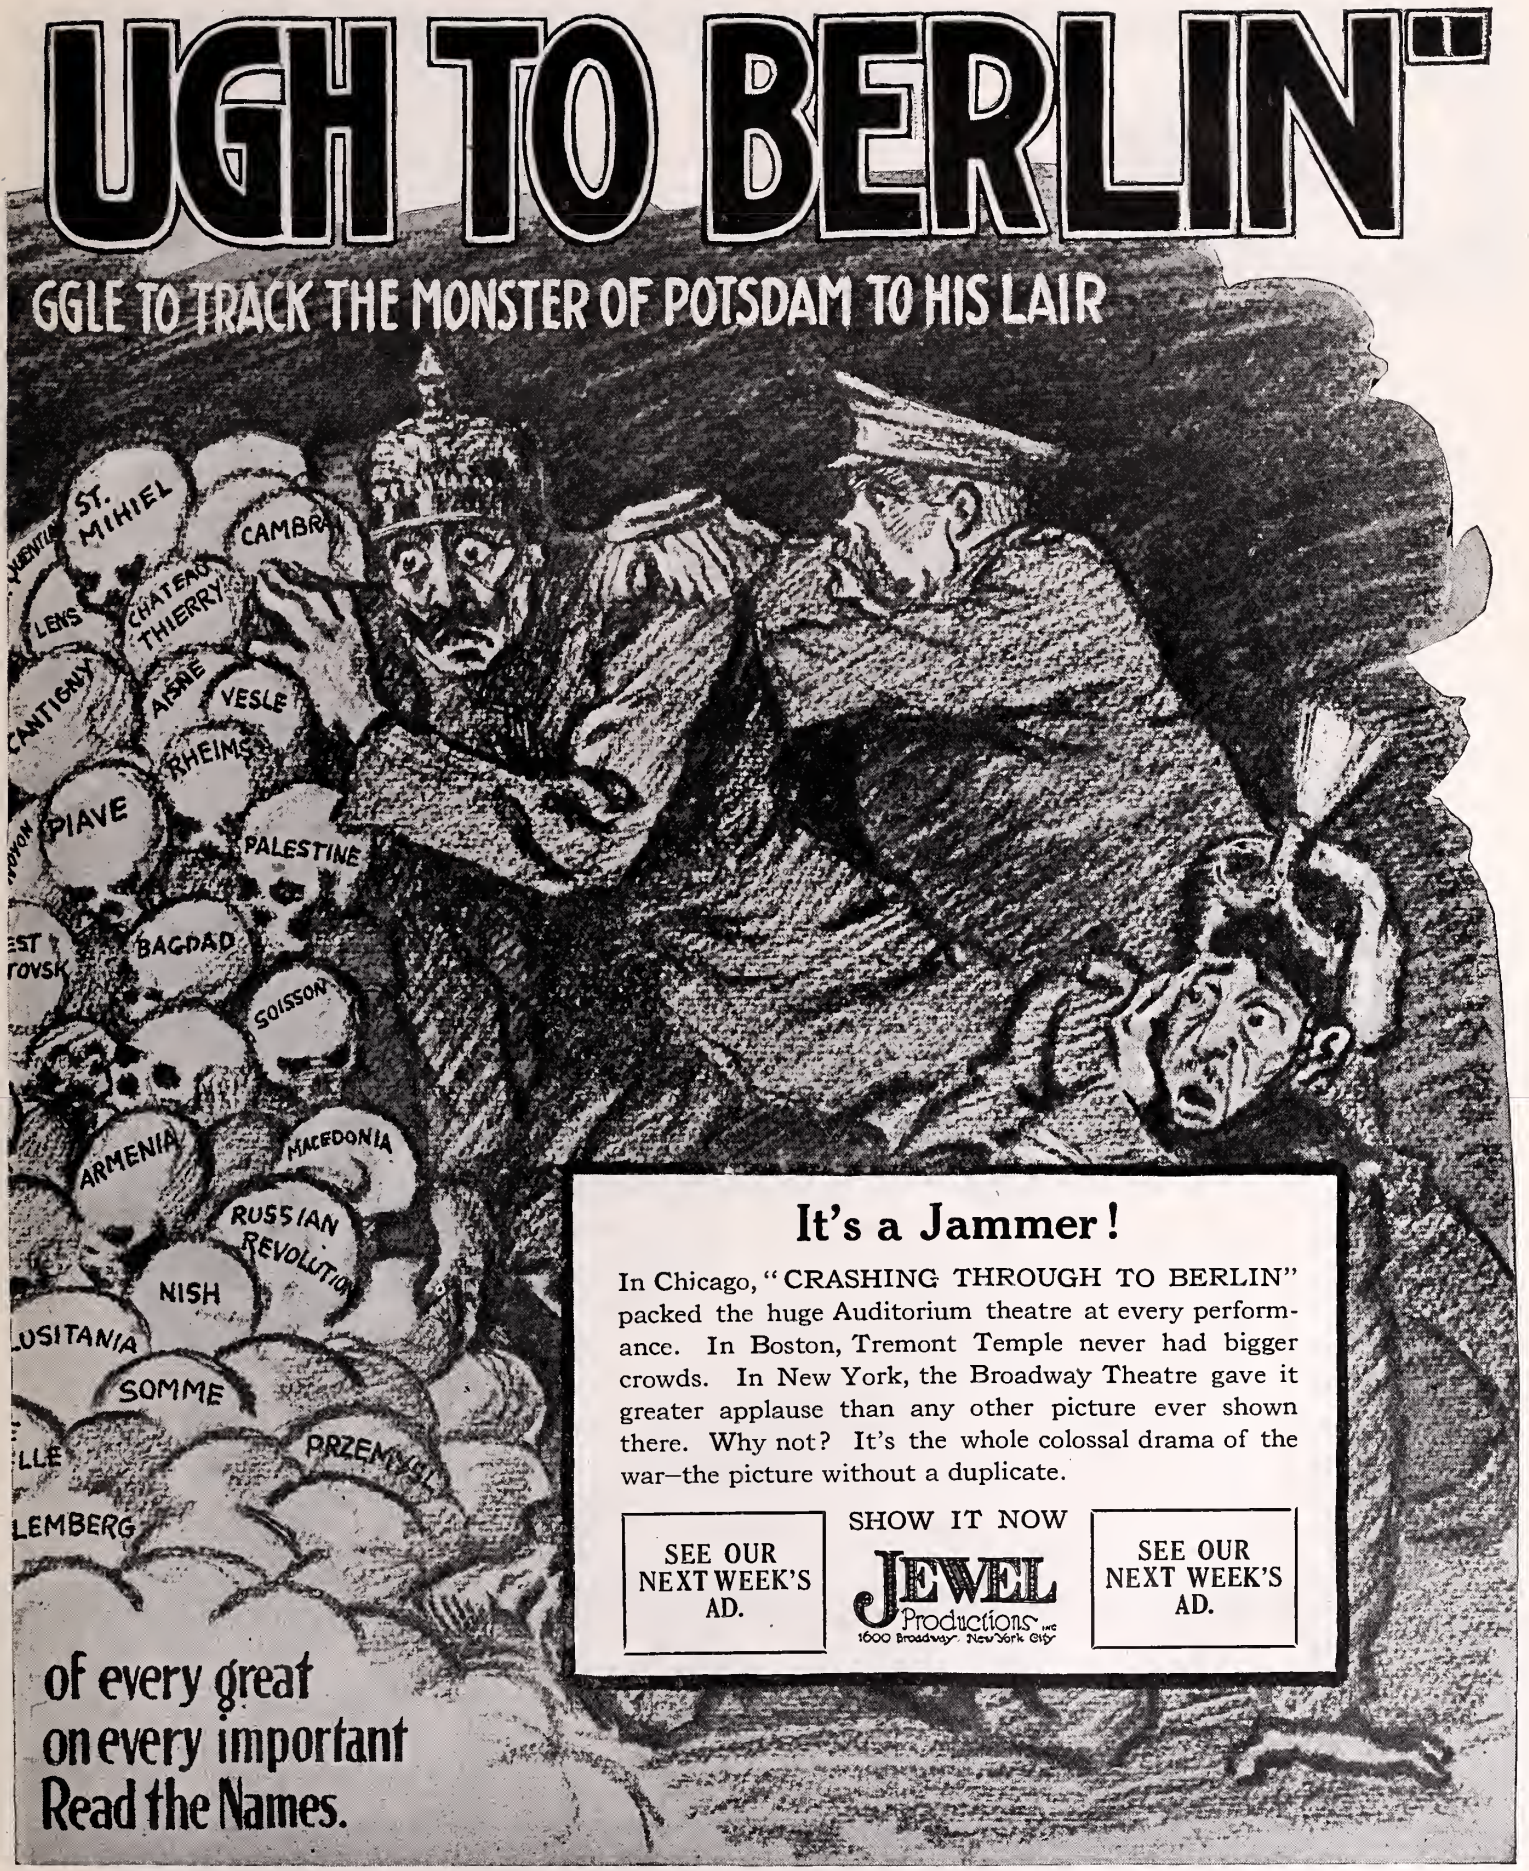
every week with the biggest News items of the world in fascinating moving pictures. The biggest Theatres in the country are showing Universal Animated Weekly and Current Events every week and are packing 'em in. How about you? Exclusive scoops each week identifies U. Weeklies from all others.

BOOK THE WINNERS

Book thru your nearest Universal Exchange, or communicate with the UNIVERSAL FILM MN'FG. CO., Largest Film Mn'fg. Co. in the Universe. Carl Laemmle, President, 1600 Broadway, New York.



"CRASHING THRO
A PICTORIAL HISTORY OF CIVILIZATION'S MIGHTY STRU
The Only Picture of its Kind
From all over the United States the wires are flashing that "CRASHING THROUGH TO BERLIN" is an Unqualified Success. The only picture of its kind and the surest money-getter on the market with the sole exception of "THE KAISER, THE BEAST OF BERLIN." Book it without fail.
RUMANIA
VERDUN
LIÈGE
MARNE
SERAJEVO
Authentic Views
Event for four Years
Battle Front.-



UGH TO BERLIN
GGLE TO TRACK THE MONSTER OF POTSDAM TO HIS LAIR
ST. MIHIEL
CAMBRAI LENS
CHATEAU THIERRY
CANTIGNY AISNE
VESLE
RHEIMS
PIAVE PALESTINE
BAGDAD
SOISSON
ARMENIA MACEDONIA
RUSSIAN REVOLUTION
NISH
LUSITANIA
SOMME
PRZEMYSL
LEMBERG of every great on every important
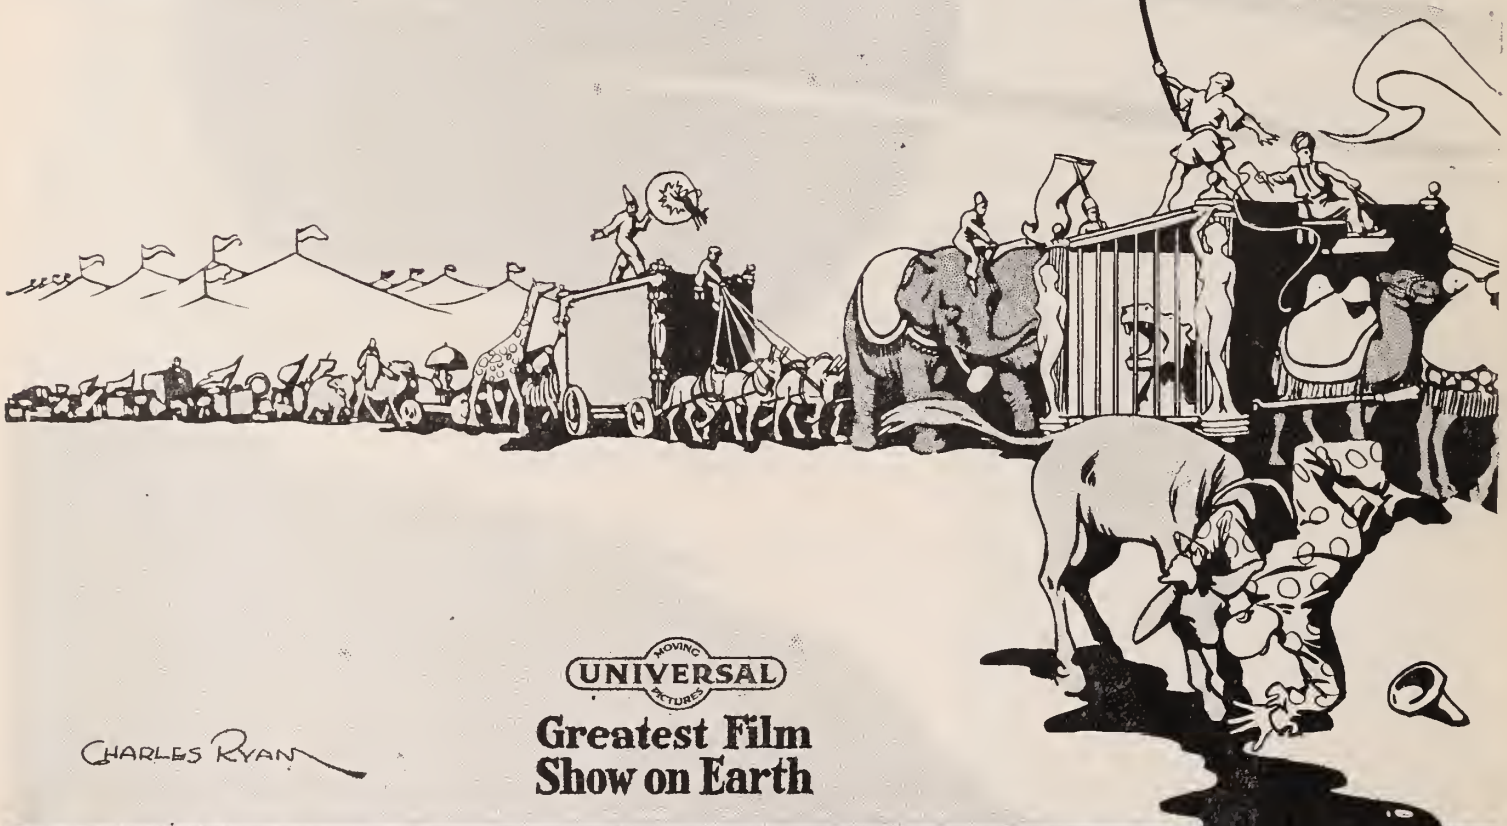
Read the Names.
It's a Jammer!
In Chicago, "CRASHING THROUGH TO BERLIN" packed the huge Auditorium theatre at every performance. In Boston, Tremont Temple never had bigger crowds. In New York, the Broadway Theatre gave it greater applause than any other picture ever shown there. Why not? It's the whole colossal drama of the war—the picture without a duplicate.
SEE OUR NEXT WEEK'S AD.
SHOW IT NOW
JEWEL Productions Inc
1600 Broadway, New York City
SEE OUR NEXT WEEK'S AD.

COMING

"The Lure of



CHARLES RYAN

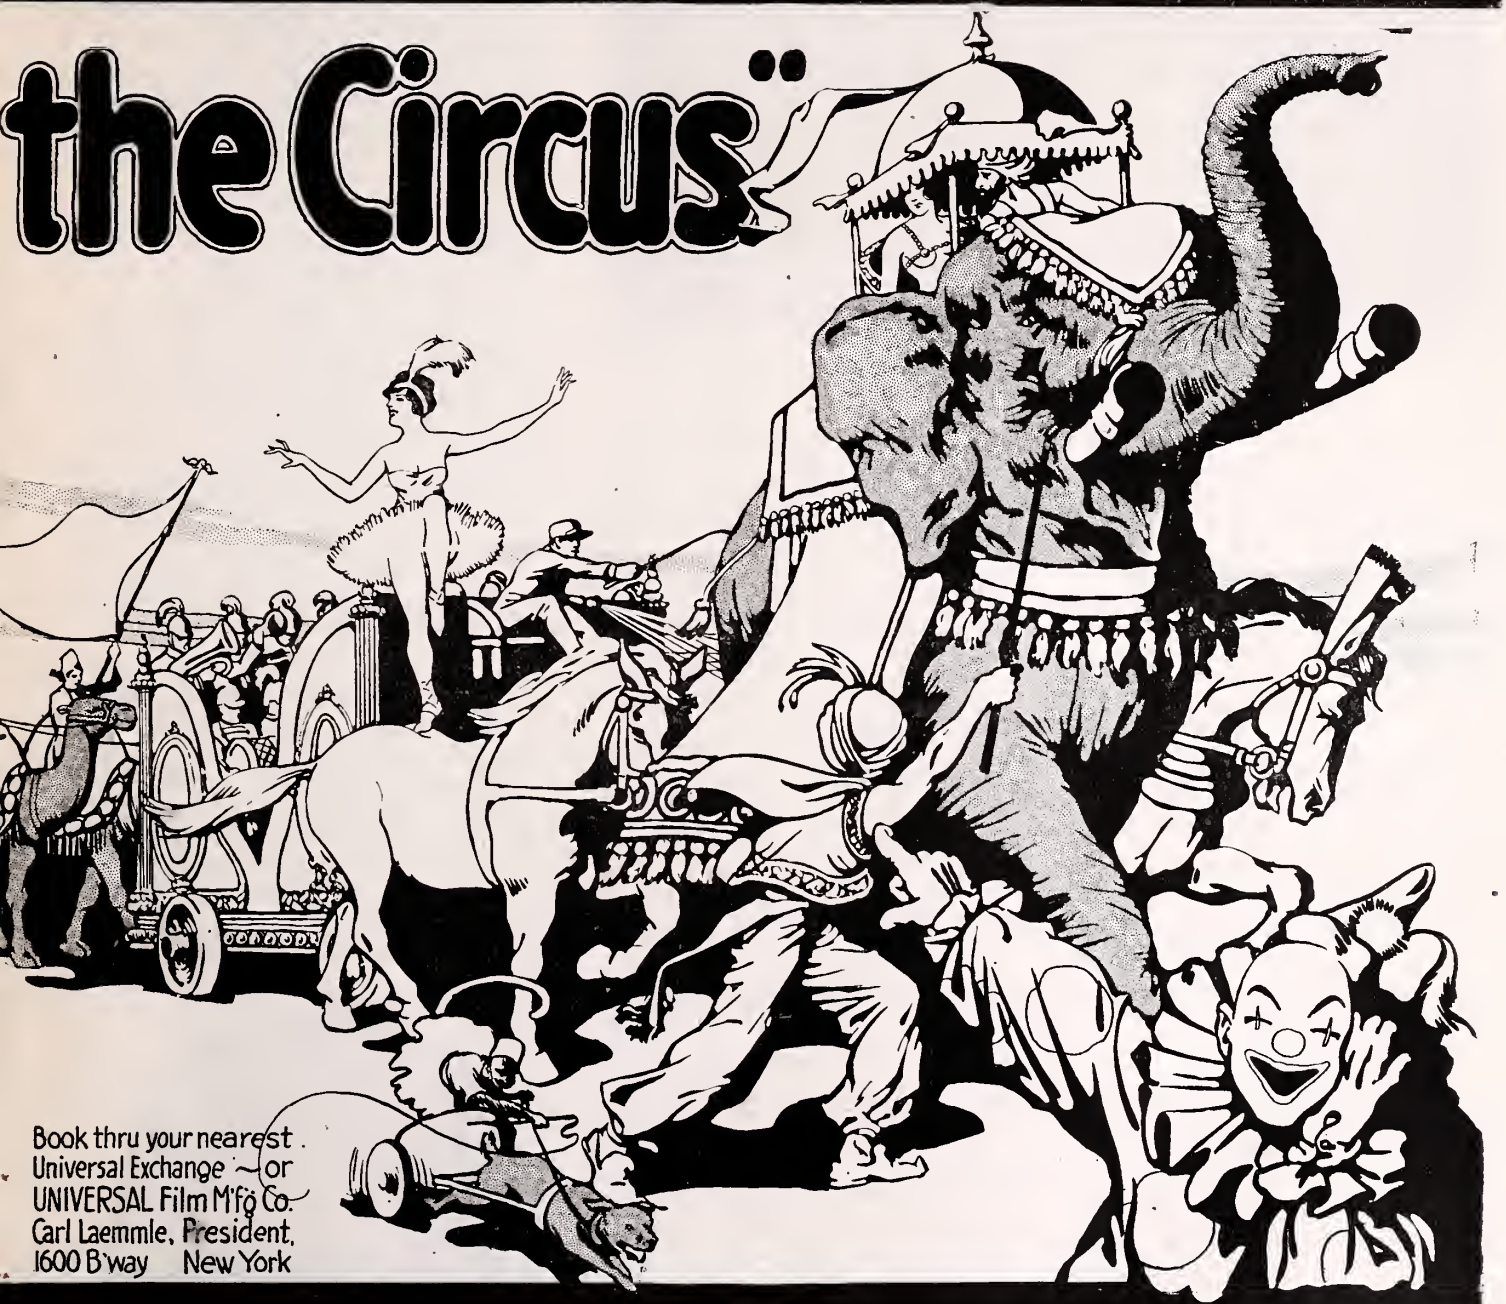
UNIVERSAL MOVING PICTURES

Greatest Film Show on Earth

SPEAK NOW

EDDIE POLO AND EILEEN SEDGWICK IN WHAT WE CONSIDER THE GREATEST SERIAL EVER FILMED

the Circus



Book thru your nearest Universal Exchange —or— UNIVERSAL Film M'fg Co. Carl Laemmle, President, 1600 B'way New York to your nearest UNIVERSAL EXCHANGE for the Serial that makes all others sink into absolute insignificance by comparison.

A Moment in the Eight-Part Prophecy Production, "The Kaiser's Finish," Made by Warner Brothers for the State Rights Market

Red Cross Bureau Issues Theatre Aids

IN order to give theatre owners a complete understanding of the nature of its film issues and the circumstances under which they are available to the public, the American Red Cross Bureau of Pictures has prepared a large edition of booklets. Half of this edition will go to motion picture exhibitors and the other half to Red Cross chapters in the United States.

In this way information about the official war work films of the American Red Cross will reach those most directly interested on either side of the distribution. The aim emphasized in this pamphlet is that of getting the films before the twenty-three million Red Cross members in the United States in the most direct and expeditious manner.

Director W. E. Waddell has incorporated synopses, descriptions and reviews of the current war work films, beginning with "The Historic Fourth of July in Paris" and a forecast of other releases now in work, in the booklet, which was prepared by J. T. Kelly as editor. Liberal space is given to the Fourth of July film and to "Soothing the Heart of Italy," and "Of No Use to Germany," which are already at General Film Company exchanges with many dates booked.

An idea of the subjects which soon may be expected is also given, some of these subjects being "Rebuilding Broken Lives," "The Kiddies of No Man's Land," "Heroic Serbia" and some Russian subjects. Several approved forms of one-column, two-column and three-column ads are presented to aid the exhibitor.

Tourneur's Next Production Is "Woman"

"WOMAN" is to be Maurice Tourneur's second big film offering. This announcement follows close upon the success of his first production, "Sporting Life," at the Rivoli theatre. Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, by breaking every precedent, purchased the distribution rights for America—the first time that a film drama had been purchased in the history of that organization.

Mr. Tourneur completed "Woman" a short time ago, although the subject and title have been kept secret until this week. Mr. Tourneur believes that "Woman" will be one of the unique productions of the photo-dramatic screen. In brief, it will trace the development of woman through the centuries, show her effect upon history and trace the evolution of her foibles.

Maurice Tourneur assembled a cast for "Woman" numbering such players as Paul Clerget, the French actor; Flore Revalles, the dancer and singer of the Bakst Ballet Russe; Gloria Goodwin, Fair Binney, Ethel Hallor, Diana Allen, Lyn Donaldson, Escamille Fernandez, Chester Barnett, Warner Richmond and George West.

The releasing arrangements of "Woman" and other Tourneur productions to follow are in the hands of Hiller & Wilk, Inc. An announcement of the first public showing of "Woman" will soon be made and the entire country will see the production shortly after.

Gaumont News Number 26

Gaumont News No. 26 shows the course in automobile engineering at Tuft's College, Medford, Mass.; the summer camp of the Noyes School of Rhythmic Expression, the aviators at a St. Paul, Minn., flying field, California celebrating her sixty-eighth birthday in San Francisco, and in Bangor, Maine, a thirty-two-foot sail boat finishes a trip from Seattle which took three years, and the Allied War Exposition opens in Chicago and breaks all records for attendance.

Government Uses Part of Essanay Plant

George K. Spoor, president of the Essanay Film Manufacturing Company, has turned over a portion of one of the vast Essanay property rooms to Government work.

The company is turning out binoculars by the Spoor-Berggren Optical Laboratory System, a new method of making binoculars just recently patented.

The making of the binocular in no way interferes with the production of pictures, the three Essanay studios being kept open for this purpose. Besides making special feature productions, . Essanay announces that it will continue to make its movie marionette pictures and also commercial films.

Vitagraph Announces List for October 14

The Vitagraph program for releases for the week of October 14 has been scheduled as follows:

Blue Ribbon Feature—5 parts—"The King of Diamonds," featuring Harry T. Morey. Written by Edward S. Ballou. Directed by Paul Scardon.

Big V Special—2 parts—"Submarines and Simps," featuring Earle Montgomery and Joe Rock. Directed by R. H. McCray.

Serial—2 parts—William Duncan in "The Decoy" episode No. 14 of "A Fight for Millions," supported by an all-star cast, including Edith Johnson and Joe Ryan.

Will Syndicate Story of "Lafayette, We Come"

By special arrangement with the Press Service Bureau the Affiliated Distributors Corporation has succeeded in placing the story of their first release, "Lafayette, We Come!" with the aforementioned syndicate for publication in newspapers throughout the country.

The novelization of the story was written by Robert W. Sneddon.

Margaret Marsh, Who Appears in the Rolfe Serial, "The Master Mystery"

Gaumont Graphic No. 28 Covers Wide Field

Gaumont Graphic No. 28 covers a wide variety of topical subjects, in part as follows: Leghorn, Italy.—American Red Cross Colony.

Boston, Mass.—Spanish Influenza Epidemic. Red Cross nurses make gauze masks to wear while caring for thousands of influenza patients. New York City.—Two Killed in Subway Crash.

Views From the Front.—Scenes Along the Line of Prussian Retreat. The Grave of Lieutenant Quentin Roosevelt. A German Rifle Found Near Lieutenant Roosevelt's Grave. Nothing Is Sacred to the Hun, Who Used This Shrine as a Sniper's Post. Privates Leo G. McGuire and Fred A. Remick Decorated with Distinguished Service medals. Though Forced to Descend Fourteen Times in One Day, This Repaired Balloon Is Still in Service. American and French Ambulances Operating Near a Destroyed Field Kitchen.

San Francisco, Cal.—On a Barren Side Hill Sailors Have Made the Biggest Liberty Loan Sign, Visible for Many Miles. The thousands who throng the ferry and harbor see this sign daily. New York City.—267 Scarred Alpine Heroes Will Tour the Country, for the Liberty Loan Campaign. Major General Guglielmotti in command. Detroit, Mich.—Michigan State Troops Stimulate Interest by Reproducing Battle of Vimy Ridge.

Serial A, Big Hit, Says Gaumont Official

When the Gaumont Company's latest photo-serial, "The Hand of Vengeance," was first shown to independent distributors a few weeks ago, many prophesied that it would "clean-up" everywhere. That practically the entire states-right territory was sold at once shows that these men believed what they said.

"This is probably the only serial ever screened in its entirety for film-hardened men in the trade, the most fault-finding of all critics," declared a Gaumont official. "But several of them, who had seen the first two reels in the rough insisted on looking at every reel to see how many novel and unheard-of stunts would be pulled off by the daring adventurer whose escapades, dangers and escapes are featured."

Hart Will Film Scenes Before Returning

Before William S. Hart, who is now touring the principal cities in the three leading Federal Reserve districts in the interest of the Fourth Liberty Loan, returns to California he will make a number of scenes in New York for his forthcoming Artcraft picture, "Branding Broadway."

In the party which accompanied the Artcraft star East are his sister, Miss Mary Hart; E. H. Allen, business manager of the Hart production; Gerald Duffy, publicity director; Joe August and Dwight Warren, cameraman and still photographer.

Two Smiles That Are Gaining Steadily in Popularity. They Belong to "Smiling Bill" Parsons, Star of Capitol Comedies, Made by National Film for Goldwyn Distribution, and His Leading Woman, Mary MacIvor

Sessue Hayakawa Newest Pre-Released October 13

Sessue Hayakawa's newest picture, "The Temple of Dusk," made by the Haworth Pictures Corporation, will be prereleased on October 13. This is the second in the series of Hayakawa specials which will be released through the Mutual.

In producing the picture, James Young, the director, added materially to the strength o fthe story which was written by Frances Marion, who has furnished Hayakawa with material in the past. She was the author of his "The City of Dim Faces."

"Manx-Man" Adds Two

Sales Director J. L. Kempner, of the Manx-Man Company, announces this week the appointment as "Manx-Man" special representative of Samuel D. Pelzman and Gus Schlessinger. The latter was loaned for the work by President Paul H. Cromelin, of Inter-Ocean Film, who control the foreign rights of "Manx-Man."

Samuel D. Pelzsman is the youngest special representative in the Manx-Man Company's employ. While still in his 'teens he was attached to the feature department of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company.

Cleveland Triangle Moves

The Triangle Film Corporation of Cleveland is moving into new and greatly improved quarters in the Sloan Building. Manager Irwin Hirsch has leased Nos. 506-8-10-11-13-15-17 Sloan Building, and when his carpenters and decorators are finished he will have one of the most up-to-date and elaborate suite of offices in the city.

President Wilson Filmed in Draft Drawing

Universal cameramen are jubilant and claim a beat in securing scenes showing President Wilson in the great draft drawing, which scenes are included in Universal Animated Weekly No. 44.

This is the first time that President Wilson has personally taken part in the drawing. He consented to do so in view of the fact that Secretary of War Baker is in France with General Pershing. Immediately after the President and other Government officials, including Vice-President Marshall and Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives, had drawn numbers the Universal cameraman leaped into a waiting automobile and caught a train for New York.

In the same reel are shown pictures of the opening of the Fourth Liberty Loan in New York, Baltimore, Chicago, Milwaukee and other cities.

Samuel Grand of Boston Gets Houdini Serial

What might be termed one of the most interesting examples of the psychology of selling is illustrated by the contract which Samuel Grand, now controlling the B. A. Rolfe Productions of New England, made with Harry Grossman of the Rolfe Productions.

The story is interesting in that Mr. Grand is one of the pioneer film distributors in the business, and furthermore, it is said, he has met with wonderful success in the promotion of a serial, in New England. Mr. Grand has recently completed bookings on this serial and has taken in over eighty thousand ($80,000) dollars, for his territory, according to report.

Evelyn Nesbit Starts New Fox Picture

FOLLOWING the completion of "The Woman Who Gave," Evelyn Nesbit, the new Fox star, has begun work on her second production for William Fox, entitled "I Want to Forget," and described as a powerful drama in which a butterfly redeems her soul in the United States Secret Service.

"I Want to Forget" is being produced under the direction of James Kirkwood, who has just joined the Fox forces. Mr. Kirkwood also wrote the script.

The cast for the new Nesbit play, which is the second in the series which Miss Nesbit is to make for the William Fox program of Standard Pictures, has not yet been completed.

The Kalem studios in Fort Lee, N. J., by Director Kirkwood and the Fox organization, has gone to great expense to make "I Want to Forget" one of the biggest productions of the Standard Pictures program.

Normand in Comedies Until War Ends

Mabel Normand's announcement that she will be seen only in broad comedy until peace is proclaimed was glad tidings to her admirers, judging from the patronage given her first Goldwyn comedy, "Peck's Bad Girl."

Her second broad comedy, "A Perfect 36," by Tex Charwate, also autor of "Peck's Bad Girl," is said to be even funnier than that one, which gave her the sparkling role of Minute Peck. The funmaker is prank purveyor extraordinary as Mabel in "A Perfect 36."

"Patriotism" Was Chosen for Red Cross Show

"Patriotism," the Paralta play starring Bessie Barriscale, was chosen by the Motion Picture Operators' Union, Oakland, Cal., as the feature of the benefit given at the T. and D. theatre for the Red Cross Building Fund.

Operators and ushers and other attendants at the theatre donated their services for the day, and the receipts went a long way toward the erection of a Red Cross Hut on the city hall plaza.

"Patriotism" is distributed by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation through the General Film Exchanges.

Gail Kane's Next Mutual "The Kaiser Bride"

After several weeks of search for a story for Gail Kane, during which time practically a hundred scripts and books were read, a script was especially prepared for her by John Colton.

"The Kaiser Bride" is the title, and it touches lightly on the war, with its main theme centered on conditions in Berlin previous to the war and their influence on certain circles in America at the present time. It is a serious study, highly dramatic in its nature and is said to carry a powerful message.

Foreign Rights Sold to "Wives of Men"

What is declared to be one of the biggest deals for foreign rights put over was closed last week by Nathan Hirsh of the Pioneer Film Corporation, with the Interocean Film Co. The foreign rights to "Wives of Men" were sold through the Interocean concern, who made a bid for the foreign territory.

"Wives of Men," in which Florence Reed does some of the best work of her career, is declared a real hit from its very first presentation, and many who have seen it are of the opinion that it will prove one of the strongest box-office attractions released in some time. It is said to be the kind of special feature that can be heavily advertised and boosted into a genuine box-office record-breaker.

To help the exhibitor properly advertise the film the Pioneer Corporation have prepared some attractive advertising material while the posters, consisting of 24 sheets, two style of 6 sheets, two styles of 3 sheets and two styles of one sheets, are all done in full color and depict some of the most dramatic scenes in the play.

In addition to this paper there are press sheets outlining campaigns of all kinds, well printed heralds, two, one and three-column cuts and thumb-nail electros, window cards, slides, music cue sheets and lobby photographs of all kinds. All of the material furnished is declared to be considerably above the ordinary.

Rapf's Features Get Many Bookings

According to Harry Rapf, his productions with Florence Reed in "The Struggle Everlasting" and Robert Warwick and Elaine Hammerstein in "The Accidental Honeymoon" are getting contracted solidly throughout the country. Reports to this effect from state rights buyers of these two pictures were received from Harry Grelle of Pittsburgh, M. A. Dresner of Washington, D. C.; Herman Rifkin of Boston, George Jacobs of Cleveland, M. Hirsch for New York State and Al Harsten for New York City.

Harry Grelle, general manager of Supreme Photoplay Company, Pittsburgh, reports: "We are doing very big. We opened at the Olympic, Pittsburgh, for a week's run; since then all exhibitors in this territory have booked both productions."

Al Tuchman Touring Universal Exchanges

Al Tuchman, who holds a record for pinch-hitting in all kinds of important business for the Universal, and who is now head of the supply and purchasing department, left last week on a tour of the exchanges. His present task is to inaugurate efficiency measures, calculated to carry out the Government's desire for conservation of supplies.

Mr. Tuchman is equipped with plans to regulate lobby supply service provided by exchanges for their exhibitors. He will be able to greatly increase the efficiency of this service.

A One-Piece Bathing Suit for Mabel Normand

In "A Perfect Thirty-Six," her next Goldwyn picture, released October 21, Mabel Normand returns to her old love, the sea. Having made a safe return to the realm of rollicking comedy in "Peck's Bad Girl," the vivacious Goldwyn star has intrigued Father Neptune into taking her back. And the alliance is said to be celebrated with much fun in the new comedy.

Her newest play is more than a comedy, and the star's exploits do not only suggest her former familiarity with the ways of the water, but "A Perfect Thirty-Six" actually shows her in a one-piece bathing suit, in the sea's embrace—and glad to be there.

Barriscale to Have New Type of Plays

It is announced from the Bessie Barriscale company, at the Brunton Studios in Los Angeles, that, starting with her present production, a comedy-drama called "Two-Gun Betty," the star, will appear in a type of photoplays which are not only different from those in which she has hitherto appeared, but a sort of play new to the screen.

Howard Hickman is author and director of the current production, and Jack Cunningham, screen author, prepared the continuity.

Both Dalton and Bennett Complete Productions For Paramount

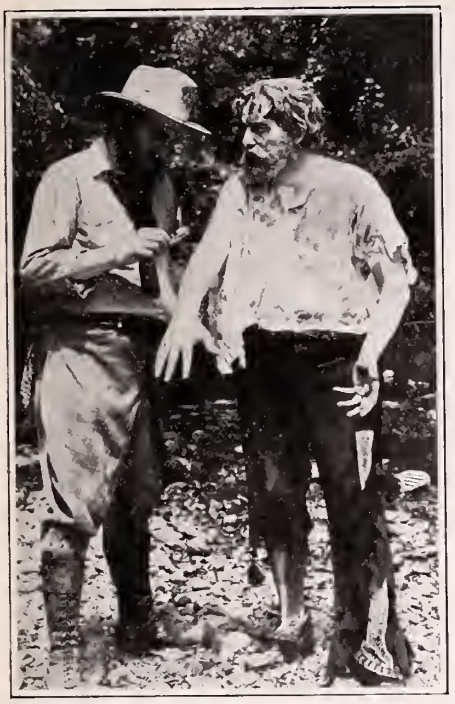
Dorothy Dalton has completed "Quicksand," her newest Paramount picture, and is all ready to embark on a new one at the Ince studio under the same director, Victor Schertzinger. "Quicksand" is the story of a wife's devotion and loyalty in the face of disaster. The new picture will be from a story by John Lynch.

Enid Bennett is on the last lap of "Fuss and Feathers" for Paramount, and will take a brief rest before starting work on her next, wherein she will again be supported by popular Douglas MacLean and directed by Fred Niblo.

W. H. Co. Releases Another Shorty Hamilton

W. H. Productions Company announce the release this week of another one of the series of Shorty Hamilton Western comedy dramas, "Shorty, the Bogus Duke," former title, "Shorty Falls Into a Title," in two reels.

In the several characterizations Shorty Hamilton portrays in this production he displays great ingenuity. Shorty is in London with the Selby circus from the Wild and Woolly West, and one day, because the cook annoyed him by merely pouring some hot coffee into his hat, Shorty had a bit of a tussle with him, and cook decided to get even. He therefore put a burr under Shorty's saddle. From then on the fun is fast and furious.



Vitagraph Presents Harry Morey in "The King of Diamonds"

"The Iron Test" Serial Starts October 21

"The Iron Test," the Vitagraph serial featuring Antonio Moreno and Carol Holloway, which is scheduled for release on October 21, is expected to be shown in more theatres than any of its predecessors, according to a statement from the offices of the Vitagraph distributing organization. Every record heretofore established by Vitagraph serials is said to have gone by the board.

The Vitagraph serials, beginning with "The Fighting Trail" a year ago, are said to be tremendously successful, and each succeeding one has gone its predecessors one better in the matter of bookings. "The Fighting Trail" was followed by "Vengeance—and the Woman," "The Woman in the Web," "A Fight for Millions," and now "The Iron Test" is ready to start.

First Frederick-Chautard Paramount October 20

"A Daughter of the Old South," the first of the series of Paramount pictures which Pauline Frederick recently completed under the direction of Emile Chautard, has been scheduled for release October 20. This release is also the first made by the French producer under his present contract with the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

New Wolfville Release

Plenty of action with a background of mystery and romance is promised in the next release of a Wolfville Tale in the October program of Broadway Star Features, distributed by General Film Company.

"The Canyon Holdup" again brings favorite characters of Alfred Henry Lewis' books into a class of motives.

Coming Program Offerings

Mae Marsh in "Southern Pride"

Goldwyn Star Appears in a Racing Story of the South, Released November 18, and Directed by Emmett Flynn

FOR her next release, on November 18, Goldwyn announces that Mae Marsh will be seen in "Southern Pride." Again the star appears in a decidedly different play and in a novel role.

Written by Tex Charwate, author of Geraldine Farrar's "The Turn of the Wheel," and Mabel Normand's "Peck's Bad Girl," the story is said to embody points of originality and dramatic interest in keeping with the promise held out by this new writer in his earlier works.

"Southern Pride" is a racing story, and Mae Marsh is a plucky girl of Kentucky who, in a series of crises, proves that she is a true daughter of the blue grass state. Apparently overwhelmed by difficulties brought on by her father's advanced age and poverty, the girl conquers many obstacles and wins happiness for both.

Although "Southern Pride" is played before a background of the race course, the story does not depend upon the mettle of a horse for the excitement which is said to be found in great measure during the action of the play. There is a powerful clash of wills and absorbing character development, both of which constitute a strong appeal of "Southern Pride."

Mae Marsh, as the heroine, does not resort to anything usually found in racetrack plays. There is no suggestion of a situation where she might masquerade as a jockey and guide a horse to victory in the manner of the old stage plays. While everything depends on winning the Saratoga sweepstakes, Mae Marsh remains the personification of Kentucky girlhood.

Directed by Emmett Flynn, Goldwyn has provided a capable cast. Clarence Oliver, now an established favorite in Goldwyn Pictures, is the star's leading support. Clifford Bruce, W. P. Carlton and Edwin Sturgis add distinction to the cast, and Tammany Young, remembered for his work in Madge Kennedy's "The Service Star" and "Friend Husband," brings his talents to the new play.

Goidwyn predicts that "Southern Pride" will rank in popularity with "In Old Kentucky" and will surpass the stage play with respect to the wider scope afforded by the silent drama.

"'Ception Shoals" Completed by Nazimova

WORK before the camera on Mme. Nazimova's production, "'Ception Shoals," to be presented by Richard A. Rowland and Maxwell Karger, respectively president and director general of Metro Pictures Corporation, has been completed. There now remains the task of cutting and assembling and preparing this production for the public.

Director Albert Capellani will finish this work before leaving for California to produce further Nazimova pictures, the first of which will be "The Red Lantern," adapted by himself and June Mathis from Edith Wherry's novel published by the Bodley Head.

A cast of sterling players supports the distinguished Russian star in this picturization of the brilliant drama. Charles Bryant, who plays Capt. Blake, appeared opposite Mme. Nazimova in both "Revelation" and "Toys of Fate," her Screen Classics, Inc., productions, as well as in "War Brides," and he has also been a leading member of her stage productions ever since the appearance of "Bella Donna."

Henry Harmon, who has the part of Job Coffin, keeper of the light, played the same part in Mme. Nazimova's stage production of "'Ception Shoals." Nancy Palmer is cast as Maude Standish, wife of Philip Blake's first mate. George W. Davis plays Brad Standish himself. Tom Blake plays Jim Smoot, a "Caliban" man, whose avowals of love alarm Eve; Elijah Allen is played by John A. Smiley; T. Morse Koupal is Luke Allen, the sweetheart of Faith, Eve's mother; Hugh Jeffrey is the constable, and fisher folk are played by J. O'Connor, Ada Scovill, Amelia Burleon, Marie Grant, Harry Weiss and Lydia Wellmore.

Emily Stevens, Metro Star, Is Said to Surpass Herself in Her Latest Picture

Varied Pathe Program Week October 13

The Pathe program for the week beginning October 13 is headed by the opening episode of the patriotic serial, "Wolves of Kultur," featuring Leah Baird with Sheldon Lewis. It is called "The Torture Trap."

Harold Lloyd appears in one of the most laughable of these creations, called "Why Pick On Me?" With Mr. Lloyd appears Miss Bebe Daniels.

The Official War Review, in its variety of scene and its movement of men and operation of guns, covers a wide area of Europe.

The Post Travel Series takes us in an odd and interesting trip to Barbados, British West Indies.

The ninth episode of "Hands Up," called "A Leap Through Space," has a big thrill and ends in a quiet, dark scene full of dramatic suspense.

The seventh issue of "The Far-Flung Battle Line," released by Pathe on October 13, is a war story in human colors, called "The Egyptian Contingent Behind the Lines."

Bluebird Rearranges Its Release Dates

The Bluebird schedule has been rearranged a trifle in order to give Violet Mersereau's latest picture, entitled "Together," an earlier release. In this picture Miss Mersereau has a dual role, as a beautiful little heiress and as a wandering youth, recently freed from Sing Sing.

The rearranged schedule for the Bluebirds is as follows: Ruth Clifford in "The Lure of Luxury," October 7; Violet Mersereau in "Together," October 14; Monroe Salisbury in "Hugon, the Mighty," October 21; Priscilla Dean in "She Hired a Husband," October 28; Edith Roberts in "A Romance for Roma," November 4, and Ruth Clifford in "The Cabaret Girl," November 14.

It is expected the titles of the two last named pictures will be changed.

Vitagraph Releases for Week October 21

The Vitagraph program of reelases for the week of October 21 has been scheduled as follows:

Blue Ribbon Feature, five parts, "Everybody's Girl," featuring Alice Joyce. Adapted from a story by O. Henry. Directed by Tom Terriss.

Serial, two parts, "The Ring of Fire," Episode No. 1 of "The Iron Test," featuring Antonio Moreno and Carol Holloway. Written by Albert E. Smith and Cyrus Townsend Brady. Directed by Paul Hurst.

Serial, two parts, William Duncan in "The Sealed Envelope," episode No. 15 of "A Fight for Millions," supported by an all-star cast including Edith Johnson and Joe Ryan.

Big V Special Comedy, two parts, "Frauds and Frenzies," featuring Lawrence Semon.

Alice Brady Is to Be Presented by Select Pictures in "Her Great Chance"

October Short Subjects Listed by Paramount

Famous Players-Lasky Corporation announces that the release for October 6 is the Paramount-Mack Sennett comedy, "Beware of Boarders," in which Chester Conklin, Ford Sterling and Mary Thurman are featured, and on October 13 the third Paramount-Flagg satirical comedy, "Tell That to the Marines."

"Whose Little Wife Are You?" is the Paramount-Mack Sennett release for October 20, and on the 27th "Fatty" Arbuckle appears as "The Sheriff."

The four Burton Holmes Travelogues are: October 6, "Sights of Suva"; October 13, "Methodized Cannibals"; October 20, "Fifi Does Its Bit"; October 27, "Fire Walkers of Bequa."

The Bray Pictograph releases are: October 6, "Big Men Wanted—Perilous Occupations"—Cartoon, "Von Loon's Non-Capturable Balloon"; October 13, "Taking the Terrors Out of War—Our New Possessions"—Cartoon, "Bobby Bumps' Incubator"; October 20, "A Machine That Thinks—A Fine Nature Study"—Cartoon, "The Greased Pole"; October 27, "How Movies Move," Scenic—Cartoon, "Goodrich Dirt."

Pathe Releases Series "Winning the War"

The first of the series of Pathe's "Winning the War" is scheduled for release the week of October 20, and is called "The United States Boys' Working Reserve Solves the Great Farm Problem." The spirit that animates these youngsters is said to be clearly apparent—they work with a will, with enthusiasm and with the apparent determination not only merely to fill the job, but to do it in such a way as to accomplish the highest production.

They are a healthy, happy lot, and one realizes that it just the sort of spirit moving them in their occupation, far from the firing line, by which the war eventually will be won.

"Shoulder Arms" Has Showing October 20

"Shoulder Arms," the second million dollar Chaplin comedy to be released by the First National Exhibitors' Circuit under its contract with the famous comedian for a total of eight productions, will have a pre-release presentation for one week at the Strand theatre, New York, starting Sunday, October 20.

The actual release date throughout the country to all exhibitors holding first run contracts with First National for the Chaplin productions is October 27.

"Shoulder Arms" was made in an atmosphere entirely new to the Chaplin type of fun making. The humorous possibilities of life in the trenches, with the thousand and one little events that go to make up the average doughboy's day, have been thoroughly contorted by Chaplin to obtain the maximum in burlesque.

"The Lure of the Circus" Cast Announced

"The Lure of the Circus, Universal's new serial released November 4, has two leading women as heroines of the production. Molly Malone appears in the first four episodes as the chief feminine player. In the fifth episode Eileen Sedgwick enters.

Eddie Polo, who passed twelve years of his life in the sawdust ring, is the supreme star throughout. The picture will be virtually completed before the first of its eighteen episodes is released. J. P. McGowan, who formerly directed Helen Holmes in railroad dramas and serials, is directing this new serial. Notable players in the supporting cast are Charles Hill Mailes, Noble Johnson, Fred Montague, Duke Lee and Harry Carter.

Lockwood's "Pals First" Released October 7

Harold Lockwood's current appearance on the screen was made October 7, when Metro released the Screen Classics, Inc., production of "Pals First," an adaption of Lee Wilson Dodd's dramatization of Francis Perry Elliott's novel, published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

Edwin Carewe, Harold Lockwood's managing director, staged the picture, and in it, as support to the star, appear Ruby de Remer, James Lackaye, Richard R. Neill, Frank De Vernon, Anthony Byrd, Pauline Dempsey, Rollo Lloyd and Walter P. Lewis.

Release Dates Shifted on Two Goldwyns

Goldwyn announces a shift in release dates affecting "A Perfect 36," Mabel Normand's newest broad comedy vehicle, and "Thirty a Week," Tom Moore's second production as a Goldwyn star.

"Thirty a Week," originally scheduled for release October 28, has been moved up to October 21, the Mouday preecding, and "A Perfect 36," which was to have been released on that date, has been set for October 28.

In the Independent Field

Inter-Ocean Buys Many Foreign Rights

President Paul H. Cromelin of Inter-Ocean announces the acquisition of foreign rights to "Wives of Men," of the Casino theatre, New York, starring Florence Reid. Mr. Cromelin made final arrangements with Nathan Hirsch, the owner of this feature, within twenty-four hours after viewing it at the Casino .

Another big deal in which final contracts have been signed takes in the Anita King, Kathleen Clifford and Jackie Saunders, five-reel productions, many of which are now being presented with success in the United States under the name of "Plaza Pictures." The record Speer Carbon item since Inter-Ocean took over the foreign agency, comes in the announcement by Eugene H. Kaufman, office and accessory manager of Inter-Ocean, of the sale of 149,000 carbons this week to New Zealand and Australia.

Mr. Kaufman states that he has also added the Globe Steel Reel, manufactured in Pittsburgh, and known valuable because it permits the quick replacement of broken springs. The addition of the Burlingham Travel Series and the placement in Argentine, Uruguay and Paraguay of a large list of American features including, "Not Guilty," "The Manx-Man," "The Question," "Whither Thou Goest," "The Struggle," "Man of Bronze" and the serial, "Perils of Our Girl Reporters," constitutes the balance of current Inter-Ocean news.

Another probability of the not far distant future is that a great English war feature, of a novelty sort, will shortly be shipped by London Inter-Ocean to New York Inter-Ocean for intensive American exploitation. Last but not least is the report, corroborated but lacking details, that the New York house will shortly change from the purchase of foreign rights of big films to the acquirement of complete world rights.

"Velvet and Rags," Next Binney Feature

"Velvet and Rags" would signify great contrast. Moreover it is a meaning title in more ways than one for in addition to the bearing it has on the plot, Vangie Valentine is the star.

Harold J. Binney, who is personally directing his star in this production, sees in it an opportunity of making a picture-play that in spectacular attributes will rank with the most imposing screen productions.

The picture which is being presented by Harold J. Binney Productions, Inc., will be handled by the Wm. L. Sherry Service and released in the latter part of November.

"The Kaiser's Finish" Selling

A. L. Warner Reports That Territories Are Nearly All Sold for This Special Eight-Reel Production

WITH short-time purchase options on "The Kaiser's Finish" for several of the largest state rights territories granted and signed this week, and applications averaging three for every state received by wire and in person, A. L. Warner, sales agent for the eight-reel special state rights production, announces that another week will mark the completion of his work of disposing of the American and Canadian franchises.

From the offices of Hiller & Wilk, in charge of the foreign rights, comes an announcement to the effect that they have had offers from New York resident buyers representing distributing agencies in six foreign countries.

Considering the brief time that has elapsed since the first advertising offering "The Kaiser's Finish" as a state rights production was published, it is said by Warner Brothers to be one of the quickest national sales campaigns that has ever characterized the distribution of any special feature.

The territories of Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Michigan, New York State, New Jersey, Eastern Pennsylvania and New England have been sold, while purchase options ranging in time from three days to a maximum of a week are said to have been granted to New York representatives of state rights exchanges at a distance from the metropolis, to provide the local agents time in which to communicate facts, terms and recommendations to their chiefs and to allow for authorizations and acceptances to be returned to New York.

The entire New England territory, including Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont, has been sold to Gordon & Mayer, one of the largest of the independent exchange organizations in Boston. It is said that their application for the Northeastern territory was made several weeks ago, before the first announcements were made by the Warners in the trade journals. Their interest in the production was prompted by the statements made to Mr. Gordon on a recent trip to New York.

The state of Michigan has been sold to John Kunsky, of Detroit. In closing the agreement of purchase Mr. Kunsky advised the Warner Brothers that he intended to give "The Kaiser's Finish" its premiere in Michigan with an indefinite run at his new million dollar motion picture palace in Detroit.

Educational Completing Conservation Film

ON the final lap of their picture-taking expeditions the Educational's "Romance of Coal" players returned on October 5 to the West Virginia mining fields where the picture was begun in July last. The objective is their former Pocahontas mine location at Omar, near Logan, W. Va., after a week at which they will make the final "takes" of the pictures mid mountain-and-river scenes near Charleston, the capital of the state.

General Manager Hammons, Director William Parke and the members of the company and staff left New York in high spirits as the result of recent successful achievement. Seven weeks of intensive work in a metropolitan studio have completed all the interior scenes, including those in which the representatoves of the warring powers figure. Washington City spectacular scenes had been taken earlier, and the coalmining scenes were so far advanced on the first trip that a fortnight for the second West Virginia visit will complete the photography. Then will follow six weeks of cutting, editing and titling. This work will not be hurried, for it is believed that the play carries a great patriotic message to be put over with the utmost skill in the captions as well as in the story.

Aside from the great outdoor and mine effects, the outstanding feature of the production thus far is the way that Peggy Adams has registered in the role of Anne Blair. Director Parke saw her in a James Montgomery Flagg one-reeler and divined that he need look no farther for Anne. Although Miss Adams' pictorial career has been brief, she is said to have done some notable things. The opposite role to Richard Bennett in "The End of the Road," and a leading part in "The Spirit of the Red Cross," the picture made for the $100,000,000 drive, were two of them.

With such principals as Hugh Thompson, who plays Bruce Wendell, Anne's sweetheart; J. H. Gilmour, Stephen Grattan, Tom Burrough, Stephen Carr, Henri Rolf Otte, J. J. Dunn and L. F. Kennedy, Mr. Parke feels that his exacting requirements of histrionic ability have been more than fulfilled. Most of them are out on the West Virginia location, together with Assistant Director George A. Grimmer and the technical staff.

Maurice Tourneur's Newest Production, "Woman," is New Being Filmed at the Fort Lee Studios. Ethel Hallor is Eve, and George West is Adam

Julia Arthur Has Screen Debut

Actress Portrays Edith Cavell in "The Woman the Germans Shot," a Plunkett-Carroll Production

"THE WOMAN THE GERMANS SHOT," is the photodrama produced by Joseph L. Plunkett and Frank J. Carroll, based on the shooting of Edith Cavell, the English Red Cross nurse.

Julia Arthur is the star, and much interest has been created in the picture by the fact that this is the motion picture debut of this dramatic artist, who has held a high position on the American stage for many years. Her latest stage appearance was in "The Eternal Magdalene."

Miss Arthur has, in the past, been approached many times with motion picture offers, but she has remained aloof from the screen until now, when the appeal of the character of Edith Cavell was too strong for her to resist.

The author is Anthony Paul Kelly, author of many screen plays, and author also of "Three Faces East," a melodrama, which is at present playing in New York. Mr. Kelly is said to have built up a stirring and dramatic story on the Cavell case, without departing in even the most minute details from the actual facts.

Leading in support is Creighton Hale, who has the role of a young English officer. Mr. Hale is one of the screen's leading men, having attained a reputation through many screen productions, notably the Pathe serial, "The Iron Claw," etc.

The director is John G. Adolfi, who is responsible for many of the Fox pictures. His most recent spectacle is "The Queen of the Sea," the new Annette Kellermann feature.

The cast includes George Majeroni, Paul Panzer, J. W. Johnson, Joyce Fair, Sarah Alexander, and scores of others, besides hundreds of others who are used in many spectacular scenes.

The picture has been completed, and will shortly be given a pre-release showing.

Gardiner of Buffalo May Open Albany Exchange

The Gardiner Syndicate of Buffalo, N. Y., is looking for a suitable location in Albany where a branch exchange will be installed. This concern is less than six months in the state rights field and bought out the interests and offices of The Veribest Photoplay Corporation, located at 47 West Swan street, Buffalo, N. Y.

T. R. Gardiner is general manager and John Sitterly is sales manager. The exchange specializes on short subjects and has a big line of re-issues. The Gaumont serial "The Hand of Vengeance" will be released October 20. Business is increasing rapidly with this new concern, according to Mr. Gardiner.

Arrow Groups Attractions for State Rights

Dr. W. E. Shallenberger, president of the Arrow Film Corporation, devised a new method of State Right selling, which was first submitted to two out of town buyers, who immediately approved the plan.

Realizing that the number of productions being placed with the Arrow Film Corporation for State Right sale would amount to a figure that would require an exceedingly large force if each attraction other than an extraordinary one was separately exploited. Dr. Shallenberger determined to "bunch" all those attractions of similar grade and to deal exclusively with one State Right exchange on each set.

Several Changes Noted in Texas

J. J. O'Leary, former manager of the Superfeature Attraction Company, a Dallas state rights company, was last week named manager of the Royal theatre in Waco, owned by Louis Santikos. Mr. Santikos has announced that the films owned by the Superfeature Attraction Company are now are on the market for an outright sale, inasmuch as he probably will enter the army within a month.

Trice Sneed, of the S. and S. Film Company, operating in Main street, Dallas, has returned from a trip to New Orleans where he placed "God's Man" in the new Liberty theatre, which is under the management of Ernst Boehringer. In addition, Mr. Sneed secured several other important Louisiana bookings.

A shift has occurred at the Specialty offices, through which "Bunk" MasAuliffe, the popular office manager, will get on the road for a few weeks. Lou Baxley will manage the office in his absence. W. G. Underwood, another member of the firm, has taken to the road for a short trip.

"The Still Alarm," a production handled by the Specialty Company, opened in Dallas as first run at the Washington theatre, on September 27.

S. N. Dormitzer, road man for the Parex Company, has just returned from his maiden trip for this concern, and reports that business in the Kenyon and Anderson features is very good indeed.

"Ruling Passions" Draws at Trade Showing

"Ruling Passions," the latest screen drama of Abraham S. Schomer, and personally directed by him, was shown to the trade September 26 on the New York Theatre roof, and according to reports a very large, representative and keenly interested audience of critics was present.

It was by one of the officials that, although ordinarily, a trade showing of a photoplay in New York, is, because of its frequency, an unimportant event, the first screening of "Ruling Passions" was stirring and impressive, the representative assemblage gathered for a view of the production, filling the seating capacity and crowding the standing room of the theatre.

Undoubtedly the size of the gathering was occasioned by the fact that Mr. Schomer was the author of "Today," "The Yellow Passport" and "The Inner Man." To his work as a writer he has added that of a director.

American Rights Offered on British Films

S. Levy, of Sol. Exclusives, Ltd., Birmingham, England, has two British features on hand of which he is desirous of selling the American rights.

"Way of an Eagle," by Ethel M. Dell, produced by Samuelson, and "The Elder Miss Blossom," by Ernest Hendrie and Metcalfe Wood, both declared by Mr. Levy to be the two most important British productions of the year.

United Adds Men in Many Departments

United Picture Theatres of America announces the following additions to its managers and branches: E. J. Farrell will be in charge of the Boston branch, G. J. Trask goes to Detroit and William Ctiron and W. Bailey have been appointed managers in San Francisco and Cleveland respectively.

Louis M. Noto, lately with Universal and former manager of Mutual office in Chicago, and H. Burnstine, former manager of the Motion Picture advertising department of the Chicago Daily News, have been engaged as United salesmen-representatives attached to the Chicago office.

Homer Howard is to represent United in a similar capacity in the territory of Western New York, with headquarters in Buffalo, and left for that city this week.

With two of its stars, Kitty Gordon and Dustin Farnum, at work on their respective superpictures in the Brunton studios, Los Angeles, and with the progressive extension of its co-operative activities on the Coast marked by the enrolment of a formidable list of theatres, of which the most recent is a group in California with the magnificent new California theatre in Los Angeles at its head, United Picture Theatres of America announces increases in its Western staff of representatives.

Recent staff additions include the appointment of William Alexander as manager of the Western Coast Division, and the selection of H. M. Lentz as manager of the Los Angeles office. An important appointment is now announced in the engagement of William Lord Wright, well known as a scenario writer and author of "The Art of the Scenario" and other publications, whom President Berst has just selected as special representative in Los Angeles and for Southern California.

"Sporting Life" Selling Foreign Rights

Maurice Tourneur Productions announce the sale of their initial feature, "Sporting Life," which had such a successful showing at the Rivoli theatre recently for Scandinavia. The rights to "Sporting Life" for Great Britain have been sold and negotiations have been completed for the sale of the Australasian rights.

Artcraft Pictures Corporation has secured the exploitation rights to the United States and Canada.

Poster Campaign Starts on "Wives of Men"

The Pioneer Film Corporation announces that the pictorial 24 sheets advertising their great attraction, "Wives of Men," will be posted on the boards about October 20.

As the campaign calls for quite an elaborate display this publicity should add a great deal to the popularity of the feature. The paper which will be available for exhibitors on "Wives of Men" is said to be some of the best stuff of its kind that has ever been turned out.

United Sells Foreign Rights to Howells

THAT President Berst omits no opportunity to further the interests of the exhibitor-members of United Picture Theatres of America is claimed to be evidenced by the announcement of an agreement just entered into between United and David P. Howells whereby an additional source of revenue is to be promptly brought to bear fruit to the benefit of all exhibitors enrolled with United.

By the terms of the contract just announced, Mr. Howells is to have the sole and exclusive disposition of the foreign rights to United's star products, commencing with "The Light of Western Stars," now on the point of release and further comprising the forthcoming Kitty Gordon and Florence Reed superfeatures, together with the series in which Dustin Farnum is directly under contract with United to star.

With the picturizations already announced for these screen stars rapidly progressing a large revenue should accrue to the exhibitor-members of President Berst's organization—a salient feature of which is the provision that the income resulting from the sale of foreign rights is said to go entirely to United's exhibitors in the form of dividends.

The decision to place the business conduct of United's foreign rights in the hands of Mr. Howells' firm was arrived at only after a careful survey of the whole field, and the arrangement was concluded in furtherance of the interests of United's exhibitor-members because it was felt that Mr. Howells' rank among the prominent leaders in the foreign rights branch of the industry together with the enterprise he has shown in handling the foreign rights of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit assured for United an efficient and effective foreign outlet for its product.

This centralization of its foreign business brought about by placing the exclusive rights solely in the hands of Mr. Howells is declared to be a further evidence of President Berst's practical belief in conservation of overhead, and enables the foreign buyer concentratively and conveniently to localize his attention on the whole of the forthcoming United output.

This is considered a big step forward.

Rolfe Productions Opening Own Exchanges

THE B. A. Rolfe Productions are opening their own exchanges throughout the country by means of a novel plan which was instituted by Harry Grossman, general manager of the organization. In an interview Mr. Grossman stated:

"I have carefully considered the various methods for distributing the Houdini serial and have come to the conclusion that the plan we have worked out will prove both advantageous to state right dealers and ourselves inasmuch as this serial is merely the beginning of a series of novelty productions which we have under way or in the course of production.

"Consequently when the time came for me to decide on the distributing facilities offered by other people I came to the conclusion that the most effective manner of releasing our production would be a combination of the liveliest state rights dealers throughout the country and ourselves."

"With this point in view I have carefully selected the organizations which I believe will serve the exhibitors interests to a great degree and incidentally establish a standing for us in the industry.

"The men I have picked to be affiliated with us have opened exchanges in the various centers under the name of B. A. Rolfe Productions, and it is our plan to make this word a by-word in the motion picture world."

Further announcements are expected soon.

The Bacon-Backer Organization Has Produced "A Woman's Experience," for the Independent Market

Territory Goes Fast on Houdini Serial

Mr. Harry Grossman, general manager of the B. A. Rolfe Productions, announces that the following territory has been sold on the Houdini serial:

Samuel Grand, president; B. A. Rolfe Productions of New England, 48 Piedmont street, Boston, Mass.; M. A. Lightman, president, B. A. Rolfe Productions of Atlanta, 65½ Walton street, Atlanta, Ga.; Harvey B. Day, president, B. A. Rolfe Productions of Pittsburgh, 412 Ferry street, Pittsburgh, Pa.; M. Goodstein, president, B. A. Rolfe Productions of Philadelphia, 1134 Vine street, Philadelphia, Pa.; H. F. Jans, president, B. A. Rolfe Productions of northern New Jersey, 729 Seventh avenue, New York City, N. Y.; Mr. Aronson, president, Regal Films, Ltd., 21 Adelaide street, Toronto, Canada.

"I am more than gratified at the calibre of the film men who are affiliated with us," stated Mr. Grossman, "and I believe that the exhibitor will welcome these affiliations particularly as a tend toward greatly augmented service in the matter of distribution. In each instance I have considered the exhibitors, and I know that the affiliations we have made will be welcomed by the exhibitors throughout the country."

Gaumont News Service Boosts Loan Drive

Not alone to prove that the motion picture industry is essential, but because every official and employee of the Gaumont Company in the United States, France, England and the many other countries of the world, where it has long established branches, are anti-Huns to the last breath, the Gaumont Company is doing all it can to make the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign doubly successful.

Without any preliminary advertising about the event, the Gaumont Company prepared for this issue of the News what is without doubt one of the most attractive Liberty Loan subjects ever filmed. This was posed by the famous beauties of the Ziegfeld Midnight Frolic.

Gaumont News No. 28, released on Tuesday, October 1, shows the opening of the campaign by President Wilson, who visited our largest and richest city for that purpose; the dedication of Liberty Altar by Vice-President Marshall and the Belgian Minister, and a rousing demonstration in Baltimore, where Colonel Roosevelt, with one of his characteristic addresses, helped raise more than half of that city's quota the first day of the campaign.

Cohen Buys Jester Rights

Negotiations have been closed between Milton Cohen, of the Interstate Films, Inc., and William Steiner, of the Jester Comedy Company, whereby the Interstate Films, Inc., of 729 Seventh avenue, New York City, New York, takes over the territorial rights to the Jester (Super) Comedies featuring Twede-Dan, the Interntional Mirth Maker, for the territory consisting of Greater New York and northern New Jersey.

Greenblat Joins Forces with Frank Hall

Upon the eve of the first release of the Producers' Distributing Corporation, confining its activities to the distribution of special productions at the fixed rental prices of ten, twenty and thirty dollars per day, comes the news of the active interest in the corporation of a group of Bostonians, who will be represented in the New York headquarters by A. Morris Greenblat.

Frank G. Hall, president of the Producers' Distributing Corporation, announces that Mr. Greenblat has been elected treasurer of the company and will take an active interest in its affairs, making his headquarters in the New York offices on the third floor of the Leavitt Building.

Evelyn Nesbit in "Her Mistake," the first special picture under the new Hall plan, is now being prepared for release, to be followed by eleven more productions of a special nature booked at the franchise-fixed rental prices of ten, twenty and thirty dollars. The exchanges through which these pictures will be distributed have all been announced and bookings are now being arranged for in every section of the country.

Mr. Hall is authority for the statement that the majority of the big circuits in the East and Middle West have already contracted for all of the features and that news from the South and West, where the General Film Company has just taken over the distribution of the pictures, gives promise of excellent results in every territory.

W. H. Injects Patriotism in Film Titles

Hereafter W. H. Productions Company will label each series of productions they release with some patriotic word or phrase, in addition to the actual name of the series.

The importance of keeping before the public eye continually the great purpose for which we are fighting, which is suggested in those forceful words that stand so paramount in the world's utterings and thoughts, cannot be sufficiently emphasized and impressed on every mind. Each series will, therefore, have some patriotic word or phrase to designate it. In this way, too, can the fact be brought home to the public in general that even motion pictures, by their diversion from the reality of life, are doing their bit to help make the world free for democracy.

The series of one-reel Keystones, featuring Mabel Normand and Ford Sterling, which will be released shortly, are to be known hereafter as the Series of Liberty Keystones.

The series of two-reel Kay-Bee western comedies will be known as the Series of Victory Kay-Bee western comedies. Other series will be named accordingly.

Holmes Back from France

Burton Holmes of Travelogue fame has just landed from France. He begins his Travelogue season early in November, his series of five subjects to be the results of his recent travels in England, France and Italy.

Exclusive Features Sells Many Territories

Exclusive Features, Inc., reports that it has disposed of the following territories for "Who's Afraid of the Hun?"

New England States, Eastern Features Film Co., 57 Church street, Boston, Mass.

Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia and Virginia, W. H. Film Co., 412 East Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md.

Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, Quality Film Co., 413 Ferry street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Greater New York, Exclusive Features, Inc., 126 West 46th street, New York City, N. Y.

Michigan, Strand Features, 201 Film Exchange Building, Detroit, Mich.

New Jersey, Frank Gersten, Inc., 126 West 46th street, New York City, N. Y.

Texas and Oklahoma, Southwestern Film Corporation, 1911½ Commerce street, Dallas, Tex.

Eastern Pennsylvania and Southern New Jersey, Masterpiece Film Attractions, 1235 Vine street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Queens Feature Service, 24 Potter Building, Birmingham, Ala.

Ohio and Kentucky, The Standard Film Servoce, Sloan Building, Cleveland, Ohio.

Blackton to Do No More Program Features

According to his recent announcement, J. Stuart Blackton will make no more feature films to be issued as regular subjects on a routine program of releases. Commodore Blackton, whose newest special production is "The Common Cause," which he is now completing under the auspices of the British-Canadian Recruiting Mission, had its first taste of big productions while actively associated with the Vitagraph Company.

From now on, however, his time will be devoted to longer and more ambitious productions, handled under specially arranged distribution plans. He expects to present four and perhaps six superfeatures a year.

"The Common Cause" is the first of these specials. It is in seven parts and will be distributed through the Vitagraph Company, beginning about November 1st. Then will come "The Battle Cry of Liberty," another war subject.

Burlingham Releases "The Pilatus Railway"

"The Pilatus Railway," the third release of the Burlingham travel pictures, was shown at the Strand theatre in New York City, where it is said to have caused considerable comment.

It is described as a wonder film showing a cog-wheel train climbing one dizzy mile above Lake Lucerne. It is a complete record of one of the most famous and classical excursions in the Swiss Alpine Republic, the land of scenic marvels.

Pilatus is known to every globe-trotter, and no tourist would think of going to Lucerne without climbing this weird peak.

It is released through the Sherry Service.

Equipment Service

THE FUEL ADMINISTRATION

REQUESTS

A MAXIMUM SAVING

in ELECTRIC CURRENT from the

MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY

CURRENT SAVING eliminates
COAL WASTE which means
the CONSERVATION of the

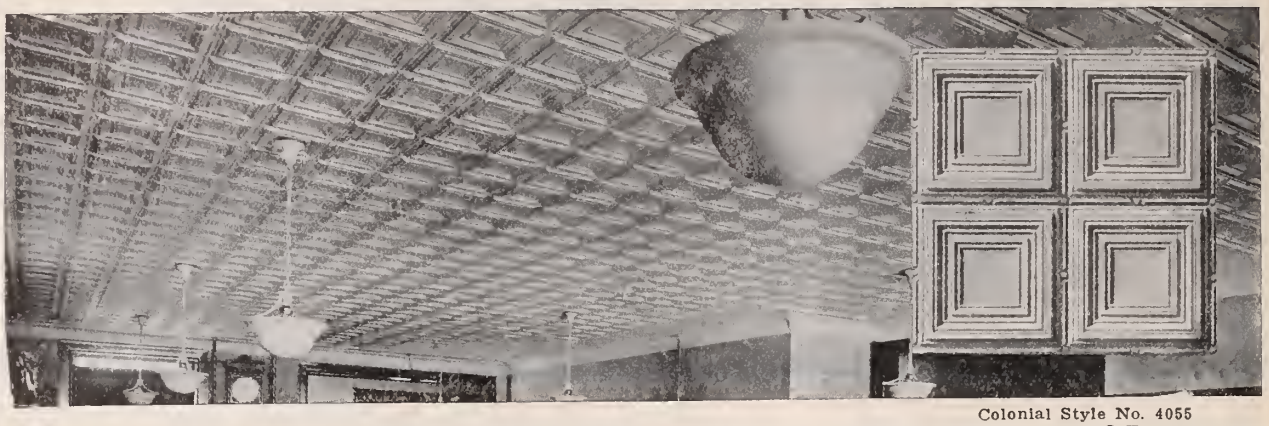
MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY

See PAGE 2577

Projection Music Laboratory Studio Theatre



Colonial Style No. 4055

The Modern Perfected Steel Ceiling

It's a vastly different product from the Steel Ceiling of years ago. If you are not familiar with consider these points.

"BERGER'S Classik" STEEL CEILINGS

ABSOLUTE ACCURACY of detail is secured on a draw-press under a pressure of 900 tons—replacing the old drop-hammer process.

EASE OF ERECTION is secured by this accuracy and by the bead and button construction which guides the workmen in placing and nailing.

ATTRACTIVE APPEARANCE—"Classik" Steel Ceilings are accurate reproductions, in steel, of beautiful molded plaster. Every beautiful detail and sharp relief is faithfully reproduced.

FIRE RESISTANCE, SAFETY from falling plaster and permanence are other Steel Ceiling advantages possessed in fullest degree by "Classiks."

Design Catalog and information on request.
Address Dept. D-45

BERGER

The Berger Mfg. Co., Canton, Ohio

BRANCHES: Boston New York Philadelphia Chicago St. Louis Minneapolis San Francisco

EXPORT DEPARTMENT: Berger Building, New York City, U. S. A.

BETTER SATISFACTION

This notice is addressed to the minority of our subscribers who do not regularly answer advertisements. The service described is, however, open and free to all who wish our help.

We do not wish to discourage you from writing direct to our advertisers; in fact, you do not do enough of it for your own good, but we do want you to get the proper goods to fit your needs.

There are many, perhaps you, who are too busy to write each company separately; therefore we are offering our co-operation, which means that you will receive full information on any subject which you may designate by merely filling out the coupon, designating by numbers the goods in which you are interested.

Your inquiries thus received will be forwarded to reputable manufacturers, even though the goods on which you wish information are not advertised in the "News."

1. Advertising Novelties
2. Architectural Suggestions
3. Arc Controllers
4. Brass Rails
5. Building Material
6. Cameras—Camera Attachments —Camera Lenses
7. Carbons
8. Chairs
19. Chair Upholstery
10. Change Making Machines
11. Condensers
12. Converters and Transformers
13. Developing Material
14. Developing and Printing
15. Developing Tanks
16. Disinfectants and Perfumes
17. Economizers
18. Electric Signs
29. Elevators and Escalators
20. Exterior Lighting
21. Film Cabinets
22. Film Carriers
23. Film Cement
24. Film Cleaners
25. Film Dyes
26. Film Stock
27. Fire Extinguishers
28. Floral Decorations
29. Gas Engines
30. Generators (See Gas Engine Card)
31. Heralds
32. Interior Lighting
33. Interior Telephones
34. Laboratory Apparatus
35. Lenses
36. Lighting Sets
37. Lithographers
38. Lobby Display
39. Lobby Novelties
40. Metal Ceilings
41. Motors
42. Mural Paintings
43. Musical Instrument
44. Paints
45. Perforating Machines
46. Printing Machines
47. Programs
48. Projection Booths
49. Projection Lenses
50. Projection Machines
51. Projection Machines (Homes)
52. Rectifiers
53. Reels
54. Rewinders
55. Rheostats
56. Safety Exit Locks
57. Screens
58. Slide Ink
59. Slides
60. Slip Covers
61. Stage Setting
62. Studio Lights
63. Tickets
64. Ticket Selling Machine
65. Ticket Taking Machine
66. Tripods
67. Uniforms
68. Vacuum Cleaners
69. Ventilating and Fans

Gentlemen: Please send me descriptive matter on the subjects marked in the above lists.

Name.....

Theatre.....

City.....

State.....

Equipment Service

Devoted to the technical branches of the motion picture industry, containing records of the latest accomplishments in the mechanical and scientific field; projection helps, inventions and suggestions; camera devices analyzed and commented upon; musical cue sheets for important feature pictures; improvements and innovations in the building and furnishing field.

No charge is made in these departments for answering questions of any nature. Correspondence is invited.

E. KENDALL GILLETT.....Editor

ALFRED S. CORY.....Technical Editor

Conservation

AS applied to the Motion Picture Industry what does this word mean?

To conserve according to the Century Dictionary means "to keep in a sound state," "to preserve from injury." This is interesting.

When a picture man uses the word he seldom thinks of it in this way—conservation to him means almost anything except the preservation of the industry as a whole. It is his own business alone which interests him.

If we are to win the position which we deserve we must forget ourselves, our own selfish interests and start a campaign to conserve the industry.

One of the principal things in the public eye today next to winning the war and putting over the Fourth Liberty Loan is the saving of coal.

The industry is asked how this can be done.

The fuel administration wishes to make recommendations to all the film interests.

To start with let us realize that no great saving can be made in any one place. It is by the accumulation of small amounts that great fortunes are started.

The fact that one lamp is turned out in a studio will not in itself conserve the coal supply, but if one lamp is turned out in every studio, every store, every home, in fact in every place where lamps are burned, the coal pile will be conserved.

The recommendations, therefore, for conservation, if followed by the film interests, and tied up with similar recommendations made to other industries will result in the saving desired.

Conservation of coal in the film industry aside from that used for heating purposes means the saving of electric current or energy which is created by burning coal.

Where can this be done?

This is the very simple question which Washington asks.

1. In the Theatre.
2. In the Executive Office and Exchanges.
3. In the Studio.
4. In the Laboratory.

1. THEATRE

A. By eliminating all auditorium lights until the actual admission of the public.

B. No tinted or special lamps shall be used in rest rooms, auditorium or lobby.

C. One watt per square foot shall be the maximum limit for lobby illumination.

D. No lights for decorative purposes except when such light is for general illumination or safety.

E. A maximum of 300 watts shall be allowed over each of the main entrances for exterior lighting and this simply for the purpose of safety.

F. The elimination of all but high efficiency incandescent lamps for general illumination.

G. By the installation of motor generator sets, transformers, and rectifiers.

H. By keeping the lens system absolutely clean, and free from dust.

I. The substitution where possible of high class prepared screens to take the place of plaster walls and cloth screens. This increases brilliancy and decreases the required illumination.

J. Careful are adjustment and focusing, keeping the crater at the exact focal point of condenser lens.

K. Careful setting of the relative position of the upper and lower carbons to cause as little shading of the positive crater by the negative carbon as possible.

L. The adjustment of the distance between condensers and aperture plate to give minimum spot on the latter.

M. Limiting the time for warming up the carbons of an incoming projector.

N. The establishment of a table stating the amount of current necessary for the proper illumination of a picture of given dimensions projected on a standard surface at different distances.

O. Omission of all slides other than those used to promote Government interests.

P. In some theatres the substitution of the incandescent lamp as a source of light for protection in place of the carbon arc is a saving. This, however, is a sales problem and not a matter to be forced on the industry as the original installation expense would be more of a burden than many small houses could stand and for the largest houses it is not suitable.

2. EXECUTIVE OFFICES AND EXCHANGES

A. The elimination of unnecessary illumination throughout the offices.

B. Holding of all film to be viewed and edited so that it may be projected continuously.

C. Installation of efficient forms of current controlling devices in the projection rooms.

All the recommendations made for the projection rooms of theatres apply to all projection rooms in offices as well and are equally important for them.

3. STUDIO

A. The use to as great an extent as possible of day light.

B. The elimination of all photographic lights until the scene is prepared and the camera is actually ready to be turned.

C. By the cutting down of general illumination about the studio, dressing rooms, etc.

4. LABORATORY

A. The elmination of all unnecessary illumination.

B. By the turning out of the lamp in the printing machines when not in use.

C. The elimination of all tinting which takes added current in projection.

* * *

These four classifications contain all the important methods by which coal can be saved through the motion picture industry. A recommendation sent out from Washington to all theatres and other motion picture interests covered by them will be a step in the right direction at this time.

If this is done and those who receive the instructions carry them out the current saved will be beyond belief.

E. K. GILLETT.

Equipment Operating Projection Questions Answered

80

Photoplast, a Method of Projecting Pictures in Relief

THE production of motion pictures of the ordinary variety which will, when projected, appear to possess all the depth and plasticity of good views seen in the stereoscope, appears to be quite far from realized as yet, but various inventors have given us some processes and methods whereby a partial stereoscopic effect is imparted to projected motion pictures, by restricting themselves to special apparatus or to films of a special character quite different from the ordinary cine positive.

We have just had the opportunity of witnessing a method of imparting relief to the actors, or objects, in projected images which is called "Photoplast," and is the invention of Charles E. R. Schneider, of New York City (U. S. Patent No. 1,124,665). The process cannot now be called new, as it was patented in 1915 and has been demonstrated on a number of occasions; however, the manner in which Mr. Schneider achieves his results is not without interest, and we proceed to outline his modus operandi and to describe the visual quality of the results.

In an exhibition of Photoplast an ordinary motion picture projector is used, and both motion pictures and lantern slides may be shown. Special films and slides are required, however, and in addition to the usual projection screen a stage setting comprising a scenic background and a large, transparent reflector of plate glass are employed.

Briefly described, an exhibition of Photoplast shows the projected photographic image standing out in apparent relief from the painted scenic background, which forms part of the stage setting. The process, which appears best suited for vaudeville, as a specialty, has no power to make the objects in an ordinary film or slide stand out from their natural background; consequently, the films used in a Photoplast exhibition show the action of characters only, and each image on the film shows the characters surrounded by a black background.

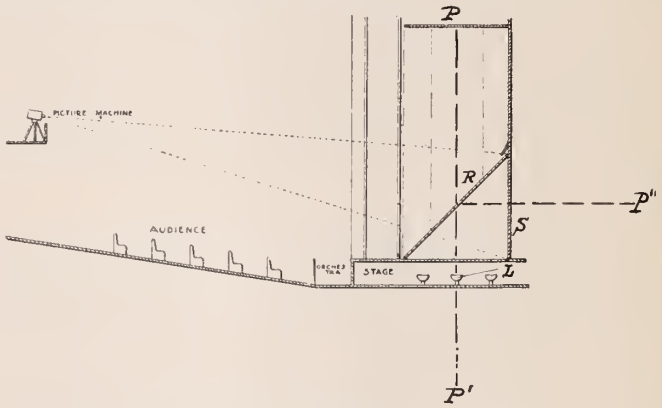
The manner in which the moving characters are apparently caused to stand out from the scenic background of the stage setting will be best understood by a study of the accompanying diagram, which is a sketch of the necessary arrangements.

In the diagram, S is the screen upon which the motion pictures are projected; R is a transparent plate-glass reflector of about the same size as the screen S, and making an angle of approximately 45°, with its normal, while P is a painted scene or picture which is situated a suitable distance above the plate-glass reflector, R, and is laid horizontal so as to face the reflector. The painted scene or picture, P, is brightly and evenly illuminated by lamps, L, placed on each side of the stage, which are of the projector type and concentrate the light on the picture, P, above, but throw little or no light on the projection screen, S. So long as the screen, S, is fairly dark, conditions are favorable for seeing the Photoplast effect, and if the performance is given in a theatre it is customary to have the footlights and proscenium lights burning. The projecting machine may be in direct line with the screen, S, or projection may be accomplished at a moderate angle, the location of the projector being no factor in the final effect, although an excessive pitch to the throw might upset the results. This, however, is always guarded against, as the distortion introduced would rob the characters on the screen of their proper dimensions and appearance.

When the painted scene or picture, P, located horizontally at the top of the stage-setting, is brightly and evenly illuminated by the lamps, L, and a Photoplast film, showing characters in action against a black background, is projected through the glass reflector, R, to the screen, S, a spectator in front sees the painted scene, P, and apparently well in front of this the moving characters projected to the screen, S. A typical scene, for instance, may represent people walking around before some well-known building, or we may have girls dancing before a sylvan background.

The backgrounds or scenes used in the Photoplast demonstrations are painted in colors and resemble the usual theatrical scenery, but their full richness of coloring is not revealed to the spectator because the reflection by the plate glass reflector, R, is only partial (due to its transparency), as will readily be inferred. The images of the characters in movement on the screen, S, which are viewed through the inclined glass reflector, R, appear bright and vigorous if the films are of suitable photographic quality, if the projecting light is sufficiently intense, and if the screen, S, is suitably darkened; but if any of these conditions is not satisfactorily fulfilled the characters will appear ghostly and the scenic background will be seen right through them.

The primary requisite for a good exhibition of Photoplast appears to be a film of suitable quality, so it may not be amiss to dwell briefly upon the essential characteristics of such films. It is necessary that the figures in Photoplast films be very clear and white, while the background must be as opaque as possible. In photographing such subjects the actors or objects must therefore be brightly lighted and posed before a tunnel or "cave," lined with black velvet, in order that no exposure will be recorded in the background portions of the resultant negatives. It requires careful adjustment of the lights to secure this intense lighting of the figures whilst excluding all light from the background, and for the purposes of the Photoplast process it is necessary for the persons photographed to whiten their faces, hands, etc., because modern negative films will not record skin as white under ordinary circumstances, but a clear white appearance is necessary to avoid a ghostly appearance in Photoplast projection. Thus a contrasty negative must be secured, from which a positive is made, showing vigorous transparent images of the characters photographed, surrounded by the blackest, most opaque background which can be produced without robbing the picture portions of their transparency. The production or accumulation of an extensive number of films having these necessary qualities is not at all an easy task, and we were interested to note that some of the best offerings in Mr. Schneider's demonstration were sections of elaborate trick films made by the French Pathé Company many years ago.



Arrangements for Projecting "Photoplast"

When the films are of the character outlined above, and the other necessary conditions are rigorously complied with, there is no doubt whatever that the arrangement devised by Mr. Schneider (shown in elementary form by the digram), will cause the image projected upon the screen, S, to appear sensibly in front of the reflected image of the scenic background, P, but, while relief is apparent, there may not be any appearance of roundness or solidarity to the moving objects or characters occupying the foreground, which sometimes appear as flat, two-dimensional figures, standing in relief from a flat background, the latter always appearing devoid of depth. If care is taken, when protographing the Photoplast films, to so light them that an appearance of roundness is achieved, then the projected results are very creditable indeed, as regards the plasticity of the moving objects; thus it is again apparent that the success of the scheme is very much dependent upon the quality of the films and slides used.

After viewing a Photoplast exhibition and studying the arrangement shown in the diagram, one is naturally interested in learning just how the image received on the projection screen at S appears to the spectator to be well in front of the image of the scenic background, P, reflected from the inclined glass reflector, R. Mr. Schneider says in his patent: "This is accounted for by reason of the distance between the inclined glass showing the background and the back screen, on which the projected image is reflected, and which being viewed through the glass, acquires the aspect of bulk, relief and distance." This statement of the inventor's is not the correct explanation; in fact, it is no explanation at all of how the effect is produced, but we proceed to supply the explanation, reference being again had to the appended diagram.

An elementary optical law tells us that the virtual image formed by a mirror or reflector will always be located just as far behind the reflecting surface as the object is in front of the reflecting surface. Now, in the Photoplast stage setting the painted scene, P, is the object and the inclined plate glass, R, is the partial mirror or reflector. If the reflector, R, were rotated so as to lay horizontal so that the light from P were to fall on it normally, then the virtual image of P would be located at P', which is the same distance from the center of the reflector, R, as is the object P. As, however, the mirror is inclined at a 45° angle, the virtual image will likewise be formed at a 45° angle with respect to the normal of P, and we consequently find the virtual image at P", which is again the same distance from the centre of the reflector, R, as is the object or scenic background, P. If, now, we view the results from in front of the reflector, it is apparent that the real image projected upon the screen at S is in advance of the virtual image of the scenic background at P"; thus the relief effect is readily accounted for.

In the practice of Photoplast projection the exact angles of the reflector and the scenic background are, of course, adjusted to the requirements of individual theatres, but the foregoing description outlines the underlying principles, and emphasizes the factors upon which its successful presentation depends.

"Projection Engineers"

THE motion picture industry, like any other of size and importance, has had its share of fakery and misrepresentation, and while it would take a volume to expose and comment upon all the frauds which have been perpetrated upon the industry, and upon exhibitors in particular, we propose upon the present occasion to comment upon only one kind of misrepresentation—the self-styled "projection engineer."

During the past few years the number of "projection engineers" has increased enormously, and it may prove instructive, and in some instances amusing, to put on record the classes of activity from which these assorted "projection engineers" are recruited. First we have the designers and builders of projecting machines and other apparatus and devices intimately connected with the projector, who are clearly bona-fide mechanical experts, if not graduate mechanical engineers. Likewise, the designers of the electrical apparatus used as projection accessories are technologists in the truest sense of the word, and so, likewise, are graduate electrical engineers who have studied the electrical problms of motion picture projection, and have fortified their studies with intimate knowledge of the theory and practice of the subject.

Our point here is: that a graduate engineer or skilled technologist of real standing in any profession intimately related in some way with motion picture projection has some claim to the title of "projection engineer," because a professional engineer or a factory technologist of high standing is always possessed of a sufficient amount of academic training to enable him to handle all problems on an exact and scientific basis, instead of having to resort to guess work or empirical approximation.

Further recruits to the ranks of the self-styled "projection engineers" are journeymen and even apprentice electricians or wiremen, machinists and electrical workers from factories making motion picture apparatus, and operators of more or less experience, including the ever-present "old-timers." Few men of these limited qualifications are possessed of the bona-fide technical training necessary to the correct and efficient solution of engineering problems, and while we have all respect for those who are students of projection, some of whom will undoubtedly reach their goal, still it is a misrepresentation bordering on fraud for men of this class to proclaim themselves "projection engineers," as many an exhibitor discovers when he consults an "engineer" on some matter which involves abstract reasoning. Not being equipped with sufficient scientific knowledge, the pseudo engineer "falls down," but his failure to solve the problem saves the exhibitor an extortionate fee which the "engineer" proposed to collect if successful. As to the exhibitor's difficulty, or problem—that will, in many cases, be solved free of charge by some chance visitor or friend, who possesses the requisite scholastic training or technical experience, and so welcome are strange problems to active-minded men that they would seldom think of charging a fee for their assistance.

Now we come to the real comedy of "projection engineering" as a dignified and honorable profession. Scores of the self-styled "engineers" who have foisted their advertisements, their business cards and their elaborate letter-heads upon the unsuspecting exhibitor are none other than machine and supply dealers, clerks or errand boys in supply houses, and green operators, who from their very utterances and correspondence are at once seen to be on a very elementary footing, even as regards the operation of a projector, and who are not even aware of the existence of many subjects whose study and consideration are comprehended in the term "projection engineering."

Some self-advertised "projection engineers" among the machine and supply dealers are gentlemen of highest business integrity, and are noted for their fair dealing and the continued "service" which they accord their customers, but a man must be able to solve problems beyond the scope of a table of wire sizes for various amperages or a table of picture sizes for assorted throws and objective foci, and must be able to cope with problems not comprehended in any catalogue or projection handbook published to date, before he can proclaim himself an "engineer" without subjecting himself to ridicule and the charge of actual misrepresentation. Under the circumstances the self-advertising of some alleged "projection engineers," who should know better, is of doubtful value, for while he who reads may respect the parties as competent and honest merchants or business executives, they cannot but be amused at the idea of experience in "projection engineering" being gained behind a counter.

The real comedy in "projection engineering" resides, however, in the letter-heads of some misguided, although enterprising, operators, usually of very limited experience and lacking a common school education, whose elaborate stationery assures one that they are experts in electricity, optics, wiring, installations and every other conceivable activity which can be considered as having any relation to motion picture projection. These elaborate and mirth-provoking letter-heads come to hand when their supposedly highly trained sponsors require to know "for their own information" what is the difference between a rheostat and a transformer, or whether the convex condenser surfaces should face the arc or the screen, or some other equally "difficult and abstruse question," and it would be painful to contemplate an installation entirely directed by such an "engineer," although we imagine that the prospective customer generally gets suspicious before the contract is closed, and propounds a few "hypothetical questions," whereupon the engineer appeals to the Projection Departments of the trade journals for the answers to these questions.

We feel sure that by this time the reader has grasped the comedy aspects of modern "projection engineering," but the serious phase of this subject is that the buffoonery and misrepresentation of these fraudulent and incompetent practitioners casts the slur of suspicion on the status of those gentlemen who may have some right to be termed "projection engineers," and it is surely an obstacle to the status of the profession itself, if, indeed, projection engineering can be recognized as a distinct profession.

We are of the opinion that the term "projection engineer" of itself is misleading, because it would imply extensive knowledge of a business combining a number of professions, the complete mastery of any one of which could engage the entire ability of most any man. To profess oneself a projection engineer is, therefore, to proclaim oneself a "jack of several trades and a master of none of them," which is the case with many engaged in the so-called profession of "projection engineering." But a graduate in any one line of engineering related to motion picture projection, or a technologist of standing in an allied branch of industry, could with propriety call himself a "motion picture engineer." This term, it is seen, embraces all those branches of engineering which are related to the production or exhibition of motion pictures, and an organized body of such men already exists—the Society of Motion Picture Engineers.

The Essential Requirements
for Improved Projection
are
SPEER CARBONS

SPEER Alterno Combinations
for A.C. Work
and
SPEER Hold-Ark Combinations
for D.C. Work

Produce Incomparable Results

Write today for descriptive folders. Read the unbiased opinions of operators

Place an order now with your Supply House

"The Carbons with a Guarantee"

Manufactured by
SPEER CARBON COMPANY
ST. MARYS, PA.

"NEWMAN" BRASS FRAMES AND RAILS

MR. EXHIBITOR:—
Don't you realize that not alone does "NEWMAN" stand for QUALITY, but also ORIGINALITY?
We are Originators of every conceivable style of frame in which to properly display POSTERS AND PHOTOS.
YOU will eventually use brass frames. WHY not now?

Get our Latest Catalogue.
It is yours for the asking.

The Newman Mfg. Co.
717-19 Sycamore Street, Cincinnati, Ohio
68 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Illinois
Established 1882

Frames, Easels, Rails, Grills, Signs, Choppers, Kick Plates, Door Bars

Canadian Representative—J. T. Malone, Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal, Canada
Pacific Coast—G. A. Metcalfe, San Francisco, Cal.
Corner Unit Hinged Frames

We manufacture the frames in various finishes which do not require polishing.

Theatre and Exchange Mailing List Service

We rent lists of or address contemplated or existing theatres, ex changes, state rights owners, publicity mediums and producers, selected as to territory, class, etc. Twenty thousand changes were recorded in our list last year. Its use means a saving to you of from 30 to 50% in postage, etc.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY CO. N 184
80 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK Phone, 3227 Chelsea
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

We consider that in the best interests of the industry incompetent charlatans posing as projection engineers should be brought to light and weeded out or held up to ridicule, as they deserve, and that those men of sterling ability in ordinary business routine who have advertised, or permitted themselves to be advertised, as "projection engineers" should cease such foolishness in the interests of honesty and common sense.

The Westinghouse "Fixtfokus" Equipment for Mazda Projection Lamps

IN the use of the Mazda lamp as the illuminant for motion picture projection it is of course necessary to renew the bulbs occasionally, when they burn out, and the matter of quick and accurate replacement of the bulb is one of importance to users of the Mazda light sources.

Not only must it be possible to replace the bulb with celerity, as for instance when it burns out during a performance, but the new bulb must be so installed that its filament is at the proper focal distance from the rear condenser, and its filament exactly perpendicular to, and centered with, the optical axis of the projector, otherwise the full power and efficiency of the lamp will not be available for projecting the pictures.

Realizing the importance of an arrangement which would permit the rapid and accurate replacement of Mazda lamps in motion picture projectors, the Westinghouse Lamp Works, Bloomfield, N. J., undertook to apply these desiderata to the design of their Mazda projection equipment, and as a result they are now able to announce that the requirements of practice are completely fulfilled by their "Fixtfokus" equipment for motion picture projection.

The "Fixtfokus" equipment for adapting motion picture machines to the use of Mazda lamps consists essentially of two parts. One part of the equipment comprises a base which fits into the lamphouse proper. This base supports a lamp holder which is adjustable in three directions. The adjustable feature is necessary in order that the filament of the lamp may be brought exactly to the optical center of the system of lenses and mirrors which are ordinarily used in the projection machine. Instead of adjusting the lamp filament to this position by trial, it is adjusted by means of a small telescope on a holder outside of the lamphouse, the image of the filament being brought to a definite position on the ground glass of the filament by means of cross lines. Any movement of the filament away from the optical center will change the position of the image on the screen, and this affords a very definite indication of the accuracy with which the filament is positioned. When the filament has been brought to the correct position as shown by the focusing jig or telescope, the lamp carrier may be placed in the lamphousing and the filament will be situated at the optical center. This scheme enables an operator to always obtain the very best possible illumination on the screen. Lamps can be changed in a very few seconds by merely removing one holder and replacing another holder in which the lamp has been properly adjusted.

Lucas Busy with Simplex Installations

SEPTEMBER was a busy month for the Lucas Theatre Supply Company, Atlanta, Ga., exclusive distributors of Simplex projectors in the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama and southern Virginia, as they report a total of 24 Simplex installations for the month in their territory.

These Simplex projectors were installed at the following places: Southern Textile Exposition, Greenville, S. C.; Republic theatre, Jacksonville, Fla.; Dr. C. S. Burden, Hogansville, Ga.; Simmons & Whitton, Charlotte, N. C.; T. L. Lester, Columbia, S. C.; Rialto theatre, Jacksonville, Fla.; South Boston Amusement Company, South Boston, Va.; J. M. O'Dowd, Florence, S. C.; H. M. Mitchell, Pelham, Ga.; New Imperial theatre, Florence, S. C.

"WE NEVER DISAPPOINT"
TELEPHONE BRYANT 5576
CROMLOW FILM LABORATORIES
INCORPORATED
220 WEST 42ND STREET
NEW YORK
ALLAN A. LOWNES
GEN. MGR.

Strand theatre, Birmingham, Ala.; Liberty theatre, Jacksonville, Fla.; Chickasaw Ship Building Company, Birmingham, Ala.; Bertha Mineral Company, Austinville, Va.; American Red Cross, Spartanburg, S. C.; American Red Cross, Camp Wheeler, Ga.; A. B. Babb, Johnson City, Tenn.; G. S. Heringdine, Washington, Ga.; American Red Cross, Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga.; S. A. Lynch Enterprises, Augusta, Ga.; A. S. Guckenheimer, Savannah, Ga.; J. A. Snider, Bessemer, Ala.; Enlisted Ordnance Detachment, Penniman, Va., and J. R. Taylor, Big Stone Gap, Va.

National Anti-Misframe League
Pledge

AS a motion picture operator who has the interest of his profession at heart and is willing to assist in eliminating some of the evils practised in the operating-room, I promise that I will to the best of my ability return films to the exchange in first-class condition. Furthermore, I will when it becomes necessary remedy all misframes, bad patches, etc., that may be in the film which I receive and in this way co-operate with my brother operators and give greater pleasure to those who make up the motion picture audience by showing films that are free from such defects. I also promise that I will not make punch marks in film, and when film is received by me, with punch holes, I will notify the exchange to that effect so that they may use their efforts to correct this evil.

Roll of Honor

O. L. Davis.....Cleveland, Tenn.
Henry T. Kimmel.....Winston-Salem, N. C.
Russell E. Wilson.....New Philadelphia, Ohio
W. H. Hulbert.....Leesburg, Fla.
A. C. Edwards.....Salisbury, N. C.
Shaler T. Stanley.....Darlington, S. C.
Walter Hanch.....Cicero, Ill.
R. J. Merry.....Red Cloud, Neb.
Burton A. Thomas.....Norwich, Conn.
A. J. Walden.....Springfield, Ill.

Members Previously Recorded..... 928
Members Recorded This Week..... 10

Total Membership to Date..... 938

Notice! Anti-Misframe League Members

Membership cards are now ready and are being sent out as fast as possible. There are a number of operators, however, who have neglected to send in the desired information. If you will fill out the blank and mail to this office, button and membership card will be forwarded.

Member's Name .....

Home address .....

Name of theatre where employed.....

Address of theatre and name of manager.....

This notice does not apply to those who have already sent in this information, but it is for those who have neglected doing so, many having merely given their names and name of city, without any street address, making it impossible for the post office to deliver the letters addressed to them.

GUARANTEED REBUILT MACHINES

We have on hand all makes of rebuilt machines which we GUARANTEE to be in A-1 ADJUSTMENT, all worn parts having been replaced by NEW PARTS.

REGULAR SIMPLEX
Hand drive	New price $335.00	Rebuilt price $175.00
Motor drive ..... (110 volt, 60 cycles)	New price 400.00	Rebuilt price 225.00
POWERS 6-A
Hand drive	New price $280.00	Rebuilt price $125.00
Motor drive ..... (110 volt, 60 cycles)	New price 338.00	Rebuilt price 175.00
MOTIOGRAPH 1908 MODEL
	New price $225.00	Rebuilt price $25.00
MOTIOGRAPH 1909 MODEL
	New price $225.00	Rebuilt price $30.00
MOTIOGRAPH 1915 MODEL
Hand drive	New price $250.00	Rebuilt price $125.00
Motor drive	New price 285.00	Rebuilt price 150.00
MOTIOGRAPH 1916 MODEL
Hand drive	New price $265.00	Rebuilt price $150.00
Motor drive	New price 305.00	Rebuilt price 175.00
FT. WAYNE A. C. TO D. C. GENERATOR
110 v., 60 cyc., 1 phase	New price $450.00	Rebuilt price $200.00
MERCURY ARC RECTIFIER
110 to 220 volt, 60 cycle, 50 ampere	New price $480.00	Rebuilt price $150.00

ALL ORDERS SUBJECT TO PRIOR SALE

AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY

Largest Exclusive Dealers to the MOTION PICTURE TRADE

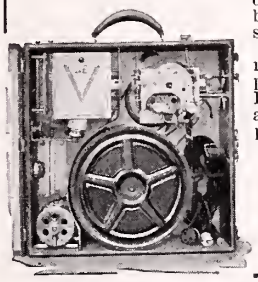
300-02 Mallers Building — 5 South Wabash Avenue
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Dealers in Motiograph, Standard and Simplex Motion Picture Machines, National Carbons, Minusa Screens and Everything for the Theatre

PERFECTED PROJECTION

PERFECTED Projection plus portability—that's the DeVry Portable Motion Picture Projector. Entirely self-contained, weighs but 20 lbs., takes standard size reels and film and projects a 12 ft. picture at any throw up to 80 ft.

Equal in performance within its prescribed limitations to the best professional projector, yet so wonderfully light and compact that it can be carried with greater ease than the suit case it resembles.



Adopted by the United States Government in all Departments where motion pictures are used, and by the American Red Cross, at home and abroad. Used also in all Y. M. C. A. work, on transports, at home and "over there."

Write for Catalogue H-4

The DeVry Corporation
109½ North Wells Street
Chicago, U. S. A.

No. 4 PHOTO CINES OUTFIT

Never successfully equalled at the exceptional pre-war price of $250.00 Complete

CAMERA-TRIPOD-2 in. F-3-5 B & L-Tessar Lens a fully equipped M. P. outfit especially adapted to topical work.

Send for Descriptive Catalogue

PRINTERS

We have them right in stock—ready for delivery—models of approved type, at very reasonable prices.

Send for Our Catalogue of M. P. Apparatus

G. GENNERT, 24 East 13th Street, New York City
Chicago Los Angeles

Camera Laboratory — Picture Making — Studio Technique

High-Speed Cinematography and Some Notes on the Efficiency of Camera Shutters

IN reviewing the history of cinematography it is interesting to note that the earliest efforts to record sequences of motions by photography were all carried out by scientists in their quests for exact information, and with no thought whatever of the future motion picture and its entertaining possibilities.

To record distinctly the motions of trotting or pacing horses, as was done by Muybridge, or the details of bird flight, as was accomplished by Marey, required very rapid exposures, indeed, compared with those now employed in practical cinematography, but in view of the constantly increasing use of the motion picture camera in scientific investigations and analyses it may prove useful to compare the capabilities of high speed cinematography with the capabilities of the limited taking rate (16 per second) universally employed in practical production.

The rapid exposures of 1/1.500 to 1/2.000 of a second employed by Muybridge and Marey were secured with cameras using plates but as such apparatus has not much significance from the present viewpoint of practical cinematography, we shall consider only the use of flexible films.

In recording the flight of rifle bullets and allied subjects by cinematography, as high as 2,000 separate pictures per second have been taken by M. Lucien Bull, a Frenchman, while Dr. Kranz of Berlin has secured pictures of this class at the rate of 5,000 per second. Cine cameras of the usual type cannot, however, be used in this kind of work, nor are the usual conditions under which motion pictures are photographed conducive to success when making pictures at such speeds as this.

If the usual cine film strip were handled by an intermittently acting camera mechanism it would be torn to pieces long before a speed of even 1,000 pictures per second was attained, but the procedure employed by the European investigators permits a movement of the film strip of any desired rapidity, without subjecting it to any liability of tearing. This is accomplished by securing the strip around the periphery of a revolving drum, or by allowing the film to pass, like a belt, around two drums placed a suitable distance apart, the latter method permitting a longer strip to be handled. It is obvious that an enormous velocity of movement can be imparted to the film strip in this manner, and this constitutes the entire film movement mechanism of the ultra-cinematographic camera. If the pictures are to be taken in a lighted room, or outdoors, the drum over which the film passes must be enclosed in a light-tight casing to prevent the film strip from being fogged, but the method is hardly suited for outdoor work, because its successful use depends upon intermittent illumination of the object photographed, without which the pictures impressed upon the film would be hopelessly blurred and would overlap one another. Thus, in the work which has been done with this type of apparatus, the object to be photographed, or the path which will be traversed by the rapidly moving object (projectile for instance) is intermittently illuminated to great intensity by an electric spark controlled by an interrupter, which is tuned up with reference to the velocity of travel of the film so as to illuminate the object at rapidly recurring intervals just sufficiently spaced apart to allow the successive phases of motion to record themselves upon the film without overlapping. An objective is of course used to form the images on the film. A further limitation to the capabilities of this method now becomes apparent, for with electric spark illumination only a very limited field, suitable for laboratory investigations, can be sufficiently illuminated.

Remote as these ultra-cinematographic experiments appear to be from everyday practice, a valuable lesson is nevertheless to be gained from them, and that is the realization that in ordinary cinematography only part of the movements occurring before the camera are recorded and reproduced in projecting, and that the exposures secured with an ordinary cine camera are only a fraction of what it is possible to attain.

So far as the action or motion not recorded by the conventional cine camera is concerned, this does not seem to be a matter of much moment in ordinary motion picture work, because the amount of motion recorded in every day practice appears to be sufficient to satisfactorily reproduce the action photographed. But immediately the cinematograph is applied to the investigation or analysis of scientific phenomena, the failure of the usual apparatus to secure a complete record becomes a matter of concern, for without complete data the scientist cannot formulate rigorous rules or draw exact conclusions.

Let us, therefore, examine briefly the capabilities of the ordinary motion picture camera, and note the extent of its shortcomings as a faithful recorder of motion, and its percentage of efficiency as a photographic exposure instrument. The ordinary cine camera, when operated at standard speed, moves and exposes 16 separate pictures per second. As a shutter with a maximum angular opening of 180° is the usual arrangement, we see that in each second one-half of the total time only is employed in exposing the film and recording movement; the other half of each second being utilized in the substitution of successive picture spaces before the exposure aperture. Measured in units of time, each exposure is, under the above conditions 1/32 of a second in duration, while an equal period is consumed in substituting the pictures.

Suppose, now, that we keep the taking rate the same (16 per second), but install in the camera a more efficient intermittent (which is a possibility) having a ratio of 7:1; that is a movement which will permit the film to remain stationary for exposure during a period seven times the length of the interval necessary for substituting the next picture space. We may, with this movement, have a shutter aperture of 315° angular extent, and the exposure for each picture will be slightly more than 1/18 second, or in other words the exposure, for the same taking rate, (other things also remaining equal) is 1.77 times that secured with the usual camera, and a like increase in the amount of motion recorded also occurs. This latter, however, is a disadvantage, rather than an advantage, when the taking rate is as low as 16 per second, because at such slow exposures moving objects will be so blurred that they will not reproduce sharply upon projection, and any vibration in the taking apparatus will seriously affect the results in the case of these comparatively long exposures.

Since it is no advantage to record a high percentage of motion by slow exposures, which blur the resultant records so that detail is destroyed, it is at once apparent that when minute or rapidly occurring movements are required to be recorded as distinctly and completely as possible, a mere increase in exposure interval per picture will not suffice to accomplish this; the number of pictures taken per second must also be increased materially.

By increasing the taking rate a series of distinct and separate photographs are secured of the phases of a motion which, in its entirety, may be so slight, or so rapid, that it would only appear in one image of a film made at the usual rate, and the pictures recorded at a higher rate will also have the advantage of greater sharpness in the case of all moving objects which they portray By projecting these high speed results at the ordinary, slow projecting rate (16 per second) the motions appear slowed down to a degree which permits their close study or analysis, while if these films are projected at the speed at which they were taken, the natural appearance of the motions is reproduced, and high speed work has the advantage of superior definition, due to the sharper delineation of movements, while the fact that the record of motion is more complete will even impress a spectator who is not aware of the circumstances under which the picture was made.

For a large number of commercial reasons it would not be advantageous to introduce a materially increased rate for taking and projecting motion pictures in general at the present time, and our present remarks are not to be considered as advocating increased taking or projecting speeds in routine cinematography, but as many cameramen and producers are of the opinion that high speed cinematography entails such brief exposures that good photography is impossible, it may be well to investigate numerically the possibility of securing sufficient photographic action when photographing at comparatively high speeds, so that those who may desire to attempt this class of work will not be deterred by previous misconceptions, but may have some preliminary data to guide them.

The first American motion picture apparatus to achieve a signal success was the Biograph, a ponderous machine which utilized a large sized film and projected the images at the rate of from 40 to 100 per second. The films were, of course, taken at a corresponding rate by the complementary device, or camera, known as the Mutograph. The taking and projecting rate was finally standardized for the old Biograph apparatus at about 40 pictures per second, and the quality of the old Biograph screen results is still well remembered.

A good, practical taking rate for many classes of work where a more complete record than that afforded by the usual cine camera is desired might, therefore, be in the vicinity of 40 pictures per second, following the old Biograph procedure but using cine film of the present standard as to width and dimensions of image. We will now proceed to see what are the chances of securing ample photographic exposures at this moderately increased taking rate. If we employ a camera of the usual type, with 180° maximum shutter opening, and drive it at the rate of 40 exposures per second, we will get 1/80 second exposure for each image, which would require the camera objective to work at considerable aperture in many instances, and, moreover, we will not be recording the greatest amount of movement possible, because the camera shutter is still obscuring 50 per cent. of this.

However, by maintaining the taking rate of 40 pictures per second, and installing a 5:1 movement in the camera, we will at once secure a greatly amplified exposure, and be able to record an equally increased amount of the movements being photographed. As, with the 5:1 movement, each picture will be exposed for a period five times the length of the interval required for the substitution of the next picture, we will have for the exposure of each image, under the improved condition, a period of 1/48 second, which is seen to be ample for most all classes of work. This means that with the 5:1 movement the exposure can be 1.66 times that with the conventional arrangement, other things being equal, and the amount of motion recorded is increased in like ratio.

The above considerations indicate the possibility of securing useful photographic exposures at still higher taking rates, and if the number of pictures recorded per second is increased to 100 or 200, and mechanisms devised which make this capable of accomplishment, a vast field of work is opened up forthwith to the scientist and the experimenter and investigator of practical problems.

When a taking speed of 100 or more pictures per second is desirable, it is seen that the records obtained at this rapid rate will not be worth the trouble of making them unless they record a high percentage of the motions photographed, and this requirement in conjunction with the very obvious necessity of sufficient exposure puts the ordinary camera intermittent and the 180° shutter entirely outside of all practical consideration.

If, however, we propose to take motion pictures at the rate of 100 per second, and choose an intermittent with a ratio of 7:1, we shall get as the exposure for each image slightly over 1/114 second, and if our mechanism permits us to make 200 pictures per second we still secure for each image an exposure equal to slightly more than 1/228 second. When, therefore, it is recalled that with focal-plane cameras developable impressions have been secured in 1/2.000 second, and that useful negatives are readily secured in good light, at 1/1.000 second, it is apparent that with the large-aperture objectives and the extremely rapid negative film commonly used in cinematography, there should be no difficulty at all in securing good records of well-lighted objects at the comparatively moderate exposure intervals, 1/114 and 1/228 second, which can be attained at taking rates of 100 and 200 pictures per second if an intermittent of high enough ratio is used in the camera. The success of very brief focal-plane exposures is, of course, largely due to the great efficiency of the focal-plane shutter, but in this respect the sector shutter of a cine camera is quite a close rival, for the entire aperture of the cine camera objective is available for illuminating the image throughout the never has an opportunity to be anything but right.

Subjected to accurate tests at every point in its manufacture

EASTMAN FILM

Identifiable by the words "Eastman" and "Kodak" in the film margin.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

IT'S LIKE THIS

Your production requires the same quality of skill in DEVELOPING and PRINTING as it does in the making—if it is to meet with public approval.

Our service insures this. Investigate and be convinced that our service is indispensable to your success.

EVANS FILM MFG. CO.
416-24 West 216th Street New York City
Telephone: St. Nicholas 3443-44

COMMERCIAL LABORATORY WORK

In all its branches, receives INDIVIDUAL attention. Has the QUALITY and PUNCH which SELL prints.

RELEASE WORK

Specially equipped for QUANTITY production. Uniform SUPERIOR QUALITY such as only EXPERTS with scientific supervision can produce.

SPECIALTIES

If you have work requiring EXPERT SCIENTIFIC knowledge, we are BEST qualified to do it.

Empire City Film Lab., Inc
345 West 40th St., New York City
Bryant 5437 Bet. 8th & 9th Aves.

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

major extent of the travel of the exposing segment past the objective, and exposure difficulties need not, therefore, arise of necessity in taking motion pictures at the rate of 200 per second or anything lower than this figure.

A real difficulty in taking motion pictures with an intermittently acting camera mechanism at the rate of 100 or more exposures per second, arises in the fact that the film itself cannot stand the strain of being stopped and started so rapidly and so frequently, and cameras for this class of work must consequently be designed with the end in view of eliminating strain on the film.

It is not the purpose of this article to make any suggestions regarding camera design, but the possibilities along this line are apparent when it is recalled that the Marey Institute, in France, have a practical and portable camera, suitable for exterior work, which was constructed by M. Noguès and is capable of making upwards of 200 separate exposures per second upon the usual variety of cine film strip. This is accomplished without difficulty by the use of two claw movements of high ratio, which are located on opposite sides of the film and come into action reciprocally. The tension is, of course, minimized in this remarkable camera, so that no breaking down of the film occurs in its passage through the mechanism, but due to the nicety of construction the pictures secured with it are satisfactorily steady. The high ratio of the intermittents assures ample exposure and the maximum of recorded action; thus the performance of the Noguès camera demonstrates the entire feasibility of cinematography at high speeds. In this class of work it is obviously necessary to use a large roll (1,000 feet or more) of film in the camera if a record of useful and instructive length is desired.

Business Offerings

FOR SALE—Complete motion picture theatre equipment, Seats, Machines, Screen, Fountains, economizers, etc. Very reasonable. Write Louis Rosenthal, 1482 Broadway, New York City.

TransVerteR

Perfect Light Control

At the will of the Operator

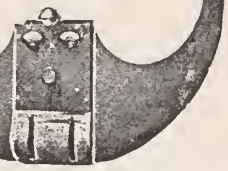
THE amperage can readily be regulated to light or dark pictures as easily as turning gas up or down.

At the same time, the voltage lowers and raises automatically in proportion to the changing length of the arc.

The Transverter insures a perfect arc, a steady, bright, white light and more artistic projection of pictures without waste of current.

You can make a perfect dissolve with two-arc Transverter

The Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co.
1908 West 114th St., Cleveland, O.



The Accessory Department teems with Items of Interest to Operator and Exhibitor alike.

MOTORS
and speed controllers for 6A, including switch and cover, 110 V., 220 V. A. C. and D. C. Guaranteed perfect, $40.00. A few used mechanisms 6A at bargain.
The Stern Manufacturing Company
1023 Race Street
Philadelphia, Pa.

WHEN THE WAR IS WON WILL YOU HAVE A RECEIPT FOR WHAT YOU DID?

Unless You Have The
Automaticket System
You Are Losing Money
1733 Broadway, New York

WE FIX IT
Motion Picture Equipment problems. Every known accessory. Orders shipped day received. Let us quote you.
INDEPENDENT MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY
729 Seventh Avenue, New York
Sixth Floor

Why are hundreds installing the Estey Theatre Pipe Organ? Ask for names of theatre near you.
THE ESTEY ORGAN CO.
Brattleboro, Vt.
See our page ad in the November 9th issue of the MOTION PICTURE NEWS

VENTILATE & COOL BY TYPHOONS
TYPHOON FAN COMPANY NEW YORK 281 LEXINGTON AVE.

MODERN EQUIPPED STUDIOS FOR RENT
UNEXCELLED FILM LABORATORIES AND STUDIOS CO. INC.
120-124 School St.
YONKERS, N.Y.
TELEPHONE — 4600 YONKERS
HIGH CLASS DEVELOPING AND PRINTING

For Better Music
The Fotoplayer
62 West 45th Street AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO. New York City

Cue Sheets Latest Hits | Music | Musical Equipment

Has Each Key Its Own Individual Character?

THE question "Has each key its own individual character?" has been most widely discussed. Many of us, however, reach no satisfactory conclusion and are willing to look upon it as a dark, fathomless secret. This is due to the difficulty encountered in separating the physical side of the question from its psychological side; and even after making the distinction we find ourselves confronted by numerous contradictions.

We have assigned to the key of F sharp major a brilliant, clear character; to its enharmonic equivalent, G flat major, a soft and rich character. Given an instrument of fixed tones, tuned with absolute accuracy according to equal temperament, and given a means of producing tones upon it exactly alike in quality, it is a physical impossibility for any difference except that of pitch to exist. In other words, if a difference does exist, it is not due to the property of sound. It is due to some defect in the instrument employed. On the piano, the difference in leverage between the black and white digitals is capable of producing variations in the quality of tones. Moreover, the position of the black digitals demands different technical resources than those employed in playing upon the white digitals. This difference in touch influences quality of tone. In the human voice every difference of pitch varies the tone qualities. In bowed instruments the difference in material used, the length of the strings, whether opened or stopped, and their relative positions on the instrument, all influence tone quality. In wind instruments, the manner of producing tones varies sufficiently to greatly influence the quality of the tone produced. We come to the organ. Here it is difficult to find any physical cause. However, it is an acknowledged fact among musicians that on the organ the difference in character of keys is scarcely, or even not at all, noticeable. And even in the case of the voice, while pitch influences quality of tone, this influence is in no two cases alike. Consequently, key characteristics are likewise scarcely discernible in the voice.

Thus far we have analyzed the physical side of the question, and the above remarks show us that at present the solution of the question is to be sought from a psychological standpoint. This becomes evident when we consider those instances where, in the performance of works, the pitch was felt to be changed, yet the character of the composition seemed to remain with the original key regardless of the number of vibrations of each note. Thus the key of C major conveys the same feeling as it did years ago, although it has passed through several changes in pitch. This takes the question out of the realm of individual instruments, since orchestral performances are included. Here the difference in character of keys cannot be traced to a defect in any individual instrument. We have seen that the evenly tempered scale permits of no such difference, and, consequently, it seems that the difference exists in our minds, not in the orchestra.

Using the tables of key characters as compiled by recognized musicians of high standing, we find that those keys (on the piano) employing white digitals have a soft-veiled, almost sad effect. From the earliest time we have associated depth with strength and solemnity; height with lightness and gayety. This association is entirely natural. In architecture we find the massive portion of the structure lower than the lighter portion. In sculpture, strength, if not indicated by size itself, is often portrayed by contrast, which, in reality, is the same on a smaller scale. In physics, the heavier descends, the lighter ascends. And even in our conception of a Heaven and a hell, this relation is evident. We associate Heaven with light, height and purity; hell with darkness and depth. A flat lowers a tone—in other words, increases its depth; a sharp raises a tone—increases its height. Thus we have associated those keys where flats are employed (tones that have been lowered) with melancholy or sadness; those where sharps have been employed with brightness. This association, however, has not been the sole force at work in establishing difference among characters of the keys. If it were, we would have the key of G flat major expressive of melancholy; its enharmonic equivalent, F sharp major, expressive of joy always, and the matter would be explained. However, in practice, we find that the general character of a key may be changed by the mental attitude and the psychological desires of the composer. Thus it is not at all impossible that a composer today would write a composition, absolutely worthy, employing a key in direct contradiction to the above made deductions. In other words, he could employ C sharp major to express brightness and in another composition the same key, C sharp (not D flat), to express melancholy. And in reality this has occurred. We have compositions of a melancholy nature in major keys employing sharps, and we have scherzos, humoreskes and gavottes in minor keys, as well as major ones employing flats. Thus the question arises: "If this is so, why have we assigned certain characters to the keys? Why do we give G flat major a soft, F sharp a brilliant, character?" Because contact with countless compositions has shown that composers, in the far greater number of cases, employed G flat major as expressive of softness and richness. Further, that composers wishing to convey an idea of brightness or mirth employed other keys than F sharp. This would naturally make F sharp and C sharp especially little used. And so it is, C sharp being very rarely employed. (The most modern music offers somewhat of an exception.)

Whether or not the earlier composers in whose works this partiality in key selection is most noticeable, were influenced by physical or psychological forces, it is difficult to say. Certain it is that aside from any mental influences, there were quite a few physical defects, which could have and most likely did influence them. The defective state of the old mean tone temperament which created unequal differences of pitch among keys, necessarily tended to create a sort of hereditary prejudice. This has descended from generation to generation, and even today it is still felt. However, it is safe to say that the question of key characteristics today is not to be traced to a physical source, but purely to the reminiscences which we have of pieces in certain keys. The characters which we have assigned to the various keys have been deducted on a proportionate basis. For example, if seven of ten compositions examined in the key of E major conveyed a very high brilliancy we would describe that key as very brilliant. Thus, through years of tireless efforts, dependable tables have been formed and to each key we give its individual character.

Finally, we know of instances where our greatest composers directed performances of their own works in different keys. Handel, the voices being too high owing to difference in organ pitch, commanded the organist to play lower.

Had these composers any knowledge of difference in key characters? And if they had not, what is the use of all discussion?

Bartola Supplies Music at Riveria

THE Bartola Musical Instrument that has been installed at the new Riveria theatre, Chicago, was a noticeable feature of the opening of that house on October 2. The Bartola played the music for the greater part of the program, which has been heralded as one of the most pleasing ever presented in a motion picture theatre.

The instrument for the Riveria was especially constructed for this house, the variety of combinations being practically unlimited. This attests the great progress which the manufacturers have made since the instrument was invented by Dan W. Barton. Beginning with the smaller theatres of the country, the Bartola is now being used in the larger and better houses as well, and is said to be giving satisfaction universally.

Review of Latest Compositions

1—"Hunkatin"—by Sol P. Levy. This is a half-tone one-step founded upon harmonic semi-tones, unique and original in its development. For contrast and variety, nothing could be better in your library. (Belwin, Inc., 701 Seventh Ave., N. Y.)

2—"Indianola"—Song and Fox Trot by S. R. Henry (Composer of By Heck) and D. Onivas. It is a sweeping national hit. (Jos. W. Stern & Co., 106 W. 38th St., N. Y.)

3—"Pershing's March" by A. S. Watt. The sensational, stupendous, inspiring, thrilling, melodious success of the season. (Astoria Publishing Co., 505 Fifth Ave., N. Y.)

4—"Comedy Allegro" by S. M. Berg. An original and an extremely unique conception of a Comedy scene. (Belwin, Inc.)

5—"Fighting Tommies" (Great Britain's Pride) England's pride in her army, the bulwark of the Nation, musically told in a glorious march. Composed by John Boulton. (Belwin, Inc.)

6—"Howdy"—The Yankee Pep Step is the "Big Hit" whenever played. And it's going bigger all the time. A Great Novelty. (Sam Fox Pub. Co., Cleveland, O.)

7—"My Little Gypsy Wanda" by Levenson and Garton. This is the waltz song that has been sweeping the New England States, and is now being exploited extensively by our organization. (Shapiro, Bernstein & Co., 230 W. 47th St., N. Y.

8—"Blue Devils" (Alpin Chasseurs)—The champions of true Democracy "Vive La France" ever in the forefront of self sacrifice. Composed by Sol. P. Levy. (Belwin, Inc.)

9—"Some Shape"—One-Step by George L. Cobb. The one big dance favorite with New York Society right now. See the daily programs of the Waldorf-Astoria, Plaza Hotel, Biltmore, etc., for proof of the above statement. (Walter Jacobs, 8 Bosworth St., Boston, Mass.)

10—"If You Hear Them Calling Clancy, He's My Boy." The new patriotic Tipperary song. America's greatest patriotic song hit. A natural overnight song hit. The title alone spells success. Now is the time to play it. A record smashing New York Hit. (Chas. K. Harris, Columbia Theatre Bldg., N. Y.)

11—"Irish Tune from County Derry." and "Shepherd's Hey" by Percy Grainger. The vim and refreshing originality of these British Folk Melodies are well nigh irresistible. Featured (for orchestra) by New York Symphony Orchestra. (Carl Fischer).

12—"Favorite Melodies" Selections—A medley arrangement of excerpts from famous and standard works, such as "Summernights Dream" by Suppe, "Naila" by Delibes, "Gioconda" by Ponchielli; "Aragonaise" by Massenet; "To Spring" Gounod; "Whispering Flowers" by Blon. (Belwin, Inc.)

13—"Sachem"—India Intermezzo—A catchy composition, equally effective for dance and concert purposes. (Belwin, Inc.)

Music

is one of the most important items of success when applied to the motion picture theatre. The Music Editor of these columns will answer all inquiries pertaining to music in connection with pictures.

A list of the most recent Cue Sheets will be found

On Page 2594

LATEST MUSIC CUES

"KILDARE OF STORM"

(Emily Stevens-Metro)

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler.

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 ft.)

Theme: "Silent Sorrows" (Andante Pathetic), by Gaston Borch

1—Lento Allegro—Berge (Symphonette Suite) (1 minute, 30 seconds), until—T: At Screening.
2—Misterioso Dramatico—Borch (30 seconds), until—S: Men outside cabin.
3—Agitato No. 49—Shepherd (1 minute), until—S: When men steal child.
4—Turbulence (Allegro Agitato), Borch (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Tomorrow I go for my bride" (glass-crash).
5—Theme (2 minutes, 45 seconds), until—T: In a town not many miles.
6—Melancolie—Granier (Andante Moderato) (2 minutes, 45 seconds), until—S: At the Storm mansion.
7—Dramatic Tension No. 36—Andino (2 minutes, 45 seconds), until—T: That night Kildare gave a—
8—Theme (1 minute, 45 seconds), until—T: With the passing weeks Kate—
9—Courtesy—Wiegand (Andante Intermezzo) (3 minutes, 30 seconds), until—T: "Where is your mistress?"
10—Sinister Theme—Vely (2 minutes, 45 seconds), until—T: "Kildare old fellow is."
11—Atonement—Zamecnik (3/4 Andante Con Expressione) (2 minutes), until—S: When Kildare returns to table.
12—Theme (3 minutes, 15 seconds), until—T: "Jacques, I came to you."
13—Idilio—Lack (Allegretto Grazioso) (1 minute, 45 seconds), until—S: When Kate enters house.
14—Arabian Night—Mildenberg (Andante Sostenuto) (2 minutes, 45 seconds), until—T: "I'll give you something that."
15—Dramatic Agitation No. 38—Minot (1 minute, 30 seconds), until—T: "Mose come quickly."
16—Agitato No. 69—Minot (2 minutes, 15 seconds), until—T: "So you refuse to explain."
17—Dramatic Tension No. 67—Shepherd (2 minutes), until—T: "He came upon me."
18—Theme (2 minutes, 45 seconds), until—T: Five years later at the office.
19—Wandering—Atherton (Sostenuto Con Moto) (2 minutes, 15 seconds), until—T: "Doctor Benoix left." (Train effects).
20—Entreaty—Atherton (Andante Con Moto) (3 minutes, 45 seconds), until—T: "Hahaly."
21—Dramatic Agitato—Hough (2 minutes), until—T: "You killed my baby."
22—Theme (1 minute, 15 seconds), until—S: When Kate sees Jacques, until—END.

"THE APPEARANCE OF EVIL"

(June Elvidge-World)

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler.

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 feet).

Theme: "Serenata" (Characteristic Moderato Serenade), by Crespi

1—Theme (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—At Screening.
2—"Capricious Annette" (Moderato Caprice), by Borch (3 minutes), until—T: "Dere's a funny lady."
3—Theme (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Great news I've got."
4—"Adieu Waltz" (Valse Moderato), by Friml (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "And we have never given."
5—"Sweet Jasmine" (Melodious Allegretto), by Bendix (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "I guess she selected this."
6—"Serenata" (Allegretto Mosso), by Cajani (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "You are dismissed, you can."
7—"Pasepied" (Allegro Moderato), by Delibes (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: Mr. Quimby, Elsie's father.
8—Dramatic Recitative, by Levy (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "My Elsie is a good girl." (Telephone bell.)
9—"Romance" (Moderato Con Espressione), by Mericanto (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: The Purity League.
10—Gavotte (Tempo Characteristic), by Mericanto (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "And that's what I saw with."
11—"Cardenia" (Andantino Moderato), by Densmore) (3 minutes), until—T: "Thus does rumor like."
12—Intermezzo (Moderato 4/4), by Huerter (3 minutes), until—T: "I can't believe Maida."
13—Theme (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—S: When Louis returns to apartment.
14—"Valse Divine" (Valse Lento) (3 minutes), until—S: When Maida leaves. (Telephone bell.)
15—Dramatic Narrative, by Pement (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "This is unbearable, I do." (Telephone bell.)
16—"Dawn of Love" (Intermezzo Moderato), by Bendix (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "I—I told them that I was."
17—Theme (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "They are arresting many."
18—Organ Improvising (1 minute), until—T: "A little later near." (Wedding scene.)
19—"Joy of Youth" (Moderato Intermezzo), by Raymond (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "Why—why, we knew we would."
20—"Impish Elves" (Winsome Intermezzo), by Borch (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "At least you can defer."
21—"The Dansant" (Tone Poem Moderato), by Moquin (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: Later in the week.
22—Theme (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "I'm so glad to have you." Until—END.

Klein Completes Score for Blackton

MANUEL KLEIN, composer and musical director and brother of Charles Klein, the playwright, who perished on the Lusitania, has completed the musical score for J. Stuart Blackton's forthcoming superfeature, "The Common Cause." During its production Mr. Klein has been one of the most interested visitors at the Blackton studios in Brooklyn. He declares he finds his greatest inspiration for the musical arrangement of a photoplay in watching the scenes rehearsed and filmed, and meeting the players, who, for the time, are the characters in the story. The propaganda theme of "The Common Cause," which is to be distributed by Vitagraph, has an unusual appeal for Mr. Klein, and his musical setting will reflect his enthusiasm for the cause of war as expressed in this British-Canadian recruiting feature.

"A SOUL WITHOUT WINDOWS"

(Ethel Clayton-World)

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler.

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 feet).

Theme: "Impish Elves" (Winsome Intermezzo), by Gaston Borch

1—"Tulips and Pansies" (Andante Moderato), by Bennet (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—At Screening. (Train effects.)
2—Slow Broad Gavotte for Quaker Air (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: A mile from the village was.
3—"Dramatic Tension No. 67," by Shepherd (1 minute 15 seconds), until—S: When woman faints.
4—"Andante Doloroso, by Borch (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—S: When woman is laid on bed.
5—"Impish Elves" (Winsome Intermezzo) (Theme) (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: The years pass and as no.
6—"The Music Master" (Allegretto Grazioso), by Hegner (3 minutes), until—S: When Ho-Pama enters kitchen.
7—"The Wedding of the Rose" (Intermezzo Characteristic), by Jessel (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "You will find Ho-Pama."
8—Theme (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: In the Shaker colony the.
9—"Serenata" (Moderato Serenade), by Crespi (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: As the Shakers condemn. (Violin, guitar and mandolin only.)
10—Pathetic Violin Solo (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: And strange, tender, sobbing. (Violin only according to action.)
11—"Gavotte Piquante" (Allegro Grazioso), by Pierson (3 minutes), until—T: Scott Mallory and his mother.
12—Bright violin solo (30 seconds), until—S: When Ho-Pama steals violin.
13—Theme (1 minute), until—T: "How do you do, little Miss?"
14—"Perpetual Motion" (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: When musicians miss instrument.
15—"Nola" (Capricious Allegretto), by Arndt (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: Week-end guests at the Mallorys. (Wave effects.)
16—"Agitato Appassionato No. 55, by Borch (2 minutes), until—T: "Where is Faith?"
17—"Dramatic Tension No. 36," by Andino (4 minutes and 15 seconds), until T: Later an examination by local.
18—"Dramatic Agitato No. 38," by Minot (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "I will not tie."
19—Repeat: Quaker air (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: Once every year strangers are.
20—Theme (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "If of her own free will."
21—"Chiffonette" (Moderato Con Grazia), by Atherton (3 minutes), until—S: When Ho-Pama enters house.
22—Theme (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—S: "When Ho-Pama enters Scott's room. (Note thump on piano.)
23—"Garden of Love" (Moderato Caprice), by Ascher Mahl (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Brother, save me!"
24—Theme (1 minute), until—T: "I have come to ask your."
25—"Legende" (Moderato Con Expressione), by Friml (2 minutes), until—T: "Six months pass the famous.
26—"Celtic Dance" (Andante Grazioso) (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Love makes one happy."
27—Violin Solo (2 minutes), until—S: When Ho-Pama takes violin (violin only according to action).
28—Violin Solo with Piano Accompaniment (1 minute), until—T: Time passes and one day—(violin only according to action).
29—Melodie—Heuter (Andante Canstabile) (3 minutes), until—T: While buried in his books.
30—Angel's Serenade—Braga (Andante Con Moto) (3 minutes, 15 seconds), until—T: "It is the same as the one."
31—Theme (1 minute, 45 seconds), until—T: "I remember them as if it," until END.

"FOR THE FREEDOM OF THE EAST"

(Lady Tsen Mei-Betzwood-Goldwyn)

Spy Theme: "Sinister Theme" (Andante Molto e Misterioso) by Vely

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler.

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 feet).

Love Theme: "Love Song Orientale" (Characteristic), by Kiefert

1—"Chinese Serenade (Moderato), by Puerner (1 minute and 55 seconds), until—T: Princess Tsu-Kin-Su.
2—Love Theme (5 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: The German spider.
3—Spy Theme (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: Trust German honor.
4—"The Crafty Spy" (Plotting Mysterioso), by Borch (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: The dragon sharpens.
5—Continue to action (1 minute and 40 seconds), until—T: Kenyon seeks to.
6—"Chinese Allegretto," by Winkler (1 minute and 55 seconds), until—T: For accepting in faith.
7—"Intermezzo Pittoresque" (Characteristic), by Kocian (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: In my country to give.
8—Love Theme (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: He sees the bait.
9—Spy Theme (35 seconds), until—S: Silhouette of Chinese lover.
10—"Chinese Characteristic," by Winkler (55 seconds), until—T: While in Hong-Kong.
11—"Savannah" (American One-Step), by Rosey (55 seconds), until—S: Interior of room.
12—"May Dreams" (Moderato Romance), by Borch (3 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: Tell me something of your country.
13—"Over the Top, Boys" (American One-Step), by Berg (1 minute), until—T: I knew the Kaiser's lap dog.
14—Continue pp. (45 seconds), until—S: Chinese servant trying to stab American.
15—Spy Theme (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: The shrine of Buddha.
16—Weird Oriental Theme, by Levy (1 minute and 10 seconds), until—S: Interior of office.
17—Love Theme (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: The German spy talks.
18—Spy Theme (2 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: Mrs. Henry Emmons.
19—"Evening Breeze" (Characteristic Allegretto), by Langey (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—S: The fight.
20—"Hurry" (Half Reel Hurry), by Levy, pp. or ff. to action (1 minute and 10 seconds), until—S: Chinese Prince leaves lady near river.
21—"Pizzicato Bluette" (Characteristic), by Lack (2 minutes and 55 seconds), until—S: Princess sees girl's picture.
22—Love Theme (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—S: German spy drinking.
23—Spy Theme (3 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: Herr Von Richtman is of.
24—"Dramatic Tension," by Levy (5 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: Kenyon surprises his chief.
25—Melody (Moderato), by Rachmaninoff (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—S: Princess in garden.
26—Love Theme (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: Such words do you no credit.
27—"Appassionato," by Borch (4 minutes and 15 seconds), until—S: Kenyon reading letter.
28—"Chinese Characteristic," by Hosmer (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: You have bewitched the man.
29—"Turbulence" (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (1 minute), until—S: Kenyon fighting.
30—Continue ff. (25 seconds), until—S: After the fight.
31—Spy Theme (3 minutes and 5 seconds), until—T: Commond the maid.
32—"Le Retour" (Characteristic Allegretto Mysterioso), by Bizet (2 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: With China far.
33—"Mysterioso No. 29," by Andino (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: The East awakes.
34—"Chinese Patrol," by Fliege (45 seconds), until—T: Our boys on their way.
35—"Over the Top, Boys" (American March), by Berg (30 seconds), until—S: On ship.
36—Love Theme (45 seconds), until—S: Spy talking to Princess.
37—Spy Theme (3 minutes), until—T: The sight of the golden gate.
38—Continue pp. (35 seconds), until—T: Guardian of the Freedom.
39—"Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean" (45 seconds), until—T: In the very shadow.
40—"Visions" (Characteristic Intermezzo), by Buse (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—S: At reception.
41—"Ein Maerchen" (Dramatic Fantasie), by Bach (3 minutes), until—S: Kenyon being trapped in library.
42—"Agitato Appassionato," by Borch (2 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: We have met before.
43—Love Theme (3 minutes and 40 seconds), until—END.

LIBERTY BONDS
Pay You for Being an American Patriot
What Better Investment Can You Find?

THE BARTOLA
You ARE SELLING PICTURES AND MUSIC. Be sure your music is as good as your pictures. Investigate our Instrument
CHAS. C. PYLE, General Sales Agent, 707-712 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill. Factory, Oshkosh, Wis.

MUSIC CUE SHEETS

Special Releases

¶ Prepared under the personal supervision of our Music Editor can be secured through our Service Department by sending ten cents for each cue sheet to cover the cost of postage and typeing. Remember it takes time to get these cue sheets to you—don't wait till the last minute to write us.

All Woman
A Nymph of the Foothills
A Woman of Impulse
Appearance of Evil, The
At the Mercy of Men
Back in the Woods
Blindness of Divorce
Babbling Tongues
Blue Blood
Boston Blackie's Little Pal
By the World Forgot
The Beloved Traitor
The Belgian
Carmen of the Klondike
Cecilia of the Pink Roses
Clutch of Circumstances
The Changing Woman
The Claw
The Danger Mark
The Death Dance
DeLuxe Annie
Diplomatic Mission, A
The Co-Respondent
The Conqueror
The Call of Her People
The Crucible of Life
The Danger Game
A Daughter of the Gods
The Devil Stone
The Falr Pretender
The Face in the Dark
Flower of the Dusk
Forbidden Path
For the Freedom of the East
For the Freedom of the World
The Flame of Yukon
Girl of Today, The
The Graln of Dust
The Great White Trail
The Garden of Allah
The Heart of the Sunset
Her Final Reckoning
The House of Glass
The House of Mirth
Her Only Way
Hidden Fires
How Could you Jean?
The Heart of a Lion
Her Fighting Chance
In Again Out Again
In Judgment Of
Inside the Lines
Joan of Plattsburg
Joan the Woman
Just a Woman
Jack and the Beanstalk
Kildare of Storm
Laughing Bill Hyde
Les Miserables
The Lost Chord
Marriage Trap, The Money Mad
My Own United States
Madame Du Barry
The Marionettes
The Million Dollar Dollies
Nine Tenths of the Law
The Narrow Trail
Ordeal of Rosetta
Over There
On Trial
One Law for Both
Pals First
Peck's Bad Girl
Power
Price of a Good Time
Revelation
The Reason Why
The Road to France
Rough and Ready
Rose of the World
The Rose of Blood
Redemption
Return of Mary, The Soul Without Windows, A
The Safety Curtain
The Savage Woman
The Service Star
Social Ambition
The Splendid Sinner
A Successful Adventure
True Blue
Trail to Yesterday
Shirley Kaye
The Spy
The Studio Girl
The Silent Man
The Slacker
Thais
Those Who Pay
A Tale of Two Cities
The Tiger Woman
To-day
To Hell With the Kaiser
To Him That Hath
T'Other Dear Charmer
The Turn of the Wheel
The Venus Model
Woman and the Law
Wolves of the Trail
Woman and Wife
When a Man Sees Red
When Men Betray
The Whirlpool
Within the Law

¶ Cue Sheets for the following regular program releases can usually be obtained from the companies releasing the pictures. If these cannot be had we will be glad to cooperate in seeing that they are supplied to you.

Artcraft
Bluebird
Fox
Four Square
Goldwyn
Metro
Mutual
Paramount
Pathe
Select
Universal
U. S. Exhibitors
Vitagraph
W. H. Productions

The list of special releases is brought up to date every week. Watch the changes.

"A DIPLOMATIC MISSION"

(Earl Williams-Vitagraph)

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler.

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 feet).

Theme: "Love Theme" (Characteristic Ballad Moderato), by Lee

1—"Exhibitor's Review March" (Maestoso), by Berb (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—At Screening.
2—Love Theme (Characteristic Ballad Moderato) (Theme), (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Say, shes' smiling at me."
3—"Barchetta" (Allegretto Grazioso), by Nevin (2 minutes), until—T: Prince Rudolf was the son.
4—"Allegro Agitato No. 1," by Kiefert (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "By heaven, if you won't be."
5—"Patrol Orientale" (Characteristic), by Kiefert (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: While on the little island.
6—"Valse Divine" (Valse Moderato), by Rosey (4 minutes), until—T: In some mysterious way known.
7—"Gondoliera" (Andante Con Moto), by Moszkowski (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "So to this little hot-bed."
8—"Agitato No. 6," by Kiefert (1 minute), until—T: "Sahib, Von Goetz has touched."
9—"Stampede," by Simon (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: The English owner of the.
10—"Vivo Finale" (Symphonette Suite), by Berge (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: The conference.
11—"You Mustn't' (Polka Capriccioso), by Puerner (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: And then a great event.
12—"Galop No. 7" (Characteristic), by Minot (45 seconds), until—T: "I know this Mr. Todd."
13—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "He is absolutely incorrigible."
14—"The Crafty Spy" (Original Descriptive Mysterioso), by Borch (2 minutes), until—T: The war council at which.
15—"Allegro Agitato No. 8," by Andino (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "Do not believe him, go back."
16—"Pizzicato Bluette" (Andantino Gracicso), by Lack (2 minutes), until—T: Morning.
17—"La Comedienne" (Moderato e Rubato), by Hosmer (2 minutes), until—S: When Todd greets Diana. (Shots.)
18—Theme (45 seconds), until—T: "Do you know Mr. Todd all."
19—"Furioso" (Half-Reel Hurry), by Levy (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: In the black tropical night. (Shots, Fire effects.)
20—"Wild and Woolly" (Characteristic Western Allegro), by Minot (3 minutes), until—T: "Take the ladies to the cellar."
21—"Perpetual Motion" (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "For God's sake, stand."
22—Theme (45 seconds), until—T: Nothing like a few thousand.
23—"Agitato No. 37," by Andino (1 minute), until—T: "He thinks I am dead." (Wave effects.)
24—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: The false and treacherous.
25—"Turbulence" (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Sahib, they are coming."
26—Theme (1 minute), until—S: When Todd descends to cellar.
27—"Furioso No. 60," by Shepherd (3 minutes), until—T: The wireless station. (Wireless flashes. Glass-crash.)
28—"Agitato No. 69" (Allegro Agitato), by Minot (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: Knowing the jig was up. (Shots.)
29—Theme (45 seconds), until—T: When the warship's officers. Until—END.

"HIDDEN FIRES"

(Goldwyn-Mae Marsh)

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1000 feet).

Theme: "May Dreams" (Moderato Serenade) by Gaston Borch

1—"Dramatic Recitative"—Levy. (2 minutes 25 seconds), until—T: 'I love you, Stephen."
2—Continue pp. (35 seconds), until—T: The home which Louis left.
3—Theme (2 minutes 5 seconds), until—T: And the Boulogne sailed.
4—Continue ff. (1 minute 25 seconds), until—T: But the Boulogne did not reach.
5—"Babillage"—Castillo. (Allegretto.) (2 minutes 35 seconds), until—T: And all that Peggy.
6—"A Summer Dream"—Flath. (4/4 Moderato.) (4 minutes 45 seconds), until—T: Get the girl at the cigar stand.
7—"Andante Dramatico No. 62"—Borch. (2 minutes 30 seconds), until—T: I knew a girl.
8—Theme (2 minutes 50 seconds), until—T: But Louise had not sailed.
9—Continue pp. (25 seconds), until—T: Two weeks later.
10—"Capricious Annette"—Borch. (Moderato Caprice.) (2 minutes 35 seconds), until—T: At Doctor Granville's suggestion.
11—"Golden Youth"—Rosey. (Melodious Valse Lento.) (1 minute 55 seconds), until—T: Underwood has taken up.
12—"Sweet Ponderings"—Langey. (Andante Moderato.) (55 seconds), until—T: And Louise tired.
13—Continue to action (2 minutes 5 seconds), until—T: Louise, dear, aren't you going?"
14—"Scherzetto"—Berge. (From Symphonette Suite.) (2 minutes 40 seconds), until—T: And he stepped up.
15—"Adagietto"—Berge. (From Symphonette Suite.) (3 minutes 25 seconds), until—T: And Louise walking away.
16—"Melody"—Rachmaninoff. (Dramatic.) (2 minutes 30 seconds), until—T: Who are you?
17—Theme (5 minutes 15 seconds), until—T: "I don't understand it."
18—Continue pp. (45 seconds), until—T: An hour later.
19—"Love Theme"—Lee. (Melodious Andante.) (1 minute 35 seconds), until—T: Louise! Louise!
20—Continue ff. (55 seconds), until—S: Near cigar stand.
21—"Frills and Furbelows"—Crespi. (Rondo Rococo.) (2 minutes 30 seconds), until—T: George Landis, Sr.
22—Continue to action (1 minute), until—T: And it seems that.
23—Theme ff. (1 minute 25 seconds), until—END.

"THE KINGDOM OF YOUTH"—GOLDWYN

"A Splendid Attraction" Is Harrison's Verdict on This Goldwyn

A FEELING of perfect satisfaction envelopes you while looking at this picture. It remains imprinted on your memory long after you have left the theatre. This effect is accomplished neither by murders, nor by violations or suicides, but simply by the portrayal of a page from real life in a human way. Its humanness reaches the deepest lying emotions and causes the leading characters to become encircled with your sympathy, while on the other hand it intensifies your dislike for the villain.

The basic idea of the plot, by Charles A. Logue, is the unsuccessful attempt on the part of an elderly woman to bring about the separation of a young couple, so she may marry the husband.

In as much as the quarrel of husband and wife is the result of misunderstandings, engineered by the other woman, your foremost desire is to see a reconciliation take place between them. As you are not sure how the case will turn out, your attention is held focused on the screen all the while.

The elements of comedy, pathos and suspense are intermingled in the majority of the situations, which, coupled up with intelligent direction and good acting on the part of the principals as well as of the supporting cast, make a splendid attraction.

The picture offers clean and wholesome entertainment for any audience. People who possess artistic tastes, however, may appreciate it much more.—Released Sept. 23.—Length, 4,550 feet.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Ruth Betts.....Madge Kennedy
Jimmy Betts.....Tom Moore
Mrs. Ella Rice.....Marie de Wolfe
Count Duval.....Lee Baker
Aunt Sophronia.....Jennie Dickerson
By Charles A. Logue.
Directed by Clarence G. Badger.
Photographed by Ned Van Buren.

SUGGESTIONS

The exhibitor receives a fine pair of box-office magnets when he books "The Kingdom of Youth," for the leading parts are taken by Madge Kennedy, star, and Tom Moore, now a star in his own right under the Goldwyn banner. There combined drawing power should at this time be more than usually great, for Moore's starring picture, "Just for To-Night," has already gone out ahead of this picture acting in a capacity similiar to the advance man.

The author's name, Charles A. Logue, might also be prominently displayed, as his name has appeared on a number of recent Goldwyn pictures. The story is of a light romantic character with plenty of comedy—the sort of production that many people hanker for these days, so it can stand a good bit of boosting. The title, too, is exceedingly attractive, and should be prominently displayed.

AD TALK

Madge Kennedy, the popular star in Goldwyn productions will return to the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week in her latest picture, which bears the engaging title of "The Kingdom of Youth." Miss Kennedy is seen to striking advantage in the role of a young wife who makes a desperate effort to free her husband from the toils of a middle-aged widow and who succeeds. It is rather a mean trick she plays on the widow, but when marital happiness is at stake the means to the end are small bother. The desperate wife builds a smudge beneath the door of her rival's bedroom as she is about to retire. Said rival believes there is a fire and dashes madly for safety. Of course, the young wife had it all prearranged that her husband should meet the widow at this precise moment, and, oh!—what a shock he receives!

You see hubby had been led to believe through the gentle art of feminine camouflage as practiced by middle-aged widows who desire to compete with first-year debutantes that this particular middle-aged widow was not middle aged—but quite young. So when he saw her for the first time minus the various subtle beautifying devices which adorned her in the day he realizes his foolery in thinking her better than his own little wife. Of course, it was a mean trick for the little wife to play, but when the enemy stoops to camouflage you know, one must, of a necessity, become desperate.

Miss Kennedy has as her leading man Tom Moore, now a Goldwyn star in his own right, whose popularity with local devotees of the silent drama approaches that enjoyed by Miss Kennedy. Charles Logue, author of such success as "The Service Star" and "Just for To-Night," has turned out even a better story in "The Kingdom of Youth." It is a comedy with an ideal amount of romance, and both characteristics of the production are brought out by the two young stars in delightful style.

THE STORY

Jimmy and Ruth Betts are happily married for a while, but jealousy causes them both to be unduly foolish, and so they part company, Ruth with the idea of going to Count Duval, a man who professes to love her. He is resting on his yacht in the harbor, and Ruth puts out to the boat in a skiff. While attempting to board the yacht her foot slips and she is precipitated into the water. Now it is common knowledge that a person about to drown or about to die in any other manner, or who believes he or she is about to die, sees in a swiftly moving panorama the principal happenings of the past. And so Ruth reviews her married career while struggling in the water.

Shortly after her marriage, Jimmy had met Mrs. Rice, middle-aged widow who had fallen in love with him, and had turned his head through flattery. She schemes to win him away form his wife by proving to him that Ruth is unfaithful, and to this end she presses into service the Count Duval previously mentioned. Ruth notices Jimmy's constant attentions to the widow, but is unaware of her scheme in which the Count figures so prominently. In an effort to win Jimmy back she builds a smudge under the door of Mrs. Rice's hotel rooms. The frantic widow rushes down into the lobby without any of her beautifying trimmings, and as a consequence Jimmy's eyes are opened.

And Ruth after visualizing all this in her mind's eye decides to drown when Jimmy, who has followed her, plunges in to the rescue as does Count Duval. While waiting for her to regain consciousness they decide that to whoever she turns first, shall she remain with. And Ruth revives and turns to—the identity of that man, this startling secret, is only to be revealed on the screen itself.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—There are one, three and six sheets on this production as well as a good 24-sheet. This contains large head of Miss Kennedy at right end of the stand with other portraits of the star filling the remainder of space at this end. On the other end is place to hold six-sheet announcing this particular production. Rotogravures in one-sheet size also provided.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—There are 8 x 10, 11 x 14, and 23 x 28 photographs (all colored) provided for framing in the lobby with a title card.

CUTS AND MATS:—There is a good assortment of advertising cuts in one and two-column sizes provided of this production with scenes and poses of star indicative of light character of picture, well worded display type and spaces left for name of theatre. The usual good one and two-column text cuts are also provided at Goldwyn exchanges.

SLIDES AND MUSIC CUE SHEETS.

CATCH LINES

"The Kingdom of Youth" is the kingdom of the world.

Written by Charles Logue, author of such successes as "The Service Star" and "Just for To-Night."

There are thrills, romance and comedy in this latest of Madge Kennedy's Goldwyn picture, "The Kingdom of Youth."

The situation was this: Ruth's husband was attracted by a widow who looked young, but who was in reality middle-aged, yes, even a little bit more so. Could you blame Ruth for building a smudge under her rival's door, and scaring her out into the hall after her retiring time? It was a mean trick, but not until then did Hubby see his widow quite un-camouflaged. And, you're right, he awoke.

Kingdoms aren't worth an awful lot these days. Kings and kingdoms are going out of favor, but there is one kingdom that never will, and that is "The Kingdom of Youth."

One and Two-Column Cuts as Above at Goldwyn Exchanges

Madge Kennedy supported by Tom Moore in her latest and most attractive Goldwyn picture.

"ON THE JUMP"—FOX

Liberty Loan Touch Given a Sure-Fire Walsh Subject

FAST physical action, the acrobatic stunts of the star, thrills and suspense, especially in the last two reels, constitute the entertaining elements in this attraction.

The plot has been constructed with the purpose of also serving as propaganda for the Fourth Liberty Loan. The subtitles have been written cleverly and with that object in view. Many of them will arouse the enthusiasm of patrons, besides amusing them.

Our hero is introduced in the story as a newspaper reporter who is discharged by the secretly seditious editor, because he shows too much patriotism. He then becomes a Liberty Loan solicitor with successful results. In the end he unearths the German propaganda and arrests the editor while the latter is trying to make his get-away.

The star is shown as performing some dangerous stunts, chief of them being the scaling of a tall building.

It is a clean picture and will undoubtedly appeal to Walsh fans.—Released Oct. 6.—Length, 6 reels. —P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Jack Bartlett.....GEORGE WALSH
William Desmond.....James Marcus
Otto Crumley.....Henry Clive
Margaret Desmond.....Frances Burnham
President Wilson.....Ralph Faulkner
Written and staged by R. A. Walsh.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—Two one-sheets, two three-sheets, one six-sheet, one twenty-four-sheet. Paper gives good idea of the combined patriotic and comedy tenor of the production.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—Ten 8 x 10 photographs, ten 11 x 14, three 22 x 28 (colored).

SCENE CUTS AND MATS:—There is a two-column of Walsh shaking hands with President Wilson (Ralph Faulkner); a two-column with Walsh and girl at wheel of ship; a two-column of Walsh rising from bed; a two-column of Walsh with sword. There is a good one-column of Walsh diving from rigging of ship; a one-column of Walsh and girl; and a pose of Walsh.

ADVERTISING CUTS AND MATS:—There are two and one-column ad cuts, all giving good idea of comedy and patriotic trend of action.

SLIDES, MUSIC CUE SHEET.

AD TALK

George Walsh certainly is always on the jump. The smiling Fox star is never still. If we invited him to our office we would expect him to go over the top of the desk flying. And George, besides being on the jump, is in "On the Jump," the feature which we have selected to show at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week. "On the Jump" was directed by R. A. Walsh, George's older—we were just going to say bigger but on second thought R. A. is the smaller—older brother. R. A. is responsible for such fine pictures as "The Honor System" and "The Prussian Cur" and he is just the right man to direct the screen destinies of George. Sort of family team work makes "On the Jump" the fine comedy-drama it is.

And this comedy-drama has a peppery dash of patriotism that makes it all the more welcome. The world is changing every day. Instead of the old adage, "All the world loves a lover," it is now "All the world loves a patriot"—that is, all the world except Germany. Over there they don't know what one looks like—yet. However, and be that as it may, we digress. "On the Jump" shows George as a newspaper reporter and what does he do but help the Fourth Liberty Loan over the top to the little tune of $100,000,000, track a German spy to his lair, blow up an enemy submarine, rescue a precious formulae (all formulae are precious, you know) and besides winning for himself a pretty girl.

That's true patriotism from start to finish and it is served up in fine comedy style. George even goes so far as to give an imitation of Paul Revere while soliciting cash for his country and he rides the country side leaving a trail of bond subscribers behind him. We earnestly hope all our patrons took a slice of the Fourth Loan. If they didn't they'll have a hard time enjoying this picture—it will hurt.

THE STORY

Jack Bartlett, a reporter on the Express, interviews the President with regard to the Fourth Liberty Loan. His story never appears in the paper, as Otto Crumley, its new owner, head of the local bank and a pro-German tears it up. Thereupon Jack resigns and announces his intention of entering the tank corps. A friend suggests that before he go he campaign for the Loan and Jack seizes upon this plan with a vengeance. His original methods of solicitation net a large sum for the loan. As a climax to his canvassing he dons an ancient costume, mounts a horse and dashes through the streets a la Paul Revere of Revolutionary days. In this outfit he nears his home town where Crumley has brought the workers of a munitions plant to the point of striking. In a patriotic speech Jack advises them to go back to work for the sake of their country—and they go. Crumley then attempts to spoil the credit of the company but the Government comes to the rescue and prevents this plot.

Desmond, the former owner of the Express has completed the formulae for a gasoline substitute which Crumley steals. Margaret Desmond pursues the thief. In his bank he over-powers her. Jack, now on another paper learns of the story and immediately gets on it. He rescues Margaret from the bank where she is bound up and then swims out to a boat that Crumley has boarded. He fights off the crew and makes the German spy a prisoner. Incidentally, and for good measure, he turns the ship's gun on a German submarine and makes short work of it. Later it develops that Jack has brought to justice, a powerful German agent, who was made custodian of a German fund to establish newspapers in the United States.

CATCH LINES

Have you made the Fourth Loan completely glorious by subscribing?

George Walsh combines comedy and stunts with patriotism in this, his latest Fox picture. Just watch him boost the Loan, foil the German plotters by destroying one of their submarines and win the girl besides.

Do you like good healthy fights? Good thrills? Patriotism? Jump around and see "On the Jump" with the energetic George Walsh doing the major share of the jumping.

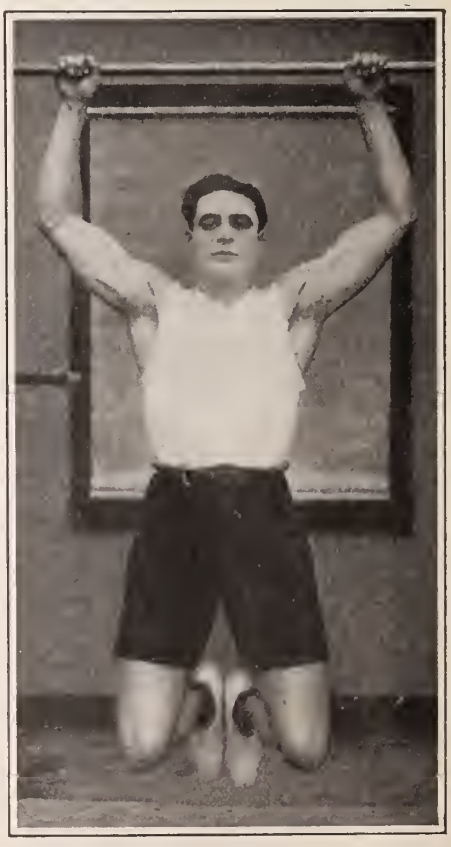
George Walsh works best when directed by his brother, R. A. R. A. produced "The Prussian Cur" and he's bound not to stop producing patriotic features until the Kaiser writes him a personal note of hatred. But R. A. does a little strafing of his own in "On the Jump" and George is both his right hand and his left.

SUGGESTIONS

If you play this picture during the present Liberty Loan drive tie up with the committee in your town and help push the Loan over the top. Invite representatives of the committee around to see the picture at a private showing and get their opinions on how to boost it. In all probability they will be enthusiastic over the idea and will help you in return for helping them.

The picture lends itself well to display advertising. A cutout of Walsh leaping a fence, on the top rail of which could be the words "Fourth Liberty Loan" would be attractive. Another one could be gotten from a scene in the picture wherein Walsh sinks an enemy submarine from the deck of a vessel. You could have Walsh manning the gun. It could be painted so as to represent belching smoke and flame. On this have printed the words "Fourth Liberty Loan." Then in the distance could be the shattered submarine with the words "German Peace" or "German Domination" over it.

If you can get a good two-reel drama, run this on the same bill. "On the Jump" has a plentiful supply of comedy, and as good short comedies are scarce, save any you may have in mind for the day that a straight dramatic feature comes around.



George Walsh, Star of "On the Jump"

"THE MAN FROM FUNERAL RANGE"—PARAMOUNT

Wallace Reid's Latest an Unconvincing Melodrama

THE story in this picture is too illogical to believe and too unappealing to entertain. In the first place, for a man to have assumed the blame for a murder, in order to save the woman he loves, when she denies having committed it and he has no concrete evidence to make him disbelieve her, sounds too dime novel-like. In the second, the basing of the story on the conviction of the hero, who is innocent, just to give a shyster lawyer a chance to prove his devilish theory possible, that an innocent man can be condemned and sent to the gallows, is not the kind that has the slightest appeal.

A woman of the fast type kills a man because he tires of her. Thinking his sweetheart, a cabaret singer, has committed the crime, and in order to save her, the hero incriminates himself. He is convicted, but escapes. Twenty years later he returns and causes the villain to confess.

After the lapse of twenty years, the characters appear as young, fresh and vigorous as they did before.

Mr. Reid grins, and otherwise presents a happy countenance, in the most dramatic situations—the trial for his life.—Released Oct. 6.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Harry Webb, a Prospector.....Wallace Reid
Janice Williams, a Cabaret Girl.....Ann Little Dudlong, Webb's Partner.....Willis Marks
Mark Brenton, a Sharper.....George McDaniel
Frank Beekman, a Lawyer.....Tully Marshall
Dixie.....Lottie Pickford
Freddie Leighton.....Phil Ainsworth
From the play by Ernest Wilkes.
Adapted by Monte M. Katterjohn.
Directed by Walter Edwards.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—Two one-sheets, two three-sheets, one six-sheet, one star stock twenty-four-sheet, one rotogravure one-sheet.
All paper is of average order. One-sheet is straight picture of Reid. One-sheet shows Reid and Anna Little in serious pose. Three-sheet shows stars smiling. Three-sheet shows stars in serious scene. Six-sheet shows stars embracing.
LOBBY DISPLAY:—Eight 8 x 10 black and white photographs, eight 11 x 14 sepia, one 22 x 28 sepia and 8 x 10 photos of star.
CUTS AND MATS ON PRODUCTION:—Five one-column, three two-column, two three-column. Scenes are generally dramatic or poses of star from production.
STOCK CUTS AND MATS OF STAR:—Five one-column, three two-column, two three-column.
SERIES OF ADVERTISING LAYOUTS:—These in one, two and three-column sizes dressed in the usual Paramount style.
SLIDE, MUSIC CUE SHEET.

AD TALK

Wallace Reid, the handsome and talented young Paramount star, will appear at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week in his latest photoplay, a western, entitled "The Man from Funeral Range." Contrary to a number of Mr. Reid's late pictures, "The Man from Funeral Range" is drama and not comedy. Mr. Reid is successful as much in one as in the other and his versatility has never been so well displayed as by his performance here compared to his previous characterization in "Believe Me, Xantippe." "The Man from Funeral Range," like many another photoplay, is an adaptation of a play. The original was written by Ernest Wilkes and on the boards was known as "Broken Threads." It was first produced in New York in 1917 and played to considerable success.

However, as with the case with many plays, the picture version proves to be the better of the two forms of presentation. In particular with this subject does the scope and power of the camera assert itself in almost every scene. The subject calls for extensive western exteriors and such magnificent scenes as are common in the five reels of the picture, were never in evidence on the stage when the story was seen there. Also the suspense that a skilled scenarioist is able to instill into a photodrama is often an absent quality on the stage. Suffice it to add that in "The Man from Funeral Range," suspense is raised to an unusually high degree.

Mr. Reid receives sterling support from such well-known players as Ann Little, one of the most popular leading women on the screen today who has held a place in the hearts of fans for many years; Lottie Pickford, sister of Mary; Tully Marshall, a noted character actor; Willis Marks and others. The scenario was done by that skilful artist, Monte M. Katterjohn, while the direction was in charge of Walter Edwards.

THE STORY

Harry Webb, a prospector, becomes enemies with Mark Brenton and Frank Beekman, two get-rich-quick men, because he refuses to sell his property to them at a ridiculously low figure. One night Webb, in a cafe in a nearby town, meets Janice, a singer, and is attracted by her. Brenton attempts to entice Janice to a room upstairs and to this end forges a note with Webb's name. Webb learns of the plot and rushes to the room where he discovers Janice standing over the dead body of Brenton, a revolver lying near by. Believing her guilty of the crime, Webb seizes the revolver and when the officers of the law enter he is arrested as the murderer.

Janice, however, swears that Brenton was killed by a woman whose shadow she saw on the wall of the room. As a consequence of this statement Beekman causes Janice to vanish. He prosecutes Webb himself and secures his sentence. On his way to prison, Webb escapes and hides in a distant place called Funeral Range. On Janice's return she is told that Webb was found dead near the tracks.

Later, when the affair has blown over, Webb emerges from his hiding place disguised by a full-grown beard. Under the name of Kendall he goes to the hotel to see Colonel Leighton, a man who wishes to take up his claim. Webb recognizes Janice at the hotel. He shaves off his beard and makes himself known to her. Beekman sees Webb as does Dixie, a chorus girl previously infatuated by Brenton, the slain man. In Colonel Leighton's room a struggle takes place between Webb and Beekman. A revolver goes off and Dixie drops, mortally wounded. Before she dies she confesses to the murder of Brenton because of jealousy. So at last, Webb is free to marry the girl he has always loved.

SUGGESTIONS

There are a number of names attached to this feature that are more or less well known with regular patrons of the motion picture. In particular the star's, of course. His last two or three Paramount pictures have been good ones and the public should be in a receptive mood for this, his latest. Then there is Katterjohn, the scenariost, one of the most extensively advertised men in the business, whose name has been connected with some of the most successful features ever produced. If your patrons have seen any of his previous pictures, be sure to mention his name. His last was "The Source," with the same star.

CATCH LINES

Funeral Range was where the living went to hide. When trouble had blown over they emerged, often changed men in everything from appearance to name. See what happened to Harry Webb after a sojourn there.

Wallace Reid, a handsome and versatile actor, in his latest photoplay, an adaptation of the stage success, "Broken Threads."

Such well-known players as Ann Little, Lottie Pickford and Tully Marshall appear in support of the star—only another proof of the excellence of the Lasky production forces.

The dramatic story of a man who shouldered the blame for a murder he did not commit, believing the girl he loved guilty of the crime.

The basis of all true love is self sacrifice—see how Harry Webb proved his love for a girl in "The Man from Funeral Range."

Wallace Reid's latest picture is laid in the unknown places of the great West. It is a production as pleasing to the eye as it is inspiring to the senses.

Two of the best known men in the art united efforts on this—Monte Katterjohn, scenarioist, and Walter Edwards, director.

Bond or Bondage?
You Know Which You Prefer
So Buy Another Bond

Ad Cuts Dressed as Above Obtainable in One, Two and Three-Column Sizes

"THE CAILLAUX CASE"—FOX

Sensational French Murder Case Treated Intelligently

TO audiences that are attracted by the sensational sort of photoplays, this will prove extremely interesting, thrilling and entertaining. No money has been spared in making it into a powerful photo-drama.

The chief points in the plot have been based on facts, the balance, have been conceived by the author.

The story carries an air of realism due to intelligent construction and good directing. It is a re-enactment of the shooting of Gaston Calmette, editor of the Parisian newspaper Le Figaro. by the wife of the then Premier of France, Joseph Caillaux, now awaiting trial for treason. What transpired behind the scenes before the shooting and at the trial, had to be supplied by the imagination.

There are five shots fired at the editor in the picture. No doubt this is based on facts. But one shot is enough to produce the dramatic effect desired without stressing the brutality. You may ask your exchange to remove part of the scene.

The opening scene, showing a skull, is anything but entertaining. It is unnecessary and should be eliminated.—Length, 7 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Joseph Caillaux, Former Premier of France
Henry Warwick
Henriette Caillaux, His Ambitious Wife
Madaline Traverse
Bolo Pasha, Executed for Treason
George Majeroni
Gaston Calmette, Parisian Editor Slain by Mme. Caillaux.....Eugene Ormonde
Leo Claretie, Mme. Caillaux's First Husband
Philip Van Loan
M. Renouard, Father of Mme. Caillaux
Emile La Croix
Germaine Claretie, Mme. Caillaux's Daughter
Norma McCloud
Albert Calmette, Brother of the Slain Editor
George Humbert
The "Supreme Cause," Emperor William of Germany.....Frank McGlynn
Scenario by Adrian Johnson.
Staged by Richard Stanton.

THE STORY

Henriette, a middle-class French girl of great ambition is loved by Leo Claretie, a writer on the Parisian newspaper, Le Figaro. Leo paints a rosy future for the girl he loves and finally gains her consent to an elopement. She leaves her father's roof without giving her destination and in Paris they are married. Nineteen years later Claretie is a dismal failure in his chosen profession and Henriette is embittered toward him.

Through Gaston Calmette, editor of Le Figaro, she meets Joseph Caillaux, the French Minister of Finance. Both Caillaux and Henriette are impressed at their first meeting. That very night, Caillaux, unable to put Henriette out of his mind, pays a secret visit to her home. She yields to his advances and promises to share his future, whatever it may disclose.

Caillaux, through his political influence, easily obtains a divorce from his own wife and does the same service for Henriette. With this, Leo Claretie commits suicide. Shortly afterwards Henriette and Caillaux are married.

Then comes the war and with it one of the Kaiser's emissaries, Bolo Pasha, who makes Caillaux an offer of a huge sum of money if he will bring about a peace between France and Germany. Mme. Caillaux also is enthusiastic over the idea for she sees in France betrayed to her enemies, her husband as king and she herself as queen. But information of the plot reaches the editor of Le Figaro and he threatens exposure. Mme. Caillaux kills him before he can speak. Again, through her husband's influence, is the woman set free.

However, there is the United States to be reckoned with. Among papers left behind by the German Ambassador, Bernstorff, is discovered the entire plot between Pasha and Caillaux. Word is immediately sent to the French authorities with the result that Pasha is shot for treason, Caillaux sent to prison and his wife stoned out of Paris.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—There are two one-sheets, two three-sheets, one six and one twenty-four supplied on this production. The twenty-four, the six and one of the three's are ultra-sensational in character and should pull patronage with certain audiences. The other three is more moderate while the ones, though not as sensational as the other paper, have good pulling scenes.

CUTS:—There are scene and advertising cuts prepared on this feature in one, two and three-column sizes. The three-column cut, which can be used in either advertising columns or text pages, appears particularly effective. Across the top is a reproduction of the front page head of Le Figaro, while below in circles are the four principal characters of the production. The other cuts are generally of a sensational nature.

Fox exchanges also possess the usual line of stills on this picture, together with other accessories, such as slides and music cue sheet.

CATCH LINES

Joseph and Mme. Caillaux and Bolo Pasha, arch-traitors against Civilization and France are the central figures in this historic, dramatic picture presented by William Fox.

See the strong sequence of dramatic occurrences that led up to the execution of Bolo Pasha as a German spy.

AD TALK

The old adage that "Truth is Stranger than Fiction" was never more startlingly exemplified than in the celebrated cases of Joseph Caillaux, the traitor to France, and Bolo Pasha, the German agent. All the world remembers the day when the plot to cut France off from her allies and make a separate peace with Germany was uncovered by the United States Department of Justice. The news was sent with all haste to the French authorities with the consequence that both Bolo Pasha and Caillaux were tried for treason. The former was executed and the latter sentenced to prison to await his fate from another court.

It is this famous case that forms the basis of the photoplay which the management of the ———— theatre will present on ———— of ———— week. William Fox was quick to see the dramatic possibilities in the entire case and immediately commissioned one of his scenario writers to delve into the case and emerge with a scenario. This difficult task was entrusted to Adrian Johnson and while the case of Bolo Pasha and his conspirators was still at its height in the French court he brought forth a scenario for Director Richard Stanton. Stanton immediately began work on the production of the picture with the result that by the time he had finished it up to the crucial point the trial was over and the ending of the case was known. This was thereupon added and as a result "The Caillaux Case" stands today as history—and one of the most dramatic passages that history has ever known.

The players selected to play the principal roles in this picture were chosen with a special eye to their appropriateness and resemblance to the original characters. There was not a detail overlooked in all the long case. "The Caillaux Case" is a bit of photodramatic history that none can afford to miss.

SUGGESTIONS

While the news stories of the trial of Joseph Caillaux have now disappeared from the papers, the exhibitor still has a wonderful box office asset in William Fox's "The Caillaux Case." The central figure in this historical drama is really Bolo Pasha. At least, he is the figure that was the most prominent during the trial. With this fact in view, it would be wise for the exhibitor, in advertising this, to run a subtitle beneath the given title of the film, refering to Bolo Pasha. The immense amount of publicity received by this German spy will help stimulate interest in the picture even to a greater extent than the name of the treacherous Premier who thought to betray France into the hands of the Germans.

A suitable lobby display might be made of newspaper clippings centering around the cases of the two men. These you should be able to procure from one of your local newspapers. Arrange these around your frame and use in the center, stills and photographs that your local Fox exchange will supply you. Newspapers too, should be glad to co-operate with you on this picture as soon as they are aware of its authenticity. Invite representatives to a private showing. They will probably devote more space to it than they would to the average feature.

At this writing a 'phone call has come to the office asking the connection between "The Caillaux Case" and "The Clemenceau Case," an old Fox picture. Do not confuse these two. They are different pictures, the present one being a drama based on recent disclosures by the United States Department of Justice, the previous one being an adaptation of a famous drama.

Edna Goodrich, Star in "Treason," Released by Mutual

"TREASON"—MUTUAL

Another Spy Subject with a Good Title and Action Aplenty

THIS is an average program offering. It contains hardly any situations with human appeal, its entertaining values being derived more or less from physical motion as well as from the fairly speedy action of the plot.

The story deals with German spies. The husband of the heroine is an inventor of a high explosive, the formula of which the spies are trying to get possession of. She serves unwittingly as their instrument, but becomes aware of the fact in time to repair the damage done before it is too late.

The picture is clean, but will not stand over-advertising.—Released Sept. 29.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

"The Wife".....Edna Goodrich
The Husband.....Howard Hall
Their Child.....Mildred Clair
Major McClintock.....Clarence Heritage
Graf von Aachen.....Stuart Holmes
Author: H. R. Durant.
Director: Burton King.

CATCH LINES

Edna Goodrich, supported by Stuart Holmes and Howard Hall, in a spy play of the most intense character.

"The Wife" resented the fact that her husband was giving all his time to an invention for the government. Piqued and desiring to win him back to herself she stold his plans at the suggestion of a false friend. Witness this thrilling picture at the ——— theatre and see how the invention is saved for the United States.

George Cohan may have been the first to wave the American flag on the stage but come and see Edna Goodrich put "that feminine touch" into the flag waving at the ——— theatre where "Treason" is shown.

Edna Goodrich, famous dramatic beauty of screen and stage, in her latest Mutual production, "Treason."

The husband was mixing high explosives with one hand and trying to calm his wife with the other—can you imagine the results?

In his laboratory he worked on the formula of an explosive that would be stronger than TNT. His wife stole the formula and handed it over to a German spy. But still she was not guilty.

AD TALK

Edna Goodrich, the brilliant dramatic star of Mutual productions, is to be seen once more on the screen of the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week when "Treason," her latest photo-drama, is first exposed to the public gaze and delectation. As the title implies, "Treason" is a drama of these war times, the central characters being an inventor, his wife, who is discontented when he neglects her for the important business of war, and a German spy who seeks to obtain the plans of the invention by playing on the wife's sympathies. While these characters, or their counterparts have been seen in other spy photoplays and stories, written long before the war, the author of "Treason" has handled them in a highly dramatic and sustained manner so that they apparently take on an originality and refreshingness before the eye of the spectator.

Harry Durant, author of "Treason," is one of the most prolific screen writers of the day and has, as well, many stories of various lengths to his credit. His works appear in several of the popular priced magazines of today. Mr. Durant knows his public and writes entertainingly for it. Whether it be a story of such high powers as "Treason" or one of a more subdued nature, he is well at home in dealing with it.

Miss Goodrich acts with rare ability and grace in "Treason," spiritedly defining the character of the wife who is unable to realize her husband's neglect and who, as a result, almost causes the ruin of his reputation while seeking to attract his attention again. She is supported by such well-known players as Howard Hall, long a dramatic actor on the stage who appears as her husband; Stuart Holmes, the best-known villain of the screen, who is seen as the German spy; Clarence Heritage, another popular figure of the stage, and Mildred Clair in a child part.

THE STORY

"The Wife" is happy with her husband and child until after the outbreak of the war, when the husband busies himself in his laboratory, working on the formula for a new explosive. He is able to devote small time to her and as the days pass she becomes irritated at his lack of attention. When the explosive is nearly completed the husband receives word from the government that Major McClintock will visit him, supposedly as a guest, but in reality as a precaution against the activities of enemy spies who have heard of the tremendous power of the new compound.

The wife is unaware of Major McClintock's mission in her home but is further angered when he monopolizes her husband all the time and pays little, if any, attention to her. The Major realizes the situation but is unable to explain the whole affair to the wife as he is bound to secrecy. It is then that the wife meets Graf von Aachen, a German spy, traveling under an alias. He immediately assumes a strong interest in her and pays constant attention to her and sympathizes with her lonely life.

She finally confides in him the reason for her husband's neglect of her—explains that he is working on a tremendously high explosive. Von Aachen suggests that she steal the papers containing the formula, just for the moral effect it will have on her husband. He will keep them safely for her he says and after her husband has come to a realization of the cruel manner in which he has neglected his wife he will return them. So the wife decides on this plan but soon learns her folly and the real identity of von Aachen. She demands that he return the papers to her but he insists on her paying the price. However, it is at this crisis that Major McClintock intervenes and von Aachen is led away a captive of the government. The papers are recovered and a reconciliation between husband and wife effected.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—One one-sheet, one three-sheet, one six-sheet. Three-sheet is effectively designed pose of Miss Goodrich, one and six show star and Holmes in dramatic scenes.

CUTS AND MATS:—There are one, two and three-column cuts available on this production. Cuts are rented and mats are sold at same prices. There is also a half-column star cut and a program cover cut 4 x 4 inches.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—There are six 11 x 14 photos supplied with title card. Another set of six 22 x 28 hand-colored photos are rented the exhibitor. Title card also goes with these.

An announcement slide also available on this production. Press sheet contains music cue sheet.

SUGGESTIONS

This is another spy play and if you have offered others of this type in the past you are going to have difficulty in doping out anything original in the way of advertising, as it is based on a rather worn situation. However, the fact of the jealous wife leads to a certain line of advertising that could be effectively used, while at the same time you could disregard the spy stuff or else put it in second place if you wanted to.

You could run a line something like this across the top of your advertising: If you are a married man don't try to keep any secret from your wife. She'll find it out anyway and then you may regret your silence." This serves to give a light touch that will be remembered. Follow this with your advertisement of the picture and below that use this line: "In which an inventor who refused to take his wife into his confidence almost came to grief at the hands of spies."

If you have played other features starring Miss Goodrich, and even if you have not, mention her in featured position as she is quite a well-known player. The Mutual Company also offers the exhibitor a striking title in "Treason."

"SALOME"

(Continued from page 2592)

two thumb cuts and one single-column circle cut for dressing advertisements.

OTHER ACCESSORIES:—The Fox publicity department has prepared a particularly elaborate press book for agents who precede the show on the road, while one of the usual press books is also available. These contain much valuable news and advertising material together with suggestions on making a big display.

The musical score for "Salome" was prepared by George M. Rubenstein and may be obtained. It is a well arranged score as might be expected when this man's former work on Fox super-productions is recalled.

SUGGESTIONS

Any exhibitor can well spread himself on "Salome." Salome is a character that everyone will recognize merely by the display of the name and coupled with the star's name, it should prove a strong magnet over any theatre. Don't forget in billing it that it is more than a spectacle. Many people fight shy of pictures so billed because they have learned through experience that many productions of a spectacular character contain little drama. Play up the story side of it more than the other. "An absorbing story of Salome and her passion for John the Baptist, laid in a setting of spectacular magnificence," might be a good line to use. Thus is the story given prior place.

The publicity prepared by Fox on this contains practically every aid and suggestion that the exhibitor can use. And too the book has been compiled with the idea of giving the smaller exhibitor a chance as well as the man who plays it as an attraction at advanced prices and for an extended run. If the exhibitor cares for comparisons he can truthfully say that "Salome" is better than "Cleopatra."

Stock Cut of Miss Goodrich at All Mutual Exchanges

"THE GODDESS OF LOST LAKE"—HODKINSON

Built on Principle That's Sure to Please Public

A FATHER'S love for his daughter and his great desire to provide for her future forms the basis of this entertainment. It is a principle that has a sure appeal to human emotions.

The picture opens by showing a man among the Indians, being thanked by them for the curing of a sick baby. In gratitude they grant him the right to take a certain amount of gold from a secret spot in the Lost Lake. He marries a squaw and eventually dies. His daughter also marries a white. The baby girl born becomes the heroine of the story.

Her father toils hard hunting for gold to educate his daughter, finally being shown as having graduated from college. She meets a white man, while he comes hunting. They fall in love and marry. The father is killed by an Indian just as he discovers the secret spot where the gold is. Thus the death of a member of their tribe, killed by whites, becomes avenged.

The forest scenes, forming the background in most of the picture, are almost marvelous.

It is a clean attraction and should have a wide appeal.—Released Oct. 14.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Mary Thorne.....Louise Glaum
Mark Hamilton.....W. Lawson Butt
Chester Martin.....Hayward Mack
Marshall Thorne.....Joseph J. Dowling
Eagle.....Frank Lanning
Story by M. Van de Water.
Scenario by Jack Cunningham.
Directed by Wallace Worsley.
Photographed by L. Guy Wilkey.

SUGGESTIONS

If you dress your theatre and your advertising according to the character of the production you play, "The Goddess of Lost Lake" offers you a good opportunity to follow along this line. Newspaper advertising might show the figure of an Indian woman before a forest in the background. A girl dressed as an Indian could serve as a good ballyhoo, distributing announcement cards regarding the production. There is the usual trick of dressing your ushers as Indians but we are not much in sympathy with any such idea. If the exhibitor followed all such plans out he would be obliged to run a costuming establishment in connection with his house.

Implements used by the Indians could, however, be procured as an exhibit in your lobby if there is a society in town that would furnish you with them.

Don't get the idea that "The Goddess of Lost Lake" is altogether an Indian picture from the foregoing suggestions. The fact that the girl, only a quarter-breed, poses as an Indian, at first to fool two hunters, is the main situation. But this Indian atmosphere might be created. It would at least attract attention, as there has been little done in this line for some time.

AD TALK

Louise Glaum, one of the prominent stars in Hodkinson pictures, comes to the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week in her latest production, "The Goddess of Lost Lake," a photoplay that departs far from the beaten path in everything from story to production and acting. Miss Glaum has the role of Mary Thorne, a woman in whose veins runs a slight portion of Indian blood. Her father, an old prospector, sends her East to receive a college education and four years later Mary returns to her home, a modern young woman.

However, when two hunters, Mark Hamilton and Chester Martin, pass that way she can not resist the temptation to dress as an Indian and pretend that she is an uncouth native of the forests. Hamilton, despite her clever disguise, falls deeply in love with her while his companion is overcome with a desire to possess her. However, he looks down upon her as "just a half-breed" and this hurts Mary considerably. One day Martin pursues her to her room and attacks her. Hamilton comes to the rescue and it is then that he discovers that she is, in reality, the most highly civilized sort of person.

How this photoplay is brought to an end is interesting, indeed. Its latter events are based on an old Indian legend, the working out of which on the magic screen, makes an ideal entertainment. Miss Glaum faithfully portrays the role of Mary Thorne and is supported by an entirely adequate cast, including such well-known players as W. Lawson Butt, Hayward Mack, Joseph J. Dowling and Frank Lanning.

The author of "The Goddess of Lost Lake" is M. Van de Water. Jack Cunningham adapted it for screen purposes while Wallace Worsley directed the production. L. Guy Wilkey has done wonders in the way of photographic effects.

THE STORY

Mary Thorne, quarter-breed daughter of Marshall Thorne, a prospector, returns to her father's home after completing a college education in the East. She has become a modern young woman in all outward appearances, although at heart she still retains the love of freedom that has been hers since childhood. Mark Hamilton and Chester Martin invade the West on a hunting expedition. Mary, for the fun of the thing, dons her Indian costume and is taken by the two men to be an Indian native. She enjoys creating this deception for a while. Hamilton is deeply impressed by the girl; Martin admires her for herself alone.

Under the care of Eagle, her half-breed uncle she accompanies the two men on their hunting trip. However, one night she hears Martin advise Hamilton against her as he believes her an Indian. Seeing her position which is, from Martin's viewpoint, at least, despised, Mary leaves the expedition and returns to her father's home.

During Mary's absence, Marshall has started off on a search for gold, which, according to an old Indian legend, lies at the bottom of a certain lake far in the forests. A white man once stole some of this gold and slew an Indian prince. As a result there is a tradition in the Indian tribe that a white man must be killed before any more gold be taken from the lake. While Marshall is still away, Martin and Hamilton hurry back to the cabin. Martin arrives there first and attacks her in her own room—a boudoir of modern design. Hamilton comes to the rescue and realizes her social position.

Marshall, in his search for the gold, is shot by an Indian who guards the lake—and so the ancient debt of blood between the white man and the red is paid and the gold is left for Mary.

CATCH LINES

Louise Glaum, one of the most talented actresses on the screen, in the best role of her career.

The legend of Lost Lake forever menaced the white man who ventured near its waters—see how this terrible legend was broken forever in "The Goddess of Lost Lake."

Though she won her degree in college she went back to the Indian costume of her grandmother when she returned to her home.

How Mary Thorne, a quarter-breed Indian, posed as a full-blooded member of the tribe to test the love of a man.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—Two one-sheets, two three-sheets, two six-sheets. These are all selected scenes from production with inserts of Miss Glaum. They are procurable at all General exchanges handling the Hodkinson product.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—Photos are obtainable in the standard sizes of 22 x 28 and 11 x 14. These show scenes of star and production.

CUTS AND MATS:—One and two-column cuts have been prepared for use on this production and are suitable for either the advertising or the text columns of your newspapers.

Two-Column Cut That Can Be Used in Either Text or Ad Pages

"JUST SYLVIA"—WORLD

A Comedy-Drama That Sums Up as Average

THIS five-reeler starts off with some good comedy in which a newly-rich family figures prominently. The humor is derived from its three members, all exceedingly well played by Johnny Hines, Gertrude Berkeley and Jack Drumier, being initiated into good clothes, butlers and the like. Hines manages to continue along with his comedy even after the situations become more or less entangled in setting forth only mildly entertaining complications. After the film passes its meridian it suffers a slight let down in interest due to this slacking up of the comedy, but manages to get through to a satisfactory ending without causing undue restlessness.

Barbara Castleton, featured with Hines, has a straight role which she handles satisfactorily. The story is by Harry O. Hoyt, who wrote two of the Blackwell-Greeley comedies. While this does not measure up with them it provides average entertainment when all is considered. Travers Vale directed the production and it appears that he attempted to accentuate the melodrama in the final reels rather than the lighter side. The picture is attractively set with a number of pretty exteriors, while the photographic work is always commendable.—Length, 5 reels.—Peter Milne.

THE CAST

Sylvia.....Barbara Castleton
Henry.....John Hines
Zebulon Hicks.....Jack Drumier
Octavia Hicks.....Gertrude Berekley
J. Orlando Dell.....Franklyn Hanna
Danglar.....Heny Warwick
Frank Hayward.....Anthony Merlo
Annie.....Eloise Clement
Mrs. Layton Du Roc..Theresa Maxwell Conover
Story by Harry O. Hoyt.
Scenario by Hamilton Smith.
Directed by Travers Vale.
Photographed by Philip Hatkin.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—One six-sheet, two three-sheets, two one-sheets.
LOBBY DISPLAY:—Two 22 x 28 colored photos; eight 11 x 14 colored; eight 8 x 10 black and white. Title card furnished with these to complete display.
CUTS AND MATS (SCENE):—There are two three-column scene cuts and one two-column (comedy scene) among the accessories supplied on this feature. The two-column with the stars is the best.
CUTS (ADVERTISING):—There is a two-column ad cut containing dramatic scene from production; a one-column dramatic scene and a one-column comedy scene. A number of one and two-column type advertisements are also suggested in the World press sheet.
SLIDE, MUSIC CUE SHEET.

AD TALK

"Just Sylvia," a World picture co-starring Barbara Castleton and Johnny Hines will be the featured attraction at the ———— theatre on ———— of ———— week. "Just Sylvia" is the work of Harry O. Hoyt, author of a number of comedies featuring Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley, which patrons of the ———— theatre have already enjoyed. Mr. Hoyt has a particularly good ability for writing comedy and his work along this line is always marked by original and refreshing situations. In "Just Sylvia" he has taken as his principal characters, a family of new-rich folk from the Middle West and a foreign princess masking in America under an assumed name. His handling of this quartet or protagonists is amusing as well as highly sustaining, and our patrons are guaranteed a thoroughly pleasant entertainment in the five reels that compose this feature.

Barbara Castleton is a thoroughly likable young woman whose work in World pictures has already stamped her as an accomplished actress and a rising star. Her opposite, Johnny Hines, is one of the best comedians on the screen today. Under the careful direction of the World producers he is rapidly developing and we would not be at all surprised to hear considerable regarding him in the near future. Another noted player in the cast is Gertrude Berekley who plays the role of the new-rich mother. Miss Berekley is one of the most versatile players on the screen. Her work in "War Brides," in which she played the mother, is still a lingering memory. That was a dramatic role of the severest sort. In "Just Sylvia," however, she turns her attention to comedy with equally successful results.

"Just Sylvia" is, in fact, one of the best rounded pictures it has been our pleasure to present this season.

THE STORY

Sylvia, just Sylvia, lives in a cheap lodging house and has rather a hard time making ends meet. She finally secures employment as a maniken in Madame Lilian's modiste shop and it is here that she meets Zebulon Hicks, an old man who shortly before discovered iron on his farm and made a million. Zebulon's wife and son are vainly attempting to crash into society but find the going hard. Mrs. Hicks calls on Mrs. Aster several times and then finally accosts her on the steps of her home but Mrs. Aster asks freezingly: "Who is this creature?"

However, the Hicks are destined to entertain "Royalty." Frank and Annie, two persons of leisure, pose respectively as Count de Boeuf and Princess Karalyn, heir to the throne of Sylvania. They thrust themselves upon the astonished Hicks family, which is, to put it mildly, overwhelmed. In the meantime Hicks junion, Henry, has met Sylvia at the country club where she is posing as a Countess to display some of Madame Lilian's gowns. Later she accepts an invitation to spend a few days with the Hicks. She is astonished to discover that Annie is posing as Princess Karalyn.

Frank and Annie finally manage to wheddle sixty thousand from Hicks for a supposed castle in Europe. They plan to get away with Mrs. Hick's jewels besides. Sylvia prevents this but is herself accused of stealing the jewels. Her name is saved, however, and the whole affair straightened out by the appearance of a representative of Sylvania who addresses Sylvia as Princess Karalyn. The crooks are exposed and beat a hasty retreat. Sylvia refuses a kingdom's crown to marry Henry, preferring to remain just Sylvia than to be burdened with a title.

CATCH LINES

Barbara Castleton and Johnny Hines in one of the most pleasing comedy-dramas that the season has brought forth.

Written by Harry O. Hoyt, author of "The Road to France" and a number of Carlyle Blackwell-Evelyn Greeley comedies.

You who had been complaining that there were too many war pictures, too many spy pictures and too many hectic melodramas these days, step around and see "Just Sylvia." It is a comedy-drama—and light from beginning to end.

Octavia Hicks found it extremely difficult to break into society even though her husband had made a million. But she had the laugh on all those who previously snubbed her when her son married a princess.

Johnny Hines, is a natural comedian from his toes to his nose—don't miss him in "Just Sylvia"—with Barbara Castleton as the girl.

(Continued on page 2602)

Two-Column Ad Cut Obtainable at World Film Exchanges

"LITTLE MISS GROWN-UP"—GENERAL

Satisfying If Not Up to Gloria Joy's Past Performances

JUDGING this in its entirety, one can only call it a fair program offering. The little star is handicapped by a poor story. It does not come up to the level of the ones furnished her in the past. Towards the last of the picture the action becomes forced. Is too far fetched and drags. Besides, the leading part is taken away from her.

There are individual situations in the picture that will prove entertaining. The grandfather's telling a spooky story, for instance, which is weird and at times comical. Also the appearance of the little heroine's big friend, covered with a white sheet and looking like a ghost. It scares the colored butler and the cook out of their wits.

The first reel showing scenes of a farm and incidents from the life of little children will prove entertaining.

Where this star is popular this attraction will get by.—Released in October.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Nan Griffing.....Gloria Joy
Grace Griffing, her aunt.....Ethel Pepperell
Ethel Griffing, her mother.....Mary Northmore
Robert Griffing, her father.....Neil Hardin
Anna Griffing, her grandmother..Mollie McConnell
James Griffing, her grandfather...Daniel Gilfether
Morgan Thornton, Grace's fiance
Edward Saunders
Simple Simon Magee.....Charles Dudley
Directed by Sherwood McDonald.

SUGGESTIONS

If you have been running this series of productions featuring Gloria Joy, and providing the people have received the previous numbers well, your work on "Little Miss Grown-Up" merely constitutes of seeing to the fact that the people know this is another picture with the same star.

Children's matinees might be in order, providing your house is located in a residential district of the better class. Children don't like children's matinees as a rule, but after looking "Little Miss Grown-Up" over for yourself you can form your own opinion on how the youngsters in your neighborhood would receive it. It is a chance for publicity that is well not to overlook.

If you want to get the full benefit out of this series and the personality of the star, accentuate the fact that she is by no means the stereotyped child actress but a natural, easy-going little girl who seems to be absolutely oblivious of the camera in every scene.

AD TALK

On ——— of ——— week, the management of the ——— theatre will offer something new to its patrons in a production made by the Oakdale Film Company, entitled "Little Miss Grown-up." This picture, as the title might imply, features a child star by the screen name of Gloria Joy. The little actress is, in passing, both a glory and a joy to look upon and this high compliment is paid her only after the most serious consideration. As our readers are doubtless well aware, the average child star is usually so sophisticated that she is no more a child. A few years before the camera and she or he becomes as well versed in its art and tricks as the mature player of the films. It is this which detracts from the child's charm. With the case of Little Gloria Joy, however, it is altogether different.

To begin with, this child player has only been before the camera for a few months. So any chance of her becoming unduly sophisticated is reduced to a minimum. She is exceedingly natural, never conscious of the fact that she is a "star," and far from being sophisticated in gesture or expression. As a result, her pictures are realistic, human, and appealing, particularly, as their authors have taken pains to avoid the usual type of child story. They have made a happy effort to get away from the "little child shall lead them" idea, and as a result, the pictures show a certain refreshing originality that is highly commendable.

"Little Miss Grown-Up" tells the story of a little girl who proposed to her aunt's fiance. This gentleman accepts her gracious request in all good fun and with this the girl becomes so impressed with her own importance and "age" that she is ready to believe herself a real rival of her aunt. Here is a situation full of the surest sort of humor—and one which has been developed richly by both scenarioist and director. The star is supported by a number of capable grown-ups for sure, while the direction was in charge of Sherwood McDonald, a man well able to guide the screen destinies of a juvenile favorite.

THE STORY

Nan is the daughter of a young couple, the Griffings, who devote much of their time to farming. Nan, as a result, is rather neglected and turns to Simple Simon Magee, a thirty-year-old man with a two-year-old brain, for companionship. The scant opportunities he affords her, however, soon force her to seek elsewhere for entertainment. She rummages about in the attic and discovers an old dancing costume, once worn by her mother when she was on the stage. Little Nan persuades her mother to teach her some dancing steps, but this new pleasure is not for long. Members of the local church society visit the farm house and are more than horrified. As a result, Nan's lessons come to a stop. Her parents finally send her to visit her grandmother in the city.

Nan takes Simple Simon along with her, though this she is not supposed to do. She hides the gentleman in the orchard but at night he becomes a prowler and scares the very wits out of the negro servants who care for the place. Morgan Thornton, fiance of Nan's aunt, Grace, is naturally a constant visitor at the Griffing home. One day Nan proposes to this gentleman for the sheer fun of the thing. Morgan jokingly accepts Nan's gracious offer and this so turns the young lady's head that she believes she is really grown-up.

So Little Miss Grown-Up prepares for the elopement and sneaks out of the house to Morgan's home. There, however, she is detained, much against her will, until members of her family are sent for. They carry the joke through and pretend to be most indignant toward Morgan. Nan, who must have visited the movies in her time, dramatically insists that Morgan choose between her and her aunt. So when Morgan chooses the older of the ladies Nan decides that city life is not for her and returns to her parents in the country.

CATCH LINES

Something new—a child star in a picture that gives her opportunities to perform as any little child would.

Gloria Joy, a new juvenile star, who is both a Glory and a Joy to look upon on the screen.

Probably you have avoided kid pictures because the principals were often too sophisticated to be natural. Gloria Joy in "Little Miss Grown-Up" will alter your opinion, we feel sure.

"Little Miss Grown-Up," the first (second) in a series of six happy productions featuring Gloria Joy.

The authors of the Gloria Joy series have written stories that are real children's stories—something which a good many authors seem unable to do.

The charming little star of "The Locked Heart" in a still sweeter production.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—There are one, three and six-sheets provided on this production, procurable at all General exchanges handling the series.

CUTS:—There is a one-column stock star cut of Gloria Joy reproduced herewith, as well as some two-column scene cuts obtainable at the General office.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—There is a set of 11 x 14 photographs furnished with title card.
SLIDE.

"JUST SYLVIA"

(Continued from page 2601)

SUGGESTIONS

If you have played World Film's picture built around the ship building industry in the United States entitled "The Road to France," and if you have scored success with the later comedy-drama featuring Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley you can create interest in "Just Sylvia" by mentioning the name of Harry Hoyt who wrote these pictures as well as the present one. Play him up as a writer of fine comedy for this has been the predominating element in the majority of his recent pictures.

Johnny Hines, featured with Barbara Castleton, is a comedian coming into favor rapidly. Feature him prominently. He will make many friends by his performance in this picture. The film suggests no tremendously original possibilities for advertising. A cutout of Miss Castleton might be made and underneath printed so that the title in large type falls beneath the figure: ."She was 'JUST SYLVIA' in the United States, but a Princess in Europe." If the comedy angle is desired use a cutout of Hines being struck on the head by a golf ball, labelled "Romance." Underneath run this line: "'Romance' hit Henry hard when it finally reached him in 'Just Sylvia.'"

GLORIA JOY
Oakdale~Productions
Stock Star Cut Available for All Gloria Joy Pictures

"BATTLING JANE"—PARAMOUNT

Story Above the Average, But Plot Lacks Body; Intelligent Handling

TO begin with, this offering is fairly above the average. There is hardly any body to its story, however. It is chiefly an aggregation of situations placed together in an admittedly intelligent way.

Barring the first half and the last one and a half reels, the plot is almost stationary. The entertaining values in that part of the picture depend entirely on comedy, which is derived wholly from the acting of the star, assisted occasionally by a cleverly constructed subtitle.

The central figure in the story, besides the star, is a baby. The presence of an infant on the screen never fails to bring forth murmurs of approval from an audience.

The situation where the heroine attempts to milk the cow, the latter's swinging tail hitting the star on the face is very comical. It will cause a great many laughs.

The picture is clean and, where the attendance is good, will give excellent satisfaction.—Released Oct. 6.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Jane .....Dorothy Gish
Dr. Sheldon.....George Nicholls
Mrs. Sheldon.....May Hall
Pollett's Daughter.....Katherine MacDonald
Baby Sheldon.....Ernest Marion
The Crook.....Bertram Grasby
Mrs. Pollett.....Adolphe Lestina
Chairwoman.....Kate Toncray
Author: Arnold Bernot.
Director: Elmer Clifton.

CATCH LINES

Dorothy Gish, always remembered as the Little Disturber in Griffith's "Hearts of the World" in a similar character, "Battling Jane."

The vivacious little star of "The Hun Within" and many other features in a picture that affords her an ideal role.

Jane was dubbed "Battling" because she fought like the very mischief to save a baby from its no-account father and she was well dubbed too, for she emerged victorious.

A sparkling picture that combines comedy, romance, heart appeal and drama—a regular Dorothy Gish picture.

"Battling Jane"—Dorothy Gish's first Paramount production and one that stamps her as one of that organization's foremost stars.

When Dorothy Gish landed in the midst of the village Thrift Stamp drive, there was a boom that didn't stop until Thrift Stamps had gone "over the top."

A photoplay that combines patriotism and humor—a combination quite ideal as set forth in "Battling Jane."

AD TALK

Dorothy Gish, a star new to the Paramount program, but vastly popular due to her skilled work in other features, will be the ——— theatre's star on ——— of ——— week in a delightful comedy-drama entitled "Battling Jane." This is the first of her Paramount pictures and it may safely be said that if the producers continue supplying her with such exceptional vehicles she will soon attain an even greater fame than that which is now her possession. "Battling Jane" tells the story of a girl wanderer who arrives in a Maine village at the time that a Thrift Stamp drive is at its height.

Startling circumstances call upon her to remain in the village and care for a baby, deserted by his father. Jane goes to work with a vengeance to care for her charge. In the baby show it wins the five hundred dollar prize. The father, on hearing this, returns to town and attempts in various ways to get hold of this money. But Jane manages to keep it intact and with the end she has invested it in Thrift Stamps, thus putting the little village "over the top" in the drive.

Miss Gish's role in "Battling Jane" recalls her delightful performance in Griffith's "Hearts of the World" when she took critics and public by storm as the Little Disturber, the epitome of the light hearted women of France. It was one of the most unique parts ever created on the screen and the Battling Jane she portrays here is a first-cousin to the Disturber. A fine cast was assembled to support Miss Gish in this subject, every member of which appears to exceptional advantage under the skilful direction of Elmer Clifton.

Other features on the bill of the ——— theatre include ———.

THE STORY

In a little village in Maine a Thrift Stamp drive is in full progress when Jane rides into town on a bicycle. She is from nowhere and going in the same direction. A tire puncture causes her to halt on her journey and make repairs. She overhears Dr. Sheldon quarreling with his wife. The upshot of this is that the worthless doctor leaves her flat. Mrs. Sheldon faints and Jane assists her into the house, there to be greeted by Baby Sheldon. Soon afterwards Mrs. Sheldon dies and there is nothing for Jane to do but to stay on and take charge of the infant's welfare.

To make ends meet Jane goes to work in the town restaurant and it is in this capacity that she is first dubbed "The Battler." When a theatrical troupe comes to town Jane encounters Wilbur, one of the actors and a bit of romance comes into her life. However, her time is largely occupied with the Sheldon baby. A feature of the Thrift Stamp drive is a baby show and, with all the other infants of the town, Jane's young charge is entered for the prize—and he wins it. Jane discovers herself the possessor of five hundred dollars as a result.

When Dr. Sheldon hears of this he makes all haste to return to the village and claim the money. He encounters Jane, however, who drives him away with a gun. He goes for the sheriff. Jane sees them approaching the house and takes refuge in a shack. But the baby is suddenly taken violently ill. Realizing that Sheldon is a doctor, Jane makes him tend the baby's needs at the point of the gun. He again tries to get the money but detectives are summoned and carry him away.

Jane, to insure the little one's future, invests the five hundred in stamps and as a result the town goes "over the top" in its drive.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—Two one-sheets; two three-sheets; one six-sheet. One sheet shows Dorothy Gish in a beautiful pose. The other is comedy poster with Miss Gish and another character. The three-sheets show Miss Gish with baby in comedy scenes, while the six has the same pair in a dramatic scene.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—Photos are eight 8 x 10 black and white; eight 11 x 14 sepia; one 22 x 28 sepia, and 8 x 10 photos of star.

CUTS AND MATS ON PRODUCTION:—Five one-column; three two-column; two three-column. The three and two-column cuts show Miss Gish in comedy scenes from the production while the single columns are scenes and poses of star from the production.

CUTS AND MATS ON STAR:—These issued in same sizes and number as those on production.

SERIES OF ADVERTISING LAYOUTS:—There are one, two and three-column advertising layouts.

SLIDES AND MUSIC CUE SHEET.

SUGGESTIONS

Dorothy Gish was by no means an unknown quantity even before her appearance in "Hearts of the World" as the Little Disturber. However, in big cities she made a tremendous hit in this role and exhibitors will do well to recall her success in this part when advertising this subject. The part is similar to the other. In smaller localities where the big production has not been shown it would be to better purpose to recall some of her earlier Fine Arts successes as well as her most recent appearance in the war melodrama released by Artcraft entitled "The Hun Within." Mention of the manner in which she captivated audiences in "Hearts of the World" might come in handy here as well.

The fact that a small town Thrift Stamp drive comes in for some little exploitation in the production provides an avenue for special advertising. Many advertisers always accompany the announcement of their wares with appeals to buy stamps. Start this policy in advertising this production. A little appeal in one of the corners of the ad will suffice.

It would be a thing of patriotism to get your town authorities to co-operate with you in the sale of Thrift Stamps during the run of the production. A booth could be placed in the lobby of your house, over which you might place a sign reading: "Battling Jane invested her only $500 in Thrift Stamps. Follow her example and dig down." This would act as an appeal to patrons leaving the house as well as a stimulus to the curiosity of the patrons entering.

Plan Book Help
Takes All the Worry Off
Your Own Shoulders

Bank On It

The Artist Has Brought Out the Humorous Side of the Production in This Three-Sheet

"KISS OR KILL"—UNIVERSAL SPECIAL

Thrills Abound in This Crook Play from Universal

PICTURE patrons invariably derive pleasure out of crook plays, especially when produced intelligently. You can bank on this one pleasing your patrons, as it is based on an interesting story, it is thrilling, clever and, as you can't guess the action in advance, holds you in suspense. You wouldn't be making a mistake if you were to boost it stronger than you did "Come Through," as it is a better attraction.

In selecting one of the two stars to boost, you can choose the one that is most popular in your territory. It may be advisable to boost both if you don't intend concentrating your efforts on one.

It is a clean offering and it will undoubtedly have a universal appeal.

An extensive review was given in issue of October 5th on page 2243.

Released Oct. 21.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Henry Warner.....Herbert Rawlinson
Ruth Orton.....Priscilla Dean
Middleton.....Alfred Allen
Craig.....Harry Carter

Adapted by Elmer Clifton from story by Max Brand in All Story Magazine.
Directed by Mr. Clifton.

CATCH LINES

Herbert Rawlinson and Priscilla Dean in a picture that rivals even "Come Through" for sheer thrills and dramatic suspense.

Henry Warner decided that the world owed him a living and went out into the cold night in search of it. How he got the living is told in a series of thrilling episodes superbly acted by Mr. Rawlinson and Miss Dean.

Herbert Rawlinson, the star of "Come Through," and Priscilla Dean, the star of "The Brazen Beauty" in a production that rivals the combined force of these wonderful pictures.

If you hadn't a sou in your pocket and the landlady had been bothering you for the rent; if the night was cold and you shivered and thought of the overcoat you once had as you walked along the street; what would you do if you saw a fat wallet protruding from the pocket of a rich gentleman? Well, perhaps that's what Henry Warner did.

"Kiss or Kill"—Henry Warner didn't mind which of these acts he committed as long as he could get an overcoat and a little money—it was cold and he was hungry. Henry didn't have to kill.

AD TALK

Ever since the Universal Company released "Come Through," starring Herbert Rawlinson, fans throughout the country have been clamoring for another like it. Universal has responded in "Kiss or Kill," a production that for thrills and fast action, suspense and romance, equals, if it does not outclass, that previous production. And in addition to this, another tried and proven star is presented in the part opposite Mr. Rawlinson's. She is Priscilla Dean, the young lady who created such a great sensation in "The Brazen Beauty" and who is destined to be one of the foremost stars on the screen before many months have passed.

With these two leading players and with such a strong story, patrons of the ———— theatre are guaranteed an entertainment of an unusually high order when "Kiss or Kill" is shown here on ———— of ———— week. The story was written by Max Brand and was originally published in the All Story Magazine. The adaptation and the direction as well were entrusted to the skillful hand of Elmer Clifton, one of the youngest men whose business it is to stand back of the camera and give orders through a megaphone, and at the same time, one of the best.

We are not going to tell you much about "Kiss or Kill" in advance. It concerns a penniless young man who embarked on a mysterious expedition merely because he was given a warm overcoat and a bank roll. How he discovered that he was working for an unjust cause, how he righted the wrong done an innocent girl and eventually won her heart, is a series of engrossing events when told on the magic screen. Mr. Rawlinson and Miss Dean are supported by a capable cast headed by such well-known players as Alfred Allen and that prince of villains, Harry Carter.

THE STORY

Henry Warner, reduced in circumstances, is in a quandry about what to do to earn a living. His landlady asks for rent, as every penny counts, and so Henry goes forth in search of—anything. The first thing he sees is a gentleman's bulging wallet inviting the passerby to snatch it. And Henry, after deliberation, does snatch it. Pursued by the police, he takes refuge in a mysterious house where he is immediately confronted by Middleton, a middle-aged man, who cordially greets him. He explains to Henry a daring mission he has in mind for him, gives him a warm overcoat and a bank roll and bids him set about the work.

The job is to secure a will that Middleton's nephew, Craig, has stolen from him. Henry is told to get acquainted with Ruth Orton, a girl whom Craig desires to marry. He does, by entering her room via the fire escape. Ruth thinks him a crook but is strongly attracted by him, nevertheless. She hides him when Craig enters. Later, Henry asks her to secure for him an invitation to Craig's reception. It was here that Craig intends announcement of his engagement to Ruth. Henry refuses to drink their health. Alone with Craig he explains why—that he intends to marry the girl himself. They fight and Craig is bound up when it's all over.

Henry then secures the will and departs for Middleton's house. This will had been changed. It left Ruth property now controlled by Middleton. Craig had in turn stolen the will in order to change it to favor himself. Henry suspects Middleton and as the man is so eager to see the paper, Henry covers him with a gun and demands it back. Craig hurries to Ruth and tells her that Henry has stolen a paper invaluable to her. Disheartened, she promises to marry Craig at an early date. But when Henry tells Ruth the truth she prefers to take his word to that of the other man.

(Continued on page 2605)

Two-Column Cut Supplied at Universal Exchanges

"WHATEVER THE COST"—PLAZA-HODKINSON

Fair Program Picture Lacks Human Appeal; Good as Filler

THIS is only a fair program picture, which you can use to fill some vacant spot in lack of a more suitable one. It is based on physical action. It lacks the element of human appeal.

The death of the heroine's father, a whisky smuggler, forms the basis of the story. It is caused accidentally, by the discharge of a pistol held by the villain.

Released Oct. 7.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Jess Farley.....Anita King
John Farley.....Bruce Smith
Uncle Dud.....Charles Dudley
Steve Douglas.....Stanley Pembroke
"Black Jack" Fanning.....Gordon Sackville
Paul Otard.....Patrick Calhoun
Belle.....Corenne Grant

Written by Captain Leslie T. Peacocke.
Directed by Robert Ensminger.

THE STORY

Jess Farley is the daughter of a whiskey smuggler, John, whose field of activity is a secluded section of the coast known as Glen Cove. The only other person with whom Jess is familiar is Uncle Dud, her father's partner in his illegitimate trade. Jess has been brought up in boys' clothes and until she ransacks the attic and finds an old dress of her mother's she knows no other kind. Enchanted at this discovery she dons the dress and while she is clad Paul Otard, a man from the town sees her. He attempts to embrace her but she repulses him and drives him away at the point of a gun.

Paul, a double crosser, had feigned love for Belle, the wife of "Black Jack" Fanning, owner of the saloon and dance hall. Belle, dissatisfied with her life, had agreed to find where the whiskey smugglers stored their supplies and then, bleeding them for money, elope with Paul.

Later Jess finds her father dead. She swears vengeance whatever the cost may be and to this end takes a position as dance hall girl in the saloon. Paul's advances toward her make Belle furious. Jess meets Steve Douglas, a revenue officer on the trail of the smugglers, and it is a case of mutual love at first sight. Paul forces his attentions on Jess again. She wards him off with the revolver she found by her father's dead body. Steve coming to her rescue recognizes the revolver as his own. On learning this Jess believes him the murderer of her father and is about to kill him when Fate intervenes and points to Paul as the guilty man.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—Two one-sheets; two three-sheets; two six-sheets, showing scenes from production and poses of Anita King. These obtainable at all General exchanges handling the Hodkinson product.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—Photos are in sizes 11 x 14 and 22 x 28, and include reproductions of scenes and portraits of star.

CUTS AND MATS:—Cuts include one and two-column cuts suitable for use in either text or advertising columns.

AD TALK

Charming Anita King will be presented in her latest Plaza picture entitled "Whatever the Cost" at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week. In this picture Miss King is seen in the role of a whiskey smuggler's daughter who has been brought up in boys' clothes and who has been treated as a boy by her father and her old uncle, the only other human being she knows at all intimately. Miss King makes much of this character and gives a sustaining performance straight through the picture. The latter part calls for some difficult emotional acting which Miss King undertakes with sincerity and signal success.

The girl's father is found dead one day and it is then that Jess (Miss King) determines to avenge herself on the unknown muderer whatever the cost may be. In order to further her ends she takes a position as dance hall girl in the town saloon. Here she meets a revenue officer, and another, Paul Otard, a despicable character. Jess finally comes to a realization that one of these men is the guilty party, and to discover which is the culprit she plays her cards carefully. However, she needs the assistance of Fate, for when she feels sure that the revenue officer committed the crime, a kindlier hand intervenes and points to Paul as the guilty man. As a result, Jess and the officer are married, with no shadow hanging overhead.

The story for "Whatever the Cost" was prepared by Captain Leslie T. Peacocke, a skilled writer and a strong cast which includes, Stanley Pembroke and Pat Calhoun, was assembled in Miss King's support.

CATCH LINES

She swore to avenge her father's death "Whatever the Cost." When the facts seemed to point to the man she loved as the guilty one, what did she do?

Anita King in her latest and best Plaza production.

A story of illegitimate traffic in whiskey and how a Revenue Officer won the hand of the daughter of the chief offender.

A thrilling drama enacted in the dance halls on the edge of the lonely coast.

Anita King appears first as a tomboy-girl, and later as a full-grown woman with a terrible mission.

SUGGESTIONS

Use the title as a feature in the advertising. It can be played on in several ways. A suggested advertisement follows:

"WHATEVER THE COST"
She had sworn to kill her father's slayer.
But
She found him to be the man she loved.
The solution of this story is to be found at
THE.....THEATRE
Where
"Whatever the Cost" is playing starring
ANITA KING

"KISS OR KILL"

(Continued from page 2604)

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—Two one-sheets, two three-sheets, one six-sheet, one twenty-four-sheet.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—Stills of scene and star are furnished in standard sizes on this production, title card included with each set.

ADVERTISING:—Cuts and electros in one and two-column sizes are furnished on this production.

SLIDES, MUSIC CUE SHEET AND WINDOW CARD.

SUGGESTIONS

Remember that both the stars of this production, Herbert Rawlinson and Priscilla Dean, appeared individually in two of the most successful attractions ever released by Universal, namely and respectively, "Come Through" and "The Brazen Beauty." If you are a regular user of Universal service you know the merit of the former production while the latter one was acknowledged one of the most perfect dramatic features ever turned out. Both the stars have profited by these previous pictures. Rawlinson, for instance, has been prominent in productions of one company or another ever since "Come Through." If you plan an elaborate advertising campaign it would be well to bring these facts in so as to emphasize the importance of their joint appearance here.

Again has the Universal come to the front with a title that has punch and that instantly arouses the curiosity of the passerby or the reader of the newspaper. It offers many opportunities for distinctive advertising. One very simple one would be to have a picture of a couple (preferably the stars) kissing underneath the first word of the title while under the third a scene of Rawlinson holding up one of the other two characters in the production.

Cuts Available at General Exchanges

"TOGETHER"—BLUEBIRD

A Pleasing Heart Interest Drama, with Star in a Dual Role

HEART interest, good plot action and suspense, due to the inability to foretell how the story is going to turn out, constitute the entertaining factors in this attraction. You can also add to the above fine acting by the star as well as the supporting cast, intelligent directing and good photography, including some splendid outdoor scenes.

The plot is of the dual role type. Pictures based on a story of this character are not popular with picturegoers. They fail to please chiefly because of the spectator's knowledge that both roles are assumed by the same person. The fact that no two persons could look exactly alike in real life destroys the illusion, bringing vividly to the attention of the mind the fictitiousness of the whole affair. It doesn't happen so in this picture, however, for the reason that the two characters are distinctly different, not only in appearance, but also in actions.

The basic idea of the story is the kind that not only holds the interest, but also attracts the sympathy. It is about the reuniting of a brother and a sister, who have been separated since childhood. It is a subject that holds one even when reading an account of such an occurrence in newspapers.

Miss Mersereau portrays both roles most convincingly.—Released Oct. 14.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Mrs. Richard Standhope, the Mother, Violet Mersereau
Laura Standhope, her Daughter. Violet Mersereau
Larry, the Kid, Laura's Brother, Violet Mersereau
Andrew Brean.....Bernard Randall
Jim Watson.....Chester Barnett
The Snail.....Lindsay J. Hall
Story by Lewis Wolheim.
Scenario by C. A. C. Lund.
Direction by Mr. Lund.

THE STORY

Laura Standhope has been reared believing that she is the only child of a wealthy family. She is called from boarding school by a message from Andrew Brean, one of the executors of her estate. Brean is in possession of the true facts of the ca e. He is well aware that Laura has a brother, Larry, bearing a startling resemblance to her. In the will there is a clause reading that both Laura and Larry must be at a certain place on a certain day or else the entire Standhope fortune reverts to the grasping executor. Being a villain, Brean naturally does not wish the two to come together.

Larry, known as the Kid, is the protege of the Snail, a well-known crook. They are introduced just after leaving Sing Sing. The Snail and Larry both desire to go straight, but believe Laura stands in the way. A a consequence, they steal the will from her home, but later discovering its conditions return it to her. The Snail, realizing that Brean is crooked suggests to him that Larry, who he says closely resembles Laura's brother, be introduced to her as such. Thus will the real brother and Laura be cheated out of their inheritance.

Brean falls into the trap, and the principals meet in a low barroom. There is a general free-for-all fight between the adherents of the right and the adherents of the wrong. When it is all over Laura and Larry have changed clothes. Eventually they arrive at the appointed place and on the appointed time to hear the reading of the will. Brean realizes that his cause is lost, and ungracefully drops out of the affairs of the other people. Laura and Larry are happy in their reunion. The Snail is retained in the family, not as crook, but as butler, while Laura is happy with Jim—we almost forget Jim, but he was the faithful to her throughout all the heroine's hardship .

AD TALK

Violet Mersereau, the charming Bluebird star who has been absent from the screen for some few months returns next ———— in her latst feature, "Together," which will be shown at the ———— theatre for a period of ———— days. Miss Mersereau has earned many favorites during her career on the screen, and we doubt not but what they will give her a royal welcome when "Together" is shown. Miss Mersereau has the distinguished privilege of playing three roles in this picture—that of mother, daughter and son—truly a wide variation of characters for a single actress to assume. The first mentioned—the role of the mother—is a minor character, but the other two run throughout the picture. This is, perhaps, the first time that an actress has played a boy character—that is a character really a boy—who doesn't take his cap off and unfold a wealth of curls in the last reel. Her success in this part is striking.

"Together" is an exciting tale of a grasping old executor who seeks to keep the brother and sister apart in order that on a certain day and date he may lay claim to their fortune. It is not until the last minute that the old man is put to route, and the two young people come together and find their fortune intact. There is a pleasing romance running through the five reels of this picture, and the introduction of a kind-hearted crook allows room for good suspense and heart interest. In fact, "Together" is a picture that is ideally balanced from start to finish.

It was written for Miss Mersereau by Lewis Wolheim, and produced under the careful direction of Oscar A. C. Lund, one of the oldest directors in the business from point of experience. Miss Mersereau receives capable support from Chester Barnett, Lindsay J. Hall and Bernard Randall.

CATCH LINES

Violet Mersereau essays a dual role—different from the usual one—for she plays sister and brother.

Violet Mersereau, popular Bluebird star, returns to the screen of the ———— theatre after an absence that has made all our hearts grow fonder toward her.

Miss Mersereau plays mother, daughter and son. There is one scene in which she appears on the screen in each character—one of the most remarkable achievements yet recorded by the motion picture camera.

"Together" can be applied to this picture in other respects than its title. For one thing it brings the patrons of the ———— theatre and Violet Mersereau together again after quite a long separation. Don't miss this change for a reunion!

Violet Mersereau, the popular Bluebird star, in her latest and best picture for this company.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—There are two one-sheets, one of which is an attractive portrait of Violet Mersereau; two three-sheets and two six-sheets on this production. All paper is printed in the attractive style of past Bluebird subjects. The colors are good, the lettering striking and the selected scenes most suitable for this type of reproduction.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—There are a selection of scene and star stills of the usual standard sizes supplied by Bluebird exchanges on this production. These are suitable for framing and form an attractive lobby display. A title card is supplied with each set.

AVERTISING CUTS:—Scene cuts are provided on this production in one and two-column sizes. These can be used in either the text or advertising columns of your newspapers, and are also suitable to use in any special advertising you may get up for the house. There are also stock star cuts of Violet Mersereau always procurable at the Bluebird exchanges.

SLIDES, music cue sheet, window cards and press sheet are among the accessories procurable of this production as on all Bluebird offerings.

SUGGESTIONS

Violet Mersereau and the three roles she essays at one time or another through the run of this production are the points to feature in all advertising. If Miss Mersereau is a favorite in your section, don't fail to spread yourself on this picture, for it is the first new one she has appeared in for a number of months.

The fact that she plays three roles—mother, daughter and son—offers you an opportunity to get in some striking lines in your newspaper advertising. She appears in one scene in all three characters—quite a feat; while in addition to this her other parts are widely different. Not only does she remain a boy in one character, but it is said that she plays this role skillfully. Looking at this picture from these angles, it appears unusually different from the usual dual role release.

One-Column Cut at All Bluebird Exchanges

"The Forbidden City," with Norma Talmadge

(Select—Released in October. Length, 6500 ft. Directed by George Scarborough)

PERSONALLY, I consider this production a masterpiece. There are three factors in it that make me come to this conclusion. One of them is the most realistic Chinese atmosphere, accomplished by the use of elaborate settings, impressing the mind as being an exact reproduction of originals, and the real Chinese costuming, the kind worn by wealthy Mandarins and other Chinamen. The second is, the interesting story, barring two points on which there might be a difference of opinion. The third one is, the almost unequaled emotional acting of the star, including that of the capable supporting players who impersonate the Chinese Emperor and the Mandarins in the most convincing manner ever attempted on the screen by players of the white race. You can't tell them from real Chinamen.

The story is divided in two sections. In both of them the leading parts are played by Norma Talmadge. In the one she is the mother, while in the other, the daughter. It starts in Pekin, China, introducing the heroine as a young girl, the daughter of a Mandarin, who has fallen from the grace of the Emperor. She meets the assistant secretary to the American representative, and they fall in love.

To win back the Emperor's grace, the father promises him the hand of his beautiful daughter. At the presentation it becomes known that she has a child, the result of the union with the American. The Emperor orders the execution of the father and the lancing of the daughter. The baby is kept to be brought up in scorn. The lover, unable to communicate with his sweetheart, comes to the conclusion that she has been done away with. Just then he is transferred to another post.

In the other section, which takes place eighteen years later, the daughter, aided by a Chinaman, escapes to Manila. There she becomes a nurse, meets her father, who is the Governor General, and marries his ward.

The points that may cause difference of opinion are the following. It is not made clear whether there was any legal marriage performed between the hero and the heroine, in the first part of the picture. The impression left is that the child is the result of pure love.

It should be a known fact to the producers by this time that a number of you, limited though it may be, will not play a picture that exhibits an illegitimate baby. It is not wise, therefore, to leave this point ambiguous, thus embarrassing such among you and doing harm to your business, when a few words in one of the subtitles could make it clear whichever way it should be preferred.

The other point is the death of the heroine, at the end of the first section. The Emperor's guard, hidden behind curtains, thrust lances into her body, killing her. Such a scene will undoubtedly be considered too horrible by a great many picture patrons. There are more than one close up scenes showing the dead body, where one would suffice to produce the dramatic effect. Both of the above referred to points could be easily remedied.

This picture will undoubtedly please all picturegoers, excepting those who, on account of racial prejudices, are prevented from rendering the right verdict, based solely on its merits. The employment of several Chinese children, used as companions to the heroine, is quite amusing.—P. S. Harrison.

"Double Crossed," with Edith Roberts

(Bluebird—Nov. 18. Directed by Tod Browning)

THIS is a delightful little romantic drama with light comedy contained in some of the situations. It is not a big picture, but will furnish pleasing entertainment to care-worn minds.

The story is by Joseph Franklin Poland. It introduces the heroine as a young girl of a romantic disposition, who runs away from home to lead the life of a wandering gypsy. She has quite an adventurous career. She meets a young man, but she tells him he is not gypsy-like and romantic enough to suit her. Thereupon he stages a fake scene with several crooks dressed as gypsies, and himself the leader. But his seconds actually rob a bank during his absence. This furnishes a real thrill toward the end of the picture.

The little dog that is used furnishes a great deal of the entertainment.

This attraction is clean and should prove satisfactory, especially to high-class audiences. Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

Latest Christie Comedies

(One Reel Each—State Rights)

THE latest shipment of Christie comedies to be received in New York and shown for review was composed of five single reelers entitled, "Oh! Bobby, How Could You!" "Look Who's Here," "Does Your Sweetheart Flirt"? "Know Your Neighbor" and "Just Plain Folks." Of these, the third mentioned is the best. It is laid on one of the always decorative California beaches, and with a cast headed by Dorothy Dane and Bobby Vernon, and including Mildred Lee and Harry Edwards, revolves around the practical joke played on a young man by his fiancee and her friends to cure him of his flirtatiousness. It has several really amusing situations, handled in Al Christie's best style.

"Just Plain Folks," with the same starring team, is also a bright reel in which the family of the girl is possessed of the idea that the boy is marrying "it" as well as the girl he loves. Mr. Christie has served this plot a number of times heretofore, but he has treated it well here and it registers humorously from start to finish.

"Know Your Neighbor," with Jay Belasco, Ethel Lynne, Leota Lorraine and Harry Edwards, offers a fine opportunity for the fellow at the one-man orchestra to show her versatility as it concerns the crucifixion of music in a number of styles. "Oh! Bobby, How Could You"! and "Look Who's Here," respectively featuring Bobby Vernon and Dorothy Dane, Billy Mason and Ethel Lynne are also acceptable offerings well up to the standard which Mr. Christie has maintained for so long.—Peter Milne.

"Rosemary Climbs the Heights"

(American—Available at Pathe. Oct. Directed by Lloyd Ingrahm)

THE story in this picture is about the most dramatic ever furnished Mary Miles Minter. It is well constructed and maintains the interest tense throughout, especially in the last reel, where the heroine finds herself in a tight fix.

The acting of the boy, who is supposed to be a Russian, and cannot speak English, is remarkable. He is natural and convincing.

Most of the picture has been taken in a canyon with beautiful wood scenes forming the background.

This attraction is clean and offers satisfactory entertainment to all tastes.—P. S. Harrison.

"Light of Western Stars"—Dustin Farnum

(United Picture Theatres of America. Directed by Charles Swickard)

THE first thing pertaining to this production that will interest you as an exhibitor, is the fact that the plot has been based on one of the best known books of the American literature, by Zane Grey. The second, that Dustin Farnum, a popular star, is in the lead. Besides the above, however, the fact that it is a Western picture, ought to prove of additional interest, as these sort of subjects seem to be in demand right now.

As far as quality is concerned, it is excellent. The picture has been produced well, the beautiful desert scenes and cactus country used in it forming a fascinating back-ground.

The only fault one can find with it is the bad continuity in the first half of the picture. The situations seem to lack inter-relation. They appear rather spotty. There has been an attempt to tell too much of the book in sixty-six hundred feet. It is a fault, however, that can be easily remedied, before it reaches the exhibitor, by slightly altering some of the subtitles.

The fact that the last part of the production contains good dramatic values, with plenty of action of the plot offering thrills and suspense, will help one to forget whatever miner deficiencies there might be.

The picture is clean and should furnish a very satisfactory entertainment to all lovers of the Western drama, besides those who have read the book.—P. S. Harrison.

We Can Pay Attractive Prices for Old Moving Picture Films in Reels or Scrap

PETER LEONARDIS & SONS

132 Nassau St., New York City 55 to 59 River St., Newark, N. J.

In and Out of West Coast Studios

By J. G. Jessen

Vitagraph News Bits

"The Iron Test" serial company, headed by Antonio Moreno and Carol Holloway, is going merrily on its way and has reached the completion of practically all its episodes. "Water and cliff stuff" has been the program for this troupe for the last two weeks.

Joe Rock and Earle Montgomery have started work on a new two-reel Big V Comedy under the direction of Gilbert Pratt.

Grace Darmond, leading woman for Earle Williams, is enjoying a vacation while Mr. Williams is in the East. Miss Darmond is taking advantage of this fact to visit all the mountain and seashore resorts for which California is noted.

Bill Duncan is completing the fourth episode of Vitagraph's "The Man of Might" serial.

Frank Smith, the first son of Studio Manager W. S. Smith at the Vitagraph Hollywood studio to enter Uncle Sam's service, wrote his father last week that he had been in his first battle and had "laughed, sweated, sworn and cried." Private Smith was a member of the 143d Artillery and later was transferred to the Nineteenth.

The Bessie Love company is back after two weeks of work on "The Dawn of Understanding" at Riverside on a chicken ranch. Working with untamed chickens (barnyard variety) is, in the opinion of Director David Smith, anything but an easy task. He is entirely satisfied with results obtained and had completed three-fourths of the picture before returning to the Vitagraph studio. "The Dawn of Understanding" will be Miss Love's first Blue Ribbon feature and is to be released November 4.

Fox Studio Doings

Miss Madelaine Traverse arrived in Los Angeles last week and arrangements were completed for her to begin work in some new William Fox productions at the West Coast studios. She leads the way of the migration of Fox forces from the Eastern studios to the West. The next stars to arrive, it is announced, will be Jane and Katherine Lee. Miss Traverse, it will be recalled, had the leading role in "The Callaiux Case," which was produced by Richard Stanton. Frank Beal has been selected as her director. The story selected for Miss Traverse has not been named.

Tom Mix will be seen in his next production as a two-fisted man instead of a two-gun man. His next picture will be titled "The Coming of the Law," and it will be filmed under the direction of Lynn Reynolds.

Gladys Brockwell returned this week from Balboa where she made several scenes in "Quicksands," her newest screen effort.

Live Triangle Items

Olive Thomas will appear in "Blood Will Tell." The play was written by Verna Aldrich, a Los Angeles girl. It was her first effort, and it was announced this week that she had been engaged to write other stories for Triangle.

Taylor Holmes set aside a few days this week at the Triangle studios to produce a one-reel propaganda film, which will be released by the Government during the present Liberty Loan drive. The title of the picture is "The Great Idea." It was written by Daniel Carson Goodman and shows Young America in the act of making a satisfactory disposition of the Kaiser. The subject is being directed by Lawrence Windom.

Paramount-Artcraft

Jesse L. Lasky has left for New York, where he will remain until about the middle of December, according to his own announcement before leaving. He said he would doubtless be able to announce some new plans for the Lasky-Famous Players studios in Hollywood before he has been in New York many weeks.

Ethel Clayton will finish her latest filmplay this week at the Lasky studios. It is the screen version of "Maggie Pepper," the vehicle made famous by Rose Stahl. The original play was written by the late Charles Klein. The direction is by Chester Withey.

Vivian Martin is working in a new play at the Morosco studios.

The title of Lila Lee's latest picture was announced this week at the Lasky-Famous Players' studios to be "Puppy Love," a story of young love entering into the lives of young people. Charles Murray, well known in Mack Sennett comedies as a slap-stick artist, is playing light comedy in Miss Lee's production. He is an Irish father, and his work in the new role has been praised by all who have seen him in action.

Bryant Washburn, who recently went to Chicago and New York, will return to Los Angeles the latter part of next week. He expects soon to begin a new picture under the direction of Donald Crisp.

About Metro Players

Bert Lytell's new picture, "The Spender," will be completed this week at the Metro studios. He plans to begin work on another production immediately.

Tom Moore and his company of Goldwyn players reached Los Angeles this week and immediately began preparations to produce at the Metro studios. The arrangement, it is understood, is only temporary. Moore made the arrangements to do the work at the Metro plant before leaving New York.

The plans for the proposed new Metro studios, as outlined by Richard A. Rowland, president of the Metro Pictures Corporation, on his recent trip to Los Angeles, are still being held up by the War Industries Board at Washington. If permission is granted the company to construct a new plant, options have been obtained on as many as three sites, it is announced.

Adeline Alvord, who has been working in the Metro scenario department, this week played a character part in May Allison's picture, "Thirty Days." Miss Alvord liked the acting so well that she may forsake writing for the screen.

Mae Murray this week made an aerial voyage over Venice, where she dropped Liberty Loan literature on the beach city.

Seena Owen has been engaged by Universal as Harry Carey's new leading woman. She will make her debut oppo-

Mme. Alla Nazimova, in "'Ception Shoals," Metro Production

site the Western star in the production tentatively called "Riders of Vengeance." She will be remembered for her work in Griffith and Fox productions.

Antrim Short, leader of boy detectives in the Jewel production, "The Yellow Dog," was this week cast for an important part in "Destiny," Dorothy Phillips' latest Universal filmplay.

Ben Wilson has started on the second of his series of one-reel comedies. "It Was Like This" is the working title. Neva Gerber is his leading woman. Wilson not only plays the leading role, but he will also direct the picture. It is a story where a drunken husband is faced by a wife who desires that he explain the contents of his pockets.

Announcement was made at the Universal studios this week that Molly Malone is to be featured in Universal comedies. Willard Louis will be her leading man. "Mixed Nuts" is the tentative title of the initial screen effort. Roy Clements, who has returned to the "Big U" fold, will direct the picture.

Carmel Myers this week finished a picture called "The Beautiful Mongrel." She plans to begin immediate work on a new subject. "The Beautiful Mongrel" was filmed under the direction of Thurston Hall.

Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, attended a thirty-reel picture show at the Universal studios soon after he arrived in Los Angeles on his present trip to the West Coast. He spent six hours in the projection room.

Francis McDonald Is Starred by Triangle in "Tony America," a Current Release

Here and There

Farris Hartman, well known musical comedy star, producer and comedy director, was engeged this week by the L-Ko Comedy Company to direct Chai Hong, the Universal Chinese comedian.

Bobbie Dunn, formerly with Keystone and Sennett, has been engaged by the L-Ko Comedy Company. He will appear in support of Babe Hardy in "Blame It on the Ford." Frank Griffin is the director.

Announcement was made at the L-Ko studios this week that the company now has nine directors on its producing staff. They are Charles Parrott, formerly with Keystone and Fox; Frank Griffin, recently with Sennett and Keystone; Noel Smith, once with Sunshine; Craig Hutcheson, Universal and Keystone; Jim Davis, L-Ko and Universal; Vin Moore, L-Ko; Joe Le Brandt and Anthony Goldewey, formerly with Sennett and Keystone; Ferris Hartman, once with Keystone.

Director Bertram Bracken this week finished cutting the Henry B. Walthall feature, "And a Still Small Voice," produced at the National Film Corporation's studios.

Charles H. Christie has returned to Los Angeles from a visit to San Francisco. He heard few complaints about poor business, he said, and he added that there is plenty of patriotism in the northern city. Christie comedies are being shown in the Oakland Orpheum theatre, and he intimated that wherever Christie comedies are being exhibited business is better than ever.

Al Christie, of the Christie studios, this week became director of the bugle corps at the Hollywood Officers' Training School. He plans to increase the bugle corps from four persons to eighteen, and the number of drummers from six to twelve. In the meantime Director Christie has been asking these questions: "Are brunettes false?" "Should one beware of blondes?" He proposes to answer the questions by working the ideas into comedies for Earl Rodney, who is soon to make his Christie debut.

Announcement was made at the Christie studios this week that on the remainder of the Bobby Vernon pictures, which are yet to be released by the Christie company, will be attached a trailer showing Vernon attaching his own service star to the service flag of the Christie company. Vernon is now in the United States submarine service.

Clara Kimball Young's new picture, "The Road Through the Dark," is about one-third completed, according to announcement this week by Harry Garson, her manager. The subject is being filmed at the Sunset studios under the supervision of Marshall Neilan, with Edmund Mortimer as director. When this picture is completed Miss Young will begin the filming of "Cheating Cheaters," Mr. Garson said. It is the play in which Marjorie Rambeau scored such a success on the legitimate stage. Miss Young will remain on the Pacific coast through the winter, Manager Garson said.

Hollywood Hookum

OCT. 19, 1918 NEWS MORE NEWS

Whew! HOT!

Carl Laemmle is in town.

Cecil B. De Mille is in Indianapolis.

G. E. Jenks' regular name is George Elwood Jenks.

Bill Russell is expected down from Santa Barbara.

Bert Lennon had business in San Francisco this week.

Fair notice: Bill Hart has branded Broadway. Yes, and with a dress suit too.

Mary Miles Minter is Liberty Loaning on Tank "Liberty," and getting the money everywhere.

John Jack Gilbert, the juvenile, is one of the few to be with us, and he sure is a popular guy.

Triangle is the subject of many rumors relative to ins and outs of Aitkens, Lynch, and Davis.

Billie Rhodes was so happy when her first picture went over at Tally's, that she just "cried with happiness."

Al. Christie has gathered together twenty-five Liberty Blondes, who are aiding him in selling Liberty Bonds.

Bill Parsons has been seen about town, even though he was working at the plant this week with a number of Farmerettes.

Bert Lytell has won for himself "the marathon Bond talker." He talked for more than two hours without notes or hesitation.

Sessue Hayakawa received another letter this week. Yes, the lady said, "I just dote on the way you fight." Cave men please write.

Elmer Clifton found it necessary to take beach scenes for Dorothy Gish's "The Hope Chest," on one of the warm September days of the past week.

Al Ray has it easy these days, many of his scenes requiring him to be in bed, and he just goes to the studio at night, and is ready in the morning.

Edward Sloman is reported to be a serious man. All of which is accounted for by the fact he has resided in Santa Barbara for yea these past two years.

Tom Mix is going to show us what happened on the arrival of the Law in his next film play. It is intimated Tom may use a six-shooter in this picture.

Jack Cunningham has been heard from again. Yes, in loud stentorian tones. He advises HOOKUM he has just written "Two Gun Betty" for Bessie Barriscale.

Colonel Mary Pickford, it is rumored about, is to become a four-minute speaker, and as such will be the only woman representative of President Wilson in this branch.

Just how Kitty Gordon will be able to show her back in her first picture—a nurse's story—is a mystery, but here's a two-to-one bet the famous back will be there, maybe all draped.

Bess Meredyth was the first member of our film colony to be stricken with Spanish Influenza, and the next morning the Doctor said it was just the grippe that was so prevalent about Los Angeles.

Roy Stewart, pending his entrance at Astra studio where he is to be starred in westerns, is making a record as a Bond salesman. He is charged with even taking the money out of the people's pockets.

Fred Goodwins — pardon us, Sergeant Goodwins, tells this one on Scotty Cheethorpe who was formerly with Chapin. Someone asked Scotty what was the hour for dress parade on the boat, and he came back with "eight-thirty made up."

Gladys Brockwell used a spotlight on her automobile, and a small town constable caught her. When she went to say "good morning, judge," all the officials were out taking part in a Liberty Loan parade, and so she left her card and five dollars.

Dick Willis has littered up our desk with another poem titled "Matilda's Dramatic Career," in six verses. Inasmuch as the first and last words—Matilda's pictures—make good sense, the poem must be good.

Features---Current and Coming

Bluebird Photoplays

Oct. 7. The Lure of Luxury (Ruth Clifford) 5
Oct. 14. Together (Violet Merserau)..... 5
Oct. 21. Hugon, the Mighty (Monroe Salisbury) 5
Oct. 28. All Night (Carmel Myers)..... 5

Famous Players-Lasky Corp.

Oct. 6. Border Wireless (William S. Hart).
Oct. 6. Man from Funeral Range (Wallace Reid) .....
Oct. 6. Battling Jane (Dorothy Gish).....
Oct. 13. When Do We Eat? (Enid Bennett).
Oct. 13. Private Peat (Special).....
Oct. 13. Such a Little Pirate (Lila Lee).....
Oct. 20. My Cousin (Enrico Caruso).....
Oct. 20. The Make-Believe Wife (Billie Burke) .....
Oct. 20. Gypsy Trail (Bryant Washburn)....
Oct. 27. Women's Weapons (Ethel Clayton).
Oct. 27. A Daughter of the Old South (P. Frederick) .....
Oct. 27. Mirandy Smiles (Vivian Martin)....

SUCCESS SERIES (Reissues)

Oct. 6. Man from Mexico (John Barrymore)
Oct. 13. Seventeen (Jack Pickford).....
Oct. 20. Snobs (Moore) .....
Oct. 27. The Cheat (Special).....

First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc.

Ambasador Gerard's "My Four Years in Germany."
"Tarzan of the Apes" (Elmo Lincoln and Enid Markey).
"Italy's Flaming Front" (Italian Official War Pictures)
"Pershing's Crusaders."

Fox Film Corporation

TIMELY PICTURES

Sept. 1. The Prussian Cur.....
Sept. 1. Queen of the Sea (Annette Keller-
Sept. 8. Why America Will Win.....
Oct. 15. Why I would Not Marry.....
Oct. 15. 18 to 45.....

FOX STANDARD PICTURES

Sept. 1. Riders of the Purple Sage (William Farnum) .....
Sept. 15. The Caillaux Case.....
Sept. 29. When a Woman Sins (Theda Bara)
Oct. 13. The Woman Who Gave (Evelyn Nesbit) .....
Oct. 27. The Rainbow Trail (William Farnum) .....
Nov.10. The She Devil (Theda Bara).....
Nov. 24. I Want to Forget (Evelyn Nesbit).

PRODUCTIONS EXTRAORDINARY

Theda Bara in "Cleopatra."
William Farnum in "Les Miserables."
Annette Kellerman in "A Daughter of the Gods."

VICTORY PICTURES

Sept. 8. Mr. Logan, U. S. A. (Tom Mix)..
Sept. 22. Kultur (Gladys Brockwell).....
Oct. 6. On the Jump (Geo. Walsh).....
Oct. 22. Treat 'Em Rough (Tom Mix).....
Nov. 3. The Strange Woman (Gladys Brockwell) .....
Nov. 17. I'll Say So (George Walsh).....
Dec. 1. Fame and Fortune (Tom Mix).....
Dec. 15. The Sneak (Gladys Brockwell)....

EXCEL PICTURES

Sept. 1. Bonnie Annie Laurie (Peggy Hyland) .....
Sept. 15. Queen of Hearts (Virginia Pearson)
Sept. 29. Swat the Spy (Jane and Katherine Lee) .....
Oct. 13. Peggy Hyland in "Marriages Are Made" .....
Oct. 27. Tell It to the Marines (Jane and Katherine Lee) .....
Nov. 10. Virginia Pearson in "Buchanan's Wife".....
Nov. 24. Caught in the Act(Peggy Hyland).

General Film Company

AUTHORS' PHOTOPLAYS

Her Moment (Anna Luther).....7 D

HANOVER FILM COMPANY

Camille (Helen Hesperia).....6 D
The Marvelous Maciste.....6 D
Monster of Fate .....

DUPLEX FILMS, INC.

Shame (Zena Keefe).....7 D

COSMOFOTOFILM

Hypocrites (Elizabeth Risdon) .....6 D

EXPORT AND IMPORT FILM CO. (Inc.)

Why—The Bolsheviki.....5 D

OAKDALE PRODUCTIONS

The Locked Heart (Gloria Joy).....5 D
No Children Wanted (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Miss Mischief-Maker (Gloria Joy).....5 D
The Midnight Burglar (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Little Miss Grown-Up (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Wanted, a Brother (Gloria Joy).....5 D

Fort Pitt Theatre Co.

The Italian Battlefront..... 8

Goldwyn Pictures Corp.

GOLDWYN STAR SERIES

Sept. 2. Turn of the Wheel (Farrar).....5 D
Sept. 9. Peck's Bad Girl (Normand).....5 C
Sept. 16. Just for To-Night (Moore).....5 D
Sept. 23. The Kingdom of Youth (Madge Kennedy) .....5 C D
Sept. 30. Laughing Bill Hyde.....6 D
Oct. 7. Hidden Fires (Mae Marsh).....5 D
Oct. 21. Thirty a Week (Tom Moore)....5 C. D
Oct. 28. A Perfect 36 (Mabel Normand)....5 C
Nov. 4. A Perfect Lady (Madge Kennedy).5 C D
Nov. 11. The Hell Cat (Geraldine Farrar)...

GOLDWYN SPECIALS

For the Freedom of the East (Betzwood)...7 D
Rex Beach's Heart of the Sunset.....7 D
Blue Blood .....6 D
Honor's Cross .....7 D
Social Ambition 7
The Manx-Man 7
For the Freedom of the World..... 7

W. W. Hodkinson Corporation

(Paralta Plays)

Sept. 2. The White Lie (Bessie Barriscale).. —

(Plaza Plays)

Sept. 9. Angel Child (Kathleen Clifford)... —
Oct. 7. Whatever the Cost (King..... —
Oct. 21. The Law that Divides (Clifford).... —
Nov. 18. Mistaken Identity (Anita King).... —

(J. D. Hampton)

Sept. 16. Prisoners of the Pines (Kerrigan) —
Oct. 28. Three X Gordon (Kerrigan)..... —
Dec. 9. The Drifters (J. Warren Kerrigan). —

(Lillian Walker)

Sept. 23. Embarrassment of Riches (Walker) —

(Bessie Barriscale)

Oct. 14. The Heart of Rachael (Barriscale).. —
Nov. 25. Two-Gun Betty (Bessie Barriscale). —

(Louise Claum)

Oct. 14. Goddess of Lost Lake (Glaum)..... —

(Douglass Natural Color)

Cupid Angling (Ruth Roland)..... —

FRANK POWELL-SUNSET

Nov. 11. The Forfeit (Howe Peters-Jane Miller) ..... —

W. CHRISTY CABANNE

Nov. 4. The American Spirit (E. K. Lincoln) ..... —

Jewel Productions, Inc.

The Price of a Good Time.
The Grand Passion.
The Doctor and the Woman.
The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin.
A Soul for Sale.
For Husbands Only.

Perfection Pictures

(GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM)

Sept. — Conquered Hearts..... —
Sept. — Behind the Lines in Italy..... —
Aug. 26. Triple Trouble" (Chaplin)..... —

Metro Pictures Corporation

Sept. 2. The Silent Woman (Edith Storey), Metro 5
Sept. 9. Our Mrs. McChesney (Ethel Barrymore), Metro 5
Sept. 16. Kildare of Storm (Emily Stevens), Metro 5
Sept. 23. The Return of Mary (May Allison), Metro 5
Sept. 30. Unexpected Places (Bert Lytell), Metro 5
Oct 7. Select Strings (Olive Tell)..... 5

(SCREEN CLASSICS, INC., SPECIALS)

My Own United States (Arnold Daly), Frohman 8
The Million Dollar Dollies (Dolly Sisters), Emerald 5
Toys of Fate (Nazimova), Screen Classics, Inc. 7
To Hell With the Kaiser (Lawrence Grant, Olive Tell), Screen Classics, Inc.....

Mutual Film Corporation

Sept. 15. Love's Law (Gail Kane)..... 5
Sept. 29. Treason (Edna Goodrich)..... 5
Oct. 27. The Temple of Dusk (Sessue Hayakawa) 5

Pathe Exchange, Inc

Aug. 11. The Ghost of the Rancho (Bryant Washburn) 5
Aug. 18. Winning Grandma (Baby Marie Osborne), Diando 5
Aug. 25. The Girl from Bohemia (Irene Castle), Astra .....C D 5
Sept. 8. Her Man (Elaine Hammerstein), Advanced M. P. Corp..... 5
Sept. 23. A Japanese Nightingale (Fannie Ward-Astra) 5
Oct. 6. The Border Raiders (Larkin-Diando) 5
Oct. 20. The Bells (Frank Keenan), Anderson-Brunton Corporation .....5 D
Nov. 3. Milady o' the Beanstalk (Baby Marie Osborne-Diando) .....5 C D

Select Pictures

Sept. 9. The Burden of Proof (Marion Davies) 5
Sept. 16. The Better Half (Alice Brady).... 5
Sept. 23. The Forbidden City (Norma Talmadge) .....
Oct. 6. Her Great Chance (Alice Brady)... 5
Oct. 13. Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots (Constance Talmadge) 5
Oct. 20. The Road Through the Dark (Clara Kimball Young) .....

SPECIAL RELEASES

Over There (Chas. Richman, Anna Q. Nilsson) 6
The Lone Wolf (Bert Lytell, Hazel Dawn).. 5
The Barrier (Rex Beach Production)..... 7
The Wild Girl (Eva Tanguay)..... 5
The Public Be Damned (Charles Richman, Mary Fuller) 6

William L. Sherry Service

Aug. 11. Out of the Night..... 6
Aug. 18. Inn of the Blue Moon..... 6
Marriage 5

Triangle Distributing Corporation

(Subject to change without notice)

Oct. 6. Tony America (Francis McDonald).. 5
Oct. 13. The Pretender (Wm. Desmond).... 5
Oct. 20. Reckoning Day (Bella Bennett).... 5
Oct. 27. Love's Pay Day (Rosemary Theby). 5
Nov. 3. Deuce Duncan (William Desmond). 5
Nov. 10. The Silent Rider (Roy Stewart)... 5
Nov. 17. The Ragamuffin (Pauline Stark)... 5
Nov. 25. Crown Jewels (Claire Anderson).... 5

Universal Productions

Sept. 23. The Talk of the Town (Dorothy Phillips) 6
Oct. 7. Three Mounted Men (Harry Carey). 6
Oct. 21. Kiss or Kill (Dean and Rawlinson). 5

Vitagraph V-L-S-E

Sept. 2. The Green God (Harry Morey-Betty Blythe) 5
Sept. 9. A Nymph of the Foothills (Gladys Leslie) 5
Sept. 16. By the World Forgot (Hedda Nova-J. Frank Glendon)..... 5
Sept. 23. The Girl of Today (Corinne Griffith) 5
Sept. 30. A Diplomatic Mission (Earle Williams) 5
Oct. 7. The Mating (Gladys Leslie)..... 5
Oct. 14. The King of Diamonds (Harry Morey) 5
Oct. 21. Everybody's Girl (Alice Joyce)..... 5
Oct. 28. Miss Ambition (Corinne Griffith).... 5

World Pictures

Sept. 2. The Power and the Glory (June Elvidge) 5
Sept. 9. The Road to France (Blackwell-Greeley) 5
Sept. 16. 'Tother Dear Charmer (Louise Huff) 5
Sept. 23. To Him That Hath (Montagu Love) 5
Sept. 30. A Soul Without Windows (Ethel Clayton) 5
Oct. 7. The Appearance of Evil (June Elvide and Frank Mayo) 5
Oct. 14. The Road to France (Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley)..... 7
Oct. 21. Just Sylvia (Barbara Castleton and Johnny Hines) 5
Oct. 28. The Grouch (Montagu Love) 5
Nov. 4. The Sea Wolf (Louise Huff with John Bowers) 5
Nov. 11. The Man of Bronze (Lewis S. Stone) 5
Nov. 18. Hitting the Trail (Carlye Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley) 5
Nov. 25. The Zero Hour (June Elvidge and Frank Mayo) 5

Releases in the Independent Field

For Manufacturers' Addresses, Names and Addresses of Buyers handling films in any territory or any other additional information write—State Rights Department, Motion Picture News

Arrow Film Corporation

The Deemster.
Eyes of the World.
Ramona.
Persuasive Peggy.
Today.
The Mad Lover.
The Woman's Law.
Right Off the Bat.
The Struggle Everlasting.
The Accidental Honeymoon.
Million Dollar Mystery (Revised Edition).
The Finger of Justice.

Atlantic Distributing Corporation

Nine-tenths of the Law (Mitchell Lewis)..6 reels
The Devil's Playground (Vera Michelen).7 reels

Bear State Film Company

The Vigilantes.

Big Productions Film Corp.

VICTORIA FEATURE FILMS
The Sunset Princess (Marjorie Daws).

Christie Film Company

One-Reel Comedy Issued Weekly

Sept. 2. Some Cave Man.
Sept. 9. Are Second Marriages Happy.
Sept. 16. Married By Proxy.
Sept. 23. Look Who's Here.
Sept. 30. Oh Bobby! How Could You?
Oct. 7. Why Get a Divorce?
Oct. 14. Three Hours Late.
Oct. 21. Why Husbands Flirt.
Oct. 28. Two's Company.

Commonwealth Pictures Corp.

Charlotte, in The Frozen Warning.
Spanuth's Original Vod-a-Vil Movies (Released every two weeks)

Coronet Film Corporation

LIVING STUDIES IN NATURAL HISTORY
Animal World, No. 1 Issue.
Animal World, No. 2 Issue.
Birdland Studies.
Horticultural Phenomena.

Cosmofotofilm Company

Incomparable Mistress Bellairs.....4 reels
Liberty Hall .....4 reels
The Black Spot.....4 reels
Victoria Cross .....4 reels
His Vindication .....5 reels
I Believe .....7 reels
The Hypocrites .....6 reels

Crest Pictures

Lust of the Ages.....6 reels
The Grain of Dust.....6 reels

Doll Van Film Corp. (Chicago)

(In Illinois, Indiana and Southern Wisconsin)
The Mad Lover.
Public Defender.
Carmen o the Klondike.
The Grain o Dust.
Hearts of the World.
The Crucible of Life.
Nine-tenths of the Law.
The Belgian.
The Zeppelin's Last Raid.
Those Who Pay.
Just a Woman.

Doo Lee Film Co., Inc., N. Y. State

The Woman Who Dared.....7 acts
The Libertine.....6 acts
Babbling Tongues.....7 acts
Married in Name Only.....6 acts
Her Bargain.....6 acts
A Man's Law.....5 acts
Human Clay.....5 acts
One Law for Both.....8 acts
Sins of Ambition.....7 acts
A Slacker's Heart.....7 acts
Cleopatra .....5 acts
The Lonesome Trail.....5 acts
Mothers of Liberty.....6 acts

JESTER SUPER COMEDIES

The Recruit.....2 acts
His Golden Romance.....2 acts
All Fur Her.....2 acts
The Wrong Flat.....2 acts
It's a Great Life.....2 acts
Released one a month.
June — Fabulous Fortune Fumblers.....2 acts
July — Fred's Fictitious Foundling.....2 acts
Aug. — Freda's Fighting Father.....2 acts
Sept. — Fatty's Fast Fliver.....2 acts
Oct. — Freda's Frivilous Finance.....2 acts

GAUMONT
Gaumont "News" released every Tuesday.
Gaumount "Graphic" released every Friday.

M. S. Epstin

Raymond L. Ditmars' "The Depths of the Sea," in a series of four parts.

Export and Import Film Co.

Birth of Democracy.
Why the Bolsheviki?

Foursquare Pictures

The Sin Woman (Irene Fenwick, Clifford Bruce, Reine Davies).
The Bar Sinister (Edgar Lewis's production).
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey).
Madame Sherry (Gertrude McCoy).
The Silent Witness (Gertrude McCoy).
The Great White Trail (Doris Kenyon).
One Hour (Zena Keefe and Alan Hale).
A Trip Through China.
The Fringe of Society (Milton Sills, Ruth Roland).
The Cast-Off (Bessie Barriscale).
The Submarine Eye.
Whither Thou Goest.
Should She Obey?
Men.

Fort Pitt Corporation

The Italian Battlefront.

Frohman Amusement Corp.

The Witching Hour (C. Aubrey Smith Jack Sherrill, Helen Arnold, Marie Shotwell and Robert Conness).....6 reels
Conquest of Canaan.....5 reels
God's Man .....9 reels
My Own United States (through Metro).

Gaumont Co.

The Hand of Vengeance.....

General Enterprises, Inc.

Mother (Elizabeth Risdon, McClure).....6 parts
The Warrior (Maciste) (McClure).....7 parts
The Liar (Jane Gail, Stanley Walpole)..6 parts

Jesse J. Goldburg

SCRANTON PHOTOPLAY VORP.
May 6. Cheerful Liars.
May 13. Fate and Fortune.
May 20. Parson Pepp.
May 27. The Ring and the Ringer.
RIALTO FILM CORPORATION
Apr. 15. My Husband's Friend.

D. W. Griffith

Hearts of the World.

Hiller & Wilk, Inc.

(Pictures handled in the Open Market)
"Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman."
"The Battle of Gettysburg."
"The Wrath of the Gods."
Sept. — "Sporting Life."

HART, FAIRBANKS, KEENAN AND TALMADGE RE-ISSUES
William S. Hart
The Patriot.
Captive God.
The Dawnmaker.
The Return of Draw Egan.
The Devil's Double.
Truthful Tulliver.
The Gunfighter.
The Square Deal Man.
The Desert Man.
Wolfe Lowry.

Douglas Fairbanks
The Good Bad Man.
Reggie Mixes In.
Flirting with Fate.
The Half Breed.
Manhattan Madness.
American Aristocracy.
The Matrimaniac.
The Americano.

Frank Keenan
The Thoroughbred.
Jim Grimsby's Boy.
The Sins Ye Do.
Bride of Hate.
The Drab.

Norma Talmadge
Children in the House.
Going Straight.
The Devil's Needle.
The Social Secretary.
Fifty Fifty.

Ivan Feature Productions

One Law for Both (Rita Jolivet, Vincent Serrano, Leah Baird, Pedro De Cordoba, James Morrison).....7 reels
Babbling Tongues (Grace Valentine, James Morrison, Arthur Donaldson).....7 reels
Married in Name Only (Gretchen Hartman, MBilton Sills, Marie Shotwell).....6 reels
Sins of Ambition (Barbara Castleton, Wilfred Lucas, Leah Baird, James Morrison) .....7 reels
Human Clay (Mollie King).....5 reels
Life or Honor (Leah Baird, James Morrison, Violet Palmer, Edward Mackey) .....6500 ft.

Jester Comedies

May — All "Fur" Her (Twede Dan)..2 parts
June — The Wrong Flat (Twede Dan)..2 parts
July — It's a Great Life (Twede Dan)..2 parts
Aug. — Oh What a Day (Twede Dan)..2 parts
Oct. — Ain't It So? (Twede Dan).....2 parts

Renowned Pictures Corporation

The Public Defender.....6 reels
Naked Hands .....5 reels
Mother Love and the Law.....7 reels
In Treason's Grasp.....5 reels
Should She Obey?.....7 reels

Frank J. Seng

Parentage .....7 reels

U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corp.

Just a Woman (Charlotte Walker).
The Crucible of Life (Grace D'Armond).
Men (Charlotte Walker, Anna Lehr, Robert Cain, etc).
Those Who Pay (Bessie Barriscale).
The Belgian (Walker Whiteside, Valentine Grant).
The Zeppelin's Last Raid.

Ernest Shipman

W. H. CLIFFORD PHOTOPLAY COMPANY, INC.—Featuring Shorty Hamilton.
June — The Snail .....5 reels
July — The Ranger.....5 reels
Aug. — Pen Vultures .....5 reels
Sept. — The Prisoner of War.....5 reels
FRANCIS FORD PRODUCING COMPANY—
May — Berlin Via America..... 6
July — The Isle of Intrigue..... 6
AL. AND FRANK JENNINGS PRODUCTIONS.
First release—Lady of the Dugout.....6 reels
The Coast Guard Patrol—Seven Parts.
A Nugget in the Rough—Five Parts.
Trooper 44—Five Parts.
The Tiger of the Sea (Seven Parts—Drama—By Nell Shipman).
Bill Tinger's Poems—A series of one-reel comedy dramas issued semi-monthly.

(Continued on page 2613)

Short Subjects Current and Coming

Josh Binney Comedies

(FEATURING FUNNY FATTY FILBERT)

May — Fabulous Fortune Fumblers.....2 reels
June — Fred's Fictitious Foundling.....2 reels
July — Freda's Fighting Father.....2 reels
Aug. — Fatty's Fast Flivver.....2 reels
Sept. — Fatty's Frivolous Fiancee.....2 reels

Burlingham Travel Pictures

Released by Sherry Service

Facing Death on the Blumlisalp.
Unknown Switzerland (The Lotschenthal).
The Pilatus Railway.
Allied War Heroes Arrive in Switzerland.

Educational Film Corp. of Amer.

Aug. 5. The Southern Tourist (Bruce Scenic) ..... 1 reel
Aug. 5. His Dark Past (International-Hooligan) .....Half reel
Aug. 12. Mexico's Floating Gardens (Wright) ..... 1 reel
Aug. 12. Tramp, Tramp, Tramp! (International-Happy Hooligan) .....Half reel
Aug. 19. Quest of the Big 'Un (Chas. Maigne) ..... 1 reel
Aug. 19. Judge Rummy's Off Day (International-Silk Hat Harry).....Half reel
Aug. 26. A Mexican Venice (Wright).. 1 reel
Aug. 26. International Cartoon Comedy. Half reel
Sept. 2. Cigars for Kings and Millionaires (Harold Horton)..... 1 reel
Sept. 2. International Carton Comedy. Half reel

Famous Players-Lasky Corp.

Oct. 13. Tell That to the Marines (Flagg)....2 C

PARAMOUNT BRAY PICTOGRAPHS

Oct. 6. A German Trick That Failed.
Oct. 13. Why Movies Move.
Oct. 20. Building the Eagle Boat.
Oct. 27. Development of Big Gun Construction.

PARAMOUNT BURTON HOLMES TRAVELOGUES

Oct. 6. Sight of Suva.
Oct. 13. Methodized Cannibals.
Oct. 20. Fiji Does Its Bit.
Oct. 27. Fire Walkers of Bega.

PARAMOUNT ARBUCKLE COMEDIES

Oct. 27. The Sheriff.

PARAMOUNT MACK SENNETT COMEDIES

Oct. 6. Beware of Boarders.
Oct. 20. Whose Little Wife Are You?

PARAMOUNT FEATURE—"THE SON OF DEMOCRACY"

Apr. 1. Down the River.
Apr. 8. The Slave Auction.
Apr. 15. Under the Stars.

Ford Educational Weekly

GREIVER DISTRIBUTING CORP. AND STATE RIGHTS

One Reel Each

111. Ausable Chasm.
112. Lake Champlain.
113. Kilauer Volcano.
114. Training Mechanics for Our National Army.
115. Work or Fight.
116. Niagara Falls.
117. Mile in the Sky.
118. America Swim!
119. The Milky Way.
120. The Red Cross Cares for the Wounded.
121. On Foot with Our Army and Navy.

Fox Sunshine Comedies

July 28. A Tight Squeeze.....2 C
Aug. 25. The Diver's Last Kiss.....
Sept. 22. Roaring Lions on the Midnight Express. .....

Fox Film Corporation

MUTT AND JEFF ANIMATED CARTOONS

Sept. 1. The Accident Attorney.....
Sept. 8. At the Front.....
Sept. 15. To the Rescue.....
Sept. 22. The Kaiser's New Dentist.....
Sept. 29. Bulling the Bolshevik.....
Oct. 6. Our Four Days in Germany.....
Oct. 13. The Side Show.....

General Film Company

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES

(O HENRY STORIES)

The Marquis and Miss Sally (Patricia Palmer, William Lester).....2 D
Springtime a la Carte (Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle) .....2 D
A Bird of Bagdad (Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle) .....2 D
Transients in Arcadia (Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle) .....2 D
Tobin's Palm (Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle).2 C
A Ramble in Aphasia (Edward Earle, Agnes Ayres) .....2 C

(WOLFVILLE TALES)

Faro Nell, Lookout (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
Dismissal of Silver Phil (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
The Coming of Faro Nell (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
Winning of the Mocking Bird (Carol Halloway, Robert Burns) .....2 D
The Jest of Talky Jones (Carol Holloway, William Lester) .....2 D
The Widow Dangerous (Hattie Buskirk, Patricia Palmer, Robert Burns).....2 D
The Wooing of Riley (Kate Price, Otto Lederer) .....2 D
The Heir of the Broken O (R. N. Bradbury, Patricia Palmer) .....2 D
The Rose of Wolfville (Patricia Palmer, C. E. NHatton) .....2 D

BLUE RIDGE DRAMAS

(Ned Finley)

The Return of O'Garry.....2 D
Mountain Law.....2 D
The Raiders of Sunset Gap.....2 D
O'Garry Rides Alone.....2 D
The Man from Nowhere.....2 D

ESSANAY

GEORGE ADE FABLES

ESSANAY COMEDIES (1 reel)

Our Little Nell.....1 C
Check Your Hat, Sir.....1 C
Wild Algy of Piccadilly.....1 C
All Stuck Up.....1 C
The Lie That Failed.....1 C
The Jazbo Sheriff.....1 C

SNAKEVILLE COMEDIES

(One reel each)

Sophie's Legacy.
Sophie Gets Stung.
Slippery Slim, Diplomat.
Slippery Slim and the Claim Agent.
Slippery Slim's Stratagem.
A Hot Time in Snakeville.
A Snakeville Epidemic.
Snakeville's New Sheriff.
Sophie's Birthday Party.

ESSANAY SCENICS

How Canada and the Farmer Co-operate in Grain Raising .....1 Sc.
Agricultural Opportunities in Western Canada .....1 Sc.
Water Powers of Eastern Canada.....1 Sc.
A Romance of Rails and Power.....1 Sc.
Grand Canyon of Arizona and Canyon de Chelley .....1 Sc.

CHAPLIN COMEDIES

By the Sea.....1 C
In the Park.....1 C
Work .....2 C
A Woman .....2 C
The Tramp .....2 C
His New Job.....2 C
A Night Out. .....2 C

JAXON FILM CORP.

"A DAUGHTER OF UNCLE SAM" SERIAL (Jane Vance, Wm. Sorelle) 12 Episodes .....1 D

JAXON COMEDIES

What Occurred on the Beach.....1 C
An All-Fools' Day Affair.....1 C
Beating Him to It.....1 C
Forced Into Matrimony.....1 C

JUDGE BROWN STORIES

Love of Bob .....2 C-D
Dog vs. Dog.....2 C-D
A Boy Built City.....2 C-D
The Three Fives.....2 C-D
Kid Politics .....2 C-D
A Boy Built City.....2 C-D
The Case of Bennie.....2 C-D

RANCHO SERIES

In the Shadow of the Rockies.....2 D
Where the Sun Sets Red.....2 D

CLOVER COMEDIES

From Caterpillar to Butterfly.....1 C
A Widow's Camouflage.....1 C
Love's Lucky Day.....1 C

EBONY COMEDIES

Busted Romance.....1 C
Spooks .....1 C
The Bully .....1 C
The Janitor .....
Mercy, the Mummy Mumbled.....1 C
A Reckless Rover.....1 C
Are Working Girls Safe?.....1 C
The Comeback of Barnacle Bill.....1 C
Some Baby .....1 C
Good Luck in Old Clothes.....1 C
When You Hit, Hit Hard.....1 C
A Black-and-Tan Mix-up.....1 C
Fixing the Fakir.....1 C
When You're Scared, Run.....1 C

INTERSTATE FILM COMPANY

The Last Raid of Zeppelin L-21 (War Event) .....2000 ft.

PROGRESSIVE FILM

On a Fox Farm (Educational) .....1 reel

CRYSTAL FILM CO.

Romeo and Juliet.....2 C

CRYSTAL COMEDIES

(Pearl White, Estelle Deland, Don Barclay, William Browning)

What She Did to Her Husband, Almost Lucky .....1 C
What's in the Trunk?.....1 C
Reuben's Romance .....1 C
The Lady Detective, His Wedding Day....1 C
Troubled Waters .....1 C
Her Necklace, His Hoodoo Day.....1 C

HIGRADE FILM ENTERPRISES, INC.

Billie in Society (Ray Hughes).....2 C
Buneo Billy (Billy West).....2 C
Billy in Harness (Billy West).....2 C
Bombs and Bull (Billy West).....2 C

OFFICIAL WAR PICTURES

(Committee on Information)

Our Bridge of Ships.....2 Sc.

SCRANTONIA PHOTOPLAY CORP.

Parson Pepp .....1 C
Fang's Fate and Fortune.....1 C

AMERICAN RED CROSS

The Historic Fourth of July in Paris.....1 Sc.
Soothing the Heart of Italy.....1 Patr.

RAINBOW COMEDIES

Nearly a Slacker (Lillian Vera-Eddie Bouldon) .....1 C
My Lady's Slipper (Lillian Vera-Eddie Bouldon) .....1 C
Some Judge (Lillian Vera-Eddie Bouldon)..1 C

Goldwyn Distributing Corp.

CAPITOL COMEDIES

(Featuring "Smiling Bill" Parsons)

July 15. Dad's Knockout .....2 reels
July 29. Bill Settles Down.....2 reels
Aug. 12. Billy's Fortune .....2 reels
Aug. 26. Bill's Opportunity.....2 reels
Sept. 9. Up a Tree.....2 reels
Sept. 22. Bill's Sweetie .....2 reels
Oct. 7. Camping Out .....2 reels
Oct. 21. A Pair of Pink Pajamas.....2 reels
Oct. 28. The Jelly Fish.....2 reels
Nov. 4. You Know What I Mean.....2 reels

King Bee Comedies

June 1. Bright and Early .....2 reels
June 15. Straight and Narrow .....2 reels

George Kleine System

MONTGOMERY FLAGG'S COMEDIES

"GIRLS YOU KNOW"

May 8. The Starter .....Edison
May 22. The Spoiled Girl .....
June 5. The Lonesome Girl .....

ESSANAY

June 7. Broncho Billy's Grit.
June 14. Broncho Billy's True Love.
June 21. Broncho Billy and the Western Girls.
June 28. Broncho Billy Wins Out.
July 5. Broncho Billy Trapped.
July 12. Broncho Billy Rewarded.
Sept. 1. Broncho Billy and the Claim Jumper.
Sept. 8. Broncho Billy and the Sheriff's Office.
Sept. 15. Broncho Billy, Outlaw.
Sept. 22. The Accusation of Broncho Billy.
Sept. 29. Broncho Billy's Double Escape.

LINCOLN-PARKER WORLD TRAVELOGUE

Mar. 1. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 1.
Mar. 8. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 2.
Mar. 15. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 3.
Mar. 22. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 4.
Apr. 29. Peru and Scenes Around Lake Titicaca, Bolivia.

Metro Pictures Corporation

METRO-DREW COMEDIES

Mar. 18. Special Today.....1 C
Mar. 25. When a Man's Married.....1 C
Apr. 1. Gas Logic.....1 C
Apr. 8. A Youthful Affair.....1 C

Mutual Film Corporation

STRAND (BILLIE RHODES)

July 1. Miss Informed .....1 C
July 8. Her Disengagement Ring .....1 C
July 15. Like Mother Made.....1 C
July 23. On Her Account.....1 C
July 29. She Almost Proposed.....1 C

Sept. 17. All Kinds of a Girl.....1 C
Sept. 23. A Maid and a Man.....1 C
STRAND (ELINOR FIELD)
Aug. 6. What Will Father Say?.....1 C
Aug. 13. The High Cost of Weddings.....1 C
Aug. 20. Winnie's Wild Wedding.....1 C
Aug. 27. Her Friend, the Enemy.....1 C
Sept. 10. Cupid in Quarantine.....1 C
Oct. 1. Keep Smiling .....1 C
Oct. 13. The Tale of a Hat.....1 C
Oct. 22. Just Home Maid.....1 C
OUTING-CHESTER PICTURES
To be issued one a week
Aug. 4. A Coorial on the Orinoco.....
Aug. 11. A Dam Catastrophe.....
Aug. 18. Statia With a Past.....
Aug. 25. Pines Up and Palms Down.....
Sept. 1. Finfeather Picanninies .....
Sept. 18. Saba. the Astonishing.....
Sept. 29. The Unblazoned Trail.....
Oct. 6. A Tropic Melting Pot.....
OUTDOOR PICTURES
Oct. 13. Black Feet and Flat Heads.....
SCREEN TELEGRAM
Issued Sunday and Wednesday of Each Week

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

Pathe News released each Wednesday and Saturday
Official War Review released every Monday
Sept. 29. Getaway (Chadwick-Astra), 2d...
Oct. 6. Triumph of Transportation (Leggett Gruen) .....1 Ed.
Oct. 20. Winning the War, No. 1.....1 Top.
ROLIN COMEDIES
One Reel a Week
Sept. 29. Swing Your Partners (Lloyd)...
Oct. 6. No Place Like Jail (Larel).....
Oct. 13. Why Pick on Me? (Lloyd).....
Oct. 20. An Enemy of Soap (Toto).....
Oct. 27. Nothing But Trouble (Lloyd)....
Nov. 3. Just Rambling Along (Laurel)..
Post Travel Series
Sept. 29. St. Kitts, The Mother Colony.....
Oct. 6. Antigas, British West Indies.....
Oct. 13. Barbados, British West Indies.....
Oct. 20. On Caribbean Lapped Shores.....
Oct. 27. Sumatra .....
THE FAR FLUNG BATTLE LINE
Sept. 29. British Picture.....
Oct. 6. French Colonial Troops.....
Oct. 13. Far Flying Battle Line.....
Oct. 20. France's Dusky Warriors.....
Oct. 27. Britain's Naval Air Power.....
Nov. 3. Polish Troops in France.....
BRITAIN'S BULWARKS
(Official Government Pictures—One reel each)
July 7. No. 9, King George and Queen Mary Witness the Black Arts of War...
July 14. No. 10, With the Policemen of the Allies on the North Sea.....
July 21. No. 11, The Canadians on the Western Front .....
July 28. No. 12, The Canadians at Vimy Ridge .....
"THE HOUSE OF HATE" (ASTRA)
(Serial) Two reels each
(Pearl White, Antonio Moreno, Paul Clerget, John Webb Dillion, Peggy Shaner)
June 2. Thirteenth Episode, Enemy Tliens.
June 9. Fourteenth Episode.
June 16. Fifteenth Episode, The False Signal.
June 23. Sixteenth Episode, The Vial of Death.
June 30. Seventeenth Episode, The Death Switch.
July 7. Eighteenth Episode, At the Pistol's Point.
July 14. Nineteenth Episode, The Hooded Terror.
July 20. Twentieth Episode, Following Old Glory.
"HANDS UP" (ASTRA)
(Serial) Two and and three reels each
(Featuring Ruth Roland and George Cheseboro).
Aug. 18. First Episode, The Bride of the Sun.
Aug. 25. Second Episode, The Missing Prince.
Sept. 1. Third Episode, The Phantom and the Girl.
Sept. 8. Fourth Episode. The Phantom's Trail.
Sept. 22. Sixth Episode, Flames of Vengeance.
Sept. 29. Seventh Episode, Tossed in the Torrent.
Oct. 6. Eighth Episode, The Fatal Jewels.
Oct. 13. Ninth Episode, A Leap Through Space.
Oct. 20. Tenth Episode, The Sun Message.
Oct. 27. Eleventh Episode, The Stranger from the Sea.
Nov. 3. Twelfth Episode, The Silver Book.
WOLVES OF KULTUR (WESTERN PHOTOPLAYS, INC.)
(Serial, Two Reels Each)
Leah Baird, Sheldon Lewis, Charles Hutchison.
Oct. 13. First Episode, The Torture Trap.
Oct. 20. Second Episode, The Iron Claw.
Oct. 27. Third Episode, Trapping Traitors.
Nov. 3. Fourth Episode, The Ride to Death.

Triangle Distributing Corp.

TRIANGLE COMEDIES
Mar. 3. A Discord in A Flat.....1 C
Mar. 3. His Hidden Shame.....1 C
Mar. 10. Wives and Worries.....1 C
Mar. 10. She Didn't Do It.....1 C
KEYSTONE RELEASES
May 19. Newspaper Clippings (Francis McDonald. Claire Anderson) .....2 C
May 26. Are Wives Unreasonable? (Ed. Brady. Claire Anderson).....2 C
June 2. The Poor Fish (Ed Brady, Claire Anderson) .....2 C
June 9. Flapjacks (Geo. Hernandez, Josie Sedgwick, F. McQuarrie).....2 C
June 16. Isn't it Warm? (Bill Dyer, Harry Depp, Claire McDowell).....2 C
June 23. Cupid and the Cop.....2 C
June 30. Pearls Without Price.....2 C

Universal Film Company

Monday, September 2, 1918
NESTOR—Their Sporting Blood (Pat Rooney) .....1 C
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—How Charlie Captured the Kaiser.....1 reel
Wednesday, September 4, 1918
L-KO—Her Whirlwind Wedding (Eva Novack) .....2 C
Monday, September 16, 1918
NESTOR—Pat Turns Detective (Pat Rooney) .....1 C
Wednesday, September 18, 1918
L-KO—A Pullman Blunder (Harry Gribbon, Mae Emery, Helen Lynch, Harry Mann).2 C
Monday, September 23
NESTOR—The Slow Express (Victor Potel(.1 C
Wednesday, September 25
L-KO—Hello Trouble (Babe Hardey and Eva Novak) .....2 C
Monday, September 30
NESTOR—Parted from His Bride (Kerrigan) .....1 C
Wednesday, October 2
L-KO—Nuts and Noodles (Eva Novak and Charlis) from the Orient.....2 C
Monday, October 7
NESTOR—His Royal Nibs (Comedy Cast).1 C
Wednesday, October 9
CENTURY—Untamed Ladies (Alice Howell),2 C
Monday, October 14
NESTOR—Perils of the Parlor (De Haven)..1 C
Wednesday, October 16
L-KO—Scars and Bars (Helen Lynch and Dick Smith) .....2 C
Monday, October 21
NESTOR—The Love Craze (Florence Lawrence) .....2 C
Wednesday, October 23
L-KO—Painless Love (Babe Hardy).....2 C
Monday, October 28
NESTOR—A Twentieth Century Pirate (J. Warren Kerrigan) .....1 C
Wednesday, October 30
L-KO—King of the Kitchen (Harry Gribbon and Eva Nevak).....2 C
WESTERN AND RAILROAD DRAMAS
Aug. 17. Roped and Tied (Hart-Sedgwick).2 D
Aug. 24. The Whirlwind Finish (Marie Walcamp) .....2 D
Aug. 31. Beating the Limited (Neal Hart)..2 D
Sept. 7. The Flame of the West (Cleo Madison) .....2 D
Sept. 14. Danger Ahead (Helen Gibson)....2 D
Sept. 21. The Human Tiger (Eileen Sedgwick) .....2 D
Sept. 23. Under False Pretenses (Helen Gibson) .....1 D
Sept. 30. All for Gold (Eileen Sedgwick)....2 D
Oct. 12. The Fast Mail (Helen Gibson)....2 D
Oct. 19. The Husband Hunter (Neal Hart).2 C
Oct. 26. The Dead Shot (Helen Gibson)..2 C
Nov. 2. The Silent Sentinel (Helen Gibson).2 D
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY
Released Every Wednesday
UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE
Released Every Monday
UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS
Released Every Saturday
LYONS-MORAN STAR COMEDIES
(One reel each)
Aug. 5. Don't Shoot .....
Aug. 12. Give Her Gas.....
Aug. 19. Damaged Goods .....
Aug. 26. Housecleaning Horrors .....
Sept. 2. The Extra Bridegroom.....
Sept. 16. Nearly a Chaperone.....
Sept. 23. Please Hit Me.....
Sept. 30. Frenzied Film .....
Oct. 7. The Price of a Rotten time.....
Oct. 14. Nailed at the Plate.....
Oct. 21. Why Worry?.....
Oct. 28. Maid Wanted .....
SERIALS
"THE BULL'S EYE"
Two Reels Each
(Eddie Polo)
May 6. Fourteenth Episode, The Firing Squad.
May 13. Fifteenth Episode, The Stained Face.
May 20. Sixteenth Episode, Running Wild.
May 27. Seventeenth Episode, In Irons.
June 3. Eighteenth and Last Episode, The Runaway.
"THE LION'S CLAWS"
Two Reels Each
(Marie Walcamp)
July 1. Fourteenth Episode (Hell Let Loose).
July 8. Fifteenth Episode, The Bridge of the Beast.
July 15. Sixteenth Episode, The Jungle Pool.
July 22. Seventeenth Episode (The Danger Pit).
July 29. Eighteenth Episode (Triumph).
"THE BRASS BULLET"
(Two Reels Each)
(Juanita Hansen, Jack Mulhall)
Aug. 19. Third Episode (Locked in the Tower).
Aug. 26. Fourth Episode (Smoked Out).
Sept. 2. Fifth Episode (The Mock Bride).
Sept. 9. Sixth Episode (A Dangerous Honeymoon).
Sept. 16. Seventh Episode (The Depth Bomb).
Sept. 23. Eighth Episode (The Magnetic Bug).
Sept. 30. Ninth Episode (The Room of Flame).
Oct. 7. Tenth Episode (A New Peril).
Oct. 14. Eleventh Episode (Evil Waters).
Oct. 21. Twelfth Episode (Caught by Wireless).
Oct. 28. Thirteenth Episode ($500 Reward).
FIGHTING FOR FREEDOM (ONE REEL EACH WEEK
Oct. 14. Third Episode (Sensational Capture of Bagdad).
Oct. 21. Fourth Episode (Thrilling Feats of the Royal Flying Corps).
Oct. 28. Fifth Episode (Repairing War's Ravages).
BOY SCOUTS TO THE RESCUE
Universal Special
Apr. 15. Aides of a Nation, No. 1.....2 reels
Apr. 22. On the Trail, No. 2.....2 reels
Apr. 29. The Great Mine Disaster, No. 3.2 reels
May 6. The Spies, No. 4.....2 reels
May 13. Treachery at Sea, No. 5.....2 reels

Vitagraph

BIG V COMEDIES
Aug. 5. Dunces and Dangers.
Aug. 12. Shines and Monkey-Shines.
Aug. 19. Dukes and Dollars.
Aug. 26. Flappers and Friskies.
Sept. 2. Mutts and Motors.
Sept. 9. Capers and Crooks.
Sept. 16. Wild Women and Wild Waves.
Sept. 23. Stripes and Stars.
Sept. 30. Hula-Hulas and Hocus-Pocus.
BIG V SPECIAL COMEDIES
Sept. 23. Huns and Hyphens (Semon).....2 C
Sept. 30. Roofs and Riots.....
Oct. 7. Bears and Bad Men.....
THE WOMAN IN THE WEB (Serial)
(Hedda Nova, J. Frank Glendon)
July 1. The Hidden Menace (Thirteenth Episode).
July 8. The Crash of Fate (Fourteenth Episode).
July 15. Out of the Web (Fifteenth Episode).
A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS (Serial)
(William Duncan, Edith Johnson, Joe Ryan)
July 15. The Snare (First Episode).
July 22. Flames of Peril (Second Episode).
July 29. The Secret Stockade (Third Episode).
Aug. 5. The Precipice of Horror (Fourth Episode).
Aug. 12. The Path of Thrills (Fifth Episode).
Aug. 19. The Spell of Evil (Sixth Episode).
Aug. 26. The Gorge of Destruction (Seventh Episode).
Sept. 2. In the Clutches (Eighth Episode).
Sept. 9. The Escape (Ninth Episode).
Sept. 16. The Secret Tunnel (Tenth Episode).
Sept. 23. The Noose of Death (Eleventh Episode).
Sept. 30. The Tide of Disaster (Twelfth Episode).
Oct. 7. The Engine of Terror (Thirteenth Episode).
Oct. 14. The Decoy (Fourteenth Episode).
Oct. 21. The Sealed Envelope (Fifteenth Episode).
THE IRON TEST (Serial)
(Antonio Moreno, Carol Holloway)
Oct. 21. The Ring of Fire (First Episode).
Oct. 28. The Van of Disaster (Second Episode).
Nov. 4. The Blade of Hate (Third Episode).
Nov. 11. The Noose (Fourth Episode).
Nov. 18. The Tide of Death (Fifth Episode).
Nov. 25. Fiery Fate (Sixth Episode).
DREW COMEDIES
(Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew)
July 15. The Honeymoon Baby .....
July 22. The Cub and the Daisy Chain.....
July 29. Their Agreement .....
Aug. 5. Miss Sticky-Moufie-Kiss .....
Aug. 12. Diplomatic Henry .....
Aug. 19. By Might of His Right.....
Aug. 26. The Professional Patient.....
Sept. 2. Mr. Blink of Bohemia.....
Sept. 9. A Lady in the Library.....
WHARTONS, INC.
The Eagle's Eye (Serial), featuring King Baggott, Marguerite Snow, twenty episodes—two reels each.

Independent Releases

(Continued from page 2611)

CORONA CINEMA COMPANY PRODUCTIONS.
Mother, I Need You.....6 reels
UNITED FILM CORPORATION
Crime of the Hour.....7 reels

W. H. Productions Co.

William S. Hart as Two Gun Man in "The Bargain" .....6 reels
William S. Hart in "The Bandit and the Preacher" .....5 reels
William S. Hart in "The Hell Hound of Alaska" .....5 reels
Also Series of two-reel W. H. Hart productions.
Satan's Pawn (Bessie Barriscale).

Romayne Superfilm Company

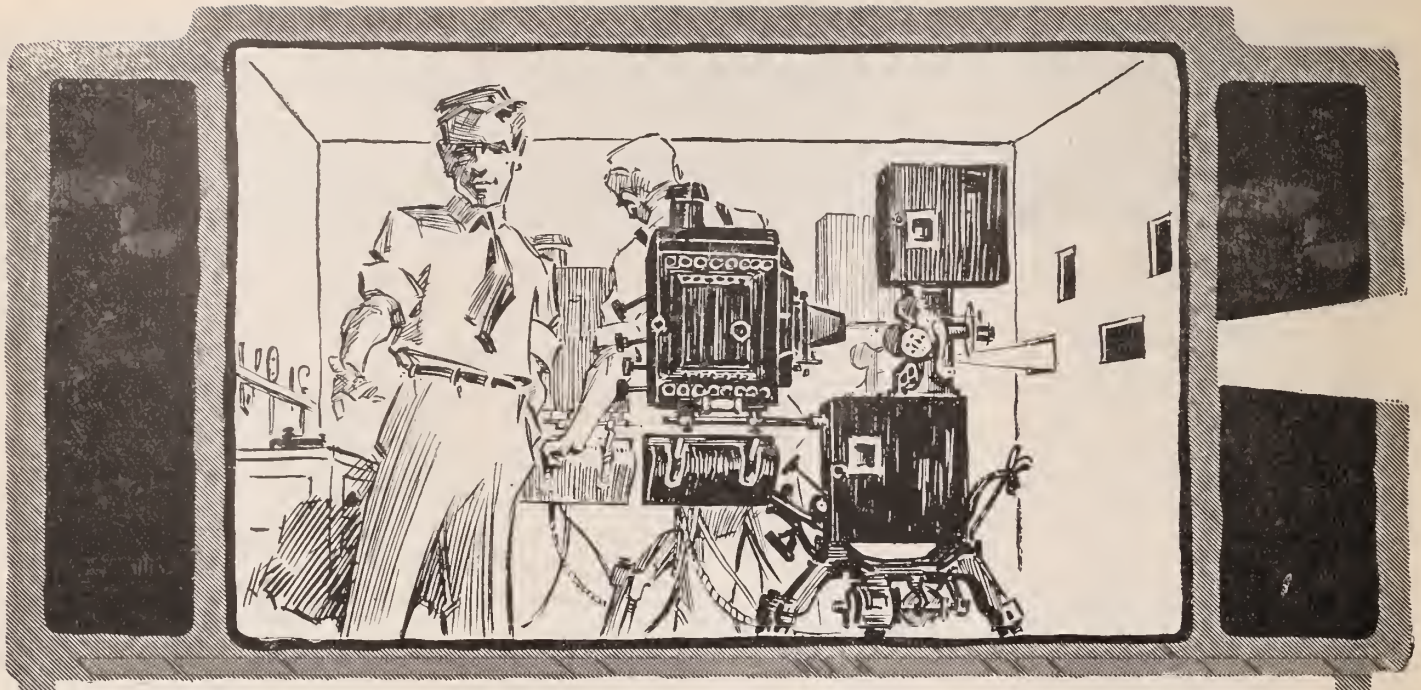
Me und Gott or "The Awakening of America," 6 reels

Edward Warren Productions, Inc.

Souls Redeemed.
Weavers of Life.

Western Import Co.

Mickey (Mabel Normand).



Projectionist Ray says:

"S. R. O. is the magic sign to Exhibitors. Want a line on it? Get a line on POWER'S and you'll get a line "out in front" by using 'em.

"The magic is right here in the projection room. I've been travelling the projection route for years. I'm always on the main line with signals set 'clear' for prosperity, 'cause I always use a POWER'S. I'm never side-tracked and nothing ever passes me, 'cause, with a POWER'S, I'm 'SPECIAL.'

"POWER'S means

S URE R ESULTS O BTAINED

Buy a Liberty Bond and Unbond Liberty

"IT PUTS THE PICTURE ON THE SCREEN"

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY

INCORPORATED

Pioneers of Projection

90 Gold Street, New York, N.Y.

Be sure to mention "MOTION PICTURE NEWS" when writing to advertisers

THE WILLIAMS PRINTING COMPANY, NEW YORK

THE WEST COAST

Communications Pertaining to "West Coast" Section Should Be Sent to Our
LOS ANGELES REPRESENTATIVE Telephone Pico 280, F 4661 429 SO. FIGUEROA STREET

Kennedy Handles Liberty Films on Coast

E. L. KENNEDY, formerly branch manager of the Pathe exchange, Los Angeles, took full charge last week of the booking of the thirty-five propaganda films released during the present Liberty Loan drive. He had as his assistant E. H. Watson, establishing his headquarters at the World Film offices.

He put eight-five prints to working, and on the first night of the big drive every one of the films was delivering its message to the public in some theatre in Southern California or Arizona.

He said he was receiving 100 per cent co-operation from the exchanges, who are releasing the films, as well as from the exhibitors everywhere in this territory.

Mr. Kennedy recently went from civil life into the United States Naval training station at the Los Angeles harbor, and consequently his uniform was conspicuous this week in the special work assigned to him. He estimates that between 750,000 and 1,000,000 people in this territory will view one or more of the thirty-five subjects being released by the government.

Vitagraph Active for Loan on West Coast

VITAGRAPHERS have been among the most active Liberty Loan workers in the motion picture colony at Hollywood, Bessie Love, Blue Ribbon Star, and William Duncan, serial star, being the most energetic.

Miss Love, who is now engaged on her second Blue Ribbon Feature, began working on the Fourth Liberty Loan before she had completed her first Blue Ribbon Feature, "The Dawn of Understanding." She and her director, David Smith, so arranged their working hours that she was able to devote several hours daily to work at the Liberty Loan headquarters, and they also displayed a willingness to stop work any time the studio folk looked as though they wanted to buy a bond or even looked as though they hadn't bought one. The result was that during the first week of the drive Miss Love sold thousands of dollars' worth of bonds right in the studio at Hollywood.

Miss Love's Liberty Loan work is a continuation of war service begun eight month's ago, when she joined in the War Savings Service campaign and sold ten thousand dollars' worth of War Savings Stamps. For this she was awarded the War Savings Service Badge of Honor, Motley H. Flint, Los Angeles banker and chairman of the War Savings Committee, having publicly bestowed the badge on her.

Mary Pickford, With Liberty Loan Officials, Photographed in Front of the Tank, Victory, Which Miss Pickford Christened at Los Angeles

"Bill" Duncan was one of the largest sellers of bonds in the Third Liberty Loan drive in Los Angeles and it was Vitagraph night at the Tank in the Angel City which helped to put it over the top in that campaign. This year Duncan started his work by leading his fifty cowboys, riders playing in "The Man of Might" in the big parade which inaugurated the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign in Los Angeles.

There was a blaze of yellow and red silk shirts and neck scarfs of every hue when the Duncan company gathered for the parade at the Vitagraph plant in Hollywood. "Bill" Duncan at the head of the horsemen, resplendent himself in western attire, led his chargers toward the traffic section of Los Angeles, where was scheduled the holding of the big parade which officially opened the Liberty Loan Drive in this Southern California City.

In order that his company might be in time to fall into line with the parade at its very out-set, Mr. Duncan had his company all made up and assembled on the lot at eight o'clock that morning, at which time they started out on location.

THE WEST COAST

Paris Theatre in Denver Changes Hands

A THEATRE deal of unusual interest and importance was closed this week, when the control of the Paris theatre passed from F. O. Browne to A. F. Meghan and his associates. The Paris was the second large, modern theatre structure erected in Denver, and stands near Eighteenth street on Curtis—Denver's celebrated "White Way."

No details of the transaction have yet been announced but possession has already been given to A. F. Meghan of the Strand, H. E. Ellison of the Princess and George Greaves of the Princess. These well known exhibitors have each been operating their respective theatres separately, and the new deal gives them complete control of four of the largest houses on Curtis street.

A manager has been installed at the Paris, which will be open as usual until material is on the ground for extensive alterations and improvements, which will be in keeping with the splendid interior decorations and equipment of the other three houses. It will be closed while the remodeling is being done and will then reopen with high class pictures and the name changed to the Rivoli.

The Paris has a seating capacity of 2,300 and has a $21,000 pipe organ. There is a 99-year lease on the ground and the construction and equipment of the theatre, involved an outlay of approximately $100,000. Considering advanced prices for material and equipment it could not be duplicated today for less than $500,000.

In Spokane Theatres

SPOKANE picture and vaudeville houses, by special agreement, kept their theatres closed until 4:30 Sunday afternoon, opening their doors only when the last section of the big Liberty Loan parade had passed along Riverside avenue, Spokane's main thoroughfare. The parade and patriotic pageant was filmed under the direction of Larry Trimble of the Washington Motion Picture Company, and shown at the Liberty theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The pictures were exceptionally good. The Sunday parade had the sanction of the ministerial association of the city, but the weather man frowned and sent rain. Dr. Clemmer, manager of the Clemmer theatre, had his Red-Head Club, 30 strong, in the parade and won much applause.

"HIT THE TRAIL HOLLIDAY," starring George Cohan, was the Liberty's feature offering.

"THE GARDEN OF ALLAH," a Selig production, starring Helen Ware, presented for the second time in Spokane, drew big houses at the Lyric.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE in "Up the Road with Sallie" held the boards at the Clemmer.

MARY MILES MINTER, the diminutive star, scored big at the Casino in "The Eyes of Julia Deep." Fatty Arbuckle shared the program honors, causing peals of laughter with "Fatty the Bouncer."

WILLIAM FARNUM was featured in "A Soldier's Oath" at the Class A.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS in "Mr. Fix It" was featured at the Majestic.

Lend the Way They Fight

Alhambra Takes Stamps as Admissions

EVERY patron of the Alhambra Theatre, Los Angeles, during the past week when "America's Answer" was shown for the third week, bought two thrift stamps, retaining one, and presenting the other for admission. The top price during the showing of the government film was fifty cents, and during the last week no sections were reserved. This equalized the price, inasmuch as the theatre asked but twenty-five cents for each admission. The feature, originated by Manager Fred Miller and Harry Leonhardt, proved very popular with the public, and the house enjoyed capacity business each evening of the week.

What Butte Is Doing

THEATRE attendance has been slightly affected by the I. W. W. strike, which however is now ended. The men have decided to return to work pending the decision of the war labor board as to their demands.

BUTTE theatres played an important part in the Fourth Liberty loan drive, four minute speakers appearing nightly at all of the local houses. The managers are aiding the government in every way possible as well as having to pay ten per cent of the gross as war tax and soon this will be doubled. The showman throughout the nation is doing more than a "bit" to help the cause along. Chairman Hinkle of the Silver Bow county minute organization is loud in his praise of the help given by the Butte theatre managers.

A MINIATURE AIRPLANE, a continual drumfire, semi-subdued, and a front that was warlike indeed formed the lobby display at the Orpheum this week when "Crashing Through to Berlin" was shown. Manager Levy raised the price during the showing of this super-feature to a quarter a throw. It was worth it and got the business.

ONE of the local newspapers which is not getting any theatre advertising advocated the closing of all amusement places on account of the Spanish influenza cases in Massachusetts and some other states many hundreds of miles distant. Its so-called news stories had a tendency to frighten people from attending the shows but no case of the disease has yet been reported here. However, the attempted blackmail did not work. If the "influ" should show here the authorities will of course do everything possible to keep it from spreading.

W. S. RAND of Minneapolis, with the General Film company, was a Butte visitor the past week.

"HEARTS OF THE WORLD" is again being shown at the Broadway, the return dates being October 2, 3 and 4. Needless to say that local theatregoers packed the big theatre on every exhibition.

W. A. IRELAND of San Francisco, with "Hearts of the World," is in Montana territory, in the interests of his big feature.

THE ANSONIA is adding two acts of vaudeville to its regular picture show program. The new system was inaugurated October 1. Manager Levy is thus back to his plan of a few years ago, the prices remaining the same, namely 20 cents for adults at the night shows.

FOR four days this week the Caillaux case, showing the execution of Bolo Pasha, crowded them in at the Rialto.

What Exchanges and Theatres Are Doing

GUY GUNDERSON, former branch manager of the Fox exchange in Los Angeles, and recently employed in the shipyards at Los Angeles harbor, was last week engaged as branch manager of the Kleine System. He succeeds E. L. Silcocks, who resigned his position with the Kleine System about two weeks ago. Mr. Gunderson announced that he would take up where Mr. Silcocks left off, and that his slogan would be "better business than usual."

E. H. SILCOCKS, who recently resigned as branch manager of the Kleine System, announced this week that he had accepted a position as salesman for Select Pictures. He said he considered a number of positions before accepting his present position. He will travel in southern California and Arizona.

THE CALIFORNIA THEATRE, just being completed on Main street, this week booked from Metro the three forthcoming Nazimova pictures, "Eye for Eye," "Ception Shoals" and "The Red Lantern." Special arrangements are being made to give the widest publicity to these subjects when they are released in Los Angeles, according to Manager Lamb of the Metro exchange.

POSITIVE ANNOUNCEMENT that Madame Nazimova has been signed with Metro to appear in a number of productions was emphasized this week by Manager Lamb of the Metro exchange in Los Angeles. He adds that to complete her program of pictures for Metro will require possibly two years of time. He was very emphatic in his announcement because, he said, there have been a number of rumors circulated stating that Nazimova had signed with other companies.

R. G. TURNER, special representative of Metro, after returning from a trip to Arizona where he registered 100 per cent in booking "To Hell with the Kaiser," announced plans for another invasion of Arizona. He will go to the neighbor state next week.

DAVID BERSHON, branch manager of the Universal exchange, was this week appointed to take charge of all Liberty Loan subscriptions from the various film exchanges. Mr. Bershon entered upon his duties immediately, promising that every exchange would go "over the top" before the drive ends.

QUINN'S RIALTO THEATRE on Broadway last week signed a contract with the Universal exchange for L-Ko comedies. The first subject under the new contract was shown at that theatre on September 29.

W. J. QUINN, salesman for Universal, returned this week from Bakersfield, Cal., with contracts with exhibitors at Bakersfield, Fellows, Maricopa and Taft for Jewel and Universal special attractions. He reported business as especially good in Bakersfield, one of the oil producing centers of California.

AS A BOX OFFICE ATTRACTION the Universal production, "Crashing Through to Berlin," is making a record in this territory, according to reports received from various theatres that have shown the pictue. Manager Bershon of the Universal exchange was much gratified this week with the letters on the subject he has been receiving.

SOL. L. LESSER, of San Francisco, who spent nearly two weeks in Los Angeles, left this week for the northern city, after holding a number of conferences with prominent producers of Los Angeles. He said he had made arrangements for better co-operation with Los Angeles exhibitors, but he declined to discuss the details of such arrangements. It is understood that he is negotiating with D. W. Griffith for "Hearts of the World," but he said he was not ready to talk of this matter.

NICK STEELE, new district manager of the William L. Sherry service, with headquarters in Los Angeles, left Saturday night for San Francisco, Portland and Seattle for a three weeks' trip. He may also visit in Denver before his return to Los Angeles.

STANLEY HART, formerly in charge of the publicity department of Quinn's Superba theatre, has been engaged for similar duties with Quinn's Rialto theatre. At his suggestion one of the best orchestras in Los Angeles was engaged for the theatre. He says he is out to tell the public that Goldwyn pictures are being shown at Quinn's Rialto, and he promises the best of entertainment for the big attendance that is expected at that house this fall and winter.

ANNA N. DWIGHT, manager of the Laughlin theatre at Lorg Beach, called on Goldwyn this week and signed for the Goldwyn program. The Laughlin is one of the most beautiful theatres in the beach city.

THE ALL-STAR FEATURES EXCHANGE announced this week that it will distribute in this territory "The Hand of Vengeance," a new serial produced by Gaumont. Manager Harry Hyman of the local exchange predicts that the subject will go over in big shape.

MANAGER STUTZ of the Palace theatre in San Diego was in Los Angeles this week and announced his plans to open a new theatre on one of the main streets of San Diego. Although the house will seat 350 people when remodeled, he states that conditions in San Diego at the present time are such that a small house in a good location will be a sure money-maker. He called on the All-Star Features, Goldwyn, Fox and many other exchanges on film row.

BART BERTELSON, well known in theatrical circles in Seattle, arrived in Los Angeles this week to be associated with the new California theatre, which is soon to be opened on Main street. Robert Poole will be placed in charge of the publicity department.

A. T. CONNARD, owner of the C. & C. theatre at Taft, Cal., was a caller at the Mutual exchange this week. He booked the "Screen Telegram" for his house.

JACK FRAZIER, formerly with Goldwyn exchanges, and well known in Los Angeles, has been appointed as branch manager of the Mutual exchange in Salt Lake, according to information received here this week.

DUHEM
MOTION PICTURE MFG. CO.
Films Made to Order
EXPERT DEVELOPING, PRINTING AND COLORING
CAMERA OUT-FITS AND RAW FILM SUPPLIED

CAMERA MEN
SENT ANYWHERE

985 Market Street, San Francisco, California

Telephone: Hollywood 1290
GEORGE W. CHAPMAN CO.
Incorporated
EVERYTHING IN MOVING PICTURE PROPS.
Specialties: Miniature Sets and Plaster Breakaways
5155 Santa Monica Boulevard
Los Angeles, Cal.

SLIDES Title Cards and Film
L. A. SLIDE & FILM CO.
122 WEST THIRD ST., LOS ANGELES

THEATRE SETTINGS
We Have Installed Hundreds From $100 to $10,000 Each
BEST SCREENS, SCENERY
EDW. H. FLAGG SCENIC CO.
Largest in the World
Los Angeles San Francisco

WINFIELD-KERNER COMPANY
Established 1905
Manufacturers of Actinic Ray Arc Lamps for Motion Picture Producers and Photographers. Effect Lamps and equipment. Resistance and Magnet Coils made to order.
Phones: Pico 2646 A 2215
325-27 E. Sixth St., Los Angeles

GRAUMAN'S THEATRE on Monday announced a $30,000 subscription to the Fourth Liberty Loan. Of this amount $20,000 was subscribed by Sid Grauman, manager of the palatial theatres, and $10,000 was subscribed by attaches of the theatre. Additional subscriptions may be made before the campaign ends, Mr. Grauman announced.

E. R. LAMSON, salesman for William L. Sherry Service, left Monday for a three weeks' trip through southern California and Arizona.

A REVIEW of the first G. M. Anderson production, "Red Blood and Yellow," was given last week in the projection room at J. Slipper and Company. The subject is to be released in Los Angeles and adjacent territory through the William L. Sherry Service. About thirty exhibitors were present. The consensus of opinion was that Anderson had come back.

THE LOS ANGELES OFFICE of William L. Sherry Service was told six weeks ago by the San Francisco office htat it would be required to get within that time business amounting to $6,000. District Manager Nick Steele announced last Saturday, the expiration of the six weeks' limit, that the office had gone "over the top" with $1,500 to spare.

THE VITAGRAPH EXCHANGE this week signed contracts with Clune's Broadway theatre to place the two-reel Big-V comedies in that house, beginning at an early date.

W. H. HEPBURN, branch manager of the Vitagraph exchange, made a trip to San Diego this week where he closed a contract with the Grand theatre for the showing of Vitagraph specials. After his wild experience with footpads near Riverside two weeks ago, he took the precaution of making the San Diego trip by daylight. The only thrill that he experienced en route was the loss of a tire, which almost upset the machine.

TOM MIX, Fox western star, made a personal appearance last Friday at the Kinema theatre during the showing of his latest picture, "Mr. Logan U. S. A." He rode out upon the stage on his famous horse, "Old Blue," and he received quite an ovation.

"THE RAINBOW TRAIL," starring William Farnum, comprises the main attraction at the Kinema theatre this week. It is a sequel to "The Riders of the Purple Sage," and, according to the Kinema management, is playing to tremendous crowds.

"THE BIRD OF PREY," in which Gladys Brockwell is the star, playing this week at Miller's theatre, received much favorable notice from Los Angeles critics. She is spoken of as "giving a vivid and human characterization."

MEMBERS of the Lo-Ko several comedy producing units, together with General Manager Louis Jacobs, were guests of the Motion Picture Theatres Owners' Association, Wednesday at the weekly luncheon, and gave a rapid fire vaudeville, in which Billy Armstrong, Grace Omar, Charles Parrott, Hughie Mack, Phil Dunham, Eva Novak, Charley De Lay, Paul Roundus, and others appeared. Others in attendance from the L-Ko plant were Alice Howell, Helen Lynch, Bartina Burkett, "Fatty" Loback, Louise Escovar, Myrtle Sterling, Jerry Dean, Vin Moore, and others.

Seattle Exchanges and Accessory Firms

L. J. SCHLAIFER ATTRACTIONS
2022 Third Avenue Seattle, Washington
Parentage-Ivan Productions—2 Reel Jester Comedies—2 Reel Hart Re-Issues
AND OTHER BOX OFFICE PICTURES

Exhibitors Film Exchange
INCORPORATED
Member of First National Exhibitors Circuit
-- NOW BOOKING --
A DOG'S LIFE
MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY
TARZAN OF THE APES
PERSHING'S CRUSADERS
THE STILL ALARM
ITALY'S FLAMING FRONT
ETC,. ETC.
-- COMING! --
SHOULDER ARMS
(Second Chaplin Comedy)
ROMANCE OF TARZAN
ANITASTEWART SUPERFEATURES
1200 FOURTH AVE.
SEATTLE, WASH.
F. V. FISHER, Manager

GREATER FEATURES COMPANY
2020 Third Avenue
SEATTLE, WASHINGTON
Rep. Consolidated Film Corp. Showing
LITERARY DIGEST NEWS
CARTOONS—NEWMAN TRAVELS
JACK LANNON, OWNER

Lantern Slides
J. C. COREY SIGN CO.
3rd & University St., Seattle
Cutouts and Lobby Displays

GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM
Perfection Pictures
W. J. DRUMMOND
Branch Manager
2012 Third Avenue

What Seattle Exhibitors Say

ONE of the stunts pulled off in the bond selling campaign was the one shown at the Coliseum, Seattle, when Marie Dressler appeared in person before the 2,000 people. She visualized the French mother, and in fact all mothers who gave their all for the cause of Liberty.

LOU GOLDSMITH, proprietor of the "Class A," has sold his theatre to Messrs. Mazuda, Fujitoma and Company. $25,000 was paid for it.

J. W. HOUCK, class A, salesman for the Paramount-Artcraft concern, returned from a successful trip through the Gray's Harbor country and Carlyle.

FRANK HEYFROM, one of Missoula's most prominent picture men, was a recent visitor to Seattle's Film Row. While here he visited the Paramount office, as the one in Butte has been closed for a short time, since the manager resigned, and signed up a large contract with them.

A. E. QVST, official envoy to the small towns for the Paramount-Artcraft government, has left the office to take in all the small town shows.

MANAGER MEAD of the Seattle Universal office reports remarkable progress of the idea which was initiated by Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal, and the United States Government, in which each motion picture house is asked to give 10 per cent of one day's gross receipts per month. Every one he has approached has signed the agreement. When they do this they receive a certificate.

MANAGER R. H. ALLAN of the General Film Company reports that two days after their new plan was announced in the Motion Picture News, he received eleven inquiries in his territory regarding them. Mr. Allan reports that all the Paralta pictures are going strong and Manager Eugene Levy, of Levy's Million Dollar Orpheum, has purchased the Wolfville Tales from the General Film Co.

MANAGER BORIES, of "The Four Square Pictures," has opened "The Film Transfer Co." He is handling as well as solving the transfer business for the Row.

ONE THING Film Row is proud of and that's itself. In the recent Fourth Liberty Bond Campaign, every concern on the row passed the 100 per cent mark in buying bonds. The theatres did the same. Besides this they were all bundled up in flags. The Clemmer had an electric $28,000,000 sign above its name. This is the amount Seattle is to raise.

NEIL BURNS, one of Goldwyn's star actors, visited Goldwyn's office in Seattle the other day to look at a comedy he made previously to his coming to Camp Lewis, where he will train to help Uncle Sam.

SALES MANAGER DOBBS, of the De Luxe Film Co., recently bought "The Finger of Justice" for the Montana territory.

CHARLES POWERS has joined the sales force of the Metro and has been given the state of Oregon.

News of the Week in Portland

LEE A. OCHS, former president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, and now vice-president of United Pictures, was in Portland recently with William Alexander, Coast Division Manager, on his tour of the United States in the interests of his organization. The last time Mr. Ochs was in Portland he brought Oregon exhibitors together in the exhibitor's league, starting the theatre men off with a bang.

JOHN HAMRICK, of Seattle, has been in Portland with his picture, "The Fall of Barbary Coast." He opened a big newspaper advertising campaign, using the Oregonian as his chief medium, and played to two weeks of big business at the Star theatre.

NEARLY every theatre man in Portland was unusually active on the Fourth Liberty Loan, which started its Portland and Oregon drive a week ahead of national schedule. Bill Ely of the Hippodrome was a successful captain, Walter Armstrong of the Strand working under him in a district that provided subscription records for Armstrong and his feminine coworker. Charles E. Couche, publicity expert for the Majestic, was captain of another successful team.

ARNOLD and Schwartz have just opened a new theatre in Toledo, Ore., where the government is active in getting out spruce for airplanes.

W. L. Loudy of Chicago, representing Motiograph, was in Oregon recently. He says that his company has 350 machines in the Northwest, against 20 a few months ago.

L. JACOBS is building a 600-seat theatre at Klamath Falls, Ore. It is the largest house in that town and will be opened within a month.

ADVERTISE IN THE WEST COAST

Directory of Los Angeles Exchanges and Supply Houses

PAREX FILM CORP.
FURNISHING

WM. L. SHERRY SERVICE

SAN FRANCISCO — 180 Golden Gate Ave., C. I. LUNTZ, Mgr.

SEATTLE — 2022 Third Ave., L. A. TODD, Mgr.

LOS ANGELES—511 W. Eighth St., F. M. STEELE, Mgr.

NICK STEELE, District Mgr.
Headquarters—LOS ANGELES

LOUIS HYMAN
Manager

ALL STAR FEATURE DISTRIBUTORS, Inc.

514 West Eighth Street

J. SLIPPER & CO.
Projecting Machines

Simplex, Baird, Motiographs
Hertner Transverter
Theatre Equipment and Supplies
728 South Olive Street
Write for Catalog

The George Kleine System

Perfection Pictures

E. H. SILCOCKS
Branch Manager

209 Knickerbocker Building

AMERICAN FILM CO., INC.

William Russell Margarita Fisher
Mary Miles Minter Productions
C. J. CROWLEY, Representative
Distributed Through Pathe Exchange
732 So. Olive St.

UNIVERSAL FILM EXCHANGES, INC.

Successor to California Film Exchange
DAVID BERSHON, MANAGER.
Distributors of Universal, Jewel and Lois Weber Productions, Blue Bird Photoplays, Century and Lyons & Moran Comedies
822 S. OLIVE ST.

VITAGRAPH

Southern California and Arizona
W. H. HEPBURN, Branch Manager
Knickerbocker Building 643 South Olive Street

In and Around Denver

CHARLES R. GILMORE announces that the United Picture theatres will release "The Light of Western Stars," starring Dustin Farnum, in Rocky Mountain territory on October 27. Mr. Gilmore is now in Salt Lake City for a conference with Vice-President and General Manager Lee A. Ochs, of New York City. They will arrange for the opening of a branch office in Salt Lake under the supervision of the Denver headquarters, for the better distribution of their productions throughout Utah, Idaho and Montana. R. J. Churchill, former manager of the local Fox headquarters, is relieving Mr. Gilmore for two weeks during his absence in Salt Lake.

DENVER has been the mecca for prominent film men during the past week. Joe Brandt, D. B. Lederman and G. B. Howe have been visiting Edward Armstrong, of Universal; F. R. Lynch, special representative of the Triangle Distributing Corporation, has been spending several days with Local Manager A. E. Fair, and Walter S. Rand, district manager for General with headquarters in Los Angeles, came in this week from Seattle via Butte and Salt Lake. All of these gentlemen report a splendid business, and declare that the film business will come out of the trying war period with colors flying.

MR. BRANDT is now en route to Los Angeles via Salt Lake. Mr. Rand will either return to Los Angeles or go on to Chicago, and Mr. Lynch has left for Kansas City and the East. Mr. Lederman has just completed the installation of Universal's new booking system here and is now installing the same system in Salt Lake.

"AROUND THE CLOCK WITH THE ROOKIE" and "Around the Clock with the Sailor," two highly interesting patriotic single reel features, were recently released in this territory by Universal.

THE PRINCESS, of Denver, has secured first run of the entire series of British official war pictures, "Fighting for Freedom."

W. H. HOSHAL has sold the Pike's Peak theatre at Pueblo to the Mountain States Amusement Co.

W. H. RECORD, one of the oldest exhibitors in Kansas, has leased the Owl theatre at Lebanon, and will spend the winter in Denver.

R. H. McCLUSKEY, of Mutual, has returned from a very successful trip covering Salt Lake, Idaho and Western Wyoming.

The Mountain-Plains Theatre Supply Co.

1514-18 Welton Street, Denver, Col.
106 So. 14th St., Omaha, Neb. 136 E. 2nd So. St., Salt Lake City, Utah
Distributors for Simplex and Powers Machines. Everything for the Motion Picture Theatre. Also distributors for latest in Reels and Film Shipping Cases.
Write for Catalogue

HARRY J. QUINN, former manager of the Denver Universal exchange, now in training at Camp Travis, Texas, writes that he will probably leave very soon for service overseas.

MILT COHN, of Paramount, has just returned from a business trip in Southern Wyoming.

EARL RADCLIFFE, who several weeks ago enlisted in the Aviation Service, has not yet been called and is now presenting the merits of Select's star series to exhibitors in South Dakota, Wyoming and Nebraska.

F. W. NORMAND, who swears by Goldwyn and the Motion Picture News in the same breath, is back from a long journey through Nebraska, Montana and the Black Hills circuit.

ROY E. CHURCHILL, who recently started training as a benedict, returned this week from a four weeks' trip in Utah and Idaho. He reports 100 per cent. bookings on Goldwyn's star series. On his former trip covering fourteen towns he sold thirteen, including the America theatres at Salt Lake and Butte, the Majestic at Boise, and the Orpheum at Pocatello.

MR. CHURCHILL recently visited Shelly, Idaho, where he was present at the opening of the new Virginia theatre by Shelly & Davis. The Shelly has a seating capacity of 600 and caters to a population of 30,000. It boasts of a $5,000 organ and the finest up-to-date equipment, including the very best opera chairs and a modern cooling plant. It is doing a big business.

F. W. NORMAND recently visited the Alcazar theatre, at Great Falls, Montana, and says that Manager Roy Johnson is the liveliest exhibitor in that state. As an illustration of how he puts over pictures, during a recent three days' run of "The Still Alarm" he arranged with the local fire department for an exhibition drill in front of his theatre at every night performance. This is only one of his many original advertising stunts, which invariably result in packed houses at every performance.

JIM PACE, who operates the Pace theatre in Chadron, Nebraska, is now in full control of the theatre business there. Mr. Nelson has decided not to reopen the Opera House theatre, and Romanoff Koski has closed the Rex. Mr. Pace has been up against the hardest fight ever experienced by an exhibitor, and his many friends declare he is fully entitled to the right to remain there alone.

What Butte Is Doing

RECORD BUSINESS was played to by Phil Levy of the Ansonia in the showing of "To Hell With the Kaiser." Mr. Levy advertised the production widely using the billboards and newspapers to the greatest extent.

BUTTE now has but one film exchange, the Universal, since the closing of the Famous Players-Lasky branch. This city has always been a film distributing point for Montana but seems to rank at low ebb in this respect at this time, in comparison to former years.

L. H. SUTTON, operating a picture theatre at Hamilton, is visiting in Butte.

Theatres Changing Hands

CALIFORNIA.

John Young, proprietor of the Apollo Theatre, Hollywood, Cal., is now owner also of the Brooks Theatre, 151 East Santa Barbara Street. He will operate it along the sames lines as the Apollo, it is reported.

MONTANA

E. N. Disney, of Kalispell, Mont., has bought the Iris Theatre at Miles City, Mont., from W. H. Bruen.

Will you send a package of home cheer to a lonely American boy in France?

HE doesn't want to come back home till his job is done—he doesn't mind the hardships and the danger—all he asks is that once in a while a "bit of cheer" be sent to him to ease his lonely vigils on the rim of "No Man's Land."

Tens of thousands of American Lads are today fighting our battles in France. Soon there will be millions. They will want letters from home—they will want "smokes" from home. Tobacco eases the shell strain. It comforts the wounded. It is a "first aid" to the surgeons and Red Cross nurses.

If you knew what comfort and pleasure and satisfaction the tobacco bought with your dollar or your five dollars (go as high as you like) gives to American boys in the trenches, you'd forget the money, or the little sacrifice, or anything else.

25c buys 45c worth of "smokes."

$1.00 buys a month's supply of tobacco

$5.00 buys enough to keep 5 men in tobacco for a month.

And remember: Every package of tobacco sent to our boys in France contains a return postcard, addressed to you, which he'll mail to you if he can possibly do so. That's a war souvenir worth having. Dig down—deep and quick!

"I wish you all possible success in your admirable effort to get our boys in France tobacco."
—THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Endorsed by

The Secretary of War
The Secretary of the Navy
Cardinal Gibbons
Lyman Abbott
Rabbi Wise
Gertrude Atherton
Theodore Roosevelt
Alton B. Parker

and the entire nation.

MAIL THE COUPON NOW

OUR BOYS IN FRANCE TOBACCO FUND

"OUR BOYS IN FRANCE TOBACCO FUND"

GENTLEMEN—I want to do my part to cheer up the American soldiers who are fighting my battle in France. If tobacco will do it—I'm for tobacco. (Check below how you desire to contribute.)

I send you herewith ....., my contribution towards the purchase of tobacco for American soldiers. This does not obligate me to contribute more.

I enclose $1.00. I will adopt a soldier and send you $1.00 a month to supply him with "smokes" for the duration of the war.

Name .....

Address .....

What West Coast Studios Are Doing

LILLIAN WALKER, who will produce for her own company, selected her dressing rooms at the Brunton studios this week. No date has been set for her to begin active work of producing, but it was announced at the studios that this work would likely begin within another week. Her pictures will be released through the Hodkinson service.

BESSIE BARRISCALE returned this week from the High Sierras where some exterior scenes in "Two-Gun Betty" were filmed. The picture is almost completed, and the remaining work will be confined to interiors. One of the features of the subject, bringing it up-to-date, are a number of farmerettes who were given a part in one of the scenes filmed this week.

KITTY GORDON'S first picture to be filmed at the Brunton studios is making excellent progress. The production is about half finished, it was announced this week. It is from the story written by Adele Bieneaus, a French woman, and its title will be "The Nurse's Story." Wallace Worseley is the director.

NEW carpenter shops were erected this week at the Brunton studios to accommodate a few of the nine producing companies that have either begun work at the studios, or will begin work soon. Other accommodations are to be provided, it is announced. If permission can be secured from the War Industries Board at Washington, one or more new stages may be erected, Mr. Brunton announced.

RICHARD GORDON MATZENE, president of the Matzene pictures, with which Madame Yorska will make her film debut, returned last week from a business trip to New York. He reported a bright outlook for all pictures to be released, starring the French star. Her first production will be called "The Infernal Net."

THE WILLIAM RUSSELL COMPANY, of the American studios, at Santa Barbara, came to Los Angeles this week to film some exteriors in his new production, "Where the West Begins." Special scenes will be taken in the fashionable Wilshire district. He was accompanied by J. R. Crone, American production manager, Elieen Percy is playing the feminine lead in the picture.

STEPHEN FOX, special writer, who has been detailed at Camp Boyd, Texas, was in Los Angeles Wednesday en route to another camp on the northern part of the Pacific Coast. He was met in Los Angeles by J. R. Crone, production manager of the American company at Santa Barbara, and plans for Mr. Fox to write the continuity on a new picture for William Russell were discussed. It is understood that the story is from the pen of James Oliver Curwood.

EARLE WILLIAMS will film a picture while in the East, and before he returns to the Vitagraph West Coast studios, it was announced here this week. Information to this effect was received by the Mabel Condon Exchange from Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company.

EARL MONTGOMERY, of the team of Montgomery and Hock, appearing in Vitagraph Big-V Comedies, had a close call from death this week when the car he was driving collided with a street car near the Griffith studios on Sunset Boulevard. According to those who witnessed the accident, Montgomery's car was turned around and was struck twice by the street car.

BESSIE LOVE will soon begin work on a new picture, entitled "The Enchanted Barn," taken from a novel by the same name. Her supporting cast has not been selected. She has just completed a Brete Hart story; also she has purchased a new limousine done in khaki color. It is about the nobbiest car on the Vitagraph lot.

WILLIAM DUNCAN, who is filming the Vitagraph serial, "A Man of Might," has been making Liberty Loan speeches all this week at Pantages theatre on Broadway.

LOIS WEBER, who sustained a broken arm a week ago when she fell while walking in a Los Angeles store, was back at work within five days after the accident happened. She was visiting a furniture store when the accident occurred. Walking on a highly-polished floor her foot slipped. Because of a tight sleeve she was unable to reach out and save herself. She is directing Mildred Harris in a new picture called "Home."

San Francisco News Condensed

ALL the managers of film exchanges and of motion picture houses in this district plunged into the drive for the Fourth Liberty Loan with a determination to make it a quick success. The theatre managers are a unit in the praise of the Government films and the other war pictures which have been approved by the Government, and the demand for immediate bookings of these films is in excess of the supply.

"AMERICA'S ANSWER" has met with a great success and started on its final week at the Rialto on September 29. The All Star Features Distributors, Inc., which has charge of the picture in this state, reports that the bookings for this picture are coming in rapidly from all the first run houses. Another of the local theatres which is featuring war plays is the Wigwam, which is showing "Italy's Flaming Front." The playhouse was fairly stormed on the opening day.

GRIFFITH'S PICTURE, "The Hearts of the World," is now in its fifteenth and last week at the Alcazar theatre. This is the most remarkable run a picture has ever had in San Francisco. The All Star Feature Distributors, Inc., which has charge of this picture in this territory, says that it now has three road men out in its interests. These include W. G. Holcombe, who is general manager for the company's road shows, and its regular men, William Kellner and Sam Powell. It is reported that the latter is soon to enter the service of Uncle Sam.

MAJOR M. J. COHEN, manager of the George Kline System, has just returned to San Francisco after an absence of four weeks' visit to the home office in Chicago. Mr. Cohen came here by way of Los Angeles, where he stayed a short time. He says that he had a fine trip, but that he is glad to be home again. The especial object of his trip was to consult with the home office regarding future operations on this coast, and he says that very satisfactory decisions were reached.

THE new picture, "Behind the Lines of Italy," which will be distributed in this territory by the George Kline System, is expected to be released in about two weeks. Major Cohen goes to Los Angeles the middle of the present week to attend a preview of the picture at the Hamburger Auditorium in that city. This is to be held under the auspices of the Italian Red Cross. Upon his return to this city next week there will be a preview in San Francisco. Later he will go to Seattle, where a third preview will be arranged. Mr. Cohen says he is handling the picture on special lines for the George Kline System.

IT is announced from the San Francisco office of the George Kline System that E. H. Silcocks, for three and a half years manager of the system at Los Angeles, has resigned and is now with the Select Pictures as road man. It is also announced that Silcock has been succeeded as the Kline manager in Los Angeles by Guy Gunderson, for over three years with the Fox exchange. Major Cohen also gives out the information that Lou Thompson, formerly salesman for the Mutual in San Francisco, is now with the George Kline System in Los Angeles in the same capacity.

J. L. MULHAUSER has just arrived in San Francisco from Chicago as representative of the George Kline System out of the San Francisco office. Mr. Mulhausen was formerly with the Select when that exchange was first opened in this city, and up to a short time ago was with the Select in New York. His old time friends on the Coast will be glad to extend again a friendly greeting to a man as popular as Mr. Mulhauser always has been in this territory.

WILLIAM COLVIN, Coast representative for Ernest Shipman, has arrived in San Francisco in the interests of Jennings Bros.' picture, "The Lady of the Dugout."

THE AMERICAN JUNIOR NAVAL AND MARINE SCOUTS were the guests this week of Messrs. Sheehan & Lurie at the Rialto. The boys were very enthusiastic over the performance of "America's Answer," and their exuberant spirits were communicated to the adults in the audience in a way that made the performance the liveliest of the run.

C. POST MASON, who was publicity man for the First National Exhibitors Circuit at Denver, when the World's Trophy competition was won on "Pershing's Crusaders," has come to San Francisco and is now associated with the All Star Features Distributors, Inc., as publicity agent for Sol. Lesser in San Francisco and Los Angeles. Mr. Mason takes great pride in the success of his work at Denver, where he had full charge, and will endeavor to duplicate his successes on the Coast.

J. L. FRAZIER, who is well known in film circles in Salt Lake and Los Angeles as well as in San Francisco, has just been appointed representative of the Mutual Film Corporation in San Francisco.

ELLIS ARKUSH, owner of the Sequoia theatre at Redwood City, Cal., has just enlisted in the U. S. Army, choosing the artillery branch of the service. During his absence the theatre will be run by his wife.

QUITE a few changes in ownership of theatres are reported this week. R. L. McNeil, who owns the Lyceum and Panama theatres in San Francisco, has just closed a deal to purchase the Strand and Fairmount in Oakland.

THE HAYES THEATRE in San Francisco has been sold by Manager Ross to W. R. Ainsley.

THE BELL THEATRE at Livermore has been sold by Manager Madsen to a Mr. Bush, who is reported to come from Chicago. Film Row has not yet made Mr. Bush's acquaintance, although it is reported that he has had experience in the business in the East.

MANAGER LAMB has sold the Hayward theatre to L. Rosenthal, who formerly owned the Empire theatre at Napa.

E. KEHRLEIN bought the Franklin in Oakland this week, thus adding another house to his string of Kimena houses. He now owns Kimenas in Oakland, Los Angeles and Fresno.

THE VARSITY THEATRE in Berkeley changed hands this week, J. Tipple, the former manager, selling to Bob McNeil.

ABE MARCOWITZ AND DAN LEBO have sold the Lincoln theatre in San Francisco to Ben Leibman.

THE REX THEATRE at Oroville, which has been closed for the summer, opened this week.

L. HOLT has been refurnishing the Gem theatre at Colusa, which was closed for the summer and practically dismantled by C. C. Kauffman, who built a new theatre at Colusa. The Gem will be reopened on October 5.

SHIELDS & VAN BUREN, of the Star, Oakdale, Cal., have taken over the Los Banos theatre and for the present will run both houses.

IT is reported in San Francisco that Nat Hart has resigned as manager of the Kimina theatre, Los Angeles, to become assistant manager of the Hippodrome in that city. Mr. Holt was formerly manager of the Rialto theatre in San Francisco before he went to the Southern city.

A FOURTH downtown theatre in San Francisco is now about to utilize a part of the Paramount and Artcraft pictures of the big 1918 output. This latest theatre to come into the fold is the Strand, and as a consequence Paramount and Artcraft pictures will have during the season of 1918-19 first runs at the Imperial, the California, the Portola and the Strand. Four first run theatres for one exchange in a city the size of San Francisco is a condition of which the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation may well be proud.

THE IMPERIAL THEATRE has contracted for the exclusive first run presentation in San Francisco of the P. James Montgomery Flagg pictures.

JAMES A. PARTINGTON, manager of the Imperial theatre, makes the prediction that six months from now the profession will find Lila Lee the foremost feminine star on the screen. "The Cruise of the Make-Believes" was hugely enjoyed by this theatre's patrons and that little Lila Lee "got over big" in her screen debut is attested by the fact that the Imperial box office receipts soared to lofty heights.

"THE HUN WITHIN" has just closed a very successful week at the California from both the standpoint of entertainment and box receipts.

Directory of San Francisco Exchanges

UNITED STATES OFFICIAL WAR FILMS
Presented by THE DIVISION OF FILMS
Committee on Public Information
Geo. Creel, Chairman Chas. S. Hart, Director
Released in California by SOL. L. LESSER
Chairman Division United States Official War Films, State Council for Defense for California
191 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco 514 West Eighth St., Los Angeles

NOW BOOKING

"AMERICA'S ANSWER"
EIGHT REELS
A masterpiece of living action of what has been done in France by our boys and the United States Government

"PERSHING'S CRUSADERS"
SEVEN REELS
Khaki-clad millions of Americans sweeping on to meet the foe

"OUR BRIDGE OF SHIPS"
TWO REELS
Visualizing the tremendous energy of America aroused to defeat the U-boat menace

"OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW"
ONE REEL
Authentic action in the war zone from the Governments of the United States, France, Great Britain and Italy. Released every week. Photographed by the United States Signal Corps, A. E. F.

TURNER and DAHNKEN
BRANCH OF
FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' CIRCUIT, Inc.,
Music Rolls Exchanged—Supplies of All Kinds
134 Golden Gate Avenue San Francisco, California

CONSOLIDATED FILM CORPORATION
90 Golden Gate Avenue SAN FRANCISCO
2020 Third Auenue SEATTLE
DISTRIBUTING KATZENJAMMER AND HAPPY HOOLIGAN CARTOONS—DITMAR'S LIVING BOOK OF NATURE—BRUCE SCENICS—NEWMAN TRAVELS—GAUMONT NEWS AND GRAPHIC AND LITERARY DIGEST (SEATTLE ONLY)

KALE-ALTA SLIDE CO.
B. O. YOUNGMAN
24 Hour Slide Service
The Quality is the best
Latest Song Slides for Community Singing. Best Patriotic and Stock Slides on the Coast
1028 Market St., San Francisco

PERFECTION PICTURES
Distributed Through
The George Kleine System
M. J. COHEN
Branch Manager
183 Golden Gate Avenue

M AND R
SOMETHING NEW COMING
730 So. Olive St.
Los Angeles
107 Golden Gate Ave.
San Francisco

BRECK PHOTOPLAY SUPPLY COMPANY
DISTRIBUTORS OF
Simplex Projectors
Theatre Equipment and Supplies
NATIONAL CARBONS
98 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco

M. H. LEWIS
Branch Manager
PARAMOUNT-ARTCRAFT

G. A. METCALFE
Distributor
POWER'S MACHINES
SPEER CARBONS
117 Golden Gate Avenue
San Francisco, Cal.

DAN MARCOWITZ, manager of the Western Film Co., has just returned from a trip to Los Angeles and through the San Joaquin Valley. He called on all the producers in that section of the state and says that everywhere he found the managers very active in preparing to assist in the Fourth Liberty Loan drive.

H. D. NAUGLE, Western Division Manager of the Vitagraph, spent a few days in the San Francisco office this week en route from Seattle to the main office in Los Angeles.

THE DUHEM MOTION PICTURE MANUFACTURING CO. made some interesting pictures this week of the first review of the troops stationed at Camp Fremont. The pictures will be shown by the Universal Film Co.

AMONG the managers of theatres visiting Film Row this week were: Alex. Williams, Unique, Santa Cruz; C. W. Goddard, J Street theatre, Sacramento; C. L. Langley, Hippodrome, Taft; W. S. Webster, Strand, Woodland; Alex. Killingworth, Strand, Los Gatos.

Help Those Boys of Ours!

They're on a trip across the Rhine and on to Berlin because they've got a big job to accomplish for mankind. And they are doing that job well—and will do it still better.

But they can't travel far without equipment, food and everything necessary to such a strenuous journey.

That's Where We Come In!

We've bought some bonds, and they sent the boys a long way on their trip—but they still have a ways to go. Pershing's personally conducted tour is going to do us a wonderful lot of good, and we know it—and all humanity knows it.

So, Once More—

Buy Those Bonds

THE WEST COAST

¶ A place where YOU—reader and advertiser—can meet YOU—buyer and seller—in intimate, "Hello Bill!" fashion.

¶ But "your own back fence" isn't worth a rap unless you use it. Does your local pride prompt you to mention "The West Coast" when you write our advertisers? Does your business judgment prompt you to strike home direct when you have something to sell?

¶ Get together now, for the benefit of the West Coast in

THE WEST COAST

Simplex

It takes a worth-while job to keep a worth-while man

A capable Operator wants to put on a good picture, and if this isn't made possible for him he feels like an 1918 chauffeur running an 1896 one-lunger. He's ashamed of his job and quits.

And with an Operator who doesn't take pride in his work the screen-results are still worse.

But when the Simplex Twins are employed, the Operator knows that there isn't a House in the country that can beat the picture he puts on the screen.

That's a worth-while job for a worth-while man.

That's what makes the House a worth-while investment.

And that's why we say:

"LET THE Simplex TWINS KEEP YOUR OPERATOR FROM LEAVING"

Why should he quit? He now can equal the projection of the Rialto and Rivoli!

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th St. New York

Calamity Howlers who discourage enterprise, Stock-jobbers who discredit business, "Knockers" who descend to the level of common scolds, Pilfering price-pirates—all who do not operate with constructive intent, naturally menace the Motion Picture Industry from within and should be without.

This is a "Win The War" era. 'Tis no time for anything but clean thoughts, hard work and sincere effort, and it is our specific duty to make our Industry produce its perfect potential power.

If you are investing all you possibly can in Liberty Bonds, and are doing your W. S. S. Bit, we will be pleased to give your negative the protection of

Rothacker Prints

Rothacker

FILM MFG. CO. CHICAGO, U.S.A.

There are reasons—
Come and see them.

OCTOBER 26, 1918

Motion Picture News

Reg. in U. S. Patent Office

West Coast Edition

DOMINATES THE FIELD

¶ Are we down-hearted? No!!

¶ That Service is best that Serves when Service is needed. Motion Picture News stands now—as always—ready to Serve the industry of which it is proud to be a part.

¶ What can we do for you?

VOL. XVIII-NO. 17 Entered as Second Class Matter, August 27, 1917 at the Post Office at New York, N.Y., under the act of March 3rd 1879 PRICE 15 CENTS

Chicago — 729 Seventh Avenue, New York — Los Angeles

WHO WILL GET THE BEST STUNTS

In the contest that will demonstrate to the motion picture industry that that advertising and merchandising are profit-makers.

$1200.00 IN

Of the Fourth Issue will be given by the First National Exhibitors' production to the public by special lobby treatment—newspaper advertising—unique

"The ROMANCE

Is the Subject Selected for

It will more than make good any publicity statement in reason. It offers unlimited possibilities for retail merchandising in any one and all of the accepted styles of exhibitor promotion. The very popularity of Tarzan is founded on the advertising of that name to nearly sixty million people.

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS CIRCUIT

Entry blanks, including conditions of contest, can be had from any First National Exchange, the office of this trade journal, or the Tarzan Editor, 6 West 48th Street, New York, N. Y.

FROM SCENES LIKE THESE?

exhibitors are practical film retailers—and to the small theater owner

LIBERTY BONDS

Circuit to exhibitors who prove to be the most efficient in selling a stunts or novelty in presentation.

of TARZAN"

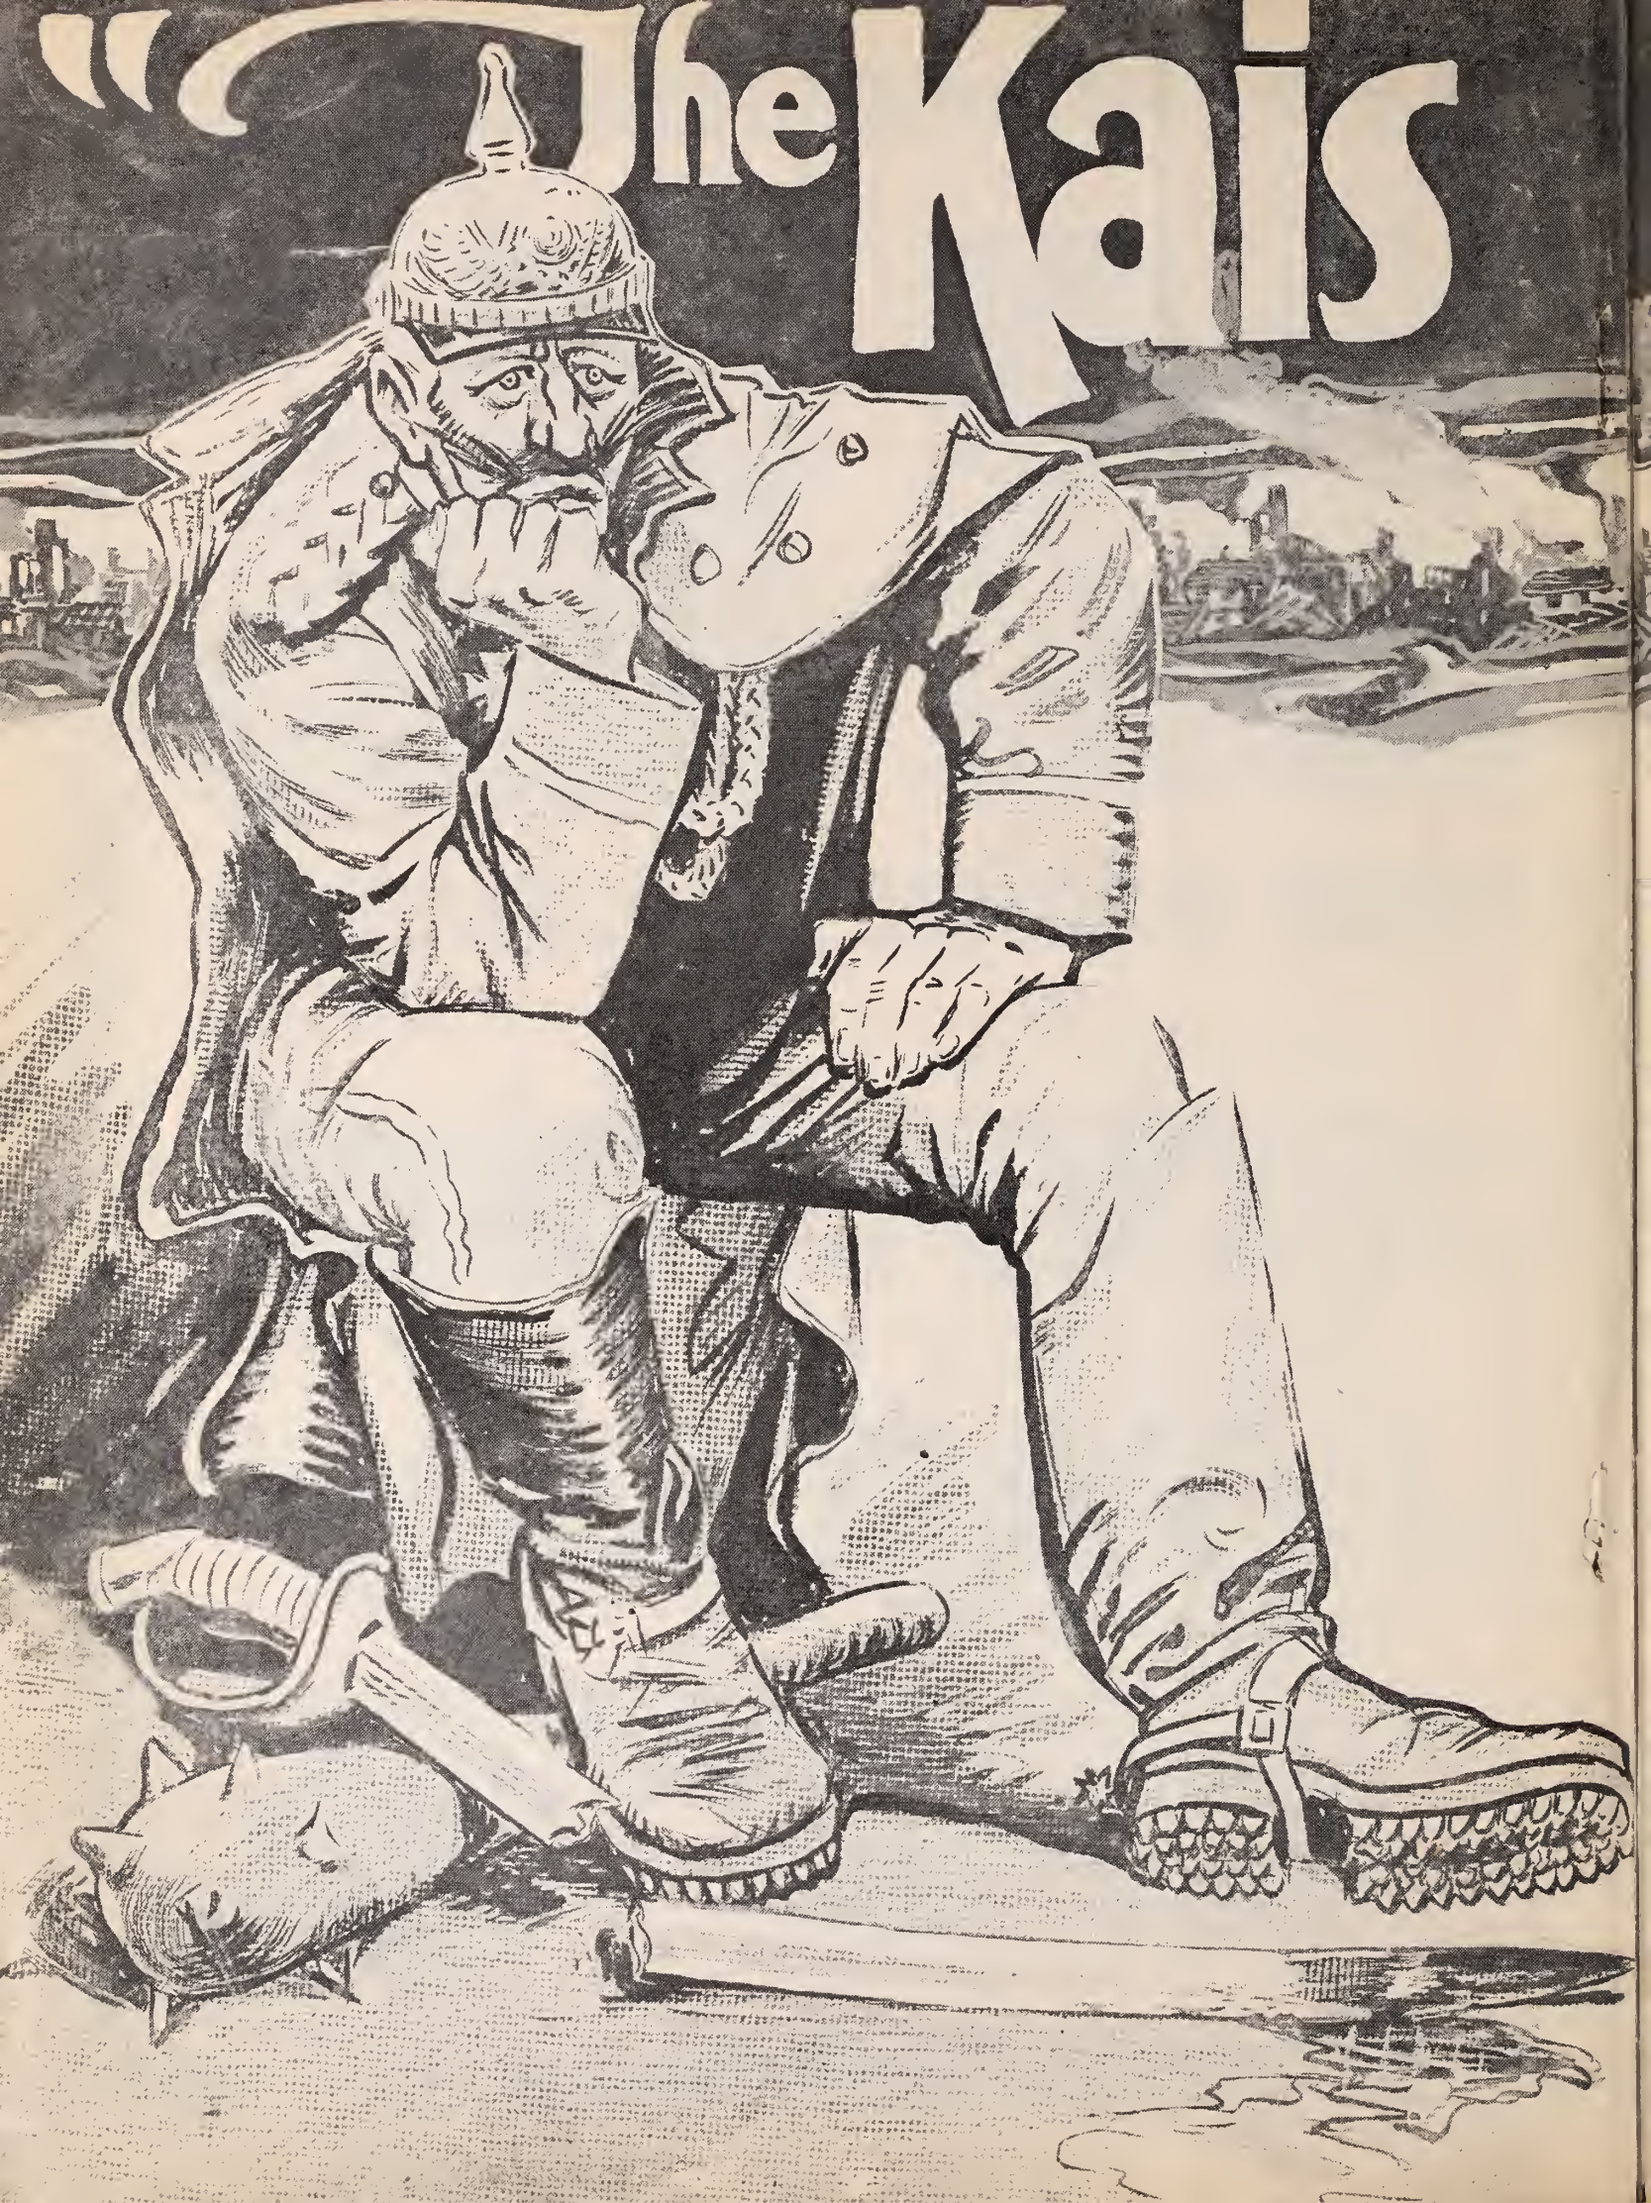
the Exhibitor Competition

Your chance of being declared a winner is as good with 300 seats as it is with 3,000 capacity. Your ability as shown in your advertising will be the only factor for consideration. Send copies of newspapers containing your advertising—photos of your lobby display—d scriptions of stunts.

This contest is for exhibitors who have booked or shown "The Romance of Tarzan" prior to announcement of the competition a week ago, or who ho'd contracts for regular First National releases. Receipt of entries acknowledged by mail.

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS CIRCUIT



The Kais

Read These

The Moving Picture World Says:

It should prove a popular hit . . . a picture in which there is always something doing . . . it hits straight at the mark and hits home . . . the spirit of its eight reels guarantees it a warm reception.

The Exhibitor's Trade Review Says:

Here's a feature that you can go after in a big way and advertise to the limit, for it will back up an elaborate campaign and satisfy patrons.

Act Quickly

This territory sold—

Ohio, Maine, New York, Indiana, Massachusetts, Virginia, Rhode Island, Alabama, New Jersey, New Hampshire, Florida, Michigan, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, North and South Carolina.

Most timely subject on the Market

For territory apply to A. WARNER, 220 West 42nd Street, New York, N. Y.
Hiller & Wilk, Foreign Agents, Longacre Building, New York, N. Y.

Produced by S. L. WARNER
Directed by JOHN JOSEPH HARVEY

KATTERJOHN FILMS

FOUR SPECIAL PRODUCTIONS will be issued during the ensuing twelve months; four superlative story-pictures released at intervals which will insure the maximum expenditure of time and thought in their making—each an original conception by

MONTE M. KATTERJOHN

—who will strive to give you special pictures of extraordinary theme and quality; "specials" worthy of the name because of their artistry, technical details, carefully selected casts, general production bigness, and coherent, entertaining story values.

These will range from six to seven thousand feet in length.

All production details will be under the individual management of the creator—an arrangement which marks the inauguration of a new departure in the building of quality motion picture entertainment.

We believe you will want to exhibit these greater-than-state-rights specials because of their tremendous box-office power—created towards pleasing all of your patrons.

Address all communications to

KATTERJOHN FILMS

730 So. Olive Street Los Angeles, Cal.

We invite suggestions from exhibitors

Write us your opinion today

The Irving Theatre

Myrtle and Irving Avenues

Brooklyn, N. Y., October 11, 1918.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY,

Gentlemen:

"I had the pleasure of seeing some of the earlier episodes of your new serial, 'The Iron Test,' in your projection room the other day. It held me spellbound, and it should have the same effect on any audience. It is one more evidence of the class of Vitagraph Serials. It spells money to me."

WILLIAM BIGALL.

"It Spells Money to Me!"

THE VOLUME OF ADVANCE BOOKINGS AND EXHIBITORS' ENTHUSIASTIC TESTIMONIALS PROVE CONCLUSIVELY THAT

"THE IRON TEST"

VITAGRAPH'S LATEST AND GREATEST PHOTOPLAY SERIAL FEATURING

ANTONIO MORENO and CAROL HOLLOWAY

is a worthy successor to those famous box-office successes

"THE FIGHTING TRAIL" "VENGEANCE AND THE WOMAN"
"THE WOMAN IN THE WEB" and "A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS"

Written by ALBERT E. SMITH and CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Directed by Paul Hurst

VITAGRAPH

ALBERT E. SMITH
President

What The Critics Say.

Tense, Vibrating Situations, and popular appeal. GIVES POSITIVE DELIGHT.
TRADE REVIEW.

Beautifully produced. FULL OF ACTION, ATMOSPHERE, THRILLS & SUSPENSE
M. P NEWS.

MASTERLY PRODUCTION. Rich in atmosphere and character. Excellent cast.
M. P WORLD.

CONVINCING, VIRILE, Red-blooded action.
EX. HERALD

CORKING GOOD. Red-blooded, stirring romance, real action & artistic atmosphere.
WID'S DAILY

Superb production. GRIPPING ACTION.
MORNING TELEGRAPH

A National Co-operative Association of Exhibitors

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES OF AMERICA INC.

- J. A. Berst -
President

Home Office
1600 Broadway
· NEW YORK ·
BRANCHES
EVERYWHERE

A STATEMENT TO EXHIBITORS

By reason of the fact that a majority of theatres in the United States and Canada are closed, the undersigned companies have decided to release no new or reissued pictures for a period of four weeks commencing Tuesday, October 15th, and ending Saturday, November 9th, 1918.

Branch offices of these companies will continue to serve exhibitors with pictures regularly released prior to October 14th.

Serials and news reels will be the only exceptions and may be released as usual.

Affiliated Distributors, Inc.
Edgar Lewis Productions
Famous Players-Lasky Corporation
First National Exhibitors' Circuit
Fox Film Corporation
General Film Co.
Goldwyn Distributing Corp.
International Film Service, Inc.
Ivan Film Productions, Inc.
Kalem Co.
Metro Pictures Corp.
M. H. Hoffman Exchanges
Mutual Film Corp.
Pathe Exchange, Inc.
Select Pictures Corp.
Triangle Corporation
Universal Film Mfg. Co.
Wm. A. Brady Picture Plays, Inc.
William L. Sherry Service
World Film Corp.
W. W. Hodkinson Corp.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT

BY

DIVISION OF FILMS
COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC INFORMATION

RELATIVE TO

"AMERICA'S ANSWER"

Due to the fact that a great many Motion Picture Theatres have been obliged to close in the interest of safeguarding the health of the American public, and also with a sincere desire to co-operate with the producers and distributors in their efforts toward conservation, it has decided to postpone the regular release date of the Official Government picture "AMERICA'S ANSWER," to November 11th, 1918.

In such territories, however, where "AMERICA'S ANSWER" has already been released, it is now available at the branch offices of the World Film Corporation to all exhibitors for immediate showings in their theatres.

CHAS. S. HART, Director
Division of Films
Committee on Public Information
GEORGE CREEL, Chairman

A·NEW·IDEA·IN SHORT·PICTURES

SHIRLEY MASON
IN A SMASHING·MONEY-MAKING
SERIES·OF·2·REEL
ATTRACTIONS

McCLURE PRODUC-TIONS, Inc., presents

SHIRLEY MASON

associated with NANCE O'NEIL, H.B.WARNER, CHARLOTTE WALKER ANN MURDOCK and HOLBROOK BLINN in a condensed version of

"THE DEADLY SINS"

A chain of films whose cyclonic action and strong, timely, patriotic finish will coin money for you. Backed by McCLURE nation-wide publicity.

Distributed by GENERAL FILM COMPANY

"SMILE AT THE WAR WITH OLD BILL!"

"THE BETTER 'OLE"

A SMILE MESSAGE

FROM

OLD BILL

BAIRNSFATHER'S Greatest Character Conception of the Great War

The show charges $2.00 and "Old Bill's" publicity makes it easy to get. Cash in on this big publicity! Releasing announcement soon. A film of the war that makes you smile the war away! An injunction to be merry—like "Old Bill"—to Carry On!

This is the cheer-up picture of the present conflict. There has never been anything like it before. The World War has produced an epoch making motion picture that will enthuse and brighten the folks at home as no other force or agency can.

Adapted by
GEORGE PEARSON and T. A. WALSH

From the play, "The Better 'Ole," by BRUCE BAIRNSFATHER and ARTHUR ELIOT

By arrangement with
MR. C. B. COCHRAN

The Film Produced by GEORGE PEARSON

"SMILE AT THE WAR WITH OLD BILL!"

A Million Fans Demanded It

HERE IT IS

Francis Ford's Greatest Serial

"THE SILENT MYSTERY"

FEATURING

FRANCIS FORD
MAE GASTON
AND
ROSEMARY THEBY

More Mystery—More Action—More Thrills—More Suspense—More Plot—More Drama—More Tense Situations—More Novelties—More Surprises—More Punch—More Tantalizing.

Francis Ford had to make another serial—Fans and Exhibitors said so—they wanted to see Phil Kelley—Francis Ford's famous detective characterization—and they besieged Exhibitors and they wrote to Francis, so

HERE IT IS—FORD'S GREATEST SERIAL PRODUCTION

So steeped in mystery it fascinates. A tangled thread of love, a startling series of amazing adventures, a double murder mystery, the famous Phil. Kelley, secret service man, an Egyptian Priestess, a widowed bride, an uncanny taloned hand—clean, dramatic, swift and captivating, unending novelties.

On its release fans will be asking—

Who stole "The Eye of the World"?
Who was Priestess Kah?
Was Robert Giles murdered for Money?
—or by his Bride?
—or by a rival?
—or by whom?
Did Dr. Phillips create a soulless creature who grew beyond his control?
Was it the possessor of the uncanny Taloned Hand?
How did Phil. Kelley escape from the Steel Room and the Fumes of Frightfulness?
Whose was the Mysterious Hand that, coming from nowhere, clutched Betty's hair and drew her up, up, up to an unknown Fate?

WHOSE WAS THE FACE BEHIND THE MASK?

"THE SILENT MYSTERY" will create a sensation. It is far ahead of any serial ever produced in every ELEMENT OF SERIAL SUCCESS. It has advertising possibilities that will make an instant appeal to Exhibitors everywhere—and IT IS A FRANCIS FORD SERIAL—demanded by serial fans throughout the world.

For further particulars about this great serial production address

HILLER & WILK, Inc.
912 Longacre Building
42d St. and Broadway New York City

LIONEL S. REISS

The Frohman Amusement Corporation

ANNOUNCES

The early release of its next Deluxe Photoplay

Entitled

ONCE TO EVERYMAN

from the novel of the same name by Larry Evans

adapted by Anthony Paul Kelly

starring

JACK SHERRILL

and

MABLE WITHEE

This is a play of youth—with all its heartaches, struggles, and victories—

A big, virile, wholesome, clean story with one of the greatest prize fights ever screened—

It will appeal to every Father, Mother, Sister, Brother in the land.

William L. Sherrill, President

310 Times Building New York City

State Right and Foreign Buyers Here's Your Chance

"BEYOND THE LAW"

IN SIX PARTS

A beautiful, romantic love story, written by and featuring Emmett Dalton—last of the world's most noted outlaws. Published in the Wide World Magazine from May until September, 1918. The first historical picture ever produced with any of the original characters.
A REAL Western picture, full of appealing human interest, featuring a man who made history before moving pictures were known.

VIRGINIA LEE
Playing the Part of Ruth Lane, Young Emmett Dalton's Sweetheart

HARRIS GORDON
Playing the Part of Emmett Dalton in Youth

EMMETT DALTON AS HE IS TODAY

SCENARIO BY

Wm. Addison Lathrop

DIRECTED BY

Theodore Marston

PHOTOGRAPHED BY

Robt. A. Olsson

Write us for full particulars

ADVERTISING MATTER

One Kind, 24 Sheet
One Kind, 6 Sheet
Two Kinds, 3 Sheet
Three Kinds, 1 Sheet
24 Kinds of Photos

To be released soon
by the

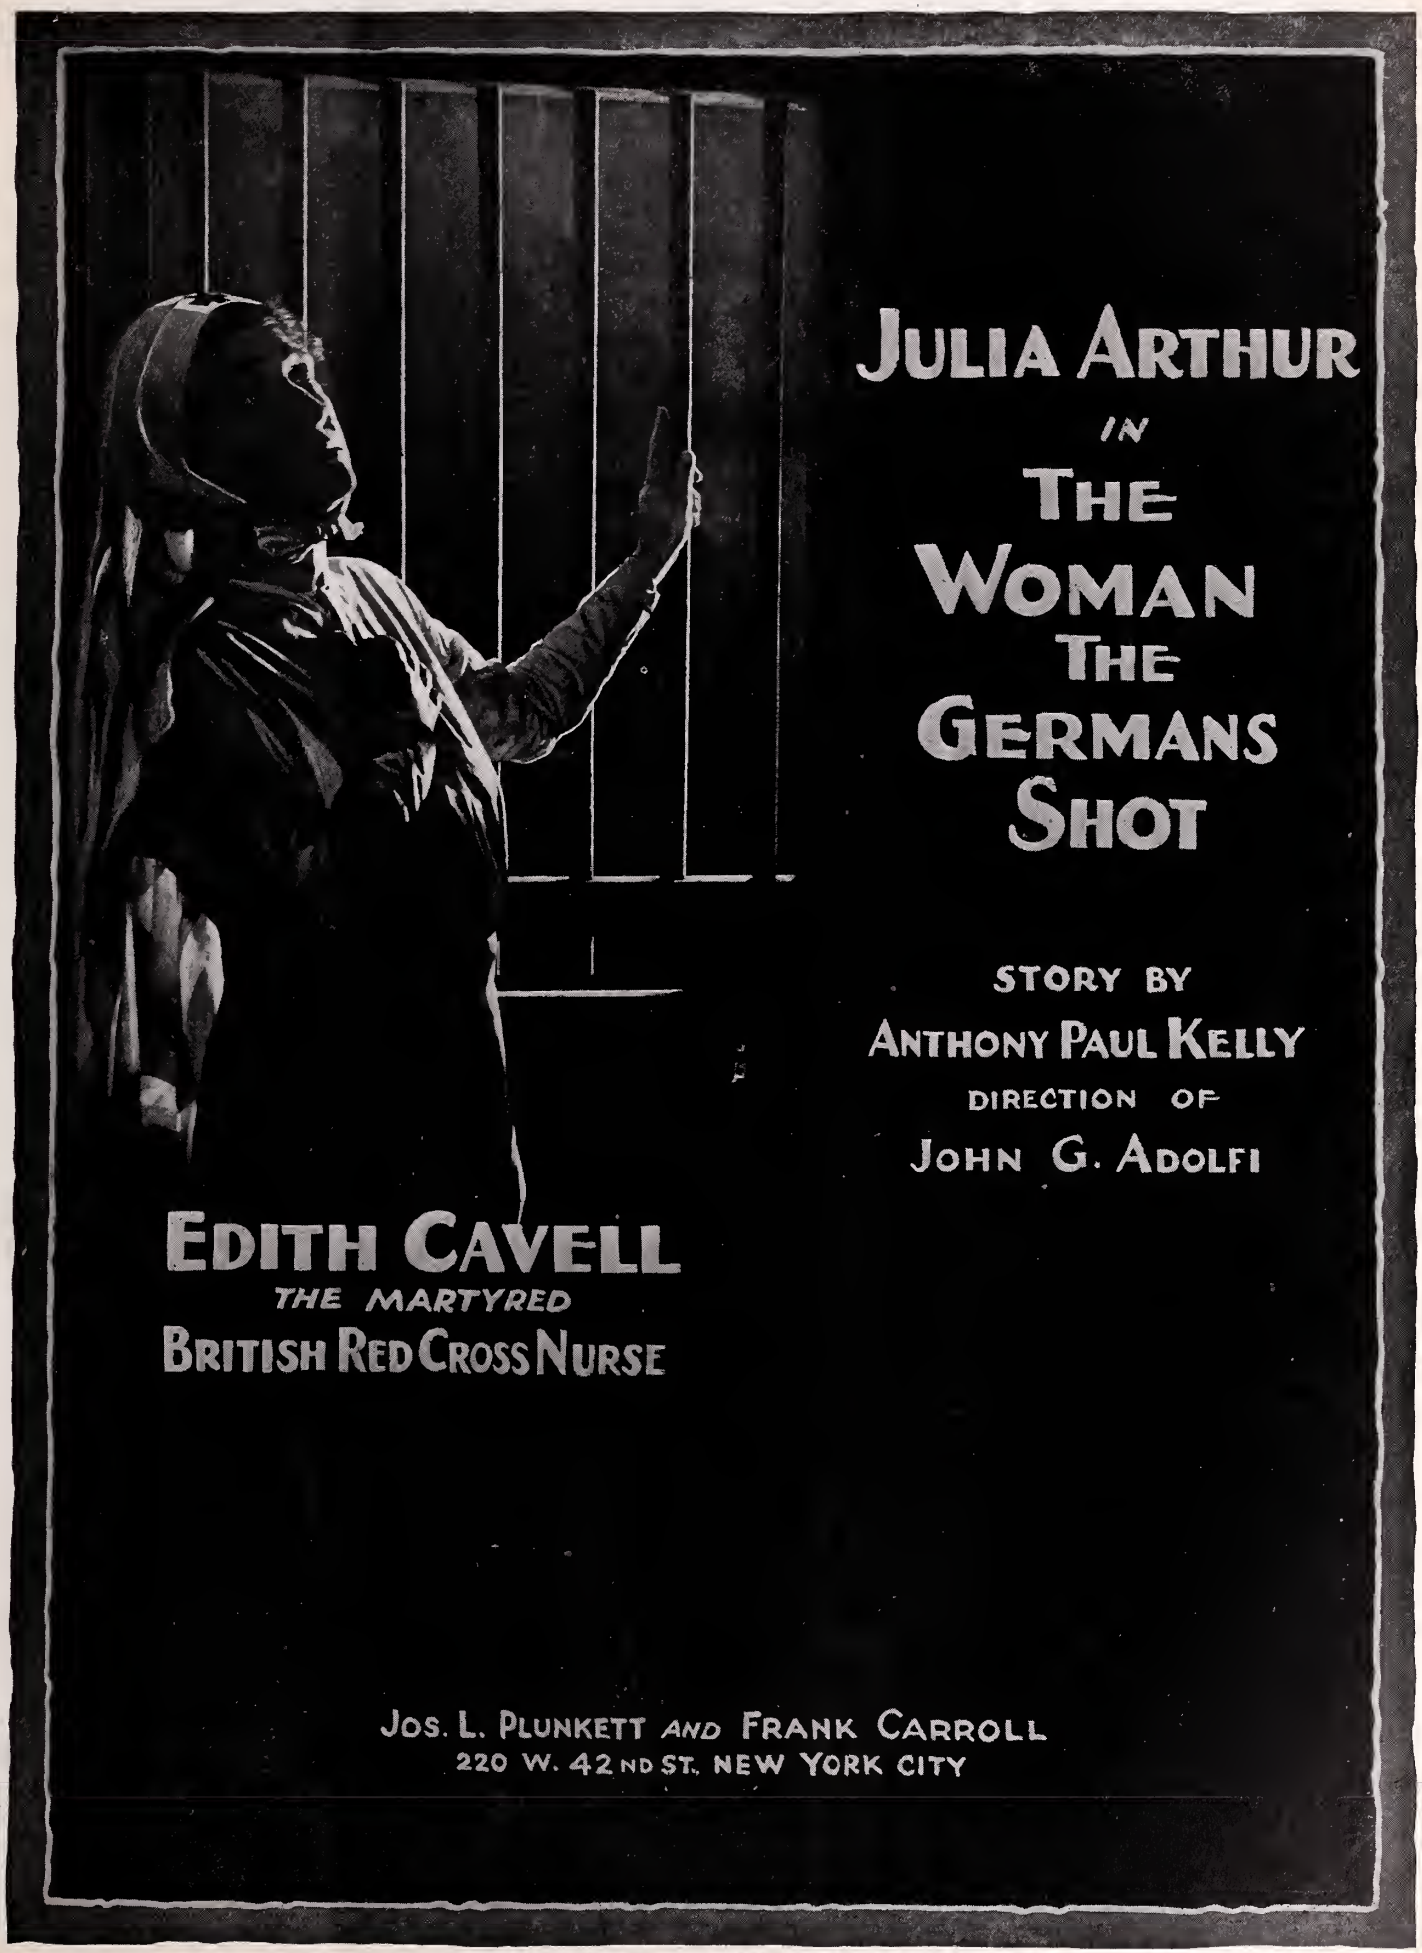
Southern Feature Film Corporation

Suite 801-806
1476 Broadway
at 42nd Street
NEW YORK

Watch for the date

EMMETT DALTON

General Manager



JULIA ARTHUR
IN
THE WOMAN THE GERMANS SHOT
STORY BY
ANTHONY PAUL KELLY DIRECTION OF
JOHN G. ADOLFI
EDITH CAVELL
THE MARTYRED
BRITISH RED CROSS NURSE
JOS. L. PLUNKETT AND FRANK CARROLL
220 W. 42 ND ST. NEW YORK CITY

No private concern, however rich, however powerful, could get such war pictures as these Government Pictures!

The carefully trained, carefully organized forces of cameramen of United States, France, Great Britain and Italy secure these pictures. They go wherever the soldiers and sailors go, where no civilian is permitted and where the shock of battle is fiercest. Their pictures, authentic, thrilling and history recording, are assembled weekly in one notable and attendance-compelling reel—

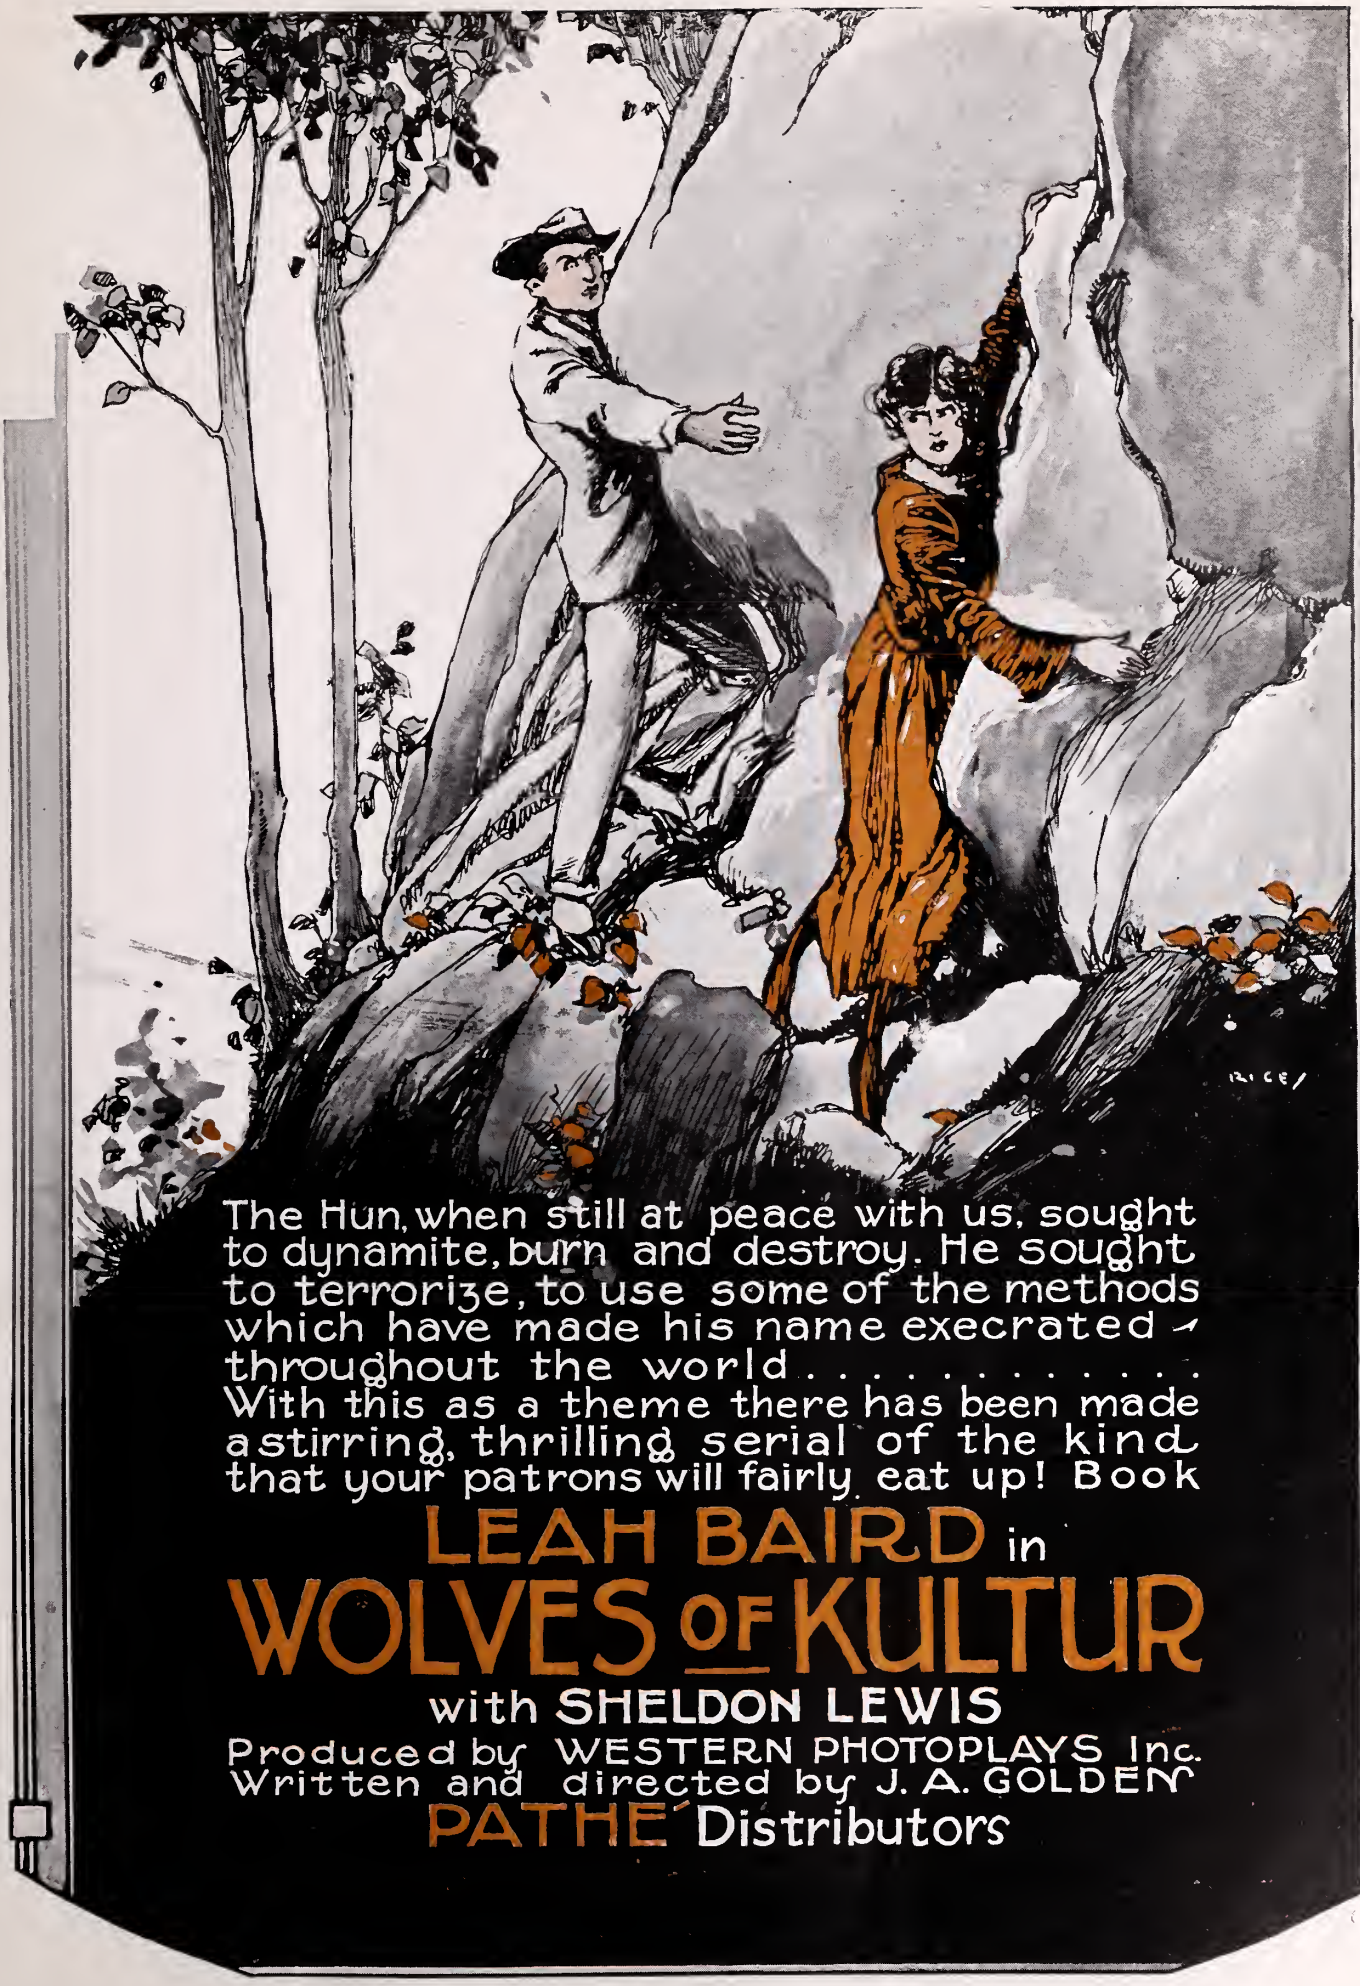
OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW

It is a release that belongs on the program of every theatre, everywhere!

Presented by
COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC INFORMATION
George Creel, Chairman
DIVISION OF FILMS
Chas. S. Hart, Director

OFFICIAL U.S. WAR FILM
COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC INFORMATION

Distributed by
PATHÉ



The Hun, when still at peace with us, sought to dynamite, burn and destroy. He sought to terrorize, to use some of the methods which have made his name execrated throughout the world . . . . . With this as a theme there has been made a stirring, thrilling serial of the kind that your patrons will fairly eat up! Book

LEAH BAIRD in
WOLVES OF KULTUR

with SHELDON LEWIS

Produced by WESTERN PHOTOPLAYS Inc.
Written and directed by J. A. GOLDEN

PATHÉ Distributors

A drum fire of thrills;
A barrage of sensations,
and a walloping, smashing theme

LEAH BAIRD in
WOLVES OF KULTUR

with SHELDON LEWIS

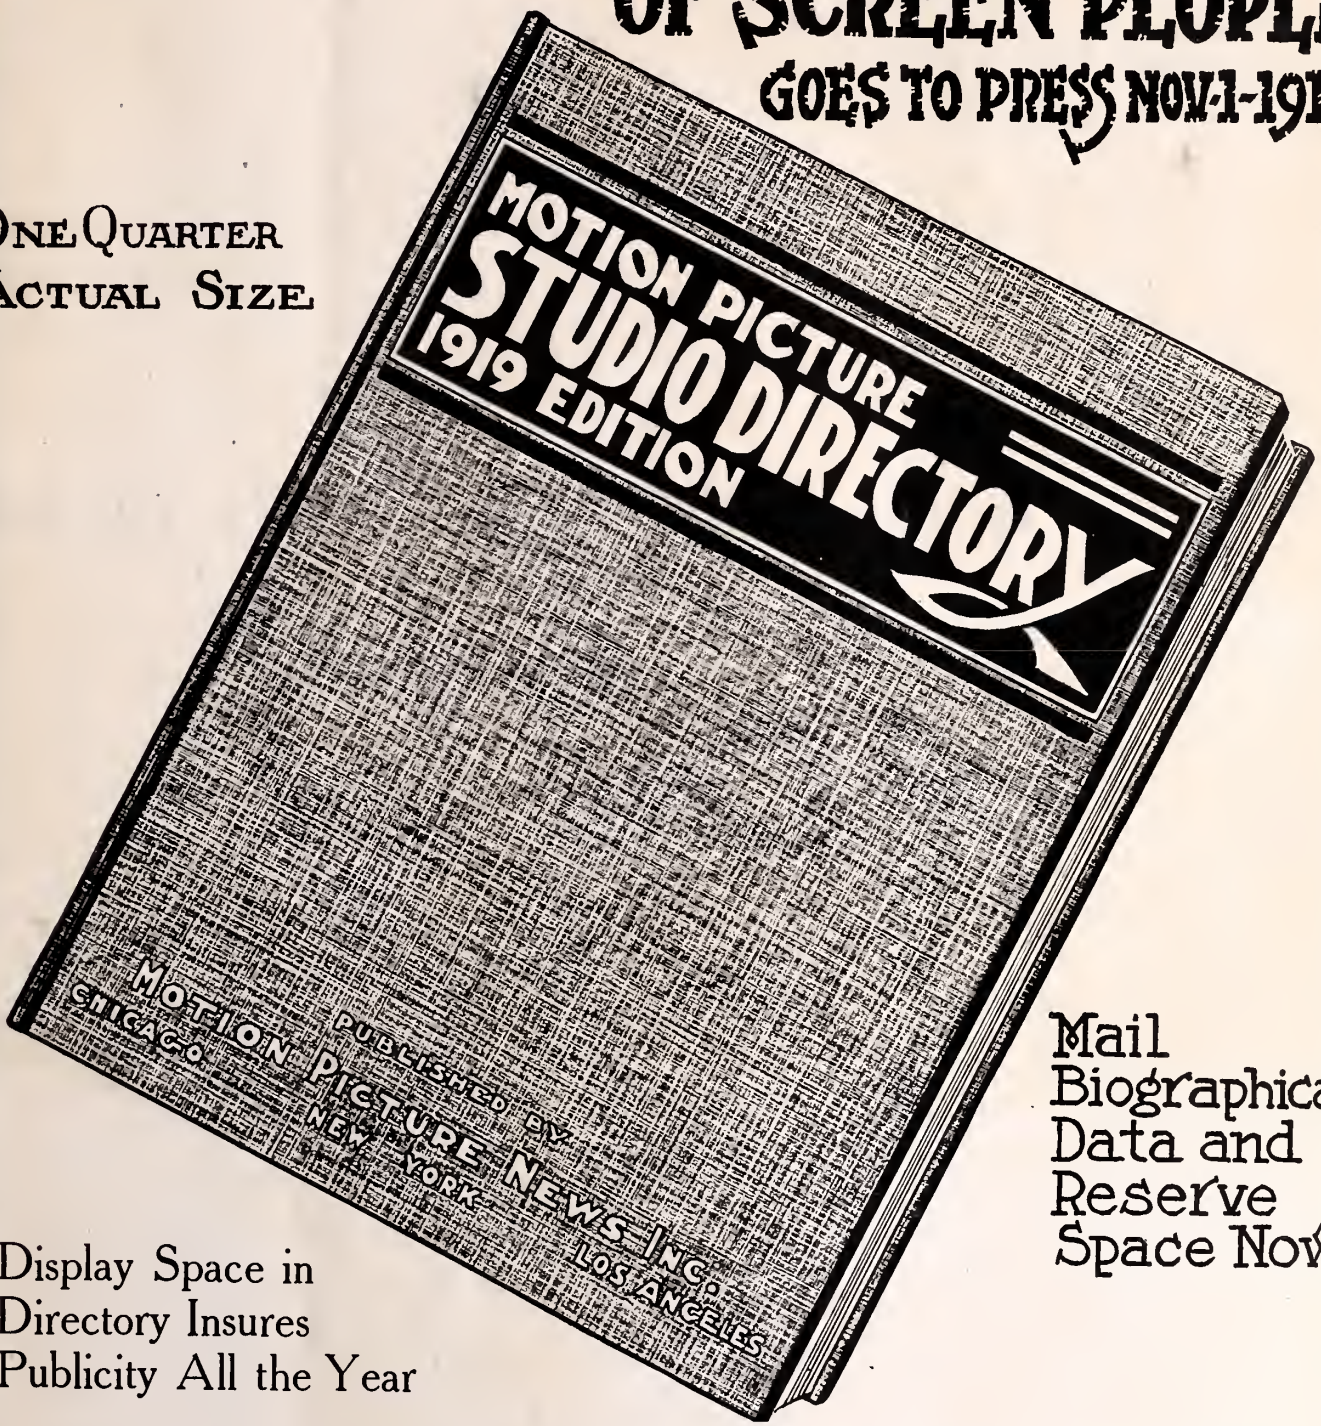
Play it up to the limit!!
Produced by Western Photoplays, Inc.
Written and directed by J.A.Golden

PATHE' Distributors..

ONLY AUTHENTIC REFERENCE BOOK OF SCREEN PEOPLE

GOES TO PRESS NOV. 1-1918

ONE QUARTER ACTUAL SIZE



Mail Biographical Data and Reserve Space Now

Display Space in Directory Insures Publicity All the Year

Studio Directory is used daily by Theatre Publicity Men, Newspaper Photoplay Editors, Employment Directors, Film Company Executives, Theatre Owners and Film Fans.

PUBLISHED BY

MOTION PICTURE NEWS Inc.

LOS ANGELES OFFICE
429 So. Figueroa St.
Pico 780
J. C. JESSEN, Rep.

729 Seventh Ave.
Phone 9360 Bryant
New York
E. K. GILLETT

CHICAGO OFFICE
220 So. State St.
Harrison 7667
W. M. HIGHT, Rep.

Service!

¶ That's Motion Picture News!

¶ Now — as always!

What can we do for you?

Motion Picture News

Vol. 18 No. 17. October 26 1918

The Week in the Film World at a Glance

"Carry On!"—By Wm. A. Johnston 2643
What Can We Do for You? 2644
Bright Spots Appear in Influenza Map 2645
Studios at Odds—Releases Upset 2646
Open Theatres Unaffected by Ban 2647
Scourge Spreads—Close More States 2648
The Statement of the Manufacturers 2649
A. D. Flintom, Pneumonia Victim 2650
Flossie Jones, of Waukesha, Dies 2650

Other News and Features of the Week

Roper Praises Industry 2651
The Screen and the Liberty Loan 2652
Sherrill Dines Live Wires 2653
The Honor Roll 2654
Exhibitors' Box Office Reports 2655
Exhibitors' Service Bureau 2658
Live News from the Producers 2668
In and Out of West Coast Studios 2681
Releases Current and Coming 2683
Equipment Service 2687
Motion Picture News Operators' Contest 2689
Projection 2690
Music 2697

Complete Plan Book

Plan Book Index 2702
Advance Reviews 2703
"The Kaiser's Finish" (Warner's) 2704
"Wolves of Kultur" (Western Photoplays-Pathe) 2705
"Everybody's Girl" (Vitagraph) 2706
"The Light of Western Stars" (United) 2707
"Marriages Are Made" (Fox) 2708
"Rosemary Climbs the Heights" (American) 2709
"Private Peat" (Artcraft) 2710
"Thirty a Week" (Goldwyn) 2711
"The Forbidden City" (Select) 2712
"Secret Strings" (Metro) 2713
"A Daughter of the Old South" (Paramount) 2714
"The Pretender" (Triangle) 2715
"Hugon, the Mighty" (Bluebird) 2716
Advance Reviews (Continued) 2717

Wm. A. Johnston, Pres. and Editor. Henry F. Sewall, Vice-Pres. E. Kendall Gillett, Sec. and Treas.

Published on Friday every week by MOTION PICTURE NEWS, Inc., 729 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y. 'Phone 9360 Bryant. Chicago Representative, W. M. Hight, 220 So. State St.; 'Phone Harrison 7667. Los Angeles Representative, J. C. Jessen, 429 South Figueroa St.; 'Phones 780 Pico, F-4661. Subscription $2 a year, postpaid, in United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands. Canada, $3. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for Motion Picture News at less than these rates. Have the agent who takes your subscription show his credentials and coupon book.

Copyright, 1918, by Motion Picture News, Inc.

HERE'S THE KIND OF TROUBLE YOU ARE LOOKING FOR ¶ "TRIPLE TROUBLE," Essanay's brand new CHARLIE CHAPLIN Comedy, is causing all kinds of trouble.

¶ Exhibitors everywhere have had trouble in finding even standing room for the immense crowds thronging to see it.

¶ They have had to take the trouble to listen to their patrons telling them how much they enjoyed it.

¶ They have had extra trouble in counting up their big box office receipts.

¶ Essanay has had telegrams and letters from every part of the country telling of these troubles. Here's just another sample from Eugene Levy, of Levy's Orpheum Theatre, Seattle, Wash., who wired:

> "'Triple Trouble' broke our house records. Doing tremendous business and giving satisfaction to our patrons. It's a sure fine box office winner."

IS THIS KIND OF TROUBLE WORTH WHILE?

ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR PRESIDENT

George Kleine System
Distributors

Perfection Pictures

"When you see it in 'The News' It's News"

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

"The Exhibitors' Medium of Communication"

Volume 18. No. 17 October 26, 1918

"Carry On"

THE industry, at this writing, is just beginning to see a trifle clearly after the double blow struck it—the very heavy closing of theatres plus the sharp and unexpected stoppage of production and new releases.

We are giving elsewhere a summary of conditions, gathered at the exchange centers.

Briefly the situation is about as follows:

Between seventy and eighty per cent of the theatres are closed;

The first-run houses in the large cities still open feel keenly the curtailment of their regular supply, but are presenting bills of available film;

The later-run houses are going on as usual;

The program exchanges are reordering the distribution of their pictures in stock, with no difficulty in the way of supply due to previous overproduction and the banking up of film as the demand slowed down with the beginning of the epidemic; independent exchanges are very active;

There is some unavoidable confusion in film shipments between theatres due to the sudden theatre closings;

Closed theatres are renovating.

Many open theatres burdened with rental contracts and reduced attendance would prefer to close.

The bright spots are: the probability of reopened theatres here and there where the epidemic came earlier and is waning; the added probability that the epidemic in general will be shortlived; the curtailment of production and the good effect of this in the long run; the increased circulation of previous releases.

* * *

THE high spot of the whole situation is this: it is highly regrettable that steps were not taken long ago to reduce production in the orderly fashion permitted by well laid plans and full announcements well in advance. Waiting for a wholesale closing of theatres gives surely less hardship in an unforeseen crisis instead of permanent health and strength.

However, it is strikingly characteristic of the film industry that united action never happens save in the face of universal catastrophe.

Will the crisis serve as a lesson? Will it indicate the ways and means of economic health? Will it drive home the plain truth that no producing or distributing company in the business is prepared to face a severe eventuality—the kind that any sound industry must always be prepared to meet?

We fervently trust so.

This is not a time to moralize: but it is a time to get cool and thoughtful, to do some introspection, retrospection, and to face the future not with the usual motion picture madness, but anew—with some sane business sense.

The industry will pull through.

And every branch of it, exhibitor, distributor, producer, trade paper, should and will take its medicine smilingly and "carry on."

* * *

MOTION PICTURE NEWS will redouble its efforts to be of service to the industry, to give its utmost cooperation to every maker and distributor of pictures, regardless of any individual consideration.

We are publishing this week, and we will continue to publish just the same kind of magazine editorially as we have published. The only restrictions are those imposed automatically upon us by stopped production.

The sweeping curtailment of advertising announcements by united action we regard as hasty, ill advised and just plain, bad business—in the industry's best interests.

Has the picture company no announcement to make to the open theatre it expects to continue business with; and none to the closed theatres it hopes to resume business with?

Unquestionably; and every theatre is looking for these business announcements.

Probably they will be sent—at double or treble the usual expense—by mail direct.

* * *

THE fallacy of this step is the direct result of fallacious policies in trade advertising.

Trade paper advertising should concern itself just as much with past releases still in circulation as with pictures about to be released; it should be a matter of service to the exhibitor not of self-edification to the advertiser and hoped for mortification to his competitor; it is, in short, a plain matter of necessity and economy, so clearly known and firmly established beyond any arguments.

Perhaps, again, however, the stopping of trade paper advertising will have a salutary effect upon its future character.

These facts are given with no rancor whatever, but only constructively in the interests of better advertising effort behind the sale of pictures to the public.

Some producers thought that trade papers could also stop production. They cannot; and MOTION PICTURE NEWS furthermore will not attempt to make any curtailment whatever in its operative expense.

We will live up, to the letter, to our contracts with our subscribers.

And for the whole industry we cheerfully "carry on."

What Can We Do For You?

¶ Mrs. Annette Allaimbie Johnston, wife of William A. Johnston, publisher of Motion Picture News, succumbed to pneumonia, Wednesday, October 16th.

¶ The staff of Motion Picture News feels confident that it is joined by the entire industry in the deep and heartfelt sympathy here extended to the bereaved.

¶ Would that type could convey even the shadow of a hand-clasp!

NO, the line above is not a new heading for this page of ten point "next to editorial." It's merely our way of saying—"Them's our sentiments."

And the same goes for every member of Motion Picture News staff, every resource of Motion Picture News country-wide staff of correspondents and every means we possess of reaching ten thousand exhibitors.

We are at the same old stand doing business as usual during alterations.

Grab this thought—while eighty per cent of the theaters of the country are closed up, one hundred per cent of the News readers are still in possession of their eyesight—and with more time than ever to employ it.

What can we do for you?

* * * *

WE suppose we ought to have given this page a real serious heading this week and then launched into a heavy discussion of conditions throughout the country, the "present crisis" and so on.

But, frankly, we are firm believers in the "Cheer Up!" philisophy. And, secondly, we couldn't resist the opportunity to answer the Prize Pest.

Who is the Prize Pest?

Why he's the fellow who has stopped us on at least sixty-eight different occasions in the past week and said:

"Gee, but you fellows must be sore. No advertising for four weeks! I'll bet you give the manufacturers some panning! Not going to publish anything for them, are you?"

For the love of Mike!

The fellow who talks that way knows less about the function of a trade paper and the reasons for its success than the manufacturer does who discontinues advertising just because his customers have lots of reading time on their hands.

And that's zero!

We are here to serve an industry—and to serve as well in good weather as in bad weather.

What can we do for you?

* * * *

BUT, these pleasant thoughts aside, hasn't it been a tempestuous week since you saw the last issue of Motion Picture News and the first complete story of the month's shut-down?

Just because this page took a much-needed three weeks' rest, the whole blamed industry got jealous and decided to take a four-week lay-off.

Wonder if the order includes Frederick H. Elliott?

We hope so.

After two years experience with Frederick Heavens! Elliott, culminating last Thursday in a blood-sweating attempt to secure an official statement regarding a meeting that had been common Broadway property for twelve hours we are inclined to the belief that the National Association deserves all it gets—including both epidemics and Expositions.

To secure a three word confirmation our telephone operator spent two hours on the phone and only succeeded, after many gradations, in reaching a third cousin of God who said that her boss would have an official statement ready at 6 o'clock.

That was at five-thirty Thursday—for a publication already an hour and a half behind press time.

And the statement arrived at noon on Tuesday five days later.

* * * *

GOSH, we will be taking Frederick seriously yet. Let's change the subject. You fellows out in the sticks want to know what Broadway thinks of the four week ban.

Ask us:

"What seems to be the effect of the shut-down?"

"The effect is next to nil. With the film companies estimating the closed houses all the way from eighty per cent up the picture ban didn't make much difference to anybody. In the sections that are still open, with the exception of Broadway, the first run houses are reported all the way from four to twelve weeks behind release schedules anyway. So, why worry?

"What does 'wise' Broadway give as the reason for the shut-down?"

The wiseacres say that most of the big fellows are running so close to the wall that a drastic move was the only one possible.

"What is the most pertinent observation you heard during the week?"

This: "If they had only shut down when Pat Powers first suggested it—and the theaters were doing big business—they would have cleaned up on their old pictures and gained strength. Now—."

"Will the manufacturers stick together? They never have trusted one another. Will they this time?"

I dunno! But a little birdie disclosed a conversation to me during the week which had one manufacturer offering a big exhibitor any of his coming features if he'd only stop kicking. And another birdie told me of a director who had received orders to start on a picture Friday. And still another birdie brought a bit of press matter which told of a company that couldn't maintain its release policy and abide by the agreement, so——.

"Why did they cut out advertising?"

To get time to seriously analyze the whole trade paper proposition. When they get ready to start again they'll have their schedules arranged so that the big splash goes in the paper that dominates the field, the nominal copy in the nominal papers, and so on.

"What are you doing during these four weeks of 'no advertising.'"

Turning out just as big a book—editorially—as ever. Doing the best we know how to serve an industry.

What can we do for you?

Bright Spots Appear On Influenza Map

Boston to Open Theatres Monday—Pennsylvania Board Not to Await State-Wide Abatement, But Will Lift Ban in Sections as Epidemic Wanes

WITH a four weeks' shutdown of the picture industry decreed bright spots have already begun to appear on the influenza war map. Close observers do not even faintly hope for a lifting of the ban before the time set, but they welcome the few bits of cheerful news as certain to forestall any indefinite lengthening of the period hinted at in some quarters.

Boston, first and hardest hit in the Spanish influenza epidemic, has rallied and its theatres expect to open Monday. Numerous theatrical companies left New York for the Hub during the past week. Managers of all sorts of amusements look for a boom season in Boston after the many dark nights.

From Pennsylvania comes a ray of cheer in the statement of the Health Board that as fast as the epidemic—already on the run in some sections—leaves a particular district the ban on theatres will be lifted. From other corners of the country come varying bits of optimism. New Jersey, in particular, reporting the scourge abating.

In Jersey City, Mayor Hague last week permitted the reopening of the saloons—but as yet no action has been taken regarding the theatres. The managers here, as in most sections under the ban, are in no hurry to reopen until assured that the epidemic has passed. Boom times are looked for as soon as patrons feel they may attend the theatres in safety—but not while the slightest fear of the epidemic remains.

Penn's Health Board Anxious to Co-Operate

HARRISBURG (Special).—Just as soon as the influenza epidemic leaves one part of the state of Pennsylvania the ban on motion picture shows and theatrical performances will be lifted there, even though the disease still is prevailing in other parts of the state, according to assurances given on October 9, by Dr. J. Franklin Royer, State Health Commissioner, to fifty picture and theatrical men who called on him in his office in the capitol at Harrisburg. The lifting of the ban in each community will be up to the local health boards.

The picture men informed the Commissioner of a spirit of complete co-operation with him in his efforts to suppress the disease which, up to that time already had reaped a toll of 3,000 lives in the state. They explained to him that they have no desire to reopen their theatres until he gives the word, but impressed on him that it would be a great advantage to them if he would give them all the notice possible in advance of the order to resume business.

They pointed out that unlike some lines of business a theatre could not resume activities profitably without some time to give the managers the opportunity to contract for attractions and to advertise.

It was then Dr. Royer gave assurance that he would give all the notice possible and made the promise that the ban would be lifted from parts of the state without waiting for the entire state to be free from the disease. He said that the epidemic seemed to be going from the east to the west, across Pennsylvania, and that as soon as it was safe to withdraw the ban in the east it would be done.

CHEER UP!

The Business May Be Shut Down But We Can Still Laugh

WHY worry when the press agents are still with us? For example, four days after the manufacturers have decided to shut down because business is so poor we receive an expensively mimeographed story that Mr. So-and-So, president of the Such - and - Such Corporation finds that business all over the country is now better than ever—because of the gasless Sundays.

And then there is that three hundred word special we received during the week retailing the startling information that "——— Is Fond of Elephants."

And last of all—and this may be true—on the authority of no less a body than the War Department's Commission on Training Camp activities we learn that fifteen conscientious objectors at a Southern camp forgot all their scruples and started after the Kaiser immediately after viewing "To Hell With the Kaiser."

Prior to the visit to the capitol the theatre managers and picture men held a session among themselves in the Majestic Theatre. This meeting was called by the Central Theatrical Managers' Association, of which Mr. Fitzgerald, of the Lyric theatre, Allentown, is president, and Nathan Appel, of Reading, secretary. The association adopted resolutions pledging co-operation with the health authorities. Fred Nirdlinger, of Philadelphia, and Walter Vincent, of the Wilmer & Vincent interests, spoke:

Others in attendance at the meeting included:

Secretary Koneke, of the Wilmer & Vincent Company, New York; C. Floyd Hopkins, manager of the Orpheum, Majestic and Colonial theatres, Harrisburg; Athens George, Victoria theatre, Harrisburg; Ford Anderson, Orpheum, Allentown; George Carr, Orpheum, Reading; J. C. Michler, Michler theatre, Altoona; Jacob Silverman, Strand, Altoona; Michael Boyle, Majestic, Johnstown; M. R. Shearer, Cambria Opera House, Johnstown; J. H. Goodman, Hazleton; and others from numerous other smaller cities of the State.

Rochester Closed for Ten Days—Look for Relief

ROCHESTER (Special).—Taken by surprise by the order closing all theatres of the city, followed by the announcement that all releases were to be discontinued for a month, picture men of Rochester, N. Y., could not adjust themselves to conditions for several days. The order from the local commissioner of public safety was issued on Tuesday and was to take effect the next night at midnight, thus closing the theatres in the middle of their week's bookings and leaving them nonplussed as to what preparations to make for reopening. The order was to be effective for ten days, or until October 21.

It was said by a representative of the Regorson Corporation, which controls the Regent and Piccadilly theatres, the two largest houses of the city, that bookings would be upset to some extent if the producing companies held up releases as threatened, but that old pictures could be obtained to fill in, if necessary, as there are many high-class films that have not been shown in Rochester.

"The chief thing that we are worrying about," said this representative, "is not whether we can get pictures but whether the theatres will be able to open on the day scheduled. We think, however, that the closing order was issued so promptly that the epidemic will be halted before it has a chance to become more serious, and that the theatres will be permitted to open again. Although all of the pictures we have booked have not yet been released, it will merely be a matter of getting some others to fill in with, which ought not to be a difficult matter, provided the exchanges do not try to hold us up. So far there has been no indication of any trouble in that quarter and I do not expect that there will be. On the whole the tendency among managers is to take an optimistic view of the situation."

Speaking from the point of view of the smaller exhibitors, Joseph Stoffel of the Grand theatre, said that the principal difficulty will be in regard to the running of weekly chapters of serial films. The theatres in Rochester have a regular order for showing these chapters, and a mixup in dates will mean that some houses will get their installments out of turn. The closing of the theatres in the middle of the week meant that some theatres had shown their installments and will now be ready for the next, while others, which show them late in the week, are still one chapter behind.

Studios at Odds—Releases Upset

Most Los Angeles Production Plants Idle, But Some Announce Decision to Work—Manufacturers in Tangle Over Some Releases

NOT without a hitch did the four weeks' ban on new productions or releases fall on the motion picture industry.

From Los Angeles come reports that five of the principal studios are closing down as fast as productions now in the making are completed. But at last accounts an equal number of important plants had announced their decision to continue picture making without delay.

In New York the week was spent by the headquarters' organization in tussling with release schedules. While the general statement may be made that all pictures will be put forward four weeks, there were many puzzling questions caused by prints already shipped to meet special contracts.

The majority of the studios in the East are still at work, though a complete shutdown is looked for when productions now in the making are completed. Laboratories are up in the air, the Universal plant having closed down, while the others are marking time pending completion of work already in hand. With no new releases in sight for four weeks the outlook is blue.

¶ Service!

¶ It isn t worth a darn unless you get it when you need it.

¶ What can we do for you?

Los Angeles Hit from . Studios to Theatres

Los Angeles (Special) — Universal, Lasky, Fox, Triangle and Metro are closing down on production as fast as the different units complete pictures now in hand.

When last heard from the Griffith, Ince, Chaplin, and Clara Kimball Young organizations planned to continue at work without any suspension. The Brunton studios, where seven units are now busily engaged, continue active.

Orders to the producing plants have been coming in since last Thursday. Universal reduced the size of the organization Friday. Triangle will finish this week and Metro closes on Saturday. Several companies at the Lasky plant have already finished.

Los Angeles exchanges have been hard hit by the epidemic. On last Thursday, the Board of Health, backed by the City Council, issued an order closing all theatres. At the present writing all the theatres in Arizona are closed and seventy per cent of those in Southern California.

No changes have been felt in the San Francisco territory except in a few smaller cities.

Los Angeles exchanges have reduced their forces to a minimum, which is about one-fourth the usual number of employes. The majority of the managers wired headquarters reducing their salaries fifty per cent during the period the theatres are closed.

Statement Made Regarding "Shoulder Arms"

Charles Chaplin in "Shoulder Arms" will not suffer because of the shut down although this was scheduled for release later than October 15. It shows at the Strand theatre in New York City week beginning October 20, and Manager Edel already has the print.

The various First National exchanges throughout the country already have the prints of "Shoulder Arms" on hand and the probabilities are that where this picture is contracted for in houses that are still running, it will be shown.

Mr. Schwalbe, of the First National, explained to the producers that his organization was in a little different position than most of the producing companies, as the First National could not dictate to the various exchanges.

It is the desire, however, to live up to the spirit and intent of the agreement as is evidenced by the following extract from the communication that First National Exhibitors' Circuit sent to all its exchanges:

"I have thoroughly explained to them at their meeting our status in the matter, and told them we would be very glad to do all we can to cooperate in every way, and pointed out that we did not have regular release or schedule dates, and in particular instances where prints had already been shipped to the members, and where the appearances of these films had been advertised in advance as coming attractions, we would do our best to ask members to hold off their release dates until after November 9. At the same time I pointed out to them that we had no definite means of enforcing regulations of this kind, for I know that in the East here, particularly in New York City, where theatres are open, business is so wretchedly poor on account of the epidemic, they would be saving money with the doors closed, and no film service or help to pay, than by having the doors open, and probably this condition follows, to a great extent, in your territory.

"May I suggest, therefore, that you use every effort to withhold release dates until after November 9, so that it will be in keeping with the spirit of the producers, and so that we will not be accused of unfair dealings by making releases at various points of the films you now have on hand that have been released in your territory."

Goldwyn's Plans

Mabel Normand will have to shiver in her one-piece bathing suit, "A Perfect 36," until the chill November winds blow, according to Goldwyn officials. This was the picture scheduled for release October 28. However, Tom Moore in "Thirty a Week" will have its pre-release at the Rialto in New York, although scheduled for release October 21.

Director Hart Discusses Influenza Embargo

In a statement to exhibitors explaining the necessity for delaying the release of "America's Answer," the United States Official War Picture, from October 28 to November 11, Director Chas. S. Hart, of the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information, says:

"The delay is regrettable but cannot be avoided. Even Government pictures must yield to the orders of the various health boards closing the motion picture theatres until the abatement of the influenza. In several cities where 'America's Answer' was booked to play directly under Government auspices, influenza has compelled cancellations, after considerable preliminary exploitation. The enforced delay in releasing the picture means a great deal of extra work for the distributors, the World Film Corporation, as well as for the Department of Domestic Distribution of the Division of Films, but the situation is well in hand, and there will be no confusion growing out of the delay."

Universal Tickled By Employees' Attitude

Universal reports a remarkable demonstration of loyalty by all its employees during the last few days in reference to the curtailment of production and business. When the dark cloud of partial shutdown came near, telegrams, letters and personal expressions of willingness to sacrifice poured into the home offices.

"The one bright thought in this situation," said R. H. Cochrane, vice-president, "is the renewed assurance we have received of our workers' willingness to help in every way. It is a matter of pride that will brace the organization with new spirit and determination to overcome obstacles."

Famous Players Pushes Four Weeks Ahead

According to officials in the Famous Players-Lasky offices their releases scheduled for October 20 will be automatically set for four weeks hence and from thence will pursue the even tenor of their way.

In regards with contracts with first-run downtown houses that are being permitted to run by the authorities, it was declared that these houses need not suffer as there would be no dearth of pictures suitable to run as first-runs.

It was pointed out by one Paramount official that two of the largest first-run houses in New York City had ignored the Vivian Martin productions and that this would supply them for some time.

Open Theatres Unaffected By Ban

Broadway Houses Hard Hit, But Most Sections Report First Run Theatres Far Ahead on Releases—Shortage of New Comedies Felt By Some

REPORTS specially gathered by Motion Picture News from all exchange centers show that theatres in those sections still free from the influenza ban are giving little worry to the four weeks' shutdown on new pictures. "Overproduction has long ago made a one month or two month discontinuance a negligible factor to us," is the consensus of the reports from first-run houses.

New York's select circle—the Broadway houses—were hard hit, however. Instead of being behind release schedules, these playhouses have maintained a pre-release policy, which now leaves them only old subjects—in many cases already played in smaller neighborhood shows.

Omaha Finds Problem Solved By Old Man "Flu"

OMAHA (Special).—Omaha and its tributary territory will not be discommoded in any serious manner by the shutdown of production for a four week or even longer period for the demand, for films here has never equaled the output. In addition to this the four weeks slowing up in production has been neutralized to a great degree all through Nebraska and Iowa by the epidemic of Spanish influenza, which has closed theatres generally. In Omaha itself there are five big houses, the Rialto, Strand, Sun, Muse and Empress, all of which are strictly motion picture houses except the last which also runs vaudeville.

The rental situation in Omaha, on account of the few real first-class houses, is extremely low to the exhibitor for this class of service. The suburban houses obtain pictures very shortly after their release at the downtown houses at prices ranging from $7.50 to $15 for ordinary releases.

Opinion of the exhibitors in general in Omaha is that there will be plenty of films for all to show, and that the standard of their shows will not have to be lowered unless there is a prolonged shutdown.

San Francisco Gets Chance to Catch Up

SAN FRANCISCO (Special).—If the suspension of production does not last more than four weeks it will have no effect upon San Francisco exchanges except to give them a chance to catch up on back pictures which have been released but not shown here.

Most first-run houses here are booked ahead about six weeks. A careful canvas of the pictures released but not yet produced shows approximately sixty subjects.

Local exchanges are very optimistic on this phase of the situation. Several managers say that with reasonable return engagements San Francisco could be kept supplied with attractions for six months. The supply of new subjects would last six or seven weeks.

Theatre attendance has been hard hit by the influenza scare. Some small houses in the territory have closed.

POSTPONED

¶ The Cleveland meeting of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers has been indefinitely postponed.

¶ The action complies with a request of the U. S. Health Service to discontinue all public gatherings during the influenza epidemic.

Spokane "Doesn't Give a Hang" What Producers Do

SPOKANE (Special).—Spokane theatres are not affected by the manufacturers four weeks' ban. Without exception they could go on if no picture were produced for the next six months. Of course they are closed temporarily because of the epidemic, but they have little to worry about even when the ban is lifted, so far behind release schedules are they.

The Liberty is already two months behind on Paramount and Artcraft releases and fixed to go ahead if no pictures are produced for several weeks. The same rule holds fairly true regarding conditions throughout the city.

Spokane is suffering from too high a rating by the manufacturers which keeps the exhibitors from bidding strongly for pictures. Labor is emigrating to Seattle and the shipyard centers, and there are no war contracts here.

Big Houses May Suffer in St. Paul

MINNEAPOLIS (Special).—With the exception of St. Paul and few small Minnesota towns hardly three dozen theatres in the Northwest are now operating due to influenza. St. Paul stays open due to checking of spread of disease. Business there very poor, however.

St. Paul theatres are running first-run films released prior to October 15. In smaller towns theatres are running same age of releases as usual. It is expected that large theatres will have to repeat some if ban is not lifted soon, but Ruben & Finkelstein have many good pictures booked as far ahead as December.

Exhibitors are taking their losses good naturedly but have hopes that ban will be lifted in about ten days.

Exchange men can get along with films now on hand for many weeks to come, but holding up releases will hurt larger city theatres.

Montana Not Seriously Affected by Shutdown

BUTTE (Special).—Montana exhibitors are not seriously affected by the suspension of production and release by manufacturers due to so many features of the past year not having been shown.

Manager George Bourke, of the Universal Exchange, estimates such features total one hundred. Famous Players-Lasky houses are a month or more in arrears, thereby being enabled to exhibit releases made just prior to the shutdown. These releases while older are new for Butte and Montana; they are being booked as first-run at top rentals.

The biggest blow to theatres results from closing orders in all leading cities in Montana except Lewistown, Helena and Bozeman issued by local boards of health. Butte has two hundred influenza cases, but the situation is believed under control. Even if open, local theatres would not suffer from manufacturers' action having large reservoir of unused features to draw upon. Over-production of films has brought this condition about. While hard hit, exhibitors view the situation hopefully, expecting quarantine to be lifted soon. When houses reopen they will resume service where halted. The leading theatres are renovating now.

Detroit Theatres Hard Hit for Short Subjects

DETROIT (Special).—Detroit theatres will feel the effects of the four weeks' shutdown on new productions only slightly as regards features, but there is considerable demand for new short subjects.

Most of the first-run houses are from four to six weeks behind schedule time on bookings, but they are up almost to release on comedies and other short subjects.

Owing to the fuel situation last winter, when houses were closed two nights weekly, nearly every exhibitor got behind and it is only recently that they have begun to catch up.

It is possible and almost probable that all of the Detroit theatres will be closed in the near future because of the spread of the influenza epidemic. Dance resorts have already been closed.

Scourge Spreads—Close More States

Illinois Struck by State-Wide Theatre Closing Order—Northwest Hard Hit—Epidemic Turns Up as Far South as Tampa

WHILE signs continue to come that the Spanish influenza is abating in those sections first hit, reports received during the week showed the sweeping hand of the epidemic blighting additional territories daily.

Illinois' ban on picture theatres was the biggest blow of the past week. In addition the scourge made still heavier inroads on the important Northwest territory.

Apparently no corner of the map is now safe. From as far south as Tampa comes word of theatre closings. The northernmost record is still held by the Montreal territory, which is practically at a standstill.

Illinois Closed for Indefinite Period

CHICAGO (Special).—All theatres in Illinois have been closed for an indefinite period as a result of action taken in a night session October 14 by the executive committee of the emergency commission recently created to combat the influenza-pneumonia epidemic. The order will be a legally binding one of the State Department of Public Health to be enforced by local authorities throughout the State. Chicago Health Commissioner Robertson will send a letter to Acting Chief of Police Alcock, asking for immediate enforcement.

At the request of the commission, Marquis Eaton, president of the Chicago Chapter of the American Red Cross, announced the decision to the newspaper men who had been waiting outside the closed doors for almost five hours.

There was a manifest desire to avoid any unnecessary interference with the Liberty Loan campaign. The closing of the theatres will check one phase of the work.

The effect of the closing of the Chicago theatres brought a wide variance of opinion, estimates of the financial loss to the owners and others involved differed greatly. The number of people thus thrown out of employment will run into the thousands.

Cleveland Is Closed

CLEVELAND, OHIO—Over seven hundred movies in Ohio, including all Cleveland houses, closed Sunday midnight, October 13, for two weeks.

Tiffin, Sycamore, Bucyrus, Kenmore, Warren, Hilldale and Mineral City are the only Ohio towns reported as being open.

Alliance closed one week, reopened for one day and closed again. Most exchanges are open. Universal and Hodkinson running with greatly reduced forces. Board of Motion Picture Exchange Managers have arranged for local exhibitors to resume booking where discontinued Sunday.

Out-of-town exhibitors will wildcat until resumption of regular releases. Cleveland exhibitors are glad that action was taken in time to close before epidemic becomes so violent as to necessitate long-closed period.

¶ "Doing business as usual during alterations."

¶ That's us.

¶ What can we do for you?

Many houses are cleaning and renovating also redecorating after laying off all their help. Illuminating Company guarantees that there will be no charges made while the theatres are dark.

Effort is being made to have property rentals for dark period deducted. Liberty Loan films are being shown in ten neighborhoods free in the streets. Exhibitors report excellent business on Sunday. Public not in sympathy with closing of movie theatres.

New Orleans Houses Also Affected

NEW ORLEANS.—The chief effect of discontinuance of releases for thirty days is the disorganization of the offce forces in the various film exchanges.

The epidemic of influenza has closed all the theatres, and exhibitors are merely drifting. Most of them are remodeling or freshening up their theatres and paying very little attention to releases.

They expect to take up the programs where they left off if they are available, and if not they will do the next best thing, not caring about the matter either way.

The only marked interest is in the Government subjects which are being released. A wonderful demand has been created through the agency of the present loan drive and people want war subjects. Program releases are given no exceptional prominence.

Employees of film exchanges have been quick to find other employment when dismissed on account of restrictions of influenza scare, and many declare that they will not again take up film work. When the ban is lifted the exchange managers will find badly disorganized forces with little chance of re-establishing efficient forces.

The closing of theatres, in the main, is regarded as a good thing for the time being. A great rush is expected when the theatres open again.

Denver White Way Dark—Theatres Closed

DENVER, COL.—The "floo" epidemic is playing havoc with the picture business in the Rocky Mountain section. For the first time in its history Denver's celebrated White Way is dark, and may remain so two weeks longer.

The situation in Denver is the same in every city and village in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, Idaho, and part of Wyoming, all public places being closed by official state proclamations or orders issued by local Boards of Health.

As a result of the closing of theatres, Denver exchanges have called in their road salesmen to partially offset the losses through heavy decreases in their volume of business.

Just how soon the ban will be lifted permitting the reopening of theatres, schools and churches is a matter of conjecture. There are upwards of one thousand cases in Denver alone, and several deaths have been reported. It is believed the epidemic is now under control in all territory tributary to Denver.

Utah-Idaho Territory Theatres Closed

SALT LAKE, UTAH.—Motion picture houses throughout Utah, Idaho and adjoining States are closed by orders of the State Health Authorities, forbidding public gatherings as likely to aggravate the epidemic of Spanish influenza.

Local office managers for exchange services report that bookings are at a standstill in this district. As a result at the present there is no problem of providing either first run or second run bookings for show houses since the order is absolute and final and there are practically no moving picture theatres open in this territory.

Utah has been under closed orders for more than a week, with little prospect that the order will be modified soon.

World's Players Help

Montagu Love, Evelyn Greeley, Carlyle Blackwell and June Elvidge, representing the World stars, and Oscar Apfel and Dell Henderson, the directors, requested the company to permit them to lay off for four weeks without salary and extend their contracts for four weeks in order that they might do their bit to meet conditions growing out of the influenza epidemic. Each of these people held contracts that called for their salaries on a play or pay basis.

All Theatres Closed in Milwaukee October 11

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—All Milwaukee theatres were closed Friday night October 11 by the Health Department to prevent the spread of Spanish influenza. The stop order came like a thunderbolt from a clear sky.

Exhibitors lose thousands of dollars through it. The local situation is away up in the air. All programs are canceled and employees are losing salaries. No relief is in sight.

This entirely nullifies effect of embargo on new productions in Milwaukee. Closing order extended to many State theatres and all may be closed any day.

Exhibitors here are all much incessant over producers putting on embargo and say that business fell off immediately after decision was announced through press.

"The embargo on new releases means giving the exhibitor something he didn't want before under guise of patriotism," says Alfred Tanzer.

"Exhibitors are very much against embargo and think it is an injustice to theatres, especially first run accounts," said Frank Cook, of the Princess theatre.

Exchange men say that they will have an opportunity to catch up on releases. Many exhibitors look for boost in prices in desirable features if theatres reopen soon enough to affect market.

Milwaukee exhibtors expect that when ban is finally lifted business will be better than ever.

New Haven Considerably Up in the Air

NEW HAVEN (Special).—A peculiar situation exists in the New Haven district at the start of the complete shutdown on new releases for four weeks. From 75 to 80 per cent of the theatres are closed by reason of the influenza epidemic, thus greatly curtailing the demand for pictures. Only in Hartford, Bridgeport and New Haven are the theatres open, and their audiences are greatly curtailed.

Triangle-Famous Players' Exchange announces it has enough new releases on hand to care for its patrons until nearly the first of December. Inasmuch as this exchange covers almost a majority of the district's theatres, the situation obviously is good. Manager Scully, of the Triangle office at New Haven, has worked out a plan by which he can switch pictures from one office to another and so handle his trade.

Local managers were really too much at sea to have definite opinion on the subject of the four-week shutdown. Today they are wondering how long the theatres can be kept open. Their audiences have slumped badly, till it seems as if any more falling off would make closing up the best thing to do, but in Bridgeport, Hartford and New Haven no manager has any desire to close his theatre.

It was at the urgent request of the Connecticut Board of Health that these theatres kept on with "business as usual." While the Health Board appeal went to all theatres, the small towns were panic-stricken, and promptly ordered the theatres to close tight till the epidemic danger had passed. In the cities the state Board of Health utilized the screens to inform the public how to handle the new disease. To safeguard their own patrons, the theatres had special slides prepared to use on occasion. An example was this: "The person who sneezed and coughed endangered this whole audience. Please leave at once."

R. T. BULKELEY.

The Statement by the Manufacturers

FOLLOWING is the official statement issued by the manufacturers and distributors committee regarding the decision to discontinue production and release of pictures for four weeks following Oct. 14th.

"The committee representing a large percentage of all the producers and distributors of motion pictures and consisting of Messrs. Gabriel Hess, chairman; P. L. Waters and Ricord Gradwell, made public the following statements in connection with the actions taken involving the cessation of distribution of new pictures and the curtailment of production during the period of four weeks:

"'Meetings were held on Wednesday and Thursday at the headquarters of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, at which Adolph Zukor presided, in the absence of William A. Brady, president of the National Association, and at which a large percentage of the producing and distributing organizations, including members and non-members of the National Association, were represented.

"'By reason of the fact that a majority of theatres in the United States and Canada are closed on account of the influenza epidemic, the agreement arrived at with respect to the distribution of new motion pictures, is that the companies represented at the meeting would release no new or reissue pictures for a period of four weeks, commencing Tuesday, October 15 and ending Saturday, November 9, 1918. Branch offices of these companies will continue to serve exhibitors with pictures regularly released prior to October 14. Serials and news reels will be the only exceptions and may be released as usual. The companies participating in the agreement are: Affiliated Distributors, Inc., Edgar Lewis Productions, Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Foursquare Pictures, Inc., Fox Film Corporation, General Film Company, Goldwyn Distributing Corporation, International Film Service Company, Inc., Ivan Film Corporation, Inc., Metro Pictures Corporation, Mutual Film Corporation, Pathe Exchange, Inc., Select Pictures Corporation, Triangle Corporation, Universal Film Manufacturing Company, William L. Sherry Service, World Film Corporation, W. W. Hodkinson Corporation and William A. Brady Picture Plays, Inc.

"'During the cessation of distribution a committee of representatives from these companies will meet at the rooms of the National Association in the Times Building every Monday to discuss any new situations that may arise.

"'The distributors also agreed that for a period of double the number of weeks during which there shall be no new pictures released, not to release more than their regularly heretofore announced schedule of releases.

"'The agreement drawn up and signed by the manufacturers and producers at these meetings stated that no new productions would be commenced for a period of four weeks and that on the completion of all negatives now in the course of production the companies so engaged, such as artists, camera men, directors, etc., would likewise not start other pictures for a like period of four weeks.

"'Telegraphic information covering the points of distribution has been sent to the branch offices of the motion picture companies involved. A notice embracing all the details as they concern the exhibition of pictures is being mailed today to the exhibitors of the United States and Canada.'"

Atlanta Theatres Close

ATLANTA, GA.—As a precautionary measure against the spread of Spanish influenza, the Atlanta Board of Health and City Council have ordered all theatres, moving pictures and places of public entertainment closed until further notice. The increase of the malady is causing uneasiness to the health authorities and city physicians and by this means it is hoped to prevent to some extent its spread.

Late Bulletins

RACINE, WIS.—All theatres here closed Monday, October 7, on orders of City Health Board.

MADISON, WIS.—Theatres in Madison and vicinity closed because of epidemic.

DES MOINES, IOWA—All theatres were closed because of the Spanish influenza epidemic.

OMAHA, NEB.—Theatres in Omaha were all forced to close by the health authorities.

CANTON, OHIO—Theatres in Canton and surrounding towns have been closed because of the spread of the prevailing epidemic.

SEATTLE, WASH.—All theatres here are closed and have been for some time on account of the influenza spread.

BALTIMORE, MD.—For the first time in the history of motion pictures in Maryland all of the theatres in Baltimore have been closed by order of the local health commissioner.

MCALESTER, OKLA.—On account of the epidemic Mayor Watson ordered all theatres closed on October 6 until further notice.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—All theatres in Buffalo are closed and will remain so until the epidemic is over.

TAMPA, FLA.—The Mayor ordered all theatres closed here until epidemic has passed.

OGDEN, UTAH—At midnight, October 9, all theatres were closed here by orders of the State Board of Health.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.—The State Board of Health closed all theatres in Little Rock and the entire State, October 8, because of the Spanish influenza.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—Reports received here disclose that practically every theatre in the entire territory is closed because of the epidemic. The theatres in Minneapolis closed Saturday, October 12.

A. D. Flintom Victim of "Flu"

District Manager for Famous Players-Lasky in Kansas City Claimed by Pneumonia Following Attack of Influenza

ALBERT D. FLINTOM, one of the best known of Mid-West film men, died Thursday, October 10, the victim of an attack of pneumonia that followed closely on the Spanish influenza which he contracted in St. Louis but a few days previously.

At the time of his death, and for several years Mr. Flintom was district manager at Kansas City for the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. The name of Albert D. Flintom has been one to conjure with among all men connected with the film industry in the Middle West for more than a decade. He was a wonderful organizer and a master salesman and executive as well as a keen judge of box-office values, an expert in raw stock and in all the manifold details connected with the big district distributing organization of which he was the head.

Born in Lawrence, Kan., about forty-eight years ago, Mr. Flintom was a successful banker in that city and Kansas City until, about eleven years ago, discerning the tremendous possibilities which lay in motion pictures, he embarked in the business. Prior to 1912 he was at the head of the Yale Film Company and other film enterprises and was also connected with the General Film Company. With the inception of the Famous Players-Film Company in that year he started handling its product on a state rights basis. He later became a franchise holder of the Paramount Pictures Corporation and with the organization of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation he became a stockholder and was appointed district manager.

In the exchanges of his district, Kansas City, St. Louis, Des Moines and Omaha, he had the reputation of maintaining the highest efficiency for which the fact that he held his employees for years was largely responsible. All the present branch managers in the district grew up with him in business and had learned to love him as a father.

He was a slave to his work, thoroughly trusted by all with whom he dealt and unswervingly loyal to his subordinates as well as to his parent organization, by the executives of which he was held in the highest affection and esteem.

Mr. Flintom is survived by his wife and a son, who is a lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps and has been serving in France for the past year, and also by an adopted daughter.

Flossie A. Jones, of Waukesha, Dies in New York of Pneumonia

MISS FLOSSIE A. JONES, secretary and general manager of the Waukesha, Wis., Amusement Co., operating the three theatres in that city, and probably the best-known woman manager in the country, died at the Hotel Webster, New York City, Wednesday night, October 16, of pneumonia. Miss Jones had come to New York to attend the Motion Picture Exposition, and was stricken shortly after her arrival.

Just before she became ill Miss Jones gave members of the Motion Picture News staff some idea of her plans for the future, and she had some original and interesting ones. Her heart was completely in the motion picture business and she was full of the enthusiasm and the determination that wins. Her remarkable success in the past was assurance that she could carry through the plans.

Some four years ago Miss Jones started in the motion picture business with her only asset a remarkable personality and a determination to make good. She studied the motion picture houses of Waukesha and finally she had an opportunity to rent a dilapidated theatre, but the manner in which she conducted it brought the balance for the first time on the right side of the ledger. The following spring she was able to get a Waukesha business man in partnership with her and spent $18,000 remodelling the Colonial. It was after this that she bought the Unique, and since then her company has built the Auditorium, a $40,000 house, and now controls all of the houses in that city.

Miss Jones was a member of the Advisory Board of the Motion Picture News, and there have appeared in these pages many articles about the way she has put on attractions and her ideas of successful exhibition of pictures. She always strove to do better and better, and the results that she attained made her stand out among managers everywhere.

Only a few days before her visit to New York Miss Jones was elected vice-president and state organizer of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association of Wisconsin.

Stars at Brunton Studio Aid the Loan

Among the stars at the Brunton studios who made substantial subscriptions this week to the Fourth Liberty Loan were as follows: Frank Keenan, $30,000; Bessie Barriscale, $10,000; Dustin Farnum, $10,000.

Verne Hardin Porter, who has been identified with the scenario end of motion pictures quite prominently, was this week engaged as head of the scenario department of the Ince studios, it was unofficially announced. He will succeed J. G. Hawks, who, it is understood, will join the Goldwyn forces.

Charles Ray this week began work on a new picture titled "Greased Lightning." It will be directed by Jerome Storm, and is said to be of the light comedy variety so well suited to Ray's style of acting. Doris Lee will play the opposite lead. A feature in the production will be an antiquated automobile, for which Ray is supposed to display great affection.

Harold Lockwood Laid Up with the Grippe

Due to a severe attack of the grippe, which came upon him suddenly this week, Harold Lockwood is confined to bed at his hotel in New York under orders of his physician. As a result of his illness production of Metro's "The Yellow Dove," which was begun a few days ago under the direction of Edwin Carewe, has been stopped pending the star's recovery.

Mr. Lockwood has been a diligent worker for the success of the present loan campaign, his solicitations having resulted in the sale of thousands of dollars worth of bonds. Two days before he was taken ill he sold bonds at the National Picture Exposition, held at Madison Square Garden, New York.

While the attack is not considered serious, any possible developments are being guarded against by Mr. Lockwood's physician, who says that the film star will not be able to resume work for a week.

"Flu" Closes Tours of "America's Answer"

As a result of the influenza, and the consequent closing of theatres where "America's Answer" was booked, the tours of the last two companies playing the U. S. official War Pictures have been cancelled. It is probable that the film will not be seen again until it is released to the motion picture houses.

The engagement in St. Paul was completed, but Minneapolis had to be cancelled, after the city had been thoroughly billed, and a great deal of preliminary patriotic interest had been aroused. The same was true of Milwaukee.

On the Pacific Coast the engagement was brought to a close last Thursday night, instead of Saturday, as originally arranged. The picture was billed to open in Tacoma Sunday, October 13, but the influenza situation there also necessitated a cancellation.

More Ford Distribution Plans Arranged

Griever Distributing Company, which has charge of the free dissemination of the Ford Educational Weekly, announced that it has allotted the following territory for distribution purposes:

Peerless Film Company, San Francisco; California, Arizona and Nevada.

Southwestern Film Corporation, Dallas; Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

First National Exhibitors' Circuit, New Orleans; Louisiana and Mississippi.

"Flu" Causes Postponement of F.I.L.M. Dinner

Acquiescing to the wishes of the Board of Health to defer as many public gatherings as possible and a contemplated move on their part to close all theatres and places of public gathering, the F. I. L. M. Club have postponed their Dinner Dance, which was to be held at Reisenweber's Saturday, October 19. A new date will be announced later.

Couldn't Get Liberty Loan Boosting Films

Following the story in last week's issue of MOTION PICTURE NEWS telling of the difficulty experienced by theatres in many sections of the country in getting prints of the films produced for the Liberty Loan, comes the following letter which, as added evidence, would tend to show that many of the exchanges fell down on their part of the work.

The letter follows:

THE BADGER THEATRE,
W. D. MARTIN,
NEILLSVILLE, WISCONSIN.
October 9, 1918.

Editor MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

Dear Sir:

I read with much interest, your statement on page 2356 of the MOTION PICTURE NEWS of October 12, to the effect that if we have failed to show the Liberty Loan pictures we have not been doing our duty.

My interest is enhanced by your evident ignorance of the fact that the pictures cannot be secured by the smaller theatres.

I have made every effort possible, using the mails and wires, and even asking help from Mr. Frank R. Wilson, of the publicity department of the United States Treasury, with no results. Not a single exchange pays the slightest attention to supplying the films, and the exchanges themselves admit in substance that the distributors have completely fallen down in the matter.

In spite of their promises to the Government, the distributors have proved themselves entirely inadequate to this task. It is not the theatre manager's fault that he is not showing the films. How can he show them when he cannot get them?

The large city theatres are taken care of, of course. That goes without saying.

Under these circumstances, do you not think your article, above referred to, is somewhat uncalled for?

Truly yours,
W. D. MARTIN.

Powell Manages Fox Cleveland Exchange

Charles H. Powell, it was announced this week by the Fox Film Corporation, has been made manager of the William Fox Cleveland exchange.

Mr. Powell succeeds Sidney Abel, who has been Cleveland manager for several months. Mr. Abel comes to the Fox home office in New York, to be head of the contract department, in place of Leon J. Bamberger, who recently joined the Army.

Atkinson Looks Over Independent Market

G. V. Atkinson, of the Imperial Film Exchange, Greenville, S. C., was in New York last week looking over the features on the independent market. Poor business in his territory, owing to the influenza epidemic, gave Mr. Atkinson the opportunity to make the trip. Mr. Atkinson was formerly with the Pathe exchange in this territory and has a wide acquaintance among the exhibitors and exchange men of the South.

Gordon-Mayer in New England

The Gordon-Mayer Film Corporation opened on October 15 an exchange at New Haven, Conn., to handle the growing business in the Connecticut district. M. H. Kelleher, formerly with the American Feature Film Company, is manager of the exchange, which is at 138 Meadow street.

Roper Praises M. P. Industry

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Pays Splendid Tribute in Letter to Walter Irwin

"YOUR industry is playing its part freely and without complaint," sums up the tenor of a remarkable tribute to the motion picture industry, received from Daniel Roper, chief of the Nation's tax-gathering forces. The tribute came in the course of a letter, which abounds in appreciation of the industry, to Walter W. Irwin, chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Association.

Commissioner Roper's letter was in response to an invitation to be present at the Victory Dinner, which has since been postponed because of the Spanish influenza epidemic. The letter follows:

Mr. Walter W. Irwin, Chairman, Executive Committee,
National Association of the Motion Picture Industry,
805 Times Building,
New York City.

My Dear Mr. Irwin:—

Will you not express to your associates in the Motion Picture Industry my appreciation of their very cordial invitation to attend the Victory Dinner.

That the tax collector should be bidden to your banquet is indisputable proof of your patriotism. I cannot but feel, however, that it would have been unkind to have interjected into an evening of good cheer a discussion of the film tax, the tax on admissions, or the tax on seating capacity. On the other hand, you will concede, I am sure, that the income tax and the excess profits tax are entitled to honorable mention as representing our best "producers."

Under the revenue laws you all rank as producers. No other business has contributed more freely to the needs of our Government than the Motion Picture Industry and its allied branches. Large as your tax payments have been, they are over-shadowed by the invaluable publicity which you have so generously given to every kind of patriotic endeaver. The graphic appeal of motion pictures in behalf of the Liberty Loans, the Red Cross and our war taxes has reached the public conscience and stirred it to action in every nook and corner of the country.

Nor have your efforts been limited to assisting the Government in the solution of its financial problems. Through the medium under your control millions of our citizens have been brought to a keener realization of the hideousness of the menace we are seeking to destroy. Passive loyalty has been prodded into active patriotism in the heart of many a witness of the silent drama.

Taxation is part of the price of Victory. Your industry is paying its part freely and without complaint. The greater part lies in a continuing and increasing service of public education.

On behalf of the Treasury Department and the Bureau of Internal Revenue, I desire to express hearty appreciation of your splendid efforts.

Cordially yours,
DANIEL C. ROPER,
Commissioner.

Below is Mr. Irwin's reply to Mr. Roper:

October 11, 1918.

Hon. Daniel C. Roper,
Commissioner Internal Revenue,
Treasury Department,
Washington, D. C.

My Dear Mr. Roper:

Your splendid favor of October 10 duly received. Permit me to assure you that its contents is more than appreciated by the Industry as a whole.

It is extremely gratifying to know that our distinguished citizens in official positions, as well as the public, realize the importance of the motion picture as one of the most valuable schools of patriotism for the American people, and for the war education so essential to the public.

We are proud to say that this Industry, collectively and individually, does not give way to any industry or to any body of people in its patriotism, and in its desire to be of actual and practical aid in the great common cause, and I therefore beg of you and your associates in the National Government to call upon us for all that we can do.

Respectfully,
WALTER W. IRWIN.

Export-Import Company Gets Hundred Metros

The Export and Import Film Company has contracted for the distribution 100 Metro productions on the continent of Europe. This is considered one of the largest deals ever closed in the export field.

The Export and Import Company also recently completed a deal with the Mutual Film Corporation whereby it secures the distribution rights for sixteen Mutual and Empire-All Star features for South America.

Garson Coming East Soon

Harry I. Garson is expected back in New York within the next few weeks with the negative on his second big independent production, "The Unpardonable Sin."

This is the screen production of Captain Rupert Hughes' book, and featuring Blanche Sweet. It is understood that a private showing in Washington before Government and Allied officials will be given before its debut to the industry.

Willard Bradley Editor of White Way

Willard Bradley, known in the picture field as a scenario writer, has been appointed editor of The White Way Magazine, a fortnightly, devoted to the screen and stage. Among the photoplays bearing Mr. Bradley's name are "The Beloved Imp," a Bluebird; "Letitia-For-Happiness," "Main 4400," a highly successful two-reel comedy, and "The Musketeers of Pig Alley," a one-reel Biograph, produced by D. W. Griffith.

Anna Case Picture Soon Ready

The first picture starring Anna Case, the opera singer, has been completed by Lucius J. Henderson, under the supervision of Julius Steger, and will be ready for trade showing in a week, according to announcement. Mr. Steger is at present editing and titling the production.

The picture is the star's first venture in a new field, but the producers feel confident that her youth, beauty and enthusiasm will register decisively on the screen. Charles Richman is seen in the role opposite Miss Case's, while others who appear are Forrest Robinson, Grace Reals, John Charles, Fred Lennox and Madelyn Clare.

New General Manager in Atlanta

A well known Southern film salesman, T. E. Dillard, has just been appointed manager of the Atlanta exchange of General Film Company. Mr. Dillard is remembered by the trade as a former member of the Atlanta office force of the company, and also as manager of its former Jacksonville exchange. His last connection before coming back to General was with the W. L. Sherry office in Atlanta.

The Screen and the Liberty Loan

Sixty Coast Stars Appear at Theatres to Aid

More than sixty of the better known stars from nearly every studio in Los Angeles made personal appearances this week in Los Angeles theatres in the interest of the Fourth Liberty Loan. The stars not only sold bonds from the theatre stages, but they worked in the lobbies as well. Some of them devoted seven full nights, while others gave as much time as they could spare from their work at the studios.

Among those who made personal appearances were Roxanna McGowan, Patricia Palmer, Julian Eltinge, Bert Lytell, Chester Conklin, Niles Welch, Fritzi Brunette, William Stowell, Mae Murray, Eddie Barry, Jack Mulhall, Bessie Love, Harry McCary, Ruper Julian, Allan Holubar, Roy F. McRae, Priscilla Deane, Dorothy De Vore, Wallace Reid, Charles Ray, Mary McLaren, Lyons and Moran, Bebe Daniels, Robert McKim, Bobby Vernon, Dustin Farnum, George Larkin, Peggy Provost, Ethel Lynn, Monroe Salisbury, Ben Wilson, Neva Gerber, Nell Shopman, Doraldino, Antonio Moreno, Joe Rock, Carol Holloway, George Beban, Lillian Walker, Douglas McLean, May Allison, J. Warren Kerrigan, Edith Roberts, Lawrence Semon, Claire DuBrey, Harry Depp, Eleanor Field, Ruth Roland, Gladys Brockwell, Zoe Rae, Lila Lee, Dorothy Phillips, Wilfred Lucas, Bill Duncan, Mildred Harris, Dorris Lee, Enid Bennett, Charles Clary, Carmel Myers, Jack Holt and Virginia Harris.

The bonds sold at the theatres will all be turned in at Tank Victory, Central Park, Los Angeles, on the evening exchange and theatre men are in charge, October 18.

William Farnum a Whole-Hearted Worker

What is considered close to a record for sales of Liberty Bonds in motion picture theatres was totalled by William Farnum in three appearances last week. The figures reached the sum of $168,600 before Mr. Farnum's evening jaunt around the playhouses was completed.

Mr. Farnum's first appearance was at the William Fox Audubon theatre, 168th street and Broadway. There he sold $120,000 worth of bonds at one of the most wildly enthusiastic gatherings ever seen in a New York theatre.

At the William Fox Academy of Music Mr. Farnum sold $54,000 worth, at the Fox theatre in Jamaica, L. I., he sold $20,000 worth and at the William Fox Crotona house he hung up a total of $64,000.

Liberty Loan officials who were present say that Mr. Farnum's sale at the Audubon theatre was one of the most remarkable demonstrations they have ever seen. The Fox star occupied the stage for about an hour, and most of the subscriptions he obtained came in small amounts—$50 and $100 bonds, with a maximum subscription of $1,000.

Enthusiasm such as has never been known in the theatre resulted from the announcement that the $100,000 mark had been passed. Hats and caps were tossed into the air, and there was prolonged cheering, culminating in the spirited singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Albert E. Smith, President of the Vitagraph Company, Makes a Liberty Loan Appeal to All Workers at the Vitagraph Plant, Including Stars and Directors

Vitagraph Studio Forces Total Thousands in Bonds

With Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company, personally leading the campaign in the Eastern studios, and his brother, W. S. Smith, at the helm in the West Coast studios, of which he is manager, Vitagraph's producing forces have gone well over the top in Liberty Loan subscriptions.

One of the events of the past week was a ringing speech by Albert E. Smith to the forces in the yard of the Vitagraph, Brooklyn, studio that brought forth a lusty response.

William Duncan led the Vitagraphers on Vitagraph Night at the Tank in Central Park, Los Angeles, with the result that $80,000 was totalled in purchases of bonds. In addition to Duncan, Vitagraph was represented by Bessie Love, Antonio Moreno, Carol Holloway, Earle Montgomery, Joe Rock, Lawrence Semon, Edith Johnson, Joe Ryan, Grace Darmond, Nell Shipman, Frank Glendon, Patricia Palmer, Madge Kirby, Blanche Payson and Directors David Smith, Paul Hurst and Gilbert Pratt, who is directing Big V. Special Comedy productions.

None the less active have been the Vitagraphers in the East. Earle Williams has been a big contributor of time and money to the loan campaign, as have the other Vitagraph stars, Alice Joyce, Harry Morey, Corinne Griffith and Gladys Leslie. Edward Earle, always a fast and successful worker in the Loan drives, has been active every day during the present campaign, as have Agnes Ayres, Betty Blythe, Jean Paige, Florence Deshon, Eulalie Jensen, Julia Swayne Gordon and the other prominent women players of the Eastern company.

Far Rockaway House Gets More Than Half Million

From I. Jutkowski, manager of the Columbia theatre, Far Rockaway, L. I., Motion Picture News has received a record of Liberty Bond subscriptions in that house which show a total of over a half million in the first week of the drive alone.

The exact figures are $535,950. The high night was October 8, when a quarter million in pledges was secured.

This looks to us like the record for one week in a picture theatre. Do you know of one better?

Houdini Takes His Shirt Off for a Thousand

"I'll buy a thousand dollar bond if you get out of your straitjacket in thirty seconds," shouted a spectator at the Hippodrome last week to Houdini, the Escape King, now appearing in a serial for B. A. Rolfe Productions.

In twenty seconds Houdini was out of the bonds and had sold the bonds of Liberty.

Rolfe Hour was a prominent feature of last week's program at the Liberty theatre, conducted by the Stage Women's War Relief in front of the Public Library to boost the Fourth Liberty Loan. Stars of the Houdini serial, "The Master Mystery," proved themselves able salesmen for the Government.

Blackton Gives Bonds to Employees

Commodore J. Stuart Blackton, who was the guest of honor at the National Motion Picture Exposition at Madison Square Garden last Friday night, where he made a Liberty Loan speech and also subscribed for $15,000 worth of bonds, has further shown his patriotism as well as his appreciation of the work of his employees by giving a $50 bond to each individual associated with him in an executive or technical capacity.

Among those remembered by Commodore Blackton are Jack Martin, his assistant; Miss G. M. Stevenson, his secretary, and Theo. Freeland, O. George Brautigan, Peter LaGrassa, J. Brink, George Hampton and James Hanley, of his studio staff.

Marion Davies a Live Wire Bond Saleswoman

Marion Davies hung up an honor mark for herself on Thursday night at the Motion Picture Exposition in Madison Square Garden when she sold a total of $23,900 worth of bonds.

Miss Davies conducted the sale from the Select booth and was both a charming and energetic seller of Uncle Sam's pledges.

Farrar Sells a Million at New York Concert

One million two hundred thousand dollars in one hour—there is Geraldine Farrar's record for bond sales at a concert Friday, October 10, in Carnegie Hall, New York.

The New York Philharmonic Orchestra, Clarence Whitehill, George M. Cohan and former Attorney General Wickersham were others who gave their efforts to the concert.

Miss Farrar superintended the bond sale with the aid of fifty canvassers—and the result above tells the tale of her happiness at the close of the evening.

Sherrill Banquets Live Wires

Winners of Prizes Offered for Most Intensified Bookings on "My Own United States" Enjoy Banquet

HERMAN JANS is the proud possessor of a $1,000 Liberty Bond presented to him by William L. Sherrill, president of the Frohman Amusement Company. This was brought out at a banquet held October 12 to celebrate the event. Many film notables were present.

Mr. Jans is located in New York City but has charge of Metro marketing and distributing for about one-half of the state of New Jersey. There are 206 theatres in that state and Mr. Jans booked Mr. Sherrill's "My Own United States" in 106 theatres for his half of New Jersey and this recorded 165 actual playing days. He secured 58 per cent over his allotment.

The following excerpt from a circular sent out to all Metro exchanges last June explains the offer Mr. Sherrill made in detail:

"We have allotted to each Branch Office in the United States a certain minimum of bookings for them to secure on 'My Own United States' by September 1, 1918. The allotment to each office is based upon the present percentages which each office is now working under with the Metro. The amount of the allotment for each office has been placed on file with the management of the Metro office in New York City.

"If a Branch Office has secured the amount of their allotment in bookings on 'My Own United States' by September 1, 1918, the Branch Manager has then become qualified to compete with every other Branch Manager in the United States for a One Thousand Dollar Liberty Bond or an Overland Automobile (at the winner's option), to be given by us to the Branch Manager who secures the largest percentage of bookings over the allotment to their office by September 30, 1918.

"To the Road Man connected with any Branch Office in the United States securing the largest amount of bookings on 'My Own United States' by September 30, 1918, we will give a diamond ring or any other suitable piece of jewelry (at the winner's option) to be properly inscribed, to be valued at Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars.

"To the Salesman or Roadman of each Branch Office the following offer is made:

"When the Branch Office qualifies by securing the amount of bookings allotted to it by September 1, 1918, the Salesman or Roadman securing the largest amount of bookings in such office on 'My Own United States' by September 30, 1918, will be invited to New York at our expense to attend a banquet to be given by us."

Mr. Sherrill presided at the banquet which was held at Hotel Astor Saturday, October 12, and the following gentlemen were present:

William A. Brady, R. A. Rowlands, P. A. Powers, J. W. Farnham, J. J. Goldberg, E. M. Saunders, Harry Cohen of Metro general offices, Harry Cohen of Washington, D. C., S. A. MacIntyre of Minneapolis, Arthur James, Merritt Crawford, Harry Rapf, Arnold Daly, S. L. Rothapfel, Paul Crommelin, P. J. Connors, H. Kline, M. Brodsky, Sam Spedon, T. Hays Hunter, I. E. Chadwick, Harry Segal of Boston, W. K. Hill and Jack Sherrill.

New Officers for Toronto Exhibitors' Body

Officers of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Protective Association of Ontario, Limited, Toronto, have been elected as follows:

Honorary Presidents—Messrs. Lol Solman, J. Shea, A. J. Small and P. F. Griffin, all of Toronto.

President—J. C. Brady, Madison theatre, Toronto.

Vice-Presidents—First, W. A. Bailie, Cum-Bac theatre, Toronto; Second, C. Moule, Brant theatre, Brantford; Third, Steve Burnside, Empire theatre, Collingwood.

Treasurer—A. W. Applegath, Red Mill theatre, Toronto.

Secretary and Manager—Thomas Scott, 143 Yonge street, Toronto.

Executive Committee—J. Crang, Oakwood theatre, Toronto; C. A. Welsman, La Plaza theatre, Toronto; H. Alexander, Park and Doric theatres, Toronto; Clarence Robson, Strand theatre, Toronto; R. S. Tickner, Revue theatre, Toronto; R. J. Cardie, Empire theatre, Toronto; Roland Roberts, Regent theatre, Toronto; Dr. Richardson, Crown theatre, Toronto; B. Hudson, Aster theatre, Toronto; D. Ferguson, Dorothy theatre, Toronto; H. King, King Playhouse, Toronto; T. Logan, Majestic theatre, London; W. T. Sexton, Family theatre, Toronto; W. C. Ball, Revue theatre, Toronto; W. G. Sturgess, Imperial theatre, Toronto; T. Guest, Strand theatre, Hamilton, and P. O'Donnell, Temple theatre, Toronto.

The fees have been fixed at $20 for Toronto members and $10 per year for those in Ontario outside of the city of Toronto. Toronto members may pay at the rate of $2 per month if desired.

"American Spirit" Has Original War Theme

"The American Spirit," shortly to be released by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation, is said to be a new type of war play. W. Christy Cabanne, who directed such popular propaganda films as "Draft 258" and "The Slacker," and who also is responsible for "The American Spirit," took as his chief character a son of the South who still adhers to the principles of the Lost Cause. How this sectional prejudice is swept aside by the great emergency of the present day forms the basis of the photoplay.

E. K. Lincoln is seen as the star of the picture, and is supported by a capable cast that includes Millicent Fisher, Hayward Mack, Spottiswoode Aitken and Helen Dunbar.

Revise Ontario Theatre Admission Tax

The amusement war tax on theatre and concert tickets has been revised by Hon. T. W. McGarry, Provincial Treasurer of Ontario, so that patrons of amusement houses buying tickets valued at more than 45c. after November 1 will be required to pay a much higher tax. Tickets valued at from 5c. to 45c. are not affected by the new arrangements at all, which means that moving picture theatres in Ontario escape the increase almost entirely. Patrons buying the 50c. box seats in several large film theatres will now pay a five cent tax in place of two cents and patrons buying 50c. to $1.50 tickets for special shows like "Hearts of the World," "Crashing Through to Berlin," etc., will have to pay a tax varying from 5c. to 15c. Roughly, the new scale provides a tax of approximately ten per cent. on all admission tickets over 45c.

Another new rule, and one that will inconvenience reviewers and pass holders, is that an exhibitor will be prohibited from selling quantities of war tax tickets at one time to any patron. Tax tickets may only be sold at the theatre box office for current use. This change has been made to enable the Government to keep a close record of theatre patronage and the sale of war tax tickets.

Bowles Going to France for Griffith

George Bowles, who has been for several months General Manager of Feature Films for the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information, will sail for France at the earliest possible moment to act as European representative for the David W. Griffith pictures. These include "The Birth of a Nation," controlled by the Epoch Producing Corporation; "Intolerance," owned by the Wark Producing Corporation, and "Hearts of the World." Mr. Bowles will also represent the Division of Films in Paris.

Kellette Writes Song to Assist Liberty Loan

John Kellette, assistant to Kenean Buel, one of the William Fox directors, has written a Liberty Loan song, which has been officially adopted by the New York Liberty Loan Committee.

The name of the song is "If You Can't Go Across with the Doughboys, Oh! Boys, Come Across with the Dough." The words are by James S. Donahue.

"Ghost of a Chance" Next O. Henry-General

"The Ghost of a Chance," with Agnes Ayre and Edward Earle in the principal roles is the latest O. Henry story to be filmed for release through General Film.

The action of "The Ghost of a Chance" transpires mostly in a haunted room, with the chief characters a social climber, her devoted son, a resourceful widow and a sarcastic society leader.

Honor Roll

James H. Cassell, former motion picture editor of the Portland Oregonian and special correspondent of Motion Picture News has joined the "Tank" service and left for Fort Lawton, Washington, from whence he will go to Gettysburg, Pa.

Capt. Albert A. Kaufman, formerly general production manager of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation's eastern studios, has left for overseas, where he has been entrusted with the important duty of supervising the work of all the cameramen of the U. S. Signal Corps connected with the American Expeditionary Forces.

Charles (Dick) Rush, for nearly three years assistant to Cliff Smith, the Triangle director who handled the megaphone for William S. Hart and Roy Stewart, has deserted the moving picture world to become a soldier. Rush is now in Canada training and will fight with the Anzacs on his arrival in France. He was born in Australia and is a veteran of the Boer War.

Eugene Pallette made his last appearance in motion pictures for the duration of the war at Metro's west coast studios in Hollywood, the other day. He expects in a few days to go to the Government flying field at Dallas, Texas, to complete his course of training with a view to getting a lieutenant's commission as a combat flyer.

Charles Simone, manager of the General Film Exchange in New Haven, learns that his son, Peter C. E. Simone of Bayonne, N. J., film laboratory expert, and who was severely wounded while fighting in France, is at Base Hospital No. 6 at Bordeaux.

Burt G. Phillips, for a long time staff photographer of the Publicity Department of the Fox Film Corporation, and formerly photographer for several New York newspapers, was notified this week that he has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Signal Corps of the American Army.

Writing from his post of active duty with the American Expeditionary Forces, dated at a place he identifies as "Near Where They Are Doing It," C. R. Cooper, formerly traveling auditor for General Film Company, announces his promotion from buck private to Battalion Sergeant Major, the highest non-commissioned office in the army. Cooper went across with the 305th Machine Gun Battalion.

Sergeant Camille Legrand, the Pathe cameraman now en route from Paris to the Orient via. the United States, bears a letter of which he is justly proud. This letter, written by the Chief of the Cinematographic Service of the French Army, Lieut. J. L. Croze, reads in part as follows: "I take pleasure in sending you herewith copy of a letter which General Humbert, commander of the 3rd Army, has just sent me regarding your brilliant conduct at the time of the attack on Avocourt."

Theatres Aiding Campaign for Smileage Books

A plan is being carried out whereby motion picture houses all over the country can co-operate with the Government in entertaining the men in camp by pledging themselves to turn over ten per cent of their gross receipts for one day each month to the Smileage Division of the War Department Commission on Training Camp Activities to be used in supplying smileage books to soldiers. The General Film Corporation and a few other prominent picture organizations are already helping in the campaign. Eight houses under the jurisdiction of the former have signed the pledge. This arrangement is to continue during the duration of the war.

As far as possible the smileage will be supplied to soldiers of those states and cities from which money is sent in. Smileage books are books of coupons which serve as admission to the Liberty theatres. They come in two sizes, one containing twenty five-cent coupons and the other one hundred five-cent coupons. Instead of buying a ticket, the soldier tears off the number of coupons to the amount of the seat he wishes to purchase and presents them at the door.

Fuel Conservation Picture Completed by Universal

The Industrial Department of the Universal Film Company, through its manager, Harry Levey, has announced that the four-reel picture made for the United States Fuel Administration is completed. The reels have been forwarded to Dr. Garfield and will shortly be shown throughout the country under Government auspices.

This picture was made in order to further conservation methods in the use of coal. Facts are brought out that show that industrial plants have wasted fifty million tons of coal through careless firing methods. Improvements are shown in the way of firing large boilers while many interesting ways for the individual householder to save coal are also pictured on the screen.

Mr. Levey has also completed a film for Francis M. Hugo, Secretary of New York State. This film deals with the new headlight laws for automobiles. All the pictures were taken at night and various lights were tried out. Mr. Hugo himself appears in the picture.

Capellani with French Picture Service

Edmond Ratisbonne, director of the French Pictorial Service, announces that Paul Capellani, well known to the trade and public, has just been attached to the French High Commission to the United States in the capacity of Director of Productions for the French Pictorial Service.

Mr. Capellani has just returned from Argentine, where he has been busy directing a big feature, which will soon be released in this country.

Exhibitors Box Office Reports

LAST MINUTE REPORTS

The Following Individual Reports Came in as Motion Picture News Was Going to Press

"That Devil Bateese" (Salisbury-Universal)—"One of Salisbury's best."

"Queen of the Sea" (Kellermann-Fox)—"Usual Kellermann stuff same as her other two pictures. Fine photography, etc., that lets it out. Only average business."

"Our Mrs. McChesney" (Ethel Barrymore-Metro)—"Picture fine, star good, patrons more than pleased in three day run at high class down town house."

"A Soul Without Windows" (Ethel Clayton-World)—"Another 100 per cent picture in four day run."

"Italy's Flaming Front" (First National)—"Big business for one week."

"The Girl From Bohemia" (Castle-Pathe)—"Good program picture."

"Love's Law" (Kane-Mutual)—"Average business for two days."

"The Hun Within" (Dorothy Gish-Paramount)—"Big money getter. Do not feature title."

"For Husbands Only" (Jewel)—"First run down town opened extra big and continued big business during week closing extra big."

"The Unbeliever" (Kleine)—"One of the best war films."

"Out of a Clear Sky" (Clark-Paramount)—"Good film and ditto star wasted in this production. Fatty saved the day for us."

Editor's Note: The Box Office Report chart includes all pictures released since August 1 on which a sufficient number of exhibitor reports have been received to base a verdict. In the column "Average of Exhibitors' Reports" the term "Extra Big" indicates a picture which far surpassed expectation; "Big" means a picture doing better than the usual business for that day under average conditions; "Average" is the grading given the production on which business held up to normal; "Poor" indicates the picture falling below normal in box office and entertainment value.

The comments given are no indication of the number of reports received, as many exhibitors merely check off the grading without comment.

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
ALL MEN (Morey—Vitagraph)....Aug.	Average	"Fair."
BEHIND THE LINES IN ITALY (Kleine—Perfection) Sept.	Average	"On second and last week; picture good educational, attracting big percentage of Italians.
BELOVED BLACKMAILERS, THE (Blackwell—World) Aug.	Average	"Average story and average business." "Good."
BERLIN VIA AMERICA (Fordart—State Rights).....	Average	"Fair picture; good money maker; three days to big business."
BIRD OF PREY, THE (Brockwell—Fox).....Aug.	Big	"Extra big." "Good show." "Brockwell's all right, but Oh that Mexican stuff." "Good but people don't want Mexican stuff." "Blood and thunder; pleased here." "Just a big melodrama." "Star good. For love of Mike, get Gladys out of Mexico. Too much is enough."
BOUND IN MOROCCO (Fairbanks—Artcraft)....Aug.	Average	"Big drawing card but not altogether pleasing on account of weakness of plot. Only 'Doug could get away with it.' "My patrons expected more than they received." "Doug. is story, cast and all." "Extra big." "Big to start, average on week." "Full of pep; no story; took well. Few didn't like it; good business." "Fair." "Extra big."
BONNIE ANNIE LAURIE (Hyland—Fox).....Sept.	Average	"Did not please." "Did not even get film rental. This star a loser. Picture satisfactory." "Better than average program picture, but epidemic has made accurate estimate of business impossible. Best work star has done yet."
BOSTON BLACKIE'S LITTLE PAL (Lytell—Metro) Aug.	Big	"Average picture to average business." "Picture good; star not known yet." "A dandy picture; Lytell coming to the front; it's pleasing; Joey Jacobs classy." "Bert Lytell is well liked for a new star." "Good story, direstion poor, star well liked." "Big." "Excellent business, story not much, Lyttel popular here." "Average."
BREAD (MacLaren—Universal).....Aug.	Big	"Went very big." "It was well advertised and brought good patronage money and satisfaction; the title put it over."
BRAZEN BEAUTY, THE (Dean—Bluebird)....Sept.	Big	"Priscilla Dean is to be reckoned with as a coming star. Her assets are brains, beauty, intelligence and personality. Liabilities, 'scrambled' hair that kills the effect of an otherwise beautiful woman. Slick it down, Priscilla, there's a good girl."
BURGLAR FOR A NIGHT (Kerrigan—Paralta)...Aug.	Big	"A good picture with lots of class." "A dandy picture; they like him dressed up; went big all four days."
CAILLAUX CASE, THE (Fox).....Oct.	Average	"Exceptionally good picture. Had no pulling power."
CACTUS CRANDALL (Marvin-Stewart—Triangle)Aug.	Average	"Fair picture, average business."
CLUTCH OF CIRCUMSTANCES (Griffith—Vitagraph) Aug.	Average	"Star absolutely unknown; has not much action to story, although not a bad program picture." "Good program picture, average business."
CRASHING THROUGH TO BERLIN (Jewel)....Sept.	Big	"Extra big business."
CRUISE OF THE MAKE-BELIEVES, THE (Lee—Paramount).....Sept.	Average	"A new Paramount star that registered fairly well for first picture." "Fair picture." "Fair." "Lila Lee made a good impression."
DEATH DANCE, THE (Brady—Select).....Aug.	Average	"Not considered Brady's best, but very good." "Good."
DIPLOMATIC MISSION, A (Williams—Vitagraph)Sept.	Poor	"A big piece of cheese. No plot, but no business puller."
DOING THEIR BIT (Lee Children—Fox).....Aug.	Average	"Lees good, picture poor." "Average picture." "Went big." "Average." "Good picture, did not draw." "Splendid, but mighty poor for box office value."
FEDORA (Fredericks—Paramount)..... Aug.	Average	"Rotten picture." "A good picture, but the title kept people away." "Average." "Big." "Good." "Big." "Fair." "Good."
FIRES OF YOUTH (Clifford—Bluebird).....Aug.	Average	"Average business."

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
FLOWER OF THE DUSK (Dana—Metro).....Aug.	Average	"Average picture." "Give us more pictures like this; pleasing, well handled." "Viola Dana is fine, but the pictures they pur her in are holding her back." "Well acted, but too morbid." "Big, extra big, and average respectively in three day run," Not her best.
FOR HUSBANDS ONLY (Jewel).....Aug.	Big	"Exceptionally good." "Great picture, but a Blue Monday killed box office reccipts." "Fair." "Very good." "Pleased. All star. Screens well. Many women patrons refused to come in on account of title. Good business."
FRIEND HUSBAND (Kennedy—Goldwyn).....Aug.	Average	"Average picture." "Big." "Good light picture." "Fine picture." "Big." "Average." "This star is a big failure for us; picture good." "Did not draw at all, picture liked." "Average."
GHOST FLOWER, THE (Rubens—Triangle).....Aug.	Poor	"Poor business in downtown transient house."
GHOST OF THE RANCHO, THE (Washburn—Pathe) Aug.	Average	"Good film, but poor crowd." "Fair show." "Very good."
GIRL WHO CAME BACK, THE (Clayton—Paramount) Sept.	Poor	"Pleasing; a few weak spots." "Fair picture." "Poor business three days."
GOAT, THE (Stone—Paramount).....Sept.	Poor	"Booked for a week, ran it three days. Rotten. He may on Broadway, but every place is not Broadway." "Bad picture, very poor business."
GREEN EYES (Dalton—Paramount).....Aug.	Big	"A very fine picture." "Average." "Not liked very much." "Great settings; interesting story; there on the first night advertised." "Good picture, big business."
GREAT LOVE, THE (Griffith—Paramount).....Aug.	Extra Big	"Pleased every patron." "Second week extra big; pleased all patrons." "Hit my people harder than Hearts of the World because it is not too bloody and carries no German rape scenes." "Very strong feature." "Great picture does not cover it, it is the greatest picture we have run."
HEARTS OF THE WILD (Ferguson—Paramount).Sept.	Average	"Picture and business big." "This story did not fit the star." "Average picture." "Educational should have bought this for a scenic. Throwing away this star's talent." "Average.
HEARTS OF THE WORLD (D. W. Griffith Special)....	Extra Big	"Now in its fourteenth week." "Greatest picture of all times." "Good picture, but only fair business. We make more real cash on our regular programs." "Best picture ever made." "Wonderful, did capacity business two days, could have stayed week." "Can't beat D. W.; packed both nights."
HE COMES UP SMILING (Fairbanks—Artcraft)..Sept.	Big	"Best Fairbanks, extra big for three days." "Average business four days."
HEREDITY (Castleton—World).....Aug.	Average	"Very good picture, but weather against it." "Poor." "Well liked." "Average."
HER HUSBAND'S HONOR (Goodrich—Mutual)..Aug.	Average	"Poor business two days."
HER ONLY WAY (Norma Talmadge—Select).....Aug.	Extra Big	"Big City, High Class." "Miss Talmadge as usual pleased all." "A very good picture. You can always bank on Norma." "Extra good." "Good." "Extra big, star losing her beauty." "Average." "Big." "Very good picture. Franklin knows how to direct Norma. Business poor on account of 'Flu'. Picture did well under circumstances."
HIS BIRTHRIGHT (Hayakawa—Mutual).....Sept.	Big	"Went over with a bang, but not much picture." "One of his best; well directed; superbly acted." "Standing out in rain for second show; star well liked." "Average to big." "Fair."
HOBBS IN A HURRY (Russell—American-Pathe)..Oct.	Average	"Average business two days."
HOOSIER ROMANCE (Coleen Moore—Selig-Mutual) Aug.	Average	"Coleen Moore and Thomas Jefferson well liked but did not draw."
HOUSE OF MIRTH, THE (Metro).....Aug.	Average	"Very good, patrons well pleased." "A good picture, but title has no drawing power." "Fair picture." "Above average."
HUN WITHIN, THE (Paramount Special).....Sept.	Big	"A great picture." "Splendid big 100% production."
INSIDE THE LINES (Stone—World).....Aug.	Big	"Dandy war picture on a new theme. Star fine, but not known here. Business average for two days with slight decrease the third day." "An exceptionally good picture." "Great picture." "Very fine story, continuity great, did big business despite lack of well known stars; interesting every bit of six reels; not enough pictures like this." "Big business average second day."
IN PURSUIT OF POLLY (Billie Burke—Para.)...Aug.	Average	"Hit everybody hard, a corking good comedy." "A very weak picture; it took two reels, to tell the people that there was going to be a race." "Picture went over fairly well." "Best Burke picture yet." "Very pleasing comedy drama; average business three days." "Average." "Billie not as big a drawing card as she was."
IN JUDGMENT OF (Nilsson—Metro).....Aug.	Average	"Very good picture and star well liked here, but business only average." "Average picture
ITALY'S FLAMING FRONT (First National).....	Big	"An excellent production; well liked." "Fair picture." "Good." "A very good picture, holds interest throughout." "Average." "Good program picture." "A dandy picture; fine story." "Average." "Didn't draw." "Average business." "Went big solid week." "Splendid picture, went big at raised prices and pleased." "Photography fine considering conditions under which taken." "Poor picture."
JOHANNA ENLISTS (Pickford—Artcraft).....Sept.	Big	"Gee! but this picture took my patrons like Uncle Sam is going to take Berlin and the Kaiser; some picture and some Mary." "It pleased; box office was pleased." "Pickford never made a better one." "Characteristic. Pickford at her best. Went over big." "Big business for seven days."
JUST FOR TONIGHT (Moore—Goldwyn).....Sept.	Average	"Very fair picture, star still to be made." "Fair story." "Pleasing picture. Drew fair for two days."
KAISER, THE BEAST OF BERLIN (Jewel).....	Extra Big	"The best drawing card." "Big." "Second run; fell flat."
KILDARE OF STORM (Stevens—Metro).....Sept.	Average	"Average business four days."
LAWLESS LOVE (Carmen—Fox).....Aug.	Average	"Average picture." "Good." "Pleased, but too melodramatic and impossible." "A good picture of its type; satisfied all patrons." "Average."
LAW OF THE NORTH, THE (Ray—Ince-Paramount) Sept.	Average	"Picture good; star all right, but would do better in Hoosier parts." "Average business three days."
LIAR, THE (Pearson—Fox).....Aug.	Average	"Entire week; big to poor." "Very good." "Average." "Not a desirable film, and one that didn't help the star; business fair." "Average." "Ran old Chaplin, which helped out."
LOVE SWINDLE, THE (Roberts—Bluebird).....Aug.	Average	"Big." "Average." "Average Bluebird." "A dandy."
LOVE'S LAW (Gail Kane—Mutual).....Sept.	Average	"Fair picture; good bits throughout picture. Miss Kane liked here; slowed up on third day."
MARRIAGE RING, THE (Bennett—Paramount)..Aug.	Average	"Not Enid Bennett's best." "Good." "Splendid production." "A good story, drama pleased."
MERELY PLAYERS (Gordon—World).....Aug.	Big	"Good business for four days. The public likes Gordon, no matter what the exhibitor may think." "Excellent picture; good business for hot weather." "Big."
MONEY MAD (Marsh—Goldwyn).....Aug.	Average	"Fair picture." "Good pleasing picture." "Big."
MONEY ISN'T EVERYTHING (Fisher—American-Pathe).....Sept.	Average	"Picture lacks punch. Good business first day, top notch second day (Saturday and Sunday) when public will patronize 'any old picture.' Fisher too old for these 'peaches and cream' roles. Her work in 'The Devil's Assistant' has niot been equalled since. Better try another along those lines." "Good." "Good."
MR. LOGAN, U.S.A. (Mix—Fox).....Sept	Big	"Very good picture, extra big business." "Very good Western stunt picture. If Tom gets the right kind of stories he's a comer. Went big with a refined audience. Business good." "Attracted men and children, but were not interested. Good picture."
MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY (First National)..	ExtraBig	"Best feature of the year. Crowded houses at 105 in the shade. Applause nearly raised roof. My opinion a 100% picture." Big business to advanced prices." "Best picture of war by far." "Repeated back for ten days after running week in 2,000 seat house in 4,500 population." "Big." "Extra big; return engagement."
MY OWN UNITED STATES (Daly—Metro).....	Average	"Fine picture." "Very good." "This picture pleased everyone." "Poor business for a week." "A very good picture; we played to average business." "One of the best patriotic screen stories going and fine star but not known here, and public would like to write 'Finis' to all propaganda stuff; sick of it; business poor for a big picture like this." "Well liked, crowd a little off."
NINE O'CLOCK TOWN A (Ray—Paramount)....Aug.	Average	"Ray could have scored heavier in a more suitable role." "Weak story, but went over on account of Ray's popularity." "Average Ray picture." "Not up to recent Ray standard." "Big." "Turned people away at night showing."
ON THE QUIET (John Barrymore—Paramount).Sept.	Average	"Good cast, fair story, good business." "A corking comedy that does not appeal to women very strong."
OUR MRS. McCHESNEY (Ethel Barrymore—Metro) Sept.	Big	"Went big for two day run." "Best picture with Barrymore we have ever had." "Good program picture."
OUT OF A CLEAR SKY (Clark—Paramount)....Sept.	Average	"Good." "Went good, average business for three days." "Big business to average in four day run." "The director had something else on his mind and the story was poor." "Average business seven days."
OVER THE TOP (Empey—Vitagraph).....	Extra Big	"Big business for one solid week." "A great picture." "Well liked; good business." "Extra big." "A wonderful picture; pleased immensely; capacity crowds." "Poor, but pleased. Print bad condition." "Second day better than first; a top notcher." "Extra big." "One of biggest hits we ever had." "Second run average business."

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
PECK'S BAD GIRL (Normand—Goldwyn).....Sept.	Big	"Pleased, drew better than her previous picture; type of picture for her." "Star good, support poor." "Well liked."
PERSHING'S CRUSADERS (Com. Pub. Inf.—First National).....	Extra Big	"Did not draw." "Broke all house records." "Standing room only at advanced prices." "Extra big for week." "The biggest card of all." "Extra big two weeks." "Some liked it and others did not. Not a good picture of its kind." "All old stuff like news reels." "A picture every one should see." "We are slow in playing this."
POWER AND THE GLORY, THE (Elvidge—World) Sept.	Average	"Just an average picture; pleasing." "Very good."
PRICE OF APPLAUSE, THE (Triangle).....Aug.	Average	"Average." "Big to average."
PRUSSIAN CUR, THE (Fox).....Sept.	Extra Big	"Admission increased from twenty-five to fifty cents; turned them away afternoons and evenings." "Only fair propaganda picture. Party playing Kaiser and party playing Wilson very rotten. Worst character for Kaiser ever seen."
RETURN OF MARY, THE (Allison—Metro).....Sept.	Average	"Average business three days."
RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE (Farnum—Fox).Sept.	Extra Big	"One of Farnum's best." "Extra big four days." "Great, extra big for four days. Going to have a return engagement." "Big Bill's best. It has everything, story, star, director, photography and punch. Wonderful." "Well liked."
RIDDLE GAWNE (Hart—Artcraft).....Aug.	Big	"Average picture." "Hokum De Luxe.' "A regular Hart picture, but poor; Hart is going. I think he is gone." "One of Hart's best." "Made many new Hart fans." "Hart is played out here." "One of Bill's best." "Big." "Average." "Average business." "Best Hart in long time." "Best Hart picture." "Much liked." "Very good picture."
SALOME (Bara—Fox).....Oct.	Average	"Average business four days. Bara not drawing any more."
SAVAGE WOMAN, THE (C. K. Young—Select)...Aug.	Poor	"Went poor." "Too improbable a story." "First day fair, second day poor; not the kind of picture for star." "C. K. Y.'s most pretentious Select subject, but story is not very well suited to pictures. C. K. Y. did not look a bit 'savage.' Business good, but——." "Poor." "Pleased."
SHIFTING SANDS (Swanson—Triangle).....Aug.	Average	"Big business."
SILENT WOMAN, THE (Storey—Metro).....Sept.	Big	"Good picture, poor business." "Average." "Excellent picture; Edith Storey at her best." "This picture made a lot of friends for Edith Storey."
SOURCE, THE (Reid—Paramount).....Sept.	Average	"Fine picture." "Picture was poor; star well liked." "Star's makeup was poor, but picture well liked." "Great." "This deserved better patronage." "Big business for four days with Arbuckle comedy."
SWAT THE SPY (Lees—Fox).....Sept.	Average	"Very good. Big to average business in four day run."
TALKOF THE TOWN THE, (Phillips—Universal) Sept.	Big	"Fair business first day, better second, excellent third day. Good story, daring in extreme carried through successfully by Phillips' clever acting and gowning of picture."
TARZAN OF THE APES (First National).....	Extra Big	"At advance prices extra big." "Made big bit." "Extra big one week." "Extra big. Interesting picture but bad finish." "Fine picture, but extra business did not materialize." "Great picture, out of the ordinary." "Big drawing card." "Elegant." "Two days to big business with thermometer above 100 mark." "Extra big." "Drew fine for five days. Public wants this kind of picture. It's different." "Extra big for three days." "Causing comment and interest or curiosity to see." "Big." "Big." "Great picture, advanced prices. Good business two days. Fell off second day."
THAT DEVIL BATEESE (Salisbury—Universal)..Sept.	Big	"Big business."
TILL I COME BACK TO YOU (De Milles—Artcraft) Aug.	Extra Big	"A great picture and one of De Mille's best." "This is a story that was liked by all." "Hits kids, women and men alike. Clean and thrilling. We mopped up with this picture." "Very good." "Best picture director ever made; class this as a super-production." "Great."
TO HELL WITH THE KAISER (Screen Classics)....	Extra Big	"Broke house records. Capacity three nights." "Best thing yet; three days run; record breakers." "Good patriotic picture with wonderful pulling powers." "Great thriller." "Two days to capacity; very fine." "Good drawing card." "Has Beast of Berlin skinned to a frazzle." "Return date; went big." "Opened up big, but fell down awful."
T'OTHER DEAR CHARMER (Louise Huff—World) Sept.	Average	"Very good picture. New star for our house." "Average."
TREASON (Goodrich—Mutual).....Sept.	Average	"Average business."
TURN OF THE WHEEL (Farrar—Goldwyn).....Sept.	Big	"Held out very well for long run." "Excellent picture; should go big." "A splendid production of a commonplace story." "Picture did not draw here." "Well acted play, went well with big houses." "Extra big business four days in big city high class downtown house."
UNBELIEVER, THE (Kleine—Edison).....	Extra	"Returned for a week and went big." "Greatest patriotic picture ever." "Very good." "Five week knockout." "Great picture. Gave best of satisfaction." "This picture properly put over makes a big hit, and pulls them in." "Wonderful picture; pleased immensely—capacity houses." "Great." "Extraordinary picture, went big, a winner."
VIGILANTES, THE (Bear State Film Co.).....Aug.	Big	"Starting second big week's showing."
VIVE LA FRANCE (Dalton—Paramount).....Sept.	Average	"This is a dandy picture and pleased them all." "Patriotic drama, fairly well liked." "A war picture that would have gone big a year ago." "Good picture."
WAIFS (Astra—Pathe).....Aug.	Average	"Clean, comedy drama."
WHY AMERICA WILL WIN (Fox).....Sept.	Average	"Poor business four days. People are tired of war stuff."
WILD PRIMROSE (Leslie—Vitagraph).....Aug.	Big	"Picture went big; good picture." "Average." "Big business two days. Gladys' a comer."
WOMAN'S FOOL, A (Carey—Universal Special)...Aug.	Big	"Big to average." "Extra big." "Good story, but poorly produced. Not enough action."
WOMAN OF IMPULSE, A (Cavalieri—Paramount) Sept.	Poor	"Just a picture, that's all. She never got me five cents. Always lost money on her pictures."

FLASHBACKS

Individual Opinions on Earlier Releases Received During the Past Week

"Miss Innocence" (June Caprice-Fox)—"Ran this with Chaplin Liberty Loan picture, business big." "Average."

"The Danger Mark" (Ferguson-Artcraft)—"Great picture, didn't take well."

"The Vamp" (Enid Bennett-Paramount)—"Very good picture."

"The Safety Curtain" (Norma Talmadge-Select)—"Great, Norma always good." "Have had many requests for return showing."

"The Locked Heart" (Gloria Joy-General)—"Good kid picture, little stars clever."

"Million Dollar Dollies" (Dolly Sisters-Screen Classics)—"Stars put it over."

"Her Body in Bond" (Murray-Universal)—"No drawing power."

"Service Star" (Kennedy-Goldwyn)—"Star not liked here. This and 'Baby Mine' her best plays notwithstanding."

"By Proxy" (Stewart-Triangle)—"Poor business two days."

"Good-Night, Paul" (Select)—"Two days of poor business."

"Marked Cards" (Wilson-Triangle)—"Average business two days."

"Tinsel" (Gordon-World)—"Class picture, beautiful gowns and settings."

"More Trouble" (Keenan-Pathe)—"Good picture to light business."

"The First Law" (Castle-Pathe)—"Fair picture, extra big business."

"No Man's Land" (Lytel-Metro)—"Star well liked, but they were afraid of title. Sounded like war."

"The Scandal Mongers" (Weber-Smalley-Bluebird)—"Average progam picture. Business same."

"Her Price" (Pearson-Fox)—"Fair picture that drew well."

Exhibitor Service Bureau

Nation Argues For You

Collier's Acknowledgement of Motion Picture Gives Strong Reason Why Your Papers Should Cooperate With You

WITH the comment that this page from the Friday issue of the Akron, O., Beacon-Journal represents about the proportion of space to advertising and to reading matter about motion pictures and that all three of the papers carry about the same ratio, we are asked by an exhibitor in Akron to comment on the showing. But before we do this we want to say that we are making this comment purely on the sheet that we have reproduced because we are taking the word of the exhibitor in this case and have not had the time to investigate for ourselves what the Akron papers are doing as a habit.

And if this is a fair sample of the representation given the theatres in relation to advertising we want to say that it is very poor, and that this sort of a policy is not calculated to encourage theatres to become heavy or consistent advertisers.

Certainly one thing that we can condemn is the heading over the reading notices—"From the Press Agents." This damns the matter at the start, discourages the reader from reading it and throws a cast of doubt upon the matter by directly labelling it "free advertising matter."

Unless it has been done by some young film editor who thinks that this is "clever" it appears to show the attitude of the Beacon-Journal toward the motion picture—something from which to take the advertising revenue and then merely tolerate.

It is regrettable that there are some newspapers left that take this attitude, but they are becoming fewer and fewer every week. Some of them pass away altogether, and some of them get a change of heart. But it remains that any newspaper that shows this spirit cannot be fair to the motion picture.

Turn your eyes to the page opposite and let us study the advertising for a moment and the effect that it will have on the readers and the effect that the slighting "news" mention given the theatre will have on the newspaper itself.

Now let's remember that Akron is a city of 120,000, a live up-to-the-minute city. It is largely a manufacturing town, but the greater part of the workmen are those of the higher grade—people who read newspapers and who enjoy good entertainment.

One glance at these displays of these ten motion picture houses (one burlesque and one vaudeville house are also represented) leaves the impression that the managers of these houses are up to date, that they realize the value of good advertising, that they are willing to spend their money for it and that they are striving to get the best results possible. As a whole it is far and away ahead of the average advertising.

One of the best advance advertisements that we have seen is that of the Orpheum theatre on Gladys Brockwell in "Bird of Prey." In six inches double column the exhibitor had used a reduction of one of the advertising cuts and then he has left plenty of white space and has given an excellent selling talk with the two lines: "She craved revenge and found love." And "From danee hall to mansion." In its advertisement on the current production the Orpheum uses one of the cuts furnished by Paramount and Empress also relies on one furnished by the Sherry service.

Colonial dominates the page with sixteen inches across four columns, the poor printing being largely responsible for the failure of the cuts to make a showing. There is also too much of the border stuff and that around the name of the theatre and the first of the sales talks is not especially good. We would also have omitted the reading matter at the left of the figure of the Hun. It leaves the impression that the exhibitor just had to fill that white space. There is too much reading matter, and there is duplication in it, notable in the words "rape of democracy" and also in the "sensational revelation." A thing once said is said, and repetition gets you nowhere, but results in merely cheapening your display.

The Empress ad is good. It is a follow up and therefore does not need the sales argument brought out strongly.

The Waldorf sacrifices everything to the name plate, which is badly overdone. That drapery effect gets you nowhere.

The Bank theatre ad is well written but poorly displayed. The Liberty and the National are conventional.

But we repeat that these displays as a whole do show that the theatres of Akron want to accomplish things.

But when we look for the newspaper's encouragement—well "there ain't no such thing."

Now let us turn over to page 2660 and see the tribute that Collier's pays to the motion picture. In the issue of October 19 it devotes an entire page to the cinema as one of the agencies that has helped in winning the war. We have reproduced it in sufficient size that it may be read. We'd advise you to go to the newstand and get a copy of this issue of Collier's and then take it to your newspaper—if they are inclined to treat you as a mere necessary evil.

Now to be sure that you are going to read this let us quote right here three paragraphs from the article:

"There is not a branch of the Government's war activities which has not been thrown on the white screen. We have been shown how America is meeting the vital need for ships; we have watched the swift flight and dip of the airplane; we have witnessed the varied life of the cantonments. The enthusiasm of a Liberty Loan parade past the fluttering banners of Fifth avenue; the inspirational sight of our President delivering a historic address; the appeal of our boys going overseas as they wave good-by to the Goddess of Liberty—these and many other dramatic moments have been captured by the film and carried throughout the nation.

"But, more than this, the films have visualized the ideals for which we are fighting, have pictured the atrocities against which the might of America has rebelled.

"On the screen, too, have been flashed the urgent need for food-saving and fuel-saving; and from the stages of the moving-picture theatres fifteen thousand four-minute men have voiced the great causes which the pictures have shown."

You'll see by this that your cause is being defended by one of the most important papers in the nation and one with millions of readers. And incidentally, we would like to make the guess that practically every one of those readers like the motion picture—or else they wouldn't take a lively up-to-the-minute paper like Collier's—and that most of them will read this whole page.

After the newspaper editor—if he is the sort who thinks motion pictures are not worth giving attention to—has read this he may observe that he will admit that the motion picture has done its part toward winning the war, but that you, the theatre manager, are in the business for the profit that you are making, not out of the government pictures, but the others that you show that have nothing to do with the war.

You can tell him how the big patriotic pictures have stirred up the people, how they have been responsible for hundreds of enlistments and how, while the plots of many of the stories are largely fiction, they picture the character of the Hun that is ruling Germany and that they parallel, if they do not always actually record, real incidents of the war. Invite him to come to your theatre during the showing of one of these. It is not necessary for us to repeat the argument here to you.

But don't let him think that war is a mere incident and that the duty of the motion picture to the world is done. Let him read the closing paragraphs:

"There is still another thought—a bigger one than trade. After

(Continued on page 2660)

Where the "CO" is Lost in the Operation of the Daily Newspaper

This is a Friday page from the Dayton, O., Beacon Journal. Read the story opposite and hear the national argument that you are handed by Collier's to use if the newspapers of your city fail to show willingness to give the photoplay a fair deal

FROM PRESS AGENTS

"THE SIGN INVISIBLE"
AT THE WALDORF.

There are only two more days th which to see "The Sign Invisible" with all its thrills and pathos for the big film closes its run at the Waldorf Saturday night. Only two more days to see Mitchell Lewis in his six feet of graceful strength as "Lone Deer," the Canadian "breed," whose primitive heart has a finer appreciation of nature's beauty and the immutability of Providence than most so-called "civilized" men.

"THE BIRD OF PREY"
AT THE ORPHEUM.

Gladys Brockwell in "The Bird of Prey" will be shown at the Orpheum Sunday and Monday. In this play Miss Brockwell makes a dramatic rise from an outcast to a girl of excellent social standing. The setting of the story is mostly in Mexico. The play gives Miss Brockwell an excellent opportunity to show her great emotional powers. It teems with stirring situations.

VAUDEVILLE
AT THE COLONIAL.

Sales and the five other big time vaudeville acts that are on the bill with him close their Akron engagement Saturday night.

"THE PRUSSIAN CUR"
AT THE BANK

"The Prussian Cur," the sensational William Fox war film, which has its last showing at the Bank theater on Saturday, has made a deep impression on the big crowds that have packed the house each day to see it. As one of the audience said yesterday, "It contains everything"—chapter after chapter taken from the eventful history of recent months and made into a tense, thrilling "picture for patriots."

"CINDERELLA MAN"
AT THE LIBERTY.

Mae Marsh is given what is probably the most sympathetic role of her career thus far in her latest Goldwyn starring vehicle, "The Cinderella Man," from Oliver Morosco's famous stage success.

The story of the play is that of Marjorie Caner, the motherless daughter of a gruff millionaire, Morris Caner, who is anxious to get her married off so he won't have to bother with her. A comedy subject and a travelogue is also on the program.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE
AT THE STRAND

Constance Talmadge, presented by L. J. Selznick, whose recent Select Pictures have shown her to unusual advantage in the role of a dashing young wife, again appears as heroine of a marital mix-up in her latest comedy, "Sauce for the Goose," by Geraldine Bonner and Hutcheson Boyd, and now appearing at the Strand.

"KULTUR"
AT THE COLONIAL.

In the thrilling William Fox photodrama, "Kultur," in which Gladys Brockwell is coming to the Colonial theater next Sunday, the woman has been found who helped to start the world war.

This amazing film portrayal of the workings of underground diplomacy in Europe, just prior to the outbreak of the great conflict, has its scenes in the German and Austrian capitals.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE
Every Thursday, Friday, Saturday
TODAY AND SATURDAY
1919 Edition 1919 — A Laughing Gas Attack Bombarding the Audience, With Happiness Max Spiegel's — 51 People - 51
"MERRY ROUNDERS"
With ABE REYNOLDS
America's Foremost Character Comedian
FLORENCE MILLS
Prettiest and Best Dressed Woman in Burlesque
The Cleanest, Classiest and Most Elaborate Burlesque Show Ever Offered to Akron Theatregoers. A $2.00 Show.
PRICES Matinees 25c and 50c. Evening, 25c to $1.00. LADIES AT MATINEES 10c

TARZAN of the Apes
Will Be Shown Again Today and Tomorrow

THE DEATH OF KALA "TARZAN OF THE APES" Positively The Last Showing In Akron Try To Get In!
EMPRESS
"YOUR THEATER"

STRAND THEATRE
TODAY AND TOMORROW
Constance Talmadge
—In—
"SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE"
That proves to be a bitter pill for the gander
—Also—
Smiling Bill Parsons
In His Newest Comedy
"UP A TREE"
—And—
Uncle Sam's Bridge of Ships
COMING SUNDAY
GERALDINE FARRAR
—In—
"The Turn of the Wheel"
SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA Edward Marquardt, Director — ORGAN Mrs. Brust : Miss Mora
AKRONS TEMPLE OF THE MOTION PICTURE

She craved revenge and found love.

ORPHEUM
SUNDAY
MONDAY
From dance hall to mansion

EMPRESS
"Your Theater"
Catherine Calvert in "OUT OF THE NIGHT"

—OR—
"THE GIRL OF THE STREETS"
See the "Lady Beautiful of the Screen," with Herbert Rawlinson, in one of the most fascinating of love tales. Rich with dramatic coloring and throbbing with heart interest.

LIBERTY THEATER
Today and Tomorrow
Goldwyn Pictures presents
The Quaint Star
MAE MARSH
In Oliver Morosco's Stage Success
THE CINDERELLA MAN
by Edward Childs Carpenter
ALSO SYD CHAPLIN
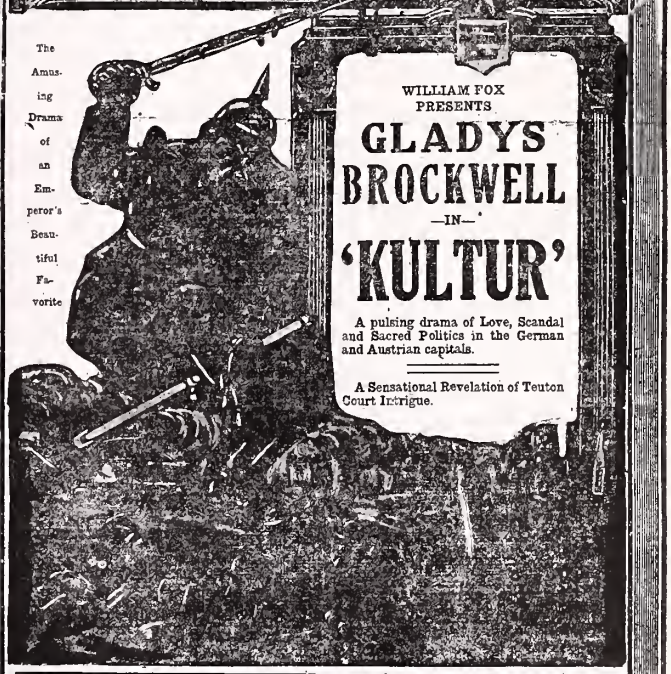
—IN—
His Winning Way
A Mack Sennett Thriller.
COMING SUNDAY
WALLACE REID
—IN—
"LESS THAN KIN"
Of the numerous meritorious Photoplays in which Wallace Reid has starred in the last year, none presents a happier mixture of thrills, mystery and laughs, than "Less Than Kin."

COLONIAL
Matinee 2:30 — All This Week — Evening 7:00-9:00
THE NEW REASON'S BIG VAUDEVILLE EVENT
ATTRACTION EXTRAORDINARY
The World's Pre-eminent Character Comedian
"CHIC" SALE
—IN—
"A Rural Sunday Benefit"
Vaudeville's Highest Salaried Artist
Sure to Please ELSIE WILLIAMS & CO. in The Eternal Question, "Who Was to Blame?"
The Act Beautiful KATE & WILEY In an Artistic Posing Novelty
A Laughing Surprise The Quaint Comedians BURLEY & BURLEY "The Dude and the Scot"
KUTER CLAIRE & KUTER In "Willie Jones' Stepmother"
SPECIAL ADDED FEATURE The Liveliest Act in Vaudeville CABARET DE LUXE —In— "A SYNCOPATED MELANGE"
Prices: Mat. 15c, 25c, 35c; Eve. 25c, 35c, 50c, a Few Rows 75c.

MOMENTOUS PHOTOPLAY ENGAGEMENT
One of the Greatest and Most Sensational Human Stories Ever Told on the Film Drama
COLONIAL SUNDAY OCTOBER 6th.
PERFORMANCE CONTINUOUS FROM 1 P. M. TO 11 P. M.
WHO STARTED THE WORLD WAR?
WHY WAS THE AUSTRIAN HEIR APPARENT KILLED?
ARE RUMORS OF SCANDALOUS LIFE OF TEUTON ROYALTY TRUE?
The Amusing Drama of an Emperor's Beautiful Favorite


WILLIAM FOX PRESENTS
GLADYS BROCKWELL
—IN—
'KULTUR'
A pulsing drama of Love, Scandal and Sacred Politics in the German and Austrian capitals.
A Sensational Revelation of Teuton Court Intrigue.
A Drama of The Rape of Democracy and of a Woman's Part in The Teuton Plot That Plunged The World in Blood.
A DARING EXPOSURE OF SCANDALS AND CRIMES IN THE ROYAL COURTS OF BERLIN AND VIENNA
KULTUR!
I AM the Teuton name for savagery.
I am no more like culture than brutish cruelty is like human kindness.
I live on the blood of the weak and helpless.
I strike down with my mailed fist, then crush beneath my heel, all who stand in my way.
I laugh as I murder old men, and women, and babes at their mothers' breasts.
In my ruthless struggle for world power, I know no mercy, no law, no friend.
I am Kultur—synonym for curse.
If this world is to be a place for men and women—and not for beasts—I must be crushed!
AN ASTOUNDING REVELATION OF THE TEUTON PLOT TO RAPE DEMOCRACY
DON'T MISS SEEING THIS SENSATIONAL ROMANCE OF EMPEROR FRANZ JOSEF'S BEAUTIFUL FAVORITE—THEN JUDGE FOR YOURSELF!
Special Musical Program ROY BILLINGS' Augmented Concert Orchestra 12—MUSICIANS—12
NO ADVANCE IN PRICES
ADMISSION 25c
CHILDREN 10c

National Theater
Today and Saturday
ALICE JOYCE and Walter McGrail
In
"To the Highest Bidder"
A striking story of a girl sold at auction.
Sunday
Mme. Petrova
—IN—
"The Life Mask"

AN INSIDE REVELATION
Crimes of the Kaiser's Secret Agents Exposed by Capt. Horst Von Der Goltz
For Ten Years a German Spy
SEE
"The Prussian Cur"
Not a Battle Picture
If you want to know what America is fighting for—and what she is fighting against — see this wonderful picture.
—ALSO—
NO. 14 U. S. Official War Review
All This Week
ADMISSION 15c & 25c
COMING SUNDAY
Sessue Hayakawa
—In—
"HIS BIRTHRIGHT"
BANK Theater
Main and Exchange Sts.

BILLIE BURKE

ORPHEUM
Today
—and—
Saturday

WALDORF
A SPECIALLY ADAPTED MUSICAL & TELEVISED PICTURE
TODAY AND TOMORROW
"THE SIGN INVISIBLE"
Featuring "Big Mitch" Lewis, Hedda Nova and Mabel Juline Scott
—In—
A drama of men, supermen and magnificent women, staged midst mighty mountains in Nature's grandest fastnesses.
—Also—
Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew
—In—
"A Professional Patient"
STARTING SUNDAY
Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley, in
"THE ROAD TO FRANCE"

Here's National Recognition for Your House

(Continued from page 2658)

the war is won peace is to be maintained, we are told, by a League of Nations. If this plan is to be practical, there must be a common and universal understanding of national habits and thoughts and ideas. Many barriers of prejudice and misunderstanding must be swept away. And this perhaps is where the moving pictures are doing their most important work for us. For when people of different races and creeds begin to laugh at the same things and cry at the same things it means that a common basis of understanding is being created. It means that the spirit of the whole world is being brought more closely together.

"And that is what the American moving picture now is helping to do."

So much for this: It should convince every newspaper editor not only of the work that the motion picture has done, but of the fact that the government recognizes the overwhelming interest in the photoplay and has used it to the limit.

And ask your editor this:

If the government as a whole and every branch of it recognizes this interest in the motion picture, why can't the local newspaper itself recognize it?

If the government knows that its propaganda reaches the millions, why cannot the editor realize that the millions of the nation and his local thousands are interested in the motion?

And if, as Collier's truly says, the motion picture is going to be depended upon after the war to set things right in the world, why cannot the newspaper be fair enough right now to set itself right about the cinema?

These are vital questions. If you, who are suffering from lack of co-operation from your newspapers fail to call this to the attention of your local editors, you are overlooking a national argument in your behalf.

Do it now.

After he has read all of this he should be convinced that the local interest in the motion picture is there. Then you have the argument as to the general interest about motion picture matters.

You can tell him how the thousands are anxious to read the gossip about the stars, news notes about productions in the making and general stories of the industry as a whole. Point out to him that the government itself has proven how the motion picture has grown to the widest world influence. That world influence was there before the war came; it needed only the war to bring the recognition.

We feel sure that the average newspaper that is not giving attention to motion pictures has never had its real attention called to the interest in them. The editors have not been persuaded that the people who go to the motion pictures are just as much interested in what is going on in the world of production and happenings in the lives of the players as they are in baseball and Christy Mathewson and Ty Cobb.

Go to your newspaper with Collier's EVIDENCE of the national interest. Your point cannot be overlooked. The editor will see the local application.

And if he can't or won't see this, he is hopeless.

DO THIS SURE

Make This Page Work For Your Theatre's Prosperity

IF you have not read the reproduction of this page from Collier's read it now.

Then go and buy at least one copy of the issue of October 19.

Frame it and place it in front of your theatre where it will be seen by everyone.

Better still, place it on large cardboard with lettering calling attention to the fact that Collier's tells the world power of the motion picture.

And still better if you can have a photographic enlargement made of this. If you could get it made four times as large then you would have a display more than four feet high and the reading matter will stand right out.

But at any rate everyone will stop and read this. You never had a better argument for your theatre.

If you have been troubled with self constituted guardians who have tried to hurt your business on account of war times, you have an argument here that will knock the props from under them.

Use this. Do it now. And the stronger you use it the better.

26 Collier's October 19, 1918

Business in War Time

EDITED BY THE BUSINESS DEPARTMENT OF COLLIER'S

No. 16: Internationalizing the American Idea

WE sat at lunch in the dining room of one of New York's famous hotels. There were four of us, the advertising director of a large moving picture company, two other men and the writer. As the smoke from our cigars, gray and fragrant, floated above us, the advertising director talked, talked with the inspiration and intensity with which a man talks when the subject of which he speaks lies close to his heart; and as he went on there came to the writer an entirely new conception of the moving-picture industry, of its vast scope, of its influence upon the minds of millions of men and women and children, not only here in our own United States but throughout the world. . . .

Let us, first of all, consider how the films have helped the Government to make America realize what war is—as some one has expressed it in one of our popular business phrases, "to sell the war to America."

There is not a branch of the Government's war activities which has not been thrown on the white screen. We have been shown how America is meeting the vital need for ships; we have watched the swift flight and dip of the airplane; we have witnessed the varied life of the cantonments. The enthusiasm of a Liberty Loan parade past the fluttering banners of Fifth Avenue; the inspirational sight of our President delivering a historic address; the appeal of our boys going overseas as they wave good-by to the Goddess of Liberty—these and many other dramatic moments have been captured by the film and carried throughout the nation.

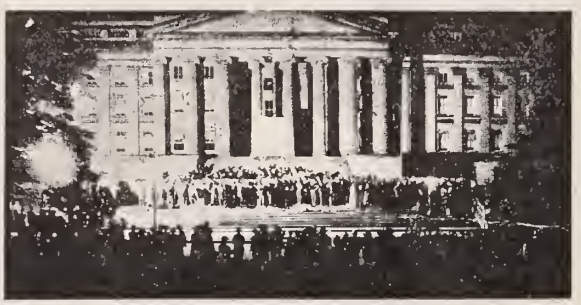
But, more than this, the films have visualized the ideals for which we are fighting, have pictured the atrocities against which the might of America has rebelled.

On the screen, too, have been flashed the urgent need for food-saving and fuel-saving; and from the stages of the moving-picture theatres fifteen thousand four-minute men have voiced the great causes which the pictures have shown.

Of the work of the film in the present Liberty Loan drive, Frank R. Wilson, Director of Publicity of the War Loan Organization, wrote: "I cannot begin to tell you how deeply grateful the Treasury Department is for the magnificent cooperation which the entire moving-picture industry has given it in this great drive to raise the sinews of war."

Nearly all of us, I imagine, do realize to some extent what the film has done in aiding war work. For if we have eyes to see we cannot escape some knowledge of it. But we do not realize the scope of this work or its vast audience; we do not consider that about one-third of the population of America goes to the moving-picture theatre.

In this war, the moving picture has become what social service workers have for so long tried to make the schoolhouse; it has become the civic center of the community where the big affairs of the entire world are made familiar to everyone.



War Films of the Bureau of Commercial Economics exhibited to 15,000 persons before the United States Treasury Building

There is still another angle to this American propaganda work. It is the effect of these various war films in other countries than our own. Take, for instance, such a film as "America's Answer," an official film of the Committee on Public Information. It shows a very complete survey of America's war preparations. It can be readily understood that the exhibition of this film in France or in Italy or Russia has in many ways greater value even than in the United States. It is for this reason that President Wilson has appointed an American Cinema Commission to spread the propaganda of democracy by means of moving pictures throughout the countries of our Allies.

* * * * * * * * * * *

Now, at last, we are on the subject toward which we have been aiming since the beginning of this page: internationalizing the American idea.

The National City Bank of New York recently issued a bulletin which showed that the exports of American motion-picture film had increased from 32 million feet in 1913 to 128 million feet in 1917. Says this bulletin: "The length of the films passing through the Custom Houses of the country in the last fiscal year was sufficient to stretch almost twice around the globe at the Equator, and about three-fourths of this enormous volume was American films exported."

The advertising director of the film company with whom we talked put it in another way. "Before the war," he said, "American films abroad were only 14% of the total shown. Now the total is 90%."

"What do you mean by 'abroad?'" I asked. "Just Europe?"

"No, South America, Africa, Asia, as well as Europe. Take China. American films are very popular there."

Let's get at the meaning behind these figures.

After the war is won, as we all know, America's overseas trade must be developed enormously. It is not only an opportunity but a necessity. As stated in this page not long ago, Chairman Hurley of the U. S. Shipping Board says we will have 25 million tons of shipping to be employed.

Well, consider what the American moving picture is doing in other countries. It is familiarizing South America and Africa, Asia and Europe with American habits and customs. It is educating them up to the American standard of living. It is showing them American clothes and furniture, automobiles and homes. And it is subtly but surely creating a desire for these American-made articles. It is paving the way for the trade which must be developed when our factories and shops are no longer busy with war work. The modern version of "trade follows the flag" may very well be expressed as "trade follows the film."

There is still another thought—a bigger one than trade. After the war is won peace is to be maintained, we are told, by a League of Nations. If this plan is to be practical, there must be a common and universal understanding of national habits and thoughts and ideas. Many barriers of prejudice and misunderstanding must be swept away. And this perhaps is where the moving pictures are doing their most important work for us. For when people of different races and creeds begin to laugh at the same things and cry at the same things it means that a common basis of understanding is being created. It means that the spirit of the whole world is being brought more closely together.

And that is what the American moving picture now is helping to do

Collier's National argument for the motion picture

Cater to Class; the Mass Will Follow

By Harold B. Franklin
Manager Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo

PUBLIC opinion favors the motion picture. It has been accepted by the best people as splendid entertainment. It is the duty of the successful manager to "carry on" and keep improving by setting a pace for others. Run your theatre a little better than the other fellow. Nothing but the best is good enough. Every exhibitor should strive for the distinction of catering to the "400" of his city. Play to the class and the mass will follow.

Let the name of your theatre be a symbol of the best that can be found. The name of your theatre is your signature. It is therefore wise that your theatre be the standard by which the best in motion pictures can be measured. A theatre runs on good will. This is its most important asset. Bad pictures, bad music, bad service, and your patrons will be conspicuous by their absence.

The theatre of high ideals appeals to all classes. The "high brows" expect and the middle classes favor an atmosphere of refinement and splendor. Keep your theatre keyed to victory. Don't let the war be an excuse for allowing your house to become shabby and run down. While extravagant expenditures should not be made, the atmosphere of refinement should be kept up.

After all it is personality that counts, and the personality of your theatre is very much what you decide it to be. Personality embraces the characteristics of cheerfulness, courtesy and refinement. These qualities spell efficiency, and efficiency spells success.

Completeness should characterize the presentation of your program. Don't tire your patrons with long shows.

Vary your program and keep it fresh and interesting. The manager should become intimately familiar with the taste of his patrons. Note at all times the criticism as well as the praise and try to eliminate the weak points as soon as apparent. Look at your theatre from the patron's point of view.

Don't stick too close to your job.

Don't lose your perspective.

Become able to criticize your own faults as well as those of your competitor.

Harold B. Franklin

Program Most Important

The program you offer is far more important than anything else in attempting to completely satisfy your audience. It is the picture that draws the crowd and the way you present it that keeps them coming. Get patrons into the habit of preferring your way of doing things. The wise manager will gamble as little as possible on poor pictures. He will make every effort to guarantee a pleasant evening for his audience. He will not always pick 100 per cent. winners, but by closely following the trade papers when screenings are not available, he will average high. In this respect probably one of the most advanced steps in keeping the exhibitor informed is the complete plan book recently inaugurated by MOTION PICTURE NEWS, which enjoys an enviable reputation for analyzing a picture properly.

There are a number of exhibitors who make it an absolute rule to see their pictures before presenting them to Mr. and Mrs. Public, and these men are blazing a trail that will result in ultimate good that cannot be measured in words.

Giving the Picture Support

A good picture is entitled to the exhibitor's hearty support both in the matter of paying an adequate rental as well as making a worthy presentation. The poor picture, on the contrary, is entitled to no support whatever. The approval of your audience is the real criterion by which to judge a production. It is, of course, ultimately necessary to play the feature before your audience can definitely judge, but the astute exhibitor will soon be able to determine by careful observation what his audience does not want.

All the charms and moods of the picture should be reflected by an appropriate musical setting. The theatre's opportunity in this respect is unlimited. It does not matter whether you use a symphony orchestra of fifty or an organ or piano. It is the music you play and how it is played that counts. The appeal of music in itself is a tremendous factor in the popularity of your theatre.

Same Welcome for All

Give all your patrons, whether in the orchestra or gallery, the same feeling of welcome by having courteous attendants and a restful atmosphere. Put the germ of courtesy in your theatre.

When a patron is diverted from your house through discourtesy you lose his business, therefore it is a wise move to select attendants with the idea in view that they are meant to please your patrons.

Avoid grouches and that type of employee who is likely to cause any questioning in this regard.

Your patrons expect thorough service, order and system. Faults are invariably noticeable, and the manager should not expect a bouquet every time he does a thing properly—a first class theatre does things right as a matter of course.

Every person is at his or her best when well groomed—your theatre is at its best only when it is well groomed. Keep things neat.

In conclusion, the dependable theatre never exaggerates in its advertising. Hold the confidence of your public. Advertising is a big thing, and properly applied will make your theatre the most talked of institution in your city.

ADVISORY BOARD, EXHIBITORS SERVICE BUREAU

Samuel L. Rothapfel, Rialto and Rivoli theatres, New York.
Thomas D. Soriero, Park theatre, Boston, and Strand theatres, Lowell.
Harold B. Franklin, Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo.
Edw. L. Hyman, Film Director, U. S. Liberty Theatres, New York.
E. Mandlebaum, Loew's Stillman theatre, Cleveland.
Mrs. Joseph Grossman, Standard theatre, Cleveland.
George J. Schade, Schade theatre, Sandnsky.
H. C. Horater, Alhambra theatre, Toledo.
Mark Gates, Dayton Theatre, Dayton, O.
S. Barret McCormick, Circle theatre, Indianapolis.
Theo. L. Hays, New Garrick theatre, St. Paul.
M. W. McGee, Majestic theatre, Detroit.
A. F. Moeller, Theatret de Luxe, Detroit.
Chas. G. Branham, Strand theatre, Minneapolis.
Leo A. Landan, Butterfly theatre, Milwankee.
Charles C. Perry, Liberty theatre, Camp Cody, Texas.
W. S. McLaren, Majestic and Colonial Theatres, Jackson, Mich.
Willard C. Patterson, Criterion theatre, Atlanta, Ga.
E. V. Richards, Jr., General Manager, Saenger Amusement Co., New Orleans.
Ernst Boehringer, Liberty theatre, New Orleans.
C. A. Lick, New theatre, Fort Smith, Ark.
F. L. Newman, Royal and Regent theatres, Kansas City, Mo.
Herbert J. Thacher, Strand theatre, Salina, Kan.
H. M. Thomas, Strand theatre, Omaha.
Ralph Ruffner, Rialto theatre, Bntte.
A. H. Hilton, Paramount Theatre, Lewiston, Idaho.
George E. Carpenter, Paramount-Empress theatre, Salt Lake.
Sam W. B. Cohn, Liberty theatre, Spokane.
G. F. Fullerton, Advertising Manager, Greater Theatres Co., Seattle.
E. J. Myrick, Liberty theatre, Portland, Ore.
A. S. Kolstad, Liberty theatre, Hood River, Ore.
P. E. Noble, Publicity Manager, Liberty and Columbia theatres, Seattle.
Eugene H. Roth, California theatre, San Francisco.
J. A. Partington, Imperial theatre, San Francisco.
Sidney Grauman, Grauman's theatre, Los Angeles.
A. C. H. Chamberlin, Opera House, Madera, Cal.

Seeing Rialto and Rivoli with Rothapfel

AGAIN this week at the Rivoli theatre Mr. Rothapfel is showing how little changes in the arrangement of pictures gives the audiences new thrills of the unexpected.

How often have you picked up the hints of some of the rocking chair exhibitors and have found this comment with a war picture: "We would not show a news weekly with this, because the picture itself contains a number of battle scenes." All of which may be good advice sometimes, but it simply goes to show that there are all sorts of exceptions to rules of motion picture exhibition, when brains enter in.

And so, at the Rivoli theatre we find the Animated, which consists entirely of the Official War Review, being used practically as a prelude to the feature, "Private Peat," though the latter is purely a war picture and contains scores of scenes and a number of scenes that have actually been taken from news weeklies themselves. The effect of it is so surprising that the feature is enjoyed all the more because the very character of the War Review is to show the ruthlessness of the Huns and the reason that we must have "Unconditional Surrender."

But watch the way that the entire effect is gained, for there is more to it than a mere placing of pictures and musical numbers.

Selections from "Faust" form the overture at the Rivoli this week, and these are brilliantly rendered with the lights all red until a few bars from the crashing end, when they come up in gold.

"Dame Nature's Love" is the beautiful Post-Pathe scenic this week, one of the creations of Van Scoy, which are attracting so much attention at the Rivoli. There are various scenes, starting with the old swimming hole, illustrating the beauties of nature at her best. "Love in April" is the music for this. The titles of the picture are all in verse and the melody fits in perfectly with them.

Then with lights fading into blue except for the center dome in red, the curtains part revealing a circular opening with a couple of tall evergreen trees in the background and Mlle. D'Espinoy standing near a seat. In the background there is a huge golden moon just outlined. The "Waltz Song" from "Romeo and Juliet" is the selection.

"A Ramble in Aphasia," another one of the delightful O. Henry two-reel pictures which are coming to be so eagerly looked for at the Rivoli, follows. This is a story of a young, but muchly married man, who is always dreaming of New York, and when a physician friend warns him that he is likely to become a victim of aphasia, he decides to take the tip and have his good time in New York that has so far materialized only in his visions. There are some clever effects obtained with double, and sometimes triple photography. Good humor is the keynote of the picture. The music is carried on the organ and is in keeping with the character of the picture.

Now here is where we begin to get the first of the smashing effect that carries through the feature, and so far as we know it is a brand new idea and one that gets over to hundred per cent. results. Red and blue effects are obtained in the lighting, with the dome in red and the rest of the lights, except for the edge of the proscenium arch and the uprights in red. Before the curtains are parted one may read upon them the projected words, "As the chimes strike twelve let us all pause a moment and offer up a silent prayer for our boys over there." The organ plays ad lib for a few bars and then the organ chimes strike twelve and then follows "Old Hundred." The curtains part revealing the desolated battlefield, one of the best pieces of scenic work of John Wenger, and then James Price sings "God Be with our Boys Tonight." A single star shines from out the blue sky and one instantly thinks of the Star of Bethlehem that guided the wise men to the Savior. It is a clever interpretation of the idea that the cause of ours on the battlefield is also a holy one. There is a deep touch to this number. Above the scene are the flags of America, Great Britain, Italy, Belgium and France, and as they first come into view there is a great roar from the audience. There is another little touch added with now and then a rumble on the organ, giving the effect of occasional bombardment in the distance.

Of course this brings tumultuous applause, but this is one of the effects where it continues to gain impressiveness by the linking up that is done, and the sentiment is brought closer home with the Official War Review that follows. "The Great Battlefields" is the general title of this latest number, and first we are shown the roads of Italy busy with the preparations for battle and then the French observation balloons being taken from their cavernous hiding places. Then under the caption, "Where America Fights," we are shown some of the thousands of Germans that they have taken prisoners and, without any further title, as the Huns are seen there in the woods, General Pershing appears on the scene. Now up to that moment the music had been "Ruy Blas," but just before the American commander comes in "Attention" is called on the trumpets and you should hear the audiences go wild as they recognize General Pershing.

With the title "Before Us Stretches the Great Battlefield," the music changes to "Redemption" and we have views of engineers throwing a bridge across the Marne. Then we get views of Dormans in ruins, with the cathedral a mass of wreckage, and then a fine shot of Chateau-Thierry and the ruins of that city. With the title which shows the German warning sign that this street is in full view of the enemy, "Phedre" becomes the music, and then when we are shown the mayor and the old women and children who remained through it all we have "March Militaire," and at the appearance of President Poincare we have a few bars of "Marseillaise" on the trumpets and then a drum roll, turning into "Over There."

Now there is not even a moment for the great applause, for the feature picture goes immediately on the screen with the orchestra turning into "Around the Campfire." Now "Private Peat" is really a picturization of incidents in the book rather than an actual story, though the events are made to take place in America instead of in Canada. "Romance" is the theme, and that is introduced with the glimpse of the girl teacher, with "Yankiana" following with the scenes in the village with the receipt of the mail. Now the following scenes largely represent Peat's dream of what might happen in his home town, based on actual outrages of the Germans in France and Belgium, and during this Rothapfel numbered selections are used.

With the title "And Before Morning" we get into the patriotic music that gives so much of the punch to this picture, the first selection being "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall," and then as the boys march away to camp we have "Daughter of the Revolution" to the trio, and with the title "We Were a Lot of Rummies," showing scenes in the camp, the orchestra swings into "Oh, How I Hate to Get Up." When we are shown the fine soldiers after six weeks of training we have "Liberty Bell March," and then with the title "And Then the Day Came" there is another change of

LEAVE THE RASP OUT

There's a Lot in Getting a Smooth-Running Bill

REMEMBER the days you sat in the theatre and saw a really excellent picture, with pretty good music along with it and then when it was over you had to sit through an advertising reel of Bill Jones smoked hams and Brown Brothers bedsprings. You know what a jarring this was. You would have gotten up and walked out, but you wanted to see the comedy that was to follow.

Some exhibitors are doing this same thing with the fillers that they are using because they put them in the wrong place, or associate them with the wrong picture. Now the short pictures are getting better and better and many of them attract as much attention as the long feature. They get talk for your theatre, but you have to use care in showing them at the right time.

Read these articles carefully and watch the way that the short and long subjects and the features are blended at the Rothapfel houses.

What Live Wires are Doing

many specimens of the work of leading theatres printed in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS. We don't understand at all the line, "The Famous Stars Prove," especially as the display carefully avoids mentioning any names. In fact one of the selling points of this picture is the all-star cast; another is the fact that the story is by Rupert Hughes; another that it is a Cecil B. DeMille production. Another sales argument is the motion picture studio element. The writer got "warm" on that, yet he did not put over the idea so that the public would understand.

The cut itself is meaningless.

There are two kinds of "fines"; think it over.

HERE is a good idea and it is all put into four inches, double column by the Strand theatre, Birmingham, Ala., a house which recently came under new management. There was large advertising done in advance, and at the start of the run of "Cleopatra" and then the smaller displays during the week.

There is unquestionably a prejudice against costume plays among certain ele-

Addressed to Those People Who Do Not Like "Costume Plays"
You don't like plays of a by-gone era, plays in which the characters dress and act, in a way different from that typical of this age? Possibly, but
THEDA BARA
In the $250,000 Production of
"CLEOPATRA"
will change your ideas for one picture anyway. It has the strongest love story ever written, wonderful battle scenes, a reproduction of ancient Rome, in reality it is a part of the world's greatest history brought to life.
Pathe News
Orchestra and Organ
STRAND
This Entire Week

ments and the management of the Strand wanted to get everyone in Birmingham to see this picture, and so this particular appeal was made, pointing out that "Cleopatra" is not an ordinary costume picture, but a production telling one of the greatest stories of all the ages. And for that reason emphasis was placed on the bigness of the offering.

There are occasions, after you have done your general exploitation, when it pays to take up angles like this. This exhibitor is not one hundred per cent until he has gotten every possible patron into the house.

Get up early, mentally. The moon is only a reflection of the sun.

IT is all very well to depend on the popularity of a star to put a picture over, but the exhibitor who depends on that alone is not exactly fair to himself or to the star.

Now "The Border Wireless," in which Wm. S. Hart is now playing, is an unusually strong picture and one that is different from anything else that this player has presented that it attracts unusual attention. It has a strong selling value, especially right at the moment. It is a happy picture without the usual "reform" element in it, and it shows "Bill" becoming one of the soldiers of Uncle Sam. Now we have understood that theatres have complained that the Hart reissues have hurt them with the current releases. Here was a chance they had to get away from that handicap in the easiest possible manner. Yet all that Metropolitan theatre, Cleveland, has done is to say that this is his latest Artcraft picture and then to use a sketch of a wireless tower at the left, with Hart waving a whip opposite. It is utterly meaningless. It will get the "dyed-in-the-wool" Hart fans, but no others. It is an overlooked opportunity.

HERE is an admirable display for "Italy's Flaming Front." It contains just the right amount of reading matter and the cuts that are likely to attract the attention of every one who takes up the newspaper. It is the work of G. F. Fullerton, advertising manager of the Greater Theatres Company, Seattle, Wash. We mention this fact because it is mighty rarely that Fullerton uses advertising aids sent out by the distributors and this time he has done so in the case of the drawings.

We have a splendid catch line here in his first display: "You Can Now See a Real Battle." That means something to the reader and he is going to wonder why this particular picture has made this possible, and then he has only to read the boxed matter at the right-hand side to find out why. That tells that the mountainous section of the country has made it possible for the cameraman to so place himself that he could get the whole pictured story.

The intimate angle is brought home in the box at the left, where the endorsement of the picture by the Seattle Italian consul is carried. It is very strong praise and the highest possible individual guarantee of a picture. And it is far more effective than if the endorsement had been used in large type. In that case there might have been

STRAND THEATRE
STARTS SUNDAY
You Can Now See a Real Battle!
ON LAND, SEA AND AIR
FIRST AMERICAN TOUR OF
"Italy's Flaming Front"
The First Films of a Whole Battle
Latest and greatest of all official European war pictures. Tremendous in theme, more blood-stirring than the most realistic drama of imagination, with many scenes of imposing beauty.
ITALIAN ROYAL CONSUL IN SEATTLE VOICES HIS APPROVAL
6,000 FEET OF VIVID ACTION!
Second at Seneca—Continuous 11 to 11
Admission 20c—Children 10c
PLUS WAR TAX

a share of the public to suspect that there was "something behind it."

The display at the bottom was taken from one of the advertising cuts supplied by First National.

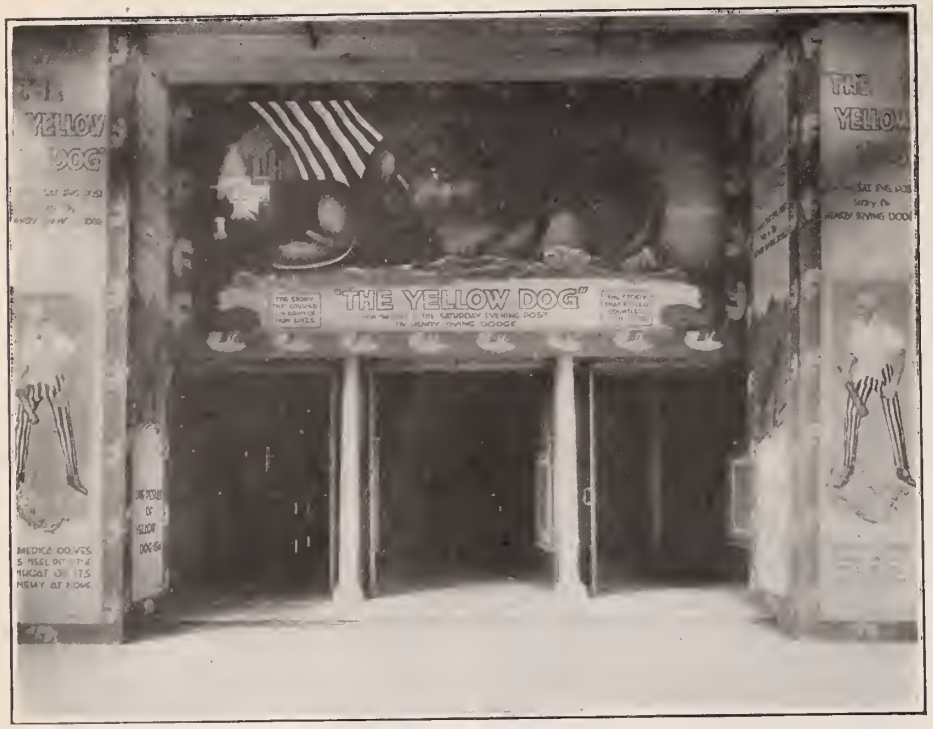
This display was four full columns on the front page of the amusement section of the Seattle Times. If you can use equal space, well and good, but you can copy this same idea in less and get mighty good results.

IF YOU ARE CLOSED

Then It's Good Time for You to Get Your Ideas Together

IF you are one of the theatre managers whose house is closed by the Spanish Influenza are you merely sitting about the place waiting for things to open up again or are you laying plans that when you do open you are going to get more business than ever before.

You have time to sit down now and write us the best things that you have done. You have lots of good ideas stored away and you have dismissed them because you have been "too busy." Now let us hear from you.



Kashin's Display on "The Yellow Dog" at the Broadway theatre

Simplicity Marks Kashin's Lobby Display on "The Yellow Dog" and It Gets Big Results

"THE YELLOW DOG," the Universal Special production made from Henry Irving Dodge's patriotic story of the same name, which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, is enjoying a pre-release run this week at the Broadway theatre and there it is supplying material for another striking lobby display by M. Kashin, the managing director.

"Punch" is the feature of the display, and though it is very simple it certainly has had the crowds stopping on Broadway. The color scheme was, of course, yellow, and that gave it the double value of making it visible from a distance at night as well as carrying a big flash by day.

Around each section of the display, in the form of a border, were yellow dogs. The central panel above the entrance was a panorama signifying "America" and its war industries. In the foreground was a yellow dog snapping at the heels of Uncle Sam. On the other side pieces were paintings, one of Uncle Sam clubbing a yellow dog and the other of an incendiary at work in a shipyard.

It was the proper thing in this picture to bring out the title in every way possible, and it was to this that Kashin devoted the greater part of his attenion. The story attracted so much attention when it was published that it is familiar to thousands, and in addition to this the picture has had much advertising as the result of the formation of the "Anti-Yellow Dog League" and the endorsement that was given that body by Colonel Roosevelt.

Therefore the title was the thing to put it over and the yellow dogs in the decoration did this. But Kashin wanted to link it up a little closer with the fact that it bears on the part that America is doing in the war, and that is the reason he made the activities of yellow dogs against Uncle Sam clearer. The photograph really does poor justice to the display, which was easily one of the most striking of the many good ones that have been seen at the Broadway. It had the wallop in every element and it helped to increase the big business.

This picture opened on Sunday, October 13, and in this connection Kashin did one of the most striking stunts that was possible: It will be recalled that President Wilson's answer to the German peace note was published that morning. Kashin got a copy of the World and had the front page photographed with the big headlines and the text of the message greatly enlarged and then the whole thing placed in front of the theatre, where it remained through the day.

Now many would figure that practically everyone of intelligence had read the note in the morning papers, and probably they did, but it is the old thing of arousing curiosity. At times the sidewalk was blocked by the crowds, and thousands stood during the day and read the entire note. It's a good point to bear in mind, because there are likely to be some other big events like this and the stunt costs practically nothing.

Mr. Kashin points out that the reproduction was worth many dollars to his theatre on Sunday, but that it would have been worthless the following day. It was another case of "Strike while the iron is hot."

Hope may spring eternal in the human breast, but we'd a whole lot rather have faith working for us in newspaper advertising.

Seeing the Rialto and Rivoli with Rothapfel

(Continued from page 2663)

Carlos Mejia then sings "Il Soir" from "Carmen" before the Byzantine setting, and then we have the delightful feature in which Tom Moore plays the part of the Irish chauffeur who marries the daughter of his rich employer. We have never seen an audience enjoy any production more than they did this at the time that we saw it. There was constant laughter, plenty of hearty applause and a regular ovation at the end. This is a picture of the sort that will always please, and we who have to see pictures wish there were more like this one.

And the music is one of the most delightful parts. "When You Are Truly Mine" is the theme and all of the other selections are heart appealing. "Vanity" is the selection at the start, and then with the views of Dan's mother we have the wonderfully appealing "Mother Machree," followed by "Laughing Irish Eyes" and "La Caresse." With the first hint of the love between the girl and the chauffeur we have the theme, and then meeting followed by "Dolorosa" for the breakdown of the automobile. At the title which says the petition for divorce is ready for the girl to sign eight bars of the theme are played as a violin solo, and then when her father directs the servant to "Show Mr. Murray to Mrs. Murray's Room" we have the theme with the full orchestral effect. The selection of a theme is important, as all of us know, but we have never seen it better demonstrated than when you get one of these light, but heart appealing pictures, the intimate music that you set it in adds to the delight of the production immeasurably.

There is one thing that we cannot help mentioning. There is a title in this picture where one of the characters asks: "Would you like to hear John McCormack?" meaning on the phonograph. And that heaven Mr. Rothapfel does not inflict the old record stuff on us here.

With the lights all in red the orchestra then plays the march from "Damnation of Faust," and then a little more of happiness is added with the Harold Lloyd comedy, "Why Pick On Me?" Here the music is, of course, light, the selections being "Tell That to the Marines," "Here's to Our Boys," "Good Morning, Mr. Zip, Zip, Zip" and "Globe Trotters."

"Crashing Through to Berlin" in Demand on Coast

"Crashing Through to Berlin" has made such a hit in the territory served by the Los Angeles Universal exchange that not only are its four prints booked solid, but it has been compelled to borrow two prints from the San Francisco exchange to take care of the demand for the complete history of the war in the Southern California theatres.

"Crashing Through to Berlin" was the bill for the opening of the American theatre, Phoenix, formerly the Empress, under the management of Brandon Brothers.

Two scenes in McCormick's Liberty Loan setting

McCormick Puts on Lavish Settings At Circle as Aid in the Liberty Loan Drive

By Davis Hampton

IT was the kind of a Yankee Doodle show that ran red, white and blue thrills up and down your spinal column, wore blisters on your hands from applauding and made you want to dig deep for the boys "over there" that greeted the patrons of the Circle theatre, Indianapolis, during the opening week of the Fourth Liberty Loan drive.

S. Barrett McCormick announced it as his "Red, White and Blue Program," and he wove the Stars and Stripes through every number from the brilliant and rousing overture till the last scene of the patriotic features. In the past the patriotic programs presented during the Liberty Loan campaigns have been so successful in stimulating enthusiasm.

The Campaign Committee and the Council of Defense called upon Mr. McCormick for further assistance, only to learn that his plans had been laid for several weeks in advance and a program arranged that provided the utmost in patriotic appeal. In fact, bookings had been shifted and rearranged in such a manner as to provide the most sitmulating effort upon the audiences' patriotism.

The feature picture, "The Hun Within," was held up several weeks from release date in anticipation of the loan drive, just as on the occasion of the last campaign picture, "My Four Years in Germany," was brought in by special messenger three weeks ahead of its regular release.

The program was arranged in such a manner that it gained momentum and enthusiasm as it ran along. There was no letting up or diverting from the main trend, each unit of the bill piled up enthusiasm for the one to follow, and the great audience was kept in a constant state of applause. There was not a comedy on the bill, everything was serious or informative but not gruesome, and the rousing music and undercurrent of national determination fairly kept the house on its toes.

The program opened with the "Liberty Overture," described as a symphonic picture of the great war descriptive of the battles fought and the entrance of the various nations into the conflict, signalized by their national anthems, and finishing with "The Star Spangled Banner," with which the audience stood and sang as with one voice.

Then came the Liberty Loan pictures, changed each day during the week.

Then with brilliant fan-fare and trumpet calls the orchestra took up the "Circle Cinema News" and "Allied War Review," which had been cut and edited ti a big and stirring "war edition."

Then followed the Winsor McCay pen picture, "The Sinking of the Lusitania," the grand organ providing the dramatic musical setting.

As the last scenes of this faded away and the draperies closed in over the screen, Gerol Gardiner, the famous American basso and a favorite at the Circle, dressed in khaki, sang "My Own United States" and "Land of Mine," both fitting to the patriotic occasion and the spirit of the program.

It was during the presentation of these songs that Mr. McCormick introduced his tableaux. The first song was climaxed by a living reproduction of one of the Liberty Loan posters, Columbia leading her men to victory. Against a vivid background of stimulating colors the figure symbolic of America aroused, her sword drawn and shield ready, stood calling the men to battle. Behind her could be seen the endless army of fighting men silhouetted against the deep red glow of battle.

The last song, "Land of Mine," was climaxed by a tableau which, when the draperies were drawn, disclosed the dome of the national Capitol. Then as an added surprise, into the picture walked the President, ar at least an actor whose physical resemblance was so great that he brought forth applause that fairly thundered throughout the great auditorium.

Two of McCormick's full column advertisements

Then into the feature picture, with its patriotic punches and stirring music, the red, white and blue program came to a close with an audience throbbing with enthusiasm and, better still, expressing it.

The advertising prepared by Mr. McCormick for his exploitation of this program was likewise planned to lend the fullest publicity to the loan drive not merly by printing the stereotyped "Buy a Bond," but by a written and pictorial connection.

For instance, the two principal advertisements, each occupying four full columns of space, strove to show the Hun menace by the figure of the blood-stained Boche crashing through the map of the United States and the face of the German war master looking through the ruins of America. The designs were purposely borrowed from the posters of the loan campaigns and woven into the atmosphere of the theatre's advertising, giving to it a double mission.

Such is the stuff that Liberty Loan programs are made of.

Live News from the Producers

Garson Special Ready in Nov.

Marshall Nielan Nearing Completion of "The Unpardonable Sin," with Blanche Sweet in Leading Role

WORK on "The Unpardonable Sin," the second special independent production to be made by Harry I. Garson, is nearing a stage which makes it possible to announce that this Blanche Sweet feature will be ready for release early in November.

Marshall Neilan, listed in the "select few" of screen producers, is staging the production of Captain Rupert Hughes' novel at the Sunset studios in Los Angeles.

As the time for the release of the special nears much speculation is being indulged in by the promoters as to whether the film version will cause the same furore of discussion as has been waging since the appearance of the story in The Red Book and in Harper & Bros. novel a few months ago.

Regarding this a representative of Harry I. Garson declared to Motion Picture News this week:

"'The Unpardonable Sin,' latest of the Rupert Hughes' novels, written after the author had become a captain in the United States Army, has 'the country by the ears.' Protests against its circulation have been made by thousands of volunteer censors of what the American public should read, see, or be told. Officials, supposedly speaking with authority, have said that 'it was not the intention to have the book there (in libraries) or to assist in its circulation. And rushing to the support of the publication and to the important principles involved prominent daily newspapers, among them the New York Times, and such international characters as former President Theodore Roosevelt have come out flat-footed in commendation of the story and in equally strong criticism of those who have been opposing its circulation.

"Because of this agitation the status of the story in its printed form has already been pretty well established, and 'The Unpardonable Sin' is a 'best seller.' Big libraries everywhere have placed it on their shelves and the public is reading it with avidity. Through one comparatively small branch of the New York Library 500 copies are in circulation—and in such active circulation that requests for the book are being honored only on three weeks' advance application. The moving picture people's great interest is just what is going to happen when the picture story is offered, first to the various censor boards throughout the country and then to the public, is therefore very natural. It would seem that 'The Unpardonable Sin,' transferred to the screen in a manner which would guarantee it the same support that the book is receiving, bids fair to be a genuine box-office sensation."

N. Y. Run for Cavell Film

Arrangements Under Way for Broadway House—Director Adolphi Completes Production, Starring Julia Arthur

ANNOUNCEMENT from the offices of Joseph Plunkett and Frank J. Carroll last week declared that a Broadway engagement had been decided on for "The Woman the Germans Shot," the film production based on the Edith Cavell case in which Julia Arthur will star.

Expectations are that the house will be definitely settled upon within a few weeks. A special music setting is now being prepared and details perfected for a private showing of the picture before distinguished guests before the public presentation.

It is expected that when the final editing has been done the picture will be presented in six-reel length. In addition to the stage star in the principal role the cast includes Creighton Hale, William H. Tooker, Paul Panzer, George Majeroni, Sarah Alexander, Joyce Fair and others. Anthony Paul Kelly, author of the current Broadway success, "Three Faces East," wrote the story.

Speaking of the production to a representative of Motion Picture News last week Director Adolphi declared:

"The picture is not a war picture, if that term is taken to mean spectacular battle scenes. There are some trench scenes, to be sure, but they are only incidental to the story. The public is satiated with gigantic spectacles showing the troops fighting, and in making this picture our sole aim has been to bring out the splendid heroism of Edith Cavell, which exemplifies the part which women have played in this war.

"The picture is intensely dramatic, however, and realistic to the last degree. Mr. Kelly has thoroughly studied all the documents relating to the case, and has not departed from the exact incidents in any important matter.

"Now and then the actual occurrence has to be slightly modified for dramatic purposes, but as a whole the production will stand as a historic document, telling a story that, while big enough to be of future importance, is also human enough to touch every person in the civilized nations."

Enid Markey, in Lloyd Carleton's Production, "Mother, I Need You"

"Tarzan" Sequel First Shown at New York Strand

The first public presentation of "The Romance of Tarzan" was given last week at the Strand Theater, New York City.

Proposals had been made for showing the "Tarzan" sequel in an independent Broadway house as had been done with the original production but the plan was abandoned because of the fact that a country-wide interest had already been aroused in the sequel by success of the "Tarzan of the Apes."

Ford Weekly Series Reported Favorably

No. 120 in the Ford Weekly series, entitled "The Red Cross Cares for the Wounded," is said to be the best of this series to date. All theatres in which it has been shown report favorably on it. All pictures in this series are produced with the co-operation of the Committee on Public Information and are devoted to a single purpose—winning the war.

George Elwood Jenks with Hampton

George Elwood Jenks, for fifteen months continuity expert and special writer for Triangle Film Company, has just completed arrangements to be associated in the future with Jesse D. Hampton Productions and prepare stories for J. Warren Kerrigan and other leading stars.

Mr. Jenks has the preparation of more than twenty Triangle productions to his credit.

Y. M. C. A. Co-Operates Helps Boost Universal Picture

The second Y. M. C. A. feature being distributed by Universal entitled, "Around the Clock with a Sailor," is receiving organized exploitation through the various Y. M. C. A. branches throughout the country. During its run at the Broadway theatre, New York, the "Y" men sent out special letters to all its men in the district urging them to see it, while it was billed in home camps and all the huts bearing the Red Triangle.

In another district the Y. M. C. A. officials arranged that the local exchange man could call public men on the 'phone, free of charge, to notify them of place where the picture was shown.

Charles Graham in Houdini Serial

Charles E. Graham, who has won an enviable reputation as a character actor, will be seen in a prominent role when the Houdini serial, now being made by B. A. Rolfe, is released. He has the part of Balcom, the inventor and crook.

Mr. Graham won much fame for his creation of the part of "Dick the Rat," the paralyzed crook in the original production of "Alias Jimmy Valentine," in which H. B. Warner starred. It was this characterization that led to the demand for his services in motion pictures. Certain producers were hunting for an actor to play the title role in a film depicting the life of Petrosini, the great Italian detective, a part calling for twenty-one distinct characterizations. These producers saw Mr. Graham in "Alias Jimmie Valentine" and forthwith engaged him to depict Petrosini.

Two of Mr. Graham's most recent screen successes are Moses, in the "Birth of a Race"; and Aaron Burr, playing opposite to Arnold Daly, in "My Own United States." In fact, it was his work in this latter picture which led to his engagement with Mr. Rolfe.

Sol Lesser a Man of More Titles

Sol Lesser, whose name is his introduction, has taken still another position. It bears a long title, namely: Chairman of the Committee on Films of the State Council of Defense for California. The State Council was formed originally to distribute all official war films in California. In order to perfect the organization it was necessary to have an experienced film man at the helm and by unanimous vote of his business associates and competitors he was elected to the position.

Some of Mr. Lesser's other titles are General Manager of the All Star Features Distributors, Inc., Owner and Manager of the Western "Hearts of the World" Company and Managing Director of the Mid-West "Hearts of the World" Company of Chicago. There are twenty-one companies touring the road with this picture under Mr. Lesser's management.

United Forces at Top Speed

Rapid Progress Being Made on First Kitty Gordon Subject—Seelye Signing Up Michigan Exhibitors

WITH its initial release Dustin Farnum's "The Light of Western Stars" ready for release the minute Old Man Influenza says the word "Go!" The United Pictures Theatres organization is working at top speed to carry out its plan of fifty-two annual releases.

Word was received from Los Angeles this week that the first of the Kitty Gordon series is rapidly nearing completion. This is from Adele Bleneau's book, "The Nurse's Story," a first hand treatment of a "different side" of the war theme.

The cast in support of Miss Gordon is headed by Mahlon Hamilton. According to Lieut. Sydney Cohan, who has just given up the post of manager for the star to take up duties in the Signal Corps, those who merely expect sumptiousness of dress in a Kitty Gordon subject are due for a surprise when they see her emotional work in this production.

Immediately on the completion of "The Nurse's Story" work will be commenced on the second of the series of six productions in which Miss Gordon is to appear for United.

While the studio forces are thus busily at work the business side of the United organization is not marking time. C. R. Seelye, secretary of the co-operative proposition, has recently completed the organization of the Michigan unit.

The first to negotiate in Detroit was C. H. Miles, who secured the first runs for the Orpheum and Regent theatres. After signing, Mr. Miles addressed the following letter to Mr. Seelye with full authority to publish it:

Dear Mr. Seelye:

Enclosed please find my cheque for seven shares in the UNITED PICTURE THEATRES for my Detroit theatres.

At this time I am glad to tell you frankly and sincerely my reasons for becoming actively interested in your plan.

The one thing that sold me your proposition was that it makes the exhibitor the dominating factor—giving him control of the pictures, which he does not have now, although he represents 90 per cent of the money invested in the motion picture industry.

I have been associated with every phase of the amusement business and it is actually the first time that I have met with a proposition worked out along lines that give the theatre owner the real profit to which he is entitled. In the past, the exhibitor, by his advanced deposits and high film rentals, has financed every company but never owned them. As he popularized stars he paid higher prices for them, instead of getting them at lower prices.

I have always been a great believer in organization and co-operation—it has always been my hobby—I have seen what it has accomplished in the drug, vaudeville and other lines of trade, and I like the United Picture Theatres' plan because it is CO-OPERATIVE—based on the right principles that cannot fail to reduce overhead expenses, and thus increase profits.

I am proud of my membership—proud to be affiliated with the plan—proud to be part of this co-operative organization—and I can assure you of my heartiest and fullest assistance at all times. If every exhibitor will become enthusiastic and boost for the UNITED PICTURE THEATRES after getting his membership, it will give our organization control of the moving picture business within two years.

Sincerely,
(Signed) CHARLES H. MILES.

Dustin Farnum, United Star, in "The Light of the Western Stars"

"Safe for Democracy" is Next Blackton Special

J. STUART BLACKTON, who has completed production of "The Common Cause," announced last week as the title of his next feature, "Safe for Democracy." This news came as a surprise, as it was believed the Commodore had started work on "The Battle Cry of Liberty" immediately on completion of the first picture. However, work on the new "Battle Cry" picture was postponed that "Safe for Democracy" might be completed and released.

While no one in the Blackton Company will disclose the story of the play, its nature is suggested by the title. Mitchell Lewis, prominent in many of Edgar Lewis' productions, takes the leading male role in it while the supporting cast includes such well-known players as Ruby de Remer, Helen Ferguson, Ida Darling, Gus Alexander, Aubrey Beattie, John Goldsworthy, John C. Wade, Sidney D'Albrook and Eugene Strong.

Anthony P. Kelly, who made the adaptation for "The Common Cause," is the author of "Safe for Democracy." It is hinted that his story deals with an important phase of winning the war that has not, as yet, been touched upon by other producers. The manner in which it will be released is not announced.

War Makes Woman Manager for Idaho House

The war has resulted in bringing another woman manager into the field, Mrs. Mac Scofield having taken charge of the motion picture theatre in Vollmer, Idaho, because of the fact that Mr. Scofield is with the American fighting forces. It was erroneously reported that the theatre was now under the management of P. A. Gaul.

"Iron Test" Starts Oct. 21st

Vitagraph's Latest Link in Fifty-two-Weeks-a-Year Serial Program Policy Not Affected by Shutdown

SERIALS not being affected by the manufacturers' decision to stop production and releasing for the next four weeks, Vitagraph's latest thriller, "The Iron Test," will make its bow on Monday, October 21. Naturally, of course, in sections where theatres have been closed by the influenza epidemic, the release will not take place until they are allowed to resume.

Antonio Moreno and Carol Halloway are the stars in the latest of Vitagraph's all-year-round serial activities. The story of "The Iron Test" was written by Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company, and Cyrus Townsend Brady, whose names were attached to the previous successes, "The Woman in the Web," "A Fight for Millions" and "Vengeance and the Woman."

The stars are seen as circus players in "The Iron Test," and much of the action of the fifteen episodes transpires under the big tent. Thrills in abundance are promised, both those afforded by the circus atmosphere and numerous outdoor situations, among them auto chases, aeroplane stunts, and so on.

Following its usual policy of complete "before release" preparation on serials Vitagraph is able to announce at this time the titles of the fifteen episodes of the serial. They are as follows:

Episode No.	Title
1—	"The Ring of Fire."
2—	"The Van of Disaster."
3—	"The Blade of Hate."
4—	"The Noose."
5—	"The Tide of Death."
6—	"Fiery Fate."
7—	"The Whirling Trap."
8—	"The Man-Eater."
9—	"The Pit of Lost Hope."
10—	"In the Coils."
11—	"The Red Mask's Prey."
12—	"The Span of Terror."
13—	"Hanging Peril."
14—	"Desperate Odds."
15—	"Riding With Death."

The advertising aid includes the preparation of a complete campaign book, the posting with twenty-four sheets of the key cities of the United States, and later of Canada, free twenty-four sheets to exhibitors who desire to post their territories, star cuts, advertising cuts, heralds, lobby displays for each episode, slides, and one, three and six sheets on each episode.

Prints on the first five episodes of "The Iron Test" are already available for screening at Vitagraph exchanges.

Tourneur Starts Work on "My Lady's Garter"

WITH "Woman" completed and ready for the market, Maurice Tourneur is now hard at work in his Fort Lee studio on "My Lady's Garter," a detective thriller by the late Jaques Futrelles.

Everything is in readiness now for the placing of "Woman" on the market as soon as conditions return to normal following the flight of the influenza epidemic. Speaking of this production a representative of the producer declared last week to a News representative:

"Tourneur turns rapidly from one type of production to another. He put over a smashing melodrama in 'The Whip,' touched the field of whimsy in 'A Poor Little Rich Girl,' delved into sex psychology in 'Barbary Sheep,' touched upon morals and the moral code in 'The Rise of Jenny Cushing,' reproduced the thoughts of the grim old Norseman, Ibsen, in 'A Doll's House,' invaded the world of fragile fantasy with 'Prunella,' turned to symbolical imagery in 'The Blue Bird,' and next produced a thriller melodrama in 'Sporting Life.'

"On top of 'Sporting Life,' Tourneur produced 'Woman,' which is shortly to be released and which is a drama of psychology and sex analysis, said to be daring in its treatment.

"No other producer in the field of pictures is comparable to him. Every other big director is marked by a certain style of story and method. One produces melodramas gilded by little human touches, another does war spectacles, and so on. But there is no such thing as a typical Tourneur production, except that each is marked by a distinct excellence and quality."

About The Man Behind "The Yellow Dog"

HENRY IRVING DODGE, author of the story on which the Jewel production "The Yellow Dog" is based, was born in the Adirondack Mountains of New York State and received his education in the country school. Early in his life he came to New York City and made the acquaintance of many of its people, but he still claims that his wonderful knowledge of American youth, about which he often writes, was gleaned in the country, where every boy was one hundred per cent American.

Mr. Dodge didn't like the beginning of the lawyer's career, for which he studied at Syracuse, and took up newspaper work. He started as cub reporter, but soon rose to the position of special correspondent for his paper in London. Apropos of the many Englishmen who have come to New York and written their impressions about it after walking on Fifth avenue, Dodge says: "I made up my mind to tell what I thought of London after I had been there for a week. Then I decided to wait for a month, then six months, then two years. After that time I decided I didn't know enough about London to write about it."

Mr. Dodge's first novel appeared in 1906, under the title of "The Other Mr. Barclay." Then came his big hits—the "Skinner" series. "Skinner's Dress Suit," "Skinner's Baby" and "Skinner's Big Idea." All these appeared in the Saturday Evening Post and were later picturized. The Jewel version of "The Yellow Dog" will be released on November 3.

Harry Houdini and Ruth Stonehouse, in the B. A. Rolfe Picture, "The Master Mystery"

Houdini Serial Benefits by Ruth Stonehouse

Ruth Stonehouse, who is sharing the leading feminine honors in the Houdini serial, being produced by B. A. Rolfe, with Marguerite Marsh, has had a long and interesting screen career. Starting as a professional dancer, she joined the Essanay company in its early days and played opposite Francis X. Bushman in a number of pictures, including "The Slim Princess" and "The Alster Case."

After a long stay with the Essanay company, she joined the Universal producing forces as both actress and director, and turned out a number of interesting short-length subjects. Some of these were "The Stolen Actress," "A Limb of Satan" and "Puppy Love." Previous to joining the Houdini company she appeared in a number of Triangle features, including "A Phantom Husband."

She is putting in some unusually good work in the present serial, and, judging by this and her popularity due to good performances in the past, exhibitors may set her down as another of the box office assets of the Rolfe serial.

No Release Arrangements for Blanche Sweet Films

Harry Garson has issued a statement that he has made on definite arrangements for marketing or the distribution of the Blanche Sweet pictures, which includes "The Hushed Hour," which is already completed, and "The Unpardonable Sin," which is now in the making and which will be ready for release the early part of November. Statements have appeared in some of the trade papers and in the daily press which would convey the impression that the Sweet pictures were to be released on a program. This is not true. Mr. Garson has had many flattering offers, but will make no decision until his return East to dispose of the matter and this will not be until "The Unpardonable Sin" is finished.

First National Holds Theatre Test

$1,200 in Liberty Bonds to Be the Awards in Advertising Contest —Work of Exhibitors on "The Romance of Tarzan" to Be the Test—Large and Small Theatres Classified

WITH $1200 in Liberty Bonds the prize and their merchandising work on "The Romance of Tarzan" the test, the exhibitors of the country are to have the opportunity to a contest of unique character is about to be staged by the engaged in a contest possessing many unique features.

The First National Exhibitors' Circuit is giving the prizes which are to be awarded in four different classes, the theatres having been divided according to seating capacity to enable houses of all grades to be on an equal footing. Judgment will be on a system of scoring which divides all advertising into classes with a system of scoring by which different points are awarded for each classification.

To insure absolute impartiality and fairness in the conduct of the contest, which begins immediately and continues until December 30th of this year, five trade journals have been asked to appoint a member of its staff to a position on the Board of Judges, who will pass upon all entries and score the work of contests, in accordance with the rules and regulations prescribed for the competition and make the awards of prizes.

This Board of Judges will consist of five members, who will be the only individuals vested with any authority in the conduct of the contest. The First National Exhibitors' Circuit offers the prizes, assumes responsibility for the advertising and promotion of the contest itself to exhibitors, but will have no part in judging or passing upon the entries in any way.

The Board of Judges will have five styles of advertising to pass on for theatres of the first and second class and four kinds of advertising for theatres of the third and fourth class. In the first two divisions, exhibitors will be credited with points for originality or novelty in the presentation of a production, whereas the last two classifications will not have this department. The reason for this is that the larger houses have facilities for stage decorations, special musical settings, unusual lighting effects and novel interpolations impossible to the smaller houses because of the lack of stage room.

"The basis for judging entries," said a First National official, "is such that there can be no question of discrimination in favor of the opportunities existing to the benefit of the owners of large theatres, in big cities, that do not prevail for the proprietors of the smaller houses in country towns. The showman in the small town will be credited with points on advantages peculiarly his own and which do not exist in the same ratio for the theatre man in the large town.

"The contest will afford an illuminating light on the use exhibitors make of the advertising matter, publicity material and general accessories prepared and supplied to them by the manufacturers and distributors. While the manufacturers have been complaining about lack of exhibitor interest in retail advertising for their productions, the exhibitors have been voicing opinions that question the practicality of these same accessories. They declare that the manufacturers do not understand their local advertising and publicity problems and that for this reason so much of the material is waste. This contest will help to determine to just what extent exhibitors use the ready-prepared material and to what extent they are obliged to alter and change it or improve upon it for their local needs.

"We have selected 'The Romance of Tarzan' as the production for exhibitors to make their entries on. Entirely apart from whatever quality or merit it may have along other lines, we do not know of another current feature attraction that holds, in title, story, the popularity of its central character and the scope of action which offers possibilities for every form of merchandising effort, as many opportunities for originality, resourcefulness and novelty either in general advertising or presentation. While any one of a dozen or more other productions might have been chosen, we want exhibitors to experience no difficulty in lack of chances for exceptional publicity. And 'The Romance of Tarzan' lends itself admirably to a contest of this kind.

"Then, too, by centralizing the contest on one production it gives a much more accurate gauge of the differing conditions in different parts of the country.

"It also enables us to see just how an exhibitor in a neighborhood where sensational productions are popular will 'sell' it to his public as a comparison to the means and tone adopted by an exhibitor who caters to an exclusive residential patronage."

The rules governing the contest are few and easy to observe. Entry blanks, containing complete information, will be mailed out to exhibitors by all First National Exhibitors' Circuit exchanges. In addition, they can be obtained from the Exhibitors' Service Department of Motion Picture News.

According to the regulations for the contest, the entries must be made on the form provided, and must include a complete file of the copy used for all advertising purposes on "The Romance of Tarzan," whether in newspapers or house organs, copies of all publicity stories published, photographs of lobby displays, brief but accurate descriptions of stunt advertising, whether in publications, lobby arrangement or special outdoor efforts. Each newspaper page, whose organ or photograph must have the name of the entrant, his theatre name and address written in the upper left hand corner.

The entries, when completed and ready for mailing, should be addressed to the Tarzan Editor, First National Exhibitors' Circuit, 6 West Forty-eighth street, New York City, from where they will be forwarded to the chairman of the Board of Judges, who will submit them to his associates for scoring.

To avoid the possibility of a rush of entries toward the close of the contest, it is specifically provided, according to the copy of the rules issued by First National, that each contestant must submit his material within ten days after he has completed his season on "The Romance of Tarzan." In this manner, the entries will be spaced out over the ninety days and enable the Board of Judges to promptly acknowledge the receipt of each entry.

One class of theatres will be of two thousand seats or over. There will be $300 in Liberty Bonds of the Fourth Issue awarded in three prizes; first prize being $150, second prize $100 and third prize $50. This class of theatres will be given eight points for quality of newspaper advertising, three points for newspaper publicity, five points for stunt publicity outside of the theatre, five points for lobby display and four points for stunts or novelty in the actual presentation of the production.

The second class of theatres is from one thousand to two thousand seats in size. The same division of awards prevails for this class as in the first and third and fourth classes. Scoring for the second division houses will be exactly the same in the number of points allowed for each style of advertising as for the theatres of two thousand seats and over.

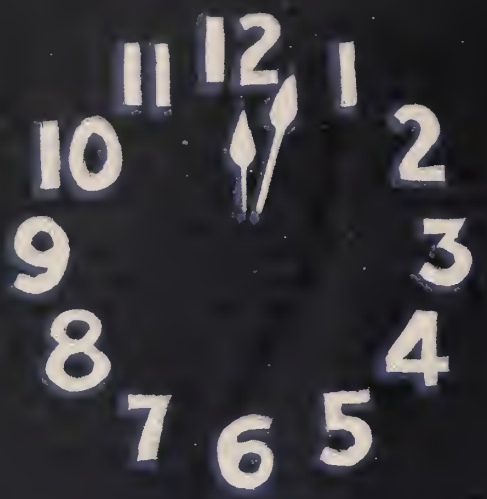
In the third classification, of theatres having from seven hundred to one thousand seats, the prizes allotted are the same in number and amounts as for the first two classes, but the number of points allowed for each kind of advertising is altered to fit the different conditions under which they operate in the majority of cases for theatres of this size.

Newspaper advertising is given five points, newspaper publicity three points, stunt publicity outside the theatres eight points and lobby display nine points, while no points are listed for novelty in presentation.

The final class of theatres includes those having seating capacities up to a maximum of seven hundred. Newspaper advertising will receive a total of four points, newspaper publicity three points, stunt publicity outside of the theatre eight points and lobby display ten points.

Operators:

See Page 2689. Important



HARRY GARSON PRESENTS
THE STAR OF THE DAY

BLANCHE SWEET

IN THE STORY OF THE HOUR

"THE HUSHED HOUR"

WITH A CAST RIGHT UP TO THE MINUTE . . . . . INCLUDING

ROSEMARY THEBY
MARY ANDERSON
GLORIA HOPE
LYDIA KNOTT
MILTON SILLS
WILFRED LUCAS
HARRY NORTHRUP
WYNDAM STANDING

EDWARD M. KIMBALL

NOW READY FOR RELEASE

AEOLIAN HALL

HARRY GARSON

PRESENTS

BLANCHE SWEET

IN MAJOR RUPERT HUGHES' STARTLING STORY OF THE WAR . . .

"THE UNPARDONABLE SIN"

AN UNPRECEDENTED SCREEN SENSATION. DIRECTED IN PERSON BY

MARSHALL NEILAN

NEW YORK

READY FOR RELEASE NOV. 1ST

Scene from "The Better 'Ole," a Film Story Suggested by Captain Bruce Bairnsfather's War Cartoons

"'Ole Bill" in Pictures Now

Captain Bruce Bairnsfather's Noted Play to Be Seen in Film Form—"Different" Sort of a War Film Because It Tells the Cheerful Side of the Soldier's Life

"THE BETTER 'OLE" is to be seen here as a motion picture. The American rights of Captain Bruce Bairnsfather's famous play have been obtained by a prominent New York motion picture man after a short campaign of intensive bidding.

Captain Bairnsfather had won an international fame as the result of the war. His cartoons have made millions laugh, and they are now appearing in New York papers and being syndicated all over the country, so that the name of the author and the character of "'Ole Bill" are known everywhere.

"'Ole Bill" is said to be the one great comedy character produced by the World War. The play of his adventures, entitled "The Better 'Ole," was originally produced in London and developed into one of the big hits of the English stage. The Coburns, New York theatrical producers, have secured the stage rights for the United States and the competition over same is strikingly indicated by Critic Burns Mantle, who says in the New York Evening Mail:

"I don't know what the American rights to 'The Better 'Ole' cost Mr. and Mrs. Coburn, but considering the competition I should say it amounted to at least a pretty penny. Following the success of the Bairnsfather comedy in London half a dozen American firms were after the rights, and one or two fancied they were just about to close them when along happened the Coburns and all other deals were declared off."

The reason for the popularity of "The Better 'Ole" is that it is a war story which is nevertheless a cheer-up one. Therefore, it becomes the first war feature film of other than a straight dramatic nature. The idea of an out-and-out war picture that creates smiles is admitted throughout the trade to be an oddity. The producer's detailed description of the motif of the film is as follows:

"The tale of 'The Better 'Ole' is too well known to need description in print.

"The film play visualizes it in a new form.

"This 'Romance of Old Bill' is just a simple story. Its worth lies in its symbolism.

"Mankind is always searching for symbols to carry its thought. Odin spells Valor; Arthur spells Chivalry; the Hun spells Barbarism; the Sky is Heaven; the Sea is Eternity.

"And the Great War has its symbol to we of the Allied Nations—It is Old Bill.

"Old Bill epitomizes for us, and for millions of others, the Old Armies that were in being, and the New Armies that rose to the call.

"He embraces the whole Allied army, not in his outward uncouth construction, but in what he stands for—dogged devotion—unfailing humor, and unflinching valor.

"It is the laugh in the face of death that wins great victories; the laugh, not of levity, but of pride of race. Surely Old Bill stands for this.

"This adventure of Old Bill's, the adventure which became his romance, is only typical of thousands of incidents bred of the Great War, but it will convey the message of cheer, the message of 'carry on' to the men in the trenches, to those who wait in the homes from which the soldier boy has gone."

The producer expects "The Better 'Ole" will prove excellent material for exhibitors who are anxious to send cheer to those in their communities who are given to gloom through the absence of relatives "Over There." There is no need for this, as "'Ole Bill" shows.

"Seven Deadly Sins" Now in Two Reel Form

General Film announces arrangement with McClure Pictures for the release of the seven pictures of the "Seven Deadly Sins" series, in seven pictures of two reels each. It is promised that all of the real action of the pictures has been condensed into the shorter length and that there will be an even greater appeal to an even greater element. Shirley Mason is the star through the entire series.

"The Deadly Sin" is a series of modern melodramas complete in two-part episodes. Titled as follows: "Envy," "Pride," "Passion," "Wrath," "Greed," "Sloth" and "The Seventh Sin," the films are not allegories or morality dramas in any sense of the word. Each one is literally packed with heart throbs, breath-taking thrills, flashes of comedy and human interest. Each of the stories deal with an entirely different theme and could be presented on their merits as special two-part film attractions, irrespective of their value as a series.

Associated with Shirley Mason are such stars of the legitimate stage as Ann Murdock, Nance O'Neil, Holbrook Blinn, H. B. Warner, George Le Guere and Charlotte Walker.

Universal Current Events Shows Whippet Tanks

Pictures of the famous Whippet tank which has been largely responsible for the successes of General Foch against the Germans in France are being shown today in Universal Current Events.

Another subject contained in Current Events is a sham battle staged by troops of the Michigan State Guard to show how the Canadians captured Vimy Ridge, one of the strongholds in the Hindenburg line.

Current Events is also showing pictures of some of Pershing's "Devil Dogs" wounded in the battle of Chateau Thierry and Belleau Wood, where the Marines smashed to pieces the Kaiser's boasted Prussian Guard. At the same time scenes of the arrival of detachments of the picturesque Bersaglieri, the famous Italian riflemen, and the Alpini, King Victor's gallant mountain troops, are shown.

The issue concludes with Official War Pictures of American troops cleaning up some of the French villages recaptured in the recent advances, carrying back wounded, examining captured German guns, etc.

"Twilight" Is Next Doris Kenyon Picture

Doris Kenyon, on returning from the Adirondack Mountains last week, where final scenes for "Wild Honey" were photographed, prepared for her next picture for the De Luxe company, entitled "Twilight." This is from a story by Vingie E. Roe, which appeared in the October issue of the Metropolitan Magazine, under the title of "The Alchemy of Love." Like the previous picture, it is a story of out-door life and is said to be unusual in plot and treatment. Louis Joseph Vance, the novelist, made the screen version of the story and it will be entrusted to Francis Grandon's direction.

Thrilling Air Feats in "Far Flung Line"

Thrilling feats in the air are promised in the ninth of the series of the "Far Fling Battle Line" being issued by Pathe. The sub-title of this is "Naval Air Power," and it shows the manner in which these Englishmen are trained and some wonderful shots of the battlefield taken from 3,000 feet in the air.

"The Unconquerable Spirit" is the title of No. 18 of the Official War Review. The course of the Huns' flight is shown, and the pictures include those of the enemy cannon being turned into use against the Germans. There are other pictures taken in Mesopotamia and still others show the Polish regiments which refuse to fight for the Kaiser. Still other views include the German prisoners from Alsace and Lorraine, showing how they are separated from the real Huns. The views of the men of many nations are promised as furnishing an inspiring panorama.

First Alice Joyce in New Series

The first of Alice Joyce's eight Vitagraph productions to be released during the coming season by that company has been set for October 21 and is entitled "Everybody's Girl." The story is an adaptation made from O. Henry's "Brick Dust Row" and offers Miss Joyce what is probably the most appealing and human role she has ever undertaken in her long career before the camera.

The picture was produced at the Vitagraph Brooklyn studio under the direction of Tom Terriss. Mr. Terriss is said to have caught the O. Henry atmosphere to a remarkable degree and the charm and simplicity of the original work has been admirably communicated to the film.

Chateau-Thierry in "War Review," No. 17

Chateau-Thierry, that spot on the map of France made famous when America's doughboys first got into a real scrap, is shown in the Official War Review released by Pathe this week and list as No. 17 in the series.

In addition to these views with advertising possibilities this issue of the War Review shows fighting on the Italian front, the battlefield of the Marne, at Dormans, and Chatillion, with its ruined cathedral.

Sequel to "Romanoff" Film Produced

George Edwardes-Hall, long scenario writer and assistant to Herbert Brenon, has finished a picture which is to act as a sequel to "The Fall of the Romanoffs" and which is said to depict the death of all Russian royalty, including the Czar and his son.

The cast for this subject includes Alfred Hickman, J. J. Tanner, Cyril Brenon, George Murphy, Phillip Van Loane and others. J. C. Hutchinson was the photographer.

Katterjohn Outlines His Plans

Monte M. Katterjohn

Scenario Writer to Produce Four Offerings a Year and to Have Direct Supervision of Every Step in Their Making

MONTE M. KATTERJOHN, one of the best known of all original motion picture scenario writers and author of a number of highly successful productions, this week added many details to the announcement that he had formed a new producing organization to be known as Katterjohn Films.

Mr. Katterjohn will be in direct charge of all departments of the production of his pictures and is leaving the Famous Players-Lasky Company so that he may have his entire time to devote to his schedule of four productions a year. In giving his reasons for taking this step, he said:

"In the production of Katterjohn Films it is my intention to follow each story—to live with it—from the inception of the plot idea to the final cutting and tinting of the completed picture. Each production will be from an original story of my efforts, and each will be a 'special' in every sense of the word—not only from the standpoint of an entertaining and pleasing story but also as regards their general 'bigness,' their artistry and technical excellence, their carefully selected casts and their length, which will range from six to seven thousand feet. In every respect I shall strive to make them 'big productions.'

"The decision to produce only four Katterjohn Films during the coming year insures the maximum expenditure of time and thought in their production, and makes it possible to bring each picture to a perfected state in all respects before releasing it to exhibitors. By handling production along straight business principles the wasteful methods existing in many studios will be eliminated, and the pictures will show full value upon the screen.

"Production will be carried on at the efficiently equipped Brunton studios in Hollywood, where every facility is available for technical perfection. Work will be started immediately upon the termination of my present arrangement with the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, and it is probable that the first production will be an Alaskan story, in which I hope to exceed in money-making possibilities and production bigness my other Alaskan successes, 'The Flame of the Yukon' and 'Carmen of the Klondike'."

Mr. Katterjohn also intimated that one of his forthcoming productions would have official Government sanction, and he will soon go to Washington for the purpose of completing arrangements with Chairman George Creel of the Committee on Public Information for co-operation of the various Government departments. Mr. Katterjohn will also come to New York shortly, where final details for the production and distribution of Katterjohn Films will be worked out.

Rapf Finishes "The Sins of the Children"

HARRY RAPF, independent producer, has finished his latest picture, said to be a pretentious adaptation of Cosmo Hamilton's widely read novel, "The Sins of the Children." Word is not forthcoming from the Rapf office as yet as to the channel through which this picture will be released. The fact that many exhibitors have already written in, asking for bookings would indicate that Mr. Rapf will have little trouble in disposing of it when the time comes.

This book of Cosmo Hamilton's had a tremendous sale, even greater than his previous best seller, "The Blindness of Virtue," which was picturized some years ago by the Essanay Company. In "The Sins of the Children" Mr. Hamilton roundly scores the neglectful parents who permit their children to go forth into the world unacquainted and unwarned against its morasses.

In passing, it is interesting to note that several years ago Mr. Hamilton looked upon motion pictures with scorn and when he learned that "The Blindness of Virtue" was to be picturized was quite uneasy about it. Since viewing that production, however, and subsequent pictures made from other of his works, he has changed his attitude altogether and now he even goes so far as to contribute to the screen without the formality of first having his story published in book form.

While "The Sins of the Children" contains a certain amount of preachment, it has a strong, human story told in a series of dramatic situations that are well fitted to the requirements of the camera.

Slide Company Moves

Owing to the large number of Government contracts given to the Greater New York Slide Company during the year that company has been forced to seek larger quarters, and is now settled in 211 West Forty-eighth street, occupying both the third and fourth floors.

Exporters in Domestic Field

Robertson-Cole Company Throws Hat Into Independent Ring—Has New Desmond Series and Johnson Pictures

THE ROBERTSON-COLE COMPANY, the well known film exporting organization, announces the opening of a domestic department for the buying and selling of productions in the United States.

At the same time announcement is made that the Robertson-Cole Company has acquired for world release Martin Johnson's remarkable "Cannibals of the South Seas" and the forthcoming William Desmond pictures to be produced by Jesse D. Hampton.

"We particularly desire to make clear that Robertson-Cole Company are not entering the motion picture industry on any 'flier,'" states one of the officials of the organization, "or as a competitor in any of the overcrowded branches of the business. We are opening the domestic department as an outgrowth of our extensive exporting business, not for the exploitation of any star, group of stars or series of offerings. We have no entangling alliances with any specific group in the industry. We are simply jobbers in the picture business, and we are looking for the best on the market."

The Robertson-Cole Company is an established concern in the exporting world, having branches in London, Sydney, Calcutta, Bombay, Singapore and Rangoon. It was through its general commercial business that it first extended its interests to motion pictures, as its branch agents everywhere found a demand—rapidly growing—for American films. Upon entering the field of film exporting, the Robertson-Cole Company quickly found that the best film opportunities were open to concerns able to buy world rights. Thus the establishment of a domestic film department came about.

Johnson's "Cannibals of the South Seas" was presented at the Rivoli theatre, where it scored a sensational success. Ever since the Rivoli showing Mr. Johnson has been steadily going through the 50,000 feet of film photographed on the expedition, and he has assembled a feature production of 8,000 feet, which will be released in two parts.

The forthcoming William Desmond pictures, eight of which are to be made by Jesse D. Hampton during the coming year, mark the latest step in the meteoric career of this popular star. Desmond's splendid virility and strength of characterization brought him remarkable popularity at Triangle. Now, fitted with the right sort of big stories, Desmond's future seems unlimited.

While the Robertson-Cole Company has acquired the world rights to both Martin Johnson's "Cannibals of the South Seas" and the William Desmond pictures, the organization is at the same time controlling the world rights, except for the United States, of the J. Warren Kerrigan pictures.

"We are now in a position to buy independent productions for the United States and Canada, as well as for all foreign countries," explains the Robertson-Cole Company. "We have no new system of distribution to offer; we are not opening exchanges to complicate the already overcrowded field. All we have in view is to watch the open market for the very best productions that can be bought. We will distribute them, first to the foreign field through our agencies abroad, and second to the United States and Canada through whatever distributing organizations can offer the most favorable terms.

"Nor do we propose to distribute all our pictures through one organization. We will make no contract of this sort. When we obtain all rights to a feature, we will offer it for open bidding. We do not believe that any one distributing organization is capable of handling every kind of production to the best advantage. On the other hand, so diversified is the demand which we have to meet, because of the wide interests represented by our foreign agents, that we have to keep in touch with every branch of production."

Several big productions are now being secured by the Robertson-Cole Company, the negotiations for which are just nearing completion. No limitation has been set as to the nature of the pictures which will be handled.

Miss Traverse Starts Work for Fox

Madeline Traverse, the latest star to be added to the William Fox fold, has reached California and has started work at the Hollywood studios on the first of her "Excel Pictures," "The Danger Zone." The picture is from an original story by Marshall Bruce Bennington. The scenario was written by Dennison Clift.

Miss Traverse is being directed in "The Danger Zone" by Frank Beal, one of the veteran directors of the profession. The cast, so far as chosen, includes Miss Traverse in the character of Lola Dupre, Thomas Holding, Fretzie Ridgeway and Edwin Cecil. The picture is being photographed by Harry Gersted.

In beginning work Monday Miss Traverse brought to a climax one of the busiest weeks of her career. On the preceding Monday she signed a contract in New York with William Fox to star in Excel Pictures. Tuesday and Wednesday she had three maids busy packing, while she shopped up and down Fifth avenue, buying an infinity of things for her wardrobe. Late Wednesday she took a train for Los Angeles, arriving there Sunday afternoon. The next morning, bright and early, she was at the Fox lot, showing no signs of having traveled across the continent, and displayed a great eagerness to begin work.

Two Dogs Have Parts in "Pink Pajamas"

"Smiling Bill" Parsons is "supported" in his latest Capitol comedy, "Pink Pajamas," by an Alaskan malamute which was recently sent to the comedian by a prospector friend in the Klondyke. The dog adds considerably to the troubles of the hen-pecked husband of Cornelia Spry, a lady with suffrage ambitions and boss of the house.

Her chief thought in life is for a little white Pekingese and when she gets word that she is to deliver a suffrage address in a town far away she takes Bill and the Pekingese along with her, assigning Bill and the dog to sleep together. Their adventures in the Pullman are declared to be creative of many laughs.

Three Scenes Above Are from the Triangle Picture, "Reckoning Day," with Belle Bennett, Barney Sherry and Jack Richardson

The Pilatus Railway, Picturized in One of the Burlingham Travel Reels Which Are Released by the Sherry Service

Division of Films Departments Merged

Director Charles S. Hart of the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information, announces that the Department of Feature Films, from the management of which George Bowles has resigned to go to France, and the Community Section, recently under the direction of Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, have been merged and will henceforth be conducted as a part of the Department of Domestic Distribution, under the direction of Manager Dennis J. Sullivan. C. S. Trowbridge, for several months associated with the Community Section, has been named as manager of the merged departments under the supervision of Mr. Sullivan.

Two Territories on Ford Weekly Sold

S. B. Griever of the Griever Distributing Corporation, handling the Ford Educational Weekly, has closed a contract with the L. J. Schaifer Attractions, 2022 Third avenue, Seattle, Wash., for the handling of the rights on this series in the northwestern territory. It is also announced that the Peerless Film Exchange, 101 Olive street, San Francisco, has closed for the California, Arizona and Nevada territory.

Binney on Exteriors, with Comedy Company

Harold J. Binney has been at work on exteriors near New York for the first comedy in which he will present his new star, Vangie Valentine. A number of exteriors were called for in the script and the Indian summer gave Binney and his company an opportunity to work away from the studio. The scenario was prepared by George Edwardes-Hall. The pictures go through the Sherry Service.

Francis Ford Produces New Serial

"The Silent Mystery," in Which He Also Stars, to Be Placed on the Market by Hiller and Wilk, Inc.

FRANCIS FORD, well known as a serial star and producer, has turned out another picture in fifteen two-reel episodes, entitled "The Silent Mystery," which Hiller & Wilk, Inc., New York City, are placing on the market. Mr. Ford's first serial was for the Universal company and was called "Lucille Love." This was followed by a number of others which he produced, with himself and Grace Cunard in the principal roles.

In "The Silent Mystery" it is said that Mr. Ford surpasses all his previous work, for both in a technical and dramatic sense the film is filled with mysterious tricks known only to the serial director. Mr. Ford himself takes his familiar role of Phil Kelley, of the Secret Service. Here he is called upon to combat a mysterious hand, the possessor of which is never seen by human eye. His battle with this strange thing leads to all sorts of mysterious and thrilling situations, while the complications are not unravelled until the final episode.

The serial was produced under Mr. Ford's direction, while the supervision of the editing was placed in charge of John B. Clymer, a well-known scenario writer. Pete Gerald, who has been seen in character roles in other of Ford's serials, took charge of technical details of production, and the effects he has attained are said to be novel and in many instances little short of marvelous.

The cast, apart from Mr. Ford, includes many who have been associated with him in former pictures, and among them are Mae Gaston and Rosemary Theby, an actress who has gained much prominence of late by her work in several features.

The story opens with the theft of a jewel belonging to an Egyptian religious cult. It falls into the hands of an American woman who is financially embarrassed. Her daughter, Betty, breaks her engagement with a young American and secures a proposal from Robert Giles, a wealthy man. During the ceremony a seemingly detached hand appears through the curtains. It grasps a revolver and fires, killing Giles. Suspicion shadows all the guests, including Phil Kelley and a German spy. With this murder the action starts and, it is said, never lets down for a moment until the mystery is cleared in the fifteenth episode.

Hiller & Wilk will market this production.

Emmett Dalton Produces "Beyond the Law"

EMMETT DALTON organized the Southern Feature Film Corporation and then wrote and produced a six-part motion picture production, entitled "Beyond the Law."

There must be very few persons who have not heard of the Dalton Brothers. The following is an excerpt from an illustrated page of the New York Evening World of last July and is from a special article written by Marguerite Mooers Marshall:

"At nineteen he held up four trains and collected from each sums ranging from $10,000 to $50,000. For months he never slept twice in the same place. He robbed one train under the very noses of fifteen United States Marshals. There was a price of $5,000 on his head. In broad daylight he walked into a Kansas bank and collected $23,000 at the point of a gun. Wounded in hip and arm, he was captured only when raked by a charge of buckshot from behind, after he had ridden back into danger to succor his fallen brother. He was brought into the court room on a bed and tried when it was thought he was dying. Today Emmett Dalton, sole survivor of the "Dalton Gang," the last great band of train robbers, is in New York putting into the movies his own life—which might have been made to the order of the thrill-loving audiences in the picture palaces.

"It was at the Famous Players studio that I met this American Robin Hood, who is working honestly and busily every day before the camera in the chief role of his screen autobiography, 'Beyond the Law.' Really, his story has several points of resemblance to the English outlaw of Sherwood Forest. Like Robin Hood, Dalton conceived he had a just grievance against the Government of his country. Robin Hood robbed rich lords and priests; Dalton picked wealthy express companies and banks as his victims. Both the American and the English knights of the road gave freely of their ill-gotten gains to poor folk. Both were absolutely fearless and absolutely loyal to their chosen companions. And Emmett Dalton, like the Robin of tradition, is blue-eyed, broad-shouldered and of a fresh, Saxon coloring—despite the fourteen and a half years he passed in State's prison."

When Mr. Dalton was seen by a representative of Motion Picture News at 801 Longacre Building, New York City, he apparently had forgot all past performances, and explained in detail about his production, which is now being offered to state rights buyers and foreign rights purchasers.

"I am not quite a novice in the motion picture business," declared Mr. Dalton. "I have been interested in it, actively, and for nearly ten years. I wrote the story and it is true to life in every detail, and, in fact, it is a beautiful romantic love story with an all-star cast, featuring myself in the first historical picture ever produced with an original character.

"'Beyond the Law' was published in the Wide World Magazine as a serial from May to September, 1918, and is a real Western picture, full of appeal and human interest, featuring men and incidents in history before motion pictures were ever known."

The scenario is by W. Addison Lathrop; directed by Theodore Marston, with photography by Robert Olsson. Emmett Dalton is featured and is ably supported by Virginia Lee and Harris Gordon.

Pathe News Cameramen Ready

Staff Already Busy Gathering News Events — Statement by Mr. Brunet on Resumption of Name "Pathe News"

IT became known this week that Pathe is not waiting until December 24—the date of the discontinuance of the Hearst-Pathe News—to gather its own news film for the re-born "Pathe News." The staff of camera-men has already been organized and is now at work—two men having even been on the job at the South Amboy powder explosion.

Recent announcements by Mr. Paul Brunet, head of the Pathe organization in this country, aim to make clear the following points:

First, "that the Hearst contribution to the News consisted in furnishing the negatives. Furthermore, that the Hearst interest ended with a royalty on the profits, and that the Weekly was solely and exclusively owned, edited and distributed by Pathe."

The statement goes on to say that because of the attacks on the Hearst publications in some sections of the country the Pathe organization had frequently been forced to point out in detail the connection between Hearst and Pathe to prevent the attacks on the papers also affecting the news weekly.

Mr. Brunet concludes:

"It is unnecessary for me to assure exhibitors," said Mr. Brunet to our representative, "that the Pathe News will continue to be as it has been for the past nine years, the best news film that money and brains can produce. The Pathe News means a lot to us. It was the first of its kind. It has carried the name of Pathe to every nook and corner of the world. It has done more than any one thing to make motion pictures popular. Today when speaking of news films, no matter what their rightful name, the average man or woman will say 'Pathe Weekly.' We are proud of that prestige and we mean to cherish it!"

"Romance of Coal" Is Completed

"ROMANCE OF COAL," the big special feature which has been made in the coal fields of West Virginia, has been completed except so far as the editing and cutting is concerned, according to the announcement of General Manager E. V. Hammons, who has just returned with the company from the scene. The picture was finished on the scheduled time and the Educational Company will take advantage of this fact to devote every attention to the editing.

"We were unusually successful," said Mr. Hammons. "In fact, so far as picture-taking is concerned the coal feature is done, and it remains only to edit, assemble and cut it. This completion of the picture in advance of the four weeks' suspension in the industry gives us plenty of time for the titling and editing, so vital to a feature with a patriotic message."

The next important pre-releases of Educational's short subjects will be Robert C. Bruce's "A Wee Bit Odd" and the International's cartoon, "A Smash-Up in China." In the former Mr. Bruce will strike the richly amusing vein of the "contrariness" of Nature. A giant waterfall in the heart of the Great American Desert; an irrigating plant of an Oregon ranch that provides gold water and yields twelve crops of $8,000 gold per annum; birds that dive and fishes that fly; these are some of the themes Bruce pictorializes in turn, accompanied by his witty comment.

As for a "Smash-Up in China," it is a Happy Hooligan nonsense dealing with his adventures while holding down an ambassadorial job to the land of the Celestials. There are some aerial ascensions, fighting with bandits, encounters with the Prime Minister and the Emperor, and finally the amazing story how Happy cured the monarch of the gout and won the order of the Knight of the Garter.

George E. Wright, author of "Mexico Today," and D. W. Gobbett, his technical expert, are making good progress on their new Mexican topicals. The pictures were finished on the Mexican Independence Day last month, the negatives were personally brought to the United States by Messrs. Wright and Gobbett, and they are now working on the assembly with President George A. Skinner, of the Educational. Interesting revelations are promised of political conditions in a neutral country which has been much beset by Hun intrigue.

All American Stars to Get Light Stories

THE American Company announces a policy that will exclude all war stories and pictures of a depressing nature. Hereafter it will make an effort to secure interesting tales with plenty of plot, suspense, human interest and comedy.

Pursuant to this policy the next Margarita Fisher picture, "Fair Enough," to be released through the Pathe exchanges, tells the story of a girl who insisted on having her own way and her romance with a millionaire who became a policeman under the "Work or Fight" order. Bull Montana is seen as the hero's great admirer and adds much comedy to the picture.

William Russell is to continue doing pictures of the type in which he has been seen lately. "All the World to Nothing" is his next release and is taken from a novel by Wyndham Martyn. Henry King directed it. Following this there will be "When a Man Rides Alone" and "Where the West Begins," both western pictures, yet said to be novel in every respect.

Mary Miles Minter, the third American star, whose pictures are released through Pathe Exchange, is to receive vehicles giving her more mature, yet still girlish roles, in future.

In her last two pictures, "Eyes of Julia Deep" and "Rosemary Climbs the Heights," she evinced a telling emotional ability which led the producers to this decision regarding her future pictures.

Select Companies Work at High Speed

All five stars of Select Pictures Corporation are busy on new productions and as a consequence the company will be prepared with many new productions when activities in the motion picture theaters again attain a normal level.

Clara Kimball Young is working on "The Road Through the Dark," from Maud Radford Warren's Metropolitan Magazine story. Edmund Mortimer is directing Miss Young, while her leading man is Jack Holt, who appeared with her in "The Claw."

Norma Talmadge, also on the West Cost, has started work on the David Belasco stage success, "The Heart of Wetona." As was the case with her last picture S. A. Franklin is directing, while Thomas Meighan is appearing as leading man.

Constance Talmadge's next picture, on which she is now working, is "A Lady's Name," by Julia Crawford Ivers, from the plays by Cyril Harcourt. Walter Edwards is continuing as Miss Talmadge's director, while Harrison Ford will again be seen as leading man.

"In the Hollow of Her Hand" will be Alice Brady's next adaptation and directed by Charles Maigne, while A. J. Herbert is to be seen as leading man.

"The Belle of New York," the well known stage success, will be Marion Davies next in which she will appear under Julius Steger's direction.

Under the circumstances, and in view of the several productions which each star has ahead of her in her respective Select Series, it would be next to impossible to curtain production work and keep abreast with the certain demand for new subjects that will obtain after the releasing ban has been lifted.

"Our Nation Aroused," a Chester-Mutual Series

The Mutual Film Corporation has contracted with C. L. Chester for a new one-reel series of ten pictures entitled "Our Nation Aroused." These were made by Mr. Chester from scenarios prepared by the Committee on Public Information and give ten specific illustrations of the activities of the United States Government in developing the war machine on this side of the water.

"Our Nation Aroused" is said to be a series full worthy to follow the "Outing Chester" picture recently released by Mutual.

Katharine Hilliker, who wrote the titles for the former series, also worked on the present pictures.

The titles of the separate releases serve to give an inkling as to their contents. They are: "Schooling Our Fighting Mechanics," "There Shall Be No Cripples," "Colored Americans," "Waging War in Washington," "It's an Engineers' War," "Railless Railroads," "All the Comforts of Home," "Finding and Fixing the Enemy," "Masters for the Merchant Marine" and "The College for Camp Cooks."

In the Center is Pictured a Sensational Scene from "The Iron Test," the Newest Vitagraph Serial Released October 21, Starring Carol Hollaway and Antonio Moreno

Cosmo Hamilton Writes for Madge Kennedy

Cosmo Hamilton, author of a number of the most successful plays of the spoken drama, is responsible for "Primrose," which will be the next Goldwyn-Madge Kennedy production. It is now being produced, under the direction of Clarence G. Badger. "Primrose" is an original creation and was written especially for Miss Kennedy by the author of "The Blindness of Divorce."

Although "Primrose" is modern in every sense, the environment being that of a Long Island duck farm, some of the action transpires in a highly romantic atmosphere. Wonderful gardens, a castle and a terrace are required in the course of the play. These scenes will be photographed in California, where Miss Kennedy will go as soon as the other episodes are completed at the studios in Fort Lee. There are marine scenes also, of an elaborate nature, employing galleons under full sail, which must necessarily be made in California.

Jewel War Pictures Go Well Everywhere

Jewel Productions is in receipt of communications from theatre owners announcing the unusual success of its three war features.

T. M. Dunn, manager of the Gem theatre in Mineral Wells, Texas, declared that "Crashing Through to Berlin," when played at his house resulted in bringing in an extra $20,000 to the Fourth Liberty Loan as well as pleasing all his patrons.

The Winsor McCay pen picture, "The Sinking of the Lusitania," played a return engagement of three days at the Strand theatre, Youngsworth, Ohio. Two of the days were fair and it drew well while on the third, during a downpour of rain, receipts far exceeded expectations.

"The Geezer of Berlin" was well received at the Schade theatre, Sandusky, Ohio.

Warner Tells Big Film Demand

Buyers of "The Kaiser's Finish" Declare That State Rights Pictures with Great Selling Power Are in Demand—Sees Educational Work from Such Productions

ANNOUNCEMENT is made by A. Warner, who is in charge of the sales of "The Kaiser's Finish," the eight-reel special production made by S. L. Warner, that as the result of the visit of nearly a score of buyers to New York during the past week there were a number of additional territories sold and options taken on others.

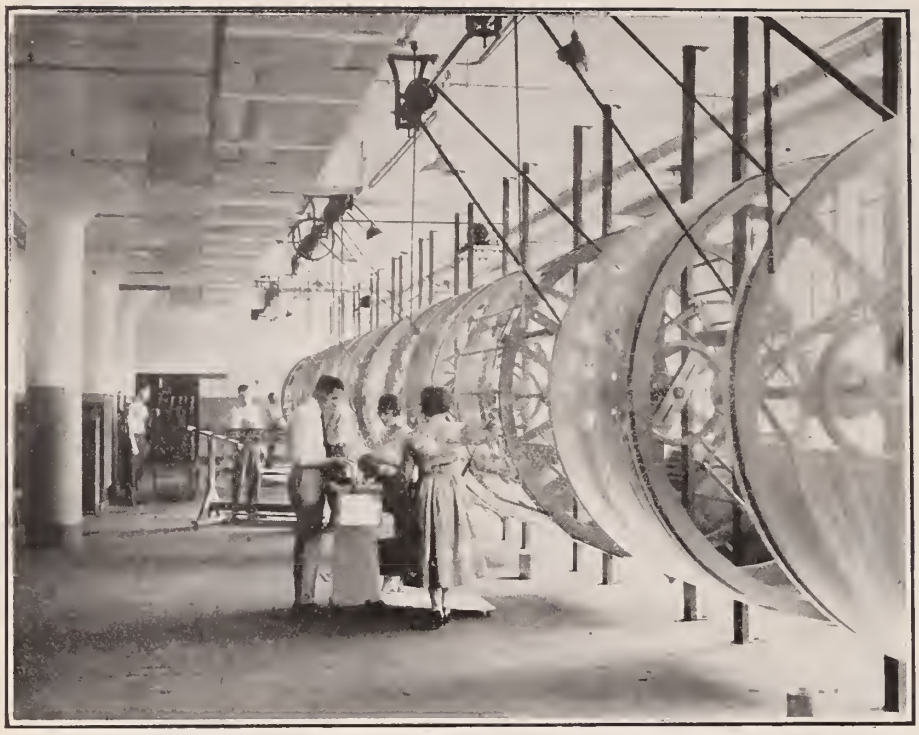
Mr. Warner declares that as the result of the talks that he had with these buyers he is convinced that the era of big special productions is here. He points out that these are doing wonders in educating the smaller exhibitors, particularly those in isolated sections. Buyers of "The Kaiser's Finish" pointed out that these features had resulted in educating many exhibitors to big advertising and in proving to them that spending money on exploitation pays.

He declares that he is convinced from his talk with the buyers that they want war pictures and that these will be in demand as long as the war lasts. Mr. Warner said further:

"In voicing their opinions of the best method of booking 'The Kaiser's Finish' in their territories they indicated that long runs for special features were now taken for granted by exhibitors, where, a season ago, arguments and the hardest kind of sales work was needed to convince them that a booking could be profitable if it was for more than two or three days at the most. Consequently, there has been a change that is really radical in the renting of state rights productions. The old method of a straight rental in the majority of cases has given way to percentage propositions with the individual theatre owners. The independent exchange man benefits, because he more often than not gets a greater return by this method than he used to get on a flat rental basis, and the exhibitor realizes added profits from the longer runs. The exhibitor, too, feels that on a house percentage proposition he can afford to play a picture for a longer time, because when it starts to fall off in receipts he is not facing the responsibility of digging down into his profits for the first days of big returns to pay a high daily rental for the concluding performances of the run."

According to Mr. Warner's statement of the comments of the buyers with whom he has closed territory for "The Kaiser's Finish," these independent exchange operators are in a more prosperous condition today than they ever have been before.

"Another tribute to the special state rights production," he declared, "is the tendency it has had to impress the smaller exhibitors with its size and importance, which has resulted in much greater exhibitor activity in advertising it locally. Buyers told me they could recount innumerable instances where exhibitors in their territories have booked multiple-reel specials and have proceeded to shatter their own precedents of ultra-conservative expenditures in advertising and publicity to help them get back the money they had paid in rental for it. In addition, when the buyers play a picture to an exhibitor on percentage, they naturally insist that the theatre owners shall do a certain amount of local advertising. Some exhibitors objected strenuously to this demand, they told me, but invariably the results have been such that they have been thoroughly converted to the value of proper local promotional work. This is all good educational work that reacts to the advantage of the industry generally. It seems to me that it follows, as a matter of course, that once exhibitors are taught the value of good local advertising and the essentials of successfully retailing pictures to their public all producers and distributors will benefit."



North Section of Drying Room at Rothacker Laboratory Studio, Chicago

"Lion and the Mouse" Started

Alice Joyce in Screen Version of the Klein Play—All Other Vitagraph Stars in Midst of Production

THE Vitagraph production of "The Lion and the Mouse," the play of the late Charles Klein in which Alice Joyce will be starred, is promised to be an especially lavish effort, quite surpassing the usual program offering. The picture is being made on a basis calculated to rank it in the same class with "Within the Law," in which Miss Joyce and Harry Morey appeared. Contrary to the method of procedure with this former production, "The Lion and the Mouse" will be released as a regular Blue Ribbon Feature. In its season announcement the Vitagraph company promised exhibitors that the best would be obtained for these "program" features. The fact that "The Lion and the Mouse" is not raised to the position of a "special" is proof conclusive of this statement.

On the stage "The Lion and the Mouse" has played to large audiences during the last twenty-five years and is even more of a celebrated attraction than "Within the Law." Miss Joyce and her director, Tom Terriss, have been on location for this picture during the last week.

All the other Vitagraph stars are busy producing coming Blue Ribbon features. Earle Williams, who recently returned to the Brooklyn studio after a stay of ten weeks on the coast, is making "A Gentleman of Quality," by Frederick Van Renseller Dey, under the direction of Wilfred North. Agnes Ayre and Florence Deshon appear in his support.

Harry Morey, under the direction of Paul Scardon, is working on a picture bearing the tentative title of "Dan La Roche," which is described as a fitting vehicle to exploit the star's strong personality.

Corinne Griffith is now working under the direction of Kenneth Webb, who scored with a number of O. Henry stories. The picture, which bears the title of "The Adventure Shop," was written by Bud Fisher, the famous cartoonist, creator of Mutt and Jeff. "The Adventure Shop" marks his entrance into the field of photoplay writing.

Gladys Leslie, under the direction of Joseph Gleason, is making "The Beloved Imposter," in which she has a quaint role, similar to those awarded her in "Wild Primrose" and "A Nymph of the Foothills," her recent Blue Ribbon features.

At the Vitagraph studio in Hollywood, California, Bessie Love is reported well advanced on scenes for her second Blue Ribbon feature, entitled "The Enchanted Barn," a picturization of Grace Livingston Lutz's novel.

Beatrice Morgan Seen with Emmy Wehlen

Beatrice Morgan, for years a favorite leading woman in New York stock companies, is to be in the support of Emmy Wehlen in her forthcoming Metro production, "Sylvia on a Spree."

Miss Morgan appeared at Proctor's Harlem Opera House, Proctor's Fifth Avenue theatre and Proctor's 125th Street theatre, New York City, and at Proctor's Albany house, playing long engagements in each. She gained her knowledge of stage technique in the companies of Augustin Daly. More recently she has appeared with Frances Starr in "The Easiest Way."

Rothacker Work Wins Praise

WATTERSON R. ROTHACKER, president of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company has received high praise for his work on the developing, printing and toning of two important current releases, "Shoulder Arms," the First National Attraction presenting Charlie Chaplin for the second time on this circuit, and "The Temple of the Dusk," a Mutual release starring Sessue Hayakawa, the Japanese actor.

S. L. Rothapfel, of the Rialto and Rivoli, New York, was so impressed with laboratory work on this latter feature that he wrote to Mr. Rothacker, in part, as follows:

"I happened to see the laboratory work on the film entitled 'The Temple of Dusk,' and I cannot help but tell you that it is probably the most beautiful that I have seen in years. Surely such work will commend itself to anyone desirous of obtaining the very finest and most artistic effects that it is possible to obtain in these days."

With the case of "Shoulder Arms," R. C. Seery of the Central Film Company, representatives of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit in the Chicago territory, commented most favorably on the laboratory work, saying: "His (Chaplin's) work does not at all over-shadow the wonderful photography and mechanical work that has been done on the subject by the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company.

"I want to compliment you on the painstaking care that has been exercised by you, as I think it is one of your best efforts as well as Chaplin's."

Bushman and Bayne in "An Ancient Enemy"

"An Ancient Enemy" is the title of the original photodrama on which Francis Bushman and Beverly Bayne are starting work for Metro. Mr. Bushman has the role of Giles Carver, a young Southern aristocrat who has been residing in the North without knowledge of his identity or the source of the money that pays for his education. When the "ancient enemy" who hated his father deems the time ripe, Giles is told the secret and an effort is made to leave him a victim of a vengeance planned before his birth. Miss Bayne has the role of a Southern beauty who has come to New York to study. How she is brought into Carver's affair adds to the mystery of the story.

Griffith Touches Abound in "Happy Valley"

"A Romance of Happy Valley," the new Artcraft picture produced by D. W. Griffith and scheduled for November release, is said to abound in those intimate touches that are to be noticed in every picture to which he lays his hand, whether great or small. Its story concerns life in a Southern toll-road town and has nothing of the spectacular about it, as have most of his previous works.

Lillian Gish, Robert Harron, George Fawcett and Bertram Grassby are seen in the parts of first importance.

William Farnum Has Another Great Character role in the Fox Production of "The Rainbow Trail"

"Kaiser's Finish" Released When Conditions Settle

No attempt will be made by purchasers of territory on "The Kaiser's Finish" to secure bookings in districts where theatres are closed by the influenza epidemic until the ban is lifted.

The buyers, according to a statement by A. Waener, feel that exhibitors will face a serious problem in re-arranging their schedules and fulfilling contracts made previous to the placing of the ban and any attempt to secure bookings now would be of harm to arranging the long runs that the buyers think the production worth.

Kiddies in Latest Red Cross-General Issue

The latest Red Cross release through the General Film Company is called "The Kiddies of No-Mans Land." It is the fifth single reel release of the series being distributed for the Red Cross Bureau of Pictures through the General exchanges.

"The Kiddies of No-Man's Land" is devoted to the thousands of orphaned French and Belgian children who are being cared for by the American Red Cross.

Hale Hamilton, Who Is to Star in Pictures Through Metro

Fox Production Moves East

Eight Companies Working Around New York City, While Theda Bara Goes to New Orleans for Scenes of Story of "The Wickedest Woman in Paris"

Theda Bara, J. Gordon Edwards, her director, and her full company of William Fox players have gone to New Orleans where they will make a large number of scenes for her next production, the working title of which is "The Light." Only the interior scenes will be made at the Fort Lee studios.

"The Light," which is an original story by Lieut. Luther Reed and Brett Page, has its locale in Paris and New Orleans affords the exact natural settings desired.

The story, in brief, tells of "the wickedest woman in Paris," who wishes to leave her life of pleasure and sin for the nobler work of a Red Cross nurse. On account of her reputation, her plea is refused, so she again plunges into the wild life of a Parisian half-world. She is stopped in her reckless carcer by meeting a lonely and friendless poilu who has been blinded in battle. Spiriting him away from Paris to her home in the country, the woman nurses the soldier back to health. On the eve of her great happiness, a spectre of the past confronts her and nearly shatters the house of love she has built. The ending of "The Light" is said to be unexpected and extremely dramatic.

Counting Miss Bara's there are eight of the Fox companies now working around New York and only three of the Fox stars, Tom Mix, Gladys Brockwell and Madeline Traverse, are in California. The Sunshine Comedies are, of course, still being made at the coast studios.

So great has been the increase in the production of Fox pictures in the East that six studios in New York and New Jersey are in use. Five of the studios are in New Jersey and one, the Victor, is at Tenth avenue and FortyThird street, Manhattan.

By the extension of its studio facilities, it is estimated that the Fox Film Corporation now is occupying more space in the East than any other producing company. It is figured that the combined floor and ground space of the various Eastern studios being used by William Fox companies aggregate twenty-five acres. This, added to the fifteen acres of the William Fox lot at Hollywood, Calif., gives a production space of about forty acres.

William Farnum, under the direction of Frank Lloyd, has just begun work on a new play at Cliffside. The picture has the working title of "For Freedom," and it is said to show Mr. Farnum in the role of a convict who achieves regeneration through the war.

Evelyn Nesbit has entered the second week of the second picture she is making for William Fox. The picture, "I Want to Forget," is being directed by James Kirkwood.

George Walsh, under the direction of Edward Dillon, is on his second week on a new play written by George Scarborough.

Jane and Katherine Lee are nearing the completion of "Tell It to the Marines," a fantastic comedy being directed by Arvid E. Gillstrom. Peggy Hyland is working on "Caught in the Act," written by Fred Jackson and directed by Harry Millarde.

Virginia Pearson, under the direction of Charles J. Brabin, is filming Justus Miles Forman's novel, "Buchanan's Wife." Richard Stanton is cutting the film of "Why I Would Not Marry," the colossal 1918 morality play.

In the West Gladys Brockwell is producing a picture which has a working title of "Quicksands," Tom Mix is making another Charles Alden Seltzer picture, and Madlaine Traverse, the new Fox Excel star, has begun on a new picture, which has not yet been titled.

Metro Turning to Comedies

Majority of Its Stars to Be Seen in Lighter Offerings During the War —Bert Lytell Working on His First Production of This Sort—Mae Allison on Laughter Force

CONVINCED that the people of the country want relief from the mental burdens of war Metro announces that hereafter and until peace comes the majority of its stars will be provided with comedies. Two such plays are in production and others are being prepared by the scenario staff. Cheerfulness and action will be the keynote of these offerings.

The first of these, "The Spender," Bert Lytell's newest starring vehicle, is now being photographed at Metro's West Coast studios in Hollywood. According to the schedule of Charles Swickard, Lytell's director, the picture will be completed within a few weeks.

Frederick Orin Bartlett is the author of "The Spender," which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. Mary Anderson plays opposite Lytell in the leading reminine role. Rosemary Theby has a "vamp" part. Others in the carefully chosen cast are Thomas Jeffers, William V. Mong and Clarence Burton.

Lytell's next, to follow "The Spender," will also be a comedy. It is titled "Faith," and is a whimsical study of the gentler side of life. "Faith" is from a short story by Richard Washburn Child and was adapted for the screen by George D. Baker, Metro's Western manager of productions, and A. G. Kenyon of the scenario staff.

In line with this policy May Allison's next picture will be a comedy, entitled "Thirty Days." It got away to a flying start ten days ago at Metro's West Coast studios in Hollywood.

Every Line a Bit of News About Coming Pictures

Eugene Walter has agreed to write the scenario and Flo Ziegfeld to direct the chorus in the photoplay reproduction of "The Belle of New York," which will be the third of the Marion Davies star pictures to be released by Select. Julius Steger has just announced the arrangements.

King Baggot is to play the title role in the picture version of "The Man Who Stayed at Home," which is to be produced by Metro. June Mathis has made the adaptation from the famous stage play. Claire Whitney has been engaged to play the leading ingenue role. Lilie Leslie, Alexandre Herbert, Frank Fisher Bennett, Robert Whittier, Ricca Allen and Robert Paton Gibbs are others in the cast.

Robert Ellis becomes Mae Allison's leading man in the production of "Thirty Days," which has just been started at the Metro west coast studios. Ellis started his theatrical career under the management of George D. Baker, and now he is making his screen debut under the same man, who is now western manager of productions for Metro.

William Russell claims the distinction of using the greatest herd of cattle ever employed in a picture, in his coming American Film production of "Where the West Begins." It is promised that not less than 2,800 will be used in this picture which will be made in a hitherto unphotographed portion of the West.

Cecil B. De Mille, director general of Famous Players-Lasky is at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, where he was suddenly called in connection with special propaganda work. Before leaving Los Angeles Mr. De Mille declined to reveal the purpose of his trip.

"Until We Meet Again," which is announced as Universal's biggest effort since "The Kaiser," is nearing completion on the west coast. It is in ten reels and is described as the most expensive production ever made by Universal. Dorothy Phillips is the star and she is said to have unusual opportunities.

"The Wrong Side of Paradise" is the title of the Bluebird in which Juanita Hansen will be starred. She has the role of a white girl who believes herself the daughter of a native beach comber in the South Seas and who discovers the truth only after she has fallen in love with a U. S. secret service operative who has visited the island.

A thrilling horse race is promised as one of the spectacular features of "Southern Pride," the latest Mae Marsh picture which has just been finished at the Goldwyn studios in Fort Lee. The event was photographed at the height of the racing season at Saratoga in August. Through arrangements made by Goldwyn officials with the Jockey Club this was taken just before the first regular race on one of the biggest days, so that genuine followers of the "system" are portrayed by themselves.

The Mischievous Margarita Fisher, American Film Star, in "Fair Enough"

"Wolves of Kultur" is the Western Photoplay Serial Starring Leah Baird, which is Being Distributed Through Pathe

Milton Sills appears as leading man with Geraldine Farrar in the second of her Goldwyn pictures, "The Hell Cat." Another member of the cast equally well known is Thomas Santschi, who has been one of the dominant figures of the screen for twelve years. William W. Black, Evelyn Axzell, Frank Montgomery, Henry Lee, William Gibbons and Rochard Turner also contribute their talents.

Greatly increased demand for Gloria Joy pictures, which are produced by Oakdale, is reported by General Film, the distributors. She is to be heavily featured in later productions as the result of the admiration of the fans which is reported to the various exchanges by exhibitors.

General Film has scheduled for early distribution the fourth of the Rainbow Comedies which are being made at Wilkesbarre, Pa., by the United States Motion Picture Corporation. Lillian Vera and Eddie Boulden are featured in these pictures. Already released are "Nearly a Slacker," "My Lady's Slipper" and "Some Judge," while the fourth is titled "How She Hated Men."

"France's Dusky Warriors" is announced as the eighth of the "Far Flung Battle Line" series being released by Pathe. It will show vividly the work that the fighting men of Algiers and Tunis are doing in behalf of the Allies.

"The Iron Chair" is the title of the second episode of the Pathe patriotic serial, "Wolves of Kultur," starring Leah Baird. There are some stirring adventures in which she and the hero, Charles Hutchinson, participate and at the end she is locked in a vault by Sheldon Lewis, the detective.

Mary MacLaren is to have a most unusual cast in her latest Universal Special Attraction, "The Vanity Pool." Franklyn Farnum, formerly a Bluebird star and Thomas Holding, the noted English actor, share the chief masculine roles. Marin Said, former Kalem star, Anna Q. Nilsson, who has been featured by Metro, and Virginia Chester, one of Biograph's leaders, all have important roles.

Six hundred newspapers will print the complete story of the life of Mme. Petrova, coincident with the release of her fifth picture, "The Panther Woman," according to announcement made by Petrova Pictures. The story will be fully illustrated with pictures of the star. "The Panther Woman" is a picturized version of Gertrude Atherton's novel, "Patience Sparhawk and Her Times."

Clara Kimball Young is reported as having made good progress on the first of her Second Select Series. Jack Holt is her leading man in this, "The Road Through the Dark" and other members of the company include Henry Woodward, Eleanor Fair, Bobby Connelly, John Steppling, Lillian Leighton, Elmo Lincoln, E. M. Kimball and Eugenie Besserer. It deals with the life of a French girl, her association with a Prussian officer and America's entrance into the war.

"Caught in the Act" has been selected by Fox as the title for the picture which Peggy Hyland has under way. It is a picturization of a magazine story by Fred Jackson and is described as full of delightful comedy for which Miss Hyland has particular talent.

According to announcement from Fox, "18 to 45," the big picture of the draft, will contain more facts about the new draft than columns of printed matter as the result of the visit of Anthony Paul Kelly, who wrote the scenario, to Washington, where he obtained the facts from Provost Marshal Crowder's office.

"Branding Broadway," the next William S. Hart picture, is described as a comedy-drama and offers the star for the first time in anything but straight dramatic plays. Much of the action is laid in New York, the scenes being taken during the star's recent visit. Seena Owen emerged from her retirement to become his leading woman for this picture and Arthur Shirley has an important role.

Ormi Hawley, Leading Woman With Enrico Caruso in His Latest Picture for Artcraft

In and Out of West Coast Studios

By J. C. Jessen

About Metro Players

Bert Lytell this week finished "The Spender," and prepared to begin immediate work on his new picture called "Faith." It is a story by Richard Washburn Child published in one of the well known magazines. It was scenarioized by George D. Baker and A. G. Kenyon. Charles Swickard will in all probability direct the picture.

Because of unfavorable weather this week May Allison has been delayed in finishing her latest picture, "Thirty Days." George D. Baker wrote the continuity.

May Allison will next week begin work on a new production entitled "Peggy Does Her Darnedest." It will be a light comedy taken from a story written by Royal Browne. The script was prepared by George D. Baker and Tom J. Geraghty.

Word was received at the Metro studios this week that the War Industries Board now has under advisement the matter of granting permission for the construction of new studios for Metro players. It is believed by studios officials that this permission will be granted.

Universal Newsettes

Sixteen Universal directors are simultaneously engaged in making pictures at Universal City this week, while four others are either preparing new pictures or are cutting finished productions preliminary to release. The sixteen are as follows: Colin Campbell, directing Juanita Hansen in "The Wrong Side of Paradise"; Roy Clements producing "Mixed Nuts," with Molly Malone; Jack Dillon directing "Miss Dorris, Safe Cracker," with Priscilla Deane; Jack Ford directing Harry Carey's "Riders of Vengeance," Douglas Gerrard with "Sealed Orders," starring Fritzi Brunette; Harry Harvey directing Helen Gibson in a two-reel western; Rupert Julian producing "Dearie," with Mary MacLaren; J. P. McGowan directing "The Lure of the Circus," Eddie Polo's serial; Paul Powell in making "The Beautiful Mongrel," starring Carmel Myers; Rollin Sturgeon directing "Destiny," with Dorothy Phillips; Elsie Jane Wilson directing "Home, James," with Ruth Clifford; Ben Wilson filming a comedy series with Neva Gerber.

Dorothy Phillips will enact a double role in her latest filmplay, "Destiny." She is supported in this picture by William Stowell and Harry Hilliard.

Ralph Graves, the juvenile lead in "Sporting Life," has finished playing opposite Mae Murray in "The Scarlet Strain" and "What Am I Bid?" He will play opposite Mildred Harris in her next Lois Weber production, "The Snob."

"Mixed Nuts," a one-reel comedy, starring Molly Malone, was finished this week at the Universal studios. It was filmed under the direction of Roy Clements.

Harry Carey and his troop of cowboys and Indians returned this week from Bear Valley, where exterior scenes in "Riders of Vengeance" were shot under the direction of Jack Ford. Seena Owen, former Griffith star, is playing the feminine lead in this picture.

Having finished "Breathes There a Man," Monroe Salisbury this week took a brief vacation. The production was filmed under the direction of William Wolbert, and was from the story written by George Hull. Betty Compton is Salisbury's leading woman. It is a story of a navy officer who renounced his country and then later saved it in an hour of need. Members of the supporting cast are Beatrice Dominguez, Andrew Robson, Robert Emonds, Fred Wilson and Fred Kelsey.

Paramount-Artcraft

Bryant Washburn, who has been in the East for several weeks on a new production for the Paramount program, returned to Los Angeles Tuesday. He was accompanied by Donald Crisp, his director. He has been filming the screen version of "Venus in the East," a story from the Saturday Evening Post by Wallace Irwin. Margery Wilson is his leading lady. The picture is not yet finished, and the final scenes will be filmed in Los Angeles.

Ethel Clayton is now spending a vacation between pictures. The nature of her next production has not been announced.

"The Squaw Man," in its modern version by Cecil B. DeMille, has been edited and otherwise prepared for the exhibitors, and it will be released within a short time, according to announcement this week from the Famous Players-Lasky studios.

Vivian Martin's new picture, which has been titled "You Never Saw Such a Girl," will be finished this week. It was directed by Robert Vignola. Harrison Ford is playing the male lead. The story was taken from a book by George Weston and the script was prepared by Marion Fairfax.

Dorothy Gish will this week finish "Hope Chest," her newest screen vehicle. It is being produced under the direction of Elmer Clifton. Her next picture has not been selected.

Lila Lee, the new Paramount star, will this week finish her latest picture called "Puppy Love." One of the principal characters in the odd offering is played by Charles Murray, formerly seen in Sennett comedies of the slap-stick variety.

Vitagraph News Bits

William Duncan has just returned from Fremont Pass, where he made a number of automobile scenes for episodes of the "May of Might" serial. One dangerous incident resulted in the car backing down a steep incline and crashing into a cliff. This was not a part of the program, but the scenario was changed to include this thrilling bit of work.

Every member of the Rock-Montgomery Big V. Comedy company was put out of business last week as the result of stupid blindness, caused by overwork under the lights in completing some rush scenes.

Bessie Love is hard at work on her second Blue Ribbon feature, "The Enchanted Barn," which is taken from the novel by Grace Livingston Hill Lutz. During the filming she sustained a peculiar injury. While riding a bancak horse she was leaning over on his neck, when the animal suddenly flung his head back, giving Miss Love a beautiful black eye.

After completing his picture, "Humbugs and Husbands," Larry Semon disappeared from the Vitagraph lot without warning. But when he returned the most thrilling news that he had was that he had gone into solitude to figure out the laughs in his next production.

Fox Studio Doings

Jane and Katherine Lee, the Fox kiddies, are expected to arrive in Los Angeles Saturday afternoon. They left New York on Tuesday, October 9. They are accompanied on their western trip by Director Arvid Gillstrom. It is their first journey to the Far West, and the players at the Fox studios are planning to give the youngsters a royal welcome. Their first picture to be produced in the West has not been announced.

Madlaine Traverse began work this week on her first picture since arriving on the West Coast. Its temporary title is "The Priceless Love," and is being produced under the direction of Frank Beal. Harry Gersted is the photographer. Thomas Holding has been cast as the male lead. Others of the supporting cast are Edwin Cecil and Fritzie Ridgeway. The story was provided by Marshall Bruce Bennington and the continuity was written by Dennison Clift and Adrian Johnson. It is a story of an opera singer wedded to a theatrical man who becomes tired of his wife. In later years she becomes a brilliant star, while in the meantime the husband has become involved in other love affairs. The story is worked out in such manner that the neglected wife comes through triumphantly.

The Fox studio officers announced that the expected exodus of Fox stars to the western studios will begin within the next few weeks. Evelyn Nesbit will come West at an early date, and it is announced that Virginia Pearson will soon join the Los Angeles film colony. Peggy Hyland will start westward as soon as she finishes her present picture.

William Farnum will make one more production in the East, and then he will return to the Fox Western studios.

Announcement is also made that Theda Bara will film one picture while in the East under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards. Whether she will return to Los Angeles or go to Florida has not been decided. Some of the scenes of the subject she is now planning to produce will be filmed in New Orleans, it is understood.

In a letter to friends at the Los Angeles Fox studio Miss Bara says that she prefers Southern California to Florida, and that is interpreted as meaning that she will return to Los Angeles to spend the coming winter.

Gladys Brockwell's new picture "Quicksands" will be finished next week. The subject of her next film effort has not been announced.

"The Coming of the Law," in which Tom Mix is the star, will be finished next week. This is a story where the Fox western star enters a western village and takes charge of the town through the medium of a fist fight instead of the usual gun route.

Henry Lehrman is celebrating this week by placing four companies at work on four separate comedy subjects.

Live Triangle Items

With the unofficial announcement this week that Goldwyn has released the Triangle studios and will on November 1 begin producing with eight companies, comes the announcement also that at least three Triangle units will continue working, and that the Triangle productions will be made at the studio formerly called Inceville.

Triangle companies will be headed by Taylor Holmes, Olive Thomas and Alma Rubens.

The Gloria Swanson company is still working under the direction of William Dowlans, but it could not be learned whether this company will continue producing at the studios.

It is also understood that Lawrence Windom will continue to direct Taylor Holmes, and that Frank Borzage will still handle the megaphone for Olive Thomas.

There are twelve other people at the Triangle studios who are under contract, it is understood, and it was announced this week that some arrangements would likely be made to play at least a part of these people in the companies that continue to work at the studios.

No announcement was made as to the future of Alma Rubens, who has been ill for some time, or of Harry Mesteyer and Gloria Swanson. H. E. Aitken, who has been in charge of productions for Triangle, is in New York.

Daniel Carson Goodman, author and scenario writer, this week retired from Triangle to finish work on his latest novel, "The Sleeper," a war romance, which it is understood is to be published in the near future. Nina Wilcox Putnam, writer in the Saturday Evening Post, who recently arrived at the Triangle studios, is to succeed Mr. Goodman as editorial director for the Triangle forces at that plant. Mr. Goodman has taken a home in Hollywood and he will remain in Los Angeles this winter. In addition to his scenario work he is the author of three novels, "Travail," "Unclothed" and the "Hagar Revelly." He wrote a number of subjects for Nance O'Neill.

Taylor Holmes will this week complete "The Great Idea," the Government propaganda film, written by Daniel Carson Goodman. Holmes takes the role of a young American who brings the Kaiser to his knees with the Fourth Liberty Loan issue. While filming this subject Holmes was compelled to hold up his picture, "Safety First."

A Belgian village has been erected at the Triangle Culver City studios for scenes in Olive Thomas' picture, "Blood Will Tell." Included in the cast with Miss Thomas in this picture are Joe King, her leading man; Harvey Clarke, Edwin Brady and Lillian West.

Work has started on Gloria Swanson's next Triangle vehicle, "Those Unborn." William Dowland will direct the story. It was written by W. Christy Gabanne. J. Barney Sherry and Eugene Burr will have important parts in the play.

Here and There

The Goldwyn forces will begin producing at the $1,000,000 Triangle studios at Culver City on November 1, it was unofficially announced here Tuesday. Eight companies will come to the Pacific coast, and they will be preceded by Abraham Lehr, special representative of Goldwyn.

Tom Moore and his company transferred their work this week from the Metro studios to the Triangle plant, it was announced. Among the stars that will head the remaining companies will be Mabel Normand, Mae Marsh, Geraldine Farrar, Madge Kennedy, Pauline Frederick and Willard Mack.

Abraham Lehr, who was in Los Angeles last Friday when the first rumor became current that Goldwyn had leased the Triangle studios, left Tuesday for New York without giving out any definite statements in the matter.

Pauline Frederick, Mae Marsh and Willard Mack are expected to arrive in Los Angeles this week.

J. G. Hawks, former scenario writer for Thomas H. Ince, has been engaged by the Goldwyn forces, it was unofficially announced here this week. It is generally understood that Mr. Hawks will take charge of the Goldwyn scenario department as soon as the Goldwyn producing forces reach the West Coast.

Gloria Joy, the juvenile star of the Mission Film Company, a company organized recently, will soon be seen at work at the Brunton studios. Space has been rented at the studios by the Mission Film Company on a scale large enough to indicate that the little star is to be given an unusual opportunity in her initial vehicle. Two subjects have been completed by this company.

Madame Yorska has begun work at the Brunton studios on "The Infernal Net," written by Madame Sarah Bernhardt. The continuity was written by Verne Hardin Porter.

Hollywood Hookum

OCT. 26, 1918 NEWS MORE NEWS

Roy Aitken's in town.

Mary's in San Francisco.

Another shower this week.

Welcome to our city, Norma and Joe.

It's to be hoped you bought a Bond.

Bill Russell is reported to have the Spanish "flu."

Al Christie comes forward with a comedy, "Why Get a Divorce?"

Jay Balesco is again the male ingenue for Christie Comedies.

Sydney Franklin is back amongst us, as Dick Willis would say.

Doug. Fairbanks gave a rodeo and sold $106,000 worth of Bonds.

Elmer Clifton was seen directing a scene the other day without puttees.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran made a serious comedy this week—the cameraman is still sick.

D. W. Griffith is said to be up in the air for his next picture. Yes, he did it in an airplane.

Nell Shipman has moved in from the beach, thus giving the fish a chance to exercise in the morning.

G. E. Jenks—the rest of his name is George Elwood—is relaxing after twenty continuities for Triangle.

Al Forrest came out of his hiding place at Santa Barbara this week, and gave Los Angeles' bright lights the once over.

Bert Lytell has stepped right out on the platform and made a name for himself as an orator, which statement really should not be in HOOKUM.

Bill Hart's expected home, and many of the fair ones will heave a sigh of relief when they know he is safely away from that glittering Broadway.

Bill Keefe is becoming so popular that all the people point to him, and say "there he is" when Keefe walks down the street with D. W. Griffith.

Julian Eltinge is back from Riverside Mountains, where he discovered a river just like the Rhine, and so he may be spoken of as the first one to cross that stream.

Mary M. Minter is Liberty Loaning all over Southern California, and therefore early returns indicate an "over-the-top" success. Mary is said to be a regular speechmaker.

Bill Parsons has deserted the screen stage for a week to do fairs in the nearby towns, where he will shoot some scenes for a Billie Rhodes De Luxe. Of course Bill cares nothing for the fairs.

Olive Thomas is reported to have a new fad. After becoming accustomed to speeding automobiles, she has now taken to ox-cart rides, which is somewhat slowing up her sweet young life.

Carl Laemmle was told by one of his stars that she was getting tired of being disappointed by playing almost married roles, and so the big chief of U City fixed it all up for her to get married the next night.

The big contest in which cause and effect of the wheels turning backward phenomena recently announced in HOOKUM is set for early appearance. Anyone having suspicions that they know the cause of this illusion is invited to participate in the festivities.

Ralph Robinson has a mind for figgers. He has doped it out that it took George Baker thirty minutes or thirty days to write "Thirty Days" for May Allison, and he further said it will take May thirty days to make it, and just for that, it is said that Robinson may get thirty days—anyway he's deserving.

All the stars of Screendom are said to be coming out here from New York, and announcement to that effect has been received from Samuel Goldfish.

Welcome to our Madge Kennedy, Pauline Frederick, Mabel Normand, Mae Marsh, Willard Mack, of Goldwyn; and also Mr. Fox we thank you for your contribution of William Farnum, Virginia Pearson, Evelyn Nesbit, Peggy Hyland, Jane and Kate Lee.

Features---Current and Coming

PENDING THE RE-ARRANGING OF RELEASE SCHEDULES BY THE MANUFACTURERS, ALL PRODUCTIONS PREVIOUSLY ANNOUNCED FOR RELEASE DURING AND AFTER THE FOUR WEEK SHUT-DOWN ARE LISTED BELOW WITHOUT DATES.

Bluebird Photoplays

Oct. 7. The Lure of Luxury (Ruth Clifford) 5
Oct. 14. Together (Violet Merserau) 5
Hugon, the Mighty (Monroe Salisbury) 5
All Night (Carmel Myers) 5

Famous Players-Lasky Corp.

Oct. 6. Border Wireless (William S. Hart).
Oct. 6. Man from Funeral Range (Wallace Reid) .....
Oct. 6. Battling Jane (Dorothy Gish) .....
Oct. 13. When Do We Eat? (Enid Bennett).
Oct. 13. Private Peat (Special) .....
Oct. 13. Such a Little Pirate (Lila Lee) .....
My Cousin (Enrico Caruso) .....
The Make-Believe Wife (Billie Burke) .....
Gypsy Trail (Bryant Washburn) ...
Women's Weapons (Ethel Clayton).
A Daughter of the Old South (P. Frederick) .....
Mirandy Smiles (Vivian Martin) ....

SUCCESS SERIES (Reissues)

Oct. 6. Man from Mexico (John Barrymore)
Oct. 13. Seventeen (Jack Pickford) .....
Snobs (Moore) .....
The Cheat (Special) .....

First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc.

Ambasador Gerard's "My Four Years in Germany."
"Tarzan of the Apes" (Elmo Lincoln and Enid Markey).
"Italy's Flaming Front" (Italian Official War Pictures)
"Pershing's Crusaders."

Fox Film Corporation

TIMELY PICTURES

Sept. 1. The Prussian Cur.....
Sept. 1. Queen of the Sea (Annette Keller-
Sept. 8. Why America Will Win.....
Why I Would Not Marry.....
18 to 45.....

FOX STANDARD PICTURES

Sept. 1. Riders of the Purple Sage (William Farnum) .....
Sept. 15. The Caillaux Case.....
Sept. 29. When a Woman Sins (Theda Bara)
Oct. 13. The Woman Who Gave (Evelyn Nesbit) .....
The Rainbow Trail (William Farnum) .....
The She Devil (Theda Bara).....
I Want to Forget (Evelyn Nesbit).

PRODUCTIONS EXTRAORDINARY

Theda Bara in "Cleopatra."
William Farnum in "Les Miserables."
Annette Kellerman in "A Daughter of the Gods."

VICTORY PICTURES

Sept. 8. Mr. Logan, U. S. A. (Tom Mix)..
Sept. 22. Kultur (Gladys Brockwell).....
Oct. 6. On the Jump (Geo. Walsh).....
Treat 'Em Rough (Tom Mix).....
The Strange Woman (Gladys Brockwell) .....
I'll Say So (George Walsh).....
Fame and Fortune (Tom Mix).....
The Sneak (Gladys Brockwell).....

EXCEL PICTURES

Sept. 1. Bonnie Annie Laurie (Peggy Hyland) .....
Sept. 15. Queen of Hearts (Virginia Pearson)
Sept. 29. Swat the Spy (Jane and Katherine Lee) .....
Oct. 13. Peggy Hyland in "Marriages Are Made" .....
Tell It to the Marines (Jane and Katherine Lee) .....
Virginia Pearson in "Buchanan's Wife".....
Caught in the Act (Peggy Hyland).

General Film Company

AUTHORS' PHOTOPLAYS

Her Moment (Anna Luther).....7 D

HANOVER FILM COMPANY

Camille (Helen Hesperia).....6 D
The Marvelous Maciste.....6 D
Monster of Fate .....

DUPLEX FILMS, INC.

Shame (Zena Keefe).....7 D

COSMOFOTOFILM

Hypocrites (Elizabeth Risdon) .....6 D

EXPORT AND IMPORT FILM CO. (Inc.)

Why—The Bolsheviki.....5 D

OAKDALE PRODUCTIONS

The Locked Heart (Gloria Joy).....5 D
No Children Wanted (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Miss Mischief-Maker (Gloria Joy).....5 D
The Midnight Burglar (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Little Miss Grown-Up (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Wanted, a Brother (Gloria Joy).....5 D

Goldwyn Pictures Corp.

GOLDWYN STAR SERIES

Sept. 2. Turn of the Wheel (Farrar).....5 D
Sept. 9. Peck's Bad Girl (Normand).....5 C
Sept. 16. Just for To-Night (Moore).....5 D
Sept. 23. The Kingdom of Youth (Madge Kennedy) .....5 C D
Sept. 30. Laughing Bill Hyde.....6 D
Oct. 7. Hidden Fires (Mae Marsh).....5 D
Thirty a Week (Tom Moore)....5 C D
A Perfect 36 (Mabel Normand)....5 C
A Perfect Lady (Madge Kennedy).5 C D
The Hell Cat (Geraldine Farrar)...

GOLDWYN SPECIALS

For the Freedom of the East (Betzwood)...7 D
Rex Beach's Heart of the Sunset.....7 D
Blue Blood .....6 D
Honor's Cross .....7 D
Social Ambition 7
The Manx-Man 7
For the Freedom of the World..... 7

W. W. Hodkinson Corporation

(Paralta Plays)

Sept. 2. The White Lie (Bessie Barriscale).. —

(Plaza Plays)

Sept. 9. Angel Child (Kathleen Clifford)... —
Oct. 7. Whatever the Cost (King..... —
The Law That Divides (Clifford)... —
Mistaken Identity (Anita King).... —

(J. D. Hampton)

Sept. 16. Prisoners of the Pines (Kerrigan) —
Three X Gordon (Kerrigan)..... —
The Drifters (J. Warren Kerrigan). —

(Lillian Walker)

Sept. 23. Embarrassment of Riches (Walker) —

(Bessie Barriscale)

Oct. 14. The Heart of Rachael (Barriscale).. —
Two-Gun Betty (Bessie Barriscale). —

(Louise Glaum)

Oct. 14. Goddess of Lost Lake (Glaum)..... —

(Douglass Natural Color)

Cupid Angling (Ruth Roland)..... —

FRANK POWELL-SUNSET

The Forfeit (Howe Peters-Jane Miller) ..... —

W. CHRISTY CABANNE

The American Spirit (E. K. Lincoln) ..... —

Jewel Productions, Inc.

The Price of a Good Time.
The Grand Passion.
The Doctor and the Woman.
The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin.
A Soul for Sale.
For Husbands Only.

Perfection Pictures

(GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM)

Sept. — Conquered Hearts..... —
Sept. — Behind the Lines in Italy..... —
Aug. 26. Triple Trouble" (Chaplin)..... —

Metro Pictures Corporation

Sept. 16. Kildare of Storm (Emily Stevens), Metro 5
Sept. 23. The Return of Mary (May Allison), Metro 5
Sept. 30. Unexpected Places (Bert Lytell), Metro 5
Oct 7. Select Strings (Olive Tell)..... 5

(SCREEN CLASSICS, INC., SPECIALS)

My Own United States (Arnold Daly), Frohman 8
The Million Dollar Dollies (Dolly Sisters), Emerald 5
Toys of Fate (Nazimova), Screen Classics, Inc. 7
To Hell With the Kaiser (Lawrence Grant, Olive Tell), Screen Classics, Inc.....

Mutual Film Corporation

Sept. 15. Love's Law (Gail Kane)..... 5
Sept. 29. Treason (Edna Goodrich)..... 5
The Temple of Dusk (Sessue Hayakawa) 5
Oct. 27. Lafayette, We Come (E. K. Lincoln-Affiliated 6

Pathe Exchange, Inc

Sept. 8. Her Man (Elaine Hammerstein), Advanced M. P. Corp..... 5
Sept. 15. The Eyes of Julia Deep (Mary Miles Minter), American.....
Sept. 23. A Japanese Nightingale (Fannie Ward-Astra) 5
Sept. 29. Honey Isn't Everything (Margarita Fisher), American.....
Oct. 6. The Border Raiders (Larkin-Diando) 5
Oct. 6. Hobbs in a Hurry (William Russell), American.....
Oct. 13. Rosemary Climbs the Heights (Mary Miles Minter), American.....
The Bells (Frank Keenan), Anderson-Brunton Corporation .....5 D
Milady o' the Beanstalk (Baby Marie Osborne-Diando) .....5 C D

Select Pictures

Sept. 16. The Better Half (Alice Brady).... 5
Sept. 23. The Forbidden City (Norma Talmadge) .....
Oct. 6. Her Great Chance (Alice Brady)... 5
Oct. 13. Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots (Constance Talmadge) 5
The Road Through the Dark (Clara Kimball Young) 5

SPECIAL RELEASES

Over There (Chas. Richman, Anna Q. Nilsson) 6
The Lone Wolf (Bert Lytell, Hazel Dawn).. 5
The Barrier (Rex Beach Production)..... 7
The Wild Girl (Eva Tanguay)..... 5
The Public Be Damned (Charles Richman, Mary Fuller) 6

William L. Sherry Service

Aug. 11. Out of the Night..... 6
Aug. 18. Inn of the Blue Moon..... 6
Marriage 5

Triangle Distributing Corporation

(Subject to change without notice)

Oct. 6. Tony America (Francis McDonald).. 5
Oct. 13. The Pretender (Wm. Desmond).... 5
Reckoning Day (Bella Bennett).... 5
Love's Pay Day (Rosemary Theby). 5
Deuce Duncan (William Desmond). 5
The Silent Rider (Roy Stewart).... 5
The Ragamuffin (Pauline Stark).... 5
Crown Jewels (Claire Anderson).... 5

Universal Productions

Sept. 23. The Talk of the Town (Dorothy Phillips) 6
Oct. 7. Three Mounted Men (Harry Carey). 6
Kiss or Kill (Dean and Rawlinson). 5

Vitagraph V-L-S-E

Oct. 7. The Mating (Gladys Leslie)..... 5
Oct. 14. The King of Diamonds (Harry Morey) 5
Everybody's Girl (Alice Joyce)..... 5
Miss Ambition (Corinne Griffith)... 5

World Pictures

Sept. 2. The Power and the Glory (June Elvidge) 5
Sept. 9. The Road to France (Blackwell-Greeley) 5
Sept. 16. 'Tother Dear Charmer (Louise Huff) 5
Sept. 23. To Him That Hath (Montagu Love) 5
Sept. 30. A Soul Without Windows (Ethel Clayton) 5
Oct. 7. The Appearance of Evil (June Elvide and Frank Mayo) 5
Oct. 14. The Road to France (Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley)..... 7

Releases in the Independent Field

For Manufacturers' Addresses, Names and Addresses of Buyers handling films in any territory, or any other additional information write—State Rights Department, Motion Picture News

Arrow Film Corporation

The Deemster.
Eyes of the World.
Ramona.
Persuasive Peggy.
Today.
The Mad Lover.
The Woman's Law.
Right Off the Bat.
The Struggle Everlasting.
The Accidental Honeymoon.
Million Dollar Mystery (Revised Edition).
The Finger of Justice.

Atlantic Distributing Corporation

Nine-tenths of the Law (Mitchell Lewis)..6 reels
The Devil's Playground (Vera Michelen).7 reels

Bear State Film Company

The Vigilantes.

Big Productions Film Corp.

VICTORIA FEATURE FILMS
The Sunset Princess (Marjorie Daws).

Christie Film Company

One-Reel Comedy Issued Weekly

Sept. 2. Some Cave Man.
Sept. 9. Are Second Marriages Happy.
Sept. 16. Married By Proxy.
Sept. 23. Look Who's Here.
Sept. 30. Oh Bobby! How Could You?
Oct. 7. Why Get a Divorce?
Oct. 14. Three Hours Late.
Why Husbands Flirt.
Two's Company.

Commonwealth Pictures Corp.

Charlotte, in The Frozen Warning.
Spanuth's Original Vod-a-Vil Movies (Released every two weeks)

Coronet Film Corporation

LIVING STUDIES IN NATURAL HISTORY
Animal World, No. 1 Issue.
Animal World, No. 2 Issue.
Birdland Studies.
Horticultural Phenomena.

Cosmofotofilm Company

Incomparable Mistress Bellairs.....4 reels
Liberty Hall .....4 reels
The Black Spot.....4 reels
Victoria Cross .....4 reels
His Vindication .....5 reels
I Believe .....7 reels
The Hypocrites .....6 reels

Crest Pictures

Lust of the Ages.....6 reels
The Grain of Dust.....6 reels

Doll Van Film Corp. (Chicago)

(In Illinois, Indiana and Southern Wisconsin)
The Mad Lover.
Public Defender.
Carmen o the Klondike.
The Grain o Dust.
Hearts of the World.
The Crucible of Life.
Nine-tenths of the Law.
The Belgian.
The Zeppelin's Last Raid.
Those Who Pay.
Just a Woman.

Doo Lee Film Co., Inc., N. Y. State

The Woman Who Dared.....7 acts
The Libertine.....6 acts
Babbling Tongues.....7 acts
Married in Name Only.....6 acts
Her Bargain.....6 acts
A Man's Law.....5 acts
Human Clay.....5 acts
One Law for Both.....8 acts
Sins of Ambition.....7 acts
A Slacker's Heart.....7 acts
Cleopatra .....5 acts
The Lonesome Trail.....5 acts
Mothers of Liberty.....6 acts

JESTER SUPER COMEDIES

The Recruit.....2 acts
His Golden Romance.....2 acts
All Fur Her.....2 acts
The Wrong Flat... .....2 acts
It's a Great Life.....2 acts
Released one a month.
June — Fabulous Fortune Fumblers.....2 acts
July — Fred's Fictitious Foundling.....2 acts
Aug. — Freda's Fighting Father.....2 acts
Sept. — Fatty's Fast Fliver.....2 acts
Oct. — Freda's Frivilous Finance.....2 acts

GAUMONT
Gaumont "News" released every Tuesday.
Gaumount "Graphic" released every Friday.

M. S. Epstin

Raymond L. Ditmars' "The Depths of the Sea," in a series of four parts.

Export and Import Film Co.

Birth of Democracy.
Why the Bolsheviki?

Foursquare Pictures

The Sin Woman (Irene Fenwick, Clifford Bruce, Reine Davies).
The Bar Sinister (Edgar Lewis's production).
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey).
Madame Sherry (Gertrude McCoy).
The Silent Witness (Gertrude McCoy).
The Great White Trail (Doris Kenyon).
One Hour (Zena Keefe and Alan Hale).
A Trip Through China.
The Fringe of Society (Milton Sills, Ruth Roland).
The Cast-Off (Bessie Barriscale).
The Submarine Eye.
Whither Thou Goest.
Should She Obey?
Men.

Fort Pitt Corporation

The Italian Battlefront.

Frohman Amusement Corp.

The Witching Hour (C. Aubrey Smith Jack Sherrill, Helen Arnold, Marie Shotwell and Robert Conness).....6 reels
Conquest of Canaan.....5 reels
God's Man .....9 reels
My Own United States (through Metro).

Gaumont Co.

The Hand of Vengeance.....

General Enterprises, Inc.

Mother (Elizabeth Risdon, McClure).....6 parts
The Warrior (Maciste) (McClure).....7 parts
The Liar (Jane Gail, Stanley Walpole)..6 parts

Jesse J. Goldburg

SCRANTON PHOTOPLAY VORP.
May 6. Cheerful Liars.
May 13. Fate and Fortune.
May 20. Parson Pepp.
May 27. The Ring and the Ringer.
RIALTO FILM CORPORATION
Apr. 15. My Husband's Friend.

D. W. Griffith

Hearts of the World.

Hiller & Wilk, Inc.

(Pictures handled in the Open Market)
"Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman."
"The Battle of Gettysburg."
"The Wrath of the Gods."
Sept. — "Sporting Life."

HART, FAIRBANKS, KEENAN AND TALMADGE RE-ISSUES
William S. Hart
The Patriot.
Captive God.
The Dawnmaker.
The Return of Draw Egan.
The Devil's Double.
Truthful Tulliver.
The Gunfighter.
The Square Deal Man.
The Desert Man.
Wolfe Lowry.

Douglas Fairbanks
The Good Bad Man.
Reggie Mixes In.
Flirting with Fate.
The Half Breed.
Manhattan Madness.
American Aristocracy.
The Matrimaniac.
The Americano.

Frank Keenan
The Thoroughbred.
Jim Grimsby's Boy.
The Sins Ye Do.
Bride of Hate.
The Drab.

Norma Talmadge
Children in the House.
Going Straight.
The Devil's Needle.
The Social Secretary.
Fifty Fifty.

Ivan Feature Productions

One Law for Both (Rita Jolivet, Vincent Serrano, Leah Baird, Pedro De Cordoba, James Morrison).....7 reels
Babbling Tongues (Grace Valentine, James Morrison, Arthur Donaldson).....7 reels
Married in Name Only (Gretchen Hartman, MBilton Sills, Marie Shotwell).....6 reels
Sins of Ambition (Barbara Castleton, Wilfred Lucas, Leah Baird, James Morrison) .....7 reels
Human Clay (Mollie King).....5 reels
Life or Honor (Leah Baird, James Morrison, Violet Palmer, Edward Mackey) .....6500 ft.

Jester Comedies

May — All "Fur" Her (Twede Dan)..2 parts
June — The Wrong Flat (Twede Dan)..2 parts
July — It's a Great Life (Twede Dan)..2 parts
Aug. — Oh What a Day (Twede Dan)..2 parts
Oct. — Ain't It So? (Twede Dan).....2 parts

Renowned Pictures Corporation

The Public Defender.....6 reels
Naked Hands .....5 reels
Mother Love and the Law.....7 reels
In Treason's Grasp.....5 reels
Should She Obey?.....7 reels

Frank J. Seng

Parentage .....7 reels

U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corp.

Just a Woman (Charlotte Walker).
The Crucible of Life (Grace D'Armond).
Men (Charlotte Walker, Anna Lehr, Robert Cain, etc).
Those Who Pay (Bessie Barriscale).
The Belgian (Walker Whiteside, Valentine Grant).
The Zeppelin's Last Raid.

Ernest Shipman

W. H. CLIFFORD PHOTOPLAY COMPANY, INC.—Featuring Shorty Hamilton.
June — The Snail .....5 reels
July — The Ranger.....5 reels
Aug. — Pen Vultures .....5 reels
Sept. — The Prisoner of War.....5 reels
FRANCIS FORD PRODUCING COMPANY—
May — Berlin Via America..... 6
July — The Isle of Intrigue..... 6
AL. AND FRANK JENNINGS PRODUCTIONS.
First release—Lady of the Dugout.....6 reels
The Coast Guard Patrol—Seven Parts.
A Nugget in the Rough—Five Parts.
Trooper 44—Five Parts.
The Tiger of the Sea (Seven Parts—Drama—By Nell Shipman).
Bill Tinger's Poems—A series of one-reel comedy dramas issued semi-monthly.

(Continued on page 2686)

Short Subjects Current and Coming

Josh Binney Comedies
(FEATURING FUNNY FATTY FILBERT)

May — Fabulous Fortune Fumblers.....2 reels
June — Fred's Fictitious Foundling.....2 reels
July — Freda's Fighting Father.....2 reels
Aug. — Fatty's Fast Flivver.....2 reels
Sept. — Fatty's Frivolous Fiancee.....2 reels

Burlingham Travel Pictures
Released by Sherry Service

Facing Death on the Blumlisalp.
Unknown Switzerland (The Lotschenthal).
The Pilatus Railway.
Allied War Heroes Arrive in Switzerland.

Educational Film Corp. of Amer.

Aug. 5. The Southern Tourist (Bruce Scenic) ..... 1 reel
Aug. 5. His Dark Past (International-Hooligan) .....Half reel
Aug. 12. Mexico's Floating Gardens (Wright) ..... 1 reel
Aug. 12. Tramp, Tramp, Tramp! (International-Happy Hooligan) .....Half reel
Aug. 19. Quest of the Big 'Un (Chas. Maigne) ..... 1 reel
Aug. 19. Judge Rummy's Off Day (International-Silk Hat Harry).....Half reel
Aug. 26. A Mexican Venice (Wright).. 1 reel
Ang. 26. International Cartoon Comedy. Half reel
Sept. 2. Cigars for Kings and Millionaires (Harold Horton)..... 1 reel
Sept. 2. International Carton Comedy. Half reel

Famous Players-Lasky Corp.

Oct. 13. Tell That to the Marines (Flagg)....2 C

PARAMOUNT BRAY PICTOGRAPHS

Oct. 6. A German Trick That Failed.
Oct. 13. Why Movies Move.
Building the Eagle Boat.
Development of Big Gun Construction.

PARAMOUNT BURTON HOLMES TRAVELOGUES

Oct. 6. Sight of Suva.
Oct. 13. Methodized Cannibals.
Fiji Does Its Bit.
Fire Walkers of Bega.

PARAMOUNT ARBUCKLE COMEDIES

The Sheriff.

PARAMOUNT MACK SENNETT COMEDIES

Oct. 6. Beware of Boarders.
Whose Little Wife Are You?

PARAMOUNT FEATURE—"THE SON OF DEMOCRACY"

Apr. 1. Down the River.
Apr. 8. The Slave Auction.
Apr. 15. Under the Stars.

Ford Educational Weekly
GREIVER DISTRIBUTING CORP. AND STATE RIGHTS
One Reel Each

111. Ausable Chasm.
112. Lake Champlain.
113. Kilauer Volcano.
114. Training Mechanics for Our National Army.
115. Work or Fight.
116. Niagara Falls.
117. Mile in the Sky.
118. America Swim!
119. The Milky Way.
120. The Red Cross Cares for the Wounded.
121. On Foot with Our Army and Navy.

Fox Sunshine Comedies

July 28. A Tight Squeeze.....2 C
Aug. 25. The Diver's Last Kiss.....
Sept. 22. Roaring Lions on the Midnight Express. .....

Fox Film Corporation

MUTT AND JEFF ANIMATED CARTOONS

Sept. 1. The Accident Attorney.....
Sept. 8. At the Front.....
Sept. 15. To the Rescue.....
Sept. 22. The Kaiser's New Dentist.....
Sept. 29. Bulling the Bolshevik.....
Oct. 6. Our Four Days in Germany.....
Oct. 13. The Side Show.....

General Film Company

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES
(O HENRY STORIES)

The Marquis and Miss Sally (Patricia Palmer. William Lester).....2 D
Springtime a la Carte (Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle) .....2 D
A Bird of Bagdad (Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle) .....2 D
Transients in Arcadia (Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle) .....2 D
Tobin's Palm (Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle).2 C
A Ramble in Aphasia (Edward Earle, Agnes Ayres) .....2 C

(WOLFVILLE TALES)

Faro Nell, Lookout (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
Dismissal of Silver Phil (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
The Coming of Faro Nell (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
Winning of the Mocking Bird (Carol Halloway, Robert Burns) .....2 D
The Jest of Talky Jones (Carol Holloway, William Lester) .....2 D
The Widow Dangerous (Hattie Buskirk, Patricia Palmer, Robert Burns).....2 D
The Wooing of Riley (Kate Price, Otto Lederer) .....2 D
The Heir of the Broken O (R. N. Bradbury, Patricia Palmer) .....2 D
The Rose of Wolfville (Patricia Palmer, C. E. NHatton) .....2 D

BLUE RIDGE DRAMAS
(Ned Finley)

The Return of O'Garry.....2 D
Mountain Law.....2 D
The Raiders of Sunset Gap.....2 D
O'Garry Rides Alone.....2 D
The Man from Nowhere.....2 D

ESSANAY
GEORGE ADE FABLES
ESSANAY COMEDIES (1 reel)

Our Little Nell.....1 C
Check Your Hat, Sir.....1 C
Wild Algy of Piccadilly.....1 C
All Stuck Up.....1 C
The Lie That Failed.....1 C
The Jazbo Sheriff.....1 C

SNAKEVILLE COMEDIES
(One reel each)

Sophie's Legacy.
Sophie Gets Stung.
Slippery Slim, Diplomat.
Slippery Slim and the Claim Agent.
Slippery Slim's Stratagem.
A Hot Time in Snakeville.
A Snakeville Epidemic.
Snakeville's New Sheriff.
Sophie's Birthday Party.

ESSANAY SCENICS

How Canada and the Farmer Co-operate in Grain Raising .....1 Sc.
Agricultural Opportunities in Western Canada .....1 Sc.
Water Powers of Eastern Canada.....1 Sc.
A Romance of Rails and Power.....1 Sc.
Grand Canyon of Arizona and Canyon de Chelley .....1 Sc.

CHAPLIN COMEDIES

By the Sea.....1 C
In the Park.....1 C
Work .....2 C
A Woman .....2 C
The Tramp .....2 C
His New Job.....2 C
A Night Out.....2 C

JAXON FILM CORP.

"A DAUGHTER OF UNCLE SAM" SERIAL (Jane Vance, Wm. Sorelle) 12 Episodes .....1 D

JAXON COMEDIES

What Occurred on the Beach.....1 C
An All-Fools' Day Affair.....1 C
Beating Him to It.....1 C
Forced Into Matrimony.....1 C

JUDGE BROWN STORIES

Love of Bob .....2 C-D
Dog vs. Dog.....2 C-D
A Boy Built City.....2 C-D
The Three Fives.....2 C-D
Kid Politics .....2 C-D
A Boy Built City.....2 C-D
The Case of Bennie.....2 C-D

RANCHO SERIES

In the Shadow of the Rockies.....2 D
Where the Sun Sets Red.....2 D

CLOVER COMEDIES

From Caterpillar to Butterfly.....1 C
A Widow's Camouflage.....1 C
Love's Lucky Day.....1 C

EBONY COMEDIES

Busted Romance.....1 C
Spooks .....1 C
The Bully .....1 C
The Janitor .....
Mercy, the Mummy Mumbled.....1 C
A Reckless Rover.....1 C
Are Working Girls Safe?.....1 C
The Comeback of Barnacle Bill.....1 C
Some Baby .....1 C
Good Luck in Old Clothes.....1 C
When You Hit, Hit Hard.....1 C
A Black-and-Tan Mix-up.....1 C
Fixing the Fakir.....1 C
When You're Scared, Run.....1 C

INTERSTATE FILM COMPANY

The Last Raid of Zeppelin L-21 (War Event) .....2000 ft.

PROGRESSIVE FILM

On a Fox Farm (Educational) .....1 reel

CRYSTAL FILM CO.

Romeo and Juliet.....2 C

CRYSTAL COMEDIES
(Pearl White, Estelle Deland, Don Barclay, William Browning)

What She Did to Her Husband, Almost Lucky .....1 C
What's in the Trunk?.....1 C
Reuben's Romance .....1 C
The Lady Detective, His Wedding Day....1 C
Troubled Waters .....1 C
Her Necklace, His Hoodoo Day.....1 C

HIGRADE FILM ENTERPRISES, INC.

Billie in Society (Ray Hughes).....2 C
Buneo Billy (Billy West).....2 C
Billy in Harness (Billy West).....2 C
Bombs and Bull (Billy West).....2 C

OFFICIAL WAR PICTURES
(Committee on Information)

Our Bridge of Ships.....2 Sc.

SCRANTONIA PHOTOPLAY CORP.

Parson Pepp .....1 C
Fang's Fate and Fortune.....1 C

AMERICAN RED CROSS

The Historic Fourth of July in Paris.....1 Sc.
Soothing the Heart of Italy.....1 Patr.
Of No Use to Germany.....1 Patr.

RAINBOW COMEDIES

Nearly a Slacker (Lillian Vera-Eddie Bouldon) .....1 C
My Lady's Slipper (Lillian Vera-Eddie Bouldon) .....1 C
Some Judge (Lillian Vera-Eddie Bouldon)..1 C

Goldwyn Distributing Corp.
CAPITOL COMEDIES
(Featuring "Smiling Bill" Parsons)

July 15. Dad's Knockout .....2 reels
July 29. Bill Settles Down.....2 reels
Aug. 12. Billy's Fortune .....2 reels
Aug. 26. Bill's Opportunity.....2 reels
Sept. 9. Up a Tree.....2 reels
Sept. 22. Bill's Sweetie .....2 reels
Oct. 7. Camping Out .....2 reels
A Pair of Pink Pajamas.....2 reels
The Jelly Fish.....2 reels
You Know What I Mean.....2 reels

King Bee Comedies

June 1. Bright and Early .....2 reels
June 15. Straight and Narrow .....2 reels

George Kleine System
MONTGOMERY FLAGG'S COMEDIES
"GIRLS YOU KNOW"

May 8. The Starter .....Edison
May 22. The Spoiled Girl .....
June 5. The Lonesome Girl .....

ESSANAY

June 7. Broncho Billy's Grit.
June 14. Broncho Billy's True Love.
June 21. Broncho Billy and the Western Girls.
June 28. Broncho Billy Wins Out.
July 5. Broncho Billy Trapped.
July 12. Broncho Billy Rewarded.
Sept. 1. Broncho Billy and the Claim Jumper.
Sept. 8. Broncho Billy and the Sheriff's Office.
Sept. 15. Broncho Billy, Outlaw.
Sept. 22. The Accusation of Broncho Billy.
Sept. 29. Broncho Billy's Double Escape.

LINCOLN-PARKER WORLD TRAVELOGUE

Mar. 1. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 1.
Mar. 8. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 2.
Mar. 15. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 3.
Mar. 22. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 4.
Apr. 29. Peru and Scenes Around Lake Titicaca, Bolivia.

Metro Pictures Corporation
METRO-DREW COMEDIES

Mar. 18. Special Today.....1 C
Mar. 25. When a Man's Married.....1 C
Apr. 1. Gas Logic.....1 C
Apr. 8. A Youthful Affair.....1 C

Mutual Film Corporation
STRAND (BILLIE RHODES)

All Kinds of a Girl.....1 C

Sept. 23. A Maid and a Man.....1 C
STRAND (ELINOR FIELD)
Aug. 6. What Will Father Say?.....1 C
Aug. 13. The High Cost of Weddings.....1 C
Aug. 20. Winnie's Wild Wedding.....1 C
Aug. 27. Her Friend, the Enemy.....1 C
Sept. 10. Cupid in Quarantine.....1 C
Oct. 1. Keep Smiling .....1 C
Oct. 13. The Tale of a Hat.....1 C
Just Home Maid.....1 C
OUTING-CHESTER PICTURES
To be issued one a week
Aug. 4. A Coorial on the Orinoco.....
Aug. 11. A Dam Catastrophe.....
Aug. 18. Statia With a Past.....
Aug. 25. Pines Up and Palms Down.....
Sept. 1. Finfeather Picanninies .....
Sept. 18. Saba, the Astonishing.....
Sept. 29. The Unblazoned Trail.....
Oct. 6. A Tropic Melting Pot.....
OUTDOOR PICTURES
Oct. 13. Black Feet and Flat Heads.....
SCREEN TELEGRAM
Issued Sunday and Wednesday of Each Week

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

Pathe News released each Wednesday and Saturday
Official War Review released every Monday
Sept. 29. Getaway (Chadwick-Astra), 2d...
Oct. 6. Triumph of Transportation (Leggett Gruen) .....1 Ed.
Winning the War, No. 1.....1 Top.
ROLIN COMEDIES
One Reel a Week
Sept. 29. Swing Your Partners (Lloyd)...
Oct. 6. No Place Like Jail (Larel).....
Oct. 13. Why Pick on Me? (Lloyd).....
An Enemy of Soap (Toto).....
Nothing But Trouble (Lloyd).....
Just Rambling Along (Laurel).....
Post Travel Series
Sept. 29. St. Kitts, The Mother Colony.....
Oct. 6. Antigas, British West Indies.....
Oct. 13. Barbados, British West Indies.....
On Caribbean Lapped Shores.....
Sumatra .....
THE FAR FLUNG BATTLE LINE
Sept. 29. British Picture.....
Oct. 6. French Colonial Troops.....
Oct. 13. Far Flying Battle Line.....
France's Dusky Warriors.....
Britain's Naval Air Power.....
Polish Troops in France.....
BRITAIN'S BULWARKS
(Official Government Pictures—One reel each)
July 7. No. 9, King George and Queen Mary Witness the Black Arts of War...
July 14. No. 10, With the Policemen of the Allies on the North Sea.....
July 21. No. 11, The Canadians on the Western Front .....
July 28. No. 12, The Canadians at Vimy Ridge .....
"THE HOUSE OF HATE" (ASTRA)
(Serial) Two reels each
(Pearl White, Antonio Moreno, Paul Clerget, John Webb Dillion, Peggy Shaner)
June 2. Thirteenth Episode, Enemy Tliens.
June 9. Fourteenth Episode.
June 16. Fifteenth Episode, The False Signal.
June 23. Sixteenth Episode, The Vial of Death.
June 30. Seventeenth Episode, The Death Switch.
July 7. Eighteenth Episode, At the Pistol's Point.
July 14. Nineteenth Episode, The Hooded Terror.
July 20. Twentieth Episode, Following Old Glory.
"HANDS UP" (ASTRA)
(Serial) Two and and three reels each
(Featuring Ruth Roland and George Cheseboro).
Aug. 18. First Episode, The Bride of the Sun.
Aug. 25. Second Episode, The Missing Prince.
Sept. 1. Third Episode, The Phantom and the Girl.
Sept. 8. Fourth Episode, The Phantom's Trail.
Sept. 22. Sixth Episode, Flames of Vengeance.
Sept. 29. Seventh Episode, Tossed in the Torrent.
Oct. 6. Eighth Episode, The Fatal Jewels.
Oct. 13. Ninth Episode, A Leap Through Space.
Oct. 20. Tenth Episode, The Sun Message.
Oct. 27. Eleventh Episode, The Stranger from the Sea.
Nov. 3. Twelfth Episode, The Silver Book.
WOLVES OF KULTUR (WESTERN PHOTOPLAYS, INC.)
(Serial, Two Reels Each)
Leah Baird, Sheldon Lewis, Charles Hutchison.
Oct. 13. First Episode, The Torture Trap.
Oct. 20. Second Episode, The Iron Claw.
Oct. 27. Third Episode, Trapping Traitors.
Nov. 3. Fourth Episode, The Ride to Death.

Triangle Distributing Corp.

TRIANGLE COMEDIES
Mar. 3. A Discord in A Flat.....1 C
Mar. 3. His Hidden Shame.....1 C
Mar. 10. Wives and Worries.....1 C
Mar. 10. She Didn't Do It.....1 C
KEYSTONE RELEASES
May 19. Newspaper Clippings (Francis McDonald. Claire Anderson) .....2 C
May 26. Are Wives Unreasonable? (Ed. Brady. Claire Anderson).....2 C
June 2. The Poor Fish (Ed Brady, Claire Anderson) .....2 C
June 9. Flapjacks (Geo. Hernandez, Josie Sedgwick, F. McQuarrie).....2 C
June 16. Isn't it Warm? (Bill Dyer, Harry Depp, Claire McDowell).....2 C
June 23. Cupid and the Cop.....2 C
June 30. Pearls Without Price.....2 C

Universal Film Company

Monday, September 2, 1918
NESTOR—Their Sporting Blood (Pat Rooney) .....1 C
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—How Charlie Captured the Kaiser.....1 reel
Wednesday, September 4, 1918
L-KO—Her Whirlwind Wedding (Eva Novack) .....2 C
Monday, September 16, 1918
NESTOR—Pat Turns Detective (Pat Rooney) .....1 C
Wednesday, September 18, 1918
L-KO—A Pullman Blunder (Harry Gribbon, Mae Emery, Helen Lynch, Harry Mann).2 C
Monday, September 23
NESTOR—The Slow Express (Victor Potel(.1 C
Wednesday, September 25
L-KO—Hello Trouble (Babe Hardey and Eva Novak) .....2 C
Monday, September 30
NESTOR—Parted from His Bride (Kerrigan) .....1 C
Wednesday, October 2
L-KO—Nuts and Noodles (Eva Novak and Charlis) from the Orient.....2 C
Monday, October 7
NESTOR—His Royal Nibs (Comedy Cast).1 C
Wednesday, October 9
CENTURY—Untamed Ladies (Alice Howell),2 C
Monday, October 14
NESTOR—Perils of the Parlor (De Haven)..1 C
Wednesday
L-KO—Scars and Bars (Helen Lynch and Dick Smith) .....2 C
Monday
NESTOR—The Love Craze (Florence Lawrence) .....2 C
Wednesday
L-KO—Painless Love (Babe Hardy).....2 C
Monday
NESTOR—A Twentieth Century Pirate (J. Warren Kerrigan) .....1 C
Wednesday
L-KO—King of the Kitchen (Harry Gribbon and Eva Nevak).....2 C
WESTERN AND RAILROAD DRAMAS
Aug. 17. Roped and Tied (Hart-Sedgwick).2 D
Aug. 24. The Whirlwind Finish (Marie Walcamp) .....2 D
Aug. 31. Beating the Limited (Neal Hart)..2 D
Sept. 7. The Flame of the West (Cleo Madison) .....2 D
Sept. 14. Danger Ahead (Helen Gibson)....2 D
Sept. 21. The Human Tiger (Eileen Sedgwick) .....2 D
Sept. 23. Under False Pretenses (Helen Gibson) .....1 D
Sept. 30. All for Gold (Eileen Sedgwick)....2 D
Oct. 12. The Fast Mail (Helen Gibson)....2 D
The Husband Hunter (Neal Hart).2 C
The Dead Shot (Helen Gibson)....2 C
The Silent Sentinel (Helen Gibson).2 D
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY
Released Every Wednesday
UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE
Released Every Monday
UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS
Released Every Saturday
LYONS-MORAN STAR COMEDIES
(One reel each)
Aug. 5. Don't Shoot .....
Aug. 12. Give Her Gas.....
Aug. 19. Damaged Goods .....
Aug. 26. Housecleaning Horrors .....
Sept. 2. The Extra Bridegroom.....
Sept. 16. Nearly a Chaperone.....
Sept. 23. Please Hit Me.....
Sept. 30. Frenzied Film .....
Oct. 7. The Price of a Rotten time.....
Oct. 14. Nailed at the Plate.....
Why Worry? .....
Maid Wanted .....
SERIALS
"THE BULL'S EYE"
Two Reels Each
(Eddie Polo)
May 6. Fourteenth Episode, The Firing Squad.
May 13. Fifteenth Episode, The Stalned Face.
May 20. Sixteenth Episode, Running Wild.
May 27. Seventeenth Episode, In Irons.
June 3. Eighteenth and Last Episode, The Runaway.
"THE LION'S CLAWS"
Two Reels Each
(Marie Walcamp)
July 1. Fourteenth Episode (Hell Let Loose)
July 8. Fifteenth Episode, The Bridge of the Beast.
July 15. Sixteenth Episode, The Jungle Pool.
July 22. Seventeenth Episode (The Danger Pit).
July 29. Eighteenth Episode (Triumph).
"THE BRASS BULLET"
(Two Reels Each)
(Juanita Hansen, Jack Mulhall)
Aug. 19. Third Episode (Locked in the Tower).
Aug. 26. Fourth Episode (Smoked Out).
Sept. 2. Fifth Episode (The Mock Bride).
Sept. 9. Sixth Episode (A Dangerous Honeymoon).
Sept. 16. Seventh Episode (The Depth Bomb).
Sept. 23. Eighth Episode (The Magnetic Bug).
Sept. 30. Ninth Episode (The Room of Flame).
Oct. 7. Tenth Episode (A New Peril).
Oct. 14. Eleventh Episode (Evil Waters).
Twelfth Episode (Caught by Wireless).
Thirteenth Episode ($500 Reward).
FIGHTING FOR FREEDOM (ONE REEL EACH WEEK
Oct. 14. Third Episode (Sensational Capture of Bagdad).
Oct. 21. Fourth Episode (Thrilling Feats of the Royal Flying Corps).
Oct. 28. Fifth Episode (Repairing War's Ravages).
BOY SCOUTS TO THE RESCUE
Universal Special
Apr. 15. Aides of a Nation, No. 1.....2 reels
Apr. 22. On the Trail, No. 2.....2 reels
Apr. 29. The Great Mine Disaster, No. 3.2 reels
May 6. The Spies, No. 4.....2 reels
May 13. Treachery at Sea, No. 5.....2 reels

Vitagraph

BIG V COMEDIES
Aug. 5. Dunces and Dangers.
Aug. 12. Shines and Monkey-Shines.
Aug. 19. Dukes and Dollars.
Aug. 26. Flappers and Friskies.
Sept. 2. Mutts and Motors.
Sept. 9. Capers and Crooks.
Sept. 16. Wild Women and Wild Waves.
Sept. 23. Stripes and Stars.
Sept. 30. Hula-Hulas and Hocus-Pocus.
BIG V SPECIAL COMEDIES
Sept. 23. Huns and Hyphens (Semon).....2 C
Sept. 30. Roofs and Riots.....
Oct. 7. Bears and Bad Men.....
THE WOMAN IN THE WEB (Serial)
(Hedda Nova, J. Frank Glendon)
July 1. The Hidden Menace (Thirteenth Episode).
July 8. The Crash of Fate (Fourteenth Episode).
July 15. Out of the Web (Fifteenth Episode).
A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS (Serial)
(William Duncan, Edith Johnson, Joe Ryan)
July 15. The Snare (First Episode).
July 22. Flames of Peril (Second Episode).
July 29. The Secret Stockade (Third Episode).
Aug. 5. The Precipice of Horror (Fourth Episode).
Aug. 12. The Path of Thrills (Fifth Episode).
Aug. 19. The Spell of Evil (Sixth Episode).
Aug. 26. The Gorge of Destruction (Seventh Episode).
Sept. 2. In the Clutches (Eighth Episode).
Sept. 9. The Escape (Ninth Episode).
Sept. 16. The Secret Tunnel (Tenth Episode).
Sept. 23. The Noose of Death (Eleventh Episode).
Sept. 30. The Tide of Disaster (Twelfth Episode).
Oct. 7. The Engine of Terror (Thirteenth Episode).
Oct. 14. The Decoy (Fourteenth Episode).
Oct. 21. The Sealed Envelope (Fifteenth Episode).
THE IRON TEST (Serial)
(Antonio Moreno, Carol Holloway)
Oct. 21. The Ring of Fire (First Episode).
Oct. 28. The Van of Disaster (Second Episode).
Nov. 4. The Blade of Hate (Third Episode).
Nov. 11. The Noose (Fourth Episode).
Nov. 18. The Tide of Death (Fifth Episode).
Nov. 25. Fiery Fate (Sixth Episode).
DREW COMEDIES
(Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew)
July 15. The Honeymoon Baby .....
July 22. The Cub and the Daisy Chain.....
July 29. Their Agreement .....
Aug. 5. Miss Sticky-Moufie-Kiss .....
Aug. 12. Diplomatic Henry .....
Aug. 19. By Might of His Right.....
Aug. 26. The Professional Patient.....
Sept. 2. Mr. Blink of Bohemia.....
Sept. 9. A Lady in the Library.....
WHARTONS, INC.
The Eagle's Eye (Serial), featuring King Baggott, Marguerite Snow, twenty episodes—two reels each.

Independent Releases

(Continued from page 2684)

CORONA CINEMA COMPANY PRODUCTIONS.
Mother, I Need You.....6 reels
UNITED FILM CORPORATION
Crime of the Hour.....7 reels

W. H. Productions Co.

William S. Hart as Two Gun Man in "The Bargain" .....6 reels
William S. Hart in "The Bandit and the Preacher" .....5 reels
William S. Hart in "The Hell Hound of Alaska" .....5 reels
Also Series of two-reel W. H. Hart productions.
Satan's Pawn (Bessie Barriscale).

Romayne Superfilm Company

Me und Gott or "The Awakening of America," 6 reels

Edward Warren Productions, Inc.

Souls Redeemed.
Weavers of Life.

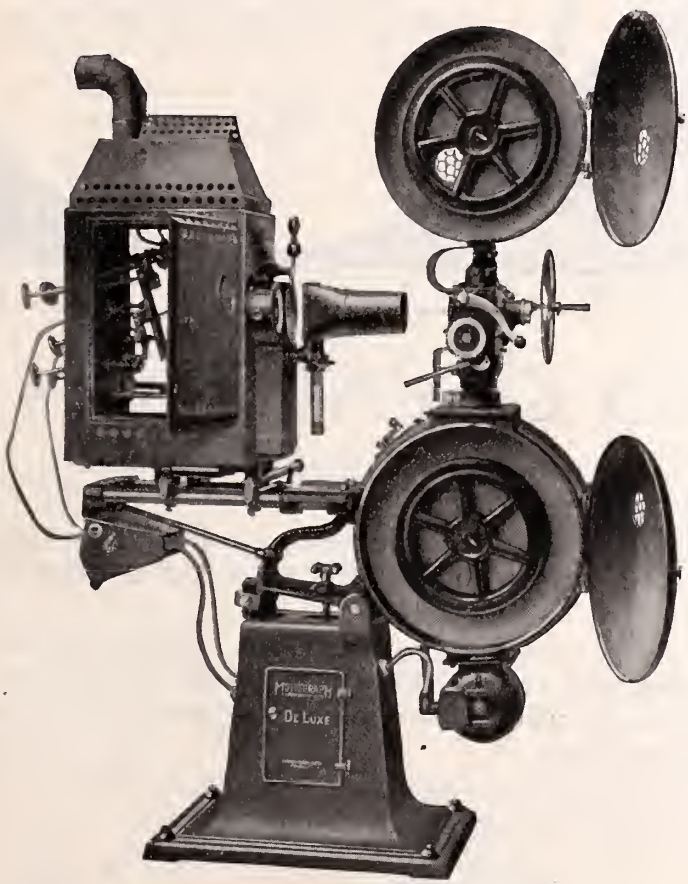
Western Import Co.

Mickey (Mabel Normand).

Equipment Service

UNCLE SAM'S BIG WORD TODAY

"CONSERVATION"



Are you doing your bit by buying equipment that gives perfect results and made to insure long life? Did you ever hear of a MOTIOGRAPH gear wearing out?

Or a slide disc showing wear? NO—Even dealers, in towns where 60% of the projectors are MOTIOGRAPH, don't carry these parts in stock. WHY?—The users don't need them.

A saving of steel is just what Uncle Sam wants to help WIN THE WAR. Over 500 MOTIOGRAPHS used in United States Cantonments. Many of them have now been used over a year and not 1% sent to factory for inspection or repair.

A logical reason why MOTIOGRAPHS were selected.
England has placed a big order for MOTIOGRAPHS for entertaining her soldiers.

They, too, investigated.

You don't take a chance on Motiograph—they have been thoroughly tried by such theatres as "New California," San Francisco; "The Howard," Chicago; "New Dayton," Dayton, Ohio; "The Duplex," Detroit, and many others.

(Write for Motiograph De Luxe Booklet)

THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MANUFACTURING COMPANY

561 West Randolph Street Chicago, Illinois

Projection Music Laboratory Studio Theatre

ESSENTIAL-for Propaganda, Education and Amusement

W
WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC

A WISE GOVERNMENT RULING

The judgment of Government officials that motion pictures are important factors in winning the war, has resulted in classifying this industry as essential. A more gratifying form of recognition could not have been bestowed and it should serve as a reminder of the importance of continuing the good work. Right here, we want to remind you of the importance of good projection. Why should the operator be handicapped? Why should your patrons be forced to strain their eyes on dim and flickering pictures, when will transform that flickering alternating current into steady direct current that makes the operator's job easier and the patron's delight greater? Write for our folder Number 4343.

WESTINGHOUSE
MOTION PICTURE EQUIPMENTS

Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co.
East Pittsburgh, Pa.

Westinghouse

BETTER SATISFACTION

This notice is addressed to the minority of our subscribers who do not regularly answer advertisements. The service described is, however, open and free to all who wish our help.

We do not wish to discourage you from writing direct to our advertisers; in fact, you do not do enough of it for your own good, but we do want you to get the proper goods to fit your needs.

There are many, perhaps you, who are too busy to write each company separately; therefore we are offering our co-operation, which means that you will receive full information on any subject which you may designate by merely filling out the coupon, designating by numbers the goods in which you are interested.

Your inquiries thus received will be forwarded to reputable manufacturers, even though the goods on which you wish information are not advertised in the "News."

1. Advertising Novelties
2. Architectural Suggestions
3. Arc Controllers
4. Brass Rails
5. Building Material
6. Cameras—Camera Attachments —Camera Lenses
7. Carbons
8. Chairs
19. Chair Upholstery
10. Change Making Machines
11. Condensers
12. Converters and Transformers
13. Developing Material
14. Developing and Printing
15. Developing Tanks
16. Disinfectants and Perfumes
17. Economizers
18. Electric Signs
29. Elevators and Escalators
20. Exterior Lighting
21. Film Cabinets
22. Film Carriers
23. Film Cement
24. Film Cleaners
25. Film Dyes
26. Film Stock
27. Fire Extinguishers
28. Floral Decorations
29. Gas Engines
30. Generators (See Gas Engine Card)
31. Heralds
32. Interior Lighting
33. Interior Telephones
34. Laboratory Apparatus
35. Lenses
36. Lighting Sets
37. Lithographers
38. Lobby Display
39. Lobby Novelties
40. Metal Ceilings
41. Motors
42. Mural Paintings
43. Musical Instrument
44. Paints
45. Perforating Machines
46. Printing Machines
47. Programs
48. Projection Booths
49. Projection Lenses
50. Projection Machines
51. Projection Machines (Homes)
52. Rectifiers
53. Reels
54. Rewinders
55. Rheostats
56. Safety Exit Locks
57. Screens
58. Slide Ink
59. Slides
60. Slip Covers
61. Stage Setting
62. Studio Lights
63. Tickets
64. Ticket Selling Machine
65. Ticket Taking Machine
66. Tripods
67. Uniforms
68. Vacuum Cleaners
69. Ventilating and Fans

Gentlemen: Please send me descriptive matter on the subjects marked in the above lists.

Name.....

Theatre.....

City.....

State.....

Equipment Service

NEWS Offers Cash Prizes

For Best Articles on the Practical Phases of Motion Picture Projection

IT is the aim of Motion Picture News to make every one of its various departments of the utmost assistance, value and interest to every reader, and the Projection Department, like all of the other departments, is conducted with this end solely in view.

While the Projection Department has received the unqualified endorsement of thousands of exhibitors, operators and technicians in the industry, it is nevertheless the desire of the News to still further heighten the interest of Projection Department readers by the publication of intimate and practical articles, contributed by the readers, which will show each one what the other is accomplishing, and will promote discussion and the interchange of ideas.

During the last two years many changes have occurred, in the personnel of the Motion Picture Industry, and many former projectionists are now engaged in other fields of endeavor. On the other hand, countless new men have stepped into their places in the projection-rooms of the theatres, and it is the purpose of the present contest to acquaint all the workers now in this field with the thoughts and accomplishments of the others engaged in similar work, through the medium of practical articles, based on personal experience, and prepared by the various projectionists themselves.

Conditions of the Contest

(A) Subject of Articles

Motion Picture News invites all persons engaged in any branch of motion picture projection work to submit articles on any or all of the following subjects:

(1.) The Design, Location and Equipment of the Modern Projection Room.

(2.) The Operation, Maintenance and Efficiency of Portable Current Generating Outfits, including a description of the outfit or outfits considered.

(3.) Wiring Plans and Specifications for a Two-Machine Projection Room Installation, including any other projection apparatus or complementary electrical appliances found desirable.

(4.) Special Devices Used in the Projection Room.

All articles submitted must be in the hands of the Technical Editor on November 30th, 1918, which is the closing date of the competition.

(B) The Prizes

Motion Picture News will pay:

(1.) For the article on each of the above named subjects adjudged best by the Technical Editor, $10.00 in cash.

(2.) For the article on each of the above named subjects adjudged second best by the Technical Editor, $5.00 in cash.

(3.) Motion Picture News assumes the privilege of purchasing any of the other articles submitted on any of the above named subjects, which are not adjudged best or second best on the respective subjects, and for every such article accepted will pay $3.00 in cash.

(4.) In the event of a "tie," i. e., if any two or more articles on any of the above named subjects are adjudged best, or second best, respectively, an amount equal to the full price (as above mentioned) will be paid for each of the articles which are adjudged equally good, and this applies alike both to articles adjudged best and second-best.

(5.) The factors considered in judging the respective merits of the articles on each of the subjects mentioned will be the completeness and accuracy with which the respective subjects are treated by the authors of the articles, and in the case of subject No. 4 (Special Devices Used in the Projection Room) on the novelty and originality of the devices described.

General Rules

Governing the Submission of Articles

(a) All articles, to be eligible for possible purchase, must be in the hands of Motion Picture News by November 30, 1918, which, as above stated, is the closing date of the contest.

(b) Articles must be submitted written on one side of the paper only. They may be either in the form of a letter or of a composition, but should be written legibly in order to assure their proper consideration.

(c) All descriptions of apparatus and devices must be accompanied by suitable photographs or drawings (in black ink) showing comprehensively the appearance or special features of such apparatus and devices, and all wiring systems and methods must likewise be accompanied by diagrams (drawn with black ink), which clearly show their arrangement and principles of operation.

(d) Every separate photograph and diagram submitted in conjunction with an article must bear a number or letter, such as: Fig. 1, Fig. 2, or Fig. A, Fig. B, etc., and each photograph or diagram, thus numbered or lettered, must be referred to by its proper number or letter in preparing an article.

(e) All articles submitted, and each and every photograph and diagram accompanying them, must be clearly labelled with the name and address of the sender. Articles not purchased by Motion Picture News will be returned to their authors, upon request, within thirty days after the closing of the contest.

General Information

Regarding the Contest

It is proposed to publish all of the articles purchased in the Projection Department of Motion Picture News, which assures their being read by a wide circle of projectionists and others interested in motion picture work.

Each author of a purchased and published article will be accredited with the authorship of the same, and no editorial comments will be made, at the time of publication, upon any of the articles published.

The published articles will, however, be open to comment or criticism by any reader, and if necessary such comments or criticisms will be supplemented editorially when published in the Projection Department of Motion Picture News.

It is suggested that if prospective contestants are able to do so they should prepare articles on more than one of the subjects named above; in fact, it is to their interest to submit articles on as many of the given subjects as possible, for by doing this they increase their chances of having one or more of their articles adjudged best or second best, and purchased according to the provisions of the offer. It must be borne in mind in this connection, however, that only one of the subjects forming the basis of the competition may be dealt with at length in any one article. If two or more of the designated subjects are to be treated by a contestant these must be submitted in the form of the corresponding number of separate articles, each complying with all the requirements previously laid down.

How to Submit Articles

Articles prepared in compliance with the foregoing requirements should be addressed to the Technical Editor, Motion Picture News, 729 Seventh avenue, New York City, and should be mailed in time to be received on, or prior to, the closing date of the contest, which is November 30, 1918.

E. K. Gillett.

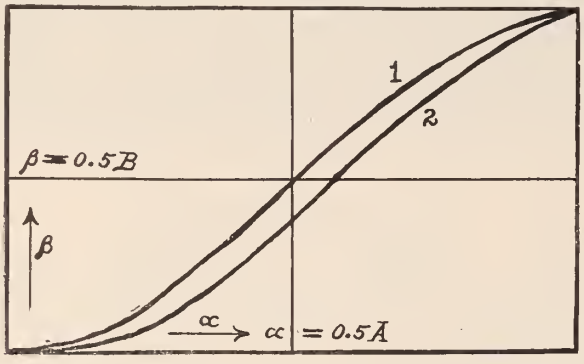
Equipment Operating Projection Questions Answered

Chapters on Intermittents—III

The Star-Wheel with Oblique Slots, or So-Called Eccentric Star

ALTHOUGH few among the enormous number of mechanical movements which have been proposed or patented as suitable for the intermittent feeding of the film in motion picture projectors ever reach the stage of practical development and extensive use, we have on the present occasion, to describe an interesting modification of the well-known star-wheel, or Maltese-cross, which has been rendered entirely practical by the Pathéscope Company of America, and which has stood the test of extended practical use in the Premier Pathéscope portable projector.

This movement, termed by some an eccentric-star, resembles somewhat the conventional four-slot star-wheel, but instead of the slots being disposed radially, they are disposed obliquely in the star-wheel now under consideration, each slot thus making an angle with the corresponding radius of the star. The cam is of the usual one-pin variety, but as a ratio of 6:1 is attained by this movement as constructed by the Pathéscope Company, the radius of the cam is greater than the radius of the star, instead of both radii being equal as in the case of the customary four-slot star with angular movement of 90° per shift.



As the star with oblique slots, used as a projection machine intermittent, is doubtless a somewhat new idea to the majority of the readers, it will be advisable before describing the Pathéscope movement in detail, to explain the general characteristics of the star-wheel movement with oblique slots, and we cannot do better in this connection than to quote the brief analysis given by Dr. Carl Forch of the German Patent Office.[1].

Dr. Forch says:

"It is by no means necessary to place the slots of a Maltese-cross radially, for one can also allow them to run obliquely[2], but in such manner that the slots are situated tangential to the course of the cam-pin upon its entrance, while upon its emergence the pin traverses the slot at an angle, which may be about 60°. It thus results that the maximum velocity will not have been already attained at the middle of the period of engagement, but somewhat later. The acceleration will consequently be less in the first part of the period of advancement, and therefore the retardation in the second short interval of the period of movement will be correspondingly greater. As the diagram for a star with six (6) slots shows, the attainment of a somewhat favorable advancement of the film strip may easily be permitted with this arrangement in spite of the fact that the radii of the star-wheel and the path of the cam pin [distance from the center of cam to center of pin] are the same. The diagram represents the alteration in the course of the angle β caused by placing the slots obliquely. The curve 1 gives the values of the angle β in their dependence upon α for a movement of the following type of construction:

$A = 45°$ $\quad R_1 = 1{,}4142 = R_2$
$B = 30°$ $\quad S = 1{,}9315$
$\gamma = 105°$

[Editor's Note: According to Dr. Forch's system of notation: α represents the angle between a straight line drawn from center of star to center of cam, and the cam pin, at any arbitrary position of the pin.

β represents the angle between a straight line drawn from center of star to center of cam, and the star-slot engaged by the cam pin at the arbitrary angle α.

A represents ½ the angle traversed by the pin during its passage through one slot.

B represents ½ the angular distance between two slots.

γ represents the angle which each star-slot forms with the radius of the cam at the position where the cam pin commences to enter a slot.

R_1 represents the radius of the star.

R_2 represents the radius of the path of rotation of the cam-pin.

S is given by $\sqrt{\frac{R_1^2}{R_2^2} - 2\frac{R_1}{R_2}\cos\gamma + 1}$

"The six slots are directed toward the center of the star-wheel [i. e., radial]. The curve 2 gives the values of β for the same star with the modification that the slots are inclined about 15°. Thus they again run tangential to the course of the cam-pin when it comes into engagement. While curve 1 runs symmetrical to the two lines $\alpha = 0.5A$ and $\beta = 0.5$ B [see diagram], for curve 2 [star with inclined slots] the value $\beta = 0.5$ B will first be attained at $\alpha = 0.58$ A. The retardation of the movement of the star-wheel occuring in the second part of the curve is greater than the acceleration occurring in the first part. The velocity and acceleration of the film strip are, accordingly, less during the period of increasing velocity of movement, and greater during the period of decreasing velocity than in the case of curve 1 [radial slots]. A decrease in the wear on the film strip will undoubtedly be attained hereby, and it appears not unlikely that useful forms of Maltese-cross movements, as employed up to the present, can be based on this method."

Coming now to the description of the star-wheel with oblique slots used in the Premier Pathéscope, its form and characteristic action, and for comparison that of an ordinary four-slot star also, are exceedingly well shown by the accompanying diagrams, which were especially prepared for this article by the engineers of the Pathéscope Company.

Firstly, it may be well to repeat that the Pathéscope, star-wheel has only four slots, instead of the six slots considered by Dr. Forch in his analysis of this principle. As, however, his remarks apply in substance to the four-slot star likewise, we may now proceed to our description of the latter.

In the uppermost of the two appended drawings is shown the path of the cam-pin in traversing the slot of an ordinary four-slot star-wheel, which, as is well known, is turned one quarter of a revolution by an angular movement of the cam-pin of 90° extent. In the diagram, the location of the cam-pin at each successive 3° interval throughout its passage to the bottom of the star slot is shown, and the velocity of rotation imparted to the star wheel by the pin at each of these successive 3° intervals, is plotted on the accompanying curve, where the ordinates represent velocity of rotation of the star-wheel and the abscissae represent the corresponding time increments or distances to which the pin has entered the slot. As the velocity of rotation of the usual four-slot, or 90°, star-wheel is symmetrical to the half-interval (45°) of each shift, the velocity thus dies down from the maximum (at 45°) to zero (when the pin leaves the slot) in a manner ex-

(Continued on page 2692)

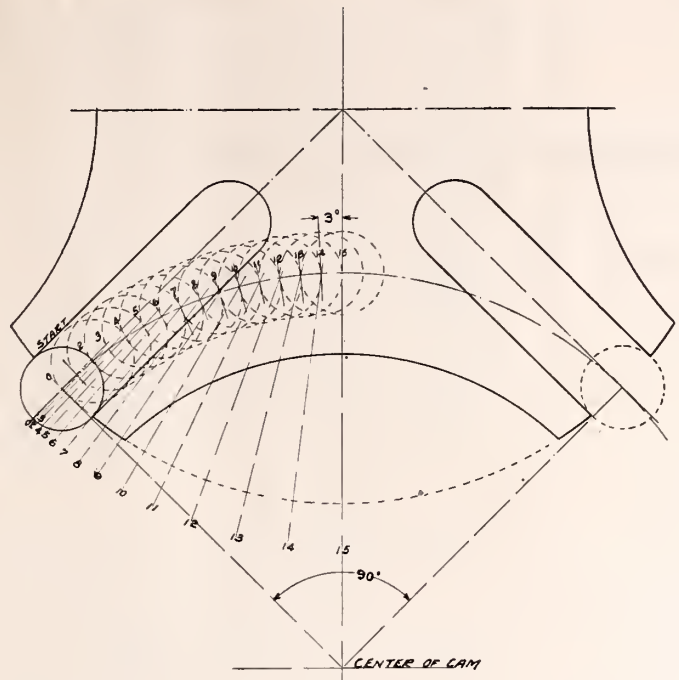
[1] Der Kinematograph, Leipzig, 1913, pp. 19-20.

[2] French Patent No. 383,200, A. Ch. Grosmangin.



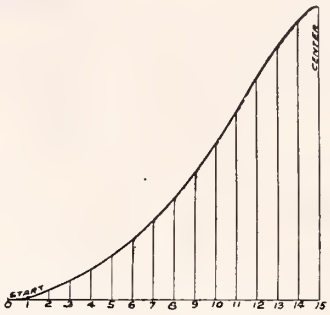


DIAGRAM & VELOCITY CURVE
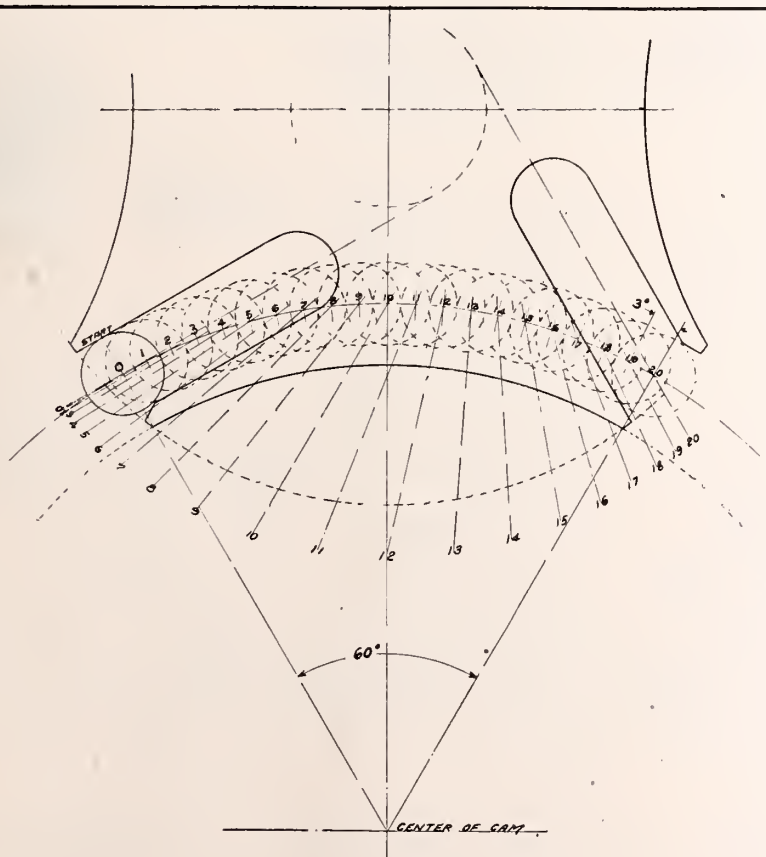
4 TO 1 CAM PIN & STAR
SCALE 10 TO 1
PATHE'SCOPE CO. OF AMERICA INC.



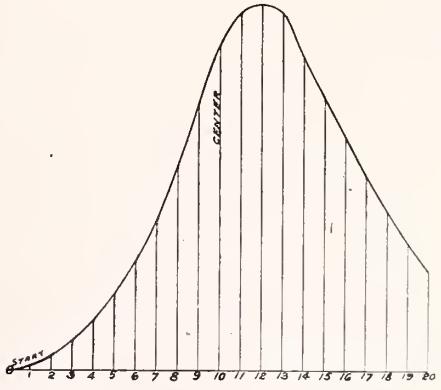


DIAGRAM & VELOCITY CURVE
6 TO 1 CAM PIN & STAR
Scale 10 to 1
PATHE'SCOPE CO. OF AMERICA INC.

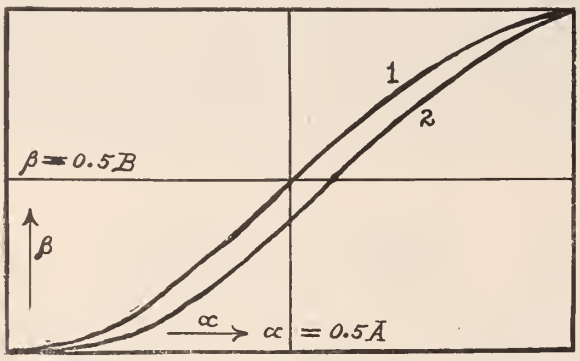
Equipment Operating Projection Questions Answered

Chapters on Intermittents—III

The Star-Wheel with Oblique Slots, or So-Called Eccentric Star

ALTHOUGH few among the enormous number of mechanical movements which have been proposed or patented as suitable for the intermittent feeding of the film in motion picture projectors ever reach the stage of practical development and extensive use, we have on the present occasion, to describe an interesting modification of the well-known star-wheel, or Maltese-cross, which has been rendered entirely practical by the Pathéscope Company of America, and which has stood the test of extended practical use in the Premier Pathéscope portable projector.

This movement, termed by some an eccentric-star, resembles somewhat the conventional four-slot star-wheel, but instead of the slots being disposed radially, they are disposed obliquely in the star-wheel now under consideration, each slot thus making an angle with the corresponding radius of the star. The cam is of the usual one-pin variety, but as a ratio of 6:1 is attained by this movement as constructed by the Pathéscope Company, the radius of the cam is greater than the radius of the star, instead of both radii being equal as in the case of the customary four-slot star with angular movement of 90° per shift.



As the star with oblique slots, used as a projection machine intermittent, is doubtless a somewhat new idea to the majority of the readers, it will be advisable before describing the Pathéscope movement in detail, to explain the general characteristics of the star-wheel movement with oblique slots, and we cannot do better in this connection than to quote the brief analysis given by Dr. Carl Forch of the German Patent Office.[1]

Dr. Forch says:

"It is by no means necessary to place the slots of a Maltese-cross radially, for one can also allow them to run obliquely[2], but in such manner that the slots are situated tangential to the course of the cam-pin upon its entrance, while upon its emergence the pin traverses the slot at an angle, which may be about 60°. It thus results that the maximum velocity will not have been already attained at the middle of the period of engagement, but somewhat later. The acceleration will consequently be less in the first part of the period of advancement, and therefore the retardation in the second short interval of the period of movement will be correspondingly greater. As the diagram for a star with six (6) slots shows, the attainment of a somewhat favorable advancement of the film strip may easily be permitted with this arrangement in spite of the fact that the radii of the star-wheel and the path of the cam pin [distance from the center of cam to center of pin] are the same. The diagram represents the alteration in the course of the angle β caused by placing the slots obliquely. The curve 1 gives the values of the angle β in their dependence upon α for a movement of the following type of construction:

$A = 45°$ $\quad R_1 = 1{,}4142 = R_2$
$B = 30°$ $\quad S = 1{,}9315$
$\gamma = 105°$

[Editor's Note: According to Dr. Forch's system of notation: α represents the angle between a straight line drawn from center of star to center of cam, and the cam pin, at any arbitrary position of the pin.

β represents the angle between a straight line drawn from center of star to center of cam, and the star-slot engaged by the cam pin at the arbitrary angle α.

A represents ½ the angle traversed by the pin during its passage through one slot.

B represents ½ the angular distance between two slots.

γ represents the angle which each star-slot forms with the radius of the cam at the position where the cam pin commences to enter a slot.

R_1 represents the radius of the star.

R_2 represents the radius of the path of rotation of the cam-pin.

S is given by $\sqrt{\frac{R_1^2}{R_2^2} - 2\frac{R_1}{R_2}\cos\gamma + 1}$

"The six slots are directed toward the center of the star-wheel [i. e., radial]. The curve 2 gives the values of β for the same star with the modification that the slots are inclined about 15°. Thus they again run tangential to the course of the cam-pin when it comes into engagement. While curve 1 runs symmetrical to the two lines $\alpha = 0.5A$ and $\beta = 0.5$ B [see diagram], for curve 2 [star with inclined slots] the value $\beta = 0.5$ B will first be attained at $\alpha = 0.58$ A. The retardation of the movement of the star-wheel occuring in the second part of the curve is greater than the acceleration occurring in the first part. The velocity and acceleration of the film strip are, accordingly, less during the period of increasing velocity of movement, and greater during the period of decreasing velocity than in the case of curve 1 [radial slots]. A decrease in the wear on the film strip will undoubtedly be attained hereby, and it appears not unlikely that useful forms of Maltese-cross movements, as employed up to the present, can be based on this method."

Coming now to the description of the star-wheel with oblique slots used in the Premier Pathéscope, its form and characteristic action, and for comparison that of an ordinary four-slot star also, are exceedingly well shown by the accompanying diagrams, which were especially prepared for this article by the engineers of the Pathéscope Company.

Firstly, it may be well to repeat that the Pathéscope, star-wheel has only four slots, instead of the six slots considered by Dr. Forch in his analysis of this principle. As, however, his remarks apply in substance to the four-slot star likewise, we may now proceed to our description of the latter.

In the uppermost of the two appended drawings is shown the path of the cam-pin in traversing the slot of an ordinary four-slot star-wheel, which, as is well known, is turned one quarter of a revolution by an angular movement of the cam-pin of 90° extent. In the diagram, the location of the cam-pin at each successive 3° interval throughout its passage to the bottom of the star slot is shown, and the velocity of rotation imparted to the star wheel by the pin at each of these successive 3° intervals, is plotted on the accompanying curve, where the ordinates represent velocity of rotation of the star-wheel and the abscissae represent the corresponding time increments or distances to which the pin has entered the slot. As the velocity of rotation of the usual four-slot, or 90°, star-wheel is symmetrical to the half-interval (45°) of each shift, the velocity thus dies down from the maximum (at 45°) to zero (when the pin leaves the slot) in a manner ex-

(Continued on page 2692)

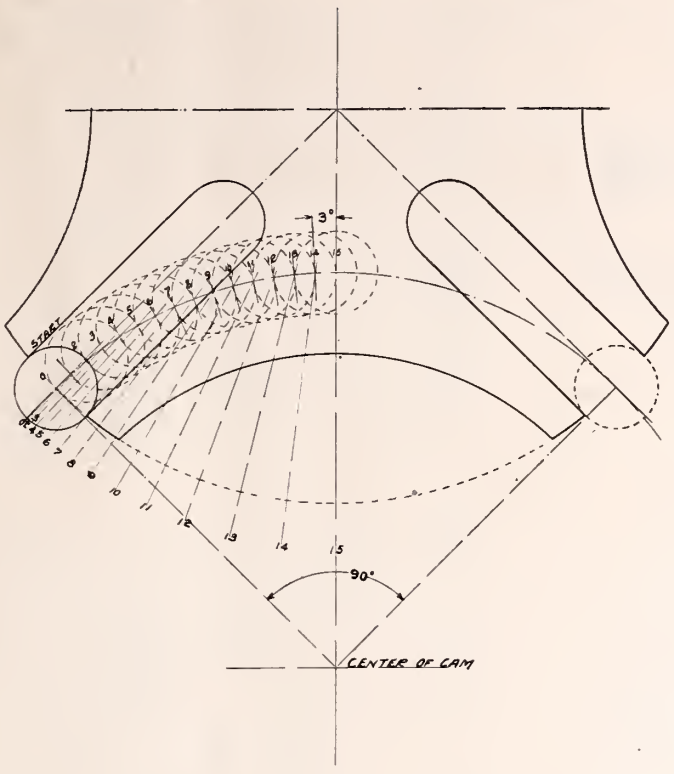
[1] Der Kinematograph, Leipzig, 1913, pp. 19-20.

[2] French Patent No. 383,200, A. Ch. Grosmangin.



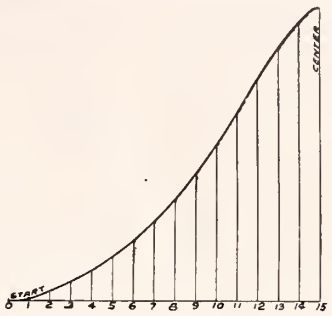


DIAGRAM & VELOCITY CURVE
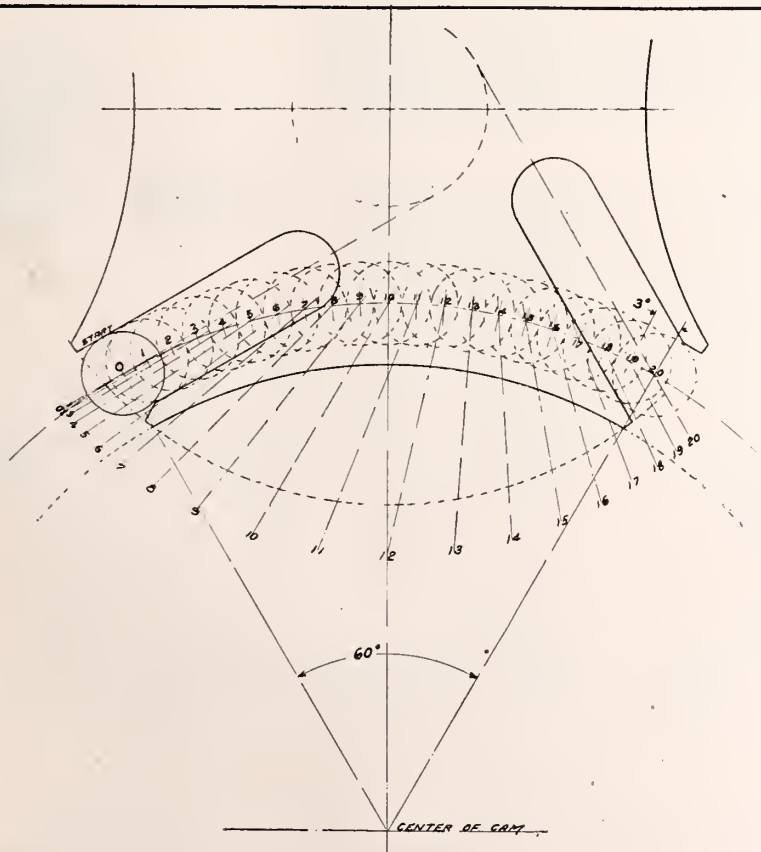
4 TO 1 CAM PIN & STAR
SCALE 10 TO 1
PATHE'SCOPE CO. OF AMERICA INC.



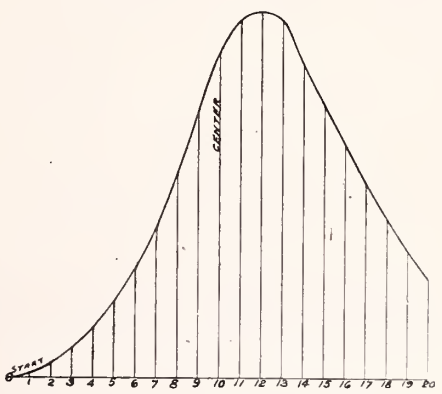


DIAGRAM & VELOCITY CURVE
6 TO 1 CAM PIN & STAR
Scale 10 to 1
PATHE'SCOPE CO. OF AMERICA INC.

The Essential Requirements
for Improved Projection
are
SPEER CARBONS

SPEER Alterno Combinations
for A.C. Work
and
SPEER Hold-Ark Combinations
for D.C. Work

Produce Incomparable Results

Write today for descriptive folders. Read the unbiased opinions of operators

Place an order now with your Supply House

"The Carbons with a Guarantee"

Manufactured by
SPEER CARBON COMPANY
ST. MARYS, PA.

"Don't Buy Yet, There's Plenty on Hand"

this expression is a serious mistake at the present time, prices on all goods you HAVE TO USE are advancing every day, take advantage of present low prices.
We have a large stock of all goods you need and will give you the advantage of prevailing prices.

Order Today

AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY
Largest Exclusive Dealers to the Motion Picture Trade
300-302 Mallers Building 5 South Wabash Avenue
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS
Dealers in Motiograph, Standard and Simplex Moving Picture Machines, National Carbons, Minusa Screens and Everything for the Theatre
WE SELL ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN

PERFECTED PROJECTION

THE automatic self-adjustment of the DeVry Portable Motion Picture Projector is only one small feature of many which witness to its completeness. No detail has been overlooked in making the DeVry the strongest, the lightest, and the most compact self-contained projector on the market. It is without a single separate part.

Adopted by the United States Government in all Departments where motion pictures are used, and by the American Red Cross, at home and abroad. Used also in all Y. M. C. A. work, on transports, at home and "over there."

Write today for our Catalogue H-5

The DeVry Corporation
109½ North Wells Street
Chicago, U. S. A.

actly inverse to that of its increase when the pin enters the slot; thus the velocity curve is symmetrical to the 45° mark (represented by 15 divisions of 3° each, in the diagram), and it is only necessary to plot the initial half of the curve. The characteristic velocity of rotation at successive intervals during one shift for a four-slot star has been considered in detail in an earlier article (Chapters on Intermittents—I, News of April 20, 1918, page 2,432), and is faithfully represented by the curve here reproduced, so we may next consider in detail the subject of the present article—the four-slot star-wheel with obliquely placed slots.

In the lower of the two large diagrams is shown a four-slot star-wheel of the same radius as the one figured above, but the star-wheel in the lower diagram has each of its slots inclined at an angle of 21°-50′ to the direction which would be taken by strictly radial slots. This is the type of so-called eccentric star designed by the Pathéscope Company of America, and now used successfully in the Premier Pathéscope. This Pathéscope movement has, according to the usual terminology, a ratio of 6:1, and to attain this it was of course necessary that the radius of the cam, or pin-wheel, be greater than the radius of the star-wheel. The radius of the Pathéscope cam is, consequently, about 1.19 times that of the star.

It is seen, upon inspection of the lower drawing, that the position of the cam-pin is shown at every 3° interval throughout its entire passage through the star-slot, twenty successive positions of the pin being depicted, since the movement has a 6:1 ratio, which means that an angular rotation of the cam-pin through 60° is required to accomplish one complete shift, or quarter-revolution, of the star-wheel. The obliquely placed slots of the Pathéscope star are seen to be tangential to the path of rotation of the cam-pin upon its entrance, but with this arrangement of the slots the pin cannot make a radial emergence, and to permit the pin to pass out of the slot it is necessary to relieve, or bevel off, one extremity of each slot, as is clearly shown in the diagram.

The velocity curve for the shift interval of the star with oblique slots is shown, plotted in the same manner as that for the star with radial slots above, but in the present case the velocity curve represents the speed of rotation of the star at 3° intervals throughout a complete shift or quarter-revolution. This curve and a brief consideration of the mechanical action of the star-wheel with obliquely placed slots makes it at once apparent that the characteristic action of this movement is very different from that of the star with radial slots, and it is also seen that the velocity curve of the eccentric star is by no means symmetrical to the halfway position (30°) of the path of the cam-pin for one shift.

It will be recalled that as the cam-pin enters the radially placed slot of the customary (90°) star-wheel, the velocity of rotation increases steadily to a maximum (corresponding to a 45° angular movement of the cam pin), which is attained when the pin reaches the bottom of the slot, and then decreases to zero in an exactly inverse manner as the pin leaves the slot. With the Pathéscope movement, however, the velocity of rotation of the star-wheel is distributed over the shift interval in quite a different manner. Upon comparing the velocity curves for the two movements it is noted that the velocity of rotation of the star with oblique slots does not increase so rapidly as that of the star with radial slots during the first stages of the cam-pin's entrance into the star-slot, and moreover, the velocity of rotation has not yet reached its maximum when the cam-pin has traversed one-half the angular distance necessary to accomplish a complete shift, but the maximum velocity is attained when the cam-pin has traversed an angular distance of 36°. Following this the speed of rotation of the star commences, of course, to decrease, but not at such a rapid rate as in the case of the star with radial slots, and instead of coming gradually to rest, as does the usual 90° star-wheel, the Pathéscope star, with oblique slots, comes abruptly to rest when the cam-pin leaves the slot at the end of the 60° angular path which it traverses in accomplishing one complete shift.

The reason for the difference in the velocity distribution during the shift intervals of the star with radial slots and the one with oblique slots, respectively, becomes evident upon comparing the arc of rotation of the cam-pin as it traverses the slot in each case. It is seen from the drawings that the pin strikes the side of the radial slot much sooner after its entrance than is the case for the oblique slot, thus the lower initial velocity of the Pathéscope star-wheel is accounted for, as is also the attainment of its maximum velocity at a period somewhat later than the half interval of the shift.

Upon preliminary consideration it might seem that on account of the sudden and positive manner in which the Pathéscope star-wheel comes to rest at the end of each shift an unsteady screen picture would result, but this is not at all the case in practice, because the pictures projected by a machine equipped with this movement appear steady even when the machine is operated at more than the normal speed, which is readily explained in the following manner. In its travel past the aperture of the projector the film is pressed upon by tension springs and the effect of this tension, or force, applied to the film must naturally be to retard, or impede, its movement at all times. The force applied to the film by the sprocket teeth causes it to move downward, as it is in excess of that applied to the film by the tension springs, but when the intermittent suddenly stops moving, the film becomes entirely subject to the force exerted upon it by the springs, and as no other force is then acting upon the film it is naturally brought to a standstill at once. Only in the case of a very heavily constructed intermittent movement is the final inertia sufficiently great to allow the film to overcome proper gate-tension after the movement has completed a shift, and this possible cause of unsteadiness applies to all types of intermittents used on projectors having the customary aperture plate and tension arrangements.

It is well known that with an intermittent movement of high ratio the revolving shutter blades may be considerably narrower than is required when the 90° star-wheel is used, and the narrower the shutter blades, the more light may be projected to the screen. It is sometimes assumed that if the shutter blades may be considerably reduced in width a great decrease in flicker is thereby also attained, but this is not necessarily the case, because the elimination of flicker depends upon the size and arrangement of the shutter blades and openings, and a shutter may be so devised as to give a large amount of light, on the screen, but, due to its design, it may cause a considerable and incurable flicker.

For a 6:1 intermittent whose velocity of rotation is symmetrical with respect to the time interval required in making a shift, the cut-off blade of the revolving shutter would require to be at least 65° in angular extent (60° period of movement plus 5° for preliminary covering of the aperture), but due to the very low velocity of the Pathéscope star-wheel in the initial stage of its movement it has been found possible to remove 20° from the leading edge of the cut-off blade of the revolving shutter without introducing any noticeable travel ghost when the Premier Pathéscope is operated at normal speed (60 feet per minute), and, indeed, a troublesome amount of travel ghost is not even apparent when the machine is operated at far below normal speed.

This has permitted the use, on the Premier Pathéscope, of a symmetrically arranged shutter having three openings, each of 75° angular extent, which are separated by three blades, each of 45° angular extent, the result being the elimination of flicker at normal projecting speed and the transmission, by the shutter, of 62.5 per cent of the light received from the objective. By accepting the amount of flicker inseparable from the use of an unsymmetrical shutter it is possible to transmit 70 per cent of the light received from the objective.

The Pathéscope intermittent is readily adjustable to take up wear or lost motion, by means of a single eccentric adjustment forming part of the casing in which the movement operates. By loosening the screws which hold the intermittent casing in situ, and manipulating the adjustment screw, the cam is brought into proper locking contact with the star, whereupon the adjustment screw is tightened and the casing again secured by its screws to the mechanism frame.

Some mechanics have condemned the star-wheel with oblique slots as not being rugged enough for practical use, because they claim that it is constructionally weak, due to one side of each slot being thinner than the other side. This objection falls to the ground, however, to all practical intents, because a study of worn-out star-wheels having oblique slots shows that the wear and the greatest strain occurs at the center of the thick side of the slot, as can be inferred in advance after a study of the mechanical action of the movement. The Pathéscope Company of America are, therefore, to be congratulated on having made this efficient type of intermittent movement a practical success.

Read Details of Operators' Contest
On Page 2689

SILVERTIP

THE COLUMBIA-SILVERTIP COMBINATION

For Direct Current Projection

The "punch" is the picture's vital element. From the standpoint of the exhibitor, the projection of the picture on the screen so as to please the audience forms the most important part. Good projection is entirely dependent upon an efficient and reliable light source. The Columbia-Silvertip combination is standard for direct current projection, offering many advantages in the form of high current carrying capacity, pure white light, absolutely steady screen illumination, strong penetrating light, and a rugged flexible light source.

Note: The Columbia-Silvertip combination is for direct current only

For Alternating Current Projection

WHITE A. C. SPECIAL CARBONS ARE GIVING SATISFACTION IN A GREAT MANY HIGH CLASS THEATERS THE COUNTRY OVER. THEY GIVE A PURE WHITE LIGHT OF HIGH INTENSITY. A SIMPLE CHANGE OF CARBONS DOES THE TRICK.

No new apparatus necessary

WRITE FOR OUR CIRCULARS

NATIONAL CARBON COMPANY, Inc., Cleveland, Ohio

Camera Laboratory — Picture Making — Studio Technique

Reversing Cine Negatives

Mr. Verner Hicks, Marion, Ill., writes as follows: "Two or three years ago I owned an amatcur motion picture camera, and at that time some parties claimed that they had a process for reversing negatives to positives. As far as I know, however, this was not a success. Will you please advise through the News columns if anything has ever turned up in this line? I would like very much to have a camera again, but, as I never have use for the negative, I would like some means of reversing it to a positive. I note in the Electrical Experimenter for October in a description of new developments in "Telephotography" that a prism can be used for producing a positive or negative as desired, so why not use this same principle in motion picture making? If this can ever be worked out it will be a big thing to theatres and camera owners in general.

In reply: Several years ago we published some selected formulæ and directions for converting cine negatives into positives by chemical processing. We stated at the time that high-class results, as regards the quality of the positive, were not to be expected, and, as this is confirmed by experimenters with the process, we have ceased to recommend the practice of chemically converting negatives into positives.

Positives produced from cine negatives by chemical reversal seldom, if ever, show satisfactorily clear highlights, and the gradation also suffers in the transition, while the soft working characteristics of thc rapid negative emulsion renders the production of a vigorous and snappy positive image out of the question. If, moreover, the amateur, or occasional maker of motion pictures, has such a cheap method of securing the positive placed at his disposal, he will be inclined to do a lot of promiscuous and unconsidered work, which is to be discouraged at all times. Our attitude is that if a scene is worth recording at all, the negative may again prove of use or value at some future time, and this conclusion as well as the unsatisfactory character of the results by chemical reversal appear to us sufficient to eliminate the method from consideration.

Due to a misapplication of the word "telephotography" in the October issue of the Electrical Experimenter our correspondent has reached a mistaken conclusion regarding the use of a prism in the production of a negative or a positive. The process described in the above mentioned periodical is really a process of "Photo-Telegraphy," which is very different from "Telephotography," properly so called. Photo-telegraphy is more generally known as the "telegraphic transmission of photographs," which phrase is self-explanatory, while telephotography is photography with a telescopic optical system instead of the usual type of objective.

The prism referred to by the inventor of the system of "photo-telegraphy" described in the Electrical Experimenter for October is a polarizer, or Nichol prism. The plane-polarized light passing through this Nichol traverses the core of a solenoid and, after being analyzed by a second Nichol, falls upon a sensitive photographic film mounted on a revolving drum. This procedure, it is apparent, has nothing in common with ordinary photography or cinematography, and the production of a negative or a positive, respectively, in the "photo-telegraphic" system mentioned (which probably only exists on paper) is governed, according to its inventor, by the condition of the solenoid, i. e., by whether the solenoid is energized or not. Thus the correspondent will see that no reversing action is attributed to the Nichol prisms mentioned.

In order that the correspondent and other readers may also not be misled into attributing a photographic reversing effect to any type of prism whatever, it may be well to point out that the type of prism used by photo-engravers, and termed a "reversing prism," reverses the picture directionally, but not photographically. That is, the reversing prism reverses the picture as regards left and right, but does not produce a positive image instead of a negative image.

Recovery of Silver from Exhausted Hypo Solutions

Mr. J. D. Alexander, Spokane, Wash., writes as follows: "We will soon start, under the name of Alexander Film Company, an advertising theatre service throughout the Northwest, using short stock films. These films will vary from 30 to 100 feet and will consist of animated cartoons and posed from life subjects. We would appreciate some information from you as to a source of supply of positives and negatives and would also like to purchase some books on moving picture labarotary and camera work and animated cartoon making. We have available quite a lot of exhausted hypo from the laboratories of local photographers, which we understand contains valuable silver. Could you give us any information as to whether it is commercially practical to extract this and how it is done?

In reply: We are not quite clear as to whether it is photographed negatives and printed positives, or whether it is negative and positive film stock which the correspondent wishes to secure, but if it is raw film stock we would suggest that he correspond with the Cinematograph Film Division, Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., who will advise him how and where to arrange for his supply of film stock.

On the score of books covering laboratory and camera work, we have to advise, as we have already done upon several recent occasions, that there are no good technical treatises on these subjects readily obtainable at present. No work on animated cartoon making has yet been published, and the numerous superficial articles on these processes which appear from time to time in periodicals meant for lay readers cannot be considered an accurate guide to this class of work. Many different makers of cartoon films have developed their own methods of producing such subjects (some methods have been patented), and there is naturally great scope for individuality in conception and execution in producing animated cartoons.

It is true that there is considerable silver in an exhausted hypo bath, the amount of silver depending upon the quantity of photographic material which has been put through the bath, and also upon the character of the material thus fixed.

To regain the silver the following process is usually resorted to. A strong solution is made of sodium sulphide, or a cheaper, impure variety known as liver of sulphur, and some of this solution is introduced into the spent hypo solution, which should be collected in a special barrel and taken outdoors for the sulphiding operation. Upon adding the sulphide solution to the old hypo bath, silver sulphide is thrown down in the form of a black sludge, which, of course, contains the silver thus extracted from the hypo solution.

All of the silver sulphide will not be thrown down by the first treatment with the sodium sulphide (or liver of sulphur) solution, and it is advisable to add some of this to the hypo bath two or three times a day for several days, after which it can be considered that all possible silver sulphide has been precipitated.

The black sludge, or precipitate, deposited at thc bottom of the barrel is then collected, after pouring off the now valueless hypo solution, and is sent to a smelter, or refiner, who is able to reduce the sludge to its components, thus securing the pure metallic silver. Some refiners buy the silver sulphide sludge (in barrels) from the laboratories, while others might refine it first and then pay the value of the silver recovered minus their charges for refining the same.

The "Depthar," a Short-Focus Cine Taking Objective

UNDER the heading "Cine Camera Objectives," we stated in the NEWS of October 12, page 2432, in reply to a correspondent, that objectives of 2-inch focus were perhaps still obtainable from the Bausch & Lomb Optical Company, and that the C. P. Goerz American Optical Company still had a stock of 2-inch objectives.

There is still another source from which short-focus objectives for cinematography may be procured, as we learn upon receipt of a letter from C. C. Minor, 716 West Madison street, Chicago, Ill.

Mr. Minor is the manufacturer of a short focus taking lens for motion picture photography which is known as the "Depthar." The Depthar objective has the considerable aperture of f 2.2, and great depth of field is claimed for the results secured through its use.

Depthar objectives are made in two foci, viz., 1⅝ inches and 2 inches, both sizes having the aperture f 2.2 The depth of field is not entirely the consequence of the short focal lengths of the Depthar objectives, for it is claimed that they yield images showing greater depth than is obtained with other taking objectives of similar focal length. This extra depth is attained, according to Mr. Minor, by constructing the Depthar objective upon the telephoto principle, but until the patent on the Depthar construction is published, or until we have seen the construction data, it will be impossible for us to affirm this statement or describe the optical principles upon which the performance of this objective depends.

Mr. Minor states that the Depthar lenses have given great satisfaction to users engaged in both studio and industrial work, and he is willing to advise all purchasers as to the most satisfactory method of mounting the same on any make of camera. He has the advantage of being located in a city where several important varieties of cine camera are manufactured, and if a Depthar objective is purchased by any one simultaneously with the purchase of a Chicago-made camera the objective can be mounted at the factory of the camera manufacturer, which is an advantage that any cameraman will appreciate.

The price of either the 1⅝-inch or the 2-inch Depthar objective is $60, and Mr. Minor has a limited number of both sizes available for immediate shipment. Orders should be sent to his address, as given above.

British Promoting Study of Technical Optics

NO industry has assumed more importance since the advent of the war than the manufacture of optical instruments, and the pressure at which optical factories in all of the belligerent countries have been operating in recent years is sufficient evidence of the necessity for courses of training in all phases of modern optical theory and practice.

The importance of establishing opto-technical institutes, or courses of instruction in "real optics," at the numerous British technical schools, was insisted upon for many years by the late Professor Silvanus P. Thompson, a noted exponent of modern optical theory and practice, but it is only since his death in 1915 that the ends he strove for have been realized by the British Government and educational authorities.

About two years ago a Department of Technical Optics was instituted at the Imperial College of Science and Technology, South Kensington, London, and Professor Frederick J. Cheshire, a scientist and optical authority of standing, was appointed director. Professor Cheshire, a man of great initiative, immediately had the translation of a number of important foreign optical treatises taken in hand, and while these have not appeared as yet, instruction in technical optics has been going on for a considerable time at the optical school of the Imperial College.

The course of lectures for the fall and winter season of 1918-19 is now under way, and the program is announced in our esteemed overseas contemporary, the British Journal of Photography, as follows:

The Department of Technical Optics of the Imperial College of Science and Technology, under the direction of Professor F. J. Chesire, has arranged a course of lectures for the session 1918-19. The lectures, with corresponding laboratory work, are specially designed to meet the needs of part-time students engaged in the

Subjected to accurate tests at every point in its manufacture

EASTMAN FILM

never has an opportunity to be anything but right.

Identifiable by the words "Eastman" and "Kodak" in the film margin.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

PROFIT BY THIS

Declare your independence from an inferior quality of work and delayed deliveries, by entrusting your DEVELOPING and PRINTING to EVANS.

Our plant is modernly equipped in every detail, our operators are the most skilled that money can hire, which combined with our prompt service assures you of absolute satisfaction.

EVANS FILM MFG. CO.
416-24 West 216th Street New York City
Telephone: St. Nicholas 3443-44

"NEWMAN" BRASS FRAMES AND RAILS

DO YOU KNOW?

that 90% of all the brass frames used in the moving picture houses throughout the country are "NEWMAN'S"?

WHY?

Because we steadily have refused to cheapen or lower the quality of our goods, even though others have sought to undermine our prestige by underselling with cheapened products. That is one of the reasons why nine out of every ten frames sold bear the name "NEWMAN." Insist on that name and save money.

You ought to have our latest catalogue. Write us today.

The Newman Mfg. Company

Established 1882
Frames, Easels, Grilles, Rails, Signs, Choppers, Kick Plates, Door Bars

717-19 Sycamore Street, Cincinnati, Ohio
68 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Illinois
Canadian Representative—J. T. Malone, Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal, Canada.
Pacific Coast—G. A. Metcalfe, San Francisco, Cal.

We manufacture the frames in various finishes which do not require polishing.

How can an advertiser continue advertising? By giving YOU value.

optical industry, but are available also for students who wish to study applied optics with a view to entering the profession of optical designing and testing. For the present, and pending the establishment of full-time courses of study, the case of each student wishing to enter the department for full-time work will be specially considered by the Director of the Department, who will determine the course of study to be followed. The lecture courses for the coming autumn are as follows: "General Optics," Professor F. J. Cheshire, beginning Friday, October 4; "Optical Designing and Computing," Professor A. E. Conrady, beginning Monday, October 7 (suitable for beginners); "Practical Optical Computing," Professor A. E. Conrady, beginning Tuesday, October 1 (for more advanced students); "Workship and Testing-Room Methods," Professor A. E. Conrady, beginning Thursday, October 3; "The Construction, Theory and Use of Optical Measuring Instruments," Mr. L. C. Martin, beginning Wednesday, October 2; (each of these lectures will be followed by a laboratory or computing class). "Microscopes and Microscopic Vision," Professor A. E. Conrady, beginning Thursday, October 3.

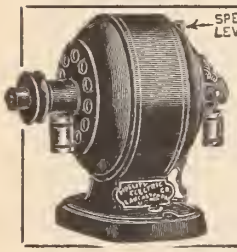
Students of the course of lectures above outlined will indeed be fortunate in acquiring good, sound instruction in optical engineering, as Professors Cheshire and Conrady have the subject at their finger-tips, and are both noted for their ability on the lecture platform. Professor Conrady is also one of the most brilliant optical designers in England, and is specially to be commended for his able demonstrations of the correctness of the Abbe theory of microscopical vision.

The subject of instruction in modern optical theory and practice should receive the same attention in the United States as it has in England, but it is regrettable that up to the present it has not even been considered. There is no doubt whatever that a course in technical optics, based on modern theory and practice, if instituted by any college or technical institute in the States, would receive large numbers of requests for enrollment from students and engineers, many of whom have long been seeking to acquire a knowledge of practical optical engineering.

The Estey Theatre Pipe Organ furnishes all the music for the pictures, and the music program.

THE ESTEY ORGAN CO.
Brattleboro, Vt.

See our page ad in the November 9th issue of the MOTION PICTURE NEWS



SPEED LEVER
MOVING PICTURE MACHINE MOTOR
$18.00
Alternating or Direct Current Complete with variable speed lever. Immediate delivery.
Fidelity Electric Co
Lancaster, Pa.

DO IT NOW
Take advantage of the lull to replace OLD with NEW Projectors, Screens, etc. Equip your theatre for the holidays.
INDEPENDENT MOVIE SUPPLY CO.
729 Seventh Ave., New York City
Sixth Floor
Let us quote you

The Accessory Department teems with Items of Interest to Operator and Exhibitor alike.

OPERATORS
Read Important Announcement on Page 2689

Theatre and Exchange Mailing List Service
We rent lists of or address contemplated or existing theatres, exchanges, state rights owners, publicity mediums and producers, selected as to territory, class, etc. Twenty thousand changes were recorded in our list last year. Its use means a saving to you of from 30 to 50% in postage, etc.
MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY CO.
80 Fifth Avenue, New York
Phone, 3227 Chelsea
Addressing Printing N185 Multigraphing Typewriting

Unless You Have The
Automaticket System
You Are Losing Money
1733 Broadway, New York

TransVerteR
Automatically supplies only such voltage as arc requires. No waste of current in ballast.
HERTNER ELECTRIC & MFG. CO.
W. 114th St., Cleveland, Ohio, U.S.A

Equipped with UNIVERSAL Motion Picture Camera
"You get the picture and get away before the other fellow is ready."
BURKE & JAMES, Inc.
240 E. Ontario Street, Chicago
225 Fifth Ave. New York

VENTILATE & COOL BY TYPHOONS
TYPHOON FAN COMPANY NEW YORK 281 LEXINGTON AVE.

UNEXCELLED FILM LABORATORIES AND STUDIOS CO. INC.
120-124 School St.
YONKERS, N.Y.
MODERN EQUIPPED STUDIOS FOR RENT
HIGH CLASS DEVELOPING AND PRINTING
TELEPHONE 4600 YONKERS

For Better Music
The Fotoplayer
62 West 45th Street AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO. New York City

Cue Sheets Latest Hits | Music | Musical Equipment

The Motion Picture Orchestra Versus the Symphony

THE large orchestras in the leading motion picture theatres throughout the country have done more in a few short years to instill the desire for good music than the recognized symphony orchestras have accomplished in the past. This may seem like a broad statement, but it is nevertheless a fact, and we will herewith set forth our arguments to prove our point.

The motion picture theatres have a large daily attendance where one, in spite of himself, is virtually forced to listen to good music and excellent rendition by well-conducted orchestras. The symphony concerts on the other hand in the smaller cities are not frequent and when they do occur, they are more or less a social event.

The symphony orchestras have always considered and played but one class of music, that which adheres to the strictest forms and are written in a scholarly manner; these works are pedantic and far beyond the ken of the public at large. Only schooled musicians can really appreciate their wonderous beauty.

In the large cities the symphony orchestra has been for many years a pet fad, like the opera, where one can be seen (and sometimes heard) to advantage or disadvantage, as the case may be. In other words, it is confined to a select few who support it financially. Of course no one is really prohibited from attending these concerts, but the average person, however kindly disposed towards music, finds it very dull and uninteresting.

Educating the masses to a high standard of art is a monumental task. It is impossible by sheer force to compel them to like what they do not understand. Long-haired musical enthusiasts will moan and wail at the indifference shown towards real classical music and deplore the fact that "This and that symphony" is neglected for the popular tune of the day.

However, the public can only be made to appreciate good music by degrees, and this I believe the moving picture orchestras are slowly but surely accomplishing. It is true we don't see symphonies or symphonic poems on their programs, but there is always a good overture which is usually splendidly rendered, and many other really worth-while compositions and excerpts from works of the world's greatest composers performed during the pictures.

It was only a few short years ago that the average theatre orchestra consisted of "fiddle," piano, cornet and drums (the orchestral fig-leaf), and doled out to the ignorant populace a big bunch of noise. Will they stand for that now? Indeed not; they have become accustomed to something infinitely better and demand larger orchestral combinations, which we must admit is a great step forward.

To build a house we must start with the foundation, "or there ain't goin' to be no house." So it is with orchestral music. The public must at first be given music that it understands and enjoys. By this means only can they be educated to better music. The motion picture managers started with the right idea; to offer a good class of music to its patrons, to engage in most cases excellent conductors and competent musicians.

In short one may go to the leading motion picture theatre in any large American city and be amply repaid in good music for the price of admission. Furthermore, the ultimate result of this innovation in the motion picture theatre is to make the public in general conversant with many great musical works of which they were formerly ignorant.

Review of Latest Compositions

1—"One, Two Three, Boys, Over the Top We Go."—This band arrangement for March and One-Step is being played by every military and naval band in this country and in France, and is proclaimed to be the greatest band number of its kind ever printed. Special! Song orchestration, suitable for dancing. (Chas. K. Harris, Columbia Theatre Bldg., N. Y.)

2—"When We Went to Sunday School"—One-Step. This will be a favorite with the orchestra boys. It's simply great. (Remick, 227 W. 46th St., N: Y.)

3—"The Wayside Chapel."—A beautifully characteristic idyl, useful for many quiet neutral scenes of the silent drama. By G. D. Wilson. (Oliver Ditson Co., 178 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.)

4—"Twilight in Alabama"—By Harry Pabst. Depicts an evening on the wharves of Mobile. Good for dock scenes in the South. (Oliver Ditson Co.)

5—"The Whirling Dervishes"—By T. H. Rollinson. A desert episode in a wild style and galop tempo. Good for any wild scene, excitement, etc. (Oliver Ditson Co.)

6—"Tiger Rose Waltzes"—The waltz success of the season—by Ivan Reid and Peter De Rose. Arranged by Wm. Schulz. Your repertoire is not complete without this splendid number. Don't fail to get it. (F. B. Haviland Pub. Co., 128 W. 48th St., N. Y.)

7—"We're All Going Calling on the Kaiser"—The great hiking song, one-step and march by J. A. Brennan. (Feist Edition.)

8—"Waltz Moderne"—By George Rosey. The captivating hesitation waltz of the day. (Belwin, Inc., 701 Seventh Ave., N. Y.)

9—"Sunrise and Incantation," from the "Oriental Pictures Suite," by Gaston Borch, is a complete and perfect composition, written in that wistful Eastern style which veritably seems to tell of the rising sun and the deep reverence which the Oriental displays toward Mohammed, the Prophet. The orchestration is rich in coloring and complete in construction. (Belwin, Inc.)

10—"When I Hear a Syncopated Tune"—From the Ziegfeld Follies of 1918. The fox trot that makes the show a hit—it's by Louis A. Hirsch. Con't say any more, can we? (Carl Fischer Witmark Orch. and Band Dept.)

11—"Good-bye, Mother Machree"—By Ernest R. Ball. Wonderful march ballad arranged as one-step. Introducing "I'm from Ohio," another big hit. (Fischer Witmark Orch. and Band Dept.)

12—"Freedom for All Forever"—The ideal of America in this great war, set to verse and song by B. C. Hilliam. Biggest patriotic number since "Long, Long Trail." (Fisher Witmark Orch. & Band Dept.)

13—"Beautiful Ohio"—This wonderful waltz is a positive sensation. As a song (single or double) it has proved an absolute riot; as a piano solo it is selling thousands of copies daily, and as an orchestral dance waltz, with its wonderful counter melody ("Love's Old, Sweet Song"), it looks like another "Missouri." (Shapiro, Bernstein & Co., 228 W. 47th St., N. Y.)

14—"Everything is Hunky Dory Down in Honky Tonky Town"—Fox-trot. The song hit of the New York Hippodrome. The greatest Jazz rag melody in years. It's the talk of New York. By Harry Tierney. (McCarthy & Fischer, 224 W. 46th St., N. Y.)

"THE MARRIAGE TRAP"

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1000 feet). Note effects of railroad and automobile as suggested in the cues.

Theme: "May Dreams" (Moderato Serenade) by Gaston Borch

1—"Adieu Waltz"—Friml. (3 minutes 35 seconds), until—T: Jennie, Bessie's little sister.
2—"Dramatic Recitative"—Levy. (2 minutes 15 seconds), until—T: "I want you to watch Bess."
3—Continue pp. (1 minute 5 seconds), until —T: All the world.
4—"Sweet Jasmine—Bendix. (Allegretto.) (5 minutes 5 seconds), until—T: They may force me.
5—"Golden Youth"—Rosey. (Valse Lento.) (1 minute 35 seconds), until—T: The trap is set.
6—Theme (1 minute 25 seconds), until—T: The wedding of May and December.
7—"Dramatic Andante No. 39"—Berge. (3 minutes 45 seconds), until—T: Half an hour later.
8—"Visions"—Buse. (Intermezzo.) (1 minute 45 seconds), until —S: Guests remove the table.
9—"Savannah"—Rosey. (One-Step.) (2 minutes 35 seconds), until—T: Doctor Carrington.
Note: Ad Lib. Tympany Rolls during storm scenes.
10—"Intermezzo"—Huerter. (Moderato.) (2 minutes 55 seconds), until—T: "She's gone, by heck."
Note: Watch for railroad effects.
11—"Turbulence"—Borch. (Allegro Agitato.) (1 minute 45 seconds), until—T: The next morning.
12—Theme (2 minutes 35 seconds), until—S: On farm.
13—"Eccentric Comedy Character"—Roberts. (1 minute 5 seconds), until—T: A month passes.
14—"Valse Moderne"—Rosey. (Valse Lento.) (1 minute 20 seconds), until—T: The country auctions.
15—Repeat: "Eccentric Comedy Character" (45 seconds), until—S: Near automobile.
16—Continue to action (50 seconds), until—S: Automobile arrives.
17—"Love Theme"—Lee. (Melodious.) (2 minutes 45 seconds), until—T: I need money.
18—"Dramatic Tension"—Levy. (1 minute 15 seconds), until—T: That night Grace.
19—Piano improvising to action (20 seconds), until—S: Grace leaves piano.
20—"Valse Divine"—Rosey. (Moderato.) (2 minutes 5 seconds), until—S: Second dance.
21—"A La Mode"—Rosey. (One-Step.) (35 seconds), until—T: The passing months.
22—"Sweet Ponderings"—Langey. (Moderato.) (4 minutes 40 seconds), until—T: Some one has stolen my money.
23—"Tragic Theme"—Vely. (1 minute 25 seconds), until—T: An hour later.
24—Continue pp. (40 seconds), until—T: Like the proverbial.
25—Continue ff. (35 seconds), until—T: Having fought out.
26—"Pathetic Andante"—Vely. (1 minute 25 seconds), until—T: At the end of a week.
27—Continue ff. (1 minute 45 seconds), until—T: With his heart full.
28—Continue pp. (55 seconds), until—T: Three days later.
29—Theme (1 minute 30 seconds), until—END.

"JUST SYLVIA"

(Castleton—World)

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler.

Theme: "Carmen Sylvia" (Melodious Valse Lento), by Ivanovici

1—Theme (3 minutes and 45 seconds), at Screening.
2—"In the Glade" (Allegretto Scherzando), by Grunewald (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "In a middle Western town—."
3—"Bees" (Allegretto Novelette), by Jones (2 minutes), until—T: "Just think, dad, when we."
4—"Eccentric Comedy Character," by Roberts (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "We have no flats or."
5—"Ballet Sentimental" (Valse Con Sentimento), by Zamecnik (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "The realization of life—."
6—"Tete-a-tete" (Intermezzo Dansant), by de Koven (3 minutes), until—T: "No, I didn't ring."
7—"In Dreamy Dells" (Moderato Fantasy), by Rolfe (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "It's a heap of money."
8—Theme (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "At the Country Club."
9—"Capricious Annette" (Moderato Caprice), by Borch (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Frank Hayward, collector."
10—"Dancing Leaves" (Mazurka), by Miles (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Allow me, is this Mrs. Hicks?"
11—"La Flamme" (Valse Lento), by Evelyn (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Are you Mrs. Aster?"
12—Theme (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Your Royal Grand-Uncle."
13—"La Balladora" (Allegretto Moderato), by Tobani (3 minutes), until—S: When scene of Sylvia fades.
14—"Vivien" (Allegretto Moderato), by Ramsdell (4 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "The following afternoon."
15—"Cupid's Caress," by Roberts (4 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Suspicion."
16—Theme (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "It was awfully kind of."
17—"May Dreams" (Moderato Romance), by Borch (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Breakfast a deux."
18—"Dramatic Tension," by Levy (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "That evening the showdown."
19—Theme (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "I hope that's a doggone."
20—"Dramatic Tension No. 67," by Shepherd (3 minutes), until—T: "The old isn't wearing" (door-bell).
21—"Dramatic Tension No. 9," by Andino (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Ees eet not unfortunate?"
22—"Impish Elves" (Winsome Intermezzo), by Borch (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "There's a foreign looking."
23—Theme (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "No I can't go back," until * * * * END.

"THE MATING"

(Gladys Leslie—Vitagraph)

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler.

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 feet).

Theme: "Kathleen" (Characteristic Valse Lento), by S. M. Berg

1—Theme (2 minutes and 45 seconds), at Screening.
2—"Mimi" (Allegretto Moderato), by Leigh (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Dick Ives, author" (rooster crowing).
3—"Young April" (Moderato Novelette), by Cobb (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "The new arrival."
4—"Jasmine" (Morceau Characteristic), by Kretschmer (3 minutes), until—S: When Dick opens shutters.
5—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Say, Mister Man, I don't" (sneeze effects).
6—"Iris" (Moderato Grazioso), by Reynard (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Come out, gol-darn ye."
7—Theme (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "Please don't be mad, I."
8—"A Southern Reverie" (Morceau Characteristic), by Bendix (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "I hope you win it."
9—"The Yankee Girl" (Allegretto Caprice), by Tobani (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "With nothing in the house—."
10—"The Witching Hour" (Andante Moderato Tranquillo), by Herrick (2 minutes), until—T: "After dinner."
11—"Amaranthus" (Allegretto Moderato), by Gilder (2 minutes), until—T: "Mr. Fane, surely you're not."
12—"Misterioso Dramatico No. 61," by Borch (1 minute), until—T: "In the middle of the night."
13—"Andante Dramatico No. 62," by Borch (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "And when morning comes."
14—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "It is natural that in her—."
15—"Astarte" (Intermezzo Andantino), by Mildenberg (4 minutes), until—S: When Boone receives telegram.
16—"Pirouette" (Allegretto Moderato), by Finck (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: When Nancy goes shopping (train effects).
17—"Dramatic Tension No. 9," by Andino (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "He's a big robber."
18—"Vivo Finale" (Symphonette Suite), by Berge (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—S: When Billy calls constable.
19—"Love's Return" (Scherzando Novelette), by Ellis (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "The hearing."
20—"Fleur de Lis-Dilles" (Characteristic Moderato) (2 minutes), until—T: "So another day finds Dick."
21—"Agitato No. 49," by Shepherd (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—S: When boat enters water (water effects).
22—"Hurry No. 53," by Minot (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Hurry, the Doctor" (horses' hoofs).
23—"Andante Doloroso" (Pathetic), by Borch (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—S: When Dick is picked up.
24—"Dramatic Tension No. 64," by Borch (2 minutes), until—T: "Where is he, where is."
25—Theme (1 minute), until—T: "And so a little girl."
26—"Fairies Greeting" (Moderato Con Moto Caprice), by Heed (2 minutes), until—T: "Of course it was down."
27—Theme (2 minutes), until—T: "Nancy, I know you did it," until * * * * END.

"THE FORBIDDEN CITY"

(Norma Talmadge—Select)

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler.

Theme: "Love Song Orientale" (Characteristic), Carl Kiefert

1—"Chinese Serenade" (Moderato), by Puerner (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: "Wong Li, deposed Mandarin."
2—Continue to action (50 seconds), until—T: "San San, the motherless flower."
3—"Chinese Allegretto," by Winkler (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "John Worden, assistant secretary."
4—Theme (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: "Wong Li has been given."
5—"Hong Kong Gong" (Chinese Characteristic) (4 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Ching Lee, mandarin."
6—"In a Pagoda" (Characteristic), by Bratton (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Oh, Buddah, please send!"
7—Theme (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "Your only hope is——"
8—Continue to action (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "A maid of the East."
9—"Valse Moderne (Valse Lento), by Rosey (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "The sacred hours."
10—Continue pp (45 seconds), until—T: "For a little while."
11—Theme (4 minutes and 5 seconds), until—T: "Bood-by, San San, she wait."
12—Continue pp (20 seconds), until—T: "While he goes."
13—Repeat "Chinese Serenade," by Puerner (2 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "At Shang Hai."
14—"Reverie" (3/4 Andantino), by Bartlet (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—T: "Wong Li, he leave by night."
15—"Pathetic Andante," by Vely (1 minute and 25 sesconds), until—T: "At last Worden yields."
16—Continue ff (45 seconds), until—T: "The forbidden city."
17—"Chinese Wedding Procession" (Characteristic), by Hosmer (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "Rise my smiling sunshine."
18—"Tragic Theme," by Vely (2 minutes and 55 seconds), until—T: "Your beauty softens me."
19—Theme (3 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "My tiny toy we go happy."
20—"Andante Dolorosa, No. 70," by Borch (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: "The moving finger writes."
21—"Dramatic Recitative," by Levy (3 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "Yuan Lee, of the Emperor's guard."
22—"Berceuse",(4/4 Andante), by Iljinsky (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Whilst the palace sleeps."
23—"Sinister Theme," by Vely (2 minutes and 55 seconds), until—T: "The American Embassy."
Note: ff during fight.

24—"Sleeping Rose" (Melodious Valse Lente), by Borch (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Manilla."
25—"Serenade D'Amour" (Moderato), by Blon (4 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Spring came."
26—"May Dreams" (Moderato Romance), by Borch (1 minute and 35 seconds), until—T: "There is a barrier between us."
27—Theme (1 minute and 5 seconds), until—T: "At the official residence."
28—"Dramatic Narrative," by Pement (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "I mean that you two cannot."
29—"Lamentoso, No. 46," by Borch (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—T: "It could never be."
30—"Heartwounds" (Dramatic), by Grieg (3 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "On the borderland."
31—"Andante Appassionato, No. 57," by Castillo (3 minutes and 40 seconds), until—S: San San enters room."
32—Theme (3 minutes), until—S: Lieutenant rushes into room.
33—Continue pp (35 seconds), until—T: "And out of the world."
34—"Visions, No. 42" (Intermezzo Characteristic), by Buse (1 minute and 50 seconds), until * * * * * THE END.

"HER GREAT CHANCE"

(Alice Brady—Select)

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler.

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 feet).

Theme: "Love Theme" (Melodious Andante Moderato), by Abbott Lee

1—"Longing" (Moderato), by Armand (2 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "By contrast, the lot."
2—"Humorous Drinking Theme," by Levy (1 minute and 40 seconds), until—S: Telephoning.
3—Continue pp (35 seconds), until—S: Interior of department store.
4—"Al Fresco" (Moderato), by Etienne (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Thank you, father."
5—Continue to action (2 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: "Hello, Kitty Malony."
6—"Babillage" (Allegretto), by Castillo (1 minute and 10 seconds), until—T: "At the end of the work."
7—Continue pp (45 seconds), until—T: "The stag hotel."
8—"Capricious Annette" (Moderato Caprice), by Borch (4 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "Where the shady river."
9—"Valse Divine" (Melodious Valse Lente), by Rosey (2 minutes and 55 seconds), until—T: "A quiet little evening."
10—"Hunkatin" (Half Tone One-Step), by Levy (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "Go to it, Kiddo."
11—Continue pp (1 minute and 5 seconds), until—T: "Come away, Loo."
Note: ff during dancing scenes only.
12—Theme (5 minutes and 5 seconds), until—T: "Friends, my life is a wreck."
13—"Slidus Trombonus" (Comic Characteristic), by Lake (3 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "It was mid-afternoon."
14—"Ecstasy" (Melody Allegro), by Zamecnik (2 minutes and 55 seconds), until—T: "Mr. Brooks is calling."
15—"Serenade" (Andante Moderato), by Czerwonky (2 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "Charlie, that swim fest."
16—Theme (1 minute and 40 seconds), until—T: "Flamm Avenue where?"
17—"Dramatic Recitative," by Levy (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—S: In bedroom.
18—Continue pp (1 minute and 35 seconds), until—T: "A quiet spot for two."
19—"Dolorosa" (Poeme D'Amour), by Tobani (4 minutes and 5 seconds), until—T: "Thought I was roving."
20—Theme (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: "The Golden words."
21—Tacet (35 seconds), until—S: After wedding ceremony.
22—"Golden Youth" (Valse Lente), by Rosey (1 minute and 10 seconds), until—S: Close-up of newspaper clipping.
23—"Sorrow Theme" (Andante Pathetic), by Roberts (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—T: "I cannot make amends."
24—"Dramatic Tension, No. 64," by Borch (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—T: "What have I done to you?"
25—Theme (1 minute and 5 seconds), until—T: "And then he realized."
26—"Impish Elves" (Winsome Intermezzo), by Borch (1 minute and 35 seconds), until * * * * * THE END.

"POWER"

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler.

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 feet).

Theme: "Bleeding Heart" (Dramatic), by Levy

1—"Golden Youth" (Valse Lento), by Rosey (4 minutes and 55 seconds), until—T: Nancy has seen it.
2—Piano Solo improvise to action (1 minute and 10 seconds), until—S: Girl stops playing piano.
3—Theme (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: On farm.
4—"Visions" (Characteristic Intermezzo), by Buse (50 seconds), until—T: Hartigan's gambling place.
5—"Babillage" (Allegretto), by Castillo (3 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: This is an election dodge.
6—Dramatic Recitative, by Levy (1 minute and 40 seconds), until—T: Boosting Shaunessi.
7—"Allegro Agitato," by Kiefert (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: The final returns.
8—"Aces High" (American March), by Roberts (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: Major Chaunessy plans.
9—"Impish Elves" (Winsome Intermezzo), by Borch (2 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: But Dick has an idea.
10—Piano Solo improvise to action (50 seconds), until—T: Hartigan learns of.
11—"Appassionato," by Borch (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: Chaunessy gives Dick a chance.
12—"Valse Moderne," by Rosey (1 minute and 35 seconds), until—S: Girl at piano.
13—Piano Solo improvising to action (50 seconds), until—T: Chaunessy's plan for Dick.
14—"L'Adieu" (Dramatic), by Favarger (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: I love you, Nancy.
15—Love Theme (2 minutes and 55 seconds), until—T: Baiting the trap.
16—"Romance" (Moderato), by Rubens (1 minute and 40 seconds), until—T: The night of the dance.
17—"Savannah" (One-Step), by Rosey (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: During the evening.
18—"Andante Dramatico," by Borch (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: Hoping to turn Dick.
19—Continue pp. (35 seconds), until—T: Shaunessy gives orders.
20—"Sinister Theme," by Vely (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: Hartigan learns of the proposed.
21—Continue to action (55 seconds), until—T: A surprise for Shaunessy.
22—Continue pp. (50 seconds), until—T: Friday afternoon.
23—Theme (1 minute), until—T: The dinner that evening.
24—"A La Mode" (One-Step), by Rosey (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: Far from the maddenin' crowd.
25—Theme (25 seconds), until—S: Flashback to gambling room.
26—"Six Minute Hurry" (for general use), by Levy, to action pp. or ff. (5 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: Two months later.
27—"Capricious Annette" (Moderato Caprice), by Borch (2 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: Shaunessy thinks it was.
28—Continue pp. (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: Where the wicked.
29—Theme (1 minute and 40 seconds), until—T: This is the life.
30—Continue ff. (20 seconds), until—END.

"UNEXPECTED PLACES"

(Bert Lytell—Metro)

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler.

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 feet).

Theme: "Comedy Allegro" (Characteristic Allegro Giocoso), by S. M. Berg

1—"Trade Review March" (Maestoso), by Berg (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—At screening.
2—Theme (2 minutes), until—T: "In America two reporters."
3—"Agitato, No. 69" (Allegro Agitato), by Minot (1 minute), until—T: "At one of New York's big—" (telephone-bell; shot).
4—"Dramatic Tension No. 67," by Shepherd (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: When scene fades to newspaper office.
5—Theme (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "Here's a peach of a yarn."
6—"Slimy Viper" (Mysterious Tone Picture), by Borch (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: Varden in restaurant.
7—"Valse Moderne" (Valse Moderato), by Rosey (2 minutes), until—T: "Dear English relative" (letter).
8—"Vivo Finale" (Symphonette Suite), by Berge (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: "When Varden arises."
9—Theme (2 minutes), until—T: "One half American, one—."
10—"Agitato No. 49," by Shepherd (1 minute and 45 seconds), until S: When Dick enters room.
11—"Rondo" (Excerpts Beethoven Sonata Pathetique), by Berge (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "Great story but I'll."
12—"Babillage" (Allegretto Intermezzo), by Castillo (4 minutes), until—T: "At Pencrest the home—" (automobile effects).
13—"Savannah" (Popular One-Step), by Rosey (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—S: When butler enters bed-room (telephone-bell).
14—"Graciousness No. 53," by Smith (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Your papers are safe."
15—"Furioso No. 60," by Shepherd (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "There's a chance those."
16—Theme (45 seconds), until—T: "It's nothing I've cut."
17—"Capricious Annette" (Moderato Caprice), by Borch (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "No Lochinvar but with—."
18—Theme (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—S: When Dick and Ruth enter garden.
19—"Dramatic Agitato No. 43," by Borch (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "You're wife has just."
20—"Sinister Theme," by Vely (3 minutes), until—S: When spies whistle."
21—"Perpetual Motion" (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Get the girl" (automobile effects).
22—"Turbulence" (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: When spy phones (telephone-bell).
23—"Hurry No. 33," by Minot (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: When Dick is seized.
24—"Hurry No. 26," by Minot (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until T: "Wait for me down the" (shots).
25—"Hurry" (Half Reel Hurry), by Levy (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Lord Varden" (shots).
26—Theme (1 minute), until—T: "I want her to marry," until * * * * END.

"THE RETURN OF MARY"

(May Allison-Metro)

Specially Selected and Compiled by M. Winkler.

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 ft.)

Theme: "Serenata" (Characteristic Moderato Serenade), by Crespi

1—In Summer Fields—Brahms (Lento Con Espressione) (3 minutes, 15 seconds), until—T: At Screening.
2—Faithfulness—Brahms (Molto Lento) (4 minutes), until—T: "Father, I had forgotten."
3—The Vain Suit—Brahms (Con Anima ed Amore) (3 minutes, 30 seconds), until—T: A man crushed by sorrow.
4—Andante Pathetique No. 23—Borch (2 minutes, 30 seconds), until S: When Denby talks to stranger.
5—Cavatine—Bohm (Moderato Assai) (3 minutes), until—T: "But why were you silent?"
6—Sinister Theme—Vely (2 minutes, 45 seconds), until—T: "She thinks she's my own."
7—Sweet Ponderings—Langey (Andante Melodie) (3 minutes, 45 seconds), until—T: "You musn't call me daddy."
8—Babillage—Castillo (Allegretto Intermezzo) (3 minutes), until—T: Five happy years finishing.

MUSIC CUE SHEETS

Special Releases

¶ Prepared under the personal supervision of our Music Editor can be secured through our Service Department by sending ten cents for each cue sheet to cover the cost of postage and typeing. Remember it takes time to get these cue sheets to you—don't wait till the last minute to write us.

All Woman
A Nymph of the Foothills
A Woman of Impulse
Appearance of Evil, The
At the Mercy of Men
Back in the Woods
Blindness of Divorce
Babbling Tongues
Blue Blood
Boston Blackie's Little Pal
By the World Forgot
The Beloved Traitor
The Belgian
Carmen of the Klondike
Cecilia of the Pink Roses
Clutch of Circumstances
The Changing Woman
The Claw
The Danger Mark
The Death Dance
DeLuxe Annie
Diplomatic Mission, A
The Co-Respondent
The Conqueror
The Call of Her People
The Crucible of Life
The Danger Game
A Daughter of the Gods
The Devil Stone
The Fair Pretender
The Face in the Dark
Flower of the Dusk
Forbidden Path
For the Freedom of the East
For the Freedom of the World
The Flame of Yukon
Girl of Today, The
The Grain of Dust
The Great White Trail
The Garden of Allah
The Heart of the Sunset
Her Final Reckoning
The House of Glass
The House of Mirth
Her Only Way
Hidden Fires
How Could you Jean?
The Heart of a Lion
Her Fighting Chance
In Again Out Again
In Judgment Of
Inside the Lines
Joan of Plattsburg
Joan the Woman
Just a Woman
Jack and the Beanstalk
Kildare of Storm
Laughing Bill Hyde
Les Miserables
The Lost Chord
Marriage Trap, The Money Mad
My Own United States
Madame Du Barry
The Marionettes
The Million Dollar Dollies
Nine Tenths of the Law
The Narrow Trail
Ordeal of Rosetta
Over There
On Trial
One Law for Both
Pals First
Peck's Bad Girl
Power
Price of a Good Time
Revelation
The Reason Why
The Road to France
Rough and Ready
Rose of the World
The Rose of Blood
Redemption
Return of Mary, The Soul Without Windows, A
The Safety Curtain
The Savage Woman
The Service Star
Social Ambition
The Splendid Sinner
A Successful Adventure
True Blue
Trail to Yesterday
Shirley Kaye
The Spy
The Studio Girl
The Silent Man
The Slacker
Thais
Those Who Pay
A Tale of Two Cities
The Tiger Woman
To-day
To Hell With the Kaiser
To Him That Hath
T'Other Dear Charmer
The Turn of the Wheel
The Venus Model
Woman and the Law
Wolves of the Trail
Woman and Wife
When a Man Sees Red
When Men Betray
The Whirlpool
Within the Law

¶ Cue Sheets for the following regular program releases can usually be obtained from the companies releasing the pictures. If these cannot be had we will be glad to cooperate in seeing that they are supplied to you.

Artcraft
Bluebird
Fox
Four Square
Goldwyn
Metro
Mutual
Paramount
Pathe
Select
Universal
U. S. Exhibitors
Vitagraph
W. H. Productions

The list of special releases is brought up to date every week. Watch the changes.

9—Heloise—Langey (Andantino Intermezzo) (1 minute, 45 seconds), until—T: "My boy, this is all rot."
10—Serenata—Crespi (Characteristic Moderato Serenade) (Theme) (1 minute), until—T: Sweet girl graduates.
11—Kathleen—Berg (Valse Lento) (2 minutes, 30 seconds), until T: The commencement ball.
12—A La Mode—Rosey (Popular One-Step) (1 minute), until T: When guests start dancing.
13—Valse Moderne—Rosey (Valse Moderato) (1 minute, 45 seconds), until—T: "Permit me to present our."
14—Hunkatin—Levy (Half Tone—One-Step) (2 minutes, 15 seconds), until—T: "Don't be selfish, boy."
15—Scherzetto—Berge (Symphonette Suite) (2 minutes), until—T: The happiness of her new home.
16—Theme (2 minutes, 15 seconds), until—T: "Oh, isn't there I notice."
17—Novellette—D'Ambrosio (Moderato Con Espressione) (2 minutes, 45 seconds), until—T: The clemency of the Governor.
18—Dramatic Tensionj—Levy (3 minutes, 45 seconds), until—T: "A game of bridge" (Telephone-bell) (china-crash).
19—Theme (2 minutes, 15 seconds), until T: "Jack I must see him."
20—Fifth Nocturne—Leybach (Allegretto Moderato) (4 minutes, 30 seconds), until S: When Mary leaves.
21—Dramatic Narrative—Pement (2 minutes), until—S: At the breakfast table.
22—Andante Dramatico No. 23—Borch (3 minutes, 30 seconds), until—S: When Graham returns.
23—Dramatic Agitato No. 38—Minot (4 minutes), until—T: "You don't know the wrong."
24—Dramatic Finale No. 63—Smith (3 minutes), until—T: "Bring Your Mother."
25—Theme (3 minutes), until—T: "I knew I couldn't love," until END.

AT YOUR SERVICE!

¶ The Music Department of Motion Picture News is anxious to serve musicians and exhibitors in any way possible.

¶ What can we do for you?

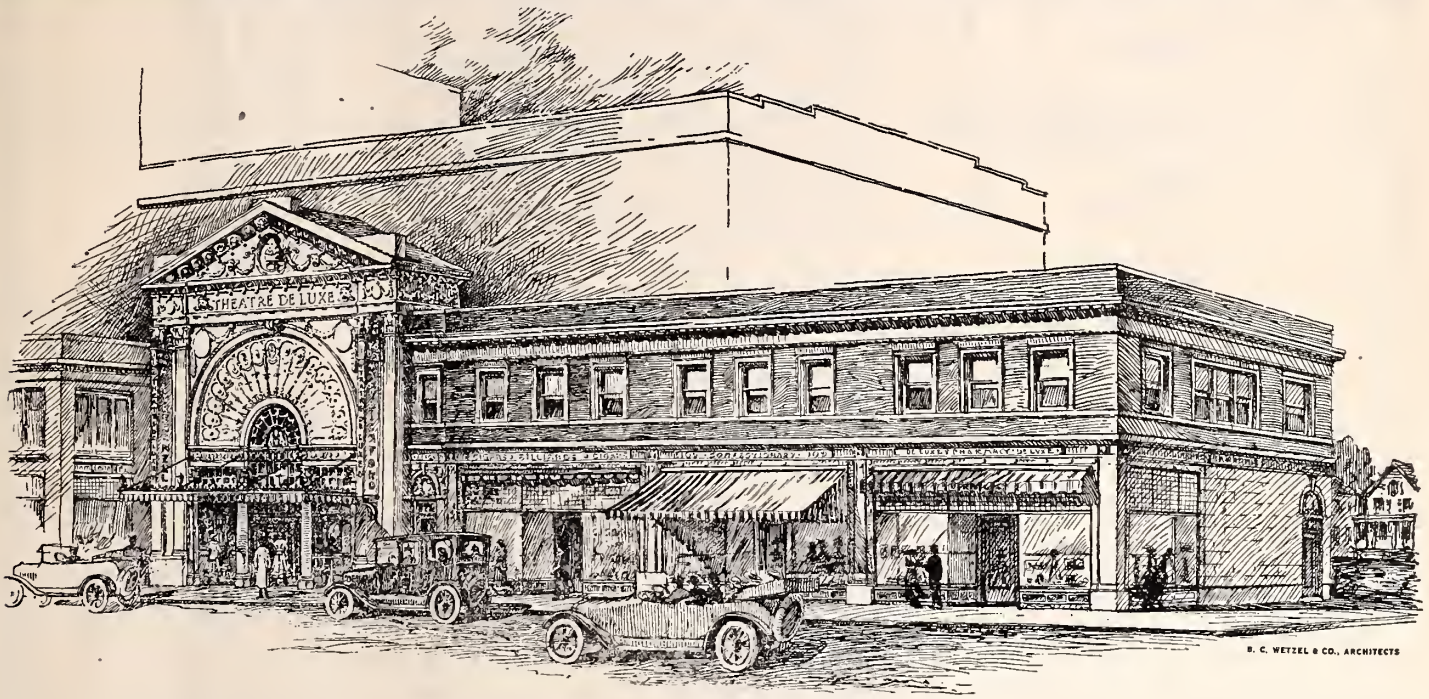
Sidney Garrett, president of J. Frank Brockliss, Inc.

Theatres Worth While



Architects' drawing of Theatre De Luxe, Detroit

Handsome New Theatre for Detroit

DETROIT will have another handsome theatre and one of the most convenient in the world with the opening of the De Luxe in November. It will be under the management of A. J. Moeller, one of the best known motion picture men in the Northwest.

The De Luxe is located on Kercheval avenue at Parkview. It will be a model of comfort and ventilation because it is amply supplied with exits on two streets and a court. The seating capacity will be about 1,800, with 1,200 seats on the main floor, 100 box chairs and 500 on the mezzanine floor.

The vestibule is carried out in ornamental terra cotta. Lobby and foyer conform to the general plan, carrying out the decorative lines of the entire design in ornamental plaster and marble. All floors are of silent, non-slipping tile.

The auditorium is of hippodrome design, the tiers of seats sloping in one unbroken sweep from first row to last, each seat affording an unobstructed view of the stage. The seats are reached both from the mezzanine and from the ground floor level by passageways through the floor.

Parking space for hundreds of motor cars is available, the theatre abutting three newly-paved streets—Kercheval, Vincennes and Parkview avenues. There is a box office at the Vincennes street entrance where automobile parties may secure tickets without walking around to the main entrance.

The facade follows the design of the Adam period, interior decoration being carried out to conform. The Adam period of architecture is peculiarly adapted to this type of building. Construction is fireproof, with steel frame and reinforced concrete floors and roof. The exterior is faced with cream terra cotta and brick, trimmed with colored terra cotta in recessed panels of sufficient color to bring into prominence the finely worked detail. Mahogany-finished doors and box office, marble trimmed, add to the rich appearance. The marquise projects well over the sidewalk, covering the entire entrance, and is ornamented with concealed lights recessed in glass panels. The night illumination is made especially attractive by the use of concealed lights in the marquise, flooding the building. This creates an effect that is pleasing to the eye and yet displays prominently the beauty of design. Ample space for poster advertising is provided by stationary frames of mahogany set in flush panels. Ornate plaster, decorations and harmonious hangings, including a beautiful stage curtain, are embodied in the general plan.

Majestic Gardens an Artistic Triumph

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., has one of the finest houses in the country in the Majestic Gardens, which is just two years old. It is under the able management of Sid Lawrence, one of the livest wires of the industry, and owned by the Consolidated Theatres Company.

The interior is one of the most artistic that could be imagined and the idea of the garden is carried out in all of the decorations. Roses and flowers of all sorts in season are employed for decorative purposes. There is a change in the stage settings every two weeks.

The Majestic Gardens seats 2,000. Projection is supplied by two Powers 6-A machines, with a throw of 115 feet. Orchestra and a duplex organ supply the music, and this is one of the features of the house.

There is an attractive lobby, 40 x 18 feet, and here the displays are in keeping with the rest of the house. Six frames are used, four holding 8 x 10 photos and two 11 x 14s. Two six-sheets are used in front of the house in panelled frames and fourteen one-sheets, with rotogravures when they are obtainable.

Majestic Gardens runs its pictures for an entire week, giving four shows of an average of eight reels a day. All special features are used. Ten and fifteen cents are the admission prices.

Photographs of the Majestic Gardens appeared in the October 19 issue of the NEWS.

Index to the Complete Plan Book

Picture, Brand and Star	Issue	Page
"Angel Child" (Plaza-Hodkinson), Kathleen Clifford	Sept. 7	1606
"Appearance of Evil, The" (World), June Elvidge	Oct. 5	2253
"Atom, The" (Triangle), Pauline Starke	Sept. 21	1920
"Battling Jane" (Paramount), Dorothy Gish	Oct. 19	2603
"Beans" (Bluebird), Edith Roberts	Sept. 14	1756
"Behind the Lines in Italy" (Kleine)	Oct. 5	2251
"Bells, The" (Pathe), Frank Keenan	Oct. 5	2254
"Better Half The" (Select), Alice Brady	Sept. 28	2085
"Bonnie Annie Laurie" (Fox), Peggy Hyland	Sept. 28	2082
"Border Raiders, The" (Pathe), Betty Compson	Oct. 5	2260
"Border Wireless, The" (Artcraft), William S. Hart	Oct. 12	2445
"Brazen Beauty, The" (Bluebird), Priscilla Dean	Sept. 21	1914
"Burden of Proof, The" (Select), Marion Davies	Sept. 21	1919
"By Hook or Crook" (World), Carlyle Blackwell	Sept. 14	1763
"By the World Forgot" (Vitagraph), Nova-Glendon	Sept. 21	1916
"Caillaux Case, The" (Fox)	Oct. 19	2596
"Come On In" (Paramount), Shirley Mason	Oct. 5	2246
"Daughter Angele" (Triangle), Pauline Starke	Sept. 7	1603
"Diplomatic Mission, A" (Vitagraph), Earle Williams	Oct. 5	2255
"Embarrassment of Riches, The" (Walker), Lillian Walker	Oct. 5	2256
"Fame and Fortune" (Fox-Victory), Tom Mix	Sept. 7	1593
"Flower of the Dusk" (Metro), Viola Dana	Sept. 7	1605
"Girl of Today, The" (Vitagraph), Corinne Griffith	Sept. 28	2087
"Girl Who Came Back, The" (Paramount), Ethel Clayton	Sept. 7	1594
"Goddess of Lost Lake, The" (Hodkinson), Louise Glaum	Oct. 19	2598
"Goat, The" (Artcraft), Fred Stone	Oct. 12	2449
"Green God, The" (Vitagraph), Morey-Blythe	Sept. 7	1602
"Gray Parasol, The" (Triangle), Claire Anderson	Oct. 19	2600
"Heart of Rachael, The" (Hodkinson), Bessie Barriscale	Oct. 12	2447
"He Comes Up Smiling" (Artcraft), Douglas Fairbanks	Sept. 21	1923
"Her Country First" (Paramount), Vivian Martin	Sept. 14	1762
"Hobbs in a Hurry" (American-Pathe), William Russell	Oct. 12	2454
"Hun Within, The" (Paramount), Dorothy Gish	Sept. 7	1599
"Italy's Flaming Front" (First National)	Sept. 7	1598
"Japanese Nightingale, A" (Pathe), Fanny Ward	Sept. 7	1600
"Johanna Enlists" (Artcraft), Mary Pickford	Sept. 14	1754
"Just for Tonight" (Goldwyn-Tom Moore)	Sept. 28	2088
"Just Sylvia" (World), Barbara Castleton	Oct. 19	2601
"Kildare of Storm" (Metro), Emily Stevens	Oct. 5	2250
"Kingdom of Youth, The" (Goldwyn), Madge Kennedy	Oct. 19	2593
"Kiss or Kill" (Universal Special), Herbert Rawlinson	Oct. 19	2604
"Kultur" (Fox-Victory), Gladys Brockwell	Sept. 14	1755
"Laughing Bill Hyde" (Goldwyn), Will Rogers	Oct. 5	2245
"Law of the North, The" (Paramount-Ince), Charles Ray	Sept. 21	1915
"Little Miss Grown-Up" (General), Gloria Joy	Oct. 19	2602
"Love's Law" (Mutual), Gail Kane	Sept. 7	1597
"Lure of Luxury, The" (Bluebird), Ruth Clifford	Oct. 12	2452
"Mantle of Charity, The" (American-Pathe), Margarita Fisher	Oct. 12	2457
"Marriage Ring, The" (Paramount), Enid Bennett	Sept. 21	1922
"Mating, The" (Vitagraph), Gladys Leslie	Oct. 12	2456
"Man from Funeral Range, The" (Paramount), Wallace Reid	Oct. 19	2595
"Modern Love" (Universal), Mae Murray	Sept. 14	1757
"Money Isn't Everything" (American-Pathe), Margarita Fisher	Sept. 28	2090
"Mr. Logan, U. S. A." (Fox), Tom Mix	Sept. 28	2086
"Mystic Faces" (Triangle), Jack Abbe	Sept. 14	1760
"Nymph of the Foothills, A" (Vitagraph), Gladys Leslie	Sept. 14	1759
"On the Jump" (Fox), George Walsh	Oct. 19	2594
"Out of a Clear Sky" (Paramount), Marguerite Clark	Oct. 5	2249
"Pals First" (Metro-Screen Classics), Harold Lockwood	Oct. 5	2248
"Peck's Bad Girl" (Goldwyn), Mabel Normand	Sept. 28	2083
"Prisoners of the Pines" (Hampton-Hodkinson), J. Warren Kerrigan,	Sept. 14	1761
"Prussian Cur, The" (Fox Special), Miriam Cooper	Sept. 7	1592
"Queen of Hearts" (Fox), Virginia Pearson	Oct. 5	2247
"Queen of the Sea" (Fox Special), Annette Kellermann	Sept. 14	1752
"Rainbow Trail, The" (Fox), William Farnum	Oct. 5	2244
"Return of Mary, The" (Metro), May Allison	Oct. 12	2453
"Riders of the Purple Sage" (Fox Standard), William Farnum)	Sept. 21	1913
"Road to France, The" (World), Carlyle Blackwell	Oct. 12	2450
"Ruling Passions" (Schomer Photoplay), Julia Dean	Oct. 12	2451
"Sauce for the Goose" (Select), Constance Talmadge	Sept. 7	1595
"Salome" (Fox Super-Production), Theda Bara	Oct. 19	2592
"Secret Code, The" (Triangle), Barney Sherry	Sept. 14	1764
"Silent Woman, The" (Metro), Edith Storey	Sept. 14	1758
"Society Sensation, A" (Bluebird), Carmel Myers	Sept. 28	2092
"Soul Without Windows, A" (World), Ethel Clayton	Sept. 28	2091
"Such a Little Pirate" (Paramount), Lila Lee	Oct. 19	2599
"Sporting Life" (Tourneur)	Sept. 28	2083
"Strange Woman, The" (Fox), Gladys Brockwell	Oct. 12	2444
"Swat the Spy" (Fox), Jane and Katherine Lee	Oct. 12	2448
"Talk of the Town, The" (Universal), Dorothy Phillips	Sept. 21	1923
"Temple of Dusk, The" (Haworth-Mutual), Sessue Hayakawa	Oct. 5	2259
"That Devil Bateese" (Universal), Monroe Salisbury	Sept. 7	1607
"Three Mounted Men" (Universal Special), Harry Carey	Oct. 12	2455
"Till I Come Back to You" (Artcraft), Bryant Washburn	Sept. 7	1601
"Together" (Bluebird), Violet Mersereau	Oct. 19	2606
"To Him That Hath" (World), Montagu Love	Sept. 21	1921
"T'other Dear Charmer" (World), Louise Huff	Sept. 7	1596
"Treason" (Mutual), Edna Goodrich	Oct. 19	2597
"Turn of the Wheel, The" (Goldwyn), Geraldine Farrar	Sept. 14	1753
"Untamed" (Triangle), Roy Stewart	Sept. 7	1604
"Unexpected Places" (Metro), Bert Lytell	Oct. 12	2446
"Velvet Hand, The" (Universal), Fritzi Brunette	Oct. 5	2252
"Vive La France" (Paramount), Dorothy Dalton	Oct. 5	2257
"Whatever the Cost" (Plaza-Hodkinson), Anita King	Oct. 19	2605
"Why American Will Win" (Fox Special)	Sept. 21	1918
"Woman of Impulse, A" (Paramount), Lina Cavalieri	Sept. 28	2089
"Yellow Dog, The" (Jewel)	Sept. 28	2080
"Your Fighting Navy" (Educational)	Sept. 21	1912

Everything the Showman Needs on Every Picture Released

The Complete Plan Book

Advance Reviews

[In addition to Advance Reviews—covering pictures shown too early to be included in The Complete Plan Book—readers will also find under this heading each week the reviews of short features and serial episodes.]

"The Romance of Tarzan"

(First National—Directed by Wilfred Lucas)

THOSE exhibitors who played to a profit with "Tarzan of the Apes" certainly ought to book this feature which continues the story. Tarzan is taken from the jungle, set down in San Francisco society, is compromised with a woman by his jealous rival, returns to the jungle when the girl of his heart doubts him, and is later joined by her when she learns his true worth.

"The Romance of Tarzan" has loads of action, good thrills and a plentiful supply of comedy. This latter is furnished by Tarzan's efforts to get along in polite society. When he is in a hurry to exit from a crowded ball room he leaps over tables and chairs, tramples on ladies' trains and causes general confusion. When he desires to avenge an insult he immediately sets on his man even though he be surrounded by a number of polite folk in evening clothes. Tarzan has the jungle idea of right and justice down to a fine degree. It is a joy to watch him put it into practice.

While the action of this feature is somewhat jumpy, this fault can be overlooked because it is not in evidence often. For the majority of the way "The Romance of Tarzan" discloses a fascinating story of the jungle-man and the civilized woman and the originality of the idea is still attractive even though the other feature has gone before. Just because you may not have played the previous subject don't stay away from "The Romance of Tarzan." It is quite complete in itself, and, if, anything, is superior to its predecessor.

Elmo Lincoln's tremendous physique fits him remarkably well for the lead part. Enid Markey is pleasing as the heroine and Cleo Madison is a fascinating adventuress. Others who appear are Thomas Jefferson, Colin Kenny, Nigel de Brullier, Phil Dunham, Monte Blue, Clyde Benson and John Cook.

Wilfred Lucas has made a most satisfactory job of the directing. The jungle stuff is admirable, while the comedy and thrills of the American part of the picture deserve the highest commendation in the staging.—Peter Milne.

"The Lady of the Dugout," with Al and Frank Jennings

(The Al Jennings Outlaw Stories. To be sold to State Right Buyers by Ernest Shipman)

YOU will grit your teeth and strain the muscles of your body, in an effort to suppress your emotions, while looking at this picture, but you will not succeed. Your efforts will prove impotent, in spite of the fact that to be caught with a tear in your eye may shock your dignity.

I have yet to see a picture that possesses the power to affect the finer human emotions as this one does. And the funny part of it is that it has not been announced with bands or trumpets, nor advertised as being a wonderful masterpiece with millions of dollars having been expended in the production. Neither have we been told that fifteen authors have been sent up among the clouds to get an inspiration. It is simply a page from the life of the once outlawed Jenning brothers, but entirely different from what our conception of it naturally is. It presents the human side of their lives and is full of heart appeal.

How could it be otherwise? The two brothers, during one of their wandering expeditions, enter a dugout in a prairie, with the idea of begging for something to eat. There they find a woman and a little child who had nothing to eat for two days because the drunken husband spent the money. One of them then rides his horse twenty-four miles to the nearest neighbor for food, not for themselves, as hungry as they are, but for the woman and the child. The brother returns with what little grub he could obtain. The other brother whispers to him that every bite they get reduces the woman's provisions by so much. They get along with coffee alone for supper and the same for breakfast. After leaving next day they send a wagonload of provisions. Are acts like these not always heart appealing?

These are only a few of the situations. The same spirit of kindness animates their actions throughout the picture, thereby maintaining sympathy.

This production is the best answer to those who, in an attempt to write original stories, overlook the simple but wonderful material that lies within their grasp and resort to loathsome subjects.

It is an attraction absolutely fit to show in the best of theatres. It will give universal satisfaction.—P. S. Harrison.

"Mother I Need You," with Enid Markey

(Lloyd Carleton Prod. Offered to State Right Buyers by Ernest Shipman)

NO adjectives, however strong, could adequately describe the vileness of this subject.

There was a time when subjects of this nature would manage to find their way into some theatres, but the producers of this one are apparently ignorant of the fact that that time has gone forever. Features of this type caused enough trouble while the craze lasted, proving the source of censorial activities.

Had there been even a trace of human appeal in this picture, I wouldn't hesitate to say so, but there is absolutely none. The first part of it almost bewilders you. Its chief function is to introduce characters who do nothing else but move around. Just about the time you hope there might be an end, some more are introduced. Not until about the end of the third reel does the real action begin. Then:

The heroine, a young and inexperienced girl, is invited out by

(Continued on page 2717)

"THE KAISER'S FINISH"—WARNERS

An Intelligently Produced "Kaiser Subject," with a New Twist

THIS picture presents the Kaiser as a villain, but from a new angle. The story is chiefly fiction, but it has been constructed intelligently and carries an air of convincingness, therefore it will entertain.

The villain (the Kaiser, of course) is introduced in the pre-war period as purposely seeking illegitimate relations with peasant women. The children born are sent to different parts of the world and there raised. When grown to the right age, they are told who their father is. They are thus depended upon to form a reliable foundation on which to build the German spy machinery.

Such one is the hero of the story, who is transplanted in the United States. But he proves to be a true American. He begs permission of the U. S. Secret Service Department to uncover the machinery of the German Spy system and thus serve humanity.

The Germans, who are ignorant of the hero's loyalty to this country, send him to Germany. There he succeeds in killing the Crown Prince and blowing up the Kaiser and himself, with a high explosive. He thus dies true to the principles of democracy.

Several actual war scenes have been inserted in the story which will undoubtedly arouse patriotic enthusiasm.

It seems that every picture produced with the Kaiser as the central figure has invariably proved a good box office attraction. This one will, no doubt, do its share.

To be released on a state right basis.—Length, 6½ reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Robert Busch.....Earl Schenck
Crown Prince.....Earl Schenck
Emily Busch.....Claire Whitney
Richard Busch.....Percy Standing
The Kaiser.....Louis Dean
Butler.....Vic De Linsky

AD TALK

Patrons of the ———— theatre will have the opportunity of seeing one of the most amazing pieces of animated fiction in "The Kaiser's Finish," when it is shown here on ———— of ———— week, that has been produced since the European war started. This story is based on the Kaiser's practice of contracting illegitimate relations with peasant women of Germany, subsequently sending the offspring to distant parts of the world that they may be ready to serve the German Government when the much looked forward to "Day" arrives.

It is with one of these unrecognized sons of the Kaiser that "The Kaiser's Finish" centers around. He is Robert Busch who believes himself an American of plain German descent. At the outbreak of the war Dr. Strumpf, his guardian, acquaints him with the real identity of his parents, believing that the knoweldge that the Kaiser is his father will serve to make him eager to fight for Germany. But Robert has had the principles of American democracy instilled in him since childhood, and as a result the whole revelation is disgusting to him. However, he feigns loyalty to the Kaiser in order to serve the government he loves most—that of the United States of America.

How he makes his way to the headquarters of the German army, kills the Crown Prince, whom he closely resembles, and makes his way into the Kaiser's presence, forms a series of events of a thrilling nature. Here before the vicious war lord Robert pours forth his scorn for German militarism, and his fast faith in the principles of democracy. After a scathing speech he kills the Kaiser, and then to save himself from falling into the hands of the Prussians, he blows up the palace, war lords, himself and all with a high-power bomb that the Kaiser was examining.

THE STORY

Years before the present war the Kaiser, on one of his visits to an army camp, sees a pretty peasant woman in her cottage, and, entering, ravages her. Her husband, returning, is infuriated, and strikes the Emperor to the ground. He is immediately shot. The wife bears a baby boy, Robert, who is sent to America in charge of Dr. Strumpf. When he grows to manhood he believes himself the son of Richard Busch, a wealthy German-American. When the war breaks out Emily Busch, the girl whom he believes his sister, urges him to enlist. Robert consults Dr. Strumpf, and learns his true parentage. He conceals his wrath from the physician, and agrees to join the German propagandists in the United States.

However, Robert is in constant touch with the American Secret Service. In this way he traps various members of the German spy ring. At length Robert is entrusted with an important message to the Kaiser. The day before his departure for Europe the entire ring of spies is taken into custody. Busch, Robert's foster-father, is among those. In disgrace he commits suicide.

Robert makes his way to German army headquarters after many a thrilling adventure, where he meets the German Crown Prince. He notices the remarkable resemblance between him and his half-brothr, and when the opportunity presents itself kills him. Using a fake moustache Robert easily passes himself off as the Crown Prince until he comes before the Kaiser. The Emperor immediately notices the difference but Robert, his chance come, roundly denounces the Kaiser, and then kills him. When the Kaiser's followers attempt to take him into custody, he seizes a bomb, and dashes it to the floor, killing all the war lords of Germany as well as himself.

CATCH LINES

How an offspring of the Kaiser, unrecognized in America, brought death and destruction to the man who thought to rule the world.

Robert Busch, an American, was amazed to learn that the Kaiser was his father. His guardian believed that this knowledge would make him loyal to Germany; but, quite the contrary, it made him yet more loyal to the United States. See the startling and dramatic events of this great photoplay.

Enacted by practically the same cast that appeared in the Gerard picture, "My Four Years in Germany."

Thus spoke Robert Busch to the Kaiser: "I am your son, but I am also a son of America. Kaiserism with its stench of murder, maiming, destruction, devastation, suffering and lowest criminality is a thing loathed and despised."

The Crown Prince and the Kaiser meet death at the hands of their American relative.

Laying bear one of the most criminal and horrible weapons employed by the Kaiser in his effort to control the world.

SUGGESTIONS

This feature besides presenting an unusual Kaiser story, the various prominent points of which you may find it good to play up, if your audience likes the sensational, offers a fine opportunity for the unusual in advertising. The publicity department has furnished some striking ad cuts, one of which is reproduced on this page, but if you prefer to get up your own display a number of ideas suggest themselves for the novel advertisement.

In the wording of the advertisements treat the subject in lighter vein; that is follow out the general scheme of the title. "The boys are finishing the Kaiser's army over there, the Kaiser meets a like inglorious finish in ————," and similar lines could be used across the top of an advertisement. Lines such as this certainly serve to attract attention better than the cut-and-dried advertisement. They are light, and at the same time never suggest that the picture is a comedy.

Lobby displays in the way of special drawings can easily be arranged by an artist with imagination. Or you might go through your local papers and pick out a few of the particularly good cartoons representing the Kaiser in one of his disturbed frames of mind. These have been appearing in the paper frequently of late, and a collection of them in a lobby frame, centered around your announcement of the picture should attract interest.

MANUFACTURERS' ADS

Manufacturers' advertisements from which exhibitors can glean interesting information and advertising suggestions on this picture appeared in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS, October 12 issue, Pages 2134, 2135, 2136 and 2137; October 5 issue, Pages 2292 and 2293.

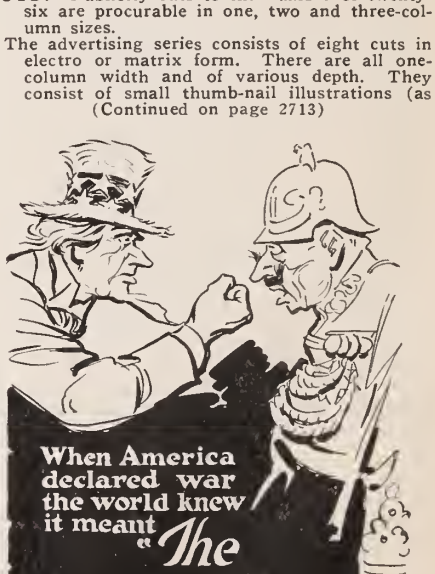
ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—There are two one-sheets; two three-sheets; one six and one twenty-four on this production.

CUTS:—Publicity cuts to the number of twenty-six are procurable in one, two and three-column sizes.

The advertising series consists of eight cuts in electro or matrix form. There are all one-column width and of various depth. They consist of small thumb-nail illustrations (as

(Continued on page 2713)



Type of One-Column Ad Furnished on This Production

"ROSEMARY CLIMBS THE HEIGHTS"—AMERICAN

Will Give Splendid Satisfaction the Verdict on This

AS was stated in advance review, in issue of October 19, on page 2607, "Rosemary Climbs the Heights" is a good picture. It will give splendid satisfaction to all Minter fans as well as other picture goers. It is about the most dramatic story every furnished this star.

The plot is well constructed and maintains the interest. It also contains some situations with heart interest.

The picture has been taken in a wooded canyon, its beautiful scenery forming the background in most of the scenes. As everybody likes natural scenery, it should add to the entertaining values.

The picture is clean.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Rosemary van Voort.....Mary Miles Minter
Ricardo Fitzmaurice.....Alan Forest
Wanda Held.....Margaret Shelby
Mme. Thamar Fedoreska.....Charlotte Mineau
Godfrey van Voort.....George Periolat
Hilda van Voort.....Nanine Wright
Jacob Lowenstein.....Jack Farrell
Andrieff.....Carl Stockdale
Cornelius Simpson.....Lewis King
Mrs. Preston-Carr.....Rosita Marstini

Story by Bernard McConville.
Scenario by Dan F. Whitcomb.
Directed by Lloyd Ingraham.

SUGGESTIONS

This may be billed as a story of Bohemian life in New York, or you might accentuate the murder mystery side of it, as this forms the body of the picture. The exhibitor knows best which particular angle will appeal to his patrons. Miss Minter deserves to be featured. All publicity that she has ever had has been free from contracts, salary and kindred ailments of other big stars. She has a good hold on the public because of her youth, sweetness and sincerity.

If you use cut-outs, one of Miss Minter gaining the top of a steep hill and the open country, with the turbulent city below, might be suitable. This is suggested by the title of the picture and is indicative of its character.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—One one-sheet, one three-sheet, one six-sheet. One-sheet contains attractive pose of Mary Miles Minter. Other paper is generally well gotten up and gives good idea of character of production.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—Eight 11 x 14 photos and the title card, one 22 x 28 of scene, one 22 x 28 of star.

HELPS FOR DISPLAY ADVERTISING INCLUDE:—One three-column, one two-column and one single-column layouts.

SLIDE AND MUSIC CUE SHEET.

AD TALK

Mary Miles Minter, the dainty American favorite will be the star at the ——— theatre beginning ——— of ——— week for a period of ——— days. Miss Minter's latest picture is entitled "Rosemary Climbs the Heights" and is a pretty love story combined with an engrossing murder mystery. It was written for her by Bernard McConville, one of the foremost screen writers of the day. Mr. McConville served a valuable apprenticeship with the old Fine Arts Company under the direction of D. W. Griffith and while with that company wrote a number of successful photoplays. Recently his work has been appearing under a number of brands and "Rosemary Climbs the Heights" is one of the most skillful stories he has yet constructed.

Miss Minter appears to attractive advantage as Rosemary, the girl who goes to the city and is embarked on a successful career as an artist when she becomes the innocent victim of misguided justice. There is a murder in the same apartment house as that in which Rosemary resides and through a series of coincidences that make her appear guilty beyond a doubt, she is arrested and brought to trial. It is only at the last moment that the confession of a witness of the murder frees Rosemary. She returns to the pursuit of her career and the man she loves, a musician.

The supporting cast is of the usual high order always noticeable in pictures bearing the American brand. Alan Forrest, Margaret Shelby, the star's sister, Charlotte Mineau, George Periolat and Carl Stockdale are among the prominent screen players who assume roles of importance. Lloyd Ingraham, a capable and versatile director, was in charge of the production which bears finish and polish in every department.

THE STORY

Rosemary van Voort, daughter of an old resident of lower New York state, has a talent for wood carving. One day she encounters a party of artists from the city on an outing in the forests near her home. Ricardo Fitzmaurice is the first to realize that her work shows talent and the members of the party suggest that she come to New York to pursue her art. As her father is growing feeble, Rosemary agrees. In the city her work soon attracts attention and she begins to earn money. Ricardo, loving her, works with fervor on his opera that he too may be a success and worthy of her love.

Ricardo is loved by Mme. Fedoreska, a Russian. When she realizes that Ricardo has no love for her she is furious. This she discovers at a masque ball when Ricardo monopolizes all of Rosemary's dances. When the Russian woman returns to her apartment she receives a shock. Her husband, whom she had been instrumental in sending to Siberia, is there with their son. There is a heated argument, resulting in a tragedy. Mme. Fedoreska lies dead. Her husband and son are no where to be found.

Rosemary, who occupies a room in the same house, is accused of the crime because her pistol is found beside the dead body. Things look black, indeed, at the trial, for there is no bit of evidence on which she can build her plea of innocence. She relates the hurried visit of a Russian boy to her on the night of the murder; blubbering and crying, and then his disappearance. When the case seems hopeless the boy enters a police station and tells of the manner in which his father shot Mme. Fedoreska and how she stabbed him. The man had died later.

Thus is Rosemary freed. Prosperity and a happy future loom before her and Ricardo, the man she loves.

CATCH LINES

Mary Miles Minter in her latest and most beautiful American photoplay.

A story of Bohemian life in New York City.

An innocent girl accused of a foul murder—every bit of evidence points against her—her acquital by the merest turn of chance.

Written by Bernard McConville who fits stars with pictures as a tailor does his customers with clothes.

An innocent artist becomes entangled in a Russian family squabble that ends in tragedy.

Bearing the usual polish that is a happy conventionality with the case of every American production.

A story of life in the artists' quarters of New York City—one of the most attractive sections of the metropolis.

Plan Book Help
Takes All the Worry Off
Your Own Shoulders

Bank On It

Scene from "Rosemary Climbs the Heights"

"PRIVATE PEAT"—ARTCRAFT

Faithful Treatment of a Famous Book Should Put This Over

IN exploiting this picture you will be compelled to lay stress on the patriotic nature of the theme more than on the production's quality. Another good point that is natural for you to bring out will be the fact that the production has been based on the well known war book and that Private Peat himself, the author of the book and a very young fellow, takes the leading part. In doing so you will probably give much better satisfaction, as the impression your patrons will get will be that they are seeing things as they actually happened.

The plot has been constructed in the form of a narrative. In plain words, the hero tells, in the first person, how things occurred.

Almost half of the picture, at the beginning, has been wasted in tiresome details, the kind one sees in News Weeklies. For instance, there are scenes of his first application for enlistment and rejection, as not coming up to the requirements; his second and successful application; views of his training at camp in the different stages. Not until the end of the fourth reel does any real action begin. Then we see some interesting and somewhat thrilling trench fighting at night which is spectacular.

The story also deals with the brutality of the Germans in Belgium. Scenes of the shooting of civilians, a fact proven authentically, are shown together with news of the manner in which civilians were used in screening the German troops to prevent their being fired at.—Released Oct. 13 (Special).—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Private Peat.....Harold R. Peat
Mary, later Mrs. Peat.....Miriam Fouche
Old Bill, the Blacksmith.....William T. Sorelle

From the book, "Private Peat," by Harold R. Peat. Published by Bobbs-Merrill Company.
Scenario by Charles Whittaker.
Directed by Edward Jose.

SUGGESTIONS

Harold Peat's book, "Private Peat," published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company, has a record as one of the best sellers produced by the war. As a consequence the prominent display of the name in all advertising will do more good than any number of ballyhoos or wild lobby displays. You might, however, be able to secure some trench trophies for your lobby during the run of the feature. These always attract attention wherever displayed.

The picture offers the usual book store stunt, but we are inclined to believe that the book dealer will be rather independent if you come to him on the "Private Peat" proposition. You might, however, arrange to sell copies of the book in your lobby, while the display of books previously referred to in these pages is not an idea to be overlooked. Simply obtain two or three copies, and open them to various exciting passages in the story. These in your glass enclosed frames will attract interest.

AD TALK

Harold R. Peat, the Canadian citizen who was one of the first to become a soldier in the cause of civilization will be the featured attraction at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week, when the film version of his book bearing the title of "Private Peat," will be shown for the first time in this city. "Private Peat" is a Paramount-Artcraft special attraction, and its contents give ample proof of the cause for which it was raised to such a position of importance on this program of excellent pictures. No more inspiring story of the war has been turned out on the films than this which contains not one line of fiction, but true and glorious facts.

For the benefit of American audiences, Private Peat in the picture becomes a soldier in the ranks of the American army, but otherwise the events of his book are set down exactly as written. It is engrossing, indeed, to follow the incidents which led to his enlistment. At the outbreak of the war he seeks to enlist several times, but the doctors refuse him—because his chest expansion is too small. But Peat is not to be refused on such grounds. And at length, desperate, he invents two brothers killed in France and a mother and sister destitute somewhere on invaded territory. He is good at telling stories for the recruiting officers forget his small chest and over he goes.

Peat's experiences at the front are told in detail on the screen. They are experiences that a million other soldiers have gone through, and each one's career at the front if told on the films would probably make just as interesting seeing as Private Peat's. But it is not given for them all to set down their experiences. So see Peat's. Your own boy's letter will appear twice as interesting if you take this peep into trench life.

THE STORY

Peat, a young man who is alone in the world, works in the store of Abner Cobb in a small American village. At the outbreak of the war he attempts to enlist, but is successively turned down with each trial, because of insufficient chest expansion. He communicates this information to his sweetheart, Mary, the village school teacher, and the two are despondent about it. That night Peat reads in the newspaper of the devastation of Belgium and Northern France, and when he retires for the night he cannot put the thought from his mind. He dreams of his own village under German invasion, of atrocities common on European soil enacted again in his free land, and in the morning he awakes with a start.

And Peat with this dream still running through his mind makes a last trial at the recruiting office. He invents two brothers killed in France, and a mother and sister homeless somewhere on invaded soil. And, as a result, he is accepted, insufficient chest expansion and all.

Then comes the training, the trip across, the short period back of the lines, the order to move to the front, and, at last, the supreme moment, "Over the top." The charge is successful, and the force of which Peat is a member, take a village formerly held by the Germans. But ammunition runs low, and volunteers are asked to return to the munition dump for more. Peat is one of the volunteers, and returning from the perilous mission is shot through the lungs. The dressing station to which he is conveyed after two days' lying in the open is bombed by Germans notwithstanding the Red Cross flag, but Peat escapes injury this time.

At the base hospital he recovers quickly, but is discharged, honorably from the army. Mary greets him, and before he returns to the United States he makes her his wife.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—Two one-sheets; two three-sheets; one six, one rotrogravure one-sheet and one 24-sheet stand. This paper is some of the best issued by Paramount-Artcraft. The title is prominently displayed on all the paper, and the scenes selected indicate the grim humor of war more than the tragic side. The first one-sheet is a portrait of Peat, the second shows him in a "closeup" at mess. There is an excellent three showing a soldier with bayonet in foreground, while in the background is barbed wire and bursting shells—the soldier smiles. The other three shows one soldier assisting another who is wounded. The six is light, again showing soldier prodding the last of a line of German prisoners with his bayonet. The twenty-four is a trench scene.

PHOTOS:—The usual line of photos for lobby display are provided on this feature, and include eight 8 x 10 black and white; eight 11 x 14 sepia; one 22 x 28 sepia, and the 8 x 10 photos of star.

CUTS AND MATS ON PRODUCTION:—Five one-column, three two-column and two three-column. These show poses of Peat and interesting scenes from production.

ADVERTISING LAYOUTS (MATS):—These are furnished in the one, two and three-column sizes as on all Paramounts.

CATCH LINES

Peat's chest expansion was not up to standard, and so the army turned him down. But did this stop him? Never! He invented two brothers killed in battle and a mother and sister suffering in invaded territory! And they took him, poor chest and all—this patriot without a living relative!

Your boy, your brother, your sweetheart, husband, sees the army life pictured in "Private Peat" day in and day out. See this picture and his letters will be twice as interesting as they are even now.

Harold R. Peat was one of the first Canadians to go over. He was with twelve thousand others—the joke of the war these untried poorly-drilled troops—but they turned back twenty thousand Huns, and the world rang with praises for the Canadians—no more the joke but the heroes.

Peat fought at Ypres, at St. Julian and St. Eloi, at Langemarck and Vimy Ridge, where some of the most terrific battles of the war took place.

One-Column Ad Cut

"THIRTY A WEEK"—GOLDWYN

"Give Tom Moore More Stories Like This," Says Harrison

THERE is no reason in the world why Tom Moore should not create a steady following that will go to see him whether it rains or shines. He has the appearance and ability, and is seconded ably by the young lady playing opposite him. But he must be furnished with stories of the same excellence as this one is, presenting him as a thing human.

The plot of this picture is simply an every day occurrence, such as you have seen in real life yourself or read in newspapers. Not one point in it is exaggerated. He is a chauffeur, she the daughter of his wealthy boss. Although engaged to another, a weakling, the heroine is in love with the chauffeur and they marry. Papa is angry and wants to bring about a divorce but without success. Due to a misunderstanding the couple become estranged, but when the father finds out his son-in-law is a real man, a reconciliation is brought about and everybody is happy.

There is light comedy and romance in the first part of the picture. The balance contains splendid dramatic values. The estrangement is pathetic, while the reconciliation is correspondingly productive of joyfulness. The sight of a son showing boundless love to his mother brings lots of sympathy to the hero. Grace Henderson, as the mother, looks very much like one.

This attraction should please everybody. It is clean and offers a wholesome entertainment.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Dan Murray.....TOM MOORE
Barbara Wright.....Tallulah Bankhead
Mr. Wright.....Alec B. Francis
Mrs. Wright.....Brenda Fowler
Freddy Ruyter.....Warburton Gamble
Mrs. Murray.....Grace Henderson
Minnie Molloy.....Ruth Elder
By Thompson Buchanan.
Directed by Harry Beaumont.
Photographed by George Webber.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—There are ones, threes and sixes on this production, as well as the stock twenty-four-sheet.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—Scene stills come in the regulation sizes: 8 x 10, 11 x 14 and 22 x 28; all attractively colored.

ADVERTISING CUTS:—These are supplied in one and two-column sizes, contain selected scenes from the production and are attractively lettered.

TEXT CUTS:—There are two one-column cuts of Moore and one two-column. There are also two two-column scene cuts and a one-column of Moore and Miss Bankhead.

MUSIC CUE SHEET and current and coming slides also procurable at all Goldwyn exchanges.

AD TALK

Tom Moore, who made such a hit with patrons of the ———— theatre in his first starring picture, "Just for Tonight," returns to the house on ———— of ———— week in "Thirty a Week," a romantic comedy-drama of the first class. While the previous picture met with approval on all sides it is not stretching the point to say that the present one is superior to it in many ways. It is based on the popular play of the same name by Thompson Buchanan, an experienced author. Certainly Mr. Buchanan's comedy sense showed itself well in the writing of "Thirty a Week." Sparkling originality marks almost every passage of consequence in the picture and with Mr. Moore as the chief player they appear in a particularly attractive light.

The star is cast as Dan Murray, a chauffeur who loves and is loved by his employer's daughter, Barbara Wright. Barbara thinks Dan much superior to the average man she meets in her own set. He is a gentleman, keen and good looking. Barbara doesn't ask for more. But how to get Dan is a question, as he realizes the difference in their positions and hesitates to propose. So finally Barbara hits upon a plan to make him speak the magic words. While out riding, the car breaks down and Dan seeks the cause of the trouble. He is so engrossed in his seeking that he doesn't notice Barbara removing one of the vital plugs of the engine. So when the car won't go there is nothing to do but to stay out all night as they are far from shelter. Moved by the magic of the moonlight Dan proposes and the next day Mr. Wright hears of a marriage that doesn't please him at all—.

But we aren't going to tell you all the happy story here. Mr. Moore, aided by Tallulah Bankhead and Alec Francis, do it much better on the screen.

THE STORY

Dan Murray is only a chauffeur but he is a thorough-going gentleman and good looking—and this is exactly the sort of a fellow that Barbara Wright wants for a husband. Barbara, however, has the misfortune to be the daughter of Dan's very rich employer and while she is well aware of that fact that Dan loves her equally as well as she loves him, she is also well aware of the fact that he will not speak his love because of the gulf that money throws between them. So Barbara resorts to strategy. While she is out motoring a long-awaited motor trouble causes Dan to get out and get under and while he is thus occupied Barbara removes a very important part of the engine. And the darned thing just refuses to move after that.

And then night comes on and at first Dan is quite petrified but it is much easier to speak of love at night when there is a nice moonlight and Dan just can't control himself. He speaks. Barbara nods. Elopement. Marriage. Result: a furious Mr. Wright insisting that the whole thing shall be annulled. But Barbara and Dan are not to be so frightened. They set up house keeping and make an attempt to get along—but it's hard, for Mr. Wright causes Dan's discharge from several positions.

At last, an old friend offers Dan the chance to drive his car in a race and Dan brings her in third and wins five hundred dollars. This, in the very goodness of his heart, he turns over to Minnie Malloy, a friend of his family's whose husband needs to be taken West. Barbara's rejected suitor sees this and reports to her. Unhappy, she returns to her home. Dan is offered a large sum by the family lawyer to permit the marriage to be annulled, but he refuses and the lawyer learns the truth. When Wright hears of this he immediately sends for Dan and offers him his hand. His generosity has touched the old gentleman's heart. And as for Barbara!

CATCH LINES

Tom Moore, Goldwyn's new star in his second picture—a lively, romantic comedy-drama in which he receives excellent support from pretty Tallulah Bankhead and sterling Alec Francis.

Barbara Wright knew that Dan, her chauffeur, loved her and at the same time knew that he wouldn't propose. So naughty Barbara fixed it so that he was forced to stay out all night with her—then he just had to speak the words.

Exceeding in the elements of romance and comedy even the previous Tom Moore picture, "Just for Tonight."

How much does it take for a chauffeur to support a millionaire's daughter as his wife? More than "Thirty a Week?" See Goldwyn's latest and find out.

Tom Moore—a star who relies on neither guns nor clothes, neither patent leather hair nor stunts to put his work over. All Tom needs is Tom.

SUGGESTIONS

Many exhibitors are finding that comedy-dramas are gaining in popularity with each day and many have also discovered that Tom Moore is one of the most popular stars in this type of production. "Thirty a Week" is his second starring vehicle and should not be overlooked because of the above mentioned reasons. Play it up as a romantic comedy enacted by attractive players and feature Moore heavily. Along with this there is the good, snappy titles that should prove an added attraction.

MANUFACTURERS' ADS

Manufacturer's advertisements from which exhibitors can glean interesting information and advertising suggestions on this picture appeared in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS October 19 issue, page 2473; October 12 issue, pages 2278 and 2279.

One-Column Scene Cut at Goldwyn Exchanges

"THE FORBIDDEN CITY"—SELECT

One of Norma Talmadge's Best—A Correction

IN the extensive review, published in the advance section of October 19th issue, on page 2607, it was stated that it wsan't clear whether the hero and the heroine, in the first section of the picture, are married or not, thus leaving the standing of the child uncertain. This department has been informed since by the producers that there is a marriage scene shown, which was cut out by the management of the theatre, with other scenes, in order to reduce it to the proper length for their requirements. The picture will reach the exchanges throughout the country complete. This naturally eliminates any trace of suggestiveness.

The attraction may well be considered one of the best Norma Talmadge subjects released. It possesses all the elements that go to make a picture pleasing. It combines art and entertainment.

The interior setting used may rightly be classed as marvelous, which, combined with the splendid portrayal of the Mandarin and other Chinese characters, produce a Chinese atmosphere that is real.

It is a clean attraction and the kind that should please almost everybody.—Length, 6½ reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Mandarin.....Michael Rayle
Wong Li.....A. E. Warren
San San, his daughter....NORMA TALMADGE
John Worden, U. S. Consulate Secretary
Thomas Meighan
The Chinese Emperor.....L. Rogers Lytton
Toy, daughter of John Worden and San San
NORMA TALMADGE
Lieut. Philip Halbert, U. S. A.....Reid Hamilton
By George Scarborough.
Scenario by Mary Murillo.
Directed by Sidney A. Franklin.
Photographed by Edward Wynard.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—One one-sheet (scene of production), one one-sheet (star, special for this production), two three-sheets (one of scene and the other of star), one six-sheet (scene), one twenty-four-sheet (scene).
CUTS (ELECTROS):—Two one-column, two two-column, one three-column; all these of production. Star cuts are furnished in one-half, one and two-column sizes. These are new cuts containing different poses of the star.
LOBBY DISPLAY:—Nine 8 x 10 black and white scenes and title card, seven 11 x 14 colored scenes and title card, two 22 x 28 horizontal "flats" colored, one 22 x 28 star portrait colored (stock).
SLIDE, MUSIC CUE SHEET.

AD TALK

Norma Talmadge comes to the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week in her latest Select photoplay, "The Forbidden City," for a stay of ——— days. This feature is one of the most pretentious ever undertaken by Miss Talmadge both in the way of setting and dramatic situations. It was written for her by George Scarborough, noted playwright, and the star is first seen as San San, daughter of a Chinese mandarin. Thus it is a new Norma Talmadge that appears before us. Slant-eyed, pig-tailed and clad in the rich silken costumes of the more prosperous Chinese women, she makes a striking appearance.

As this character the actress meets and falls in love with John Worden, secretary of the United States consulate. But her father has other plans for her. In order to reinstate himself in the good graces of the emperor he plans to give his daughter into the royal harem. And during Worden's absence little San San is conducted before the emperor. He is immensely pleased with her but when it is discovered that she has a baby, the emperor's wrath knows no bounds. As a result San San meets death in the Hall of Spears.

However, the romance of her daughter, Toy, and a member of the United States Army at Manila comes as a happy conclusion to this story. Miss Talmadge does splendid emotional work in both the roles. She is generally admitted to be the best of all actresses on the screen today. Her creative imagination apparently has no bounds and her work is always marked by sincerity and true feeling. Thomas Meighan is seen as Worden while the other parts are excellently taken.

S. A. Franklin, the director, has spared no pains nor expense on the settings of the production. The atmosphere is remarkable for its realism while the presence of some real Chinese in the cast adds color to the production.

THE STORY

San, San, daughter of a Chinese mandarin, loves John Worden, secretary of the U. S. Consulate. The mandarin, however, has other plans for her. In order to reinstate himself in the good graces of his Emperor he plans to give San San into the harem. And while Worden is away in another part of the empire on business, he takes her before the ruler. The emperor is greatly attacted by San San but on discovering that she is a mother his rage knows no bounds. He craftily conceals his true feelings from San San, however, and tells her that she may go on her way. Overjoyed, she starts to leave through a long hall hung with heavy tapestries. And she never reaches the other end for the emperor's soldiers thrust their spears through the curtains and little San San falls dead.

Years later, Toy, her daughter, escapes from China to Manila where she serves in the Red Cross hospital there. She meets and falls in love with Lieutenant Halbert. Halbert's guardian is none other than John Worden, now the United States consul at Manila. When he learns of the marriage contemplated by Halbert he forbids it and sends him away on a diplomatic mission. Later he is taken seriously ill and Toy nurses him back to health. It is then that Worden discovers that Toy is his own child, and, recalling the tragedy of his own early life, he changes his mind and gives Halbert permission to marry the girl of his heart.

SUGGESTIONS

You can safely go the limit on this picture for it is one of the most pretentious subjects in which Norma Talmadge has appeared. Do not be afraid to use superlatives in your advertising. Let it be known that the star assumes the role of a Chinese girl and also of her half-caste daughter. There are some excellent cuts of the star in her Oriental makeup and costume that will help make attractive newspaper stories and advertisements.

If an appropriate atmosphere is desired for the lobby and theatre, anything suggesting the far East would be desirable. If you have a large stage you might burn incense, just a small amount during the opening of the picture. The lobby could be used for decorations of anything Chinese that you might be able to secure for the presentation.

The Select press book on this subject is complete and contains two exceedingly well written feature articles that newspapers with photoplay departments should be glad to make use of.

CATCH LINES

"The Forbidden City"—an absorbing tale of the customs of the emperor's court at Pekin and a beautiful romance that lived through two generations.

Norma Talmadge is seen as the daughter of a Chinese mandarin, a role which she takes with the same sincerity and emotional depth that makes

(Continued on page 2714)

One and Two-Column Cuts in Attractive Style Also Furnished

"SECRET STRINGS"—METRO

Crook Story That Should Not Fail to Please—Interesting Plot

TO begin with, this is a crook subject. It is the first big factor in favor of it, as pictures based on themes of this character never fail to please. Then follows an interesting and sensible story, directed in an intelligent way. To cap the climax, it has an ending that, in the short space of no more than four minutes actual time, takes so many clever and surprising twists, that you really don't know how it is going to end, until the word End is flashed on the screen.

For instance, when the crook, the husband of the heroine, administers the narcotic to the supposed victims, they go to sleep. The gang gets the jewels and are about ready to make their get-away, when the maid turns the tables on the butler and has him handcuffed. She then tells him she had quietly removed the coffee containing the drug. At the same time the supposed drugged Mr. and Mrs. Giles open their eyes and get busy. They arrest all the gang and disclose to them the fact that they are detectives. The crook husband then is ordered to stretch his hands for handcuffing. While doing so, however, he grabs the pistol from the hands of the Giles's nephew and holds up the detectives. You surely think he will succeed in helping his pals get away, but is shot and killed. Don't you think the events, succeeding each other, are exciting?

Miss Tell's acting is splendid; so is that of the supporting cast. The picture should have a universal appeal. It is clean.—Released Oct. 7.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Janet Newell.....Olive Tell
Raoul Newell, her husband.....William J. Kelly
Hugh Maxwell.....Hugh Thompson
Richard de Giles.....John Daly Murphy
Mrs. de Giles.....Marie Wainwright
Ross.....Hugh Jeffrey
Williams.....Bert Tuey
Benjamin Moraud.....John A. Smiley
Katia.....Barbara Winthrop
Detective.....Edward Lawrence

Story by Kate Jordan in Ainslee's Magazine.
Scenario by June Mathis.
Directed by John Ince.
Photographed by Frank Williams.
Produced under supervision of Maxwell Karger.

CATCH LINES

Olive Tell, the beautiful Metro favorite, in one of the fastest moving crook plays ever screened.

Adapted from a story in Ainslee's Magazine by Kate Jordan, one of America's foremost writers of fiction.

A splendid star, supported by a splendid cast in a skillful production of a fascinating crook story.

There are more exciting situations in "Secret Strings" than there are in half a dozen spy plays.

AD TALK

The famous beauty of the screen and stage, Olive Tell, is to be seen on the screen of the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week in her latest Metro feature, "Secret Strings." "Secret Strings" was adapted from a story by Kate Jordon that appeared only recently in Ainslee's Magazine and it makes one of the most exciting crook plays of the season. Plot and counterplot run rife throughout the five reels; there is, indeed, not a moment when the suspense is not at the highest tension. Miss Tell handles her part beautifully and her fascinating appearance is one of the high lights of the production.

The story concerns the efforts of a gang of crooks to rob an exceedingly valuable collection of jewels from a Long Island home. To this end the leader of the gang, Raoul, places his wife, Janet, in the house as maid. Janet is unaware of the real reason for her presence there. Raoul has told her that the owners of the house have robbed an innocent friend of papers giving him title to South American property. As a consequence she believes she is serving the cause of justice by entering the house. It is not long, however, before she discovers the true mission of her husband. But he forces her to stay on, threatening to tell the man she loves, Hugh Maxwell, that she is married to him, unless she accede to his demands.

The climax of this exciting story comes when the residents of the house reveal themselves as detectives, well aware of Raoul's reason for being in the house. In an attempt to escape he is shot and so Janet is left free to marry Hugh. William J. Kelly, Hugh Thompson, Marie Wainwright and John Daly Murphy are seen in Miss Tell's support.

THE STORY

Janet Newell is married to Raoul, a crook. When she discovers this she leaves his home and endeavors to make her own living by painting. She is not very successful, however, and when her husband comes to her with what appears to be an honest proposition she turns an ear. It appears, according to Raoul, that a Mr. and Mrs. de Giles of Long Island have stolen papers rightfully belonging to Langstreet, giving him title to property in South America. By producing the supposed Langstreet, ill with fever, Raoul convinces Janet that she will be serving the cause of justice if she enter the household of the de Giles and locate the papers.

Janet accepts the position of maid in the Long Island home. A guest at the house is Hugh Maxwell, the de Giles' nephew. He and Janet soon fall in love and because the wife is thoroughly ashamed of her husband she does not speak of her marriage. Soon Raoul appears at the house and introduces himself as Langstreet. It is then that Janet discovers the duplicity of her husband. She plans telling the de Giles the whole scheme but Raoul silences her by the mention of Maxwell. It is Raoul's plan to rob the de Giles' residence of the famous collection of jewels.

The butler of the house is in his employ and on the appointed evening he drugs the de Giles' coffee. With Raoul he then commences to rifle the safe but when they believe their coupe complete, the de Giles suddenly appear, not as old people, but without their disguise. They prove to be famous detectives, all the time on the trail of the crooks. Raoul attempts to make a break for liberty and is shot and killed by one of the detectives. Thus is Janet left free to marry the man she loves.

SUGGESTIONS

If your audience has favored the crook play in the past make this the dominating note in your advertising, for "Secret Strings" is one of the best of this sort. Olive Tell is a star well known on the stage and her previous appearances in Metro pictures have created for her quite a following. The story originally appeared in Ainslee's Magazine under Kate Jordan's name. She is a well known author, many of her works having been adapted to the screen.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—Colored posters include two styles of one, three and six-sheets, with star prominently displayed in either portrait or scenes.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—The usual lobby display provided on all Metro releases may be obtained on this subject. Photos are 8 x 10 in sepia; 11 x 14 in sepia and 22 x 28 of star. Title and synopsis cards are supplied to complete this display.

ADVERTISING CUTS AND MATS:—One and two-column star cuts are procurable at Metro exchanges.

SLIDES AND MUSIC CUE SHEET.

MANUFACTURERS' ADS

Manufacturers' advertisements from which exhibitors can glean interesting information and advertising suggestions on this picture appeared in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS October 12 issue, page 2319.

"THE KAISER'S FINISH"

(Continued from page 2704)

A Two-Column Cut of Star Also Provided shown on this page). The solid black background serves to attract attention no matter what position given the cut on the advertising pages. These cuts contain such good catch lines as "The biggest news story of the twentieth century will be headed the "Kaiser's Finish."

LOBBY DISPLAY:—Photographs are furnished in the standard sizes. They are 8 x 10 in black and white; 8 x 10 in sepia; 11 x 14 in sepia and, and 22 x 28 in color.

Other accessories provided on this production include two varieties of slides, a two-color herald, one broadside and a complete press sheet containing an assortment of newspaper stories.

OLIVE TELL.

"A DAUGHTER OF THE OLD SOUTH"—PARAMOUNT

A Well Produced Tale of "The Wronged Girl"

THE theme upon which this production has been based is of the questionable type. However, it will entertain those who don't mind this sort of photoplays, as it has been done well. The construction of the plot is intelligent and calculated to hold the interest throughout. It also contains several heart appealing situations.

The story presents the heroine as a Spanish girl of the South, reared according to the most inflexible formalities of her race. She is betrothed to a Spanish gentleman, but does not love him. During a visit to the church, she meets a novelist and they fall in love. They have several secret meetings in one of which he takes advantage of her.

Later the novelist meets an old sweetheart with whom he is estranged and they renew their friendship. He thus casts the heroine aside. The latter visits the other woman and divulges to her what their relations have been, but as she will not believe her, the heroine offers to prove it. Thereupon she invites the villain to dinner that evening, placing the other woman behind the curtain. The heroine then makes the novelist believe she has poisoned him, but that she still has it in her power to save his life provided he will consent to marry her. Horror-stricken, he agrees. She then calls the other woman and tells her she now can have him and that the poison is nothing but plain water.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Dolores.....Pauline Frederick
Pedro, a Spaniard.....Pedro De Cordoba
Lillian Hetherington.....Vera Beresford
Dolores' Grandmother.....Mrs. T. Randolph
Richard Ferris.....Rex McDougall
Housekeeper.....Myra Brooks
Mr. Hetherington.....J. P. Laffey

Authors: Alicia Ramsey and Rudolph de Cordova.

Adapted by Margaret Turnbull.

Directed by Emile Chautard.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—Two one-sheets, two three-sheets, one six-sheet, rotogravure one-sheet and twenty-four-sheet. One one, the six and the twenty-four are poses of Miss Frederick, the others are scenes from the production.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—Eight 8 x 10 black and white, eight 11 x 14 sepia, one 22 x 28 sepia as well as 8 x 10 photos of star.

CUTS AND MATS ON PRODUCTION:—Five one-column, three two-column, two three-column. These include poses of star in character and scenes from production.

CUTS AND MATS ON STAR (STOCK):—Five one-column, three two-column, two three-column.

SERIES OF ADVERTISING LAYOUTS (MATS):—These in one, two and three-column sizes dressed in the usual Paramount style.

SLIDE AND MUSIC CUE SHEET.

AD TALK

Pauline Frederick, one of the most brilliant emotional artists of the screen will be seen in her latest Paramount feature, "A Daughter of the Old South," at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week. This picture is based on a story by Alicia Ramsey and Rudolph de Cordova, popular magazine writers. While the story was not written for Miss Frederick in the first place, the producers realized as soon as it was published that it was the ideal vehicle for the star. It offers her the role of a Creole girl of the Old South, passionate in love and passionate in hate. The story of the manner in which a novelist won her love and then tossed it aside, of the manner in which she sought her revenge and of how finally she found true love with the man she first scorned, makes a piece of screen entertainment well worthy a visit to the ——— theatre.

Miss Frederick plays her role brilliantly and appears to unusually stunning advantage. Her support too is excellent from principal players down to the merely incidental characters, including as it does, Pedro de Cordoba, Rex McDougall, Vera Beresford, daughter of the famous Kitty Gordon, J. P. Laffey, Mrs. T. Randolph and Myra Brooks. Emile Chautard, the director, has produced the picture in excellent taste. He is a man of unusual talent and ability and one never is able to detect a false note in any of the pictures in which he has his hand.

THE STORY

Dolores, a beautiful Creole girl, is betrothed by her mother to Pedro, a wealthy Spaniard. Dolores does not know her heart and when Pedro departs on business to South America, she pines under the monotony of her existence. One day in the church she prays that a lover be sent her and, as if in answer to her supplication, there appears Richard Ferris, a novelist. He is immediately attracted by the dark beauty of the Creole girl and forgets all about his vows of love to Lillian Hetherington, an heiress of New York. He rents a cottage near Dolores' home and the two spend many delightful hours together.

When Pedro returns Dolores is cold toward him and asks her mother to postpone her wedding day. Ferris finds in Dolores a wonderful type for the heroine of his new novel and allows no thoughts of Lillian to interfere with his new love until that lady, herself, appears on the scene. Then the fickle man turns back to her and neglects Dolores. Dolores sees Ferris with Lillian and overhears him telling her of his love. She plans a revenge.

She invites Lillian to secret herself in Ferris's cottage that night. Dolores, arrayed in a rich costume, completely fascinates Ferris for the second time. When he is not looking, Dolores pours the contents of a vial marked "poison" into his glass. He drinks, and with a cry of triumph Dolores shows him the vial. In a frenzy he begs her to save him and this she agrees to do providing he will marry her. He frantically signifies his willingness and it is then that Dolores tells him that the vial contains only pure water. She draws aside the curtains and reveals Lillian, who spurns him.

Dolores, despondent, seeks to drown herself but Pedro, willing to forgive and forget, saves her. She realizes his true worth and accepts him.

CATCH LINES

Pauline Frederick, the brilliant emotional actress, in the best role of her recent career.

The story of Dolores, a Creole girl—her love and her hate—the tragedy and the happiness of her life.

"Because her lover proved faithless, Dolores made him believe she had poisoned him—the wretched man promised to marry her if she would but cure him. With a laugh of triumph, Dolores admitted that no poison had ever touched his lips while she drew aside the curtains and showed him the girl to whom he was engaged.

A splendid cast appears in support of Miss Frederick, headed by such well-known players as Pedro de Cordoba and Rex McDougall.

"THE FORBIDDEN CITY"

(Continued from page 2712)

each one of her performances an exceptional delight.

San San, because she loved an American, felt the full force of the emperor's wrath. The monarch pretended to sympathize with her and told her that she might leave his court and follow the man she loved. The exit led through a long heavily curtained passage way. On either side were the emperor's soldiers, ready at a moment's notice to send their spears through San San's body. And San San innocently and trustingly entered the passage way.

A production rich in atmosphere, in setting and in dramatic situations.

Miss Talmadge is generally considered the first emotional actress of the screen. See her work in "The Forbidden City," in which she assumes a dual role and be convinced.

A tale of the far East filled with romance and the thrills of the unknown.

MANUFACTURERS' ADS

Manufacturers' advertisements from which exhibitors can glean interesting information and advertising suggestions on this picture appeared in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS, October 5 issue, Pages 2106, 2107.

ADOLPH ZUKOR presents
PAULINE FREDERICK IN
"A Daughter of the Old South"
A Paramount Picture

There Are Two and Three-Column Ad Cuts Dressed in Similar Style

"THE PRETENDER"—TRIANGLE

Desmond Gives Satisfaction in a Western Role

WHILE Roy Stewart was spending his vacation, Cliff Smith, his director, undertook temporarily to place William Desmond in Western photoplays. The present picture is one of them, and I can assure you that it will give excellent satisfaction, because it is based on a well constructed story and has been produced well. The hero is given the human part, therefore he attracts the sympathy.

In the story, in order to hold down a job for a teacher who is injured by a fall from a horse, the hero assumes his identity. You can imagine the comedy that is caused by the sight of a rough looking individual, who, judging from his appearance, can handle the gun much easier than the pen, trying to teach school.

It is a clean picture and will appeal immensely to the lovers of the Western sort of photoplays.—Released Oct. 13.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Bob Baldwin.....Bill Desmond
Dolly Longstreet.....Ethel Fleming
Otheloe Actwell.....Gene Burr
Percival Longstreet.....Joseph Franz
Harold Whiteside.....C. E. Thurston
Seth Higgins.....Graham Pettie
Rev. Harold Upright.....Percy Challenger
Ezra Hoskish.....Walter Perkins
Hi Newsome.....Joe Singleton
By Alvin J. Neitz.
Directed by Cliff Smith.
Photographed by Steve Rounds.

CATCH LINES

There are few pictures that produce that fine feeling of warmth around the heart but "The Pretender" is one of these and Bill Desmond is one of the chief reasons for that feeling.

A comedy-drama wherein a cowboy who spells cat with a "k" takes the position of village school teacher to provide for the girl he loves.

Otheloe Actwell, head of a "ham" theatrical troupe thought to play bandit and rob the townsfolk of Freloe Beanos. But these people were too used to the real thing to let any actor get away with it. Mr. Actwell and his company thereupon landed in jail.

Bill Desmond is always ready with a smile and a joke even in the most trying circumstances—he will certainly amuse you in "The Pretender," his latest and best Triangle play.

Cowboy humor is the dryest in the world—but we guarantee that "The Pretender" will quench many a thirst for a laugh. Bill Desmond, the king-pin of smilers, won't let you scowl.

AD TALK

William Desmond, or to be more informal, as this actor prefers, Bill Desmond has turned to the western comedy-drama in "The Pretender," and the success he scores in this picture argues well for the amusement of the patrons of the ——— theatre when "The Pretender" is shown on ——— of ——— week. Bill has the role of a happy-go-lucky cowboy who refuses to take the new, tenderfoot boss of the ranch seriously. As a consequence he gets his walking papers which, in informal language again, means that he is fired.

On his way to the village Bill meets one Percival Longstreet, whose long suit does not happen to be riding horse-back. When Bill meets Percival he is lying prone on the ground quite severely injured from a few moments contact with a western pony. Percival is the new school teacher and, with tears in his eyes, he informs Bill that unless he gets the job his sister, Dolly, who is coming to live with him will starve. Now, naturally Bill is moved in the presence of tears and on learning the probable case of Dolly. And so even though he spells cat with the proverbial school boy's "k" and even though the only addition that Bill has ever done is counting heads of cattle, he figures that he might as well make a stab at the job of school teacher in Percival's place.

The situations, both humorous and thrilling, into which this venture of Bill's leads him, make five reels crammed with the most enjoyable action you have seen in many a day. Desmond appears to great advantage as the cowboy, always willing to take a chance, while Ethel Fleming makes a most pleasing Dolly. The picture was produced under the direction of Cliff Smith, the man who knows the comedy and the drama of the West as no other.

SUGGESTIONS

This is to be advertised as a western comedy-drama, and don't fail to let them know that Bill Desmond is the main exponent of the comedy. The plot, which concerns, among other things, a cowboy's efforts to teach the village school, offers a number of good advertising stunts that should be taken advantage of, providing the picture is played for any length of time. Your newspaper advertisements might be framed on the style of an announcement of a school opening. Something like this would be appropriate: "At the ——— theatre, William Desmond, 'The Pretender,' will conduct school for the townsfolk of ———. Beginning ——— from 11 A. M. until 10 P. M., he will be seen as our professor for ——— days."

This set in varying degrees of type sizes and styles will catch the eye better than the usual formal announcement. The title, name of star and theatre, should be featured as in every other advertisement. Try to get a little of the humor of the picture into your advertisements in whatever style you prepare them. Comedies and comedy-drama seem to be going better than ever these days, so don't overlook the possibilities "The Pretender" offers to create popular response.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—There are one, three and six sheets available on this production as on all Triangles.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—11 x 14 photos in sepia are furnished, and also 22 x 28 in the same style. These may also be secured in attractive tints at a slight advance in price.

CUTS:—There are two one-column cuts (one of Desmond in dramatic scene, another of Desmond and leading woman) and a two-column cut containing good scene from production.

Slide and music cue sheet also procurable.

MANUFACTURERS' ADS

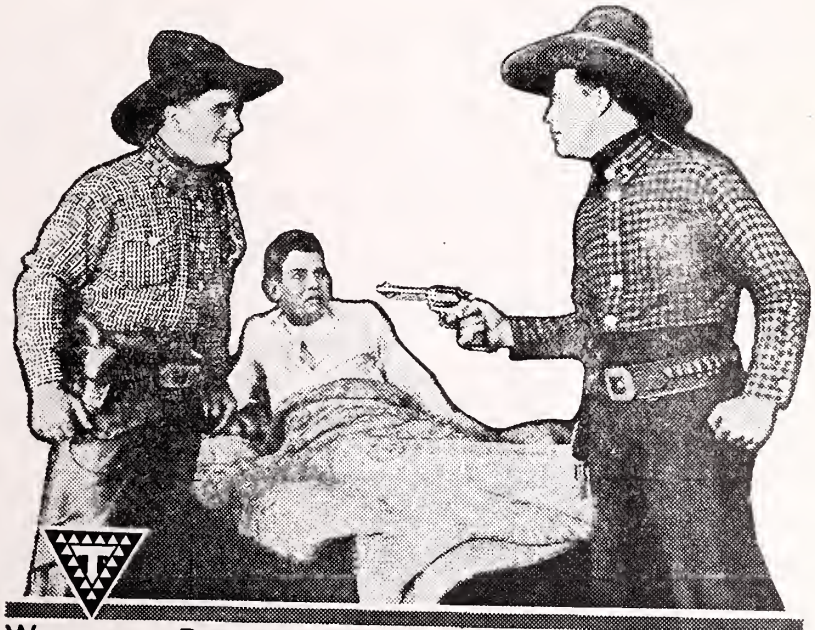
Manufacturers' advertisements from which exhibitors can glean interesting information and advertising suggestions on this picture appeared in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS, October 12 issue, Page 2328.

THE STORY

Bob Baldwin, cowboy on the Diamond K ranch is fired by the tenderfoot manager owing to his happy-go-lucky, devil-may-care ways. On the way into town he comes upon Percival Longstreet who has been thrown from his horse, sustaining serious injuries. Percival is the new school teacher for the town of Freloe Beanos and he informs Bob that if he is unable to take the job, his sister, Dolly, who is coming to live with him, will starve. So Bob volunteers to run the school and takes Percival's papers that he may lay just claim to his new position.

On Dolly's arrival she agrees to see the thing through and it is not long before Bob discovers himself in love with his supposed sister. Bob is not a wonderful success at teaching school but he manages to discipline the kiddies and the authorities are pleased with him. But there is one Otheloe Actwell, manager of a ham theatrical troupe who persists in bothering Dolly. Bob interferes, with the result that Otheloe discovers that he is not really her sister. He has Bob brought up before the town authorities and is ultimately responsible for having him discharged from the position of school teacher.

(Continued on page 2716)



WILLIAM DESMOND IN SCENE FROM TRIANGLE PLAY "THE PRETENDER"

Scene Cut Procurable at Triangle Exchanges. There Are Also One-Column Cuts on This Production

"HUGON, THE MIGHTY"—BLUEBIRD

Salisbury Has Sympathetic Role in Northwest Story

YOU will find an extensive review of this attraction on page 2591, of October 19 issue. It is one of those pictures that will give splendid satisfaction. It is based on a good story, the beautiful scenery forming the background in most of the scenes adding to the entertainment.

The hero is introduced as a big-hearted French Canadian, who is always ready to sacrifice his individual interest to those of his people. He is ever willing to help them when in need.

He meets the heroine and falls in love with her, but although he has it in his power to carry her away against her will, he does not do so, but awaits until she recognizes the real man in him, falls in love and marries him.

Mr. Salisbury wins the sympathy of the spectator from the very beginning.

This offering should prove satisfactory even among the most critical audiences.—Length, 5 reels.—P. S. Harrison.

THE CAST

Hugon.....Monroe Salisbury
Marie.....Margery Bennett
Gabriel.....Antrim Short
Priest.....Thomas H. Pearse
Roque.....George Holt
Gabriel's Mother.....Mrs. Kernan

Story and Scenario by William E. Wing.
Directed by Rollin S. Sturgeon.

ADVERTISING AIDS

PAPER:—There are two one-sheets, one of which is a good portrait of Salisbury; two three-sheets and two six-sheets on this production. All paper is printed in the usual attractive style of Bluebird subjects. The colors are attractive, the lettering striking and the selected scenes most suitable for this type of reproduction.

LOBBY DISPLAY:—There are a selection of scene and star stills in the usual standard sizes suitable for framing. They make an attractive lobby display. A title card goes with each set of stills.

ADVERTISING LAYOUTS:—Scene cuts are provided on this production in one and two-column sizes as well as star cuts. These can be used in either the text or advertising columns of the newspaper.

Slides, music cue sheet, window card and press sheet are among the other accessories procurable at Bluebird exchanges.

MANUFACTURERS' ADS

Manufacturers' advertisements from which exhibitors can glean interesting information and advertising suggestions on this picture appeared in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS, October 19 issue, Page 2462.

AD TALK

Monroe Salisbury will be the star at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week in his latest Bluebird photoplay, "Hugon, the Mighty." The role of Hugon offered Mr. Salisbury a splendid opportunity for a powerful characterization, and with his ready grasp the actor has turned it into what is probably the strongest role of his career. Hugon is a man of the Northwest, who roams the mountain peaks, happy in his freedom and his might. There is only one disturbing influence in his life, that is a vague realization that there is a power even greater than he.

How he finds the solution of all his trouble in the love and faith of a young girl, and how she brings him to a realization of God, makes an ideal photoplay from the dramatic standpoint. The picture is laid in settings that correspond to its lofty theme admirably. The mountains of the Northwest are cast upon the screen in all their natural beauty and vastness, and there are times when "Hugon, the Mighty," appears as something of a representation of a Cathedral of the Almighty.

In scenic investiture the picture is easily comparable with some of the special scenics placed on the market. Its broad vistas of mountains and open places superbly photographed are worth the price of admission alone. Rollin S. Sturgeon has made a wonderful production. He handled this type of subject many a time, and oft while with the Vitagraph Company and his experience shows to excellent advantages in "Hugon, the Mighty," Margery Bennett, sister of Enid, the Ince star, is seen opposite Mr. Salisbury, while others are George Holt and Antrim Short.

THE STORY

Hugon, the Mighty, lives at the summit of a towering mountain in the north woods, and each day glories in his strength which surpasses that of any other man in the neighborhood. Hugon's only unhappiness is that he is possessed of a vague realization that there is another power, mightier even than he. This is driven home to him with force when he sees Marie, the new school teacher attacked by a surveyor, Roque. He starts to strangle the man to death for his impudence, but Marie bids him stop. Hugon cannot understand.

Because he loves Marie, Hugon attempts to make a man out of one of her admirers—young Gabriel. He takes him through the fastness of the mountains, over perilous crags and down into untrodden valleys. But Gabriel shows a yellow streak one day, and Hugon gives up this way of attempting to make Marie happy.

Roque makes a crooked survey of the country, and gives a warning to all people holding property within his lines to vacate by a certain date. Hugon refuses, and sets upon Roque and his followers, severely beating them. But in the fray he himself is hurt. His belief in his infallible strength begins to fail. A mere incident serves to bring out the truth of a Being greater than himself. Each morning as he passes a certain spot he destroys a spider-web. And yet each morning it is there again. He discovers that he cannot beat the spider by destroying his home, and incidentally he discovers that he is not a superman.

And so Hugon learns a faith, and, when that time comes, Marie accepts him as her husband.

CATCH LINES

Monroe Salisbury in his greatest characterization.

Hugon, the Mighty, feared neither man nor God until he met a slip of a girl who instilled in him a Faith in something higher than brute strength.

A magnificent photoplay laid in the wild mountains of the Northwest.

Directed by Rollin S. Sturgeon, the man responsible for a number of big outdoor pictures for the Vitagraph Company.

Monroe Salisbury makes the titular character one of the strongest that has ever faced motion picture camera.

Bluebird photoplays signify only the best—"Hugon, the Mighty," is the supreme picture of the great outdoors.

SUGGESTIONS

Monroe Salisbury's strong characterization and the beautiful scenes are the strongest points to boost in regard to this feature. Salisbury has risen to prominence rapidly of late owing to his numerous successful characterizations so you are safe in billing him as a proven star. For lobby and advertising decorations anything suggesting the Northwest is suitable. Stills should be used profusely, particularly if they are of the same high order as most Bluebird stills. Be sure to use those which indicate the outdoor type of the production, as these will undobutedly be attractive to the passer-by.

"THE PRETENDER"

(Continued from page 2715)

However, by this time Percival is well enough to take his rightful place. The town authorities bring an attachment against Otheloe's troupe and for revenge he plans a holdup. But his amateur methods don't get him far, particularly when Bob gets on the job. The would-be holdup men land in jail and the townsfolk, in gratitude for the part Bob played in bringing them to justice, appoint him sheriff of Freloe Beanos. And the sheriff's first act of authority is the appointment of Dolly as his wife.

Beside the One-Column Cut Shown Above There is a Two-Column Scene Cut on This Production. These Cuts Are Suitable for Use in Either the Advertising or Text Pages of Newspapers or in Program Announcements

FOR IMMEDIATE SALE

BY THE ASSIGNEE

The Beautiful Plant of the

BALBOA FILM COMPANY

At Long Beach, California

Will sell the entire plant and its equipment, costing several hundred thousand dollars, or will consider offers for any part.

F. C. DE LANO, Assignee
728 Higgins Building
Los Angeles, California

What's Coming Off?—See Cromelin

THE addition of the Frederick Burlingham travel series and the placement in Argentine, Uruguay and Paraguay of a large list of American features, including "Not Guilty," "The Manx-Man," "The Question," "Whither Thou Goest," "The Struggle," "Man of Bronze" and the serial, "Perils of Our Girl Reporters." Gus Schlessinger made the big sale, which is accounted a record-breaker in the Inter-Ocean office.

President Paul H. Cromelin states that negotiations are now pending over the acquisition by Inter-Ocean of a special feature subject that has just played on Broadway successfully and a feature program that contains some of the most important American stars. The intimation comes significantly on the heels of the visit to these shores of John H. Taylor, managing director of London Inter-Ocean.

Another probability of the not far distant future is that a great English war feature of a novelty sort will shortly be shipped by London Inter-Ocean to New York Inter-Ocean for intensive American exploitation. Last but not least is the report, corroborated but lacking details, that the New York house will shortly change from the purchase of foreign rights of big films to the acquirement of complete world rights. All in all, it is whispered that the New Inter-Ocean building on West Forty-second street is a spot that trade news gatherers can well keep an eye on.

"Mother, I Need You"

(Continued from page 2703)

the villain. She is taken to a hotel and induced to drink wine. She is next shown lying on the bed, her clothing disarranged, part of it torn, and her hair dishevelled. Horror strikes her when she awakes and realizes what had transpired. She returns home and tells her mother, whom, by the way, she accuses as the indirect cause, as spending more of her time looking after the down-fallen daughters of other people than her own.

She goes to a doctor, friend of the man she is engaged to, who performs an operation. Although the actual scene is not shown, the operating table is, and as the surgeon dreams of himself in prison stripes (by double exposure) while getting ready, there can be no mistake as to the meaning of the preparations.

In time the secret leaks out and the doctor is arrested. So is the hero, who had just returned from a trip. Being unwilling to see the heroine disgraced, the latter takes the blame upon himself. The heroine, to save the hero from unjust punishment, tells the district attorney that it is his own brother that is guilty. That official then drops the case, but makes the doctor promise to never again violate the ethics of his profession.

The title is misleading. It carries a false appeal. If the picture is played under this title it will undoubtedly draw innocent people, so the harm it will do will be great.—P. S. Harrison.

FILE IT!

Particularly in these times when release dates mean little owing to the general shutdown.

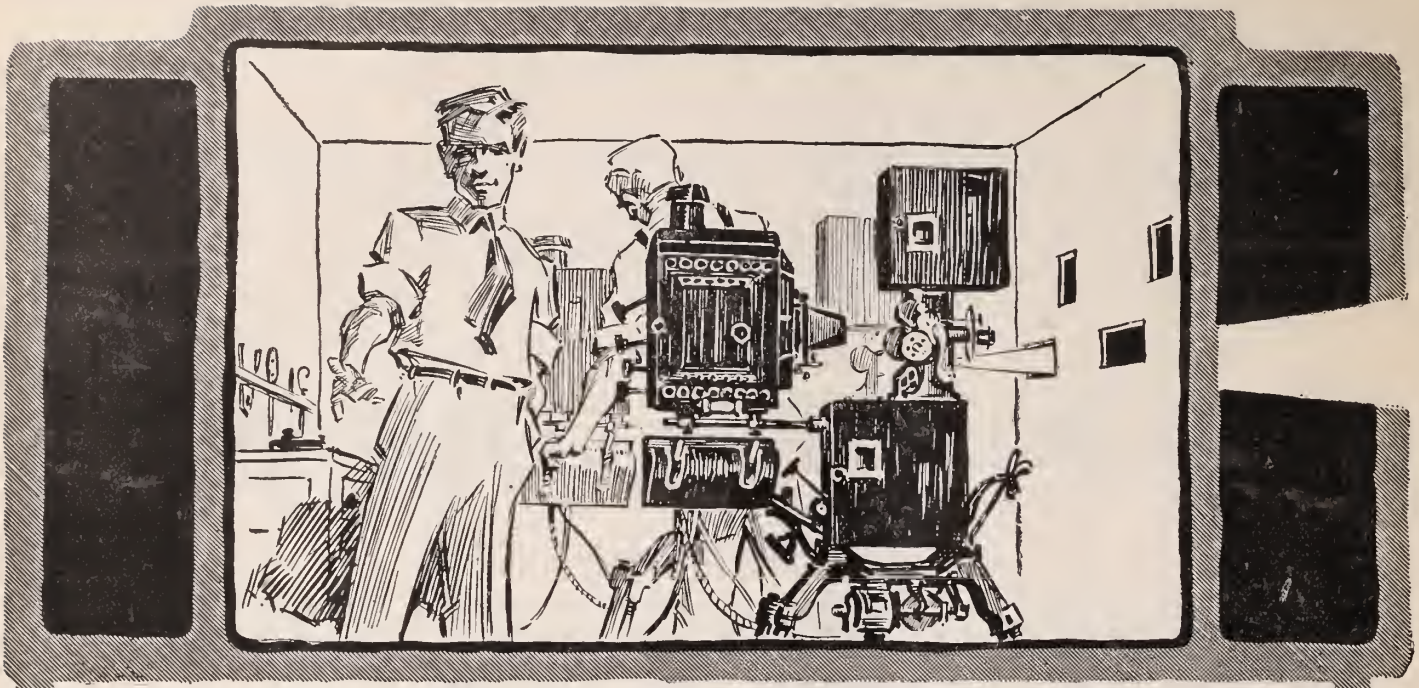
You may want to refer to this or that feature some time during the next few months that was reviewed in this issue or the previous one.

The Complete Plan Book is bound separately in Motion Picture News.

By lifting the staples under the back cover you can file the Complete Plan Book from week to week.

Don't lose track of a single page.

You may need any one when times are normal again.



Projectionist Ray says:

"A projection machine, in action, is not visible to the public; but what it ACCOMPLISHES, always is. It must possess QUALITY to 'get over.' That's Power's Cameragraph!

"Power's Cameragraph represents QUALITY in every part of its structure. It was QUALITY that put it at the head when this industry was started, and it is QUALITY that keeps it there today.

"Uncle Sam is the best QUALITY ever—particularly just now. It's QUALITY that has sent more than 1000 Cameragraphs 'over there' with the boys.

"Believe me, brothers, there's a whole lot beside myself who are saying:

"IT PUTS THE PICTURE ON THE SCREEN"

Buy Liberty Bonds and Unbond Liberty

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY

INCORPORATED

Pioneers of Projection

90 Gold Street, New York, N.Y.

THE WILLIAMS PRINTING COMPANY, NEW YORK

THE WEST COAST

Communications Pertaining to "West Coast" Section Should Be Sent to Our
LOS ANGELES REPRESENTATIVE Telephone Pico 280, F 4661 429 SO. FIGUEROA STREET

Thomas H. Ince and San Francisco Chronicle Produce Picture in Golden Gate Park

THOMAS H. INCE, in connection with the San Francisco Chronicle, filmed one of the largest crowds ever put in motion pictures at Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, on Sunday, October 6. The Chronicle gave a large amount of space in advertising that pictures of "Relatives and Sweethearts" would be taken and the films sent over to the boys in France so that those having friends in this city could receive pictorial greeting.

The day was perfect and the largest throng that ever gathered in the park turned out to send their greetings. It is estimated that 150,000 people were in the moving mass of humanity which passed before the battery of whirring cameras.

The people came with messages printed on boards which were held aloft for the eyes of the absent ones. Eight thousand feet of film was made, including a number of close ups of features in the ever moving throng. The whole exhibition was well staged and well managed, and some of the pictures will doubtless find a place in the various theatres throughout the country as well as in the cantonments and hospitals of France.

Speaking of the picture Mr. Ince said: "These pictures will be sent to France and thrown upon the various screens in the rest camps and hospitals. When the boys return from the trenches they will see these pictures; they will recognize fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters and sweethearts, and, for that interval, at least, they will be with their loved ones in the old home.

"They will know as they gaze upon the familiar scenes and familiar faces, that only a few days before this was the actuality, not as in a photograph, posed and immobile, but in movement, with the very expression that was theirs always in the happier time before the sad parting.

"It will be almost as if the mother had gone to greet her boy; as if daddy had put forth his arms to welcome the brave son who knew his duty and revered the honor of his sire; as if the dear one who had wept at parting had beckoned the loved one back from the peril of the great sacrifice. I find words inadequate to express the deep meaning of this great mission which has been intrusted to the Chronicle and myself."

Joe Brandt Meets With Universal Directors and Scenario Writers

JOE BRANDT, general manager of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company Exchange System, last week held a number of conferences with David Bershon, branch manager of the Universal exchanges in Los Angeles, in which Universal's latest plan of supplying the pictures demanded by the exhibitors was discussed.

Mr. Brandt said that he was visiting all exchanges with a view to ascertaining the kind of pictures that are now in demand and of obtaining first-hand information from the exhibitors through the exchanges on the kind of pictures that will be wanted within the next six or eight months.

He held a special meeting with directors and scenario writers at Universal City, when the question of producing the pictures demanded by the film-going public was outlined. Mr. Brandt said that he did not approve of the idea of providing a certain type of production just because a certain director liked that type. He said the directors should produce the type of pictures wanted by the public, and he instructed the scenario writers to prepare scripts with that aim in view.

"Of course we have always thought we were making pictures that suited the public just because they pleased us," Mr. Brandt said. "But we must get away from that idea. We must broaden our scope of vision. Through our exchanges I have learned of the kind of pictures that are in demand, and we wish to conform to this style of production and type of story so long as the public wants it."

Mr. Brandt said that Universal plans to standardize not only productions, but its stars as well. Certain stars will be cast in certain types of plays, so that in time they will become identified with the kind of story that suits their qualifications best.

Mr. Brandt left for San Francisco Sunday night. He will then go to Seattle before returning to New York.

Ogden Soldier Boys in Pictures

THE first showing in Ogden of the pictures of the Utah Boys at Camps Kearny and Lewis, prior to their departure overseas, was at the Ogden theatre for the first three days of this week. The pictures were secured by the Utah State Council of Defense and after being shown throughout the state will be filed for record in the state house at Salt Lake.

THE WEST COAST

Portland Motion Picture Men and Newspaper Men Honor James H. Cassell

IN honor of James H. Cassell, former motion picture editor of The Oregonian and former special correspondent of MOTION PICTURE NEWS, the moving picture men and newspaper men of Portland, entertained with an elaborate banquet Thursday night in the Tyrolean room of the Benson Hotel. Cassell enlisted in the Tank service some few weeks ago, and left Saturday morning to report at Fort Lawton, Washington. From there he will go to Gettysburg, Pa.

Presiding as toast master of the evening was Paul Noble, of the Liberty and Columbia theatres. Sixteen men were seated around the tables, each man being given an opportunity to drink a toast to "Jim."

Tom Mullin, advertising manager of The Journal, presented Cassell with a handsome wrist watch from the movie men of the city. It was inscribed with "Good luck and give 'em 'ell, from the movie men of Portland."

Charlie Couche, prominent advertising man of the city, presided at the piano. A quartette composed of Paul Noble, Walter Kofeldt, Couche and Rory, gave musical selections.

Cassell has been a live wire among the motion picture men of the city for some time, and has many friends in this city who wish him luck.

Van Pelt Active With "Hearts of the World"

E. O. VAN PELT, advance business manager of All Star Features in Southern California, returned to Los Angeles this week after an extensive trip throughout this territory in charge of "Hearts of the World," D. W. Griffith's famous war film. He announced that the picture will be brought back to Los Angeles for another showing, and that it will probably be exhibited again at Clune's Auditorium.

He added that the picture is playing to bigger houses on second run than it did when first released, due to the vast amount of publicity given the subject and from the personal advertising by patrons who saw the picture when first released.

A novel way of putting over a great picture was inaugurated last week at Fresno when "Hearts of the World" was exhibited in that city. Permission was secured from the Mayor of Fresno to place a box office on one of the principal street corners and this office was decorated with war relics.

An English officer in uniform took charge of the box office. According to Mr. Van Pelt, virtually every admission for the week was sold from the booth on the street corner.

"Hearts of the World" will next be exhibited in Arizona, and then in Texas. Senor Enrico Musso, well-known director, has been engaged to conduct the specially-selected orchestra which is accompanying the picture while it is on the road.

Special Loan Films Throughly Distributed on West Coast

OF the 120 prints of propaganda films allotted to the Los Angeles territory, only fifty prints arrived from Washington last week. However, according to L. E. Kennedy, who has charge of the booking of these subjects, arrangements were made to take care of virtually all theatres in the territory in a manner that was satisfactory under the circumstances.

All exhibitors who gave the films a showing last week reported to Mr. Kennedy that excellent results in the sale of bonds were obtained. Favorable comment on the character as well as the qaulity of the pictures, taken from a propaganda standpoint, was also received.

Through the combined efforts of the exhibitors and exchanges through C. H. Christie, chairman of the motion picture division of the Liberty Loan campaign, leave of absence for Mr. Kennedy from the naval training station at San Pedro was extended until October 20. Before this action was taken Mr. Kennedy had prepared to return to training station on Monday, October 7.

What Butte Is Doing

AMONG the film men in the city the past week were Brayton Armstrong of Denver and H. B. Wright of Seattle.

BEN COLLIER, former road man in Montana for Metro and later with Paramount, is now manager of the Babcock theatre at Billings. The Babcock is one of the finest houses in the northwest and in Ben it has one of the most capable showmen in the game in this neck of the woods.

THE Universal exchange is doing a good business under the management of George Bourke. The new manager is well liked by the Montana clientele.

"NOT MARRIED, 35 years old, physically fit and can fight like hell," is what Mr. Bourke of the Universal exchange printed across his questionnaire when he returned it to the Butte exemption board. No exemptions for him, he says. His country can have him when the call comes.

THE American theatre is arranging to use a 20 piece symphony orchestra every evening. Up to now ten pieces have been in daily use, but Manager Frank Bailey is trying to enlarge it to double its present size. Under the leadership of V. C. Knowles the orchestra is proving one of the big attractions in Butte.

BUSINESS is good at the American according to A. C. Raleigh, advertising manager. "In September this house paid its largest war tax" he said.

LOCAL exhibitors are booking the best in the market and all are looking forward to good business not only until after the holidays but right on through the winter. Butte is a good winter show town, as other forms of amusement are largely taboo during that season, with, of course, the exception of ice skating.

AN innovation at the American theatre is the reservation of a part of the best seats on the main floor for all unescorted women wearing service pins.

TOM BOSTIAN, connected with the Grand theatre in Meaderville, a Butte suburb, is back after a three weeks hunting trip in western Montana.

MOVING PICTURE operators have been granted a wage increase, now getting $7.20 per day. The former scale was $6.00. Stage hands were boosted from $31.50 per week to $42.

THE Rialto theatre came through the Fourth Liberty Loan with flying colors, the house subscribing to Uncle Sam's latest loan 100 per cent. Every employe and person connected with the house bought a bond.

"TILL I COME BACK TO YOU" did good business at the Rialto the past week. "The Hooded Terror" was "unveiled" during the same engagement at this house, the last of the serial being shown. The picture had a good following here.

R. L. CARROLL of Spokane and C. E. Freshwater were Pathe representatives calling on Montana trade the past week.

What Seattle Exhibitors Say

E. O. JENKINS, manager of the Paramount theatre, Denton, Mont., has booked "The Kaiser" for an early showing.

BEN COLLIER, formerly of Los Angeles, is now manager of the Babcock theatre, Billings, Mont.

THE RIALTO has been opened in Tacoma, Wash., by H. T. Moore. It is one of the most beautiful theatres in the West. At the opening the Mayor of Tacoma and Gov. Lister of the state were speakers of the evening.

F. A. HASCHE is the new manager of the Majestic theatre, Sturgis, South Dakota. He opened the theatre with "The Brass Bullet" a Universal Film.

S. J. OSIKA, manager of the Burley theatre, Burley, Utah, has been more than satisfied with "Smashing Through" and "Hell Bent," Universal specials.

JOHN HAMRICK, proprietor of the "Rex," Seattle, has rented the "Star," Portland, Ore., for a period of two weeks, where he showed "The Fall of Barbary Coast" to overflowing houses. He is considering taking it to other cities in that vicinity.

HARRY K. BRIN, formerly manager of the Mutual office in Seattle and later with the Paramount and Triangle people, has been appointed a special representative for the "Jewel" and "Special Attractions" in the Salt Lake Territory," where he has already shown what he can do.

J. W. ALLENDER, owner of the Majestic in Spokane, Wash., was a recent visitor to Seattle, where he signed up the entire Goldwyn star series. Among them being the plays in which Geraldine Farrar appears. Mr. Allender is changing his theatre into a strictly first-class theatre. He has raised his prices to 20 cents, and has added certain fixtures, etc.

C. D. BEALE, special representative of the Seattle office of the George Kleine System, has recently returned from his regular tour around his territory and is positive that the picture men are picking up the coin from the results he has obtained.

L. J. SCHLAIFER, of the Schlaifer Attractions, Seattle, who enlisted in the Navy, is now close to his business, as he has been transferred from Mare Island to Bremerton, just a few miles from Seattle. Mrs. Schlaifer remarked that he was transferred to Bremerton, for while the rest of the boys were going away, the authorities brought him up here to guard the whole station, for he has the ability to do it—at least in her eyes.

W. S. BREWSTER, manager of Brewsters Attractions, is back home from a successful trip through Montana, Idaho and Washington. He has been compelled to order new prints on the "Warrior" and the "Crisis."

N. MONTGOMERY, formerly connected with the Fox office in Seattle, has been appointed manager of the United Picture Theatres of America for the Seattle district. Three offices will be maintained in the Northwest. The other two will be in Portland and Spokane. The Portland office will be managed by Harry Arthur, a former salesman for the Fox and Exhibitors Film Exchange of Seattle. The Spokane office will be "fathered" by Ben Collier when opened.

ART WEINSTOCK has left for his regular trip in his territory and expects to come back with trunks full of contracts.

Seattle Exchanges and Accessory Firms

L. J. SCHLAIFER ATTRACTIONS
2022 Third Avenue Seattle, Washington
Parentage-Ivan Productions—2 Reel Jester Comedies—2 Reel Hart Re-Issues
AND OTHER BOX OFFICE PICTURES

Exhibitors Film Exchange
INCORPORATED
Member of First National Exhibitors Circuit
-- NOW BOOKING --
A DOG'S LIFE
MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY
TARZAN OF THE APES
PERSHING'S CRUSADERS
THE STILL ALARM
ITALY'S FLAMING FRONT
ETC,. ETC.
-- COMING! --
SHOULDER ARMS
(Second Chaplin Comedy)
ROMANCE OF TARZAN
ANITASTEWART SUPERFEATURES
1200 FOURTH AVE.
SEATTLE, WASH.
F. V. FISHER, Manager

GREATER FEATURES COMPANY
2020 Third Avenue
SEATTLE, WASHINGTON
Rep. Consolidated Film Corp.
Showing
LITERARY DIGEST NEWS
CARTOONS—NEWMAN TRAVELS
JACK LANNON, OWNER

Lantern Slides
J. C. COREY SIGN CO.
3rd & University St., Seattle
Cutouts and Lobby Displays

GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM
Perfection Pictures
W. J. DRUMMOND
Branch Manager
2012 Third Ayenue

MANAGER WEINSTOCK, of the L. J. Schlaifer Co., has been made Captain over district 7, in the Seattle and King County Division of Defense. His neighbors and the managers of this institution, knew that he was a hustler and willing to work for his country, consequently he was elected Captain over 500 lieutenants. Each lieutenant must cover a block, asking those who live in the block how many bonds they bought, etc. Mr. Weinstock is also the motion picture advisor on the board.

MR. WEINSTOCK has bought the rights to the Ford Weekly for one year, has in the short time he signed for them, added 60 more customers to the list of 300 that have been handed over to him.

MESSRS. OCHS AND LAWRENCE have been visitors on Film. They were visitors until they obtained N. Montgomery to manage the affairs of the "United Picture Theatres of America." The office will be with the General Film Co.

Advertise
in
The West Coast

What Exchanges and Theatres Are Doing

E. R. WILLIAMS, salesman for All Star Features, will leave this week to call on the trade in Arizona cities.

"THE BRIDGE OF SHIPS," a Government propaganda film in two reels, opened at the Alhambra theatre on October 6.

BERNARD FISH, special representative of Goldwyn, returned this week from Arizona and New Mexico, where he says he broke all records in the matter of securing contracts for Goldwyn service. He devoted special attention to Goldwyn's star serial of fifty pictures for the next year.

JOHN GANDOLFO, owner of the Airdome and Gandolfo theatres at Yuma, Ariz., was in Los Angeles this week booking pictures for the Gandolfo theatre, which opens the winter season on October 30. The picture selected for the opening is "America's Answer."

THE PICKWICK THEATRE at San Diego this week signed with the Peerless exchange for a number of single-reel Chaplin and Arbuckle re-issues.

THE Government film "America's Answer" was this week booked solid in the principal theatres in Arizona, according to announcement by T. E. Hancock, branch manager of the World exchange.

A TRADE showing of "The Road to France," a new World production in seven reels starring Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley, was given in Los Angeles this week. It is a story of the shipyards and will be placed on the regular World program, it is announced.

L. W. THOMPSON, special road representative of the Kleine System, went to Arizona this week.

G. H. ATWOOD, Los Angeles representative of the Lyric Amusement Company, told a number of Los Angeles exchanges this week that he intends soon to purchase a Ford. Business is increasing at such a rate, he says, that transportation facilities for removing the films from the exchanges to the express offices must be provided.

HAROLD MOOR, assistant manager of the San Francisco office of the Kleine System, was a visitor in Los Angeles this week. He returned to the Northern City Saturday night.

SELECT PICTURES EXCHANGE in Los Angeles announces that the Clara Kimball Young and Norma Talmadge releases, "The Road in the Dark" and "The Forbidden City," have been held up because of the activity of these two stars in Liberty Loan work. The original release dates, set for sometime the latter part of September, have been moved forward until the latter part of October, according to Branch Manager B. E. Loper.

LIEUT. B. E. LOPER, JR., son of Branch Manager B. E. Loper of the Select exchange, Los Angeles, has written from France that the war situation in Europe is so favorable to the Allies that he expects to return to the United States soon. Lieutenant Loper is in the photographic division of the Signal Corps.

P. N. BRINCH, Western division manager of Paralta, was in Los Angeles this week on a tour of all W. W. Hodkinson exchanges. He said that Hodkinson is installing exchanges in all the principal cities of the United States.

G. R. SIRWELL, Los Angeles representative of the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation, made a trip through Southern California this week and he reported that business was excellent.

EDWARD O'NEILL, formerly with Fox exchanges, Clune's Auditorium and Seattle theatres, was this week appointed special representative to handle the Fox superproduction "Salome," starring Theda Bara, in the Southern California and Arizona territory.

DAVID BERSHON, branch manager of the Universal exchanges, left Sunday night for a visit in San Francisco. He accompanied Joe Brandt, general treasurer of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, who has been in Los Angeles a few days.

"TALK OF THE TOWN," starring Dorothy Phillips, which was first shown in Los Angeles at the Superba theatre, will play a return engagement at the Symphony theatre during the week beginning October 13.

"THE VELVET HAND," which also had a first showing at the Superba theatre, has been booked for one week at the Plaza theatre at San Diego for the week of October 30.

"THE GEEZER OF BERLIN," which was originally booked for four days at the Superba theatre in San Diego, continued its run seven days because of the tremendous demand for the picture by the San Diego motion picture public.

"MARRIAGE," with Catherine Calvert, and "Wild Honey," with Doris Kenyon, will be released in Los Angeles on October 22 and October 28, respectively, according to an announcement this week by the William L. Sherry Service.

NICK STEELE, district manager of the William L. Sherry Service, was in San Diego last week, where he booked the entire Sherry Service with the Grand theatre, consisting of ten Catherine Calvert, ten G. M. Anderson and a number of other star features.

AN overland stage failed to deliver the sixth episode of "Fight for Millions" to a theatre in Fillmore last Saturday,

DUHEM
MOTION PICTURE MFG. CO.
Films Made to Order
EXPERT DEVELOPING, PRINTING AND COLORING
CAMERA OUT-FITS AND RAW FILM SUPPLIED

CAMERA MEN
SENT ANYWHERE

985 Market Street, San Francisco, California

Telephone: Hollywood 1290
GEORGE W. CHAPMAN CO.
Incorporated
EVERYTHING IN MOVING PICTURE PROPS.
Specialties: Miniature Sets and Plaster Breakaways
5155 Santa Monica Boulevard
Los Angeles, Cal.

SLIDES Title Cards and Film
L. A. SLIDE & FILM CO.
122 WEST THIRD ST., LOS ANGELES

THEATRE SETTINGS
We Have Installed Hundreds From $100 to $10,000 Each
BEST SCREENS, SCENERY
EDW. H. FLAGG SCENIC CO.
Largest in the World
Los Angeles San Francisco

WINFIELD-KERNER COMPANY
Established 1905
Manufacturers of Actinic Ray Arc Lamps for Motion Picture Producers and Photographers. Effect Lamps and equipment. Resistance and Magnet Coils made to order.
Phones: Pico 2646 A 2215
325-27 E. Sixth St., Los Angeles

Directory of Los Angeles Exchanges and Supply Houses

PAREX FILM CORP.
FURNISHING
WM. L. SHERRY SERVICE
SAN FRANCISCO — 180 Golden Gate Ave., C. I. LUNTZ, Mgr.
SEATTLE — 2022 Third Ave., L. A. TODD, Mgr.
LOS ANGELES—511 W. Eighth St., F. M. STEELE, Mgr.
NICK STEELE, District Mgr. Headquarters—LOS ANGELES

LOUIS HYMAN
Manager
ALL STAR FEATURE DISTRIBUTORS, Inc.
514 West Eighth Street

J. SLIPPER & CO.
Projecting Machines
Simplex, Baird, Motiographs
Hertner Transverter
Theatre Equipment and Supplies
728 South Olive Street
Write for Catalog

The George Kleine System
Perfection Pictures
E. H. SILCOCKS
Branch Manager
209 Knickerbocker Building

AMERICAN FILM CO., INC.
William Russell Margarita Fisher
Mary Miles Minter Productions
C. J. CROWLEY, Representative
Distributed Through Pathe Exchange
732 So. Olive St.

UNIVERSAL FILM EXCHANGES, INC.
Successor to California Film Exchange
DAVID BERSHON, MANAGER.
Distributors of Universal, Jewel and Lois Weber Productions, Blue Bird Photoplays, Century and Lyons & Moran Comedies
822 S. OLIVE ST.

VITAGRAPH
Southern California and Arizona
W. H. HEPBURN, Branch Manager
Knickerbocker Building 643 South Olive Street

and J. N. Gawne, salesman, and Al. Feinstine, shipping clerk, of the Vitagraph exchange, made a flying trip in special automobile to Fillmore with additional prints of the episode in time for the picture to be shown to the Saturday night audience.

"THE GIRL OF TODAY," a Vitagraph special," featuring Corrinne Griffith, will feature the program at Clune's Auditorium during the week of October 13. "Huns and Hyphens," a Big-V comedy starring Larry Semon, is being shown this week at the Kinema theatre.

THE PASTIME THEATRE at Bakersfield this week signed a new contract with Vitagraph for Big-V comedies.

H. D. NAUGLE, Western division manager of Vitagraph, returned this week from an extensive trip to San Francisco, Seattle and other cities in the Northwest. He said that he found business in excellent shape. He plans to return East at an early date.

"THE LIGHTNING RAIDER," a new serial in which Pearl White will be the star, is nearing completion and the first episodes will be released during this month, it is announced by the Pathe exchange of Los Angeles.

"TRAITORS WITHIN THE GATES," starring Frank Keenan, was shown at the Burbank theatre during the week of October 13.

"THE CLANSMAN," known better in the East as "The Birth of a Nation," was prohibited from being shown last week in Pasadena by the Pasadena City Council. The Councilmen, in discussing their action, said it was not a proper picture to be exhibited during war times because of the possibility of creating race feeling. The Councilmen pointed out that the American negro is doing his bit in the trenches, and for that reason no subject should be exhibited that would in any manner tend to dampen the negro's patriotism.

W. H. HEPBURN, branch manager of the Vitagraph exchange, returned from Santa Barbara last Saturday, where he succeeded in placing Vitagraph service with exhibitors in that city.

R. C. VISNER, manager of the Pickwick theatre in San Diego, made a visit to Los Angeles this week, and while here booked his house solid with William Fox pictures.

A. D. TATE, branch manager of the Pathe exchange, returned this week from New York, where he attended the recent convention of all Pathe exchangemen. He said that optimism was the keynote of the New York meeting and that all exchangemen predicted bigger business than ever for the following year. He said the special sales talks from all the exchange delegates were especially helpful.

"COMMON CLAY," featuring Fanny Ward, is soon to be released by the Pathe exchange in Los Angeles.

THE Pathe serial "Wolves of Kultur," with Leah Baird and Sheldon Lewis, consisting of fifteen episodes, will make its way to the exhibitor within the next few weeks, according to announcement by the Pathe exchange.

A PRINT of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," starring Irving Cummings, was received Monday by the Select exchange. A pre-view will be held this week.

A PRE-VIEW of the Government film "Behind the Lines in Italy" was given this week by the Kleine System at Hamburger's Auditorium. A large number of representatives of the Italian colony in Los Angeles, including the vice-consul, were invited. The picture was pronounced by them a wonderful offering. They were unusually enthusiastic over the scenes in a number of Italian cities.

THE HIPPODROME THEATRE in Los Angeles, formerly devoted almost exclusively to vaudeville and similar programs, was converted into a motion picture theatre September 9. World films and Metro productions will comprise its program. The first World picture to be shown at the Hippodrome were "The Appearance of Evil," with June Elvidge, and the first Metro subject will be "Kildare of Storm," with Emily Stevens.

GEORGE DUMONT, who has had much experience in theatre management in Canada, New York and other Eastern cities, this week accepted the position as manager of the Kinema theatre in Los Angeles. He was formerly with Clune's Auditorium and was at one time with Fox superproductions on the road.

E. H. SILCOCKS, formerly branch manager of the Kleine System, but now special road representative of Select pictures, made his first trip this week for his new affiliations. He reported excellent business.

THE LIBERTY THEATRE at Needles, Ariz., was burned last week. Manager J. D. Warren announced that he will make an effort to rebuild as soon as permission can be secured from the War Industries Board.

J. S. WOODY, field manager of Select Pictures, with headquarters in Seattle, arrived in Los Angeles Monday for a week's visit. He said that the theatre business in Seattle is the best in the city's history.

What Coast Studios Are Doing

JAY BELASCO is again working opposite Ethel Lynn at the Christie studios. Miss Lynn's new picture is still unnamed and Director Al. Christie is trying to find a name for the production. It is a story of a young man forced to live in the open without hat or parasol or roof or any protection whatever from the weather in order to comply with somebody's will.

BILLIE RHODES, National star, was the guest of honor Wednesday at the races of the Southern California Fair at Riverside. A number of scenes were filmed, with Miss Rhodes as a jockey. These will be used in her new picture, "The Springtime of Youth." The subject is directed by Wilfred Lucas and Bess Meredyth.

BILL DESMOND, who has been in New York, will soon begin work on a picture for the Hampton studios, it became known here this week. It is understood that Desmond is on his way to Los Angeles. He was formerly with Triangle.

PEGGIE PEARCE, formerly with Mack Sennett in Keystone and Mack Sennett comedies, has been engaged by the Christie Comedy Company, it was announced this week.

JOHN GILBERT will have a chance to do another picture before going with the military service of Uncle Sam. Jack was booked to report to camp about the sixth, but due to the Spanish influenza he will not be called for three or four weeks yet and has made arrangements to do one more film during his brief stay.

FRANCES BURNHAM has bought a camera and has been snapping everything around the Fox studios at Fort Lee, where she is playing opposite George Walsh in Victory pictures. So far Frances hasn't had very much success with her photographing as she has either had her pictures terribly out of focus, or else she has been snapping stunts, catching only George's feet or head. She declares that she hopes to get at least one good picture on her next attempt.

HENRY KING brought his star William Russell from Santa Barbara to Los Angeles to take a number of street scenes. King has been receiving great press notices on his direction of recent photoplays, but retains all his earnestness and youth; in fact Henry looks younger than ever and continued success does not turn his head.

MARY ANDERSON is the possessor of a priceless asset—happiness. No matter where she may be acting or under what conditions, she always says in answer to a question as to how she likes her part, "It's fine; this is the nicest engagement I ever had." The fact is that Mary is so cheerful that everyone likes her and helps to make things pleasant for her. She is playing opposite Bert Lytell at present.

EDWARD SLOMAN is working on an excellent comedy drama in which Margarita Fisher is featured, at the American studios, and has selected an excellent supporting cast for his star. Jack Mower has the leading male role, that of a policeman, and "Bull" Montana, identified with Douglas Fairbanks' pictures for so long, is playing Mower's brutal-looking pal. Sloman spent a great deal of time selecting his players, even down to the smallest bit, in order to have them suit the characters in the story perfectly. "Fair Enough" is the title of this offering.

YOU can't stop 'em when they start expanding. Howard Hickman, the actor, earned generous press notices and criticisms for his first production, "The White Lie," with Bessie Barriscale as his star. Now he has blossomed out as an author, for he wrote as well as directed "Two-Gun Betty," again with Miss Bessie as his attractive star of course.

A preliminary run of "The Hope Chest," the latest vehicle for Dorothy Gish, again makes clear that there is another bright star in the picture firmament. Director Elmer Clifton has given the story just the right treatment and Dorothy is a thing of joy. Dick Bartlemess is splendid, and in fact the acting, photography and direction all unite for excellent entertainment. It is a bully, good picture.

MOLLIE McCONNELL this week completed her fourth straight feature at the Universal. Her latest was with Colin Campbell and is a South Sea Island story dealing with Hun spies and German propaganda. She has an exceptionally fine role that calls for some difficult acting, but Mollie has yet to be given a part she can't handle. They don't come too hard for her.

JESSE D. HAMPTON is making great improvements at the Willis and Inglis studio, which was rented for a long term. He is preparing for additions to the J. Warren Kerrigan company. The stage space and property rooms have been added to and many other additions are on the way.

CHARLES RAY has not had an idle moment during the past week. In the daytime he has been busy working on his latest starring vehicle for the Paramount program at the Ince studios, while in the evenings Charlie has been making personal appearances at the various motion picture theatres, and speaking for the Fourth Liberty Loan, selling bonds to the audience after his talk.

ORA CAREW is comfortably situated in her new dressing room at the Triangle studios in Culver City, where she is playing the lead opposite Tom Moore in his latest Goldwyn feature. Ora cleaned out her dressing room at the Lasky studios and had a van move the stuff to her new abode.

JAY MORLEY thought he would have a few spare moments when he finished his picture with Frank Keenan for Pathe, but such was not the case. The day before he was through in the Keenan feature he was engaged to support Kitty Gordon in her new production for the United, and exactly two hours was all he had between pictures, and this time was used between laying his wardrobe and making-up.

JOSIE SEDGWICK has been devoting every minute of her time in selling Fourth Liberty Loan Bonds. She has been traveling around every night on the motion picture tank "Victory" and selling bonds in every town. Needless to say that the bonds have been selling very rapidly and Josie has writer's cramp from autographing receipts.

WINIFRED WESTOVER may be another one of screendom's leading ladies to leave the silent drama for the spoken. Winifred has had an offer to go back in stock, and from all indications William Russell's leading lady will leave for Northern California within a few days.

AL RAY has gone to extremes in his last two features. In his last picture opposite Mildred Harris for Lois Weber, Al was a plumber's helper and drove a Ford automobile. In his present photoplay, "Home, James," opposite Ruth Clifford, he is a nephew of a millionaire and drives a handsome eight-cylinder touring car. This is what we would call the ups and downs of life.

ALFRED WHITMAN had a very funny experience this week at Laguna Beach, where he was working on some water scenes for his present feature for the Universal under the direction of Colin Campbell. Al was supposed to run down to the ocean front, get into a rowboat and row out over the breakers. He got into the boat all right and started off, but misjudged an incoming wave, which broke over his boat, and after a few dizzy moments Al looked around to find himself up on the beach and the rowboat overturned six feet away.

San Francisco News Condensed

JOE BRANDT of the New York office of the Universal Film Exchanges, Inc., arrived here this week from Los Angeles. He is on a tour of all the company's exchanges in the United States and spent a couple of days in this city. From here he went to Portland, Oregon.

C. O. DAVIS, manager of the Wigwam theatre at Reno, Nevada, was in San Francisco this week looking over the offerings of the exchanges.

THE San Francisco office of the Universal Film Exchanges, Inc., is getting so many big pictures to handle now-a-days that it has decided to go out of the business of selling supplies and accessories.. The company is now making an inventory of the stock it has on hand, and as soon as this is completed it will sell out this end of its business. The management feels that the pictures which are being put out deserve undivided attention and that there is not enough profit in the supply end to justify divided management.

THE eight year old son of M. L. Markowitz, manager of the Universal Film Exchange, Inc., in San Francisco, was operated upon this week for defective eyesight.

THE Alhambra theatre started a week's premier run on "Crashing Through to Berlin," on October 6. The crowds which attended the opening literally raised the roof with their enthusiasm. The Universal, which is handling this film, says that the public has declared this picture to be the best war film yet exhibited.

THE All Star Features Distributors, Inc., announce that Florence Reed will appear at the Tivoli for the week beginning October 13 in "The Struggle Everlasting." On September 20 the Tivoli ran "The Accidental Honeymoon" featuring Robert Warwick and Elaine Hammerstein. This is the last picture in which Warwick took part before going to the front to help defend his country.

THE Duhem Motion Picture Mfg. Co., took a picture of the Class Rush between the Sophomores and Freshmen in the University of California, Berkeley. Raymond Duhem says there was more real fighting at the rush than he ever filmed before. The same company has recently made pictures of the activities of the jackies at Mare Island, which is being used in the present Liberty Loan drive.

J. S. WOODY, field manager for Select Picture Corporation, spent the greater part of the past week in San Francisco going over the situation in detail with Harry Lee Knappen the local manager. The plans for the future campaign were carefully examined and Mr. Woody expressed himself as well satisfied with the line up and he sees nothing but a big volume of business ahead for the local branch. He is so well pleased with the situation that although he left for Los Angeles for a visit he expects to return in a few days and spend perhaps a week or more in this office on the new productions. Mr. Woody is highly gratified to find that the office has already lined up the key cities for the new Select Pictures and is particularly elated at the substantial advanced payments which are being made. It develops that in some cases exhibitors are so pleased with the pictures that they are paying not only for one full picture in advance, but a few have paid for several in advance and in one case the entire season's service has been paid for in advance. "That certainly reflects," said Mr. Woody, "a decidedly healthy state of affairs on the Coast and especially in the San Francisco territory. Money must be plentiful for ordinary business in spite of the demand of the Liberty Loan and other Government requirments for the average exhibitor to go down into his jeans and pay for a considerable service in advance." The Field Manager has just completed a whirlwind campaign in Seattle in cooperation with H. H. Hicks, who has just taken over the management of the office, with the result that the office was landed "top of column next to pure reading matter" among Select offices. Mr. Woody is very enthusiastic over the forthcoming releases on "The One Woman" and "The Midnight Patrol."

THE Metro Pictures Corporation, of which L. Reichert is manager, is contemplating moving from its present quarters on Jones street, although it is said that as yet no lease has been taken on new quarters. Mr. Reichert is proud of the fact that his company is 100% on subscriptions to the Fourth Liberty Loan as well as the fact that it has been in the same class on the previous three loans. So far as known this is the only local film house of size that can claim this exalted position.

E. O. CHILD, manager of the Pathe Exchange, Inc., has just returned from his trip to New York, where he attended the convention of Pathe managers and also the banquet given in honor of the event. One might say ESPECIALLY the banquet. Mr. Child says he had a great time in the East but he is glad to get back to San Francisco again.

Directory of San Francisco Exchanges

191 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco — 514 West Eighth Street, Los Angeles

SOL. L. LESSER, President

ALL STAR FEATURES DISTRIBUTORS, Inc.

Official Distributors

U. S. War Features

"AMERICA'S ANSWER" — "PERSHING'S CRUSADERS"
"OUR BRIDGE OF SHIPS" — "OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW"

OUR SPECIAL SUPER FEATURES

Include

"THE STRUGGLE EVERLASTING" — "INTOLERANCE"
"THE ACCIDENTAL HONEYMOON" — "THE STILL ALARM"
"THE GRAIN OF DUST" — "NINE-TENTHS OF THE LAW"
"RAFFLES" — "THE CRUCIBLE OF LIFE"
"BILLY WEST COMEDIES"

"GAUMONT NEWS" and "GRAPHIC"
"TIMELY TOPICS" from Literary Digest

TURNER and DAHNKEN

BRANCH OF

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' CIRCUIT, Inc.,

Music Rolls Exchanged—Supplies of All Kinds

134 Golden Gate Avenue — San Francisco, California

KALE-ALTA SLIDE CO.
B. O. YOUNGMAN
24 Hour Slide Service
The Quality is the best
Latest Song Slides for Community Singing. Best Patriotic and Stock Slides on the Coast
1028 Market St., San Francisco

PERFECTION PICTURES
Distributed Through
The George Kleine System
M. J. COHEN
Branch Manager
183 Golden Gate Avenue

M AND R
SOMETHING NEW COMING
730 So. Olive St. Los Angeles
107 Golden Gate Ave. San Francisco

BRECK PHOTOPLAY SUPPLY COMPANY
DISTRIBUTORS OF
Simplex Projectors
Theatre Equipment and Supplies
NATIONAL CARBONS
98 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco

M. H. LEWIS
Branch Manager
PARAMOUNT-ARTCRAFT

G. A. METCALFE
Distributor
POWER'S MACHINES
SPEER CARBONS
117 Golden Gate Avenue
San Francisco, Cal.

In and Around Denver

THE "flu" epidemic is playing havoc with the picture business in the Rocky Mountain section. For the first time in its history Denver's celebrated White Way is dark, and may remain so two weeks longer. The situation in Denver is the same in every city and village in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, Idaho and part of Wyoming, all public places being closed by official state proclamations or orders issued by local boards of health. As a result of the closing of theatres, local exchanges have called in their road salesmen to partially offset the losses through heavy decrease in their volume of business. Just how soon the ban will be lifted, permitting the reopening of theatres, schools and churches is a matter of conjecture. There are upwards of one thousand cases in Denver alone and several deaths have been reported. It is believed the epidemic is now under control in all territory tributary to this city.

NEAR the close of the Liberty Loan campaign in Denver, the various exchanges which have been furnishing Liberty Loan prints got together and pulled off a big stunt to aid the drive. Several screens were erected on the spacious lawns surrounding the state capital building, eight machines were set up and a splendid showing of the entire twenty-five pictures was presented on Thursday evening, October 10. Although the event was hardly advertised at all, local fans to the number of fifty thousand, most of them standing, showed their appreciation by "sticking" until the screens flashed "good night." The evening was cold but might have been worse.

WHEN the theatres are permitted to open again, programs will be resumed where they left off and little confusion is expected. It is believed, however, that every exhibitor will do a big business on account of the enforced vacation.

THE Theatre Operating Company, which recently took over the Paris theatre, is taking advantage of the closing order to remodel that structure. Extensive alterations are now being made, which include an increase in the size of the lobby. When everything is completed it will reopen with Signor Cavalli's celebratel orchestra of twenty pieces.

H. D. CASSIDY says he is busy outlining a campaign for the exploitation of the big war picture, "Lafayette We Come," and also the two-reel special, "The Red Triangle."

THE Outing Chester pictures released through Mutual are now offered on the basis of one release a week for fifty-two weeks. Manager Cassidy reports a very gratifying business on the first fifteen releases, probably due to their being a very distinctive type.

WILLIAM MORRISON, manager of the Princess theatre at Pueblo, was a Denver visitor this week. He reports a splendid business and was here to arrange for his holiday program. Mr. Morrison began his theatrical career at Madison Square Garden, New York, and is also well known in Denver and the West.

GLEN F. MILLER has sold the Liberty theatre at Goldfield, Colorado, and is in Denver looking up a new location.

WALTER S. RAND, district manager for General at Los Angeles, closed his business here last week and is now in Kansas City.

The Mountain-Plains Theatre Supply Co.
1514-18 Welton Street, Denver, Col.
106 So. 14th St., Omaha, Neb. 136 E. 2nd So. St., Salt Lake City, Utah
Distributors for Simplex and Powers Machines. Everything for the Motion Picture Theatre. Also distributors for latest in Reels and Film Shipping Cases.
Write for Catalogue

News of the Week in Portland

THE big Wurlitzer organ was dedicated at the Majestic theatre Sunday, with an opening concert given by Wendell O'Day. The organ was especially designed to suit the sound conditions of the Majestic theatre, and has been under construction for nearly two years. It has taken five months for it to be installed. O'Day is an organist of ability and was brought to Portland at quite an expense. He will be assisted by E. H. Hunt, a popular organist of the city. Packed houses greeted every performance and large crowds were turned away. The picture was "The Prussian Cur." A good advertising campaign featured the dedication of the organ.

W. W. KOFELDT, exchange man, theatre manager, now in the Merchant Marine, is in Portland, and is picking up a few winners while waiting for his ship to come in. He has booked "Crashing Through to Berlin" and is planning the biggest advertising and publicity campaign that has ever been put across in Portland. It will be shown at the Star theater beginning October 12. Co-operating with him is the National League for Woman's Service. "Before I go away into the Merchant Marine," said Kofeldt, "I thought that I would like to take hold of one of the biggest things in sight and put 'er over on the biggest scale that any thing has ever been put over."

WALTER ARMSTRONG, manager of the Strand theatre, motored to Seattle during the week.

MANAGER STEWART, of the motion picture theatre in Powers, Oregon, was in Portland last week, en route to St. Martin's Springs, where Mrs. Stewart will remain for some time. While in Portland, Mr. Stewart spent some time with Manager Baum of the Universal Exchange, and to arrange bookings for this fall on Jewels and Special attractions.

W. L. TEUTSCH, who has been prominently connected with the Star and Peoples theatre for some few years, left Portland recently for the Oregon Agricultural College, where he will enter the Students Army Training Corps. Before he left he was presented with a beautiful wrist watch by his fellow employes of the Star and Peoples theatre. Mr. Teutsch has worked up in the theatre game, starting as an usher in the Peoples theatre. For the past two years he has been manager at the Star theatre, and since that time he has become the right hand man of Manager Stille, of the Peoples theatre. He is a keen lobby advertising man and a good live house manager.

E. B. LAWSON, of Sutherlin, Oregon, has opened a theatre.

C. H. CHETFORD has bought the theatre in Cheney, Washington.

J. A. JENNINGS, manager of the Sunset theatre of Portland, recently turned over the theatre and its proceeds for the benefit of Company G-H of the Multnomah Guard, for the fund for dependents of the guardsmen who are enlisted and at the front. More than 250 are in active service over-seas.

MRS. E. L. HUDSON, is managing the Globe theatre, in Albany, Oregon, during the absence of her husband who is in the army.

FRANK KING, of San Francisco, is reopening the Columbia at Astoria, Oregon.

THE People's Hip, at Butte, Montana, has added motion picture to its regular vaudeville programmes.

Simplex

We are sorry you couldn't all come—but we'll do our best to make up for this by showing you a picture of our Exhibit at the Motion Picture Exposition at Madison Square Garden.

Diamonds are not displayed in burlap, and we knew that you, who recognize the Simplex as the Acme in Projection, would be just a little ashamed of it in unsuitable surroundings.

So we made the setting fit the quality of the Machine, although the picture gives but a faint idea of this. It was easily the finest Exhibit there.

And those who visited the "Garden" found plenty of intense interest in the Exhibit, besides, of course, the hearty Simplex welcome. Truly, we wish you could all have come.

We exhibit the Simplex to you because it will exhibit better pictures for you

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th St. New York

American Rights For Sale

of the two most important British Productions of 1918

"The Way Of An Eagle"

by Ethel M. Dell, produced by Samuelson

and

"The Elder Miss Blossom"

by Ernest Hendrie and Metcalfe Wood

We should be pleased to show these productions to your British Representative at any time.

If you are interested communicate by cable or letter direct with

SUN EXCLUSIVES

Sun House, 11, Holloway Head, Birmingham, England

Cable Address: Sunsol, Birmingham, Eng.

NOVEMBER 2, 1918

Motion Picture News

Reg. in U. S. Patent Office

West Coast Edition

DOMINATES THE FIELD

Louis B. Mayer

Presents

Anita Stewart

In Owen Johnson's novel published in the Cosmopolitan

"Virtuous Wives"

Directed by

George Loane Tucker

For release on an individual basis

VOL. XVIII-NO. 18 Entered as Second Class Matter, August 27, 1917, at the Post Office at New York, N.Y., under the act of March 3rd 1879 PRICE 15 CENTS

Published weekly—$2.00 a year

Chicago — 720 Seventh Avenue, New York — Los Angeles

American Rights For Sale

of the two most important British Productions of 1918

"The Way Of An Eagle"

by Ethel M. Dell, produced by Samuelson

and

"The Elder Miss Blossom"

by Ernest Hendrie and Metcalfe Wood

We should be pleased to show these productions to your British Representative at any time.

If you are interested communicate by cable or letter direct with

SUN EXCLUSIVES

Sun House, 11, Holloway Head, Birmingham, England

Cable Address: Sunsol, Birmingham, Eng.

VITAGRAPH SERIALS

are the last word in action, thrills and melodrama—qualities which have been reflected at the box-office by

"THE FIGHTING TRAIL"

"VENGEANCE—AND THE WOMAN"

"THE WOMAN in the WEB"

AND

"A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS"

Now Booking at all Vitagraph Exchanges—

VITAGRAPH'S Latest and Greatest Photoplay Serial

(Now eclipsing the record of any of its famous serial predecessors)

"THE IRON TEST"

FEATURING

ANTONIO MORENO and CAROL HOLLOWAY

in 15 Smashing, Melodramatic Episodes

Written by Albert E. Smith and Cyrus Townsend Brady

Directed by Paul Hurst

VITAGRAPH

ALBERT E·SMITH President

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1918.

and the name beneath it is La France. This is the France for which the world's best soldiers fight, a nation symbolized by a woman's face."

This, the Simple Life.

The "movies" are closed and the joke about the evening dishes being piled in the sink is temporarily out of order. All the patrons of the "movies" were not so slavish to their lure as a woman who admitted hiding the remnants of supper in the stationary tubs with the lids down. The inexpensive film recreation has endeared itself to the common peoples, for it is the life of the world reproduced in motion. There has been a "get acquainted" quality to the "movies" that nothing heretofore has equaled in value, for it has been essentially human food for human minds. One-half of the world had always hankered to know how the other half lives. Along came the "movie," with "Behold! See what you have heard, read or imagined. I am a medium of education."

There are many non-believers in the "movies." Offsetting them are those people who have seen and believed and become even better informed in current happenings than such non-believers as minimize the value of the "movies." For informing quality there is about as much difference between the legitimate stage and the "movies" as between the door-stopper cat and a yowling pussy. The best argument for the "movies" is that the people like them.

It is remembered that a busy physician in this city stopped long enough during office hours to comment, "What's in this movie business, anyway? I used to think it was just a simple cinematograph show, but all my patrons talk 'movies!'" There is no reason to connect that physician's shortening his office hours with his conversion to the motion picture, but he found out that there is a certain fascination about seeing the other half of the world in action.

As the best sort of a dessert to the usual run of "movies" there came the pictures from the other side, convincing even skeptics that Yankee soldiers do laugh when going into battle and that Uncle Sam has a need for Liberty loans and 100 per cent. patriotism. In a manner that no actor or actress on the legitimate stage could imitate the "movies" told the story of war, brought tears and gladness, and cemented friendliness between the American people and their war comrades. So, although the family dishes may be washed each night during a necessary closing of the "movies," there is a strong possibility that father, mother and children are looking toward that day safe from pestilence when optimism will again look from the film in the midst of ruin.

All-Wool Patriotism.

What quality is your patriotism? Do you

Newark, N.J. Evening News

It was probably the
OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW
for that is what they all feel and that is what they ALL say of these Government pictures of United States, France, England, and Italy.
An incomparable and inspiring war attraction-one reel every week.

Presented by
COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC INFORMATION
George Creel, Chairman
DIVISION OF FILMS
Chas. S. Hart, Director

PATHE'
Distributors.

OFFICIAL U.S. WAR FILM
COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC INFORMATION
GEORGE CREEL, CHAIRMAN

Pathé's best salesman for

RUTH ROLAND

and

George Larkin

in the cyclonic serial

HANDS UP

is the exhibitor showing it!

Listen to what a few of them say;

"I ran the third episode of 'Hands Up' Sept. 15th to the biggest day's business I ever had. ...In my opinion it is the best serial I have ever seen and I have seen them all to date".

Frank Otto, Owner and Manager, Cedar Photoplay, Minneapolis, Minn.

"We have had a better business on 'Hands Up' than any serial we have ever used...Last Saturday we had to turn the crowds away."

C.L. Graham, Owner and Manager Forrest Theatre St. Paul, Minn.

"I have used the first two episodes of 'Hands Up' and find I can't accomodate the crowds in one night, so guess I'll have to run the serial two days.. The first two episodes gave us the biggest nights we ever had".

J. T. Ralph, Ha Ha Theatre, Minn.

Directed by Jas. W. Horne Produced by Astra Written by Gilson Willets

PATHÉ

DISTRIBUTORS

If you like the "News," write our advertisers; if not, tell us.

EXTRA SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

I have sold ALL foreign territorial rights of "Wives of Men" (with Florence Reed) to the Inter-Ocean Film Corporation, 218 West 42nd Street, New York City, for one of the largest amounts ever paid for such rights.

Mr. Cromelin's comment was: "The best special I have seen in many months." The deal was concluded in record time. Foreign buyers who have been in correspondence with me are therefore referred to the Inter-Ocean.

NATHAN HIRSCH
President, Pioneer Film Corp.
126 WEST 46th STREET NEW YORK CITY

Controlling "WIVES OF MEN"
(With Florence Reed)

(A Few State Rights Still Open)

Why is an Army?

You would never back a LONE SOLDIER to fight the whole Battle-Front!

Are you trying single-handed to fight against profit-killing expense, high cost of films, the deposit system and cut-throat competition? Do you expect to win out—ALONE?

SINGLY you are out to lose.

BUT, with the combined strength of exhibitors banded together under the co-operative plan of UNITED you are in the ranks of THE MOST POWERFUL ARMY IN THE FILM WORLD.

Enroll with United TODAY.

A National Co-operative Association of Exhibitors

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES OF AMERICA INC.

- J.A. Berst -
President

Home Office
1600 Broadway
NEW YORK
BRANCHES EVERYWHERE

A Triumph!

The Light of

Vibrates with tense situations and strikes an intelligent as well as a popular appeal. Its grandeur of scenery is a positive delight. Dustin Farnum realizes every demand made upon him. His vivid portrayal of the wild but lovable Gene Stewart should meet with the heartiest commendation from picture patrons.

Exhibitor's Trade Review

A wealth of good material—Dustin Farnum is fascinating in a masterly production characterized by breadth and beauty of treatment.

Moving Picture World

Based on one of the best known American books, with the popular Dustin Farnum in the lead, its quality is excellent. The beautiful desert scenes and cactus country form a fascinating background. Dramatic values and plot—action afford thrills and suspense.

Motion Picture News

One of the most picturesque and impressive Westerns ever unrolled on the screen, it is a vivid and actionful picture. The story is rich in human interest and engrossing adventure. The production is superb. The great West has probably never been more impressively filmed.

Morning Telegraph

A corking good production that will undoubtedly please. An out-of-the-ordinary special, presenting a stirring romance of the West with real action in an artistic atmosphere. A story that holds from start to finish. Interesting characters so presented, introduced and carried through the action that the audience comes to feel it knows them intimately. Dustin Farnum in this picture does by far the best work he has yet registered on the screen.

Wid's Daily

Dustin Farnum in "The Light of Western Stars" perfectly typifies the Western hero with conviction, virility and red-blooded action.

Exhibitor's Herald

Western Stars

Makes good with a bang. Teems with interest and excitement. Surcharged with human appeal.

New York Review

AND—

ENTERTAINMENT VALUE EXCELLENT. DRAMATIC INTEREST EXCELLENT. ACTING GOOD. PHOTOGRAPHY EXCELLENT. CONTINUITY GOOD. SCENIC SETTING EXCELLENT. AN UNUSUAL WESTERN STORY FILLED WITH THE SPIRIT OF ZANE GREY'S NOVEL. THE PICTURE IS REMARKABLE FOR ITS HAPPY DELINEATION OF WESTERN TYPES, ITS FINE EXTERIORS AND THE HIGH QUALITY OF ITS PHOTOGRAPHY.

NATIONAL BOARD OF REVIEW

A National Co-operative Association of Exhibitors

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES OF AMERICA INC.

- J. A. Berst -
President

Home Office
1600 Broadway
NEW YORK
BRANCHES EVERYWHERE

FLORENCE REED

In a supreme super-feature of modern motif.

Supported by William Desmond and a magnificent cast.

By Tribune Productions Inc.

Direction John M. Stahl

Big Box Office Magnets

In a magnificent production of momentous interest

"THE NURSE"

(WORKING TITLE)

based on Adele Bleneau's gripping romance. Direction Wallace Worsley. Supervision of Robert Brunton

KITTY GORDON

A National Co-operative Association of Exhibitors

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES OF AMERICA INC.

- J. A. Berst, -
President

Home Office
1600 Broadway
• NEW YORK •
BRANCHES
EVERYWHERE

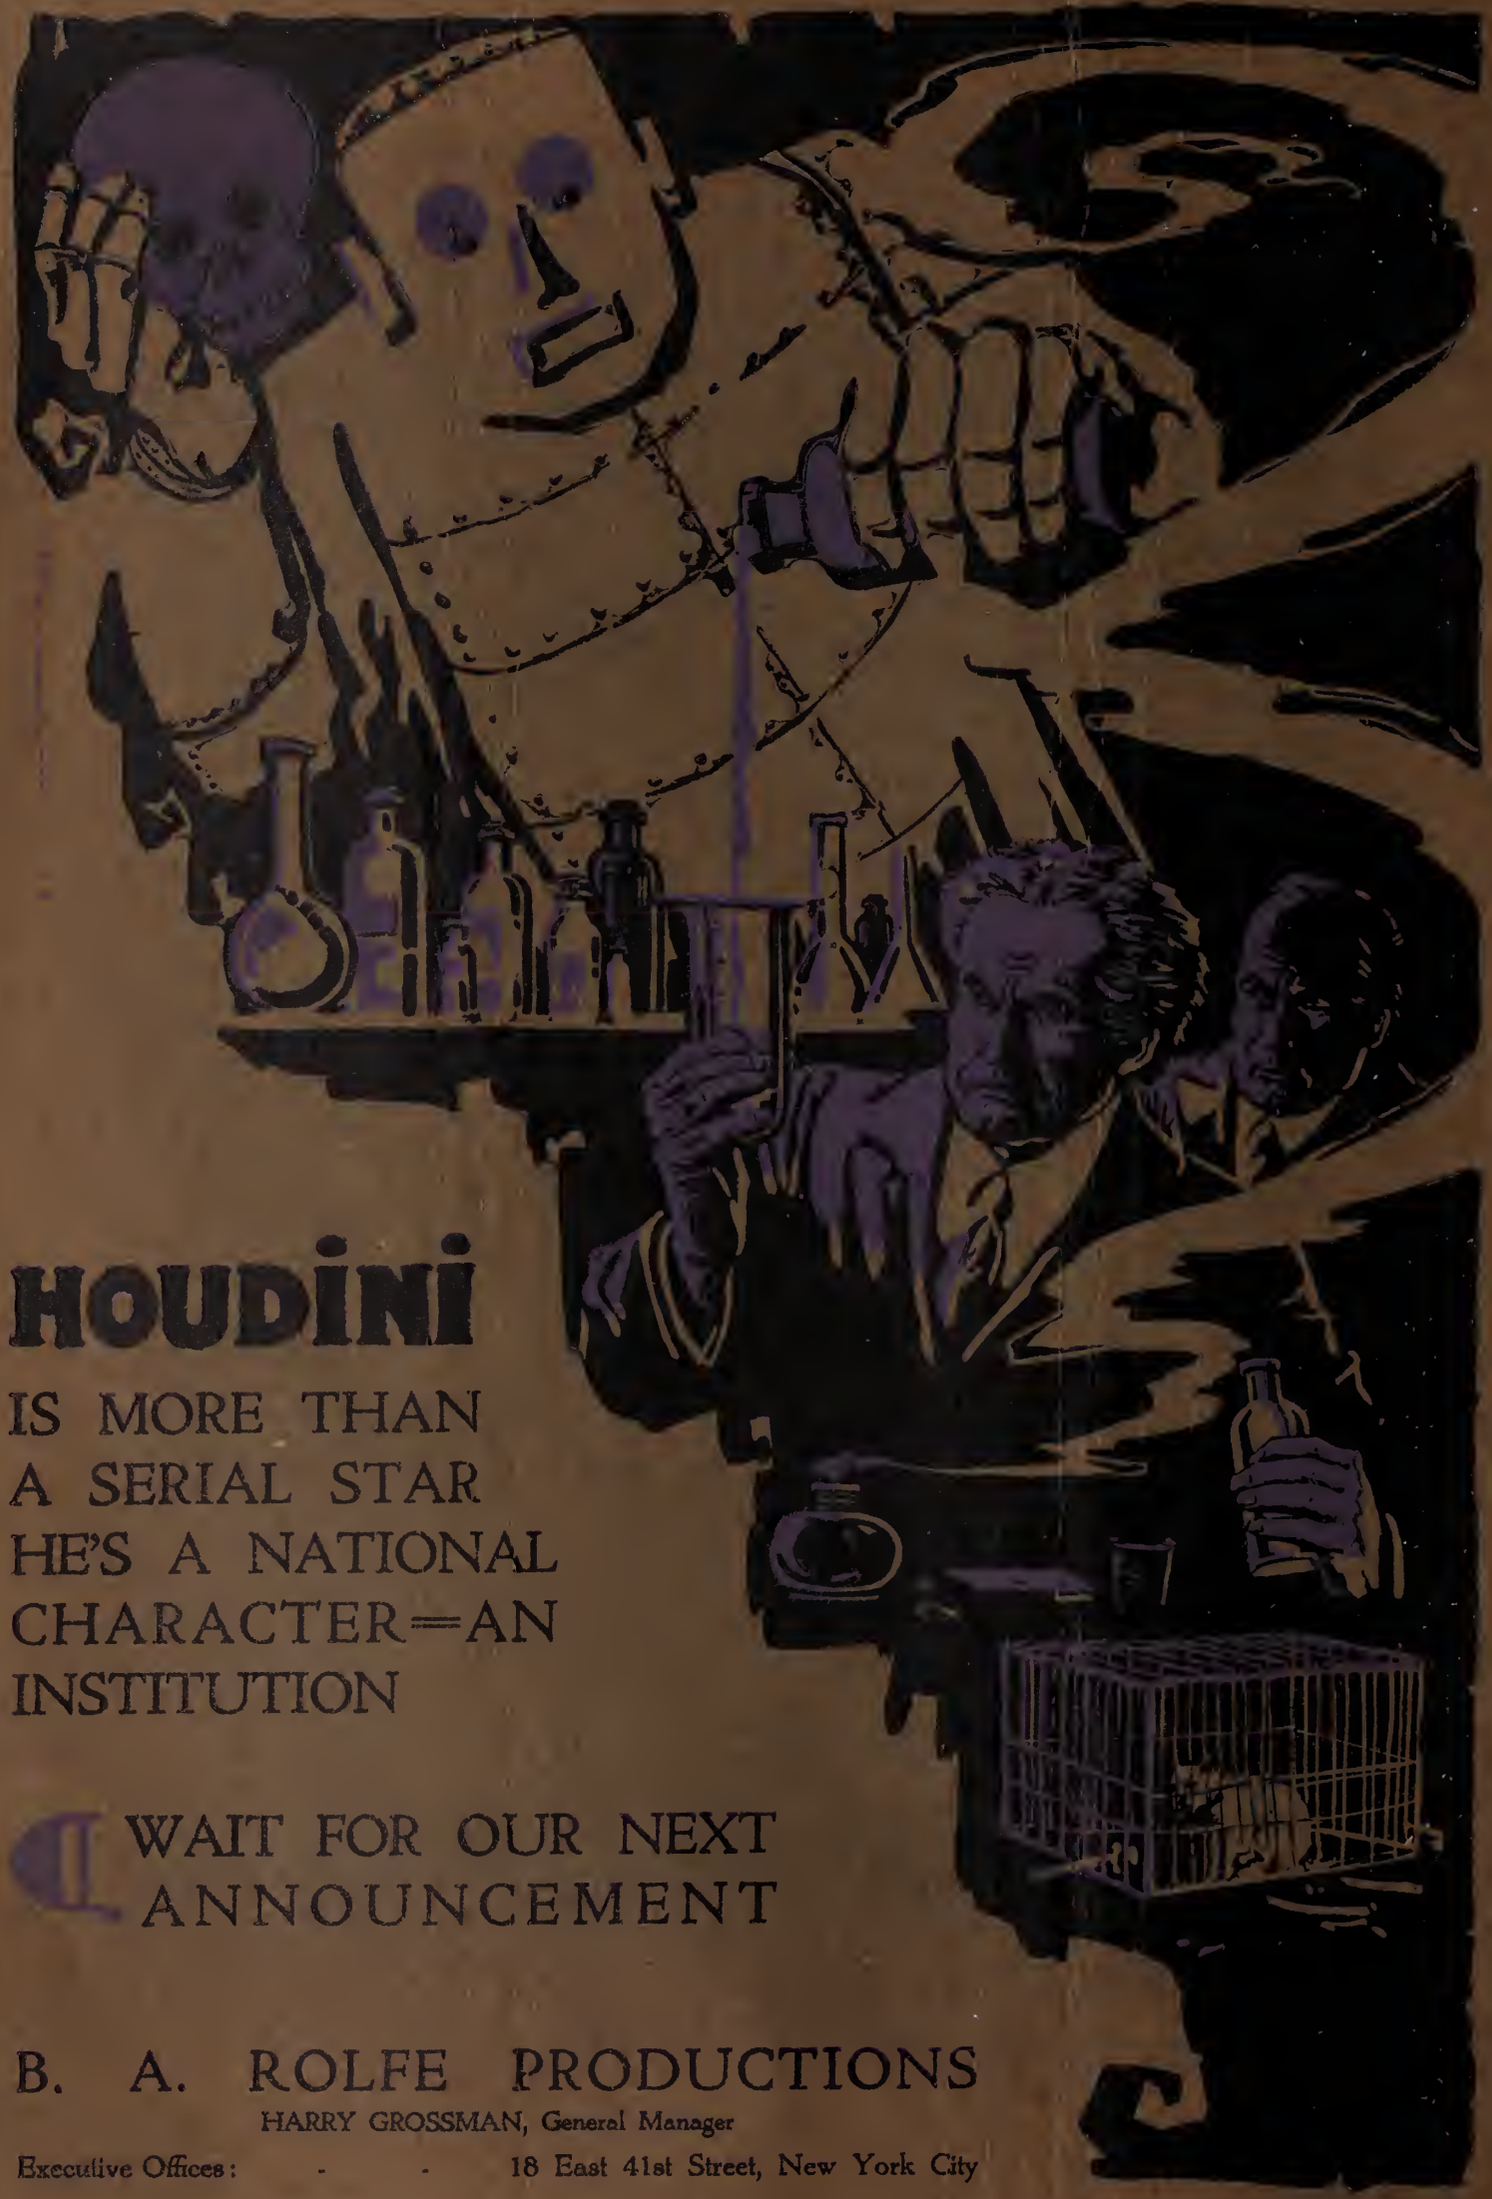
HOUDINI

ON NOVEMBER FOURTH AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT ON "THE MASTER MYSTERY" WILL BE MADE IN THIS PAPER

B. A. ROLFE PRODUCTIONS

HARRY GROSSMAN, General Manager

Executive Offices: - - 18 East 41st Street, New York City



HOUDINI

IS MORE THAN A SERIAL STAR
HE'S A NATIONAL CHARACTER—AN INSTITUTION

WAIT FOR OUR NEXT ANNOUNCEMENT

B. A. ROLFE PRODUCTIONS

HARRY GROSSMAN, General Manager

Executive Offices: - - 18 East 41st Street, New York City

NOW—

When the Big Companies Have Announced, "No Releases for 30 Days"

IF YOU ARE SHORT OF FEATURES
OR YOUR FEATURES ARE SHORT

Get in Touch with This Office

SPECIALISTS IN SINGLE REELS

They're Sure Money-Makers—Bruce, Ditmars, Wright's Mexico, Newman Travels, International Cartoon Comedies, China, Alaska, Japan, European Reels and Split Reels, Nature Studies, Industrials—You Can Fill the Gaps in Your Programme Instantly, Cheaply, Profitably.

Why not wire or phone to-day?

EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORPORATION OF AMERICA

729 7th AVENUE NEW YORK, N.Y.

Gloria Joy
The Matchless Child Actress
Scenarios by Daniel Frederick Whitcomb
Stories of the Heart and Home MISSION PRODUCTIONS
CE/MILLARD

State Right Buyer--Here's Your Opportunity

Productions Have Stopped—Box Office Attractions Are in Demand

READ WHAT THESE BUYERS OF SPECIALS SAY OF

HARRY RAPF'S PRODUCTIONS

FLORENCE REED
in
The Struggle Everlasting and
with
Milton Sills and Irving Cummings

Capt. ROBERT WARWICK
in
The Accidental Honeymoon
with
Elaine Hammerstein
Directed by Leonce Perret

NEW YORK CITY—Exhibitors Booking Syndicate—Record Business everywhere. Exhibitors praise tremendous.

NEW YORK STATE—Pioneer Film—Booked productions in every first-class house in upper New York State.—Nathan Hirsh.

NEW ENGLAND—Eastern Feature Film Co.—Doing record business with these two features.—Herman Rifkin.

KENTUCKY & TENNESSEE—Having splendid success with these two features in all prominent theatres in our territory booking them.—Lee Goldberg.

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA & WEST VIRGINIA—Olympia in Pittsburgh booked both pictures for a week's run. Since then we are glad to report big bookings on both productions.—Harry Grelle, Mgr.

EASTERN PENNSYLVANIA & SO. JERSEY—Keystone Film Co.—We are well satisfied, want more like these pictures.—Mr. Powell.

NEW JERSEY—Frank Gersten—Has booked these two pictures solid.

OHIO—Masterpiece Film Co.—Must have extra prints immediately on Struggle Everlasting and Accidental Honeymoon.—Geo. Jacobs, Mgr.

ILLINOIS & WISCONSIN—Have big bookings on both pictures, best houses playing them including Lubliner & Trintz new Riviera in Chicago.—Lou Frank, Mgr.

GEORGIA, FLORIDA, ALABAMA & SO. CAROLINA—General Film Co.—Big booking; best houses have all booked pictures, well advertised, will do very big.—Frank Tichenor, Mgr.

MARYLAND, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, VIRGINIA, NO. CAROLINA—Exhibitors Film Exchange, Washington, D. C.—Want more of your pictures. These are the real goods.—Dressner, Mgr.

MICHIGAN—Harry Goldstein Co.—Will do a big business on these pictures.

CALIFORNIA, ARIZONA & NEVADA—Sol Lesser—Struggle Everlasting opened Tivoli's Oct. 13th.—Accidental Honeymoon followed shortly afterwards.

Following Territory Still Open—

MINNESOTA	MISSOURI	IDAHO	OKLAHOMA
SO. DAKOTA	KANSAS	MONTANA	ARKANSAS
NO. DAKOTA		OREGON	LOUISIANA
NO. WISCONSIN	COLORADO	WASHINGTON	MISSISSIPPI
	WYOMING
IOWA	UTAH
NEBRASKA	NEW MEXICO	CANADA

WIRE IMMEDIATELY

These productions have and are now playing in every first class theatre

WONDERFUL ADVERTISING MATTER

HARRY RAPF

1564 Broadway New York City

The immortal story of a woman's martyrdom
to HUMANITY
Written by ANTHONY PAUL KELLY
Directed by JOHN G. ADOLFI

Beginning Sunday Oct. 27th at New York's
STRAND THEATRE
America's Premier Artist
JULIA ARTHUR
Portraying
the British Red Cross Nurse
EDITH CAVELL
in
THE WOMAN THE GERMANS
SHOT

Produced by
JOS. L. PLUNKETT and FRANK J. CARROLL
220 WEST 42 ND STREET NEW YORK

San Antonio, Texas

Invites Motion Picture Companies to avail themselves this winter of the unexcelled conditions in

The Land of Sunshine

Demonstrated by actual experience of several of the largest picture corporations to possess:

1. More sunny days than California or Florida, and far less fog or rain.
2. Sunlight of unusual actinic power, giving a greater number of working hours, and greatly cheapening the cost of producing pictures.
3. A mild equable climate where it is possible to work out-of-doors all the winter.
4. An adequate fuel supply is available for artificial lighting purposes when required.
5. A varied scenery ranging from deep canyons and steep mountains to level prairies, from the shaggy wilderness to rural scenes of genuine pastoral beauty.
6. One night's ride from the ocean, and thirty miles from Lake Medina, a fresh water gem set down in the mountains, which is eighteen miles long by three miles wide, nearly as large as Lake George in New York State.
7. This wonderful natural setting for motion pictures has never been photographed—it is new and attractive, not old and familiar.
8. San Antonio is a modern city of steel and concrete, with a population of 175,000. It has all of the city conveniences and advantages. Motion picture work is new in San Antonio; the city officials, the Chamber of Commerce and all the citizens are willing to co-operate. "Locations" can be secured without cost, service can be had at reasonable prices—no gouging will be permitted.
9. San Antonio is the site of the greatest military camps in America. It has twelve separate and distinct establishments, representing every branch of the service. It has the largest aviation field and the greatest balloon schools in the Army.

Proved by Actual Test

Director Frank Powell made the greater part of "The Heart of the Sunset," the latest picturization of Rex Beach, at San Antonio. Mr. Powell organized the Sunset Pictures Corporation, of which he is now director general, and located it at San Antonio. They are now working on their third picture. In addition, the Vitagraph Company several years ago made "The Mystic Kingdom," under the direction of Theodore Marston, at San Antonio.

Studio and Laboratory Available

Mr. Frank Powell, of the Sunset Pictures Corporation, generously agrees to allow, under certain conditions, the rental of its studio and laboratory for developing negatives and making sample prints, to recognized picture companies desiring to work in San Antonio this winter. Stage space 80 x 100. Developing and printing capacity 1800 feet daily.

Permanent Location

If after actual test, motion picture corporations of established reputation wish to locate permanently in San Antonio, the Chamber of Commerce will co-operate with them. Under no circumstances will the Chamber of Commerce undertake to finance motion picture companies. Correspondence is solicited with established companies. Address

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

Motion Picture News

Vol. 18 No. 18. November 2, 1918

The Week in the Film World at a Glance

We Are With You (Editorial) 2741
Timely Editorials 2742
Outlook Bright in Many Sections 2743
Postpone Reopenings in Indiana 2744
Michigan Latest to Ban Shows 2745
Lockwood Passes Away 2746
McAdoo Thanks the Industry 2746
Sherry Transfers Offices to General 2747
The Honor Roll 2748
In and Out of Town 2748

Other News and Features of the Week

An Interesting Anonymous Letter 2748
Tax Fight Threatens Another Split 2749
The Reader Has His Say 2750
Winding Up the Liberty Loan 2751
"Cavell" Film for N. Y. Strand 2752
Exhibitors' Service Bureau 2754
Exhibitors' Box Office Reports 2764
Live News from the Producers 2767
In and Out of West Coast Studios 2780
Equipment Service 2781
Projection 2784
Music 2790
Releases Current and Coming 2805

Complete Plan Book

Plan Book Index 2792
Advance Reviews 2793
"Romance of Tarzan" (First Nat'l) 2794
"Her Great Chance" (Select) 2795
"The Woman Who Gave" (Fox) 2796
"Borrowed Clothes" (Jewel) 2797
"Shoulder Arms" (Chaplin) 2798
"King of Diamonds" (Vitagraph) 2799
"Wanted, a Brother" (General) 2800
"The Gypsy Trail" (Paramount) 2801
"All Night" (Bluebird) 2802
"The Reckoning Day" (Vitagraph) 2803
Advance Reviews (Continued) 2804

This copy of Motion Picture News may be LATE, owing to a strike of cylinder press feeders, affecting all New York Printing Plants.

WM. A. JOHNSTON, Pres. and Editor. HENRY F. SEWALL, Vice-Pres. E. KENDALL GILLETT, Sec. and Treas.

Published on Friday every week by MOTION PICTURE NEWS, Inc., 729 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y. 'Phone 9360 Bryant. Chicago Representative, W. M. Hight, 220 So. State St.; 'Phone Harrison 7667. Los Angeles Representative, J. C. Jessen, 429 South Figueroa St.; 'Phones 780 Pico, F-4661. Subscription $2 a year, postpaid, in United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands. Canada, $3. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for Motion Picture News at less than these rates. Have the agent who takes your subscription show his credentials and coupon book.

Copyright, 1918, by Motion Picture News, Inc.

COMING!

Watch this page for the first real money saving proposition ever offered a producer. You can count and keep the dollars you save each week.

Geo. K. Spoor

"When you see it in 'The News' It's News"

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

"The Exhibitors' Medium of Communication"

Volume 18. No. 18 November 2, 1918

We Are With You!

LET us clear the air on one point—for now and for all time. Let us state, as clearly and bluntly as we know how, the attitude of Motion Picture News towards the members of the industry who have temporarily discontinued trade paper advertising.

Motion Picture News stands enlisted for one hundred per cent help to the entire industry.

Motion Picture News offers every facility of its columns and its organization to all the industry.

We are with you!

We are as willing and anxious to be a vital part of the industry in its hour of storm as we were—and will be—an important part in its days of prosperity.

It is granted that the above is but a repetition of the sentiments expressed at every possible opportunity in last week's issue. We said then, and repeated, and reiterated:

What can we do for you?

The words were not intended as a mere mouth-filling phrase. They were our "Oath of Allegiance." They were the concrete expression of the spirit and purpose of every member of our organization.

And we see no harm in repeating a pledge.

That our intentions may be clearly understood—and our performance measured by those purposes.

* * *

A Week for Thought

A WEEK has passed, and with it the opportunity for some wry and dry thought.

Some thoughts that confirm us even more strongly—if that were possible—in the attitude we announced last week.

Conferences held during the week and a word heard here and there bring to a clear focus these points:

(1) The manufacturers and producers—with only a few exceptions — are standing now with their backs to the wall.

(2) The decision to suspend trade paper advertising—while in our opinion fundamentally unwise —can at least be said to have been justifiable.

(3) Many of the larger companies will not face conditions any too bright even when the ban is lifted.

Points one and two have been said before in varying words by observers within and without the industry. But it has taken the crisis born of the epidemic to bring manufacturers to the point where they are sitting down and admitting the truth to each other.

They are cold, blunt, hard facts. They probably have no place in a trade journal in the opinion of those who believe that organ's function to be the preaching of optimism and creation of false courage.

But the picture industry has been skating along on the thin ice of borrowed money and manufactured hope long enough to have earned a drenching.

And if manufacturers are benefitting by hearing the truth from one another, then the whole industry will benefit by letting exhibitors and stars read the truth.

* * *

Back to "Our Part"

WITH the facts as stated in mind, Motion Picture News believes that now, of all moments, is the one when a trade journal should be dedicated to "Service to the Utmost."

Assuredly—

When manufacturers are confronted with the loss of over eighty per cent of the country's theatres for from two to four weeks;

When overhead, even after ruthless cutting, remains a staggering drain;

When some are struggling with internal business problems; others with a slowing up in rental collections that will extend into the period following the lifting of the ban; and all are faced with the serious phases of readjustment;

Is this the time for a trade paper to indulge in the disgruntled resentment we see in some quarters; is this the occasion for the use of the bludgeon slogan, "No advertising, no publicity?"

(Continued on next page)

¶ Mr. William A. Johnston, publisher of Motion Picture News, has requested the publication of a word here of appreciation to the many friends in the industry for the thoughtful expressions of sympathy and condolence extended in his recent bereavement.

¶ Their number made a personal acknowledgement almost an impossibility.

¶ Just as these few words are all too insufficient to express the depths of feeling they have touched.

(Continued from preceding page)

Most certainly—No!

While Motion Picture News may stand alone in its attitude—it has stood alone in the past and it has been right. It is willing to stand alone now—and it is right.

* * *

What of "The Reader?"

AND now, Friend Reader, we come to you. In this issue you will find every bit of news and service that we would give you in a week that saw a hundred pages down on the advertising ledger.

For, we believe, when we accepted your subscription money and your loyal support, we entered into a bargain to provide you with all the news of the industry in season and out of season.

Don't you feel that way about it?

As for the press agents, we can't assure them that they will find every bit of mimeographed copy they turned out in this issue. They won't find, for example:

The stories which tell us that "this picture is breaking all records for contracts and already thousands of theatres throughout the country are showing it to packed houses." (At a time when over eighty per cent of the theatres are closed!)

The stories which tell of pictures "released October 27th" and other dates within the four week closed season. (Judging from some of the copy many of the mimeographers do not know yet that their companies have suspended releases.)

The "brain storm" stories. (Enough said.)

As for the rest—it's all in this issue, every bit of real news. And service—why the Exhibitors' Service Bureau is running ahead at top speed, the Complete Plan Book is offering every available aid in making your plans for booking and advertising when the ban is lifted.

* * *

"Better Pictures—Longer Runs"

SPEAKING of the Exhibitors' Service Bureau reminds us of an interesting comment of one of the manufacturers that was reported to us during the week. He is quoted as saying:

"The thing that would surprise you about the manufacturers' meetings during the period of this four week ban is the way they are talking 'Better pictures, longer runs.' They are up against it now, and all you hear is 'We must have fewer pictures, better pictures and longer runs.'

"It makes me laugh because I remember how long W. A. Johnston banged away at that idea, and how little attention 'the wise ones' paid him. Now they are all converted—but will they give W. A. J. the credit? Not on your life."

We mention the conversation because we have often wondered if the manufacturers realize the aid the Exhibitors' Service Bureau is giving in bringing exhibitors around to longer runs.

Exhibitors realize it—they have told us so. Their letters have told us how the practical advertising and presentation stories in the Service Bureau are making many dollars for them and in many cases enabling them to change successfully from a daily change to longer run policy.

Look it over—this week or any week. You have a little time to spare these dull days, Mr. Manufacturer. Call for the office file of Motion Picture News and get in touch through the Exhibitors' Service Bureau with "the man on the firing line."

It's an exhibitors department for exhibitors. It'll make you forget Times Square for fifteen minutes and feel that you are sitting in a three by four box office.

Isn't that worth a lot?

* * *

On the Conservation Highway

WHEN we quit writing "sports" for a living we swore that never again would we fall so low as to inflict every successful manager with the nickname—"Miracle Man."

But we are tempted and we have fallen. We can't let the opportunity go by without saying that Frank Tichenor is "The Miracle Man" of this game.

When "Tich" took hold of General Film he possessed personal popularity but few believed that he could put the old G. F. back anywhere near to its once commanding position.

There were many willing to lay bets that he couldn't keep it off the rocks. There were some who laughed, and a few who sneered.

But these same fellows are now anxious to let you know that they are personally acquainted with the Frank Tichenor who is vice-president of the General Film that is now back as a staunch, strong distributing organization, handling a wealth of good product, and booking—if our observations on a recent up-State trip are any criterion—at a speedy pace.

"Tich" made his play on the one point that General Film stood foremost—a complete, efficient, extensive distributing organization. He followed the conservation highway—and he is only beginning to reap the benefits.

His latest move is a deal with William L. Sherry that you can read about on page 2747. Aside from the influenza developments it is the big news event of the week—so don't miss it.

* * *

A Sacrifice to Patriotism

HAROLD LOCKWOOD'S death was as much a sacrifice to patriotism as if he had died in muddy khaki on the red-hued fields of France.

We saw and heard him at Madison Square Garden on the evening that he was selling Liberty Bonds. He worked like a Trojan, mixed hard plugging and pleading with smiles, and stood for hours rolling perspiration as a result of his strenuous efforts.

His desire to do his part outweighed the counsels of his advisors. The result was the cold that brought on pneumonia and his death.

There's a tragic note to it all. We remember the day when Edison asked our sub-rosa advice as to whether we thought Lockwood worth $100 a week. He was then with American—and now, after years of sincere, whole-hearted work, he was reaching the crest and his due reward.

The industry suffered other losses during the week because of the influenza epidemic, notably the deaths of R. W. Lynch, vice-president of Triangle and Myrtle Gonzalez.

We have grouped the news concerning these unfortunate events on page 2746.

* * *

Our News Service to the Test

WE have received many compliments during the week on the fact that last week's issue of Motion Picture News gave the most complete reports of conditions throughout the country because of the influenza scourge.

This week our correspondents have again combed the field for you and presented an exhaustive resume of present conditions and the outlook.

One fact seems to stand out—that a goodly percentage of the theatres are looking forward to being open by the first day of November.

Another fact is prominent—that no section of the country will escape the effects of the plague. It is spreading, inexorably, inflexibly, with a steadiness that is weird.

Our reports of conditions will be found on pages 2744 and 2745.

Outlook Bright in Many Sections

All of New England Expected to Follow Lead of Boston in Reopening—Northern New Jersey Ban Lifted—Reports from Other Territories Promise Action by November 1st

FOLLOWING the lifting of the influenza ban in Boston and most Northern New Jersey towns as forecast in last week's Motion Picture News, reports received during the current week throw a cheerful light on the situation in many sections of the country.

New Haven, Bridgeport and Hartford have remained open throughout the scare and during the week many other cities followed the lead of Boston in reopening, with indications that all of New England would soon be in the optimistic line. From other sections exhaustive telegraphic investigation discloses that November 1st is looked upon as the likely reopening date for a large percentage of the theatres.

The outlook, however, indicates that it will be many days after that date before anything close to one hundred per cent of the theatres are again open and the exchanges are working anywhere near to normal. The general exhibitor sentiment would seem to be that there is no hurry in reopening until conditions are entirely clear. Theatre managers throughout the country are looking for boom times after the long shutdown and they have no desire to take the edge off by reopening while the fear of crowds is still present in patrons' minds.

Outlook in New England Is Promising

NEW HAVEN, CONN. (Special).—With Boston already open and its theatres fast getting back into full stride, the balance of the New England territory is beginning to show signs of life. The influenza epidemic seems to have passed through its cycle and is now subsiding everywhere, with the result that new sections are lifting the ban rapidly.

The New London district opened last Monday. Plans also called for the opening on October 28th of Springfield, Pittsfield, Meriden, Wallingford and South Manchester.

There is as yet no sign of a ban being placed on the theatres in New Haven, Hartford, and Bridgeport, where managers have kept running throughout, though attendance has been a bit hurt by the general effects of the scare on the public.

Penn. Managers Optimistic Over Prospect

HARRISBURGH, PA. (Special).—While no hint as to the date of lifting the state-wide ban on theatres has come from the Health Department, prospects here are distinctly optimistic. Deaths from the plague are on the decrease throughout the state and reports to Harrisburgh headquarters indicate a reduction in the number of new cases.

State Health Commissioner Royer is now at work on the preparation of the plan for the reopening of the theatres and will probably make it public late this week. As announced in MOTION PICTURE NEWS last week, the Commissioner expects to lift the ban by sections as the epidemic abates. A close check is being kept on the reports from each section and the plan now being prepared is to be in line with these reports.

LABOR A PROB LEM

Theatres and Exchanges Worry Over "After-the-Plague" Period

REPORTS to Motion Picture News would indicate that one of the big problems to be faced by exchanges and theatres when the influenza ban has finally been lifted from the country will be the question of labor. Operators, ushers, exchange shipping clerks and other helpers have been laid off in most sections and reports from New Orleans and other points indicate that most of them have already drifted to highly paid war industries. Will they come back?

From Cincinnati comes this report: "The nitrate plant at Ancor, on the outer edge of Eastern Cincinnati, may have considerable bearing on the theatres here. The authorities in charge of the plant plan to conscript labor and theatre ushers have already been placed in the preferred class for service. The plant and its inducements during the period of idleness in picture ranks offer a problem."

Wisconsin Looks for Relief November 1st

MILWAUKEE, WIS. (Special).—Expectations throughout Wisconsin would seem to be that the ban on theatres and public gatherings will last for some time yet but that the prospect is bright for its lifting by November 1st.

Exhibitors in Milwaukee have offered every facility at their command to the local Health Commissioner in combatting the spread of the plague. In interviews with a MOTION PICTURE NEWS representative the theatre owners stated that they believed it preferable to gain the confidence of the public by rmaining closed as long as actually necessary rather than to open prematurely and have the situation take a relapse. Milwaukee is in the care of an international bacteriologist who is felt to be an authority and the exhibitors are well satisfied to stand by him and aid to their utmost.

MADISON (Special).—State Health Officer Harper has expressed himself as hopeful of being able to allow the reopening of theatres before the first day of November. Theatre men here are banking their hopes on this.

Reports to the Health Officer would indicate that the epidemic has passed the climax in Wisconsin and is now in the convalescent stage throughout the state.

Atlanta Territory Is Brightening Up

ATLANTA, GA. (Special).—Local exchanges have seen so little cash in the past few weeks that they won't know a yellow back again when they receive one, but late indications would point to a brightening up of the situation about the beginning of next week.

The local situation is showing decided improvement, the decrease in the number of new cases having led the Atlanta Health Officer to tell some picture men that he may possibly be able to lift the ban the first of next week.

Reports are much similar in the near-by territory, though it is probable that the communities now shut up will follow Atlanta's lead in the matter of lifting the ban. Local exchanges report some Florida towns reopening on Monday, October 28th.

Des Moines Hopes for Action in Week

DES MOINES, IA. (Special).—Conditions throughout Iowa are reported as rapidly improving and the various health authorities seem inclined to the opinion that the influenza is on the run. Theatre managers in Des Moines interviewed by the NEWS representative are optimistically making plans for the reopening of their theatres the first of next week.

Postpone all Reopenings in Indiana

Extend Ban Another Week, with Prospect of Further Stretching—Rochester Abandons Schedule and Makes Shutdown Indefinite—Los Angeles Exchanges Optimistic

WHILE the health officers in the state of Indiana expected to lift the ban on theatres October 20, they since decided that the theatres could not open again until October 26.

As the influenza epidemic has not reached a crisis in that state, according to the health officials, there are no early prospects of the theatres being allowed to open as expected.

Many theatre owners in various sections of the country were disappointed when the local or state health boards extended the closing order.

Where the disappointment was the most keenly felt was in those cities where the first shutdown was only scheduled for a single week or ten days.

More than eighty theatres were affected by the closing order in Los Angeles and all the theatres in the nearby cities are also closed for an indefinite period.

At Rochester, N. Y., where the theatres were scheduled to open again on October 21, the Commissioner of Public Safety declared that they must remain closed indefinitely.

Rochester Opening Was Postponed

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—The theatres of Rochester, N. Y., did not open on Monday, October 21, as scheduled. In fact, the last pronouncement of Commissioner of Public Safety R. Andrew Hamilton is to the effect that they will be closed indefinitely, which means until the influenza epidemic is known positively to be abating.

When that time will be is a matter of conjecture, for the number of cases has been mounting steadily day by day. On October 21, the day set for the reopening, there was a total of 550 new cases reported, bringing the total to date up to 6,688. The total number of deaths has been 175.

As it was known the week before that there was no chance of opening on the day scheduled, moving picture men had resigned themselves to it and were merely marking time until they were able to make definite plans again. Some of the houses, such as the Regent and Piccadilly, have been improving the opportunity to screen a large number of films ahead in readiness for reopening.

These houses are required to show all pictures to Commissioner Hamilton before booking them, a task which usually is performed after show hours or early mornings. With the theatres closed, a good chance was offered to clean up a large number of films.

The loyal spirit shown by the theatre men through the closed period has come in for warm commendation from public officials and newspapers. Despite the heavy loss that the exhibitors suffered every day their houses were closed, not a word of complaint was uttered.

It is believed that the prompt closing of the theatres, with all other public gatherings, helped to keep the epidemic in check and prevented it from reaching the serious proportions that it attained in many other cities of the state.

WHO OWNS THIS FILM?

THE National Anti-Misframe League, organized by Motion Picture News, is in receipt of the following telegram:

Malta, Mont., Oct. 15th
Film from Harlowtown, consigned Palace Theater, on hand here. Unclaimed on account of Palace being closed during influenza epidemic.
American Railway Express Co.

Los Angeles Closed, But Very Optimistic

LOS ANGELES.—All the theatres in Los Angeles closed their doors for an indefinite period in compliance with an order from the Los Angeles health department. More than eighty houses in Los Angeles alone are effected. All theatres in San Diego, Long Beach, Pasadena and other nearby cities, as well as all Arizona houses, were also closed.

Since the original order was promulgated more recent orders have been issued placing a ban on all outdoor gatherings. Cabaret and musical entertainment in the restaurants and cafes is also prohibited. In all probability the theatres will not be opened for at least two weeks from the date they were closed.

All exchange managers of Los Angeles met and discussed ways and means of conducting their affairs during the closing of all theatres in Los Angeles and nearby towns. Harry Lustig, Pacific Coast representative of Metro with headquarters in Los Angeles, presided at the meeting.

Managers, however, generally speaking, said the temporary lull in business would be a help rather than a hindrance. They feel that during this period they will be able to readjust their offices, rearrange advantageously their bookings and in a general way clean house and clear the decks for action when a bigger business follows the temporary suspension.

Among the exchange managers who were extremely optimistic were David Bershon, of Universal; W. H. Hepburn, of Vitagraph; Guy Gunderson, of Kleine System; B. E. Loper, of Select Pictures; Bernard Fish, of Goldwyn; Harry Ballance, of Paramount-Artcraft; F. E. Hancock, World Film, and Manager Lamb of Metro.

Indiana Theatres Are Still Closed

INDIANAPOLIS.—The ban on public gatherings of every description throughout the state of Indiana, which was to have been lifted at midnight October 20, was extended Friday by the state board of health until midnight, October 26.

The ban in the city of Indianapolis will be kept in effect indefinitely and will not be lifted until the situation justifies it.

The object of such action by the state and the city is solely to prevent people getting together in crowds of five or more persons and therefore applies to meetings of every description, the state board of health says. This includes religious, political, business or social—schools, theatres and churches—and also to congregating in such places as poolrooms and bowling alleys.

Nehls Hastens to Coast

A hurried trip to the Pacific Coast, by General Manager R. R. Nehls of the American Film Company, Inc., is the result of the influenza epidemic's effect on the film business in general and the conditions in California in particular.

This is the first trip to the studios at Santa Barbara, California by Mr. Nehls, although he has been one of the executives of this big corporation for years.

In addition to the general management of the corporation, Mr. Nehls has always personally supervised the detail work and given the finishing touches to the subjects as they came from the coast to the Chicago offices.

Michigan Latest to Ban Shows

Nebraska Action Now State-wide—Plague Spreading to Coast Points—No Exchange Territory Outside New York Free of Ban Now—Exchanges Deserted

DESPITE numerous encouraging reports that theatres in some sections will reopen next week, the shut-down of theatres and distribution appears to be more complete this week than last. Exchanges are practically deserted, the scourge spreading to such dimensions that no exchange territory outside of New York is free of the ban.

A wire to MOTION PICTURE NEWS, October 24, from Omaha, Neb., carried the news that the Governor of Nebraska had closed all theatres, churches and other public gatherings until November 2. This order was sweeping, including the whole state, but is probably the first in which the date of lifting the ban was mentioned. Omaha had already been closed since October 4.

From the mountain territory of the west, in the vicinity of Salt Lake City, it was reported that the epidemic has not been checked as late as October 24. No prospects of opening soon were promised. Schools are closed and meetings forbidden. Many new cases of influenza were reported.

Washington Remains Unchanged, But Hopeful

The influenza situation at Washington, D. C., with its attendant effect upon the theatres, remains unchanged this week. It is reported the reopening of the theatres is indefinite, and that the civil authorities show no inclination to take the ban off amusements in that vicinity. Despite hopes of exhibitors and public, no information can be obtained as to when the theatres may be permitted to open their doors again.

News from Spokane, Wash., October 24, was no more encouraging than reports from Central States or the East. If anything, the situation was declared worse around Spokane than formerly. No information was forthcoming as to when the exhibitors could expect a notification permitting them to open their houses. Spokane's total number of influenza cases to October 24 was 1,246.

Michigan was tied up completely by October 20, by order of the governor, and not only were the theatres closed but the churches, schools, lodges, pool rooms and other places where the public gathered, were closed. In Detroit the retail stores were notified to close at 4 P. M. The opinion was expressed in Detroit that the motion picture theatres would be closed from three to four weeks. The Detroit exchanges notified exhibitors that all release dates would be advanced four weeks, or whatever length of time the houses were closed.

Ohio Situation in Doubt, But Openings Expected

Late reports from Cleveland, Ohio, to MOTION PICTURE NEWS carried the conflicting news that several towns expected to open Sunday, but that Martins Ferry, Chillicothe and Tiffin were the only towns open this week in Ohio. Toledo fostered hopes of being permitted to open its motion picture theatres October 27, but even the most optimistic did not express the opinion that the town would be able to attend the theatres Sunday. Cleveland was positive that no theatres would be open October 27, nor till the epidemic passes the crisis.

PARTICULAR

He knows which paper delivers the goods.

Just as we go to press the following letter clamors for attention—and gets it here:

"We have dropped all other papers but look for yours. The accounts on the Rivoli and Rialto theatres are worth the price.

(Signed) "Sidney C. Allen,
"Mellford Fillmore Theatre,
"East Aurora, N. Y."

Lansing Closed Tight

From Lansing, Mich., the report was sent out that the State Board of Health had announced that the influenza situation was becoming more menacing each day. It was said the lifting of the state closing order was very unlikely for a considerable time to come. The Lansing schools are also closed.

Flint, Mich., reported that it expected to remain under the closing ban for at least ten more days, if not longer. The average reported there of influenza cases was 100 cases a week, with ten deaths.

Section Reports

